ARE INDICTED FOR MURDER AND ROBBERY

Melodrowski and Johnson Held on Two Charges By the Grand Jury.

Boys Will Be Arraigned Before Judge Cant in the District Court.

Coroner's Jury Says That Melodrowski Fired the Fatal Shots.

Two indictments, one for murder in the first degree and the other for robbery in the first degree, were brought in by the January grand jury against Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, when that body reported to Judge William A. Cant of the district court this morning.

The indictment for murder charges both the boys with the murder of Officer Harry Chesmore. The indictment reads "with premeditated design." The other indictment charges the boys with the robbery of the cash register of the McKay hotel. They took $25.40, according to the indictment.

Although the grand jury has up to the present time brought in twenty-seven indictments, but ten of them have been made public and the work has not yet been completed. The grand jury is still in session with County Attorney John H. Norton.

Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson are the two boy bandits who early Friday morning held up the night clerk and the porter of the McKay hotel, tied them at the point of guns to the pillars in the dining room, and later in an attempt to escape going to the station house, shot and killed Officer Harry Chesmore. The boys will

BRIDE-TO-BE DIES SUDDENLY

Miss Caroline Jenkins, Formerly of Duluth, Expires at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Caroline Jenkins, aged 22, an employe in the state labor department, died at 1 o'clock this morning, after a brief illness from cerebro-spinal meningitis. Though she had been ailing slightly, the acute attack only began Saturday evening.

She was to have been married shortly to Glen Van Buren of Duluth, who was called here yesterday by her illness. Miss Jenkins lived at Duluth Heights, with the family of Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen for several years and has many friends in Duluth. Her parents live at Sparta, Wis., where the body will be taken.

SCHMITZ ON TRIAL AGAIN

Is Facing the Charge of Murder in the First Degree.

Only Four Jurymen Secured During Morning Session of Court.

THE JURY.

P. L. Swain, logger.
J. D. Deighton, bookkeeper.
D. B. McDonald, carpenter
Proctor.
J. A. Lawrie, civil engineer.

The drawing of the jury in the case of the state against Frank Joseph Schmitz, accused of the murder of George Riley, began this morning before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

It took the entire morning to draw the four jurymen named above. It is expected that it will take at least the rest of the day to complete the jury.

Many have scruples against capital punishment for those convicted of murder in the first degree and many do not believe in a conviction when the shooting is not actually seen by some person who can testify that it was done in his presence.

Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene appears in this case for the state and Schmitz is being defended by Attorney A. E. McManus.

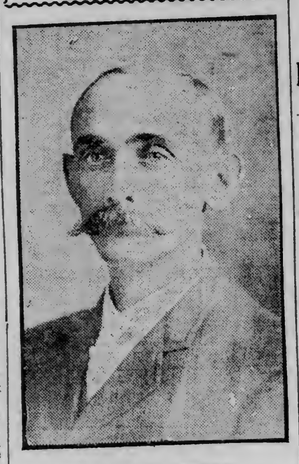

Schmitz is supposed to have shot his neighbor, George Riley, after a quarrel. Both men lived on small farms close to the city.

Schmitz thought that the day before Riley met his death, Riley had shot at him from ambush. Schmitz is said to have shot Riley after Riley had refused to leave the Schmitz farm.

Schmitz has been in the county jail for about two months. He is very confident that he will be found not guilty.

WANTS MINNESOTA TO ELECT HER SENATORS BY THE OREGON PLAN

WOULD APPLY OREGON PLAN TO MINNESOTA

JOSEPH R. KEEFE,
Representative From Redwood County, Minn.

Bill to Be Introduced By J. R. Keefe of Redwood County.

Initiative, Referendum and Recall May Be Submitted to People.

Senate Election Contests That Promise to Develop Lively Fights.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative J. R. Keefe of North Redwood, one of the live and promising Democratic house members, and the first Democrat to go to the legislature from his district, will introduce in the house tomorrow a bill to allow the voters of Minnesota to elect their United States senators under the Oregon plan.

Sooner or later, of course, the Constitution of the United States will be amended so as to provide for the direct election of United States senators in all the states. In the meantime the plan originated in Oregon, and proved there to be satisfactory and effective, offers a chance to anticipate this change by providing what amounts to direct election without any infraction of the provision of the present Federal Constitution, which requires that senators shall be elected by the legislatures. Several other states, notably Nebraska, have adopted it, and it is before many legislatures this winter.

There is reason to believe that the Oregon plan will receive much greater consideration in the Minnesota legislature this winter than it has ever had

Mattson of Roseau is holding his measures for the relief of the border fire sufferers until the return from the East of Chairman W. A. McGonagle of the relief committee. On Mr. McGonagle's return a conference will be held between Mr. Mattson, Mr. McGonagle, J. H. Beck of St. Paul, a member of the relief committee, and the governor and attorney general. Mr. Mattson proposes a distribution of timothy and clover seed to sufferers by the state agricultural college. Applications will

STEAMER ON REEF.

The Russia From New York Is Wrecked Near Libau.

Libau, Russia, Jan. 9.—The steamer Russia from New York for this port piled up on a submerged reef four miles out from here yesterday afternoon. Her 105 passengers were landed safely. Efforts to float the liner have so far proved futile. Three of her holds are filled with water.

LAXNESS OF STATE FAIR

Special Auditing Committee Makes Report to the Governor.

Deplorable Looseness in the Handling of the Finances of the Fair.

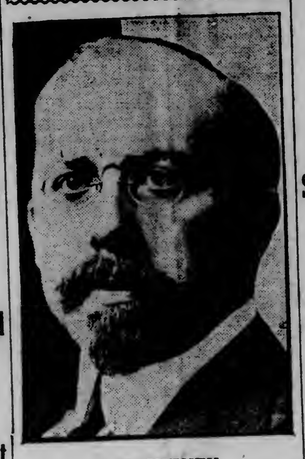

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Disclosing concrete instances of laxness in the management of the affairs of the Minnesota State Agricultural society, intimating that in the handling of the finances of the fair there is looseness that is deplorable, the report of the board of audit, appointed by Governor A. O. Eberhart to investigate affairs, has been submitted to the governor.

The report is voluminous and exhaustive. It says that the board of audit consisting of J. A. O. Preus, Edward L. Erickson and Herbert M. Temple have found:

That Laura M. Cox, assistant to the secretary, carries a cash account in her name at the Northwestern National bank, Minneapolis, and First National bank, St. Paul, and money belonging to the fair and her personal money is deposited and withdrawn from these

Supreme Court Hears Tale of the Tobacco Octopus.

Upon It Depends Dissolution of the American Corporation.

Washington, Jan. 9.—To listen to the story of the tobacco business of the world was the work almost exclusively today of the supreme court of the United States. First, the government was to conclude its tale of the growth, wealth and power of the so-called "tobacco trust," portrayed as having been constructed out of the fortunes of disheartened competitors. Then there was to be heard something

FRIGHTFUL SNOW SLIDES IN ALPS

Avalanches ot Extraordinary Extent Are Reported.

Turin, Italy, Jan. 9.—Avalanches from the Alps of extraordinary extent are reported, particularly in the province of Cuneo. Between the villages of Limone and Vernante two snow slides estimated at 500,000 cubic feet have obstructed the railway. In certain districts near Maddalena hill many homes have been isolated. In one valley the only thing appearing above the snow are chimney tops and the upper ends of telegraph poles.

POPULATION OF RED WING AND MANKATO.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Population statistics of the thirteenth census made public today by the director of the census included in Minnesota:

Mankato, in 1910, 10,365; in 1900, 10,599.

THE FIGHT TO OUST LORIMER FROM SEAT IN SENATE BEGINS

Senator Beveridge Files Minority Report of Investigating Committee.

Adds Resolution Denying His Legal Election to the Senate.

Senator Lorimer Makes Brief Speech Declaring His Innocence.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The fight to prevent Senator Lorimer of Illinois retaining his seat in the United States senate was opened today with a contest between Senators Beveridge of Indiana and Owen of Oklahoma, both of whom contested for the right to fire the first gun in the same cause.

Senator Beveridge, by virtue of being a member of the committee on privileges and elections which investigated charges of bribery against Mr. Lorimer, gained a tactical victory by filing a minority report attacking the petition of his colleagues on the committee who voted to exonerate the Illinois senator. Senator Owen, however, introduced a resolution to declare the election of Senator Lorimer to have been illegal and void, but he was not permitted to address the senate in its support. The senate held that the resolution, under the rules, would have to go over until tomorrow. Mr. Beveridge then submitted his report, the conclusion of which was:

"That this election was invalid under any possible view of the law. If the senate so concludes, it is our duty so to declare. Therefore I submit the following resolution:

"'Resolved, That William Lorimer was not duly and legally elected to a seat in the senate of the United States by the legislature of the state of Illinois."

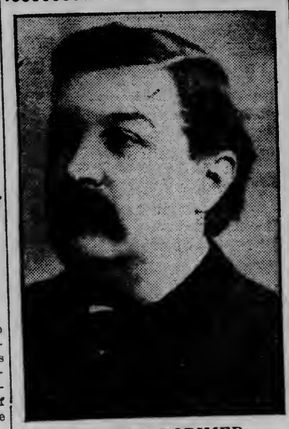

Before the report was filed, Senator Lorimer made a brief speech, declaring his innocence of bribery and the innocence of his friends of any participation in corrupt practices in connection with his election. He announced his intention to be present during the discussion of his case.

CARRIED DOWN LADDERS.

Many Occupants of Burning Tenement Have a Narrow Escape.

New York, Jan. 9.—Six persons were overcome by smoke and had to be carried out of a burning tenement house on Ninety-seventh street early today when fire swept the crowded building. Several other occupants were painfully burned in fighting their way out of the structure, escape from which by the stairways had been cut off. The majority of the tenants had to be carried down ladders and there were a number of narrow escapes in the excited rush.

U. S. SENATOR WHOSE SEAT IS IN DANGER

WILLIAM LORIMER.

FORMALITY IS LACKING

Inauguration of Governor Harmon Is Unprecedented.

No Address Nor Any Social Function Whatever.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 9.—Judson Harmon was inaugurated governor of Ohio today for the second time.

The ceremony was among the simplest in the history of the state. The governor stepped out of his private office into the reception room of the executive chambers and there subscribed to the oath. The oath was administered by Chief Justice William T. Spear.

Parading of soldiery and military clubs, social receptions, the inaugural ball and everything which would make the inauguration a function, were omitted.

Mrs. Harmon, members of the family, and friends, officials and such of the public as could find place in the room, witnessed the oath taking. The chimes of Trinity Episcopal church near the state house rang out the news that a new administration had begun. The governor returned to his private office and took up his work.

The omission of the inaugural address made the inaugural of Governor Harmon unprecedented in the state.

Most of the Democratic officials took oath of office today. Atlee Pomerene was sworn in as lieutenant governor and Wednesday he will be elected United States senator.

Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 9.—Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American steamship line, today successfully underwent an operation for appendicitis.

NEW SCHEME OF BURGLARS

Have Card Index System of the Houses to Be Robbed.

Obtained By Pal in Guise of Bell Telephone Employe.

Cleveland, Jan. 9.—Fred C. Hoffman, carrying a card as agent for the Bell Telephone company, was arrested here last night as a member of a gang of burglars who have looted scores of residences in the past few months. Hoffman revealed to the police a card index system in which the estimated booty, arrangement of furniture, means of egress and ingress and other details of hundreds of dwelling houses were enumerated. This information had been collected by Hoffman in his guise as telephone agent.

The capture of the burglars has brought into the hands of the police a large amount of stolen property. Part of this, consisting of a valuable silver set, was discovered buried under a wall in the Forest Hill estate of John D. Rockefeller. It had been stolen from the house of one of Mr. Rockefeller's tenants and hidden under the wall until an opportunity could be found to carry it away.

Two of Hoffman's associates are also in custody, but the police are still looking for a fourth, who is believed to have been the leader.

TRAINS ARE BLOCKED BY SNOWSTORM

South Shore Line Was Buried Under Heavy Drifts in Michigan.

Tracks Have Been Cleared and Service Will Be Resumed.

Trains on Other Duluth Roads Are Behind Scheduled Time.

Traffic was completely tied up on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad yesterday as the result of the severe storm that swept the territory of the Duluth road, compelling the cancelling of all running orders, both freight and passenger.

Reports received this morning at the local freight and passenger office of the South Shore, indicate that the road is cleared and that all passenger trains, from all points on the system, have started. Freight operations did not start until noon.

The storm that swept the Michigan and Wisconsin territory of the South Shore, was one of the most severe snow storms in years. In the Copper country the snow drifted to a depth of

FINANCIAL HORIZON DECIDEDLY CLEARER

Result of Conference Between Leading Financiers of New York.

New York, Jan. 9.—The financial horizon was decidedly clearer today as a result of conferences held last night to provide against any unsettling of the stability of financial organizations allied to the Carnegie Trust company. Early in the day no word came of anything threatening and the feeling prevailed in financial quarters that normal conditions were to be expected.

At the Twelfth Ward bank, having headquarters in Harlem, there was a group of perhaps fifty people in line early in the day. Some nervousness was manifested by some of the depositors, particularly foreigners who had not been apprised of the events of overnight, but banking officials took steps to allay this feeling. Many went away without carrying out their intention to withdraw funds.

As an indication of the general feeling in financial quarters, prices on the stock exchange showed fractional gains in a majority of stocks and the market was moderately active. Some of the leading stocks showed advances. A similar sentiment was shown from other financial centers.

NOTHING BUT A PARABLE.

So Bishop Lawrence Characterizes the Story of Adam and Eve.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 9.—In answer to a request from the audience that he explain his statements of man's descent from the ape, Bishop Lawrence, in Ford hall last night, declared that 'the story of Adam and Eve was a parable invented to satisfy the child mind of the early man.'

"It is just as we tell the child today" continued the bishop, "that God made us," then explain later on, as his mind develops and he will understand the theory of evolution."

REVISED SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

Introduced in the Senate By Senator Gallinger.

Applies Only to Mail Service to South American Ports.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Senator Gallinger today introduced a revised ocean mail subsidy bill which eliminates from present consideration all trans-Pacific lines and applies only to the establishment of ocean mail services en route to South America, south of the equator—that is, to Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, Chile and Peru.

No special provision is made for lines to the isthmus of Panama, because it is expected the canal will be open for commerce by the summer of 1913, which is as soon as the proposed new lines could be established. Steamships then can pass through the canal on the long routes down the West coast of South America.

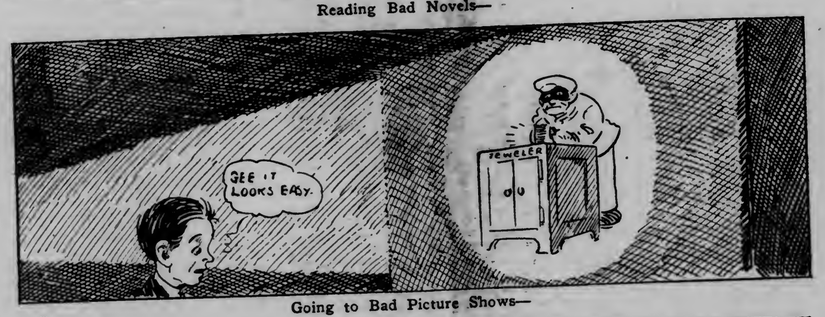

As in other bills presented, it is proposed the postmaster general shall be authorized to pay for ocean mails service on vessels of the second class on South American routes the same rate per mile ($4) as is now paid for service is the commercial wonder of the year. The volume of sales increases day by day as the extraordinary values become better known. Early buyers have boasted of their good fortune to friends and neighbors with the result that the crowds grow greater as the days roll by. In no previous clearance sale have we dug the knife of reduction so deep, into the very vitals of prices. This was necessary, because the stocks were larger than in any previous season, and as the Oak Hall never carries merchandise over from the season it was bought to sell for to another, we have applied the power of price to reduce stocks very quickly.

You would enjoy this weather in a cosy Oak Hall Overcoat or Suit. Why not do it—surely these prices are inviting.

TWO SILENT PRISONERS

Boys Held for Murder Do Not Seem to Realize Position.

Virginia Man Has Warm Praise for Algot Johnson.

Complete unconcern characterizes the demeanor and behavior of Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, the boy bandits, who held up the McKay hotel and killed Policeman Harry A. Chesmore Friday morning.

Johnson had a caller today in the person of a Swedish Lutheran minister, whose identity has not been disclosed, who knew the Johnson boy's mother in Sweden and later in Wisconsin. He made the assertion that the mother, so far as his knowledge goes, has been married twice. The first union terminated in a divorce and then she married her present husband.

The day was not an especially notable one in the county jail. The boy bandits acted much as the other prisoners did, except that it may be they were more care-free and less impressed with the completeness of their isolation from the busy world than were their fellow prisoners.

Most of the time they sat in silence, doing nothing. They gave no evidence of being particularly interested in anything that transpired, ate their meals with all the zest to be expected of boys and then returned to their pastime of doing nothing.

They did not talk to each other to any noticeable extent and did not mix with the other prisoners. Neither exhibited the slightest aversion for their fellow prisoners, but they simply kept to themselves, more by reason of disinclination to move than for any other reason, apparently.

The other prisoners take a considerable interest in the lads, but that fact has not led to anything approaching intimacy between them and the bandits.

P. F. Manley, a conductor on the D. M. & N., who lived as a neighbor to Algot Johnson, the younger of the boys, in Virginia, has come forward strongly, in a letter addressed to The Herald, in favor of the unfortunate youth.

He declares that while he saw him in Virginia, when he played with his sons and went to school with them, he never knew a more polite, gentlemanly, quiet boy than Algot.

Conductor Manley declares that all the months Algot played with his sons he was never known to use tobacco in any form, that he never used vile or abusive language, and that he earned his board by doing chores.

He deplores the fact that Algot never knew the counsel of a real mother or father, but was knocked about from one place to another, finally drifting into bad company. He says that it is too bad that his first experience should have been of such a serious nature as the robbing of the Hotel McKay in company with the boy who murdered Policeman Harry A. Chesmore last Friday morning on the early Duluth-Superior car at Sixth avenue west.

Mr. Manley states further that he was a good boy in school, as well as out of school and is confident that the people who knew him in Virginia will say the same for him in language as emphatic as his.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Some Men and Women Who Are Working for a Bigger and Better City—Their Pet Projects.

To protect dumb animals from cruel treatment and to safeguard poor children of the county, should be work that is well worth while.

Such is the work of George Fifer, local agent of the Humane society.

It is his duty to see that the horses and dogs and all domestic animals are well cared for. He visits the stables, makes suggestions as to the care of horses, stands on the corners and sees that they have blankets in the winter and fly nets during the summer.

It is also his duty to visit homes where the families are in want. In homes where the father and sometimes the mother has deserted, he takes charge of the affairs, brings the children to temporary homes, where they are cared for until permanent homes can be secured for them.

He visits all kinds of homes, in every corner of the city and county. He visits with all classes and extends help to those who need it.

Mr. Fifer is probably as well acquainted with conditions in Duluth as any one. He is in the thick of trouble, want and suffering every day of his life. He is a good officer and it is through his work that many wife deserters are brought to justice.

It is a line of work that must stand for more to the man who performs it than a mere means to a livelihood.

MOTION OF MEAT PACKERS DENIED

Given Ten Days By Judge for Further Motions.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Judge George A. Carpenter in the United States district court today denied the motion of the indicted meat packers that criminal prosecution against them be forbidden. Their plea was made on the premise that if they were guilty of conspiracy to restrain trade, they then were violating Circuit Judge Grosscup's injunction of several years ago against such a practice. Contempt proceedings, argued the packers, were the proper method of attack by the government.

Judge Carpenter gave the packers ten days for any further preliminary motions they might desire to make before pleading to the indictments.

LAST CALL TO BRIBE TAKERS

Will Be Arrested By Sheriff Unless They Appear at Once.

West Union, Ohio, Jan. 9.—The only action in the vote selling investigation today was posting notices in every store, on fences and public places, giving the voters a last chance. The notice reads as follows:

"Unless all persons who received money for their votes at the last election appear, the sheriff will have orders to place them under arrest. Time will be given those who have not money to pay their fines and costs. By coming in at once, you will save the costs, part of your fine and stay out of the workhouse. Signed,

His Horses and Household Goods Are Destroyed En Route.

Brown of Kensington, Ill., was rescued after a wild ride through the cold and darkness on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road between Pewaunee and Heartland, early today.

Three horses were burned to death and all of the man's household goods were destroyed. Brown saved his own life only by clinging to the outside of the car. He rode that way for more than 15 minutes when the train was stopped. The blaze started when one of the horses kicked over Brown's lantern. Brown was moving from his Illinois home to Mauston, Wis.

The importance of this matinee to the school children of this city is recognized by the women of the city and the Matinee Musicale and Cecilian society have done splendid work in the past in aiding this important element in the city's musical growth.

As the children buy their tickets they will be given a reserved coupon and the ushers will be at the matinee to seat the children. This will prevent confusion and will add to the comfort of the children. A charge of 50 cents will be made to adults attending as escorts to the children.

Fried Cauliflower.

Trim, wash and drain a cauliflower and cook it in salted water until tender. Drain again and let cool. Divide it into small sections or flowers. Beat up an egg with a little milk, dip the cauliflower in this, then roll in a mixture of bread crumbs and grated Parmesan cheese, and fry in clarified butter or nut oil to a golden brown. Drain carefully on a cloth paper, sprinkle over a pinch of curry powder, dish up and serve.

Roast Leg of Mutton in Paste.

The same correspondent asks for this recipe, which consists only in roasting (baking) the joint in the usual way, but first incasing it in a stiff paste of flour and water. About ten minutes before the meat is to be served take o.. the paste and brown the surface of the meat before a fierce fire or in the (very hot) oven. Dust a little flour over the meat before browning it.

Apple Jam.

Weigh equal quantities of brown sugar and sour apples, paring, coring and slicing the fruit. Make a syrup by boiling the sugar in water, allowing one pint to every three pounds of sugar. Skim well and boil till rather thick. Then add the apples, the grated rind of one or two lemons, and two or three pieces of white ginger. Boil till the apples sink and look clear and yellow. Then put into pots, and tie down when cold.

Chicken Pie.

Cut the chicken into pieces, season with salt, peper, a little mace and sweet marjoram. Make a good paste-crust and line the sides of the dish and rim. Lay the chicken into the dish very close. Dredge in some flour; add a little butter in small bits, and a cupful of hot water or veal stock, enough to fill the dish; cover with the crust; cut a hole in the top, and bake for half an hour. If the chicken is not very young, boil with some strips of pork half an hour before it is cut up. A few of these strips flavor the pie nicely in either case.

THE EVENING STORY

SWEETHEARTS EVER

By Sheila Macbean.

The mist-laden atmosphere held a sharp touch of frost, the first of the year, and Valentina Crimp drew her shawl closer round her as she sat behind the pile of rosy-cheeked apples, golden oranges, brown nuts and speckled bananas, which formed her stock in trade.

Seventeen years ago she had first opened the little fruit and vegetable stall in Merry Lane, her own cheeks as rosy as the apples she sold, her hands browned with the country sun, golden lights straying through he soft brown hair where now the threads shone silver.

Seventeen years. It was a big slice out of a lifetime, a long time to live alone, waiting in trust for the coming of the man to whom you have given your heart when your hair hung in two plaits down your back, and he gave you his promise true in a voice that cracked on the words.

But that was what Valentina Crimp had done when she walked out with Tom Bidwell.

Seated behind the fruit, the gas jet flaring noisily above her, Valentina Crimp looked back to those good old days; to the frosty autumn evening when Tom Bidwell had kissed her for the first time; to the dismal morning when he had gone away from her, the tears standing thickly in his blue eyes, his modest bundle in his hand, his name entered among the big crew of the merchant vessel bound for the East Indies.

Storm clouds had rolled up one after another then; for a few hardly contested years the farm had been held together; then the old folk had gone Home, and Valentina Crimp had been left to face the world alone, save for the eager loving letters that came to her from time to time from over the sea.

Fortified by these letters, she had held her own; and then the postman had deserted her. The potato crop had failed, fever had robbed her of her few remaining pigs left to her from the wreckage of the farm, the fruit rotted on the trees ere it ripened, and, packing her battered tin trunk, Valentina Crimp set out for New York.

Seventeen years ago this day.

"Good evening to you, missus." The voice broke in upon her train of thought.

The crisp greeting brought her back from the vision of long ago, and a well-dressed, dapper little man approached the counter.

"I wish to speak a word or two with you, missus," he said. "The fact is we have decided to give you notice to quit; it has been decided to do away with Merry Lane altogether, to pull down these dilapidated buildings, and make a decent street of it.

"Notice to quit—do away with Merry Lane?"

Valentina Crimp looked at the speaker in silence, her heart beating irregularly beneath her thick woolen bodice, and noting her distress the man leaned on the counter.

"You won't have to go under a month," he said. "You will have plenty of time to look around, and get yourself moved in somewhere. Why, bless me, my good woman, a fruit stall is always welcome, surely—especially one like yours. I never saw a finer lot of apples than those you have got in the window there. You might put me up a pound, will you?"

Mechanically, Valentina Crimp selected and weighed the fruit.

"It is a month from today, sir, that I have got to go?" she said.

The man consulted a black leather notebook.

"A month, yes—four clear weeks," he said briskly.

Then, with the bag of apples tucked under his arm, he bustled on his way, and Valentina Crimp sat down heavily on her chair.

In four weeks' time she must pack up her tin box once more, and journey whither?

During her sojourn in Merry Lane she had paid her way; now and again there had been a Saturday night when she had had a sixpence, or maybe a sh'lling, to slip into the old black savings stocking; but those shillings and sixpences would hardly cover the expenses of a move—the purchase or renting of another stall.

"I'm too old to start again—too old; that's the trouble."

Mutteringly brokenly to herself, she glanced wistfully around the tiny place that had become so intimate a part of her life, and for the first time in all the troubles which had so thickly beset her way her heart failed her.

Through the long years she had toiled and struggled and hoped, keeping herself "decent" against the day when Tom should come to her; but Tom had never come, and she had got her notice to quit.

Rousing herself, Valentina Crimp took up the apples one by one, polishing them fiercely with her apron; but she labored to little purpose, for as she bent to her task big drops of salt water splashed down on to the fruit—Valentina Crimp was crying as if her heart would break.

Up and down the narrow lane doomed to destruction, men and women passed and repassed—shabby, white-faced, weary-eyed workers for the most part, for Merry Lane had been cut through a world of hardship and sorrow; once in a while a bare-footed dirty urchin darted into the shop, and Valentina Crimp gave an orange or maybe two in exchange for the dirty penny thrust into her hand, returning immediately to her polishing.

Four weeks only might be left to her, but the fruit should look its best up to the very last.

The mist was thickening into a fog as a short, sturdily-built man paused before the shop, glancing anxiously about him.

"VALENTINA CRIMP, FRUITERER."

Raising his eyes he caught sight of the name, which Valentina had painted herself above the window in large, irregular type, "Valentina Crimp." The next moment he had entered the shop, and, with an apple in her hand and the tears still wet on her weather-beaten cheeks, Valentina looked towards him. It was a long look—a long, long look—and then the apple rolled across the floor, for her hands had been taken captive, and Tom Bidwell was looking at her.

"Tom," she said, her voice sounding queer and strangled, "Tom is that you? Are you real, Tom?"

"Yes, it's me, Valentina," was the husky reply.

"It's most a lifetime since we have met, Valentina," he said slowly. "When I went away I meant to come back and wed you as soon as ever we came to port, but I couldn't work it. I sickened with some kind of fever before the ship was due to start for home, and they put me ashore and left me there in a hospital. When I got well I had to look about me for some kind of a job. It didn't seem no use to come back—I couldn't wed you penniless; so I took what I could get and I have been at it ever since. I stopped sending the letters—I don't rightly know why, unless it were that I had kind of a notion that it would be fairer to you, and somehow I never thought of things changing at the old house. I was Bob Sawyer at the oil house told me and sent me up here. The promise I gave you once stands the same in my heart, Valentina, if so be as you has any use for it."

Pausing he looked at her, and as his eyes rested on the soft brown hair with its silver threads—the face that neither time nor care could alter in his eyes—his blood quickened.

"Valentina," all the old love, the old joy, the eager boyishness were in the word. "Valentina, will you marry me? Will you come back to the country, my dear? Will you wed me, Valentina?"

For a moment she looked at him, then the burden of the years slipped from her shoulders and her eyes shone through the happy tears.

"It is what I am waiting to do, Tom," she said shyly, "for I have loved you all through these years."

Some Points on Dress

By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.

Stout people should make the underwear of a blouse double so that as the material wears it can be neatly darned with ravelings on to the material beneath.

Dresses which have white lace vests and cuffs often give trouble, as the cuffs are soiled before the vest. Try making two pairs of cuffs to one vest. Run an elastic through the upper edge of the cuffs so that it need not be sewn to the blouse at all. In this way a constant supply of clean cuffs can be had without disturbing the vest.

Lace and net blouses are still worn, and they are apt to cause some anxiety to the home laundress. Starch makes them hard, yet without any stiffening they soon look raggy. Buy an ounce of gum arabic, make a very weak solution of it, and it will be found to give just the necessary stiffness to a net blouse.

The secret of washing a white sweater or jersey successfully is to avoid wringing it. Wash it with good, white soap, in luke warm water and rinse it thoroughly in waters of the same temperature. Lay upon a small table a white bath towel and spread the sweater on the towel, arranging it the shape you wish it to dry. Place the table in the air but not in the direct sunshine, since it will turn the article yellow.

Magnesia is very effective in cleaning laces and delicate fabrics. Sift or rub it on the parts to be cleaned, and lay the articles away in a box or drawer where they will be undisturbed for a few days, and then shake them out. It is a very good plan to apply the magnesia in this way: when you take the dresses out to wear them the next time they will be fresh and dainty.

SEWAGE TO BE PURIFIED

Chester Creek Will No Longer Be an Open Sewer.

Another of Mrs. Crane's Suggestions Will Bring Results.

At a recent meeting of the county board of poor commissioners it was decided to wait until spring before beginning work on the new sewerage system to be installed.

The sewage at the present time flows into Chester creek and as this is the only way it can be carried off, it will continue to flow into the creek.

Under the new system, however, the sewage will be purified before entering the waters of the creek. It will pass through several tons of crushed rock and a barrel and filtering system before it reaches the creek.

There have been many complaints by residents who live along the creek and the action of the poor board in installing the new system pleases them greatly.

The poor board visited the poor farm, inspected the animals, the buildings, the inmates and expressed themselves as well satisfied.

SHERIFF GREAT WRESTLER.

Head Peace Officer of Gogebic County Once Mat Champion.

Wakefield, Mich., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Jack" Rowett of Bessemer, who the first of the year became sheriff of Gogebic county, is still the holder of the world's championship at Cornish wrestling, although like Gotch he announces that he is now through with the game. Rowett started his wrestling career in the East, where he was reared, at the age of 15. At the age of 16 he had the lightweight championship of the United States. Since that time he has wrestled catch-as-catch-can and Cornish as well as devoting some time to boxing. It was as a Cornish wrestler that he has starred. He won the world's championship from "Jack" King in 1896 and since then has successfully defended the title against all contenders. He has thrown every man with whom he has competed, with the exception of "Jack" Carkeek. The match with this famous wrestler resulted in a draw, after a prolonged and hard fought contest.

COPPERS NERVOUS; LEADERS DECLINE

Local Market Shows Considerable Strength---Metal Report More Favorable.

The copper market today was badly mixed. The less active coppers acted well, but the leaders lost their strength when shorts ceased to cover and jumped on the market in the face of conditions which generally were favorable so far as their immediate effect was concerned. The market closed generally lower with the exception of a few specialties which were firm at the close at higher levels than in Saturday.

The early strength was speculative, traders in the East looking upon the early departure for Europe of J. P. Morgan as a favorable omen as they did not believe he would leave at an unfavorable period. The copper situation surprised most people, the producers' report showing a decrease in stocks of 8,358,874 pounds in December. The production was 123,339,219 pounds compared with 119,353,463 pounds in November and 126,469,284 pounds in October. The domestic deliveries amounted to 43,594,018 pounds and exports 88,104,075 pounds, a total of 131,698,093 pounds. Stocks on hand, Dec. 31 were 122,030,195 pounds against 130,389,060 pounds Nov. 30. The United Metals Selling company and the American Smelting & Refining company withdrew from the market two months ago and have not sold any copper since then. Other selling agencies have marketed copper whenever consumers desired small tonnages.

The banking situation shows an improvement. J. P. Morgan came to the rescue of several banks in New York which were in hot water on account of their violation of conservative banking methods.

The local market showed considerable strength, although it was dull. Keating sold at 99c and closed strong. Denn displayed strength, selling at $4.75 to $4.81¼, $4.87½ and then at $4.93¾. Live oak sold at $22 to $22.75 and Carman at 60c and 62c and then advanced to 63c bid without trading.

Amalgamated was extremely nervous, fluctuating within the following limts, $65.12½, $64.75, $65.37½, $64.25, $64.62½, $64.25 and $64.37½. Shattuck was $21.50 bid and $21.75 asked. Butte Baliaklava was $6 bid and $6.50 asked. Calumet & Arizona sold at $48 to $47.50, Giroux at $6.75, $6.87½ to $6.81¼. Ojibway sold at $6, Superior & Pittsburg at $14, Greene at $7 to $6.87½ to $6.75, North Butte at $29, $29.12½ to $28.50, Cactus at 18c, 17c and 20c.

WORLD ALMANAC HAS IT ALL.

In New Volume for 1911 Every New Fact Added.

All the phenomenal growth and development that have marked the progress of events throughout the world in 1910 are reflected and recorded in The World Almanac for 1911. To enumerate its new features would be to enumerate everything new and important that has taken place in the last year. Its great mass of statistical information on every subject in which any one would be likely to be interested has been revised and brought down to the last moment of the closing year, and so many new facts and figures have been added that apparently no information of value or importance has been omitted, while for accuracy The World Almanac has never been excelled.

The completeness with which the subjects are treated is shown by the fact that fifteen pages are devoted to detailed facts concerning the new "Science of Aviation," "The High Cost of Living" is another subject treated at length in detail.

All the important laws of congress and of state legislatures are clearly summarized. The progress of science, art, government, religion, education, labor, industry, commerce, finance, navigation, exploration and a thousand or more other subjects are set forth concisely, making The World Almanac for 1911 a complete reference library in one volume.

It is the one reference volume which may be accurately described by paraphrasing Lincoln's famous sentence concerning a people's government: It is a book of facts of, for and by The World.

The system will be inaugurated with three carriers and two substitutes to be appointed by the postmaster, who takes office some time next month. It is pretty well settled that the present postmaster does not care for reappointment.

Already there is a great deal of discussion as to who will make up the initial force of five—three regulars and two subs.

Letter boxes will be placed at the same time free delivery is inaugurated.

The scaffolding will be about sixty-five feet high, making the distance from its top to the bottom of the hill a height of about eighty-five feet. The club will later send some of its best riders to the national tournament to be held at Stoughton, Wis., in February, and a large delegation of Virginians will also go there to boost for its selection of Virginia as the place for the 1912 meet. The new proposed slide will be one of the best in the country and this, the club feels, will be one of the chief inducements to offer for the 1912 tourney.

TEARING DOWN DOCK

Ore Dock No. 1 at Two Harbors Is Being Dismantled.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore dock No. 1 that is to be succeeded by one of the largest concrete docks in the world, is being dismantled. Whitney Bros. & Hill of Superior have a large force of men at work.

Last week men were building an office, blacksmith shop and tool sheds and this week tackled the dock.

There is an immense amount of timber to be gotten out of the old dock, and it will be some little time before the work of making the concrete foundation can be started.

The total cost of the dock when completed will be in the vicinity of $1,500,000, and the length of the new dock will be but a few feet less than a quarter of a mile.

In construction it will be similar to the new steel dock built by the Steel corporation here in the winter of 1908, the cost of constructing this dock being in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Over 13,000,000 pounds of steel were used in the construction of this dock and dock No. 1.

TWO ENGINES REQUIRED

To Haul Iron Range Passenger Through the Snow.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Owing to the heavy snowfall, the Sunday morning Iron Range passenger train was drawn by two engines from Two Harbors. Owing to several breaks in the coupling between the engines, the train was an hour late in reaching Tower.

It is hoped that the management of the Duluth & Iron Range may be prevailed upon to cut down its running time between Two Harbors and Ely, so as to get its evening mail train into these towns at least a half hour earlier. The subject will probably be taken up soon by the Commercial clubs of the towns interested.

SUNDAY CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

George Suffel Soloist---Symphony Concert Program Given in Part.

Notwithstanding the cold and storm and the absence of the snow plows the symphony program and George Suffel attracted an audience to the Masonic Temple yesterday afternoon, which nearly filled the auditorium and they listened to a very well arranged and well executed series of musical numbers.

Mr. Suffel's selections were well adapted for a baritone voice, which he in reality possesses, the first being the Prologue to Leoncavallo's Pagliacci, sung in Italian, showing good execution, no effort in reaching the high notes and a richness and fullness of timre. As an encore he sang Foote's "Land o' the Leal," which brought to notice the rich and sweet low notes. De Koven's "Boat Song" was the second vocal selection which was sung with a rollicking abandon suited to the song and demonstrated a great improvement in voice production and enunciation. For an encore Cadman's "Tryst" was very effectively rendered and all the songs were enthusiastically received and much appreciated. The accompanist, Miss Mae Wylie, was well in sympathy with the singer and proved herself a talented assistant, a position which calls for much artistic skill and musical taste.

The organ numbers being selected from the programs of the coming concerts of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, so that those who cared might get an idea of the swing and rythm of pieces which, on first hearing, are seldom appreciated, no effort was made to cater to the popular taste and the program started with Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests," from "Athalia," a swinging, virile piece of music, often played by orchestras. The second number was the four movements of Schumann's first symphony, probably his best known, of which the simple, sweet melody of the second movement and the whole of the fourth were the best liked. The whole is a very fine piece of masterly arrangement, with here and there the unmistakeable Schumann ideas predominating.

The last number was the two parts of Tschaikowsky's "Capriccio Italien." This composition shows the versatility of the composer, beginning with a monotonous movement until it works up into a fine melody which in turn returns to the first strain and then picks up another very dainty and tuneful melody, which attracts at once. The second movement begins with a strain similar to the andante of the first movement but without warning jumps into a vivace movement, which, about the middle of the piece, slows to a majestic introduction of the original melody and then off again into the vivace movement with which it ends.

On next Sunday Charles Applehagen will be the soloist and Goldmark's overture, "Sakuntala," a splendid sample of oriental music; Beethoven's eighth symphony, in four movements, and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav," will constitute the organ selections. The "Marche Slav" is a fine example of a peculiar Russian style of music, which must be heard more than once to be appreciated. All of those are on the program of the concert for Tuesday evening.

The several numbers were entertainingly explained by A. F. M. Custance.

Cures Coughs

After Ordinary Preparations Fail —Wonderful New Mixture Made at Home.

An investigating chemist of national reputation just recently discovered in a compound known to the medical world as essence mentho-laxene, a most wonderful virtue as a curative, laxative cough syrup, and the best part of it is, it can be made at home about 8 times cheaper than one can buy labeled cough syrups. It immediately relieves the severest cases of asthma, bronchitis, coughs and chronic colds on the lungs, and it effects a cure, too, because it has a laxative action when 8 to 10 doses are taken daily. In very short order it will loosen the tightest cough, and one can feel it "taking hold" in its curative action. Obtain of the druggist, or have him order from wholesale firm 2½ ounces essence mentho-laxene. Empty it into a pint bottle. Make a syrup with a pint of sugar and a half pint of boiling water, stir and let cool. Then fill up the bottle with syrup, shake well and take a teaspoonful 8 to 10 times daily or as needed. Give children less according to age. It is very pleasant to take.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS

Senator Cheadle Says Upper House Is Showing Proper Spirit.

Senator Harry W. Cheadle and Representative Edward R. Ribenack have returned to St. Paul to resume their legislative duties, after spending the week-end at home. Both are new members of the legislature and of the minority.

Speaking of the senate, Mr. Cheadle said the disposition seems to be to get down to business without unnecessary delay. He is not among those who complain of the committee assignments made by Lieutenant Governor Gordon, for of the nine suggestions he made to the presiding officer, seven were favorably acted upon. Commenting on the personnel of the senate committees Senator Cheadle said the old lines of their make-up have been for the most part disregarded, with the result that the temperance committee, for instance, has a majority of temperance men this session, while usually the majority is on the other side. The same observation applies to the railroad and other committees.

House committee assignments have not yet been announced, but it expected that Representative Ribenack will fare relatively as well in the lower house as did Senator Cheadle in the upper chamber.

"THE FRUIT OF FOLLY"

Youthful Criminals Bred By Parents' Lack of Wisdom, Says Pastor.

Blame Too Often Placed on Some Trivial Outward Temptation.

"The Fruit of Folly" was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. George R. Gebauer at the First Unitarian church yesterday.

"Whatever mischief the love of evil for the sake of self gratification may have done in the world, a more impeding factor in life has been error and folly," said the speaker. "Everywhere throughout human history we meet with the wreckage caused by human error and we understand why the writer of Proverbs says, 'Wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wisdom.' We know the bitter fruitage of error in our own lives. 'If only I could live my life over again, how differently I should act,' people will say and sigh. I fear they would commit about the same mistakes or similar ones, but their confession tells us that what makes life so hard at times is not bad intentions but lack of consideration.

"We make grievous mistakes, though we may not sin grievously. At bottom we really love not only our good neighbor but our enemy, yet carried away by mistaken notions of justice we injure even the friend. In the false assumption of doing the right and proper thing we sit in judgment upon others, whose motives we cannot understand and we berate people who have kindly affections for us and do them harm.

'Oh, a thousand things in life are born out of the spirit of foolishness and the old earth is handicapped by our lack of wisdom. Mankind in spite of school and church and lecture platform is blundering its way through life. We blunder above all in the training of the young. We fail to correct in our children the follies of our own youth. We permit them to grow up in a wrong conduct simply because we did not do better ourselves. The foolish parent will say, 'I cannot correct my child in the fault I myself committed when young.' The wise parent says, 'My child shall profit by my youthful foolishness and be trained by me in a better way.' The foolish parent will laugh at his boy's youthful atrocities and say, 'he must have his fling.' He will say, 'You must not be too strict with a boy, for boys are by nature Indians, and Indians, well Indians will steal.'

A Damnable Psychology.

"It is a damnable psychology, that tells us, that every boy must pass through a period of savagery and anarchy. It is untrue; a boy will naturally be brimful of vitality, but if a true boy, will never do the low and mean thing. But as long as we make sport of youthful trickery and lying and laughingly call thieving swiping, we need not wonder that the boy-thief considers himself a hero. He may after all outgrow the Indian in him and become a respected citizen, but is it a safe way to permit to boys what is crime in men? I believe that moral laxity in the young must naturally become moral laxity in the elders. And then when a boy has grown up to youthful manhood and goes astray and does the despicable thing, well meaning but unwise men and women, have at once to offer a thousand little reasons why the boy fell and they forget the main reason for his fall. To such people the reason is always in some trivial outward temptation rather than in the inward weakness cultivated by foolish education.

"The saloon, the theater, the dance hall, the moving picture show are made responsible. I do not say that they may not contribute to the final catastrophe, but to a properly trained boy the evil on the high way of life is not a temptation, but a warning. Every drunken fellow bears for him the sign: 'Beware of the cup;' every debauchee shows him the way to purity. Never tell your child that anyone but himself is responsible for any wrong he may do, or you destroy the foundation of all true moral life in him.

"Of course, there are temptations which should be removed. There should be provisions, at least, to properly guard the young and in so far as we fail in this our social duty we become partners in every crime. Nevertheless the wrong-doer is not excused. Those two boys, who in unbridled recklessness, killed a trusted officer of the law, can not be excused on the plea that they read cheap sensational books and saw vicious plays, but the community which permits the sale of bad literature and vicious plays and permits the open uncontrolled sale of weapons of destruction, shares in the crime. We need wisdom in making our laws, the spirit of responsibility in the parent, and give to the young the instruction that will show the folly of wrong-doing."

OSCAR STRAUS RESIGNS.

American Ambassador to Turkey Relinquishes His Post.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Oscar Solomon Straus of New York, former cabinet minister and for more than a year and a half American ambassador to Turkey, has resigned his post at Constantinople.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Strauss intended leaving the diplomatic service, but it did not develop until today that he had resigned. He was granted leave of absence early in November. En route home he indicated his desire of retiring as ambassador to Turkey, and a short time ago he informally tendered his resignation to the president. His leave of absence expired early in January, and the post at Constnatinople became vacant at that time.

William R. Rockhill, the present American ambassador to Russia, is likely to succeed him, although this is not certain, as several names are under consideration. The announcement of the appointment of a successor is expected shortly.

SMALLPOX IN Y. M. C. A.

Big Five-Story Building Placed Under Quarantine.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 8.—Because of the discovery of a case of smallpox, the five-story modern Y. M. C. A. building in this city was quarantined last night. The building is occupied regularly by over 125 young men who are provided with rooms on the upper floors.

Edward Gleason, aged 26, who has been living in the building, was last evening declared to be suffering from the disease. Gleason was removed to the emergency hospital. One hundred and fifty persons were in the building when the quarantine became effective and to these Dr. W. J. Donnelly, city health officer, announced that precaution necessary. Vaccinnation of the 150 was at once begun.

It was not known where Mr. Gleason, who has been ill for nearly a week, contracted the disease. There are only two other cases in the city.

Would Annex Towns of Lower Westchester to New York City.

This Would Make Gotham Greatest Metropolis in the World.

New York, Jan. 9.—To piece on a population that would make of this city the greatest metropolis in the world is the object of a big band of boomers that is planning to ask the legislature to include the towns of lower Westchester in the boundaries of Greater New York. With Yonkers, Mount Vernon and a score of lesser places added to the territory of the city that is now pressing close up to their lower lines, it is reckoned that Gotham would encompass more souls than London in a lesser circumferenen. Everything but the consent of the residents of these suburbs has today been calculated by the active advocates of this metropolitan extension; and this, it now appears, will be hard to get. The hundreds of thousands of commuters who cross city limits to get a breath of country life seem determined to resist to the last this attempt to lasso their homes back into the corral of the city.

Shepard Strong.

That no choice has yet been made of the man who will represent democracy in the United States senate for the next six years is testified to by scores of Tammany braves who have just returned to town from the inauguration at Albany. While the manipulations of Sheehan's henchmen had almost brought him into a consideration which he shared solely with Shepard, it is admitted by the organization Democrats that today the ambitions of the Buffalo politicians have met a serious setback. With Kings solidly advocating Edward M. Shepard as the man most fit to raise the hopes of the party in state as well as nation, the Tammany men agree that their best interests now lie in joining the strong sweep of independents in Manhattan to this candidate. Unless some stronger successor to Depew can be brought forth, it is today conceded that the popular demand for Shepard will surely be gratified when the legislature comes to the final selection of the party's national pillar.

Children's Chance.

To give 500 stage children their first taste of holiday celebration, members of every theatrical company in this town have volunteered their services in a belated Santa Claus show that is known only to those who pass behind the scenes. Real Christmas trees have been dressed for the tots who perform every night in the year, and more talent than the playgoer can buy is being placed at their disposal. Child life among the little workers behind the footlights is dreary, the sponsors of this show declare, and everything should be done to make the Christmas spirit a real experience in it. Until every youngster who treads the professional path is given a full stocking and a sight of a real tree, the actor folk say they will not let up in their labors.

Wasted Words.

All long-distance letter-writing records have been broken in this city by the publication of the correspondence which the local utilities commission has hurled at the head of the receiver of the Third Avenue railroad during the last two and a half years. Bearing testimony to the "sensible and helpful" character of the public service commission at Albany, Mr. Whitridge prefaces his unique volume by calling attention to the quadrupled cost to the taxpayer of the city board over that for the state, which has really regulated with 119 final orders, while its city cousins have consumed 1,281 to little or no purpose. While the city commissioners have run almost three miles of eight-point old-style type in their correspondence course on trivial faults in this one reorganizing road, it is shown that no one but the printer has profited much by this waste of words.

Skating Sport.

From hoop skirts to hobble skirts, August Brown, the park skate man, has watched feminine New York glide over the lake where he is opening his fifty-second year as custodian of ice runners. Of all the aged public servants about this town, Old Gus is now by far the most ancient and reminiscent. When Central park was a day's journey from the city streets, this Darmstadt German began to wonder why people here did not use the skating chairs that helped the sport in his fatherland. From that day to this he has haunted the edge of the ice with his seat and foot-runners, while the town has grown all about and above the old park stretch.

COMPANY HAS PROSPERED.

Pennington County Concern Makes a Good Showing.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bray Mutual Insurance company of Pennington county, owned and directed exclusively by farmers in this county and has been unusually successful, according to the annual report. But one case of loss, and that a small one, caused by lightning, was experienced during 1910. The directors are conservative and the expenses are reduced to a minimum. The following officers were elected for the current year: President, Nels K. Anderson; secretary, John O. Swanson; treasurer, Charles Gustafson; and a board of directors from all the towns in which the company sells insurance.

Dr. M. H. Bockman, who has practiced medicine in this city for five years, has removed to Minneapolis, where he is on the staff of medical men who are examining the school children in some of the city schools. A banquet was tendered him the evening before he left for Minneapolis by a number of his friends.

GOOD PROGRAM AT Y. M. C. A. "POP."

A large crowd enjoyed a good program at the "pop" at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. These entertainments have increased in popularity and each one sets a higher standard for the next following.

Miss Frances Woodbridge sang "Kingfisher Blue," and as an encore she gave "Jean." Miss Mae Wiley gave a reading, "An Object of Love," and in response to an encore, "Son."

H. Serf, William L'Estrange and W. S. Telford gave an interesting fencing exhibition. Miss Georgiana Evans and Miss Eleanor Kraft played a violin duet, "Three Little Symphonies." Miss Woodbridge sang a Hindu Slumber song and "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier." Miss Leta Phelps accompanied Miss Woodbridge on a piano.

The second part of the program was the swimming cannival. Exhibitions were given of distance and fancy swimming. A. P. Mummat made a new long-distance under-water record for the pool and Dr. T. L. Chapman and A. P. Wenzell gave exhibitions of fancy diving and swimming.

TO APPOINT ELKINS' SON.

Davis Elkins to Succeed Father in United States Senate.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 9.—Governor Glasscock announced that he will appoint Davis Elkins to succeed the late Senator Elkins, his father.

Must Elect Two Senators.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 9.—The legislature of West Virginia convenes Wednesday. By the death of United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins, the selection of two senators falls to the Democratic party.

Five candidates, including the active and receptive, were in line to succeed Senator Nathan B. Scott, Republican, and since Mr. Elkins' death two others have been put forward. Others are expected to develop before the caucus. It is known that none of the seven has received the twenty-nine pledges required to nominate. A prolonged series of ballots is deemed inevitable.

Recent exhaustive tests in the stores and homes of the Twin Cities brought out the fact that the STOTT BRIQUETS are "the best ever" for every kind of furnace, range and heater known—save only self-feeding heaters. Here's a letter from a practicalist stove man:

Dear Sir:-

You ask the writer to state to you his observations in reference to Stott briquettes. Would say that Messrs. Boutell Bros. of this city, to whom the writer has sold our stoves and ranges for the past twenty years, have been having a test in their salesroom of the briquettes for the past two weeks, and I can truthfully say that for cook stove and range fire boxes it is the best fuel in my opinion. I consider that they excel anthracite fuel in the ordinary cook stove and range fire box, for the reason that the fire can be gotten under way in a great deal less time than with anthracite fuel. The bane of the stove manufacturer's life is the complaint made by those operating the anthracite cook stove and ranges with anthracite coal who lack experience in handling this fuel. They expect to be able to build a fire and get a meal in fifteen or twenty minutes, which as you know from the nature of the fuel is impossible. Consequently there is a great deal of trouble with parties using anthracite coal.

As regards bituminous coal, it is needless to state that on account of the filth, dirt and smoke it is anything but popular, whereas with your briquettes you arrive at a happy medium and furnish the kind of fuel I consider ideal.

I also note that your briquettes burn to an absolutely pure ash, which is not the case with anthracite coal used in cook stoves and ranges generally.

Yours truly,

C. H. Conner

STRANGLES AT DINNER

Harry L. Wright Chokes to Death When Meat Lodges in Windpipe.

End Comes Suddenly While Eating In Downtown Cafe.

Harry L. Wright, cashier of the grain firm of A. D. Thomson & Co., and one of the firm's oldest and most trusted employes, strangled on a piece of meat which became lodged in his windpipe, while he was eating his dinner in Boyle's cafe, 319 West Superior street, about 6:30 o'clock last evening.

He was seated at one of the tables at the rear of the cafe. Rising hurriedly, he hastened into the lavatory, but a few steps away. The next minute several other diners and the nearby waiters were startled by the sound of a heavy fall. They hastened to his aid and found him lying unconscious on the floor.

He was removed to a more comfortable place and Dr. S. H. Boyer summoned. When he arrived Mr. Wright was dead, not having regained consciousness.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan, where a post-mortem was performed last night by Dr. F. F. Clark, under the direction of Coroner J. A. McCuen.

Mr. Wright has been in the employ of A. D. Thomson & Co., for the last twenty-one years. During the many years he was in Duluth he made a large number of friends and was well known throughout the downtown section of the city. He was 65 years old and has been a widower the last thirty years. He is survived by two brothers, Charles Wright, connected with Spencer, Kellogg & Co., at Minneapolis, and Thomas Wright of Chattanooga, Tenn. The brother at Minneapolis was notified by long-distance tedephone last night.

before. It has been introduced in each of the last two sessions, and has been defeated each time. It may be defeated again this time, but its chances are admittedly much better than they ever have been.

While the Oregon plan is widely known, a brief explanation of its provisions, as they are incorporated in the bill prepared by Representative Keefe, may be of interest.

Under it, partisan candidates for United States senator are to be nominated at the primary election. The names of the two successful candidates will go upon the ballots at the general election, and the man getting the largest popular vote there is declared to be the choice of the people.

Another Good Feature.

Even if the Oregon plan went no further, it would help; but it has another feature that is even more practical. Under it each candidate for the legislature is required to sign one of two statements to the voters as an essential to his candidacy. Statement No. 1 is to the effect that the candidate will regard the decision of the people at the general election as binding upon him. In other words, he agrees to vote for the man picked by the people. Statement No. 2, which the candidate may sign if he chooses, is simply to the effect that he will regard the verdict of the people on the senatorship as advisory; which means that he will vote as he pleases.

Experience where the Oregon plan has been tried shows that the legislative candidates pretty generally choose Statement No. 1, and that even when it goes against the grain, as when they have to vote for a man of the opposite party, they abide by it. One reason why candidates prefer Statement No. 1 is because it is the more popular, and it has been discovered that signers of Statement No. 2 have much more difficulty in getting elected than the signers of Statement No. 1. The people, curiously enough, seem to prefer voting for candidates who admit their willingness to do what the people command them to do.

The plan proposed in Mr. Keefe's bill is, therefore, a practical combination of the principles of direct election and direct nomination, and it is strictly in harmony with the spirit of the times.

Representative W. F. Kunze of Minneapolis, a Republican, last week proposed a measure providing for the Oregon plan with a convention attachment. This Mr. Keefe and his fellow Democrats look upon as an invasion upon, and not an improvement upon, the original Oregon plan. Under Mr. Kunze's scheme each party would propose a candidate before the primaries, but other candidates could file at the primaries by petition. After that his plan proceeds the same as the Oregon plan.

Initiative and Refereudum.

It is not at all improbable that one highly important result of this session of the legislature will be the submission to the people of constitutional amendments providing for the initiative, the referendum and recall.

This is the first legislature in the history of Minnesota, probably, with the possible exception of the Populist legislatures of nearly a generation ago, in which such measures as these have had even a ghost of a show of passage. It may be that they will not pass even now; but certainly there is a more pronounced sentiment for them, and more predictions that they will be adopted, then ever before. The Democrats in the legislature are for them with few or no exceptions. The out and out insurgents are for them to a man. If this were all, probably they wouldn't succeed; but many members of both houses who are neither Democrats nor advanced insurgents have come to the conclusion that there is a popular demand for these tools of real democracy, that they are bound to come sooner or later, that they have worked out well in other states, that the people are about ready to use them, and therefore that it might be as well to get into the game and put them up to the people now.

The initiative and referendum probably stand a better chance to succeed than the recall. For one thing, they are better understood. For another thing, members of the legislature are of the office-holding class, which will be chiefly affected by the recall, and they can see more objections to giving the people the right to snake a public office-holder out of his job at any time than they can to giving the people the right to initiate legislation that the legislature will not enact, and the right to veto legislation than the legislature has enacted.

It is altogether too early to make positive predictions, but judging from present indications as to the temper of the legislature, progressive legislation of this character is in very good standing, and much of it may go through.

This applies, with slightly less force, to the proposal to extend the primary election law to state officers. There is the usual antipathy to the principle of direct nominations in this legislature, the usual longing for the old convention days when a few manipulated political affairs and gathered much power and profit thereby. But it is very doubtful if a bill repealing the primary election law will even be introduced. There are those among the opponents of the primary election system who indulge in the hope that maybe the scheme can be made more objectionable by enlarging its scope, and who believe that if it is expanded to include state officers the people will come to see, as they do, that it is a nuisance and ought to be wiped out, root and branch. Some of those who hate the primary election system, therefore, may be induced to vote for the extension to state officers on that ground.

Day Congratulates Gordon.

Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, was in the city Saturday attending a meeting of the state forestry board, and in a conversation with Lieutenant Governor Gordon, complimented him highly on his selection of committee material.

"You have picked the best set of committees the senate ever beheld," said Mr. Day, "and it took courage, foresight and patriotism to do it."

Legislative Reference Bureau.

Another important matter that may shape itself into legislative action this winter is the legislative reference bureau.

There is nothing the Minnesota legislature needs more than this. The new member, seeking to shape his ideas into the form of a bill, is almost entirely without help under present conditions. Attorney General Simpson's department is at his disposal, of course, but it is not specially equipped for this work, and it has other important work to do that presumably take up much of his time.

There is no place in Minnesota, as there is in Wisconsin and other states, where a member can see exactly what other states have done along the line of the legislation he has in mind, and frame his measure in accordance therewith.

In Wisconsin there is a legislative reference bureau, created a few years ago by the legislature, which has complete files showing the laws of other states and information of all kinds likely to help in drafting measures. A legislative expert is in charge, and he is able not only to tell inquiring members what other states have done, but to frame their measures as they should be framed.

A new member from Northern Minnesota, for instance, has in mind the introduction of a certain important measure which several other states have adopted. In order to find out just how to go about it, and to get the advantage of the experience of these other states, he has been compelled to write to the Wisconsin bureau for his information, when he should be able to get it right in Minnesota. Attempts have been made in previous sessions to create such a department in this state, but so far they have always failed.

Election Contests.

Two of the earliest fights that will be of general interest will be those over the Stephens-Saugstad and Farrington-Froshaug contests. Both will come first before the senate elections committee, and later will be decided by the full senate. On the face of the situation, as matters stand now, it is difficult to see how the senate can do otherwise than decide in favor of Saugstad and Farrington.

In the Saugstad case, Stephens, the former senator, beat Saugstad at the primaries, and Saugstad's supporters voted for him by the use of stickers at the general election, giving him a substantial majority on the face of the returns. The Stephens supporters base their contest on the grounds that a man beaten at the primaries cannot be elected at the general election, that many of the Saugstad stickers were put on the wrong place on the ballots, and that improper methods were used by the Saugstad supporters at the polling places. As to the first argument, it is claimed by the Saugstad forces that while the law prohibits a defeated primary candidate from becoming an independent candidate at the general election, no law can prevent the people from voting for whomever they please at the general election, and that the Minnesota supreme court has so held. As to the second, it is claimed that even after throwing out the ballots on which the stickers were put in the wrong place, though it is contended that even these ballots indicate a clear intention of the voters that cast them to vote for Saugstad, still there are enough valid ballots to elect Saugstad. As to the third argument, Saugstad's supporters deny most of the charges of improper conduct at the polling places, and claim to be able to explain the rest satisfactorily.

If he senate decides that the clearly expressed intention of the voters shall govern, it is likely to seat Saugstad.

In the Farrington-Froshaugh case the latter was declared elected by twenty-one votes over Farrington, and twenty-six over McElligott, Republican. A recount shows Farrington to be in the lead. The Froshaug folks say that the ballot boxes have been tampered with, but it would appear that this contention throws the burden of proof upon them, and so far he charges as to tampering with the ballot boxes are very vague.

The Emmel-Ahman contest, involving the citizenship of the latter, has not yet appeared. The elections committee will take up these contests at an early date, and return its decision to the house as soon as possible.

Good Presiding Officers.

Both branches of the legislature seem pleased with their presiding officers, and they have reason to be. While it is new business with both of them, and naturally it will take a few days for them to get into the swing of the thing, both are taking hold in a manner that shows a capacity to carry it off with promptness, dispatch and fairness. A presiding officer has abundant chance to delay or dispatch business, and both Lieut-Governor Gordon and Speaker Dunn exhibit a business-like readiness to grasp a situation and straighten it out that will be of great help to them and to the bodies over which deliberations they are presiding.

THE CRESCENT ARRIVES IN PORT

Fishing Boat Reaches Local Harbor After Hazardous Trip.

The Stone-Ordean-Wells company's steamer Crescent, which narrowly escaped being overwhelmed in a fifty-mile gale off the north shore recently, came into the harbor here Saturday midnight under her own steam and towing the tug Fred B. Hall, which had been dispatched to tow her from Grand Marais to Duluth. The Crescent was equipped with a temporary rudder, for in the storm through which it passed its rudder had been carried away. When at last safely within the harbor, she again lost her rudder, which was hammered and strained by heavy blocks of ice until it parted company with the boat.

The Crescent is commanded by Capt. W. T. Johns and has a crew of five men. They have all done heroic work since a week ago Friday, when the boat was disabled, fighting desperately for their lives and the ship. Since Dec. 31 the Crescent has been in the harbor of Grand Marais, which she made under the most hazardous conditions, with her rudder gone and a wild lake storm to combat. Capt. Johns succeeded, however, in getting into the harbor without assistance from any other craft, and if it had not been for his able seamanship the Crescent surely would have foundered, for there was not at Grand Marais any boat that could brave teh storm.

It was by rigging a temporary rudder and setting a bow sail that the Crescent was enabled to drift into the harbor at Grand Marais. Drifting toward a goal which much be reached if destruction is to be avoided is not a pleasant diversion in a howling, tumbling gale, and the master and crew of the Crescent labored during that time as men labor who face the alternative of death.

Last Saturday Capt. Johns, who had sent a message to Duluth asking for assistance which could not be given him, decided to make the trip to this harbor unaided. He rigged up another temporary rudder and steamed away from Grand Marais. Half way to Duluth the Crescent encountered the tug Hall. As the crippled craft was the faster of the two, she took the tug in tow and together they made Duluth. The Crescent will be dry-docked and as soon as possible will resume her trips, two more of which may be possible before the ice puts an embargo on the fishing industry.

The tug Mayflower and the barge Thor are also in port, arriving just before the Crescent from Little Marais. The barge carried 60,000 pounds of fish. The tug had difficulty in entering the harbor, for a northeast wind sent a blockade of ice into the entrance. At Grand Marais the Mayflower picked up a disabled gasoline yacht and towed it into harbor.

INCREASE 'PHONE STOCK.

Red River Valley Company in Prosperous Condition.

Buxton, N. D., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Red River Valley Telephone company in this city it was voted to increase the capital stock from $100,000 to $200,000 and C. H. Nolan was retained as superintendent. The company reported 2,300 patrons and paid 12 per cent dividend this year on its old stock besides keeping $3,150 for the reserve fund. M. F. Hegge of Hatton was elected president, Iver Thompson of Sherbrooke, vice president and J. G. Odegard of Northwood, secretary and treasurer.

GIVEN CULVERT CONTRACTS.

Thief River Falls Concerns Get North Dakota Orders.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Manager Stowell of the Northern Culvert company of this city has secured the contract for supplying all of Walsh county, N. D., with culverts for their county ditches and crossings. He also secured a similar contract for Cass county, which includes the city of Fargo. A larger force of workmen will be placed in the factory to care for the increasing business of this firm. Nearly all the counties in Northwestern Minnesota, where the great ditching projects are in operation, secure their galvanized iron culverts in this city. Not a single wooden or even concrete culvert is now constructed, as these corrugated iron ones are stronger, cheaper and more durable than any other material known.

ROADS NOT OBJECTING.

To Proposed Reduction in Upper Michigan Passenger Rates.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is understood that the railroad companies doing business in the Upper Peninsula will not oppose Governor Chase S. Osborn's plan to reduce the railroad fares north of the Straits of Mackinac to 2½ cents per mile from 3 cents, although they would bitterly fight a proposition to reduce fares to 2 cents per mile, which is advocated by a number of the new members of the legislature from this part of the state.

Under a 2 cent fare the price of a ticket between Calumet and Duluth would be reduced from $7.25 to $6.50.

Thousands of commercial travelers from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Milwaukee and Detroit visit the Copper country towns in search of trade every month of the year, and the lower rates mean much to them.

ARGUE CONTEST APPEAL IN BISMARCK SOON.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest over the office of superintendent of schools in Grand Forks county which has been appealed to the supreme court will be argued in Bismarck during the week of Jan. 16. Frances M. Wagar, Republican, is contesting the re-election of Helen Prindeville, Democrat. The case was decided in district court by Judge C. F. Templeton in favor of the defendant.

Want Whistle to Blow.

Langdon, N. D., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is some indignation over the action of the city council in requesting the management of the electric light plant to discontinue the blowing of the whistle at 7 o'clock a. m. at 12 noon and at 1 o'clock and 6 p. m. Some of the more wide awake citizens have ventured the suggestion that if the city's one whistle is to be stopped so should the church and school bells.

—Samuel Johnson.

EXTENDING THE PRIMARY LAW.

The sincerity of The Herald in urging extension of the primary election system to state officers is questioned by the Warren Register, on the alleged ground of The Herald's "efforts to prevent any other Democrat contesting with Alfred Jaques for the Democratic nomination for congress."

This accusation is so obviously unfair and unfounded as to call for no reply or recognition, except that the extension of the primary election law is so acutely needed and of such importance that any imputation of unfairness against its advocates may have a tendency to weaken the force of the demands made for further legislation. It it not true that The Herald tried to prevent any other Democrat from opposing Judge Jaques at the primaries, for that is not the province of The Herald. When Judge Jaques announced he would be a candidate, The Herald exercised its privilege and indorsed him. He was generally recognized as a man eminently qualified for the place and therefore, naturally, no other Democrat cared to weaken his party's slim chances by precipitating a primary fight.

The Herald is in complete accord with the sentiment of the Register that nominations should be made by the people and not by the bosses. It is for that reason The Herald is urging the extension of the primary system to include candidates for state offices.

CATCHING THEM YOUNG.

If Washington, D. C., does not make a showing during the next generation that will put shame on the health statistics from other cities it will not be the fault of the Monday Evening club of that city. The club has inaugurated a campaign for health among the school children that ought to bear fruit. The campaign is being fought not only in the schools but in the homes and among the physicians.

On the resumption of school work after the holiday recess, the club distributed over 50,000 circulars on hygiene among the school children of that city, enough so that at least one would be provided for every family that has children in the public schools. They were not the stereotyped circulars. They were plainly worded, and told in everyday language how to avoid the common forms of illness, and how to care for the body.

Preceding the distribution of the circulars, the teachers gave short talks on hygiene, and the pupils were told to take the printed matter to their parents. Meanwhile copies of the circulars had been given to more than 1,000 physicians in the city whose patients include school children, that the physicians might be in a position to answer questions that are sure to be asked about what the circulars say, and that the professional men might be in a position to help in the work the Monday Evening club is doing.

Simplicity is the great feature of the pamphlet, so that there is no need of misunderstanding its contents. Scientific terms are avoided as far as possible, so that even a scanty knowledge of the English language would be sufficient for intelligent reading of the instructions given. It is hoped by the men and women back of the movement that the pamphlets will cause discussions and reforms in the homes which they enter.

Some prominent people are members of the committee which inaugurated the movement, and many names familiar in the medical world are in the list. Among them are Dr. George M. Kober of the medical department of Georgetown university; Dr. W. C. Woodward, health officer of the District of Columbia; W. K. Cooper, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; George E. Meyers, principal of the McKinley manual training school, and M. C. Macatee, medical inspector of the public schools of the District. There are other medical and educational workers on the committee, the personnel of which gives authority to the plan.

These men and women of the national capital are giving an impetus to the well-being of the rising generation by their action, and with the co-operation that they have a right to expect from parents, teachers and the medical profession, their work should bring wonderful results in the health of the city's population.

THIRTEEN MONTES AND A DAY.

Switzerland has notified the world that some time in the near future she will invite representatives of all other nations to meet there and consider the universal adoption of a reformed calendar, to do away with the Gregorian form, which has been in use among English-speaking nations since 1752. According to the rough outline of the Swiss plan as thus far given out, the year would consist of thirteen months of twenty-eight days each, with an extra day for New Years.

Under this scheme New Years would take on a queer character. It could not be any one of the regular days of the week, for then some week in the year would be lacking. It could not be counted commercially, for the plan proposed involves the elimination of the first day of the year from business and other calculations. It would just be a day, all by itself—not the first day of the new year, nor the last day of the old, but a sort of nondescript passage of time, or rather halting of time, in which men's affairs would continue without getting credit for such continuance.

In the first rough draft of the proposed change no provision is made for the extra hours, minutes and seconds that are accounted for by the extra day of leap year in the Gregorian and Caesarian calendars. Perhaps every fourth year would be preceded or followed by two nondescript days. As to that deponent sayeth not. No doubt the scientists would find some way to take care of the extra five hours, forty-nine minutes and twelve seconds demanded for the regular succession of the equinox.

Whether the proposed change would be acceptable to the commercial world, which has become firmly established on the old system of computing time, is doubtful. It would have many advantages such as unity in monthly computations of interest, uniformity in wage calculations, etc., but it would come into severe conflict with the present thirty, sixty and ninety day systems. No doubt the world of trade and industry would want to study over the scheme at some length before accepting it.

THAT LODGE MEETING.

Just what did Senator Henry Cabot Lodge gain by his defensive mass-meeting in Symphony hall in Boston? Nobody knows except the Massachusetts legislature, and the anwer probably will not be known until the balloting in that body begins. Papers that are strongly predisposed in favor of the senator's re-election are warm in praise of his dignity on that occasion, and take great pride in the fact that he made no promises that might have been taken as those of a man who fears defeat and is trying to stem the tide.

It was not necessary for the senator to make any promises to give that impression. If he is not scared and is not trying to set up in the stemming business, then there was no reason for his calling the meeting or making his speech. The truth of the matter is that he is scared, badly scared, and if Governor Foss' campaign is getting half the hold on the rest of the people of the state that it is on the man against whom it is directed, there will be a new face from the Bay State at Washington for the Sixty-second congress.

But the dignity and historical character of the senator's defense did not appeal the same to all papers as it did to those that have been his supporters throughout. The Boston Traveler says:

> Far be it from any son of the grand old commonwealth of Massachusetts—of which Senator Lodge loves every inch, and every man, woman and child, including those that have gone and those that are to come—to deal unkindly with a speech that may yet find a place in our school readers. We are forced to remark, however, that, reading that oration in the cold, gray light of early morning, we should have been more impressed with it if the senator had been less satisfied with his own past, and had made more definite pledges touching the present and the future. The good things that Senator Lodge has accomplished—and they are many—speak for themselves. His sins of omission also clamor vociferously; but over them, naturally, the senator has spread a veil of silence. The world is not likely to accept his professions of progressive zeal any more than it accepted Mr. Roosevelt's description of him as a man who "had always stood in the forefront for progressive legislation." * * * In short, a careful study of the senator's apology for his own career gives an inquiring citizen a new light. Stripped of the emotion and oratorical set pieces appropriate to the occasion, and naturally resulting from the fear of losing a good statesmanship job, the speech reveals the senator once more as a man who has not kept pace with the march of political events, and who is out of touch with the spirit of the times.

Senator Lodge is not a progressive, except to the extent that he is making frantic efforts to climb upon the rear step of a bandwagon that makes a noise distasteful to his ear. Aldrich, Hale, Scott, Smoot, Guggenheim—would you call them progressives? Hardly! And Senator Lodge was with them and of them and their ilk, and were it not that he is thoroughly scared he would be openly with them now.

SOME FRIENDLY ADVICE.

Some timely and valuable advice is given to the people of the United States by Richart Blaumann, honorary member of the faculty of the University of Cologne, who has been visiting in this country recently. Herr Blaumann talked particularly of the agricultural work in the United States as compared with that of Germany, and he finds what he declares to be the basis of the present high cost of living in America.

First of all he points to the tide toward the cities. This, he says, means increasing numbers of consumers and decreasing numbers of producers. The centralization of population also brings about another condition, which he calls the passing of the products of the soil through too many hands. In order to get them to the consumers, they must be handled by a series of middlemen, each of whom adds a small profit to the price he must pay, and the final figure is so high as to be burdensome.

Particular interest attaches to Herr Blaumann's comparison of methods in America and Germany. In the latter country, he says, intensive farming is the rule, and the result is that German farmers are making more on three acres of land than the American gets out of 160 acres. In his own words, the American "works too much ground and does not cultivate any of it." The German, he says, spends the whole winter enriching by fertilizing the land that has been impoverished during the summer.

He arraigns the American people by saying that they waste too much, and declares that as a result of prodigality the "profits go to waste." The German government, says Herr Blaumann, is an organized charity, "arresting the tramp and providing work for him, supplying food to the destitute and so arranging conditions for them that they need not remain so. Unless the government of the United States or some one of unlimited influence provides these changes in the administraton of public affairs here, the country will be depopulated and the cities will become dens of the worst poverty and bloodiest crimes."

It is not an attractive picture. Perhaps Herr Blaumann is unduly influenced by his love for the Fatherland and its institutions, so that his judgment of ultimate development in America is not altogether sound. But there is much for Americans to profit by in what he says, and if some such talk by our friends from abroad will arouse the American people to a sense of the possibilities that lie before them in agriculture, particularly in the betterment of methods and elimination of loss, their visits to this country will be events of real importance to this youngest and most vigorous of nations.

Can it be possible that those London anarchists were only suffragettes in disguise?

Courtland Field Bishop makes a plea for sane aviation. It is noticcable that he leaves out the word "safe."

Now is the chance of its history for Massachusetts to have a Lodge in some vast wilderness—in other words, in the tall timber.

Canada is importing eggs. It would be a dirty, low-down trick, but this certainly offers a chance to clear out the American cold storage supply.

Prince Edward Island has furnished the world market with a new luxury which it calls a "lobster rarebit.' Shades of the Llewellyns! Are the dreams of ages to be given a denser hue?

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Mr. Carnegie's Income.

Winona Independent: Carnegie has an income of $25,000,000 a year. Where does it come from?

Who mentioned the high cost of living?

Multiplication.

Red Wing Free Press: One of our exchanges remarks that Youngdahl should have a guardian appointed over him before another political contest rolls around. A figure 1 to place alongside of the cypher, as it were, eh?

If that would serve to increase Youngdahl's activity tenfold, the contemporary that made the suggestion might regret its helpfulness.

His Day "In the Paper."

Walker Pilot: The man who manages to get his name in the paper about once a year, will loom up in print once more just as soon as the county auditors finish work on the delinquent tax lists.

The notable thing about it is that his tribe continually increase.

No Such Thing.

Winona Independent: Two gallons of whisky to every man, woman and child was used in the United States last year. That isn't much for the tanks, but two gallons seems to be a big average for the babies.

There are no average babies, as this might be understood to intimate. Any mother can demonstrate that truth.

Quite a Bit More.

Eveleth Star: A Canton, Ohio, man wants his wife to wear 60-cent hats. He must think a woman's hat isn't worth any more than its looks indicate.

Taking it "by and large," as this question of women's hats must be, it would seem that the Ohioan has just doubled the amount.

Mr. Ballinger and Others.

Coleraine Optic: It will require more than one coat of whitewash to renovate some politicians. Indeed, some of them need a disinfectant added to the lime.

If enough lime were provided to disinfect them, there probably would be no politicians left in some cases.

Question of Adhesion.

St. Cloud Journal - Press: James Hay, Jr., wants to know if Taft will stick to Ballinger. It is a safe bet that Ballinger will stick to Taft.

There's no questioning the fact that they are a whole lot "stuck on each other."

On Saying Things.

Frazee Free Press: Some people say something and others have something to say. There is a great difference between the two.

Yes, indeed.

Blondes in the West.

Long Prairie Leader: A school superintendent out West issued a warning to school boards not to hire blonde ladies as teachers, as it is more difficult to keep them from marrying before the term is expired. This superintendent is probably a single man, and has his eye on some pretty blonde and don't want anyone else to have a chance.

If that is the case, it won't be long before Mrs. Superintedent will issue the warnings for that family.

Publicity As a Whip.

Roseau Times: There will be a whole lot of publicity of the doings of the legislature and of the personal workings of the individual members during and after the session. Publicity is a good whip.

And it's more compelling even than the one legislators have most frequently felt in the past.

Information.

Boston Traveler: A New York man wanted to find out whether the high cost of woolen clothing in this country is really due to the tariff. So he wrote to a well-known firm of London tailors for a box of samples of cloths, with their respective prices. When the samples came he matched them in New York, and compared the English and American prices.

The English firm offers to supply suits to customers anywhere in the world at from $6.45 to $13.40, according to the cloth selected, exclusive, of course, of duty and freight charges.

Suits of similar cloth would cost in New York or Boston from $13 to $26—double the English price.

With the samples came a list of duties payable on imported suits of clothes in various countries. The United States heads the list with approximately 90 per cent tariff. Newfoundland charges 45 per cent, Canada 30 per cent, Jamaica 17 per cent, Belgium, 13 per cent, British Guiana, 12½ per cent, Transvaal 12 per cent, Cape Colony 12 per cent, and Bermuda 10 per cent.

Most of the countries, however, are unimportant. Here are the figures for some of the bigger nations: It costs 20 cents to import a suit of clothes into France, 36 cents in Germany and 22 cents in Italy.

The Water Test.

Sioux City Tribune: "These eggs are absolutely fresh," says the grocery man as he delivers the dozen at the back door, and he looks the good lady of the house square in the face as she questions him, for his eye is trained by long experience to stand the test.

"Very well," says the good lady. "I am not disputing your word, but we'll just put them in a basin of water and test them. The fresh eggs are heavy, the stale eggs are light and the rotten eggs are very light."

"Aha!" says the lady, as she applies the test, "six of these eggs sink to the bottom of the basin and stay there. Four of them bob up and down as if they were uncertain whether they are rotten or whether they are fresh, and two of them boldly refuse to sink. The test shows six fresh eggs, four stale eggs, and two rotten eggs."

"By George," says the groceryman, "that's the first time that farmer ever fooled me," for he lays the blame on the farmer, of course, and justly so, sometimes, but he goes back to the store with a lesson he will not forget. He will be more careful of the kind of eggs he buys and especially the kind he delivers to that particular home.

A Study in English Composition.

Life: In the eighth act Matty burned over three beauts and Wagner brutally assaulted the ambient atmosphere. Mike bingled a daisy-cutter down the right line and purloined the middle sack on the first teaser over the rubber. Collins solved a fadeaway and sewed it up by stinging the pill to the flagpole and ambling around the circuit.

Jinks schlaffed his tee shot into the Devil's Den, going to the sixteenth and messed his niblick recover. His brassey fourth connected with the kop bunker and he lifted. Jones got away a screamer and was on in three with a nifty mashie pitch. He rimmed his approach putt, sank his next for a bogey five and was dormie two.

Beat the Others by One.

Ladies' Home Journal: Some little girls were boasting of their respective families. They had passed from clothes to personal appearance and finally came to parental dignity. The minister's little girl boasted:

"Every package that comes for my papa is marked 'D. D.'"

"And every package that comes for my papa is marked 'M. D.'" retorted the daughter of the physician.

Then followed a look of contempt from the youngest of the party. "Huh!" she exclaimed. "Every package that comes to our house has three letters on it: 'C. O. D.'"

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

ANARCHISM DOES NOT MEAN VIOLENCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is not with any intention to rush into print that I am sending this to you for publication, but rather for the purpose of correcting what is an obvious error which may lead to wrong conclusions on the part of some persons who have gone but slightly—if at all—into economic questions that I am writing this.

None more than the writer regrets the unfortunate tragedy that was enacted early this morning which killed one young man and perpetually dooms two others who were just budding into early manhood. I know that at the present moment there are many persons within sound of my voice, who would take the law into their own hands and mete out to these youthful degenerates the same fate that befell the murdered policeman forgetting that in this sense of mind, they the justice seekers also have murder in their thoughts. And yet sad though it is to comment upon it—when man becomes enraged and enflamed and allows passion and hate to become his guide, all sense of reason, of justice, of civilization is forgoten and he reverts back for the time being to the condition of mind of his savage ancestor and acts accordingly. Revenge is not reason, punishment is not justice. The wrong-doer when his mind reverts back to a state of reason—will suffer all the torments of hell through his conscience which from that moment becomes his perpetual and everlasting curse. Every act brings with it its own reward—"As ye sow, so shall you also reap." Why are we so prone to forget this?

What I particularly have in mind, however, is to suggest that the statement that "Inflamed with anarchistic teachings" with which you begin the article telling about the tragedy be corrected because it is wholly untrue. Anarchism does not preach the letting of blood; it is not a doctrine of hate, neither is it a doctrine of physical force. No man who has studied the writings of Tolstoi, or Kropotkin, or Proudhon, can say there is aught in any of these men's writings to lead men to use violence in any form. On the contrary, all anarchists—I have reference to those who term themselves such—lay special stress upon the one great central point in their philosophy which was borrowed from the founder of Christianity "Resist not Evil." Why therefore couple thuggery and ignorance with true idealism? The writer is not an anarchist but believes in fair play. MORRIS KAPLAN.

Duluth, Jan. 6.

The Problem of Divorce.

Rheta Childe Dorr in the January Forum: Acording to the census of 1890, there was a married population in the United States of 24,447,769, with an annual average of 33,197 divorces. That is, there was one divorce to every 676 of married population. According to the census of 1900, there was a married population of 27,770,001, with an annual divorce record of 55,502, or one divorce to every 500 of married population. Between 1887 and 1906 the record of divorces reaches the amazing total of 945,625. Nearly a million American marriages went to pieces in twenty years. That is, disruption overtook 47,281 marriages a year, 3,940 a month—more than 130 a day.

No one section of the country produces a much larger divorce crop than another. Louisiana, with its large Catholic population, Mormon Utah, and Unitarian Massachusetts furnish similar figures. Broadly speaking, the divorce rate rises as we cross the map Westward, but, on the whole, the rate is fairly even throughout the country. The rate is slightly larger in cities than in the country, but divorce is by no means a city problem.

It is astonishing to find that divorce laws, stringent or liberal, affect the rate very slightly. New Hampshire, Utah, and South Dakota show almost exactly the same proportion of divorces per population and per marriages. New York with its one cause for divorce and New Jersey with its half-dozen causes show a rate nearly identical.

The solution of our divorce problem lies in securing a better relation between men and women in every department of life. It is an anomaly in this republic that there should be any distinctions on account of sex. It is absurd that women should receive lower wages than men for equal work performed or equal service given. It is unfair to deny women their share in public housekeeping. It is unjust to tax them and at the same time refuse them citizenship.

American women are as well educated, as intelligent, as moral, as conscientious, and within their opportunities, as efficient as American men. Once this is fully recognized; once the last vestige of sex prejudice and sex contempt vanishes from custom and from the statute books; once the same standard of morals is recognized in society as it is in the law; once it is made at least as easy for women as for men to earn an honorable living, once marriage on absolutely equal terms is made posible—no moral or physical advantage on the side of the husband, na parasitism allowed on the part of the wife:

Then it will be perfectly safe to attach a divorce coupon to every marriage certificate, with permission for both parties to tear it off at will.

The Prejudice Against Beards.

London Chronicle: The wearing of the beard has been more diversely regarded at various periods, in all probability, than any other habit. One of the most curious things in its English history is the fact that in William Rufus' time old-fashioned people who remembered the close-shaven faces of his father's court conseldered the long beard a mark of the effeminate decadence of modern times. The reason why beards were allowed to grow, according to a bishop, was in order that the stubbly chins might not prick the mouths of the ladies in kissing. Two centuries later the Scots despised England's gay clothes and long beards:

> Long-bearded, heartless,
> Painted hood, witless,
> Gay coat graceless,
> Makes English thriftless.

Why is it that there seems to be some vital connection between a man's beard and his belief? The late George Jacob Holyoake, in an article contributed to the Fortnightly Review of September, 1908, recalls the time—not so very long ago—"when only four men in Birmingham had the courage to wear beards. They were followers of Joanna Southcott. They did it in imitation of the Apostles, and were jeered at in the streets by ignorant Christians." In the course of the same article Mr. Holyoake remarks that "George Frederick Muntz, one of the two first members elected in Birmingham, was the first member who ventured to wear a beard in the house of commons; and he would have been insulted had he not been a powerful man and carried a heavy Malacca cane, which he was known to apply to any one who offered him a personal affront."

Farewell, Old Year.

Farewell, old Year!
Dimly we see thy receding shadow,
Reflected on the walls of flitting time.
But one more moment and the bells will chime
Thy requiem. And our heads in sorrow
We bow. And on our cheek there falls a tear.

Farewell, old Year!
Faintly we hear thy retreating footsteps
Resounding in the wake of ages past.
They faint away. The echo's dying fast
And viewing thy vanishing form, regrets
Fill our hearts, as we say: Farewell old Year!

WASHINGTON, JANUARY 19.

Washington Star: Sweet are the uses of adversity. Sweet likewise, or should be, those of anxiety.

The Democratic leaders are anxious. Excitement over the November victory has been followed by reflection over its precise character and meaning. There is work to be done, and a good deal of it. How shall it be done, and under what sort of leadership? In other words, now that the party has been called back, what must it do to remain?

Were the waters calm and the sailing apparently plain, there might be some careless seamanship. Wrecks have resulted from such conditions. Often when danger is not in sight it is considered impossible; and just when a feeling of perfect security possesses skipper and crew, danger appears.

Fortunately for the Democrats, the waters are not calm, and the chart is much in dispute. There is a heavy sea running, and lively discussion prevails about what should be done. The craft must be steered with skill. The skipper must know his business. The crew must obey orders. Otherwise, there will be smash and a wreck.

All the house hands have been piped for the 19th inst. Some are old sea dogs who have made many voyages and known both good weather and bad. They have been in dead calms, and then again in the wildest roars. They are familiar with the ropes. They have looked, unafraid, both sun and wind in the face.

Others are landlubbers embarking on their first voyage. Eager and curious, they are willing, but inexperienced. They may have in them the making of able seamen. They are loyal to the craft and the cause, but have yet to learn their trade. Under proper directions they may do well. Misdirected, or left to their own directions, they may do ill.

This situation is having a sobering effect on many Democrats, high and low, and it should develop their best qualities. Only the best will serve. Every question calls for careful consideration. The organization of the house, the revision of the tariff, the consideration of the trust question in the light of the coming supreme court decisions, are most important, and must be dealt with in a spirit as broad as the country itself. Parochial politics is not in order. If played, it will confound the players. It will be certain to "queer" them for 1912, and maybe for a long period following.

The 19th inst. in this town may be a date to remember, both in Democratic and Republican circles.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A woman's dearest religion is sacrifice.

Men calculate their blessings in money; women in children.

Everybody can instantly detect conceit in everybody but himself.

A man will let his barber talk him to death, and get furious with his wife for saying a tenth as much.

Self-control in a child begins exactly where parental discipline does, consequently there is no self-control in children.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Memory is a bad thing to have in the wrong place.

Some women are up to date in everything but birthdays.

A great many men men are afflicted with paralysis of the will.

There is one consistent thing about a bachelor—he rips what he sews.

Most of us would rather hear an enemy roasted than a friend praised.

The burden of a song is too great when a singer is unable to carry the tune.

Isn't it queer that man sometimes has to strain his eyes in order to hear money talk?

A girl with a good figure, wavy hair, a smooth complexion and pretty teeth never has to worry about brains.

Some girls are said to be worth their weight in gold, but some others are not worth their weight in the food they waste in trying to cook it.

Lost—£100.

Harper's Weekly: Years ago when the electric telegraph was a new idea and a mystery to the masses, there came trouble one Saturday night in the Bank of England. The business of the day had closed, and the balance was not right. There was a deficit of just £100. It was not the money, but the error, that must be found. For the officials and clerks there could be no sleep until the mystery had been cleared up. All that night, and all Sunday, a force of men were busy. The money was surely gone from the vaults, but no one could discover whence.

On the following morning a clerk suggested that the mistake might have occurred in packing, for the West Indies, some boxes of specie that had been sent to Southampton for shipment. Here was an opportunity to test the powers of the telegraph—lightning against steam, and steam with forty-eight hours the start. Very soon the telegraph asked a man in Southampton, "Has the ship Mercator sailed?"

The answer came back, "Just weighing anchor."

"Stop her in the queen's name," flashed back the telegraph. "She is stopped," was returned.

"Have on deck certain boxes (marked given), weigh them carefully, and let me know the result," telegraphed the chief.

This order was obeyed, and one box was found to be somewhere about one pound and ten ounces heavier than its mates,—just the weight of the missing sovereigns. "All right. Let the ship go!" was the next order.

The West India house was debited with the £100, and the Bank of England was at peace again.

A Souring Experience.

Washington Star: "Don't you feel that it is pleasant to be kind and generous? Don't you experience happines in giving?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum; "not since I got into a mix-up by trying to be kind and generous to our state legislature."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Chicago Tribune: Foreigner—I don't exactly understand your system of government. For example what are the powers of congress?

Native—Well, as a rule, there are two—the speaker of the house and the chairman of the committee on ways and means.

Chicago News: Seymour—Young Tiger looks like a cautious man.

Ashley—He is cautious. He's so cautious that he wouldn't ask the prettiest girl in all the world to let him see her home unless he had learned how far away she lived.

Catholic Standard and Times: "Bridget," said Mrs. Grouchy, "I don't like the looks of that man who called to see you last night."

"Well, well," replied Bridget, "ain't it funny, ma'am? He said the same about you."

Detroit Free Press: "Do you like the the prize you won at the car club?"

"Not at all. It's a homely thing, but I don't care. I can give it to somebody for a Christmas present."

Life: Irate Coach—Why didn't you tackle that man?

Player—You see, when he came along I was standing on my head, and the new rule 10, section 23, makes tackling from that position illegal.

The Sleep Angel.

The Sleep Angel's wings are as gray as the dusk,
Her step is as light as the dawn;
The waft of her breath is the rose and the musk,
That comes when the long day is gone.
She bends o'er each little white pillow she finds
And kisses the cheeks all abloom,
Then over tired eyes she draws down the blinds
When the Sleep Angel comes in the room.

But nobody living has e'er seen her face
Or knows the sweet song that she sings;
For, somehow, she slips in the quietest place
With never a rustle of wings.
And drowsy ones there, with their play-weary sighs,
Hear whispering soft in the gloom;
But she always looks down through a mother's dear eyes
When the Sleep Angel comes in the room.

—Frank Glover Heaton in New Idea.

Knew What It Was.

Everybody's: A Wyoming cowboy called to see Owen Wister in Philadelphia, and was permitted to inspect the author's outfit. As he casually examined an opera hat it sprang open. "A self-cocking hat!" "Now, don't that beat hell!"

ANSWER IS PREPARED

Water and Light Board to Reply to Hillside Clubs.

Commissioners' Answer to Charges to Be Read to City Council.

The water and light board has prepared an answer to the charges of the general committee of the Hillside clubs relative to water rates and the conduct of the department which will be read to the city council tonight.

The board goes into the matter at some length, taking up the different allegations and welcoming an investigation of the department and the work which has been done in the city.

The general committee of the hillside clubs alleged that the business of the board had been conducted in a careless manner; that there had been a useless waste of money; that the department has no ample, definite system; that improvident contracts have been entered into; that second hand pipe was purchased at more than the market price of new pipe of the same size, and that the water rates are unequal and unfair, working an injustice to the small consumer.

The communication was referred to the water and light committee of the city council, which reported to the council last week that under the charter the council, has evidently nothing to do with the making of water rates. Upon the recommendation of the committee the matter was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to the powers of the council as to adjusting rates and making the investigation asked by the improvement clubs.

City Clerk Harry W. Cheadle, senator from the Fifty-first district, will send in his resignation as clerk tonight. His duties at St. Paul during the session of the legislature will not allow him to take care of the work devolving upon the city clerk. C. S. Palmer, deputy clerk will be elected to fill the unexpired portion of his term, which ends in March. At that time it is probable that Mr. Cheadle will be re-elected city clerk.

The council is scheduled to take some action upon the proposition of giving work to the unemployed at the Point of Rocks. It was laid over a week ago. The Associated Charities sent in a communication stating that men frequently come to officers claiming that they can get nothing to do. They want to send them to the Point of Rocks to work, in return for which they will be given tickets entitling them to something to eat and a place to sleep. What is asked of the council is that it furnish the hammers and a man to supervise the work.

INCREASE IN ESTIMATES

Engineering Department Figured on Many Improvements During Past Year.

Much Work, for Which Estimates Were Made, Will Not Be Done.

During the year 1910 the city engineering department prepared estimates for improvements to cost $2,463,224.93. This is a gain of $433,436.14 over the year previous, despite the recommendation made to the council by the mayor that so many estimates of work which is not likely to be done in a reasonable time, should not be called for by the various aldermen.

A large fraction of the work for which estimates of cost and quantities were prepared was not done. Part of it may be finished next year and part of it will never be touched. These estimates are only one branch of the work which has to be taken care of each year by the city engineering department.

Upon the basis of the amount allowed the department and the total of the estimates prepared, the cost of running the department was but 1 per cent. If it were possible to reduce the other work to a cash basis the percentage cost would be less than that, small as it is. The figures show that the engineering department is conducted on an economical basis, particularly when the figures are compared with those of other engineering departments or engineering firms.

Among the jobs for which estimates were prepared last year were the paving of Grand avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west, $66,000; Woodland trunk sewer, $138,352; grading East Sixth street between Second avenue east and Cascade street, $16,000; Tischer's Creek bridge, $20,000; paving Colorado avenue, $30,000; improving East Fourth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-seventh avenues, $35,000; improving East Fourth street between Fourteenth and Twenty-third avenues, $90,000; paving Garfield avenue, $100,000, and improving East Fifth street between Fourteenth and Woodland avenues, $40,000.

NOT AUTHORIZED TO TAKE DEPOSITS

Duluth Postoffice Has Not Been Designated Postal Savings Office.

Postmaster A. P. Cook has received a letter and $3 from a resident of Glenwood, Minn., who evidently thinks that a postal savings bank has been established in Duluth. It is expected that the Duluth office will be established as a postal savings office in the near future, but for the present only one office in each state has been designated a postal savings office as an experiment by the department. Bemidji is the office in Minnesota.

If the postal savings plan works out satisfactorily in the places where it is now on trial, the system will be extended to include the larger cities.

Since the department inaugurated the experiment of making one postoffice in each state a postal savings office, many people have understood that every postoffice is authorized to receive savings. Such is not the case and until the results of the experiment are determined, only those offices now receiving savings will be thus qualified.

RAILROADS

CONFERENCE ON BERTH RATES

Pullman Representatives and Railroad Men Arrange for New Schedule.

At a passenger meeting being held in Chicago today, some definite arrangements will be made between the Pullman car people and the representatives of the railroads, in regard to the application of the berth rates which have been ordered by the interstate commercial commission.

Several Duluth railroad men received notice to be present at the meeting, but as far as it is known at the present time, there is not a Duluth man present. Mart Adson was to have left last evening for the meeting but delayed going because of the prospect of a serious tieup in traffic.

It is expected that definite arrangements will be made at the meeting, which will enable the placing in effect of the rates the first of next month. The sleeping berth rates cover a very wide range of territory, and the meeting of the Western railroad men was called for the purpose of lining up all the roads. While the Duluth roads are not represented by some of the local officials, passenger representatives in Chicago will make arrangements which will cover the Duluth territory.

TRESPASSERS KILLED.

Campaign By Pennsylvania Road to Educate the Public.

New York, Jan. 9.—Trespassing on the Pennsylvania railroad system's property in violation of the law has caused the deaths of 7,996 people—approximately two a day—since Jan. 1, 1900. In the same time 7,838 people have been injured as a result of trespassing. These facts are brought out in the records up to Jan. 1, 1911.

In 1907, when 916 people were killed while trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property, the management of that company inaugurated a campaign to educate the public to the dangers of trespassing. The co-operation of city and county authorities was invited, and wide publicity was given to the efforts the company was making to put an end to this evil which was annually costing so many people their lives. As a result of the efforts of its officers and employes, the number of trespassers killed on the Pennsylvania railroad in 1908 was 743, a reduction of 173, or more than 18 per cent. The railroad's activities in this direction were redoubled in 1909 and again was the death roll from trespassing reduced to 633, or about 15 per cent. There has been a reduction of 36 per cent in the last four years, as records for 1910 just completed show that 585 deaths resulted from trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property.

In waging war on trespassing, the Pennsylvania management has posted its right-of-way with signs warning people against using railroad tracks as thoroughfares. Division officers have co-operated with their local newspapers in giving publicity to the awful results of trespassing. The general managers of the different lines of the system have been unceasing in calling to the attention of their staff officers the necessity for showing the public that while it is a rare occurrence that pasengers on trains suffer any injury, it is equally true that thousands of people trespassing on railroad property in violation of the law are killed every year, or are maimed for life.

SCHENK TRIAL IS ON AT WHEELING

Woman Charged With Attempting to Poison Millionaire Husband.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 9.—The trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, charged with attempting to poison her millionaire husband, John O. Schenk, opened at 9 o'clock this morning. The greatest interest was manifested in even the preliminary to the famous case, owing to the prominence of the parties involved. Guards were stationed at each of the doors, allowing only a crowd which comfortably filled the room to pass inside. Judge L. S. Jordan, who is presiding, is of mature years and does not believe in sensations. He has ordered that there shall be no crowding in the courtroom and only such spectators as can be comfortably seated will be permitted to hear the testimony. The examination of jurymen was at once begun.

SEATTLE HAS A FIERCE STORM

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 9.—Much damage was done in Seattle by the terrific storm which swept from Alaska with a fifty mile wind last night. Plate glass windows were broken, telephone and telegraph and electric light poles were blown down and shipping on Puget Sound and the Strait of Juan de Fuca was at a standstill.

Thirty passengers on the lake steamer Fortuna were at the mercy of the gale when a steam pipe burst and the vessel was helplessly drifting before the storm on Lake Washington. Fortunately, the steamer Dorothy came along in time to take the Fortuna in tow.

Strength Comes

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest.

A Tablet Digests a Meal. Trial Package Free.

Most people eat most foods without discrimination—it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn on the road to dyspepsia. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the unquestioned causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison throughout the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of poison. What else can be expected? If the food lies in the stomach, if the system is constipated, fermentation is the natural outcome. It shows itself in sour watery risings, belchings, heartburn and painful breathing.

There is only one way to relieve this condition. If the stomach refuses to digest your food put something into it that will. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nothing but digestives. They are not a medicine. They work when the stomach will not.

Each tablet contains enough pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive elements to reduce 3,000 grains of ordinary food to the proper consistency for assimilation into the blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are absolutely pure. There is nothing harmful in them as shown in their indorsement by 40,000 physicians in the United States and Canada.

Ask your family physician his opinion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and if he is honest toward you he will state positively that they will cure your stomach trouble whatever it may be, unless you have waited too long and have allowed your disorder to develop into cancer.

Act today and begin to end your suffering. A free trial package will be sent to your address upon request. The 50-cent size packages are for sale at your druggist's. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TWO JUDGES ARE NAMED

K. E. Leighton and J. A. Coffey Appointed By Governor Burke.

North Dakota Legislature Will Meet Again Thursday Afternoon.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John Burke of North Dakota, in appointing K. E. Leighton of Minot and J. A. Coffey of Courtney to the district court judgeships in the Fifth and Eighth districts, adds to the already long string of very important appointments made during his tenure of office. Both of the new judges will commence their work today and because of the large number of cases that have filed up, they will be kept exceedingly busy for some time to come.

Mr. Leighton, who is 39 years of age, was born in Missouri and went with his parents to Iowa in 1877. In 1893 and 1894 he taught school and began the practice of law in 1897. He came to Minot, N. D., in 1900. He is married and has three children. The newly appointed judge is a Republican.

Judge Coffey was born in North Carolina on July 4, 1852. He went to Idaho in 1887. His law education was gained in the law college of the University of Minnesota, from which he graduated in 1900. His way turough college was gained by work during vacations. In the year of his graduation from the Minnesota university he was admitted to the practice of law in St. Paul, Minn. For a time he was connected with the legal and loan departments of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee. In 1902 Mr. Coffey came to North Dakota and located in Courtney. He has been affiliated with the Democratic party in this state and in 1908 was a candidate for the state senate on that ticket.

Legislature to Reconvene.

Committees of both houses will be announced Thursday afternoon when the assembly reconvenes, and with the announcement of these committees the work of the session will quickly be placed under way.

One of the first orders of business for consideration in the senate is a resolution introduced by Senator J. G. Gunderson, asking for an investigation of the expenditures of the state game and fish board of control. There appears no opposition to its passage. After the senate passes on the question the concurrent resolution goes to the house and before the investigation can be finally ordered, several days will have elapsed. That will necessitate a change in the time in which the committee is to make its report. The present resolution fixed the twentieth day of the session as the time at which the report should be made, but inasmuch as ten days of the session will have been passed before the resolution can be considered, more time will be granted.

Inspection of Liquors.

The so-called Wineman bill, providing for the inspection of liquors shipped into the state, the inspection to be made under the direction of the pure food department, will be introduced at the present session again. It was before the assembly two years ago, but was defeated.

In this bill it is proposed to make an inspection for the purpose of determining whether or not the liquor meets up with the pure food requirements. In addition, provision is made for a report by the department to the state's attorney of the county to which the liquor is shipped, such provision being for the purpose of giving assistance to the state in locating unlawful dealers in liquor. By receiving names of the men to whom the liquor is being shipped, the state's attorney would be placed in a position where he could quickly locate parties receiving unusual quantities of the forbidden product.

Another feature of the bill, one that is used quite freely in urging its passage, is the fee collection section. It is declared that the state could collect a fee that would be entirely constitutional, and that would add materially to the annual revenue of the commonwealth. A law similar to the one proposed is in operation in Missouri.

Memorial.

A joint memorial assembly for the late United States Senator Martin N. Johnson of North Dakota, very likely will be held Saturday of this week. Arrangements for the memorial will be made immediately after the recess in the present expectations are that Justice Burleigh F. Spalding of the supreme court will deliver the address. The memorial service will be held just five days less than two years from the time that he was elected by the assembly to the United States senatorship; and just five days before his successor, Congressman A. J. Gronna, is to be elected.

The National Guard.

North Dakota's National Guard, its work in the last two years and its present condition, together with a statement of legislative needs, are included in the biennial report of Adjt.-Gen. Peake make public Saturday afternoon.

According to this report there are 763 men in the guard of which 716 are of the First Infantry, the remaining thirty-eight being members of the field artillery. The personal staff of the governor consists of nine aides-de-camp, three detailed by him from the commissioned officers of the active list having the temporary rank of colonel, and six without restriction as to source of selection with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

During the past two years there have been no changes in the organization of the guard; no companies have been mustered out and none have been added to the establishment. It should be possible in the near future, the report says, to add a hospital corps and a machine gun platoon to the present infantry regiment which would complete its quota of organizations.

The past two years have seen a marked advance in the condition of the organized militia. The policy of completing the equipment of the organizations along the lines laid down by the war department has been steadily carried on and the coming calendar year will see the present organizations, with the exception of Battery A completely equipped for field service.

The report takes up the work in the camps of instruction at Devils Lake in 1909 and at Camp Bruce E. McCoy, Sparta, Wis., in 1910; also it tells of the work of the militia in 1909 at the state fair at Grand Forks and in 1910 at the state fair at Fargo.

Rifle Practice.

Discussing rifle practice Adjt. Gen. Peake says:

"There has been a considerable improvement in practice by the various companies and attentionn is being given to that branch of military instruction. As rapidly as possible suitable ground is being leased at or near the company stations and funds appropriated by congress to the extent of $2,000 per annum are being expended in paying rentals on these ranges and properly equipping them with targets, range houses and telephones. Gallery practice is being provided for in the armories, and requisition has been made for complete equipment for each company along that line."

The armory law passed in 1907 and reaffirmed in 1909 has resulted in the building of armories at five of the company stations prior to Jan. 1, 1909. The state aid available for armories in 1909 had already been expended and armories built to cover the same in 1908. These appropriations were paid during 1909. In September the armory of Company I at Wahpeton was dedicated and is a very complete and well equipped building, costing $17,000. The second company designated for 1910 was Company H of Jamestown, but only the foundation has been laid up to the present time. The contract has been let, however, for the completion of the structure by Aug. 15 of this year. The completion of this building will leave six companies still to be equipped.

To Get State Aid This Year.

Company F of Mandan and Company D of Minot are the organizations that have been designated to receive the state aid in 1911, and it is expected that they will complete their armories during the year. The companies that will remain without armories at the end of this year will be Company E of Williston, Company B of Fargo, Company M of Devils Lake and Company C of Grafton. The last named company has an armory building which was bought some years ago. It is believed that Jan. 1, 1914 will see the First North Dakota infantry established in its own armories.

During the biennial period the state has received either in cash or equipment and clothing from the United States government $85,466.83. The appropriation of state funds has been $67,000, of which $47,000 was for armory rent and allowances, camp and similar expenditures, $5,000 was for the improvement of the Rock Island military reservation, and $15,000 for the construction of armories. No report is made as to the expenditure of the $5,000 on the Rock Island military reservation, the military board having failed as yet to place the report in the hands of the adjutant general.

The legislative recommendations contain an increase in clerk hire from $1,000 to $1,500; that salary and clerk hire be paid from the general fund; that the capitol maintenance be charged with supplying the office of the adjutant general with supplies as are available for other offices maintained in the capitol; a sufficient appropriation for the military reservation improvement work, and the making of the adjutant general an ex-officio member of the military board.

$600 PER ANNUM TO KEEP PAUPER

Crow Wing County Board Is Roundly Scored By Public Examiner.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Public Examiner A. Schaefer has called the attention of the county board of Crow Wing county to various matters which need correction.

His most scathing criticism is directed to the poorhouse and he states that "attention has been called to the extravagance of your county in caring for the poor. A comparative table made up by the board of control shows that the cost per capita of caring for the persons in your poorhouse is the biggest in the state, being almost $600 per annum. The cost per capita in Ramsey county is something less than $100 per annum, and the average for the whole state is only about $170. While the cost in Ramsey county is extraordinarily low, owing to a very efficient management, $4 per week, or a little over $200 per year, is all that it should cost anywhere for the care of a pauper. This, of course, leaves out medical attendance, which is excluded in all of above figures, and also all permanent improvements in connection with poorhouse.

Costing $12 Per Week.

"You are paying almost $12 a week for the inmates of your poorhouse, which is a crime against the taxpayers of the county. There are not many of the taxpayers themselves who do or can afford to spend that much per capita for the living expenses of their families. For the past year there has been an average of two inmates per month in the poorhouse, and to maintain a poorhouse for that number is a gross extravagance.

"Attention is called to the increase of salary given the chairman of the county board, granted at a meeting in April, 1910, which was not proper, as the law requires such increases, if any, to be made at the first meeting each year. The court commissioner has not renewed his bond. The county auditor has failed to complete the filings in all assessment books. The balance should be completed at once. The auditor and treasurer have not complied with the laws. The tax lists are not proven as required by the department. The commissioners' proceedings of April, 1910, are unsigned. The county board has failed to make the proper examination of the county treasury. Jurors in justice courts are still allowed mileage contrary to law. This matter was called to the attention of the county commissioners a year ago. Section 4865 makes the allowance of false claims a felony and as they have been advised of the illegality of this allowance, the action of the board in continuing it is a flagrant violation of law. The county attorney should collect from the city of Brainerd the amount due the county on liquor licenses."

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Gas, Hartburn, Dyspepsia and All Misery in Stomach Vanish.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipaion, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waitng for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

WIN SECOND GAME ALSO

Portage Lake Boys Defeat Duluth By Score of 5 to 1.

Contest Was Well Played---Hockey Has Come to Stay.

Saturday evening the strong Portage Lake hockey team took the second contest from the Duluth Curling club team, the score standing 5 to 1 in favor of the Michiganders.

If the first contest was a hummer, the second was even more so. It was featured by the aggressive work of the Duluth boys in both periods, the superb defense of the Portage Lake lads, their great shooting and the fast play of both teams.

As in the first contest, Bartlett was the only one of the Duluth players to score. He shot a beautiful goal from a difficult angle from a pass he received. On several occasion it looked as if the Duluth boys would score, but the great work of Goal Haug and Cover Point Linder prevented the local bunch from adding to their score.

Hockey has come to stay. The two games have firmly convinced the Duluthians of the royal sport there is in it. Hockey has made a hit in this city, and even if the Duluth boys lost the two games, the Duluth fans still believe that they have the making of a great team, and that it is more from lack of experience than inherent inability, that the local boys did not defeat Portage Lake, one of the best teams in the country today.

One detail of play has been emphasized clearly by the two games. The local boys do not get the puck away fast enough, are inclined to dribble too much and lack the team work and shooting ability of the visitors. The Duluth boys were about as good skaters as the Portage Lake crowd, and Fenton has few superiors as a goal tender, but in team work and combination play, as well as stick handling and shooting, the visitors plainly had it on the Duluth boys.

And this is not to be wondered at. These boys have played hockey since they were in public schools and have had the teaching of some of the greatest stars of the game. They have been playing as they have been taught since they were school kids, and the result is a highly finished game.

The Duluth boys will learn a whole lot from the two games, and it may be well believed that in the next contest there will be a lot of improvement shown. The curling club has placed a team in the field that the people of this city should be proud of, are proud of in fact, and will give their support to.

Some coaching and more training and Duluth should put up a very strong game. This is what the team will receive, so that improvement is sure to come.

The boys played better hockey in the game of Saturday evening than in the opening game. They were more confident and went after the Portage Lake players from the jump. The playing of big McLaughlin featured the contest, as did the work of Ted McKenzie. Bartlett also put up a sterling exhibition. The blocking of sturdy Cummings proved somewhat of a surprise to the visitors. The Duluth boys made a great showing, and even a better article of hockey will be seen in the next contest.

Let one fact be known—hockey has come to stay, it has made good and has more than pleased the fans.

The lineup of the two teams:

Duluth.		Houghton.
Fenton	g	Haug
McKenzie	p	Linder
McLaughlin	o.p	W. Mahan
Cummings	r	Sicotte
McCrea	l.w	G. Mahan
Bartlett	c	Strout
Clarke	r.w	Exley

Summary: Referee—Roy Deetz. Timekeepers—Ryan and Wuzel. Goal referees—Woods and Cameron. Scores—By Strout, 2; by Sicotte, 2; by Exley, 1; by Bartlett, 1.

GREAT GAME LOOKED FOR

Company A and Adams Indoor Teams Will Clash at Armory.

Company A indoor baseball team, one of the strongest aggregations ever organized in this district, and the strong Adams indoor team, which at the present time disputes the question of supremacy with the militia boys, will clash tomorrow evening at the Armory in a game that should prove a treat to the fans.

The two teams met over a month ago, the game resulting in an 11 to 10 victory for the soldier boys. Since that time the Adams players have been thirsting for revenge. They have believed ever since that game that if given the opportunity, they could reverse the result, and tomorrow the opportunity will arrive.

Both teams have practiced long for the contest, and both teams are in good condition. The game is expected to be one of the most interesting and exciting played at the Head of the Lakes for a number of weary weeks, for the boys are rather petulant over the rival claims of superiority and will be upon their toes every minute of the fray.

The game will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by dancing. It is expected that the largest crowd of the season will be on hand as the game has been looked forward to since the announcement was made some time ago that the two teams would play a return game.

Who Was the Greatest Sprinter of Them All? Battling Nelson Is Acting Like a Peevish Schoolboy —Bat Masterson and His Autobiography.

(BY BRUCE.)

Who was the greatest sprinter who ever breasted the tape?

Any time you ask this question there will be a fine argument started. Athletes and followers of the cinder path activities of the golden past, have many opinions as to the fastest boy who ever sped over the cinders.

Many followers of amateur athletes will say that Bernie Wefers, the tall and Apollo like athlete of Georgetown college, was the best all around flyer the American cinder paths have ever produced. Wefers was a demon from forty yards to the 300-yard mark, something very unusual.

Followers of Western athletics will make an awful yell for John V. Crum. This chap was the son of an Iowa banker. He first attracted attention in the Western intercollegiate meet, later going East and beating the best of the college sprinters in that part of the country.

The first time Mike Murphy laid his eyes on Crum, he stated that the boy must be a professional, so well did he run, and so finished was his stride. Johnny learned some of his ability from the famous "Cucko" Collins, the famous professional sprinter, and that is as far as he ever came to being a professional.

Wefers was tall and beautifully modeled. He weighed around the 170 pound mark. On the other hand, Crum was short and stocky, and one might have been excused for taking him for a weight man. But, boys, how he could travel those last forty yards of the century.

Jimmie Mayberry, the wonderful little Wisconsin sprinter, a Minnesota boy, by the way, once told the writer that in his opinion Crum was the fastest sprinter ever produced in this country.

"Crum was a gentleman all over and one of the best fellows you ever met," said Mayberry. "The morning of the afternoon I was to run against Crum at Chicago, he took me out and explained the curve of the track to me. He was particular to tell me the best way to get the best speed out of the highly banked turns. Mind, I was his greatest rival, and he didn't know whether he could trim me.

"I thought he was kidding me and resolved to run my own race. When we had gone something like sixty yards in the 100 I heard something pound along beside me and the next thing I knew Crum was flying past. He was one of the fastest men in the world, and he was not right when he ran Wefers in the international games."

Western men will never believe Crum was right that afternoon he raced Wefers, and swear that there would have been a different story had the pride of Iowa had two good legs.

Archie Hahn of Michigan was another great sprinter. He was a little chap, hardly bigger than a coal dealer's conscience, and yet he was the greatest Western sprinter during his four years in college. Wefers will probably be considered our greatest sprinter. He was almost invincible in his day. Mike Murphy always fancied the tall and rangy Georgetown youth, and Murphy's opinions on sprinters is probably the best in this country.

For years America has been king of the cinder path and we have produced the best in the world. Many of you will say that Duffy should be accorded first place in the honor roll of American sprinters. He was the first runner to be accredited with a mark less than 9 4-5 seconds. Yet Duffy could not run strong beyond the 300-yard mark and he was never the consistent performer that Wefers proved during his active years.

Reggie Walker, the famous South African sprinter, is supposed to be one of the fastest men in the world at the present time. Rector, the Virginia youth, gave the Walker man a great brush in the recent Olympian games. Walker has turned professional and spoiled the chances of a meeting between these two men, probably the fastest of the present lot. But again facing the question squarely, it is perhaps true that the majority of track athletics will agree on the statement that for all round ability and brilliant performances, Wefers is entitled to the most consideration from reviewers of the greatest trackmen of the past decade.

Once a great showman stated that it was unwise to give the people too much. That advice has not been heeded in the least by Battling Nelson. He is making more fuss at the present time about his intention of winning the championship, which he will probably never do, than an ancient maiden lady over some particularly pleasing scandal.

Battling Nelson Is Acting Like a Pouting Kid.

Honestly, Bill, the people are getting tired of it. The fighter who says he is never beaten fairly, is the one who will kill his own popularity.. First the Dane stated that he could have gone on in the Wolgast fight and possibly knocked out the German. People who witnessed the fight, stated that it should have been given to Wolgast long before it was. Now Nelson is crying from the housetops that Moran did not knock him out and he was strong and ready to go on.

Bat has had his day, but there is something in his nature akin to the braying ass. The public have treated this boy pretty well. They have brought out the cream and the family preserves and told him to go as far as he liked. The Dane hasn't hesitated in the least, either. Now when his turn has come, he is howling, as Terry McGovern howled the time Young Corbett made him take the count. He isn't making the least part of a hit. We are all getting tired of it.

This is a weakness of man, the inability to see that he has lost out. It started with old Adam. When he was chased to the bench and finally thrown out of the grounds, at the Garden of Eden, he still fondly held on to the hope that he could "Come back." In fact, Adam's attempted "come back" is the earliest there is any history of.

It has gone all the way down, through the tortuous paths of history. J. Caeser, M. Anthony, "Kid" Napoleon, Tom Figg, Carrie Nation, Charles Tawney, J. Adam Bede, and now Roosevelt. The pages of history are filled with these lads. Many have tried and few have succeeded.

Fire-eater Castro and General Jeffries are notable examples of the past chapter of history. Both have failed. Some of the Republican pillars might be included in the list, but space is limited. Nelson is but one of the long list. He should read history and then consult some wise advertising man. He is overplaying the game. Please stop, Mister Nelson, we are all tired of it.

As a moment of colossal conceit, this Bat Masterson, who once acquired a reputation as a Western gun fighter, which any Western man you talk with, looking as insignificant as a turnip with a mean disposition, which has refused to sprout and be useful like the other little turnips.

Bat Masterson One of the Swellest Knockers In the Little Game.

He corresponds for some Western papers, and the stuff he sends out is most about his personal moods, his personal likes and dislikes, mostly the latter, and gentle insinuations as to the greatness of Mr. Masterson.

The personal pronoun I is used so generously by the Bat Masterson person, that his copy in undisturbed style must resemble a forest of pines, barren, bleak and uninteresting. Judging from the things the Masterson man writes of, outside of himself, he does not like anything, anybody, and both food and thought must disagree with him.

Masterson is one of the very prominent "I" artists. He fairly radiates "I's," and also deals liberally in slams and knocks. The world hates a knocker, as a knocker verily hates himself, and therefore if the knocks coming from the pen of this guy, who many will remember wrote some very strong dope on the Jeffries fight, continue to wax nasty, some one should kindly remember that the world continues to move and will move, even after Mons. Masterson has discontinued the business of writing his autobiography.

ADAMSON TO MEET SAILOR

Match Will Be Wrestled Here Next Month---Lehto and Ordemann.

Ed. Adamson, known over the whole length and breadth of the United States as one of the greatest little wrestlers the world has ever produced, has agreed to meet Sailor Jack in this city, some time next month. The meeting with Adamson will determine whether the marine shall meet Young Miller, as Adamson has secured a return match with the little St. Paul demon, and the sailor's showing against Adamson will show his class.

For over a year, since Adamson was here with Billy Schober, the little Broad Ripple, Ind., youth, there has been a clamor for a meeting between Adamson, recognized as the old mat master, and the husky sailor. Now the prospects for a meeting with Miller have brightened, for friends of Jack are positive that he can make a better showing against the veteran than Miller, which will entitle him to a meeting with the little St. Paul man.

By his easy victory over the Jap, out on the Pacific coast, a wrestler who was generally recognized as the coast champion, Jack has shown that he is generally coming into his own. He is today one of the toughest welters in the country, and it will take an awfully good man to beat him.

Duluth followers of wrestling have never seen the marine beaten, and they have witnessed him wrestle some very tough men. The present winter, Jack is wrestling in the best form of his career. He is in the best condition of his mat career, and is confident of his ability to beat Miller. The match with Adamson may prove the stepping stone to the Miller match—a match that the fans at the Head of the Lakes have awaited eagerly for more than a year.

It is expected that Jack will be in Duluth within a few days, when final arrangements will be made for the match with Adamson.

The athletic show the present month will be one of the strongest cards ever put on here. Henry Ordemann, American champion, and a man who has a tremendous following at the Head of the Lakes, as this city was his home for a brief time, will meet Karl Lehto in a finish match.

In addition to the finish match between these two great mat artists, the promoters have made arrangements to show the Gotch-Zbyszko wrestling pictures as a preliminary to the wrestling match.

These pictures received a private tryout at one of the theaters just the other day, so that the local men could see how good they are, and the films are about the clearest ever shown here. They show clearly every detail of the famous world's championship match.

After his match on the range, Lehto will start working out with Joe Carr, the famous middleweight of Hopkins, Minn., and also Young Miller, who will give the husky Finn about the fastest and most scientific education he could possibly get.

It was agreed that the boxers shall weigh 133 pounds upon entering the ring. Wolgast has resumed training at his home in Cadillac, Mich., in order to strengthen his left arm.

FARMER BURNS STILL TALKING

Venerable "Rassler" Says "Gotch Didn't Say Them Words."

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 9.—"Frank Gotch never gave the championship of the wrestling world to Mahmout, the Turk," said Farmer Burns, Gotch's trainer and discoverer, last night. "And what's more, Gotch will eventually wrestle with Hackenschmidt. He has promised me that he would. He don't want that Russian to claim the championship and unless he is downed by somebody else, Gotch has promised that he himself will take a fall out of him.

"The statement that Gotch passed his title of champion to Mahmout is a little farfetched. It is true that Gotch substituted Mahmout for himself in the championship of the world. I guess that Gotch will have to wrestle Hackenschmidt himself, after all. He has promised that if a match cannot be arranged between Hack and the Turk he will see to it that the Russian never becomes champion of the world.

"You will note that the $500 I posted in Omaha as a forfeit in the match between Gotch and Hack has not been withdrawn. It's still on file and those people can make $500 easily if they will only cover it and expect Gotch to back out. The money is still up; it talks pretty loud."

DULUTH IS FOR BARTON

Delegates From This City Will Support Him for President.

The statement in the morning paper that John A. Elliott has recommended Frank Force for the presidency of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league is untrue.

The sporting editor of The Herald wrote to Mr. Elliott, the man who is reported to have come out in favor of Force, and that gentleman has replied that he will have nothing to do with any recommending, as the naming of his successor is purely up to the directors of the league.

At the present time Messrs. Barton and Ritchie are the leading candidates for the place. The facts in the situation are that George A. Barton was the first man even approached with the invitation to become a candidate. Force shied his castor into the arena later.

Duluth was the original town for Barton, and will be for him until the end. If Superior falls in line for the Daily News sporting editor, he will come pretty near landing the place.

FOOTBALL ABOLISHED AT WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY.

Washington, Jan. 9.—George Washington university will not be represented on the gridiron hereafter, according to a notice received by Captain-elect Wayne Hart of the 1911 football team from the board of trustees of the university. The athletic council also has been abolished, and it is believed the institution now will withdraw from all forms of intercollegiate sports. Financial difficulties of the football team, it is said, brought about the action.

McFarland vs. McCarthy.

Kansas City, Jan. 9.— Packy McFarland of Chicago and Johnny McCarthy of San Francisco, lightweights, meet in a 10-round boxing contest at the Hippodrome in this city tonight.

BAD BLOOD
OFTEN INHERITED
Bad blood does not always come as the result of careless living, or indiscretions; it is a condition frequently inherited. Normal, healthy blood contains millions of tiny red corpuscles, which are the vitalizing and nourishing element of the circulation, their office being to provide every portion of the system with its necessary strength and nutriment. In weak, impure blood these corpuscles are lacking in numbers, and therefore the blood is not able to supply the proper amount of nourishment to the body. Bad blood manifests itself in many ways, With some it takes the form of skin diseases and eruptions, others become bilious and malarious, with sallow complexions, torpid liver, etc. Bad blood produces Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula and like troubles. Nothing is equal to S. S. S. as a remedy for bad blood; it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing not only the qualities to cleanse and purify the blood, but composed of roots, herbs and barks that tone up every part of the system, and assist in the creation of blood nutriment. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Blood Poison and all other blood disorders. S. S. S. makes good blood, and good blood makes good health. EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office forthe benefit of curlers only.

STEPHEN H. JONES, WILFRED KIICHLI, FRANK PIERCE AND HARRY HURDON,
Probably the Greatest Bunch of Curlers in the Local Club.

If Frank Pierce wants to continue curling with this rink he had better get a job with the curling club. He is the only member of the rink who does not hold an office. Stephen H. Jones is president, Kilchli is secretary, and Harry Hurdon is president of the Northwestern Curling association.

This is the "Old Soldiers'" rink. Individually they used to curl fairly well years ago, and they claim that they are still capable of "coming back." The best way is to humor them and allow them to think that they can curl.

"Steve" Jones might be called an antique curler. He uses an unwashed method of starting off his stones. He is a better toastmaster than he is a curler. For years "Steve" was one of the best leads in the rink. He is now on the skip. It might have been better if he had remained a lead for as we have said before, he was a good lead. He is greatly interested in a new home for the club and favors the central winter amusement place where there would be skating, hockey, ski jumping and all other winter sports. He never loses an opportunity to boost for the new club.

Kilchli can't curl hard enough to keep warm. He admits that every time he goes on the ice, he catches cold. But as a secretary, "Kitch" is the candy. Many favorable remarks have been passed among the members of the rink on his work as secretary of the club.

Frank Pierce is usually out of the event contests early. He likes to win practice games, but when it comes to the regular contests, he always finishes with one contest. He hates jewelry, anyway.

And here we have Harry Hurdon, the man who in kilts and with fur about his lower anatomy, was the sensation all over England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales last season. They tried to book Harry over the foreign circuit this year, but he was offered a better thing to play a winter engagement at home. He is a mighty frisky curler and was an original member of the Smile club. Last year he won so many games in the bonspiel that Tucker of Pardeeville says he won't play this year if Hurdon is in the game. It isn't possible to make light of Hurdon's curling. When it comes to the great Scotch game he is all to the mustard and you have to give it to him. There is at least one real curler in this rink, anyway.

HUGGINS LED IN FREE PASSES

St. Louis Man and Johnny Evers Hardest Batters to Pitch to.

Miller Huggins, second baseman of the St. Louis club, received more bases on balls last season than any other player in the National league. The official record compiled by Secretary John A. Heydler shows that Huggins drew 116 passes in 151 games, while Johnny Evers of Chicago, who played in twenty-six less contests, was given 108 bases on balls, and probably was the hardest man in the league to pitch to.

The players who struck out oftenest last season was John Hummel of Brooklyn. He fanned eighty-one times.

Lobert of Cincinnati, who is to be with Philadelphia this year, was charged with only nine strike-outs in ninety games.

Magee, the leading batsman in the National, fanned thirty-six times.

Huggins was St. Louis' best pass collector; Evers, Chicago's; Bridwell, New York's; Bescher, Cincinnati's; Magee, Philadelphia's; Byrne, Pittsburg's; T. Smith, Brooklyn's; Sweeney, Boston's.

In strike-outs, Ellis led St. Louis; Devore, New York; Schulte, Chicago; Bescher, Cincinnati; Doolan, Philadelphia; Wilson, Pittsburg; Hummel, Brooklyn, and Beck, Boston.

WILL GOTCH WRESTLE HACK?

Indecision of Iowan Nettles Public---Latest Rumor of Fickle Fraud.

Has Frank Gotch retired?

Will someone kindly tell?

One day he is through with the mat game forever; the next day we hear that he is going to train and come back to the game. The latest says his bride-to-be has consented to permit Frank to work at his profession, and that the able Iowan will start training in Chicago for his theatrical work.

Every wrestling fan in the country hopes Gotch will come out. It is to be hoped that he will meet Hackenschmidt. This giving the title to Mahmout is a grim piece of humor. He was thrown by Gotch in something like six minutes, wasn't it? Well, Gotch didn't throw Hackenschmidt, did he? When all is said and done, Hack is the boy the public would like to see Gotch wrestle.

The public would also like to know whether the pride of Humboldt, Iowa, is going to wrestle or is merely kidding. The sooner the public knows the more interest there will be in the match that many hope will be arranged.

The following dispatch from Chicago is the latest on the coy indecision of Gotch:

"Chicago, Jan. 9.—Lured by the glare of popularity's spotlight and with the consent of his wife-to-be, Frank Gotch, world's champion mat artist, is 'coming back.' Not to wrestle in defense of his title, however. Far be it from Gotch to turn so quickly on his past determinations. But the champion wrestler is going back to a daily turn before the footlights—a mere 'forerunner'—and is now under contract to follow the word of the 'call board' for ten weeks.

"Manager Hirk of a local theater returned yesterday from Humboldt, Iowa, and made it known that Gotch would be here, opening the week of Jan. 15. The decision to return to training can mean but one thing, and that is that the title-holder will figure in a championship bout before long.

"According to Hirk, Gotch, when informed that his title had been claimed by Mahmout, let it be known in no uncertain terms that he still holds the honors, and until they fall from his shoulders in defeat he will not relinquish the claim. Gotch will be married at Humboldt on Jan. 11 and will start the same night for Chicago, arriving here the next day."

CONFERENCE WITH CHIEFS

Representative of Secretary Ballinger in Northern Minnesota on Indian Matters.

Investigating Complaints of Red Men, But Has Nothing to Do With "Lid."

In order to learn actual conditions among the Red Lake band of Indians who have made complaint with the interior department that they are not being allowed sufficient funds from their credit account with the government to live on, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger has sent a personal representative to Minnesota to meet some of the chiefs. A conference is being held at Bemidji today between W. R. Logan, Mr. Ballinger's representative, and the leaders of the tribes. Mr. Logan will leave Bemidji this evening, proceeding direct to Washington to make his report.

Mr. Logan, known in the Indian service as Maj. Logan, having for years been agent of the Fort Belknap, Mont., and other tribes, was here yesterday, leaving last night for Bemidji. Before coming to Duluth the major spent a couple of days at Cloquet and the Fond du Lac Indian reservation, conferring with lumber concerns having the contract for cutting timber on the reservation.

When asked at the St. Louis hotel last night whether his visit to Minnesota had anything to do with the "lid" question, Mr. Logan replied emphatically in the negative, saying that was outside of his jurisdiction. He said the secretary wanted direct information about conditions on the Red Lake reservation and sent him to Minnesota to meet the chiefs. Incidentally he looked after some of the timber cutting business.

Besides being one of Secretary Ballinger's right hand men, Mr. Logan is also superintendent of the National Glacier park, recently created by congress in Northern Montana, but laughingly admitted last night there was not much doing in that line in winter, so he was living in Washington doing a little special work for the secretary. Mr. Logan declined to discuss the probable outcome of the Ballinger inquiry and discreetly shied when asked what he thought of the Minnesota lid.

Maj. Logan is one of the pioneers of Montana and prior to entering the Indian service lived in Helena. His father, Maj. Logan, U. S. A., lost his life in the famous battle with the Nez Perc Indians at the Big Hole, in Beaverhead county, Montana, when Chief Joseph and his band made their sensational raid off the reservation in 1877. The officer and a large number of men were killed. A snaft erected by congress bearing the names of the victims marks the spot of the great battle.

accounts, and $9,700 was so deposited and $8,670 withdrawn between Jan. 1, and Dec. 1, 1910.

That the only office evidence of these transactions are the stub of the check book, the bank statements, and canceled checks.

That on the secretary's ledger the name M. T. Dunn, treasurer in 1910, has not yet been substituted for that of E. L. Mattson, former treasurer.

That an invoice for $110.26 from E. B. Morrison, for merchandise sold and services rendered the fair, approved and paid by personal check of C. N. Cosgrove on the Northwestern National bank, is typical of methods in use.

That officers' salaries were overpaid last year by $50, and the $50 afterward returned and credited to miscellaneous receipts.

That the stubs of the secretary's receipt book furnish the only office evidence of payments of money to the secretary.

That checks received are indorsed over to the treasurer, but currency is generally deposited to the personal account of Laura M. Cox and a check on the account forwarded to the treasurer.

No Cash Book Kept.

That no cash book, as such, is kept by the secretary or his assistant, which would show the receipts and disbursements of money at the secretary's office.

That Laura M. Cox also keeps a personal account in the First National bank, St. Paul, and occasionally pays obligations of the Minnesota State Agricultural society from this account, and reimburses herself from time to time, as the society's check vouchers are signed up and paid.

That the president of the society does not sign the approval of the minutes of the meetings and only the secretary signs them.

That four records of the minutes of meetings are not signed at all.

That records of the meetings of Oct. 25, Nov. 29 and Dec. 8 are in a loose leaf book and have not yet been transferred into the regular minute book of the society.

Accounts in Pencil.

That B. F. Gregory, superintendent and manager of the amusements, has transactions with the society relating to the loan to Mr. Gregory of lamps to be used at Spokane, and other items, and his account with the society appears in lead pencil.

That the secretary states that the lamps loaned Mr. Gregory were returned, but no notice to that effect appears in the official meetings of the board of managers.

That in the "private ledger," kept by Laura M. Cox, Mr. Cosgrove is charged with the purchase from the society of wire, Nov. 1, and the assistant said she had not yet obtained the data regarding the transaction to complete the entry.

That tornado insurance for $25,000 is carried on the reinforced concrete grandstand.

The board of audit makes numerous suggestions to the board of managers of the fair for the change of conditions that permit the irregularities reported. The investigation was made by order of the governor and upon statement of five members of the board that there were unfavorable rumors in circulation with regard to the business methods employed. Governor A. O. Eberhart said that he would go to the bottom of the matter. These five members of the board were E. J. Stillwell, Minneapolis; George Atchison, Mankato; Robert Crickmore, Owatonna; C. P. Craig, Duluth, and F. W. Murphy, Wheaton.

To Serve New Commerce.

In order to serve the new commerce which it is expected the canal will open for the Southern states, it is provided that if more than one line is established from the North Atlantic coast, one of the lines shall touch at least one port south of Cape Charles for mail, passengers and freight on the outward and homeward passages.

A provision, which is new in subsidy bills, forbids the award of any contract for an ocean mail line to any bidder engaged in competitive transportation by rail or in the business of exporting or importing merchandise. Moreover, the postmaster general is directed to cancel any contract, the performance of which shall "rest within the control of any competitive railroad company, or any person or persons in control of the same through stock ownership or otherwise." The postmaster general is directed also to cancel any contracts held by any person who gives undue preference to any particular person, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic.

Not to Exceed $4,000 000.

The total expenditure in any one year under the bill is not to exceed $4,000,000, and shall not, in any case, exceed the amount of revenue received from the foreign mail service over and above the amount otherwise paid for such service.

The framers of the bill believe that it will break the present monopoly in ocean transportation between the United States and the principal countries of South America. It is regarded as likely to create at least two lines from the Atlantic coast to Brazil and Argentina, and a line from Puget sound and San Francisco to Panama and the West coast of South America. These new services would require the construction of from twenty to thirty steamships capable of a speed of at least sixteen knots an hour, and with a gross tonnage of from 8,000 to 12,000 tons, built on designs approved by the navy department.

Under the terms of the contracts, the ships would have to be turned over to the United States in times of war. Not one American ship is now running on any of the routes covered by the bill.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The entire country is shoveling snow today. Yesterday's snow and the precipitation of Saturday night was the heaviest of the year nearly everywhere. Snow is predicted for tonight and the temperatures will be slightly warmer.

Following tonight's predicted precipitation, the weather will turn colder and by the middle of the week it is expected that the entire country will be experiencing a severe cold wave which is now sweeping down from the Northwest. It will reach the Atlantic coast by the latter part of the week.

A year ago the weather was cold and "snappy," and the sky was clear.

The sun got up this morning at 7:53 o'clock and it will set this afternoon at 4:38 o'clock.

Commenting on the weather, Forecaster Richardson said:

"Low pressure areas central this morning over New Brunswick and Eastern Washington caused snow or rain over all of Canada, north Pacific states, the lake region, North Atlantic and Southeastern states during the last twenty-four hours, besides warmer weather along the Atlantic coast, and over the Dakotas and the Far West. High pressure conditions central over the Mississippi valley and Northern Alberta have caused much colder weather in the lake region, Central valley states and in Central and Western Canada. Zero temperatures prevail in Western Canada, Minnesota and Western Wisconsin, but warmer weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes this afternoon and tonight.

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Snow tonight and Tuesday.

Wisconsin—Generally fair weather tonight and Tuesday, except snow in extreme north portion; rising temperature.

Minnesota — Increasing cloudiness with snow tonight or Tuesday; warmer in east portion tonight; colder in west portion Tuesday.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness tonight becoming unsettled Tuesday; warmer tonight and in east portion Tuesday.

North Dakota—Snow tonight and Tuesday; colder; cold wave in west portion.

South Dakota—Unsettled weather with snow tonight and Tuesday and in north portion tonight.

Montana—Snow tonight and Tuesday; cold wave; high northerly winds.

Shippers forecast—Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures zero to 20 deg. above in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

three and four feet, along the right-of-way and it was necessary to work all available snow plows to permit of the resumption of traffic, this morning.

When the officials of the road saw this condition at Marquette and the Soo, and received telegraphic reports of the conditions at the various points along the line, it was decided that it would be useless to send out trains on their scheduled trips. The order went over the line to suspend all traffic operations, with the result that not a train moved yesterday.

Just how well the trains will fare today, is not known as the present time by the local officials of the South Shore. While lateness of trains may be expected, it is not believed that the trains will be held up, for reports received here state that the track is fairly well cleared of the drifts that have blocked progress for the past twenty-four hours.

The South Shore trains are not the only ones to suffer from the effects of the severe blizzard, which apparently has covered the entire Northwest. This morning the Omaha train from Chicago was two hours and a half late, while the Soo train that was due nearly two hours behind its running time.

Northwestern officials report bad track conditions over almost the whole of the territory between here and Chicago and at the Soo office it is also reported that the drifting snow has made fast running very difficult in most stretches of the road between here and points near Chicago.

Telegraphic dispatches add even more than the reports received from the local railroad wires. A dispatch from the Copper country states that in some instances the snow covered the tracks to a depth of four or five feet. The dispatch, however, states that the storm in the Upper peninsula yesterday has subsided, which will naturally give the railroad men an opportunity to get traffic back to normal conditions.

Reports of the Great Northern's condition between here and the Twin Cities state that the snow has not drifted so badly, though in the vicinity of Sandstone there are a few heavy drifts.

Only one of the Northern Pacific trains was late, the Staples train, due here at 8:15 this morning, being delayed until 11 o'clock. As far as it is known at the present time, none of the trains due here later in the day are behind their schedule time.

While the storm has been general in its nature, according to reports received here, the territory penetrated by the Chicago and Copper country roads seems to have borne the brunt of the storm.

In Duluth itself the storm did little or no damage. There was some difficulty yesterday in keeping the street car lines clear.

Another storm from Eastern Washington is expected in Duluth this afternoon or tomorrow. It will bring snow with it.

It was 11 below zero in Duluth last night. This morning at 7 o'clock it was but 7 below zero. It will become warmer as the day progresses.

At an early hour Sunday morning the wind blew at the rate of forty miles an hour. The actual fall of snow was between five and seven inches.

be arraigned before Judge Cant this afternoon at 5 p. m.

The other indictments returned are against Frank Anderson, Percy Shackelford, Charles Wilson, Tony Delfora, Arvid Laiki, John Crowley and Robert Walden.

Anderson and Arvid Laiki are charged with forgery, the amounts being small in both cases. Percy Shackelford is charged with grand larceny. Charles Wilson is charged with assault. Tony Telfora is charged with child abandonment. John Crowley is charged with robbery in the second degree and Robert Walden is charged with burglary in the third degree.

"We find that Patrolman Harry A. Chesmore came to his death from a bullet fired into the brain from a revolver in the hands of one Charles Melodrowski, the morning of Friday, Jan. 6."

Such was the substance of the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest conducted Saturday afternoon at the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan, by Coroner J. A. McCuen over the body of the murdered officer.

Three witnesses were examined. Dr. Graham described the wounds which had caused his death and Chief Troyer gave the police end of the shooting.

Conductor Dobrowskike, who was in charge of the Duluth-Superior car Friday morning when Patrolman Chesmore was murdered by the boy bandits, contradicts the statement of Melodrowski that he fired the first shot into the floor. He claims that Melodrowski fired point blank at the policeman as he sat opposite them, missing him by a narrow margin. He asserts that the officer then jumped for Melodrowski and received two bullets, one in the top of the head and the other in the breast.

The body of the dead officer was escorted to the depot at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon by a platoon of twenty-four policemen, all of whom were muffled in their big coats with bands of crepe on their arms. The body was shipped to his former home at Janesville, Wis., for interment. It was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. C. E. Moyer; his brother, Fred Chesmore, and Chief of Police Appelby of Janesville.

The floral tributes were beautiful. The local police force sent a large bouquet of roses and the street car employes and the Superior police force sent large wreaths of beutiful design. Many flowers were sent by friends of the dead policeman.

The two boys have been removed to the county jail.

POWER OF A GREAT TRUST

from the other side, by way of defense, of the lawful acquisition, through keen American ingenuity, of tobacco industries. Upon it all depends the proposed dissolution of the American Tobacco corporations as a combination or monopoly in restraint of trade.

J. C. McReynolds was to conclude his opening argument on behalf of the government.

On Friday both bar and court followed him intenly as he described the trade in tobacco, first in the colonial days with rival buyers, coming to the door of the farmers' cabins to barter for the leaf from his tobacco patch, and then in the present day when he described competition in the leaf market as so completely eradicated that the American Tobacco corporations even purchased leaf on a commission for the British "tobacco trust."

"That is as interesting as a fairy tale" said one who had sat under the spell of the speaker to Delancey Nicoll, who was to open the argument for the tobacco corporation.

"It is a fairy tale," remarked Mr. Nicoll, as he jotted down a note for refence in his argument immediately following Mr. McReynolds.

After the history had been concluded there was much speculation as to whether or not the court would ply the attorney with questions, revealing possibly the knotty points, which may have led to the assignment of the case for reargument.

BOTH POISONED.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 9. — Mrs. G. M. Strobaker, wife of the grain elevator superintendent, who was poisoned with strychnine under peculiar circumstances Saturday, is a patient in the same hospital and according to her physicians, is suffering from the same poison. Mr. Strobaker has so far recovered that he probably will be discharged from the hospital within a few days. Physicians say that Mrs. Strobaker has a chance for recovery.

The poison was found by Dr. L. C. Campbell, who had been called to attend strobaker, Saturday, at his place of business. Strobaker was taken violently ill while eating his luncheon. Dr. Campbell found two pieces of bread partially eaten placed together like a sandwich. Between the pieces was found the strychnine. Strobaker is superintendent of the grain elevator, and has charge of about a dozen men, some of whom are foreigners. One of the men recently had been severely reprimanded by Strobaker and on this clue the police are now working.

STRONG BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Delightful Little Picture of German Life Features New Vaudeville Program.

A fat, placid German, Dietrich Dinkelspiel, or in everyday life, Bernard A. Reinold, is the feature of the bill at the Orpheum this week, which compares favorably with the all star Christmas week bill, generally conceded to have been the best the new theater has yet shown.

His wife, Katrina Dinkelspiel or Miss Katerina De Barry, is scarcely less satisfying, but the honors must go to Dietrich. The old German and his wife appear in the sketch "Dinkelspiel's Christmas," which is the headliner for the week, and a headliner it is in fact as well as in name. It is the most delightfully natural little sketch yet presented at the Orpheum, with bright, clean humor, and just the right touch of pathos. The sketch is the work of George V. Hobart, well known as a writer of tabloid dramas, and it tells the story of the return of a wandering son to his parents on Christmas eve. The usual "tear starters" are missing, however. It is not the ordinary messy type of sentimental drama. The son is an Americanized German, a commercial traveler, who has picked up American methods and American slang, and has married an American wife of an ultra modern type, in language at least. The honest old German parents are bewildered by the language of the son, and resent his marriage to an American girl, until the baby appears on the scene, when the German's love for a child overcomes their prejudice. The beauty of the sketch lies in the perfectly natural portrayal of the German character of the two parents. The work of Mr. Reinold and Miss De Barry is entirely free from the ordinary methods of the burlesque school, and is worthy of far more attention than is usually paid to the acting in a modern vaudeville sketch, where action is the prime requisite. They lift the sketch far above the ordinary, by their artistic work.

Bird Millman, the "Eva Tanguay of the Air," is a wonderfully graceful young woman, or girl rather, for she is scarcely more than that. She floats across the wire, does an Eva Tanguay dance apparently in the air. She is assisted by two other clever performers on the slack wire, a young woman and a youth. While they are far above the ordinary, they lack the ease and finish of Miss Millman, who is a truly wonderful performer.

The act which drew the most applause yesterday was that presented by Boudini Brothers, known as "The Wizards of the Accordeon." They have a decidedly novel turn, the accordeon being seldom heard on the vaudeville stage. Few people in the audience yesterday realized the possibilities of the instrument until they heard the Boudini brothers perform. They get the effects of a dozen musical instruments from the accordeon, with all the volume of the pipe organ and the light staccato effects of the flute. Their selections cover a wide range, and the act scored a tremendous hit yesterday, overshadowing even the two feature acts.

Waterbury Brothers and Tenny have an old and familiar act, but that did not prevent it being tremendously popular yesterday. It is a musical turn, but the blackface comedy of Mr. Tenny and the selections they give, make the act more than acceptable.

Marie Fenton is billed as "The Blonde in Black," but she doesn't stay in black, making several rapid changes of costume, each one being more elaborate than the last. She sings popular songs in a popular manner, the biggest hit of the four which she renders, being "Lovin' Joe," a type of the new "dreamy rag," which sets the shoulders of the audience swaying in time.

Mildred Grover has a singing act that is out of the ordinary. She sings a clever topical song, telling of the difference in the way the world is run now and in the days of '61, and then changes to blackface, and gives some old time coon shouting. Her assistant, Dick Richards, fills in between her numbers with some ragtime music that has fringes hanging all over it, and "a trip around the world" which includes the national airs of almost every civilized country. The act is a bright and entertaining little turn.

An act which would be one of the hits of the bill, if it occupied any other position than that of opening the performance, is that presented by Dave Lane and Charles O'Donnell. These two men present a tumbling act that is so far out of the ordinary that it deserves more attention than is usually given the opening act of a gymnastic type. They execute some falls that are sensational in the extreme, using just a plain table and some chairs, and they keep the audience wondering what moment they will break some bones. One of the two men furnishes the comedy, appearing in a tramp makeup.

The overture from "William Tell" is being played by the Bradbury concert orchestra this week, and the moving pictures are interesting.

The bill will continue all week with a daily matinee.

FINE NEW SHOW AT THE EMPRESS

Latest Vaudeville Bill Pleases Three Very Large Sunday Audiences.

There is some real class and genuine merit to the new vaudeville bill which yesterday began a week's run at the Empress theater.

It is one of those performances that catches the audience's interest in the beginning, and holds it until the final drop of the curtain on the last act. The acts are widely different and each one is above the ordinary in its class.

The Three Alex are the headliners this week. These young men are acrobats in every sense of the word. The stunts are done with bewildering rapidity. Their work on the trapeze and their balancing stunts with ladders, are much out of the ordinary.

It is getting so nowadays that all acrobatic acts are about the same. When a stunt of this sort is announced on the program, the audience usually sits back to wait until it is over, hoping that the next will be more welcome. This is not the case with these men. Their act is sensational in the extreme and keeps the spectator leaning forward all the time. That means, of course, that the stunts are dangerous and entertaining.

Billy Barron calls himself the "Joyous Teuton." He plays all kinds of musical instruments and gets away with it in good shape. His performance on the violin is particularly good. With only one string on the instrument, he gets more music out of it than most people could with all the strings in place.

Many tuneful musical numbers are the outcome of the act presented by six Gypsy singers and entitled, "Gypsy Camp Life." Miss Bessie Reynolds, the soprano soloist has one of those rare sweet voices that are seldom heard in a theater. She makes a very good appearance too, and had to sing and show herself in several encore numbers yesterday before the audience would allow her to go. The act abounds in good musical numbers, every member of the troupe being a singer of ability. It is one of the biggest acts put on at the Empress in some weeks.

Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardner in "Dooley and the Diamond," have a sketch that is very funny. Mr. Girard is a brave policeman sent to guard the stone. All kinds of complications result from situations first presented and the act is a laugh from start to finish. Mr. Girard's imitation of a monkey when put under a spell by Miss Gardner, is particularly good.

John Le Fevre and Frankie St. John present an act that is supposed to take place behind the scenes at the theater. It is along the usual lines but the author has instilled enough new stuff into the idea to make it thoroughly enjoyable.

The performance closes with the usual motion pictures which are of more than usual interest.

There will be three performances of the same bill each day throughout the remainder of the week, one in the afternoon and two each evening.

YIDDISH GRAND OPERA COMPANY PLEASES CROWD.

The Yiddish Grand Opera company appeared at the Lyceum theater last night in "Dos Pintele Jud," a musical comedy of decided merit. A fair crowd attended the performance, which was beyond all expectations rich in comedy and excellent music.

Miss Ida Blum, the prima donna of the company, has a pleasing personality and her voice was very well adapted to the music of the production. J. A. Weinstock, who heads the company, has a rich tenor voice that is used to advantage. The minor parts are well taken and S. Gershonsang, who plays the principal comedy role, is an actor of more than ordinary ability.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

Restored to the People of Nicaragua After Ten Years.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 9.—Religious freedom for ten years denied the people of Nicaragua has been restored by an edict issued by President Juan Jose Estrada. A copy of the edict reached this city yesterday. By orders of President Estrada the Moravan mission schools of German Protestant denominations along the east coast of Nicaragua have been permitted to reopen. These schools were ordered closed by Gen. Jose Santos Zelaya almost a decade ago, on the charge that they were disseminating ideas contrary to those of the government, and of a revolutionary character.

Since that time there has been little or no religious freedom in that country.

NEW FURNACE TO BE BUILT

Contract Will Be Let at Meeting of Board of Directors.

Capacity of Zenith Plant Will Be Nearly 500 Tons Daily.

Plans for the new alternate furnace which the Zenith Furnace company of West Duluth will construct this spring at a cost of about $225,000, have been prepared and it is expected that the contract will be let in the course of the next two weeks.

The contract will not be awarded until a meeting of the directors, which as yet has not been called. According to Supt. Fred C. Harris, it is expected that the directors will meet about the middle of January.

The new furnace will have a capacity of 250 tons of pig iron per day, an increase of 50 tons per day over the old furnace now in use. While the company has no plans for operating both stacks at the same time, this may be done if business warrants.

The construction of the second furnace will enable the concern to operate continuously. In the past, it has been necessary to shut down at intervals in order to make repairs and it is desired to avoid this.

If both furnaces are operated at the same time the daily capacity would be close to 500 tons of pig iron.

INSTALLATION OF STATE OFFICERS

Governor Lee Cruce Becomes the Executive of Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 9.—This city witnessed for the first time the installation of state officers when Lee Cruce, as governor, and the other Democratic state officers were inaugurated today.

Immediately after taking the oath of office, Governor Cruce delivered an inaugural address. Governor Cruce said, in part:

"We assert there is nothing radical, or strikingly new in our constitution. We have simply attempted to profit by the experience of others. Oklahoma's constitution is the condensation into a single instrument of the best, and most vital provisions to be found in forty-five state constitutions.

"That operation under the constitution is conducive to good government is established by the unprecedented growth of Oklahoma since statehood.

"During these three years the increase in taxable values has averaged $100,000,000 per year, until now the total taxable wealth of the state approximates $1,000,000,000. This wonderful growth has been accomplished during a period of national financial depression, supplemented by the most merciless and unwarranted attacks of the state's enemies ever witnessed in political history.

"Capital and labor should be friends. Both are sorely needed in the future development of the state and neither shall unduly oppress the other, if I can prevent it."

Another Hot Fight Over Rules Occurs in Congress.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Another hot fight over the rules of the house and another locking of horns between Speaker Cannon and his opponents on the floor came to a head this afternoon.

In ruling on a rules resolution by Representative Fuller of Illinois, the speaker held that the action taken by the house last spring when his power was broken after the famous battle over the Norris resolution "was not a precedent but a revolution." This defiance was answered by an appeal from the decision of the chair. This called for a protracted roll call.

The house sustained the speaker by a vote of 233 to 53. The insurgent Republicans voted to overrule the speaker but got little support from the Democrats.

Chesmore stated that thirteen has always been a hoodoo number with him and although he declared that he is not superstitious, he has always avoided it.

OLD TREATY INOPERATIVE

Claim of Judge Spooner Before U. S. District Court.

Restraining Order Asked By Bemidji Saloon Keepers Is Argued.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Article 7 of the treaty of 1855, under which 2,000,000 acres of land were ceded by the Indians to the United States, became inoperative after the lands had been ceded to the Indians by the government in 1864, was the point taken by Judge Marshall A. Spooner of Bemidji, who argued at length today before Judge Willard in United States district court in favor of the granting of a restraining order asked by twelve saloon keepers of Bemidji to keep Agent Johnson from applying the Indian liquor lid in Bemidji.

Article 7 provides for the continuance in force of laws prohibiting the sale of liquor in Indian country after the adoption of the treaty, on all lands ceded to the United States. Mr. Spooner's argument was that these lands had been ceded back to the Indians by the government in 1864 and had remained in the status of an Indian reserve from 1864 until 1867. The deduction was that these lands could not, during those years, have been subject to the provisions of the treaty of 1855, and that they certainly were not brought back under the terms of the old treaty by the treaty of 1867.

Judge Willard apparently was not quite convinced that the treaty of 1864 was a recession of the Indian lands to the Indians. The terms of the treaty, he reminded Judge Spooner, being that the lands be "set apart" for use of the Indians. Judge Spooner, however, contended that both the treaty of 1864 and 1867 worked out and nullify the effect of Article 7 in the treaty of 1855, containing the lid legislation.

The suit in equity for restraining order was scheduled to be heard in Minneapolis, but as all the parties were ready this morning and Judge Willard had cases to call in St. Paul, the matter was taken up here.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson sat behind United States District Attorney C. F. Houpt, listening eargerly to every word.

Attorney E. E. McDonald of Minneapolis will address the court this afternoon, taking for his special phase of the argument that congress by its own action, has abrogated and annulled the special proviso contained in the treaty of 1855.

It is thought that the argument on both sides will be concluded in court this afternoon.

UNTOLD LEGAL TREASURES.

Suppose that a lawyer, unhampered by lack of time and money, wishes to make exhaustive researches in any field of legal investigation, where in the United States, asks a writer in the Green Bag, can he find the books necessary for his quest?

Unless he be possessed of more information concerning the contents of law libraries than has appeared in print he will waste much time, energy and money before he learns where he can best begin his task.

According to statistics of public, society and school libraries having 5,000 volumes and over in 1908 there are 109 law libraries and fifty-four state libraries in the United States. The latter contain many law books, but the number has not been ascertained.

The 109 law libraries contained in 1908 a total of 1,975,014 bound volumes and 62,125 pamphlets. Of these libraries twenty-eight had over 25,000 volumes and five more than 50,000 volumes.

The largest law libraries in the United States are, according to published reports, Harvard, with 102,826 volumes; New York State Law library, 83,554 volumes; Association of the Bar of the City of New York, 75,722 volumes; New York Law Institute, 67,398 volumes, and Law Association of Philadelphia, 50,223 volumes. (1908 figures.)

In volumes the law libraries of the country are large enough to contain untold treasures, and for the most part their treasures are literally untold. Many catalogues have been issued, and it would be possible to bring these together and compile something like a union list of legal literature. But the result would be unsatisfactory, because printed catalogues are out of date in growing libraries almost before they are printed.

A union list of books in the whole field of law would, moreover, be an unnecessary compilation, since it may be taken for granted that each law library duplicates every other law library along certain well known lines. But to bring out in relief notable collections contained in law libraries is quite another matter.

Special libraries are springing up all over the country. They have been a prominent subject of discussion at recent library conventions and are acquiring a literature of their own.

In harmony with this development the United States Bureau of Education is compiling the statistics of special collections in libraries in the United States. This publication will cover all special collections, no matter in what class they belong, and prominent among them should be special collections of law.

HOW TO TELL A LADY'S AGE.

Lady's Pictorial: We wonder what "punishment will fit the crime" perpetrated by a mere male modern scientist, who claims to have discovered a trick by which the age of any woman in normal health may be ascertained. The only instrument required is an ordinary watch, and the wrist of the lady divulges the secret.

It seems that, in counting her pulse, if it registers sixty-nine beats per minute, her age is between 20 and 28 years old. Another five years seventy-one beats go to the minute, and to the woman of 30 is permitted seventy throbs.

BULLS STILL HOLD REINS

Wheat Advances, Speculators Buying---Cash Markets Firmer---Demand Good.

Weather Severe---Flax Trade Shows Slight Improvement ---Flax Off.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 9.—Wheat advanced again today. May gained ½c and July advanced ½c. Cash was 1c under May instead of 1½c as on Saturday. Durum gained ¼c, oats advanced 1¼c, rye and barley were unchanged.

Flaxseed was lifeless and slightly weak. May lost 1⅛c. The cash market was 4c under May. Receipts continue small and the movement to elevators is practically at a minimum. Interest in the market was absent.

The Lichstern grasp on the wheat situation remained firm today. The situation was entirely speculative and legitimate factors on both sides had little effect. On the hard spot there was undoubtedly considerable selling. Whether it came from scalpers or whether the leading longs were letting go of their stuff while endeavoring to keep values up, is problematical. Whatever was the source of the selling there was a considerable volume of it. Prices have attained the levels which existed three months ago, but prices do not represent the values at which a large line of the long wheat was obtained. Much of it still represents a loss.

The growth of bullish sentiment has been rapid, and the situation has resolved itself into a speculative affair. The buying has been gathering impetus too rapidly for it to maintain the rate of acceleration which it has held for several days. Setbacks are natural, but support has been so consistent that there is no doubt that Lichstern and his associates are temporarily at least in control of the situation. The July delivery in other markets is not inclined to show the strength that obtains in May. The July delivery probably would display greater weakness if the fate of the winter wheat crop was more clearly known. The action of the May option to a smaller extent probably will be determined by climatic conditions, although the speculative reins are firmly held and the guiding hand seems to be in full control at the present time.

Some people thought the top was reached today and they sold heavily on the hard spot. The nervousness of values indicated that the fight was more of a two-sided affair than it has been for some time. Offerings were well absorbed, however, and the market was remarkably strong in the face of the wheat that was dumped upon it. Market conditions are not having much effect and when the situation is entirely speculative the future course of values is nothing other than a guess. There is plenty of wheat and mills are fairly well supplied. In fact they have more wheat in store than is usual at this period of the year. Supplies at terminal points are large and undoubtedly will be used as an argument by the bears if values advance much higher. On the other hand the May option is tied up and speculators are afraid to get on the short side and stay short. So far as a shortage in the Northwest is concerned there appears to be plenty of wheat for immediate requirements and at Minneapolis the only shortage is a lack of storage room.

The Northwest situation, according to some people, is not as bearish from a standpoint of supplies as it seems. They think North Dakota will be compelled to buy several millions of wheat for seeding purposes. They think that the Southwest will be buying soft winter wheat in Chicago before spring. On the other hand the people who regard present prices as too high point to the abnormally large stocks of wheat at Kansas City as an argument against the possibility of the Southwest becoming a purchaser of wheat at Chicago.

Primary receipts are exceedingly small and there is no immediate prospect of an improvement. The exceedingly large receipts to date seem to indicate that the movement in the remainder of the crop year will be correspondingly small. Northwestern millers bought May wheat today. They reported that shipping instructions were coming in more freely on account of the advance in wheat.

Cables were higher. Shorts covered freely abroad. Russian shipments were larger than expected and Plate offers were more liberal. The visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada decreased 362,000 bu. The total supplies in this country and Canada amount to 43,920,000 bu compared with 44,280,00 bu a week ago and 27,071,000 bu last year. Wheat on passage amounted to 29,352,000 bu against 30,396,000 bu in the previous week. World's shipments last week amounted to 9,856,000 bu against $9,488,000 bu in the previous week.

The foreign situation is not so weak as a short time ago and it may yet help the people who are trying to bull May wheat. In the face of a heavy stream of wheat foreign markets are sustaining a sharp advance with Germany, Italy and France purchasing liberally of exporting countries. The curtailed Argentine crop is stimulating competition among the importing countries for the surpluses of exporting nations. This demand and the competition indicated may be spread over the next half year, the bulls think.

A fact which may be of considerable importance is the climatic disturbance which is approaching the Central states from the Northwest. The government thinks it will produce much colder weather over the winter wheat states, but that it will be accompanied by precipitation. If the cold wave happens along without the precipitation it is likely to be regarded as another bull argument while if it brings heavy precipitation believers in lower prices may regard it as a factor in their interest. In this event it is likely that bulls will advance the time-worn theory that the precipitation came too late to benefit the winter wheat.

THE FLOUR SITUATION.

The domestic flour trade, according to a majority of the millers who write to The Herald, shows considerable improvement, is better than at this time last year and is likely to improve further within the near future. The principal reason for this hopeful feeling, the supposedly small stocks in the hands of distributors, is not regarded in the same light by a large minority. Buying in the autumn was not as large as usual. The trade did not load up to the same extent as last year. On this account, it is argued, very light stocks are being carried and there must be steady buying from the mills in order that stocks may be replenished and kept in a condition to meet the demands that may be made upon them.

On the other hand this situation has existed for some time and the trade has succeeded wonderfully well in keeping out of the market and notwithstanding conservative operations it seems to be fairly well filled up with flour in the first weeks of the new year. That, at least, seems to be the only reasonable explanation of the indifference to offerings that still remains. The advance in prices did not stimulate the demand for flour. Buyers refused to let themselves be frightened and they backed away from the market as prices ascended in sympathy with the bulge in wheat.

Besides the supplies in sight all over the country there is considerable flour at the mills on which agents are unable to get shipping instructions. The volume of flour in this category is not as large as at the same time last year but it is of sufficient size to be a contributing factor to the dullness of the market. Some of the flour at mills awaiting shipping instructions was sold as long ago as October. Shipping directions have been ordered as rapidly as millers expected and until this flour is cleaned up there can be no permanent improvement in the volume of new business.

Kansas millers complain that buyers are "kicking" about the quality of flour received. Buyers say they are unable to dispose of much of the flour received. The cost is not the cause of this trouble which is caused by the quality of the flour. Buyers are finding that where they thought they could use it alone they are compelled to mix Kansas flour with other flour, a situation which tends to spread the consumption of Kansas flour over a greater period than if it could be used without mixing. Kansas millers say they are unable to equal the quality of the previous season's product. A few complaints have been received about spring wheat flour but not nearly as much trouble is being occasioned by as Kansas flour. On the winter wheat flour generally is giving satisfaction. Buyers are trying to wriggle out of their contracts for Kansas patent and as far as new business is concerned there is absolutely "nothing doing." There is a considerable difference in the prices quoted, some mills asking $5.25 for patent in sacks while offerings from other mills are as low as $4.60 a barrel.

The advance in the prices of spring wheat flour has carried values of first patent to between $5.50 and $5.85. Few mills will accept less than $5.50. There has been little business at the advance although business was fair two weeks ago at lower prices. Ohio and Indiana millers advanced prices 10 cents in comparison with the advance of about 20 cents by spring wheat millers. From $4.60 to $4.90 is quoted for patent, $4.50 to $4.75 for straight, and $4.10 to $4.50 for clears. Michigan flour is also a little higher but without sales being made. New York mills offer straights at $4.25 to $4.40 and clears at $4 to $4.25 a barrel.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 9.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 1@4 points and sold 4 points net lower during the first few minutes under local bear pressure and scattering liquidation which appeared to reflect expectations of a bearish census report tomorrow as it was rumored that the report of the National Ginners' association showed over 450,000 bales ginned for the period including thrashed cotton. There was a moderate demand from abroad, a little bull support of May and some covering by Wall street shorts at the decline, however, and the market during the middle of the morning was quiet but steady, about net unchanged to 1 point higher.

Spot closed quiet, 14 points lower; middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 15.15. Sales, 8,400 bales. Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: January, 14.56; February, 14.68; March, 14.79; April, 14.87; May, 14.97; June and July, 14.96; August, 14.68; October, 13.36.

A CIGAR BOX CAMERA.

St. Nicholas: A fair camera can be made from two or three old cigar boxes by boys and girls who are reasonably expert in carpentry. The writer once saw one made in such a way by a boy of fourteen for a total cost of 50 cents.

It took excellent pictures and was fitted with a lens that consisted of a pin prick in a sheet of tin foil. I have even heard of using silver foil paper such as is often wrapped around chocolates, instead of using sheet tin or brass.

In exposing interior subjects such as parlors, sitting rooms and playrooms a much longer exposure must be given to the plate. I once took a dark interior with an exposure of three hours.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Effective Measures Taken by Financial Interests Have Good Effect.

Offers of Call Money Are in Excess of the Demand.

New York, Jan. 9.—The effective measures taken over Sunday by leading financial interests to prevent further complications in the local banking situation were reflected in opening prices on the stock exchange today. The market was moderately active with fractional gains in a great majority of the stocks. Union Pacific advanced ⅝ and strength was shown by Northern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and practically all the leading railway and industrial shares.

Following a very brief period of uncertainty the market grew stronger on a general buying movement in the popular stocks, which placed many of those issues at the highest level for the present movement. Strength was most prominent in Union Pacific and United States Steel, the latter gaining 1¼c. Other stocks that participated notably in the advance included Chesapeake & Ohio and some of the less active industrials.

The buying movement gathered momentum in the second hour being accelerated in no small degree by short covering. Traders

FOWL SHOW IN FEBRUARY

Duluth Poultry Industry to Have Field Day Next Month.

Place of Exhibition Remains to Be Determined Upon.

The Duluth Poultry association will hold its annual poultry show Feb. 4 to 11. The exact location of the exhibition has not been determined upon, but that is a detail which will be attended to in the period between now and the date of the show. Entries close Feb. 2, and it is expected that this show will be the largest and most interesting of all that have been given here. The poultry school, which will be conducted in February by the Commercial club, under the supervision of the university extension, is counted upon to stimulate interest in the show.

The officers of the association are: President, Theodore Hollister; vice president, Benjamin Wood; secretary, H. A. Nelson; assistant secretary, F. P. Hallock; treasurer, J. W. Nelson.

Executive committee: W. L. Windom, S. G. McConaughy, Fred Meyers, W. P. Weir, J. H. Tomlin and George Larsen.

George D. Holden will be judge; Jerry G. Congdon, superintendent, and O. H. Tarun, assistant superintendent

To the Exhibitors.

In a foreword to its list of premiums the association says:

"The association takes this opportunity to thank the people of Duluth for their kind appreciation of our former exhibitions and we promise them that this one will be fully up to the standard and worthy of their patronage.

"Exhibitors will notice that almost all prizes offered are in cash and while the entry fee is small the cash prizes in all cases are most liberal.

"We can assure exhibitors that their birds will receive the best of care and attention while with us, and will be returned promptly to their owners.

"The birds will be scored by Judge George D. Holden of Owatonna, Minn., and a score card issued for each specimen.

"Entry blanks and all information regarding the show can be had of the secretary, H. A. Nelson, 3 East Superior street."

These stipulations are among the rules and regulations:

Entries for competition will close Feb. 2, 1911, and all stock must be in the show room by 12 m. Feb. 4.

Entries must be made on entry, blanks furnished by the secretary on application. Entry fees must accompany the blanks in every case and transportation must be fully prepaid. All entries should be properly ringed before they are shipped.

Remember that all birds must have leg bands and the number of each stated on the entry blank. Bands can be procured of the superintendent at 2 cents each.

All birds competing must be strictly the property of the exhibitor. Fraud in this line will exclude the specimen. Should any doubt exist as to the ownership or age of the birds sought to be entered, the exhibitor shall be required to make a statement under oath, concerning such ownership or age.

"Exhibitors from abroad can send birds directly to secretary, Duluth Poultry association, Duluth, Minn., who will take charge of them, providing the transportation has been prepaid, and they will be promptly returned at the close of the show at the expense of the exhibitor. Each exhibitor must place his name and place of shipment and the name of the express company by which he ships, plainly on each coop, to avoid mistakes.

Can Advertise Freely.

"Immediately after the awards have been made, a ribbon stating the premium will be placed on each coop. Exhibitors will then be allowed to advertise as conspicuously as desired, provided the space over the owner's coop only, is used.

"Any case not provided for in the rules and regulations will be referred to the executive committee for decision.

Any one may become a member of the association by the purchase of a membership card, price $1.00. This card entitles the holder to admission to the show room at any time and a voice in the management in the affairs of the association.

The exhibition will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day.

Each bird for competition must be entered singly. The fee is 35 cents for each bird and must be paid in advance.

All exhibition pens consisting of one male and four females will be charged $1.00 additional. Pen entries must be stated on the entry blank.

Premiums will be awarded for each variety in all classes, as follows:

NORTHERN MINNESOTA IS ASSIGNED GOOD PLACES ON THE HOUSE COMMITTEES

ANNOUNCED BY SPEAKER

Dunn Organizes the House Effectively for Constructive Work.

Congdon, Knapp and Borgen Named to Good Chairmanships.

Ribenack, Healy and Hillman Have Been Well Treated.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house committees were announced this morning by Speaker Dunn. A glance at the assignments shows that the members from the northern portion of the state have been well treated, and that an opportunity has been given to effectively look after the action of the committees on measures in which Northern Minnesota is vitally interested. There is no doubt that Speaker Dunn has performed his difficult task in an able manner and that he has organized the house effectively for constructive work. The program of legislation outlined at the Brainerd convention will undoubtedly receive careful consideration by the committees appoined by Speaker Dunn. The chairman of the leading committees are: Appropriations, L. C. Spooner of Morris; elections, L. D. Brown of Little Falls; forestry, T. U. Ferguson of Barker; judiciary, Thomas Kneeland of Minneapolis; public lands, C. H. Warner of Aitkin; railroads, W.

AMERICANS HOLD BALLOON TROPHY

International Aero Federation Declines to Consider Protest.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The International Aeronautical federation, which met here today, decided that it had no authority to consider the protest against the award of the international balloon trophy to the Americans, Allan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, on the ground that the protest as made was irregular. The federation declared that the protest should be lodged first with the sporting commission of the American Aero club.

The protest was made by the Lower Rhine Aeronautic association which alleged that the American Aero club did not enter its contestants two months in advance of the race, as is required by the rules and again, that the announced witness failed to furnish documents properly attesting their landing place, as required by the International Aeronautic federation.

HELP CALLED BY ROBBERS

Fire Revolvers in Air After Shooting Mounted Policeman.

Make Their Escape When They See Two Men Approaching.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After shooting and painfully wounding Mounted Patrolman J. J. McGuire, early today, three robbers fired their revolvers into the air until assistance arrived, and then escaped.

McGuire saw the three men on Fifteenth and Southeast and, becoming suspicious of their behavior and appearance, followed them into an alley.

He came upon them while they were working at the rear door of the grocery store of N. Boynum, and was about to cover them with his revolver when he stepped on a board covered by the snow and made a noise which alarmed the robbers. They flashed their light on the officer and fired a bullet, breaking the bones in his right arm.

McGuire dropped his pistol, and though suffering great pain, picked it up and fired wildly at his assailants. The pain then caused him to fall in a heap in the snow.

The robbers gathered around him and inquired if he was seriously hurt.

"Not bad," replied McGuire.

The men then fired their revolvers in the air, and when they saw two men running toward them they fled.

BILLS TO EXTEND THE POWER OF THE PEOPLE

PROBLEM IS DIFFICULT

To Make State Lands Contribute to Schools and Roads.

Feasible Way of Taking Care of the Schools Planned.

Measures for Initiative, Referendum and Recall Are Numerous.

Senate Has Tilt Over Printing Evidence in Contest Cases.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin, who has been named as chairman of the public lands committee of the house, is busy in conferences with Attorney General George T. Simpson, looking toward the working out of practical and constitutional plans of making state lands pay their due share of the cost of building roads and maintaining schools in sections having large areas of unsold state lands.

What seems to be a feasible and practical way of taking care of the schools has been planned, and Attorney General Simpson is drawing up a

ASK THAT RALPH BE DISCHARGED

From Superintending Ditch in Aitkin, St. Louis and Itasca.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of county commissioners of Aitkin county, by unanimous vote, has asked Judge W. S. McClenahan of the district court to discharge State Drainage Engineer George A. Ralph from the superintendence of Judicial Ditch No. 1, in Aitkin, St. Louis and Itasca counties.

Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin has received a copy of the resolution, and copies have been sent to the county boards of St. Louis and Itasca counties, presumably with the suggestion that they take similar action.

The nature of the charges against Mr. Ralph are not made clear by the resolution, which is to the effect that "it appears to the county board of Aitkin county, from verbal and written evidence, that it is for the best interests of the taxpayers of Aitkin county, and especially to the taxpayers who are assessed to pay for the construction of Judicial Ditch No. 1, that George A. Ralph, the engineer in charge, should be discharged and that a new engineer be appointed by the district judge." Therefore the board asks Judge McClenahan to discharge Ralph, and to appoint in his place "a disinterested engineer."

There have been sundry public and private mutterings about the work on this ditch, and it is probable that this proceeding on the part of the Aitkin county board will result in bringing the whole matter to an open disclosure of the reasons for discontent, and a public hearing of some nature at which both sides will have an opportunity to present their cases.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

CASE AGAINST SCHMITZ IS PRESENTED

Colbyville Settler on Trial for Murder of His Neighbor.

Witness Says Schmitz Feared That Riley Would Shoot Him.

Dead Man's Son Says Riley Was Shooting at Mark.

Tony Warsen and Ernest Riley were the first two witnesses to be put on by the state in the case against Frank Joseph Schmitz, accused of the murder of George Riley. The actual trial began this morning before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

Tony Warsen was a neighbor to both men who lived on small farms on the Stock Farm road. He said on the stand, that the morning before Riley was killed, he was informed by Schmitz that some one was trying to kill him, Schmitz, although at that time Schmitz didn't know who that "somebody" was.

Warsen invited Schmitz to ride to town with him in the former's rig. Schmitz agreed and it was while on the road to the city that Schmitz saw Riley with a gun near the Schmitz home and it was then that he made up his mind that Riley was trying to shoot him. When Schmitz went back to the house to change his clothes to go to town, a shot crashed through the roof of the house and then Schmitz was sure that Riley was trying to "get him." He tried to get Warsen to look where the bullet went through, but Warsen didn't want to mix in the trouble and refused to take notice.

Came After Warrant.

That same night Schmitz is said to have come to the city for a warrant for the arrest of Riley. It was late when he got into town and all the of-

MINERS EATEN BY HUNGRY WOLVES

Men on Prince of Wales Island Victims of Ravenous Brutes.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 10.—Several residents of the west coast of Prince of Wales Island, southeast of Alaska have been killed and eaten by wolves during the past year, according to Charles A. Sulzer, a brother of Congressman Sulzer of New York, who has just returned from the North.

Mr. Sulzer says that the wolves, having killed off all the deer, have become desperate with hunger, and now come right up to the doors of the cabins of the miners.

No Money Spent for Proctor Extension---Honest Criticism Invited.

SUMMARY OF ANSWER OF WATER BOARD TO HILL CLUBS' CHARGES.

Invites honest criticism after honest inquiry.

Guaranty necessary to prevent improvident requests for extensions.

Present water rate schedule may not be fairest and board is considering revision.

Denies improvident contracts.

Denies that contracts have not been fully enforced as to contractor.

Denies that in the matter of extensions department's funds have not been wisely expended.

The answer of the water and light board to the charges made against the department by the general committee of the hillside improvement clubs, as read to the city council last night, was a general denial of the more serious allegations of the committee.

The board states emphatically that it has not entered into any improvident contracts and denies that the contracts have not been fully enforced as to the contractor. The members of the board, who signed the report, take the position that the affairs of the water and

SCHOONER ASHORE.

Condition of Vessel Off the New Jersey Coast Not Yet Known.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 10.—The vessel reported ashore last night off Barnegat was made out at daylight to be a three-masted schooner and not a steamer as at first believed. The stranded vessel is too far off shore to be plainly discernable and her name is not yet known. The Barnegat life saving crew, which put out to the vessel at midnight, has not yet returned and until the life savers come ashore little can be learned about the stranded schooner. The vessel is believed to be lying in a bad position.

FOURTEEN LIVES LOST

Three Barges Go Ashore on the Peaked Hill Bars.

Life Savers Powerless to Aid the Shipwrecked Men.

Highland Light, Mass., Jan. 10.—The tragic history of Peaked Hill bars received a substantial addition today when three coal barges were driven on the dreaded sands at the knuckle of Cape Cod and seventeen lives were lost. The barges were the Treverton, Capt. F. I. Brown of Lincolnville, Me., and six men; the Corbin, Capt. C. Smith of Philadelphia, and four seamen; the Pine Forest, Capt. W. M. Hall of Provincetown, and four sailors.

A 50-mile gale was blowing and made the Peaked Hill, on the knuckle of the cape, the worst kind of a lee shore. Two life saving crews stood on the sands powerless to launch their boats or reach the barge with a lifeline.

At 8 o'clock two bodies had been thrown upon the beach, both with life preservers, one bearing the name "Treverton."

The Treverton was the largest barge of the three and carried a crew of six men with Capt. F. I. Brown of Colville, Me., in command. She was bound for Portland.

The Corbin carried a crew of four men and was commanded by Capt. C. M. Smith of Philadelphia. She was bound for Portsmouth, N. H.

The Pine Forest, which was the smallest of the tow, and carried four men, was commanded by Capt. M. W. Hall of Provincetown and was bound for Marblehead, Mass.

The Lykens, after losing her tow, was finally compelled to steam into Provincetown. The entire distance from shore to the outer bar was a tumbling mass of cross-seas, in which not even a lifeboat could have been kept upright.

NON-UNION WOMEN SERIOUSLY HURT

Knocked Down With Billy and Kicked and Pounded.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Five men believed by the police to be striking garment workers, were pursued today for blocks and fired at repeatedly, after having beaten Mrs. Lottie Millspaugh, her two daughters and Louis Barnett, all of whom are non-union employes of Hirsh, Wickwire & Co., clothiers. Mrs. Millspaugh was knocked down by a blow on the head by a billy and was kicked and pounded as she lay on the sidewalk. Barnett was also felled, and was beaten until he was helpless. Detectives, who for a long time had been escorting the non-unionists to work were recently withdrawn. The assailants escaped.

GREAT YEAR FOR THROWING SNOWBALLS

SALOONS TO BE REOPENED

Judge Willard's Order Well Received at Brainerd and Walker.

Loss By "Lid" Enforcement at Brainerd Figured at $30,000.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—An examination of the records of the city clerk shows that twenty-four saloon keepers of the city have licenses in force, and that two have made application for renewals. The different saloon men as well as the Coates Liquor company, a wholesale house, and the Brainerd Brewing company, claims the actual loss to these business interests occasioned by the "lid" enforcement is about $30,000. The saloons estimate their loss at $1,000 each and the Coates Liquor company and the Brainerd Brewing company at $2,000 each.

The loss includes trade lost by closing, injury sustained to their business,

PROBE TUG TRUST HERE

Hearing Will Be Held Wednesday Before Special Examiner Miller.

Investigation Begun in Cleveland Will Be Finished in Duluth.

Before Bertrand C. Miller, a special examiner appointed by the circuit court of the United States for the eastern division of the northern judicial district of Ohio, the hearing in the case of the United States against the Great Lakes Towing company will be taken up tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the commissioners' room on the second floor of the St. Louis county courthouse.

The investigation into the affairs of the Great Lakes Towing company, instituted by the government in support of the allegation that the company is a trust and as such should be dissolved, was taken up first in Cleveland some time ago. Testimony was taken in Detroit and then the scene was shifted to Duluth.

The government seeks to prove that the Great Lakes Towing company is a combination in restraint of trade. It is alleged that the Union Towing & Wrecking company, which operates in Duluth, is a part of the combination. A large number of Duluth witnesses will be examined and the hearing was adjourned to Duluth in order that their testimony might be taken without the inconvenience of taking them to Cleveland where the action was instituted.

Edward Smith, president of the Great Lakes Towing and Dredging company, E. Fordwell, secretary of the same company, and Harry Goulder and Daniel Kelly, attorneys, will arrive in Duluth tomorrow morning, ready for the investigation.

MARKET DECLINES; TRADING HEAVIER

Local Market More Active---Steel Report Bearish---Keating a Feature.

The copper market was weak today. The undertone was fairly strong. The buying seemed to increase in proportion to the desire to sell so that declines were not sharp. The general situation dragged downward and the market lacked a pronounced factor on the bull side to lend courage to believers in higher prices.

While the banking situation is clearer yet the need for succor on the part of several New York institutions had a depressing effect and traders, while recognizing the promptness with which leading financial interests went to the rescue of the banks in trouble, could not overlook the situation which made such financial nursing necessary.

In a dull market traders sat back and contemplated the factors staring them in the face and they found food for thought in the presence of an unsettled rate question and important supreme court decisions not yet made.

The metal market is weak with sales on a basis of 12⅝c for electrolytic. These sales have been made by small dealers for 30 days delivery. The report of the Copper Producers' association, while more favorable than expected, was unfavorable in view of the large stocks and the production that is not decreasing as rapidly as some people believe it should.

The report of the United States Steel corporation on unfilled tonnage was 2,674,757, a distinctly bearish statement. It contributed to the general weakness of the market. Steel prices are the lowest in thirteen years. More tin plate mills, it is reported, will resume activity in the immediate future.

The local market was more active than for some time and a few of the issues displayed considerable strength. Keating was a leader in the upward movement of the specialties. This issue went from 99c to $1.06¼. The part paid Scott was active, selling at $1.87½ to $2 to $1.68¾. The full paid sold at $5. Denn was traded in at $4.87½, Red Warrior at $1.12½ to $1.18¾, Butte & Superior, new, at $7.62½ and the old at 89c, Calumet & Montana at 58c, 59c and 63c, Cactus at 19c and 20c, Carman at 68c, Summit at 57c, Tuolumne at $4.75.

Amalgamated sold at $63.87½ to $64.12½ to $63.12½ to $63.25, Giroux at $6.75, Greene at $7 to $6.75, North Butte at $28.50, $28.62½ to $27.75, Superior & Pittsburg at $14 to $13.75, Shattuck was $21.25 bid and $21.75 asked.

Stephen R. Dow, president of Franklin, North Lake and other Lake Superior properties, has this to say of the Calumet & Hecla merger plans: "In my opinion, the consolidation plan, as a mining proposition, should be enthusiastically indorsed. The $1,000,000 of proposed economies will alone be sufficient warrant for this procedure. To my way of thinking, it is one of the soundest and sanest propositions that has ever been presented to the public. With practically thirteen miles of continuous outcrop on the three master lodes of Lake Superior, the new Calumet & Hecla will be in position to reduce the mining cost per ton to such an extent that it will be able successfully to compete with the newer low-grade camps and it will be in position to extract profitably the millions of tons of low-grade ore at Lake Superior. It is inviting its subsidiary companies to share in these possibilities on terms eminently sound and fair. It appeals to the investor; it naturally does not appeal to the speculator."

The stockholders of the American Smelting & Refining company have approved the plan to issue $15,000,000 of bonds of the American Smelters' Securities company, and to increase the capital stock of the American Smelting & Refining company from $100,000,000 to $115,000,000, to provide stock for conversion of the bonds whenever the latter sell above par.

The production of the Phelps-Dodge mines in 1910 was 117,329,496 pounds of copper, compared with 125,202,556 pounds in 1909 a decrease of 7,873,060. Curtailment was in effect throughout the year. The Copper Queen produced 71,883,092 pounds, the Moctezuma 22,659,651, and the Detroit 22,786,753.

An official of the Calumet & Hecla company points out that on the basis of an estimate of $225 per share for the new Calumet & Hecla stock, the consolidation scheme places an equivalent valuation of only $384.38 per share on the present stock, exclusive of the value of Calumet's ownership in the subsidiary stocks which it is proposed to consolidate. This is less than three and one-half times the valuation placed on Osceola.

MAKES ROUGH SKINS SOFT AND PINK

"Specialists say when powder or cosmetics are used for any great period the skin's surface becomes dry and scaly and often a pimply condition follows," says Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the New York Examiner.

"The reason is plain. Powder tends to clog the pores, and when these organs of elimination are hampered, trouble follows.

"Many women now use a liquid, which spreads evenly and smoothly and gives more satisfactory results than any powder or cosmetic.

"A splendid and inexpensive lotion can be made at home by dissolving 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint of hot water, than adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine.

"This recipe is very popular in exclusive social circles, and its use soon produces that pink and white glow of health."

President of Livestock Association Believes They Will Be Maintained.

The Business of Raising Not So Lucrative as Formerly.

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 10.—H. A. Jastro, president of the National Livestock association, delivered his annual address today.

Mr. Jastro directed attention to the many changes witnessed in the livestock industry in the last ten years. It has been a transition period, he said. Big ranches have been cut up and sold to smaller holders who are pursuing a more diversified kind of agriculture and stock raising. Unlimited free range is gone and public grazing land still remaining in semi-arid country is overstocked and overgrazed. The growth of the industry has not quite kept pace with the increase in population with a consequent diminution of meat food product for export. Prices for the last year on all kinds of livestock have averaged higher than for many years, but, the speaker believed, they would be maintained on substantially the same basis for some time to come.

Despite the high prices, Mr. Jastro said the business of raising livestock has not been as remunerative as in former years. The gradual cleaning up of the herds on the open ranges was cited as conclusive proof of that statement.

Regarding high prices for food products Mr. Jastro declared that if the tariff was responsible, it should be revised by a non-partisan commission.

"This association," he asserted, "courts the most exhaustive inquiry into the cost of raising livestock, and I promise in advance the active support of the association in ascertaining all the facts."

Time, he said, had proved the correctness of the statement he made last year, that the placing of hides on the free list under the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill meant a loss to cattle men of the United States of approximately $1.50 a head.

Opposition to the railroads' desire to increase rates was advocated by Mr. Jastro, who also urged the association to petition congress to enact legislation providing for a valuation of the railroad property in the United States and the fixing of a speed minimum for livestock trains.

The condition of the industry was exhaustively examined and numerous recommendations looking to the safeguarding and advancement of stock raising and its attendant interests were made.

AN INSECT'S FLYING APPARATUS.

Professors Pettigrew, Girard, Jousset de Bellesme, and Kumckel d'Herculais have attempted to ascertain which are the really useful parts of the flying apparatus of insects. Prof. Kumckel d'Herculais has been able to remove the back wings of certain insects, such as bees, wasps, ants, etc., without depriving them of the power of flight.

"Having had collected and taken to my cabinet," writes this learned entomologist in the Strand, "all the bumble bees which could be captured in the course of a day in the Botanical Gardens of Paris, I stupened them with an anesthetic, and being sure of being able to operate on them without injury, I carefully cut off their back wings. The window was wide open and the weather was fine. The amputated insects came to themselves one after the other and took to flight without appearing to be in the least affected at the loss of two of their members. Next day I captured some of them on the flowers in a garden some hundreds of yards away."

Other experiments have proved that it is possible to remove, without injuring the flight of the insect, the back portions of the first pair of wings of a butterfly.

DEALER MAY BE ARRESTED

Police Anxious to Prosecute Man Who Sold Revolvers to Boys.

Steps May Be Taken to Check Sale of Lurid Literature.

The Duluth police authorities are strictly opposed to the selling of firearms or other dangerous weapons to boys.

They declare that under the influence of the cheap literature which is likely to come into the hands of boys, there may be some other murders of the type of that committed last Friday morning. Not only that, the police assert, but not knowing how to handle weapons boys are just about as likely to shoot themselves as someone else.

The second hand dealer who sold the revolvers to Melodrowski, who shot and killed Policeman Harry A. Chesmore, will likely be prosecuted under the state law which prohibits the sale of firearms to any one under 18 years of age. Melodrowski says that he doesn't know the name of the man who sold the revolvers to him, but that he is able to locate the place and point out the man who made the sale.

Under the state law the offense is classed as a gross misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year. If the evidence is sufficiently strong the second hand dealer will be indicted by the grand jury and made to stand trial unless he concludes to enter a plea of guilty.

Mayor Cullum states that he is opposed to the sale of cheap literature, such as was read by the boy bandits. Not having investigated the situation he was not prepared to state what measures ought to be taken to eliminate that kind of reading, but he thought that as it goes through the mails the most effective, and probably the only way, would be to secure a federal law which would effectually put the dealers out of business.

Chicago has an ordinance whereby the police have almost complete control of the sale of weapons of a dangerous nature. Under it every person who wants to buy a gun, or other weapon, must first secure the permission of the police.

THE COURTROOM CROWDED

Women Elbow and Push for Seats at the Schenk Trial.

Friend of John O. Schenk the First Witness Called.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 10.—Activity among the curious and sensation seekers was early apparent today in the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk on the charge of administering poison to her husband.

With the completion of a jury before court adjourned yesterday it was expected that today the taking of testimony would be started.

A large crowd had gathered about the courthouse almost two hours before the doors were opened, interest having been keyed up to a high pitch by statements of the prosecuting attorney and Mrs. Schenk's counsel.

Women elbowed and pushed each other aside in an effort to get inside.

John O. Schenk whom Mrs. Schenk is alleged to have poisoned, traveled in Europe last summer with William Wolfe and according to the plan of the prosecution he was to be the first witness when the hearing was resumed today. By Wolfe the state expects to prove that Schenk was not sick a day while on the trip as has been claimed.

Dr. D. Bigar Best, a prominent physician of Wheeling island, the fashionable residential section of the city, and Dr. Gregory Ackerman, called to the house of the Schenks to treat the husband, will be other witnesses of the day.

When court opened today the room was crowded. Mrs. Schenk appeared in good spirits. She again carried her record book, which it is believed, will play a leading part in the trial.

William Wolfe, a manufacturer, was the first witness. He described his trip abroad with John O. Schenk in 1910, and declared the man was never in better health. Wolfe said that Schenk became ill two days after his return to Wheeling, complaining of his stomach and that he became steadily worse. He said Mrs. Schenk said to him: "Billy, I don't believe John will live very long."

PREPARE TO SHIP BEER

Breweries Ready to Break Drouth in the Indian Country.

Judge Willard's Decision Is Thought to Settle Question Finally.

Following the injunction issued by Judge C. A. Willard of the United States circuit court at St. Paul yesterday restraining the agents of the bureau of Indian affairs from interfering with the liquor traffic in Minnesota, the Duluth breweries are only awaiting the consent of the railroads to accept shipments to start supplying beer to the affected territory.

Col. A. X. Schall, manager of the Fitger Brewing company, stated this morning that he believes the injunction issued by Judge Willard will stand. He was unprepared to say whether or not it would be carried to the United States supreme court, but he felt confident that if such action should be taken, the opinion of Judge Willard would be sustained.

"Judge Willard is one of the best lawyers in the state and has a thorough understanding of legal questions," said Col. Schall. "We do not know from this distance upon what his ruling was based, or whether it was handed down in written form or was oral, but we are satisfied that before he took any action he thoroughly reviewed all the facts in the case."

Col. Schall went on to explain that he supposed the question of state's rights to regulate police matters within its borders was probably the foundation of the ruling of Judge Willard. He referred to similar rulings which have been made by the United States supreme court in Alabama and Wyoming, the first relative to the lotteries and the other dealing with the rights of the state to prevent Indians from killing game out of season, although the original treaties had given them permission to kill game the year through.

He asserted that if the railroads will carry their shipments, the breweries will at once commence supplying the country which has been dry for some time past. It appears that the officials of the railroads have taken the situation up with the legal departments, and it is expected that a definite answer will be returned in a comparatively short time.

If the ruling of Judge Willard holds, it will settle the liquor question in Minnesota so far as the country affected by the Indian treaties is concerned. The action was instituted by about a dozen saloon keepers at Bemidji, who asked the court to enjoin W. E. Johnson and his agents from interfering with their business when an attempt was made to close all the saloons in Bemidji.

United States District Attorney Houpt is quoted as saying that he will take no action towards an appeal until he hears from Attorney General Wickersham. This is considered favorable by the brewing interests.

ENJOINED FROM SPEAKING.

Two Minneapolis Bad Boys Must Not Converse Together.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—Municipal Judge C. L. Smith has ordered William Coddington and John Walsh, aged 18 and 17 years respectively, not to speak to each other for one year. That was only one of a number of rigid terms pronounced by the court before putting the boys on probation. They had been arrested for disorderly conduct. A policeman was appointed to act as guardian.

WOLVES PURSUE COUPLE.

Then Devour Their Spaniel Dog That Chased Animals.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Breher of Bluffton township, this county, were driving home a few evenings ago when two wolves followed their team, keeping a long distance in the rear. They were not at all alarmed, as there was no danger of two wolves attacking them, but their spaniel dog, which they prized very highly, caught sight of the wolves, and ran back to where they were, evidently mistaking them for other dogs. The wolves pounced upon him and devoured him.

CLAIMS SON WAS WORSTED.

Father Alleges Boy Sold Horses for Less Than Value.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The aged father of Leon Conlin has brought suit through his attorney, A. J. Bessie, against W. S. Davidson and Dr. Hagen of this city for the recovery of a large herd of horses which some years ago they secured from young Conlin for $1,000 cash and a personal note for $6,000. The charge is that the horses were worth $12,000 and that the boy, better known as "Alkali Ike" was a minor and had no right to dispose of the horses. The case will probably be tried at the coming term of court.

Blast Blinds Workman.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 10.—Sightless and suffering from a badly fractured skull, John Campbell, a laborer, is a patient in a local hospital. Last Saturday afternoon, while loosening a rock at the Kendrick quarry, near Rexton, his pick touched the cap of a charge of dynamite. In the explosion that followed the sight of both eyes was totally destroyed and a great hole torn in his scalp. It is not thought that he can live.

Their committee assignments are well adapted to give them a chance to look after the progress of measures affecting the northwestern section of the state and they have also drawn places on some of the most important committees of the house. Congdon, Knapp and Borgen have landed chairmanships, Mr. Congdon heading the committee on reapportionment. He is also on the judiciary, taxes, public lands, appropriations and other committees. PROBLEM IS DIFFICULT bill covering it, which Mr. Warner will introduce in the house at an early date.

The problem of taking care of the roads is presenting much more difficulty. Nothing has yet been worked out, and so far no plan that appeals on considerations of legality and practicality has been evolved.

The present plan is to reach the schools by a direct appropriation, based upon the total area of unsold public land and apportioned pro rata according to the amount of unsold land in each district. This method is not abailable as to roads, the supreme court having held in the famous "pork barrel" case that direct appropriations out of the public treasury for road purposes are unconstitutional. A tax on state lands is likely to be held wholly unconstitutional by the attorney general though he has as yet made no such holding, and is still investigating the matter.

The plan of taking care of the schools contemplate an appropriation of about 6 cents an acre for each acre of unsold public lands, which, on about 3,000,000 acres, the present total, would yield in the neighborhood of $150,000. This would be apportioned by the state superintendent of public instruction among the several counties according to the area of unsold public land in each county, and the county auditors would apportion the county's share to the several school districts in the same manner.

It may be determined to limit the tax—it really amounts to a tax on state lands in the end—to public lands lying in organized townships. This because there may be counties with large areas of public lands lying in unorganized townships without schools or school children, which might result in giving such counties a share out of proportion to the number of schools and school children to be cared for. This point, however, is yet undecided.

The tentative basis of 6 cents an acre is arrived at in this way: The average tax rate in Northern Minnesota is a little more than 30 mills. The average assessed valuation of land owned privately is something more than $3 per acre. About half the tax levied on private lands is for school purposes. This works out nearly to 5 cents an acre as the amount of taxes paid by private land owners for school purposes, and the object is to have the state pay the same.

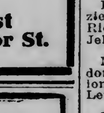

The plan seems entirely feasible and legal, and there should be little or no opposition to it in the legislature when the situation is thoroughly understood.

The outlook as to taxing state lands for road purposes, though even more important than this, is by no means so rosy. STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

Beauty Hints

By MADAME MAREE.

HEALTHY, GLOSSY HAIR.

A woman can have beautiful hair and plenty of it, if she frequently massages the scalp with a reliable tonic. This promotes a robust condition, arousing the hair follicles to healthy activity, and when such condition exists, the hair grows long, abundant and luxurious. A trustworthy tonic can be prepared at small cost, if you mix a half-pint alcohol with a half-pint water, then put in an ounce betacanthol. Whenever this simple recipe is used it is sure to produce a head of fine, glossy hair. Any druggist can supply beta-canthol.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Madge: No, my dear, massaging alone will not develop the form. The justly famed Vaucaire treatment is the most successful employed, as it builds up from the inside by giving proper nourishment to starved tissues. You can prepare your own treatment by dissolving a cup and a half of sugar in water to make a pint; in this pour an ounce of true gallol (be sure it is true gallol). The dose is two teaspoonfuls before meals. A course of this treatment is sure to correct scrawniness and overcome underdevelopment. You can buy gallol in any drug store.

Mrs. Q.: I know how you feel about your "rough, ugly complexion" and it you will devote a little time each night to this simple treatment you will soon have a complexion rivalling any made with powder and rouge: Wash the skin thoroughly, dry and apply a cerol cream, massaging in well. This cleans and clears the skin, correcting unnatural conditions and gives the complexion a rosy hue. The cream is prepared by dissolving three ounces of cerol in a pint of boiling water; stir until smooth and creamy. Get the cerol at any drug store.

Few are entirely free from it.

It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood.

It may then produce dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption, before causing eruptions, sores or swellings.

INDEPENDENT AUTO MEN WIN A VICTORY

that the defendants "neither legally nor morally owed anything to the patentee, and holds that the improved Otto engine, used by the defendants in motor vehicle construction, is the equivalent of the Selden engine, but that its use is not an infringement of the Selden patent."

Accordingly Judge Hough's injunctions against the Ford Motor company, Panhard and Levesseur and others, restraining them from using the Otto engine on the ground of infringement, must be dismissed by the lower court.

The opinion of the circuit court of appeals, written by Judge Noyes, says in part:

"While the conclusion of non-infringement which we have reached leaves the patentee empty-handed with respect to the patent for the short time it has to run, it cannot be regarded as depriving him through any technicality of the first reward of his labors. He undoubtedly appreciated the possibilities of the motor vehicle at a time when his ideas were regarded as chimerical. Had he been able to see far enough, he might have taken out a patent as far-reaching as the circuit court held this one was.

"The Brayton engine was the leading engine at the time, and his attention was naturally drawn to its supposed advantages. He made the wrong choice, and we cannot make another choice for him at the expense of these defendants, who neither legally nor morally owe him anything."

The Selden patent seeks to control the manufacture of virtually all gasoline vehicles in America. Many of the manufacturing companies hold licenses under that patent, but there are many others who, in defiance of the patent, are in the same business. Under yesterday's ruling, the ground for contest between the licensed and unlicensed dealers is removed unless the scope of the Selden patent is changed by a subsequent ruling of the United States supreme court.

Representatives of the Association of Licensed Automobile Makers announced last night that preparations were already being made to carry the matter to the supreme court. Application for a writ of certiorari will be made by the Columbia Motor Car company and George B. Selden.

The statement of the association says that approximately 80 per cent of the gasoline cars manufactured in this country are now licensed under the Selden patents, many companies having applied after Judge Hough's decision in 1909.

BEMIDJI FAVORS THE COMMISSION PLAN.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local business men are taking much interest in the commission plan of municipal government, and in all probability the form will be voted upon at the February election of city officers. Alderman Knute Roe is busy obtaining results from cities who have already tried the plan, and he says that great interest is being manifested.

BELIEVE ANDY JONES WILL GET PAROLE.

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friends of Andy Jones, the convicted Rugby banker, who is now serving a ten-year sentence at the federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan., see hope of his early release from the fact that the government has adopted the parole system. Well behaved prisoners can secure parole at the expiration of one-third of their sentence and Jones has been there since last February. Jones was president of the National bank at Rugby, which was wrecked as a result of his frenized finance.

Fatal Pickled Pigs Feet.

Escanaba, Mich., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pickled pigs feet from Milwaukee that Mr. and Mrs. Grabowski of this city ate a few nights ago caused the woman's death, according to the result of a post mortem. Both were taken deathly sick and vomited freely but they did not call a physician. After Mrs. Grabowski died a post mortem showed that ptomaine poisoning was the cause of her death.

THREE CASES FOR TRIAL

Calendar Is Light for January Term of United States Court.

First Jury Case Set for Trial —Grand Jury in Session.

The January term of United States court opened this morning with the call of the calendar by Judge Page Morris.

Although there were about fifteen cases on the calendar, only three were called for trial. They are the cases of Joseph Gauthier vs. Jack Stone, Martha Gauthier vs. Jack Stone and Adelmar Snyder vs. J. F. McCarthy.

The grand and petit juries reported this morning also. The grand jury was sworn in and went into session with E. S. Oakley, assistant United States district attorney. The amount of work for the grand jury to handle is not known.

The first jury case will be taken up tomorrow morning. It will be that of Adelmar Snyder vs. J. F. McCarthy, an action for the recovery of $24,000 claimed to be due for services rendered in connection with a land deal. The Gauthier cases, which are actions growing out of an injury received by Mrs. Gauthier through the running away of a horse purchased from Stone, will be tried as soon as the first case is completed. It is expected that the term will be finished this week.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Carter's Pictorial Vaudeville.
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

The Lyceum will present a short engagement of moving pictures, filling in a gap in the bookings, between the Yiddish Opera company, which closed Sunday night, and "The Lion and The Mouse" which opens next Saturday.

Carter's Pictorial Vaudeville opened its engagement last evening, giving an excellent entertainment of the latest motion pictures, and it will be seen at the Lyceum daily, with a daily matinee until Friday.

Marie Fenton, known as "The Blonde in Black," who is at the Orpheum this week, has had her troubles with "song pirates," as they are known in the vaudeville profession. Miss Fenton's act consists entirely of singing popular songs in a popular manner, and much of her success naturally depends on her selections. "I try to keep in the closest possible touch with the music publishing houses" she said, "and try to add the latest and best popular song hits as soon as they come out. I try to get the exclusive right to sing the song when I can, and it is discouraging to arrive in a town and have the orchestra leader tell you that your song was sung there a week or three weeks or a month ago. At least two of the songs I have, I know are new, and have not been heard before in the West, and I think they are going to be very popular, for they have the right swing to them. The swing and melody mean much in a song, but catchy words are almost as important, and many a song has become popular just because of its words."

One of the old timers in the show business, is Eddie Girard of Girard & Gardner, who are at the Empress this week, and he recalls in an interesting manner, the time when an actor was fortunate if he could secure an engagement of three consecutive weeks in vaudeville, so imperfect were the booking arrangements. "At present I am booked solid until Jan. 10, 1913," said Mr. Girard. "As soon as I finish the tour of the Sullivan & Considine circuit, I am to return to England and will play through England, Scotland and Ireland until June, 1912. I will then go to South Africa for a run and from there to Australia, which will take me until January, 1913. While in England, I became acquainted with most of the popular English artists and they all seemed to have heard of the Sullivan-Considine circuit and all were better impressed with it than any other vaudeville circuit in this country, and well they might be, for, through the circuit affiliations, an artist can now make a tour around the world, a thing which would have seemed impossible in the days when I first started in the theatrical business."

One of the strongest dramatic films ever seen in Duluth is being shown at the Odeum theater this week. It is "The Two Paths," which deals with the lives of two girls, who follow different paths in life. The end reached by them teaches a strong moral lesson. "Eldora, the Fruit Girl," is another strong dramatic film at the Odeum. The comedy on the bill this week is furnished by "A Family of Vegetarians." Miss Maddox sings, "When It is Spring."

"The Girl Spy Before Vicksburg," a picture dealing with Civil war times is the feature film at the Lyric theater this week and it is attracting a great deal of attention. This photoplay is an excellent drama well worked out and it is one of the best features the Lyric has had in months. "The Bad Man's Christmas," is another dramatic film and "The Crazy Apples," is the comedy film. Mr. Mistachkin is singing "When Life's One Grand Sweet Song."

ROUNDS UP CHILDREN.

Williston's Police Chief Rescues Youths During Blizzard.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chief McGahey, brought happiness to thirty homes here when in the throes of a blinding blizzard he brought to anxious parents their little children who had been out on the streets and were caught in the suddenness of the storm. The chief's attention was attracted to one lost little one and then he went out on a search and soon had thirty sheltered in police headquarters. He then secured a big bob and drove all of them to their homes, getting lost himself three different times.

Foley's Kidney Remedy—An Appreciation.

L. McConnel, Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken." Sold by all druggists.

How to Stop Drinking

Give Orrine and Destroy all Desire for Whisky and Beer. Can Be Given Secretly. Try It At Our Expense.

We are in earnest when we ask you to try ORRINE at our expense. We will give your money back, if after a trial you fail to get results from ORRINE. This is a very generous offer. It gives the wives and mothers of those who drink to excess an opportunity to try the ORRINE Treatment. It also shows our confidence in the merits of ORRINE. ORRINE is recognized as the best and most successful remedy the world has ever known for Drunkenness or the so-called Liquor Habit. It is a very simple treatment, can be given in the home without publicity or loss of time from business, and at a small price. Read the following letter from Dr. Nolte, 8th and Race Sts., Philadelphia. It will tell you about some of the wonderful results from the ORRINE Treatment:

"I have a remarkable case of inebriacy under my personal observation. The patient drank heavily for fifteen years and reached a degraded condition, which caused the breaking up of his family and separation from his wife. Every hope was given up of ever saving the man from his strong desire for drink, and only a mother's interest finally persuaded him to voluntarily take treatment for his diseased condition. It was my pleasure to recommend ORRINE, your liquor habit cure, and the treatment was taken faithfully. This was two years ago and the patient is now in a healthy condition and still abstains from the use of stimulants. I have sold ORRINE for a number of years and have always found it to be satisfactory. I believe you have an exceptionally good treatment for this disease."

ORRINE is prepared in two forms. No. 1, secret treatment, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, is for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. ORRINE costs only $1.00 a box. Write for Free ORRINE Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to ORRINE CO., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. ORRINE is recommended and is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 205 West Superior street, 930 East Second street, 101 West Fourth street.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Charles P. Craig and "The Dairy Cow and the Bacon Hog" —An Enthusiast on Farm Development.

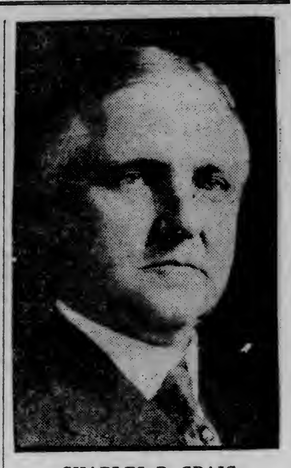

"Northeastern Minnesota is the finest agricultural region on the North American continent. The man who will make one stalk of grain grow where none grew before or make two stalks grow where one grew before is the man who will solve the problem of the future. The farmer who devotes intelligent attention to the dairy cow and the bacon hog is the one who will attain the highest success."

Remarks such as these will be recognized by many Duluthians as Craigisms. Charles P. Craig is recognized all through Minnesota and beyond as the apostle par excellence of progressive agriculture. In the management of the Jean Duluth farm, he puts his preachings into practice, and as a member of the board of managers of the Minnesota state fair he has opportunity to spread the gospel of tilled acreage. He believes thoroughly in all his spoken sentiments relating to agriculture and is an enthusiast in advocating those measures designed to lead to the betterment of conditions in Northern Minnesota.

Mr. Craig took a leading part in the proceedings of the Northern Minnesota Development association at Brainerd, where he was the proponent of the scheme for the unification of state governmental departments having to do with the development and conservation of Minnesota's resources.

Personally Mr. Craig is one of the most approachable of men. He is a fluent and interesting talker, always has a fund of information on any number of subjects, and sticks to his convictions with a tenacity that is disheartening to the controversialist who happens to be on the other side of the proposition.

Mr. Craig rides his hobbies to good purpose. They are numerous and each one is valuable to the community. Besides his special activities, Mr. Craig is a participant in all movements for the public good that are initiated in Duluth. He is an active member of the Duluth Commercial club and is frequently called upon to give his time to the work of that organization.

CHARLES P. CRAIG, An Apostle of Development.

Being a business man, Mr. Craig necessarily sacrifices much in devoting so large a part of his time to the projects that interest him, but he does it with an uncomplaining enthusiasm that is exceptional. He has earned every bit of the popularity and public appreciation which he possesses in such large measure.

WATER BOARD ISSUES ITS REPLY TO CHARGES OF THE HILLSIDE CLUB MEMBERS

light department have been handled in a businesslike manner. They do not deny that some mistakes have been made, but they take the stand that they are of no more serious nature than would be made by any large corporation handling a business of similar magnitude.

The communication touches upon the matter of water rates, explaining that for some time the board has felt that possibly the water rate schedule was not meting out justice as nearly as might be, and has for some time been considering the question of a rearrangement of the rates so as to come more nearly at equality. The answer states that in due time the deliberations of the board will be announced.

Fall Out of Critics.

In conclusion the board makes rather a sarcastic reference to those who have been instrumental in framing the charges against the board which were filed with the city council. "It may be that some of the board's critics think that they could have managed this department without making any mistakes," it reads. "We doubt if the people generally think so. But of one thing, however, the people may rest assured, and that is, so long as they have such watch dogs of their interests who are microscopically scanning, as they have a perfect right to do, the record of the department, looking for cause, however small, to attack the board's judgment, if not its integrity, the people will at all times know the worst; even though the worst now suffered be fragrant and appetizing, indeed, when compared with the best served up to them in the past under a management which 'we assert upon information and belief' is now most active in endeavoring to discredit the present operation of the water and light plant."

The answer of the board, in full, is as follows:

"To the Common Council of the City of Duluth.

"Gentlemen:

"There was filed with your honorable body on the twenty-sixth of December, a document signed by certain citizens making charges against the management of the water and light department of the city. These charges are of such character that the board of water and light commissioners deems it a duty on its part to make reply, and while the board is not answerable directly to your honorable body in these matters, the complaint having been made to you, we conclude that yours is the proper tribunal to receive the answer.

"At the oueset we wish to say that this board recognizes the right of the people to criticize any of the public business of the city, and we invite honest criticism. In a republic the people are the supreme authority and they have a perfect right to criticize. At the same time, public officers, and especially those serving without pay, have certain rights, among which is the right to be charged with improper methods only after honest inquiry as to the true facts and a knowledge on the part of the accuser of all the circumstances surrounding the subject that he complains of.

"No inquiry was ever made of any of the members of this board or of any officer or employe of this department, so far as we can learn, by any of the persons signing the complaint made to your honorable body as to the facts concerning the things complained of.

The Charges In Detail.

"As to the charges made we have this to say:

(The answer to each being in the order in which it is made).

"1. The board deemed it wise at the beginning of the municipal operation of the plant, to require guarantees from all parties that required extensions of water mains to their premises, in order to protect the department from improvident requests for extensions that might be made upon it, into remote territories or elsewhere, that would have made it necessary to require higher rates for water or to issue an excessive amount of bonds; and we believe that action to have been necessary and wise.

The board requests that any specific instance be recited when there has been a diverting of funds to uses not contemplated by the bond issue.

"2. The Fourth alley extension was planned to duplicate the present supply main to the western part of the city and to provide an additional volume of water not only to that locality, but to the territory in the middle portions of the city lying along the northern boundary line of the lower system, and also for additional fire protection throughout the city, and to meet complaints of residents in the upper part of the lower system who were not fully supplied with water although connected with the system and dependent upon it.

"During the summer just passed many patrons of the department along the upper side of the lower system were unable to get water to the second stories of their houses because of lack of pressure, caused by the dry season and consequent excessive use of water and because the added demands upon the pipe lines caused by the new courthouse and other new structures had rendered the pipes inadequate to do the work. Bitter complaints were made to the board because of the insanitary condition of the district affected caused by the failure of the water pressure to flush closets.

Consult Engineer.

"3. It has been the custom of the department, before laying any mains in ungraded streets, to have the city engineering department set stakes showing the grade, and the pipes have then been laid at the proper depth as indicated by said stakes. When Sixth street was graded last year it was found that for a distance of 200 feet the pipe was not laid at sufficient depth. It had not been the custom of the board in the past to require the filing with the department of a profile of the street and grade established before the extension was made, therefore in the case of Sixth street, where the pipes were laid some three years ago, the board has no evidence in hand that the custom of the board had in that particular instance been followed.

"This case of Sixth street is the first and only case in the twelve years of the operation of the plant where this question has arisen. When this case was discovered the manager was instructed by resolution under date of July 26, to hereafter obtain a profile of the street from the city engineer at the time grade lines are established.

"4. The present schedule of water rates is the result of various changes and adjustment made from time to time to fit the circumstances of particular demands upon the department and it is possible that it is not the fairest or most equitable schedule that can be devised. The members of the board have long felt that possibly the water rate schedule was not meeting out justice as nearly as might be and have for some time been considering the question of a re-arrangement of the rates so as to come more nearly at equality. In due time the results of these deliberations will be announced.

"5. The board denies that improvided contracts have been made or entered into by this department.

"6. Statement is made that contracts have not been fully enforced as to the contractor, but no specific instances are cited, and therefore the department is unable to specifically reply.

"7. Statement is made that in matter of extension and improvements the department's funds have not been wisely expended. No specific instances are mentioned, and therefore the department has no reply until specific cases have been cited. All of the improvements made by the department are based upon a definite system, which not only provides for the present needs, but for the future growth of the city.

That Pipe Contract.

"8. The board required the Wisconsin Central Railway company when about to construct its tunnel through West Michigan street to its depot, to lay an overland 16-inch pipe within a frost box on the surface of the ground, to protect the city from any possible damage to its mains and against interuption to the service to the western part of the city. When the board required the railway company to provide and lay this pipe, it had an understanding with the railway company that when the pipe used by the railway company in doing that work should be needed by the department, the department would take the pipe off the hands of the railway company at the same price the department was paying under its contract with pipe manufacturers. In October last it came to the attention of the department that work had already been begun on the paving of Lake avenue, inasmuch as the water pipe would have to be laid in Lake avenue, the next season at the latest, the board, desiring to avoid tearing up the pavement and being under the necessity of immediate action in order to get the work completed ahead of the street paving contract, and not having the necessary pipe on hand, acted under the emergency clause of the charter, took thirty-three pieces of the pipe in question at a cost of $778.46, under the previous understanding that the department had with the railway company, and made the improvement in Lake avenue as was required in the interests of the people. This was the same amount the department would have been required to pay to the United States Cast Iron Foundry company for the same pipe under its contract with said company for furnishing pipe for the year 1910. The market price at the time the pipe was taken is not material, as the board acted on its previous understanding with the railway company. This was the only 16-inch pipe then in the city that the board had any knowledge of which could be purchased. There was no time to purchase it and have it shipped into the city from outside points.

"The department always, in order to assure itself of having the pipe delivered when needed, must give its contracts early each year for the pipe required during the coming season. These contracts are always awarded on competitive bids and to the lowest bidder. Some years when the pipe has been delivered the price is largely advanced over the contract price. At other years the price at the time the pipe was delivered was lower than the price contracted for. In 1906 the contract which the board made was at a price $6 or $7 per ton less than was the market price at the time when some of the pipe was delivered under the contract. We know of no way to avoid such conditions. They are such as every merchant meets and acts upon in conducting his own business, and in the average no wrong, either to the city or to the manufacturer, results.

"9, 10 and 11. The communication of the department to the city council under date of Nov. 17, 1910, requesting the issuance of bonds contains a statement of the board's views of the needs of the city. Its views have not changed. If the people do not desire the improvements suggested made, they can express their wishes by voting down the bonds.

The Pumping Problem.

"In recommending that provision be made for additional pumps, it may be stated that there was a time last summer when the amount pumped daily was nearly equal to the capacity of the present electric pump at Lakewood, and the board does not deem it good policy to allow the city to be jeopardized in its water supply by any lack of pumping capacity. The steam pumps are held in reserve for emergency, but electric pumps can be operated enough cheaper to make it good business to use electricity rather than steam. It has been found that the growth in a particular locality in the city has sometimes required greater pumping capacity at that point, but it always develops that the smaller pump which is replaced is required in some other locality or as a reserve pump to supply the greater demand.

"Fire protection for West Duluth and the fresh water supply for its present inhabitants and those which it can reasonably be expected will live there in the near future, makes it important that some provision be made for an additional booster pump and an additional supply main to Fifty-fourth avenue west, so that the entire portion of the city west of the point of rocks will not be dependent upon one supply main, which might make it subject to extraordinary hazard from conilagration.

"12. In reply to the criticism in article 12, that the site selected for the building of the middle system reservoir is not suitable for such system, would say that no reasons are given, and therefore the board is unable to consider the criticism.

"13. The department complies with the provisions of the charter in its methods of buying pipe and other materials, and in advertising for bids and letting the contracts to the lowest bidders.

"14. See answer to No. 1 as to reasons for requiring guarantees on extensions. There are no applications on file with this department for any extensions of the hillside system, except two short extensions which were approved and ordered laid in their regular course during the coming season.

"No money has been expended by this department to furnish water to Proctor, the whole expense having been borne by the Proctor Light & Power company.

The Board's Confession.

"The water and light department is administering a business necessitating the collection and expenditure of approximately one-half million dollars annually. It involves highly important engineering problems and the application of modern business methods in order to bring about substantial financial results to the citizens of Duluth. That these benefits have been substantial and that water is furnished cheap is evidenced by the fact that more than 2,200 families in Duluth are receiving their water supply a 50 cents per month, and this, notwithstanding the fact that from the receipts the department pays $104,000 per year interest on bonds, the city having issued bonds for the purchase price of the plant and for part of the improvements made thereto.

"But in the administration of this great business the board has this confession to make:

"1st. The board has found that in some cases it has made rules and regulations that did not work satisfactorily, and it has thereupon modified or abrogated them.

"2nd. The board has from time to time actually found matters of details in connection with the operation of the plant that it deemed wise to change, which it has changed.

"3rd. Because of the discussions and final action arising from differing views, freely and amicably argued by the members of the board at its meetings, the board believes it has made less mistakes than are usually made by individuals and corporations handling private business of like magnitude. It is submitted that the few mistakes which have been made have been minor in character and very insignificant as affecting general results. In short, the board confesses that it is not either infallible in its judgment or all-wise in its acts, and that it has in the past, and is likely in the future to make, to some extent, such mistakes as are being made by men in their personal affairs where their own financial interests are primarily at stake. It may be that some of the board's critics think they could have managed this department without making any mistakes. We doubt if the people generally think so. But of one thing, however, the people may rest assured, and that is, so long as they have such watchdogs of their interests as some of our friends who are miscroscopically scanning, as they have a perfect right to do, the record of the department, looking for cause, however small, to attack the board's judgment, if not its integrity, the people will at all times know the worst; even though the worst now suffered be fragrant and appetizing, indeed, when compared with the best served up to them in the past under a management, which 'we assert upon information and belief' is now most active in endeavoring to discredit the present operation of the water and light plant."

"WHY BE SO THIN!"

Thinness Is Embarrassing, Unhealthy and Not Natural—Formula Now Used Which Adds From One to Three Pounds a Week.

Every one ought to have some extra flesh on the bony structure of the body, both for the sake of health and self-esteem.

Most thin people are sensitive to the harsh, unfeeling criticisms which are constantly being hurled at them by the more fortunate well-figured persons.

Every one pities a thin, bony horse, but horses don't know it—while thin people are both pitied and ridiculed. It ought not to be so, but it is.

A well rounded figure, be it man or woman, excites admiration; not only for the figure, but for the bright eyes, pink cheeks, red lips, and vigorous carriage which accompany a well-nourished body.

Strength, health, beauty and sound flesh abound, if the blood and nerves get enough nourishment out of the food eaten.

This prescription aids nature; helps absorption, digestion and assimilation; helps distribute the blood and nerve elements which make sound flesh. Get the ingredients and make it at home, and see how very fast you gain in weight.

In a half pint bottle, obtain three ounces of essence of pepsin, three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound, (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals and one after meals. Also drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Weigh yourself before beginning.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

Put the hard hats on the shelf and hang up the light overcoats. There's another cold wave headed from the Medicine Hat country and it will strike Duluth some time tonight. The mercury, which went some distance above the zero mark yesterday and today, will take another drop and about 10 deg. below zero is predicted.

Fine, snappy winter weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:52 and it will set at 4:39, giving eight hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Low pressure conditions of considerable strength overlie Western South Dakota and Eastern Washington. During the last twenty-four hours they have caused snow or rain over Western Canada and from the Rocky mountains westward to the Pacific coast, besides warmer weather in the Lake region and from thence southwestward to Mexico. A cold wave of great intensity covers the greater portion of Western Canada, North Dakota, Eastern South Dakota and Montana, with temperatures varying from zero to 30 deg. or more below. This cold wave will reach the Head of the Lakes tonight. Temperatures 10 deg. below zero are probable in St. Louis and Douglas counties by Wednesday morning, and during Wednesday night they may reach 20 deg. or more below."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Upper Michigan—Snow and colder tonight and Wednesday; much colder Wednesday with a cold wave.

Wisconsin—Unsettled weather with snow in north and snow or rain in south portions tonight or Wednesday; warmer in east and colder in west portions tonight; colder Wednesday; cold wave in west portion.

Minnesota — Snow tonight and Wednesday; much colder tonight with cold wave in east portion; colder in east portion Wednesday.

Iowa—Rain tonight turning to snow Wednesday; colder in west and central portion and warmer in extreme east portion tonight; much colder Wednesday; cold wave in west and central portions.

North Dakota—Threatening tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

South Dakota—Snow tonight and probably Wednesday; cold wave tonight.

Shippers' forecast: Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against zero temperatures in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

63 Years of Age—Younger Than at 40

Mrs. J. W. McPeek, of Herbert, Sask., Can., is more than pleased with the results obtained from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which has been of great benefit to her family. She says in her letter: "I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past ten years. It is the best health giver I ever used. I am now 63 years of age, but I am looking and feeling younger than at 40. My friends all say, 'How young you look!'

"It has also proved just the thing for my daughter, who lives in Ohio. She had such weak nerves and heart that the slightest move would startle her. Your wonderful remedy has practically overcome this, and has done her more good than all other treatments."

Mr. McPeek writes about his remarkable experience: "I am 67 years of age, and for a number of years I haven't been strong. I have a weak heart and for some time was almost helpless. Lately I have been using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it has helped me wonderfully. I sincerely recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to every one."

How Is Your Weight?

While it is true that too much weight is not to be desired, yet the fact remains that many men and women are thin to the point of danger. This danger lies in their having no reserve force or nerve power to combat deadly diseases. A little extra flesh is needed by all to feel well and to look well, and this calls up the question of how best to increase the weight. Physicians and chemists by experiments have solved the problem of increasing the white and red corpuscles of the blood, by the administration of 3 grain hyponuclane tablets, and this is always followed by an increase of weight. Obtain in sealed packages, and take for a period of several months according to directions with package.

NEW JAIL IS NEEDED

Grand Jury Recommends That One Be Erected as Soon as Possible.

January Body Calls Attention to Crowded Condition of Local Institution.

Recommending a new county jail building to be erected as soon as possible, the January grand jury filed its final report and was dismissed by Judge Cant of the district court yesterday afternoon. The final report of the grand jury follows:

"We have considered all of the cases brought before us by the county attorney. We do not find it desirable at this time to make a formal report on any subject except the condition of the county jail. We visited the jail in a body, and found it in a very unsatisfactory condition. This is no reflection on the sheriff or his deputies, as we believe that they are doing as well as possible, considering the inadequate facilities provided. We would, however, recommend the immediate painting of the corridors and cells.

Pressing Need.

"There is absolute and pressing need for a new jail. The old one now in use, was constructed to accommodate 100 prisoners, but there are crowded into it at the present time about 150, and this is below the average, as at certain seasons the number is greatly augmented. This crowding has come about gradually with the increase in our population, and will certainly grow worse with continued growth. On the second floor of the jail there are sixteen cells, each seven feet, eight inches long, seven feet wide and seven feet and ten inches high. These cells are used for prisoners charged with serious crimes, and are not over-crowded. On the first floor there are sixteen cells, each seven feet eight inches long, seven feet wide and nine feet three and one-half inches high.

"At the present time there are from five to seven men confined in each of these cells, four or five of whom sleep in the cells at night on cots and in canvas hammocks swung above the cots. The city prisoners, commonly called 'the chain gang,' who are boarded by the county, are housed at night in a room in a cellar. This room is 34 feet long, 14 feet wide and eight feet high. At the present time thirty-five men sleep in this room. Overcrowding is bad enough under the most sanitary conditions, but in the case of this jail it is vile. There is no system of ventilation. The toilets are not enclosed, and no room is provided for the care of the sick or injured. The inmates are huddled together sleeping, drinking and eating under these foul conditions unfit for any human being, a menace to themselves and a disgrace to the county. St. Louis county owns an available site in close proximity to the courthouse, and we recommend that a modern, sanitary jail be built upon it at the earliest possible moment. To this end we recommend:

"1. That the county attorney be, and hereby is, requested to prepare a bill to be presented to the present legislature authorizing St. Louis county to issue bonds or certificate of indebtedness in an amount sufficient to provide funds for this purpose.

"2. That the St. Louis county delegation to the state legislature be, and hereby is, requested to secure the passage of such a bill at the present session.

"3. That the county commissioners be, and hereby are, requested to take an active interest in this matter and co-operate to the fullest extent in carrying it to completion.

"4. That the Commercial club, the Women's council, the Ministerial association, all labor organizations, and the citizens of the city take an active part in the furtherance of this project.

"In closing, we beg to call your attention to the fact that unless some action is taken at the present session of the legislature this matter will be delayed for two years longer, during which time the conditions will be growing worse."

CERTAINLY ENDS KIDNEY TROUBLE

Kidneys Act Fine and Backache Vanishes After a Few Doses.

Kidney disease is the most dangerous, because the first symptoms are seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

Some of the symptoms, though, cannot be mistaken; for instance, sick, unhealthy kidneys cause thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, or there is dull misery in the sides and loins, headaches and dizzy spells may occur, nervous twitchings, disturbed sleep, inflamed or puffy eyelids, weakness, bilious stomach, heart palpitations or the sufferer is often weighed down by a feeling of languor or fatigue.

The time to cure kidney trouble is while it is only trouble—before it settles into Diabetes, Dropsy, Gravel or Bright's disease. The moment you suspect the slightest kidney, bladder or urinary disorder begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so prompt and thorough a cure.

Don't be miserable and remain in danger another moment because of a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder or urinary misery; all this will surely go after you take Pape's Diuretic for a few days.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic — 50-cent treatement—sold by every druggist in the world.

SUCCESSFUL WITH QUARTER SECTION

Farmer Near Mitchell, S. D., Who Certainly Knows How to Properly Farm.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — Farmer readers of The Duluth Herald will be interested in the story told here at the state agricultural school, by R. E. Cone, a Mitchell, S. D., banker of the remarkable success of a farmer named Jesse Wilkins, living near Mitchell, with a quarter section that he appears to have farmed in the proper manner.

Despite the extreme dry season last year he harvested a fine crop of corn. Before he plowed last spring, Mr. Wilkins "disced" the land twice, so that when he turned it over with the plow it was well pulverized. Every evening he stopped plowing in time to hitch on to a smoothing harrow and dragged what he had plowed that day, thus stopping all evaporation. After he had sown his corn he harrowed the field five times, the last time when the corn was over an inch high, so every weed was destroyed. He then cultivated the corn often enough to maintain a blanket of dust or mulch on top to retain the moisture.

Attains Wonderful Growth.

As a result the corn attained a wonderful growth and never at any time during the summer was there any lack of moisture, while surrounding fields not similarly cultivated were parched. The same treatment of land will give specially desirable results when the soil is as dry as it will be next spring.

F. B. Gass, a land man of Red Lake Falls told of a similar illustration. He dug a cellar on a farm late in the season on a field that had not been cultivated and the ground was caked and baked to a depth of five feet. He dug a well just a few rods distant, where corn had been grown and the land well cultivated, and the earth was moist from three inches from the surface.

It soothes and relieves the irritation in the throat and loosens up the cold. I have always found it a reliable cough cure." Sold by all druggists.

TWO BREAK JAIL; ONE IS RETAKEN

Believed to Have Escaped Ramsey County, N. D., Jail With Wooden Key.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Williams and John Johnson, both being held for trial, escaped from the Ramsey county jail here during the night. Williams was caught while waiting to catch a ride on a Great Northern freight, but Johnson is still at large. It is supposed that the escape was made by means of a wooden key made by Williams, who is handy with the knife. He was being held on a charge of violating the prohibition law, it being alleged that he sold liquor behind a moving panel which he himself planned and constructed and which, to outside appearances, was a mail order clothing house.

THREE NEARLY PERISH DURING BIG BLIZZARD.

Donnybrook, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ample Vian, Ted Rogne, Adolph Feldner and Dick Boyington, who left here in the midst of a blizzard to drive to their farm homes a short distance from town, nearly perished. They were lost on the prairie in a short time and Feldner and Boyington spent the night in a shack which they came across. The other two drove all night, abandoning one of the teams, and found themselves near Carpio the next morning with badly frozen feet and hands. The other team was recovered also but had suffered much from exposure.

I had sharp twinges in the small of my back and I was lame across my hips and loins. If I took cold, I had to be careful that my kidneys did not give out entirely. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills about two days, I noticed that the secretions from my kidneys were clearer and more natural. JAN. 29 WILL BE CARNATION DAY

American People Will Honor Memory of Martyred President.

The Carnation league is sending out the annual circular letter, asking everyone to wear a carnation on McKinley day, Jan. 29.

This circular in part reads as follows: "The life, character and services of William McKinley will never pass from the memory of the people. In his death the nation suffered the loss of a man beloved by all. The people cannot have too many days to show their appreciation of such men as this martyred president. The thoughtful observance of each anniversary tends to keep the patriotism of the people to its highest pitch and we may be sure that were the soul of William McKinley to look down it would infuse some of his love for the nation in the hearts of his fellow beings."

The Nursery

The Teething Baby.

The average baby to cut his teeth when he is about 5 months old, and from that time till he is 2½ years he will probably pass through various periods of discomfort even when he suffers nothing more serious. There are many ways in which this discomfort may be diminished; one is by keeping the child as dry as possible when the dribbling is profuse. Padded bibs are useful, worn under the cotton one. In any case it is essential that a wet bib should not be allowed to remain on the baby's chest, as it may cause a cold that will end in bronchitis while another in effect will be a sore chapped neck and chin.

Do not allow the baby to chew on very hard substances, but a soft rubber ring may be given him; see, however, that this is washed every day with an antiseptic. The mother should wrap a piece of soft linen round her little finger, then dip in boracic acid solution and rub the hot swollen gums several times during the day. The child will soon recognize the relief this brings, and there will be no trouble in geting him to submit to the treatment. When a tooth is nearly through, its passage is sometimes hastened in this way.

When there is fever or indigestion, give a dose of castor oil, and let him drink pure boiled water between meals. Some children have a tendency to constipation when cutting teeth; in such cases a little oatmeal gruel, the juice of an orange, or some milk of magnesia may be usefully given for a few days. A running of the nose is another common symptom of teething, and the nose should be kept clear by careful cleansing with boric acid solution or a little pure olive oil may be used when the inside is inflamed.

THE EVENING STORY

A PREDICAMENT

By George Hart.

Ned Sutherland had killed a buck on the first day of the open season, July 15th, and because the California law limits the number of deer a hunter may kill in a season to two bucks, Ned was anxious that his second should be a big fellow, full-antlered and heavy.

So, mounted on his horse, he took the steep, little-used trail up the bushy head of the canyon to the high ridges, and near a lonely spring made camp.

The first evening he shot a magnificent buck, a quarter of a mile from the spring. Half an hour later he had the animal strung up at his camp, and it was with considerable pride that the young hunter dressed his game.

Early the next morning Ned got ready to start home. He was in a hurry, and although the horse was nervous, he did not have the time to tie a rope around his neck to make him secure.

When the lariat was loosened, Ned made one end of it fast to the pommel. It was his intention to throw the buck across the saddle and lash him there.

He circled the carcass with his arms, and had approached within a yard of the saddle when the horse took sudden fright. Snorting with his eyes opened wide, he whirled and bolted.

Ned was standing on the coils of the rope, one end of which was tied to the buck, he was unable to jump to save himself, and his feet were jerked from under him. The deer's carcass landed across Ned's knee, and in that instant the hunter knew that he was hurt.

He tried to rise, but sank to the ground. It was his right leg that gave him the most agony. He began to fear the truth that it was broken.

He tested the left leg. Although wrenched and bruised, it had no broken bone. After sliding to a near-by log, Ned raised himself with his arms and got himself on his left leg. Seated on the oak leaves, the young mountaineer calmly reviewd the situation.

Unless help came he might lay there for days and suffer agony. The chances were all against anyone coming, for the spot was far from the regularly used trails. He had told his father that he might not be back for two weeks.

But Ned did not give up in despair, as many a person in his place might have done. He determined to keep his eyes open and his wits about him, that he might take advantage of whatever opportunity might arise for helping himself.

"If I can't travel any other way, I'll crawl," he said to himself.

But he could not crawl. Locomotion by the least painful method he tried was slow.

He had learned that it is important that a seriously injured knee be kept high to keep the swelling down. He bunched the blanket for a pillow, and lifted his leg upon the log.

He lay back on the ground and looked up through the thick oak leaves at the bits of blue sky here and there.

What a predicament.

He heard his horse walking slowly toward the spring a few yards away. "It's water you want, is it? Well, you won't get any if I can help it, Ki-yi."

The horse shook his head and ran. The effect gave Ned an idea. Except this trough, he knew there was no drinking place for the horse near. This was a point of vantage that he made up his mind would bring help if anything would.

He dragged himself to the spring and covered it up with his blanket. Then he made his way back to the log.

All though the afternoon Ned lay on his back. He tried not to move, for nearly every added movement meant pain.

The cattle accustomed to drinking at dusk, drew near and looked anxiously at Ned with their eyes wide open, but at every shout they lumbered away.

The horse, in spite of yells, got near enough to reach his nose against the soggy blanket. Ned drew a rifle cartridge from his pocket, and sitting up, whirled it at the horse. The missle struck the animal squarely between the eyes and put him to instant flight.

Half an hour later, when darkness came on the ridge, the alert ears of Ned, as he lay open-eyed, caught the clashing of hoofs on stones. He raised himself to an elbow and listened intently. The scratching of scrub oak against leather came to his ears.

"He's started at last."

Ned lay back on the earth, closed his eyes and hoped that he could sleep. That would be the easiest way to pass time.

The moon came up big and clear there on the high mountain range. Many times before the young mountaineer had watched its wonderful progress, but never before so mixed up with anxiety as to what the morrow would bring forth.

Suppose that dragging rope should catch somewhere on rocks and throw the horse off a cliff. Ned did not care to think of it, but the vision grew on him. His resting place became uncomfortable.

"I'm letting my fears get away with me," he declared to himself "The horse is doing just what I wanted him to do. I'll quit worrying. I'll keep my nerve if I never see another human being."

The resolve eased his mind, and not at all disheartened he dozed a little, although complete rest was impossible.

Morning came, and stiff and sore he was, his right leg feeling heavy as lead. Ned slid backwards to the trough and pulled off the blanket that the cattle might drink.

The horse was not in sight.

"If worst comes to worst," thought Ned, when the middle of the day approached and no sounds had come from the trail. "I can start a fire in that bush. It would burn like gasoline, and every forest ranger and rancher in sight of the smoke would be here on the double quick. But it won't do. The fire would wipe out everything, and might roast a dozen or two men who couldn't get away."

He tried to stand on his left leg, thinking that he might fashion a pair of crutches, and with them and that leg get down the mountain; but the leg would not stand the test. It seemed bound to fly outward at the knee. There was nothing to do but to wait.

Ned had lain down and was again watching the tiny patches of blue, when he became suddenly alert. There was the sound of distant clatter on the trail. His eyes grew bright and a smile came. The sounds become more distinct.

After a time a vaquero, riding one horse and leading another, broke through the bush at the rise.

"Here I am!" yelled Ned.

"Glad to see you alive, Ned," responded the vaquero. "When I came across your horse at the crossing of the creek, with his bridle gone and the lariat hanging from the saddle, I was afraid that I would find you a fit subject for the coroner."

"A long way from it. I have a mighty bad leg here, but will get it down the trail all right if that black beast doesn't try to get even with me for keeping him away from the spring. I wanted him to be my messenger, and the only way I could make him take to the trail was to cut off his water supply."

After eating and having put the camp fire out, the vaquero hung the deer over his own horse and helped Ned to mount his. He saw Ned's face grow pale. It was plain that intense pain brought the paleness, but there came no word of complaint. Instead, Ned said: "The more I look at the buck the bigger he seems. I came up here after the first buck there was in the mountains, and I got him. Let's hit the trail."

Hints for the Boudoir.

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Beauty culture has grown into something more than the mere desire to make the best of one's skin and complexion by external application.

Scientists there are who do not by any means ignore the necessity for remedies for flaws as well as enhancements of the modicum of pleasing attributes bestowed by nature. Special means are thus developed for securing the soft bloom that means, as a rule, good health as well as a fine complexion. Creams prepared for the winter are of surpassing excellence, and a new one added to the list has the delicate perfume of the flower, combined with the touch of velvet, that makes it delightful to use. That its effects are magical it is impossible to say. Here the scientific beauty specialist declines to predict, affirming that simply by due attention to hygiene, by the application, when necessary, of suitable cleansing and toning methods, and by care that no blemishes are permitted to disfigure, will a certain amount of beauty be secured. Creams and lotions, of course, preserve.

Large hats, with many plumes, and dark furs, tend to throw up the peach-like texture of a well-cared for skin, so that, especially during the dark days of the winter, a judicious attention to the choice of a good powder is to be commended.

Powder is put up now so nicely, that every woman prefers to carry her own particular preparation, instead of trusting to haphazard provision. Little powder puffs, wash-leathers, or a piece of white velvet are easily carried in bag or purse. Either in liquid or in the form of a creamy substance there are powders that not only yield the bloom required of fashion, but at the same time protect the skin from cold winds that are apt to roughen.

Rather brilliantly-tinted lips are more seen than they have been for years; some ladies are inclined to forget that the color of the lips invariably correspond to the hue of the skin. Such important toilette additions as lip-coloring, when prepared by specialists, are provided in shades and of a quality that make them free from any unpleasant consequences.

As for the important matter of hairdressing, there is nothing absolutely new. Curls continue to hold first rank, but they are arranged with taste and discretion to suit the wearer. Ringlets of all kinds and light and airily-twisted puffs and coils are the order of the day.

Diamonds of French paste, set on velvet or introduced as an edging to the velvet flowers, much in vogue, are exceedingly pretty. The little line of twinkling light thrown up among the coiffure looks remarkably well. Sometimes a tiny brilliant shines in the center of each of the small satin or velvet flowers worn as a finish to the light metallic fillets that hold the Greek curls in place.

Did You Ever?

"Did you ever see a cow that wore a veil,
Or a Brownie that could ride a comet's tail—
Or a fish that danced a jig,
Or an oyster with a wig,
Or a white umbrella drinking from a pail?

Did you ever see a bee that read a book,
Or an elephant that tried to be a cook—
Or a tiddly-winks that talked,
Or an apple pie that walked,
Or a street piano fishing with a hook?

Did you ever see a watermelon fly,
Or an automobile racing in the sky—
Or—what is it? Do you mean
That you've 'really' never seen
A single thing I've mentioned? Nor have I."

The Sign of the Broom.

By CARA REESE.

A wisp on the parlor floor? That is a sign that the broom has been there attending to business.

There are some housekeepers so precise that the sight of a stray wisp of broom straw on the carpet is enough to give them a nervous chill. They berate the domestics, stir up the household, and finally take to bed with sick headache. A stray feather from the duster in view when company calls, or scourene near the brass fender, or a forgotten polishing cloth have been known to agitate and irritate beyond all bounds. And yet, in each instance, the effect should have been the opposite. These trifles are evidences that the worker has been going the rounds.

It is dreadful to allow the nerves to run away with reason and common sense when the irritating condition is aroused by benefits. If the wisp, or the stray feather, or the forgotten polish, had been objects of terror, or signs of poor housekeeping, or evidences of domestic neglect, there might be excuses for the nervous frenzy. Trusty servants have been dismissed because, forsooth, the dust cloth was conspicuous as a drapery in the reception room when guests were ushered in; they have been dismissed because the dust pan has been found in the front hall, or because a bit of rag hangs conspicuously to the door-plate or the ornamentation; they have been sent away because the porch rug hangs on the bannisters after the vestibule and veranda are supposed to be in order.

And it is the same way when the small articles are dusted, when the dishes are placed on the table or the bric-a-brac returned to mantels and show cases. Some one thing awry and how the storm begins! And yet the slight disarrangements are a sign that the worker has faithfully gone the rounds. When things stay "put" to a nicety, or never get out of order, or occupy one spot forever, it is time then to grow nervous and to start on a tour of expostulation and investigation. The households where nothing is ever disturbed are not the cleanest.

Nor are they the most orderly. As some one says, there should be foundamental order in the household, just as a business man has his fundamental order in the way of catalogue and filing cases, even though the cases themselves are dust-covered and awry. At any rate, it is folly to lay yourself up for a broom straw or a shred from a duster. The toiler has been at work.

The Kitchen

Apple Souffle.

Ingredients — Three large apples, three tablespoonful of sugar, two spoonful of lemon juice, and the white of two eggs. Method—Wipe the apples thoroughly, then bake until tender. Next scrape all the pulp out of the skins, and carefully remove every bit of the core and pips. Add the sugar and a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the pulp. Beat the one white to a very stiff froth, and stir it lightly into the pulp. Put the mixture into small buttered pie-dish or souffle mold, and bake it for about three-quarters of an hour in a quick oven until it is nicely puffed up. Whip the cold white to a very stiff froth, add the rest of the lemon juice and about a tablespoonful of sugar. Smear this roughly over the apple, put it back into the oven for a minute or two to set the meringue then serve at once. This is a very tasty and seasonable dish. I can highly recommend it.

Fish Cream.

Mince the flesh of a small fresh haddock and press it through a fine sieve. Mix it with a small slice of bread, previously soaked in milk, and squeeze nearly dry. Mix well together, and stir in one tablespoonful of cream, and as much milk as will make the whole mixture like cream. Season with salt and pepper; add half a grated rind of a small lemon and stir in one beaten egg. Steam in a buttered mold for an hour.

Chicken Pilau.

The ingredients required are the chicken, or foul, 2 quarts stock, 1 lb. rice, 2 oz. butter, 2 eggs, 7 or 8 slices of bacon, 4 onions, ½ oz. of coriander seed, cloves, allspice, mace, cinnamon ¼ oz. each, ½ oz. pepper sauce and a few cardemom seeds (these spices may seem to some people quite unnecessary, but they add very considerably to the success of the dish.) Melt the butter in a frying pan, and into it put the washed rice, and let it brown. Truss the fowl as for boiling, and put it with the stock into a sauce pan, adding the spices, tied in a muslin bag. Boil until the fowl is partly tender, but not quite cooked. Add the rice, draw the pan to the side and let the contents stew until the rice is cooked. Fry the onions brown, grill the bacon, and boil the eggs hard. Put the fowl on a hot dish; take out the spices; put the rice over it and arrange the onions, becon and sliced eggs all around.

Your steps will be elastic,
Your feet great comfort feel;
Your legs will last a century on

CITY WILL AID FARMERS

Facilities Will Be Provided for Handling of Shipments of Fertilizer.

Annual Report of City Clerk Cheadle Submitted to Council.

The city council last night authorized the health commissioner to erect a trestle from which manure hauled to the city dump can be loaded directly onto flat cars for the use of farmers in the country tributary to Duluth.

The same official is also allowed to build a short spur track, provided the total expediture for the trestle and the spur do not exceed $345. Health Commissioner Webster investigated the matter some time ago. He informed the council that the estimated cost of the trestle was $300, so it is very likely that the trestle will be constructed in a short time.

Alderman Wharton stated that the situation has been thoroughly looked into and that there is a genuine demand of large proportions for the fertilizer. He explained that the farmers and the farmers' clubs have interested themselves in the matter, and have completed arrangements with the railroads whereby they will haul the cars of fertilizer at a minimum rate.

The annual report of City Clerk H. W. Cheadle for 1910 shows that Duluth received $194,436.90 from licenses and fees during that time. The largest item, amounting to $163,000, came from the liquor licenses. Other sums received were: Hacks and drays, $500.47; pool and billiard tables and bowling alleys, $816.85; two auctioneer licenses, $200; four circus licenses, $650; twenty-four employment office licenses, $2,137.56; nine pawnbroker licenses, $1,125; 999 male dog licenses, $999; thirty-eight female dog licenses, $190; 119 peddlers and hawkers, $852.50; twenty-six wagon peddlers, $1,610.81; thirteen fortune tellers, $900, and seven merry-go-rounds, $100.

The total sum of the orders drawn during the year was $917,409.96. Of this amount $237,457.51 was on the permanent improvement revolving fund, $70,991.55 on the permanent improvement fund, $136,510.37 on the public works fund, and $154.373.23 on the general fund, with the balance scattered in lesser sums throughout the other funds.

The request of the Associated Charities for the assistance of the council in adding them in an experiment to give unemployed men enough work at the point of rocks, making big stones into little stones, to pay for temporary assistance, was given favorable consideration. The council authorized the board of works to hire a foreman for not to exceed one month to supervise the work of the men who may be sent down from the office of the Associated Charities, and to purchase $50 worth of rock. Some of the city fathers did not think the men would crush any great amount of rock, but considered the experiment worth trying.

Mayor Cullum sent in a communication stating that several complaints have been made to him recently that various railroad crossings are not properly lighted. He explained that there is a provision covering this matter in one of the ordinances, and he thought that the roads should be compelled to furnish the lights. The matter was referred to the light committee.

Alderman Shartel, chairman of the committee on ordinances and resolutions gave notice that the committee will meet next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to hold a public hearing upon the new theater and picture ordinance introduced a week ago by Alderman Moore. Some of its provisions are rather stringent and the committee wished to hear from those interested before making any recommendations.

The council went on record as favoring the closing of the carriers' window at the postoffice on Sundays.

City Clerk H. W. Cheadle sent in his resignation and it was referred to the council committee on offices and elections.

Building Inspector Kielley sent in a communication stating that the estimated cost of the additional exits and stairways to the Armory would be $390. He called the attention of the council to the fact that an amendment to the ordinance calls for a fireproof stairway not less than ten feet wide, which would cost about twice that amount. The building inspector believes that such a stairway, running from the main floor to First street, would meet all the requirements.

The aldermen received an invitation from the Lakeside club to attend its next meeting, when the commission form of government will be the subject of discussion.

A petition was received for a sewer in the alley between Halifax and Magellan street from Forty-ninth to Forty-sixth avenues west.

WANTS TO LEAVE INSANE ASYLUM

Capt. George J. Bohn at Los Angeles to Aid Sister.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. George J. Bohn, commander of one of the big steamers that ply between Duluth and Buffalo, came all the way from Duluth to aid his sister, Mrs. Silas C. Osmun, in her effort to free herself of the charge of insanity. On March 29, last, Mrs. Osmun was committed to the state hospital at Patton, and her husband was made her guardian.

Mrs. Osmun suffered a stroke of paralysis just previous to her commitment and she still is suffering from the effects of the stroke. It developed at the hearing of her petition to be restored to mental competency that she was afraid her husband would poison her, the material used on one occasion being blue vitriol, according to her testimony.

The husband is opposing the granting of the petition, and according to his testimony she still is in a weakened state of mind. The case was taken under advisement.

The Osmuns lived in Buffalo before coming to Los Angeles several years ago.

MUST KEEP HANDS OFF

Agent Johnson Is Enjoined From Closing Any More Saloons.

Judge Willard of U. S. Circuit Court Issues an Injunction.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—An injunction restraining W. E. Johnson, special agent of the bureau of Indian affairs, and his deputies from interfering with liquor traffic in Minnesota, under the anti-liquor provisions of the Indian treaty of 1855, was issued by Judge C. A. Willard of the United States circuit court here yesterday. If the decision holds, it means the end of government interference with the liquor question in Minnesota outside of the reservations. Indian treaties having liquor clauses cover nine-tenths of the area of the state.

Judge Willard holds that the admission of Minnesota to statehood gave the state the power of regulating the liquor traffic and repealed the anti-liquor clauses of the Indian land cessation treaties.

The trial was instituted by twelve Bemidji saloon keepers who asked the court to enjoin W. E. Johnson and his agents from interfering with their business.

As a result of the injunction, many saloons throughout the northern part of the state, which have been closed for several weeks, may re-open, and the railroads and express companies may resume the shipping of liquor into the "Indian" territory. United States District Attorney Haupt will take no action toward an appeal until he hears from Attorney General Wickersham.

DIFFERENCE IN RECORDS

Variance Between Thermometers in Kiosk and on the Hill.

Wind Velocity Also Differs in the Downtown District.

The man who looked at the thermometer in the weather kiosk in the courthouse square when the temperature was low and saw the low temperature registered at 25 deg. below zero and then heard that the official thermometer at the weather bureau on the hill had registered 30 deg below zero probably wondered if the thermometer at the kiosk was unreliable.

It is not unreliable, but it registered the temperature in the courthouse square, while the official thermometer registered the temperature on the hill, there being considerable difference between the two. The low temperature for last night on the hill was about 2 deg. below the low temperature as recorded by the kiosk.

Although it was 30 deg. below zero in Duluth a few days ago, few Duluth people experienced 30 deg. below. In the courthouse square the mercury went only to 25 deg. below and people in the downtown district experienced that temperature, while the mercury was 5 deg. more below zero on the hill.

When the weather bureau was moved from the federal building on First street to its present location on the hill, the change was largely due to the fact that the wind velocity on the hill was greater than in the downtown district and the true wind velocity for Duluth was consequently not registered by the Duluth office. The same might be said of the temperature. The true temperature for Duluth is registered on the hill, where the elements have full sway and there is a marked difference in the temperature in the downtown district. The man who reads the thermometer in the kiosk in the courthouse square should subtract from 2 deg to 6 deg to get the temperature sent out to the world from Duluth.

TAKE SHOT AT BALLOON.

Bullet Passes Between the Gas Bag and the Suspended Car.

Scooba, Miss., Jan. 10.—The balloon St. Louis IV, which left St. Louis at 7 o'clock Sunday night for New York, landed here yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock with Pilot J. Cowan Hulbert and Paul J. McCullough.

After crossing Illinois into Indiana, the high wind forced them across Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama into Mississippi. While crossing over Kentucky some one fired at the balloon, narrowly missing the occupants, the bullet passing between the bag and basket. The first communication the aeronauts had with the earth after leaving St. Louis, was by megaphone at Tuskaloosa, Ala., at noon. Pilot Hulbert and McCullough suffered no ill effects from the voyage.

WARREN VETERAN BURIED.

John Keenan, Who Served in Civil War, Laid to Rest.

Warren, Minn., Jan. 10.—John Keenan, a Civil war veteran, died a few days ago at Aberdeen, S. D., and was buried in the local cemetery. He made his home in Warren, being justice of the peace for twenty years.

John Keenan was born in New York in 1842. While a small boy he moved to Dane county, Wis., and later to Olmstead county, Minn. When the Civil war broke out he shouldered a musket and went to the front and fought until he was invalided home two years later. He was ill for a long time but finally recovered and several years later married. His wife survives him. He came to Argyle in 1884 and after a short residence moved to Warren, where he remained until his recent removal to Aberdeen. During the greater part of his residence in Warren he was engaged in the hotel business. He was a member of the G. A. R. post of Crookston and of the Masonic societies of Warren.

POKES GUN INTO BRUSH.

Boy's Attempt to Scare Partridge May Cost His Life.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 10.—Abraham Ranto, an 18-year-old boy of Westboro, is in St. Joseph's hospital suffering from a severe gunshot wound in the right breast.

While hunting young Ranto flushed a partridge and saw it alight and, as he supposed, crawl into a brush heap. In an attempt to poke the bird out, he took the gun by the muzzle and used the butt to get at the bird. The gun went off, and the entire charge of shot entered his right breast. His condition is very critical.

SHOULD PASS KEEFE'S BILL.

Minnesota has won a reputation in the sisterhood of states as one of the most progressive in the entire Union. It is a reputation to be proud of, and one that should be maintained. In the bill prepared by Representative Joseph R. Keefe of Redwood county, and introduced in the senate by Senator Works of Blue Earth, the legislature will find an opportunity to add another to the many acts that have placed and kept the state in the front rank of progress, and there should be no hesitation in the adoption of the senatorial election provisions as laid down in that measure.

Eastern states affect to ridicule the ideas of election and legislation that have become prevalent in the West. They see bogies in the initiative, referendum and recall, and the very mention of the Oregon plan for nomination of United States senators is enough to raise a supercilious smile in that effete section. But these reforms in legislative and elective procedure have come to stay, and the states that set them in motion now will be the ones that will furnish the material on which the older commonwealths will draw when the time comes for their own reformation.

Suppose, for example, that New York and New Jersey had had the Oregon system in force at the last election. They would not now be making spectacles of themselves in frantic scrambles before their legislatures with regard to the election of a United States senator. If all the people of New York state had been given a chance to vote on the question of Depew's successor, and if the legislature had been bound by its members' written pledges to support the man who was chosen by the people, Boss Murphy of Tammany hall would not have the power, as it is conceded he now has, to pick from among his own followers the man who is to represent the biggest state in the Union in the most conservative body of the federal government.

Minnesota, to be sure, is not Tammany-ridden. In the present instance the state is not going through a bitter senatorial fight. But the time may come when the matter of the choice of a United States senator from this state will be an issue that will halt legislation by a legislative deadlock as has been the case in other states, and the adoption now of such a plan as that in force in Oregon will forever remove the political and legislative dangers that spring from such a situation. If Illinois had been bound by the plan proposed in Representative Keefe's bill the state would not be disgraced before the nation today by the unsavory mess that has come out of the election of Lorimer.

In California, one of several states in which the Oregon plan is being proposed for adoption, the opponents of the scheme are raising the cry: "The people are afraid to trust their legislators." There is neither rhyme nor reason in the slogan. Legislators are elected to do the will of the voters. Why should they object to binding themselves by signing a statement, any more than by florid displays of oratory during the campaign? In the present time, when the drawing of party lines is so little practiced, in this age of the split ticket, so to speak, there should be no hesitation on the part of legislators to vote for the choice of their constituents. They will only be practicing the same thing, as the agents of the people, that the people themselves practice in the privacy of the election booth.

By all means give Minnesota the Oregon plan. Such a step will not be climbing upon any bandwagon. It will be only the maintenance of an honorable position in the ranks of states that are pioneers in the things that are best.

THE COUNTY JAIL.

Apparently there is something radically wrong about the St. Louis county jail, according to the report of the grand jury. That body finds the space in the building inadequate, the ventilation poor, and the sanitary conditions, in the present crowded condition of the building, "vile." At the same time the jurors exonerate the present officials from all blame in the matter, evidently believing that they are making the best of what they are given by the county.

A few years ago there was no serious opposition to the herding of prisoners. Today there is a strong public sentiment against treating even the most vicious of them like swine, and St. Louis county owes it no less to her own name than to those citizens she is obliged to shut within four walls, to see that they are given at least human treatment.

Radical steps are urged by the grand jury to remedy conditions. The jurors want the county to issue bonds or certificates for the immediate erection of a new, commodious and sanitary jail, on the county's lot near the new courthouse. Such action would involve the county in great expense, and there should be careful consideration of many points before any decision is reached. The legislature, which must authorize the issue of bonds for that purpose, is now in session, and it is possible that in eagerness to secure action before that body adjourns for the next two years, the county might be hurried into ill-advised action. It would seem, however, in the light of the urgent need of some changes voiced by the grand jury, that the county should at least take some steps for the betterment of conditions in the old building, if possible, to tide over the time before the next legislative session would have an opportunity to act on the building proposition.

Probably the best course would be for the commissioners to investigate the possibility of enlarging the quarters for prisoners, installing some good system of ventilation and otherwise making the present jail more fit for occupation, and leave the question of a new building and its location to be considered more in detail by the people of the county and the officials.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING.

During the present week there will be held at Washington what probably will be the most important national gathering since the first conference of governors at the White House during the Roosevelt administration. Something like a thousand businessmen from various sections of the country will meet with the president and the National Tariff Commission association to discuss the bill pending before congress for the perpetuation of the tariff commission. The gathering will be memorable as a non-political step to solve the problem of taxation of imports, and if the hopes of the National association are realized, it will mark an epoch in the history of tariff-making in this country.

One of the strongest indications of the power that this gathering will have with congress is the interest which it has aroused in all parts of the country. Chambers of commerce, boards of trade, industrial and mercantile associations alike have taken hold of the movement, and will be represented at the Washington gathering. "No party or factional forces are to dominate or dictate to this movement," say the dispatches from Washington, and that is just what the country wants and needs.

Removal of the tariff from partisan control must be accomplished if the governmental revenues are to be secured and handled on a business basis, and the work of the National Tariff Commission association, supplemented by the efforts of such a body of men as will meet the members of that association, the officials of the general government and members of congress this week, will go far toward bringing about the needed separation.

THE CROSS-ROADS CHURCH.

What is to become of the country church? Is it to fade from the life of the American people? Is its day of influence among them drawing to a close? If so, what is to take its place?

These questions are asked by the Kansas City Times, apropos of a letter from J. W. McKean, a missionary of the American Sunday School union. If the questions represent a condition that prevails in the rural districts they raise a point that can hardly be overlooked in considering life in the farming communities of the country.

Peculiar interests always have centered about the cross-roads churches scattered throughout the earlier settled portions of the United States. They have been the places of religious instruction of thousands. From their pulpits have come the words of encouragement in the faith that have cheered or comforted men and women in their seasons of deepest sorrow. In their high-backed pews have gathered the little children of many generations for that early instruction in religious matters that should prove the guiding principle of their more mature days.

But there always has been more than a mere religious interest in the country church. It has been the center of social life in many communities, and within the four walls that enclosed the single room not only the soul, but the stomach of man has been treated to the good things it craved. Childish ambitions in public speaking have been born and realized there. Boys and girls have begun—and ended—the first romance of their lives among the hard benches, around the red hot stove and even before the low altar and high pulpit. Youths and maidens have stood there as they joined hands for the remainder of their journey through life. Aged saints have been borne from the consecrated precincts to their last resting place in the cross-studded grass plot nearby.

For many men and women the cross-roads church has stood as a memorial of the happiest and the saddest things in life, and for hundreds upon hundreds of zealous servants of the gospel it has been the scene of their most earnest efforts to carry the "tidings of great joy" to those to whom they had been chosen to minister.

Is the country church passing? And if so, why? Investigation in one county in Missouri showed that ten such institutions had been closed and abandoned within as many years. It is suggested that they failed to keep abreast of the times and the spirit of the people; that they got out of touch with those who naturally would depend upon them for religious teaching and failed to meet the needs of the people of the community. Granting that this is so, is it because the people themselves have changed, have grown away from the old teachings, or is it that the teachers have failed to present the gospel of love and service as it should be presented to keep its hold on the human heart?

Whatever the cause, there seems to be passing from the country an institution that has borne a peculiar relation to the lives of the people and one whose place it would seem impossible to fill completely.

GERMANY FEELS SLIGHTED.

Count von Reventlow of Berlin is the latest international humorist. He is trying his best to start something on the basis that the American Atlantic fleet visited French and British ports and did not stop at any German harbor during the recent cruise. He sees in fact a deliberate snub to Germany on the part of Uncle Sam, and a deep-laid plot for the formation of a Franco-British-American entente, that may prove a menace to Germany and her interests on sea and land. He even sees in the "postprandial effervescence" of Commander Sims at the London banquet an unintentional public utterance of the sentiments that led to this "discrimination" in the planning of the battleship cruise, and he wants to know how President Taft can be so inconsistent as to investigate the Sims matter.

Count von Reventlow is noted as an anti-British and anti-American naval critic, and so perhaps his sensations over the American action are only to be expected. There was nothing in the nature of a slight to Germany in the battleship cruise. That country suffered no more than did Russia, Italy, Spain, Holland, Norway, Sweden and the lesser European nations whose shopkeepers got no chance to bleed the Yankee sailors by the sale of curios and other things. The cruise was made as a measure of peace and good will, and the attempt to turn it into an expression of warlike alliance is not a bit short of absurd. The count had better turn over on the other side and see if the change of position will not give a better character to his dreams by taking the pressure off his sword-arm.

Did the week-end develop that your good resolutions had weakened?

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Queer Kind of Copper.

Stillwater Gazette: Milwaukee is to have a female policeman. She will not be obliged to dress as do the other police officers, and isn't expected to drop in for a schnitt or smoke a cigar, while on duty, but will be given a badge of authority, will make it a point to visit places where women and girls are employed and then sign the payroll once a month.

There is a strong probability that she will do neither of the things mentioned when off duty, even though she is in Milwaukee.

Develops 'Em in a Hurry.

Little Falls Transcript: To hear the militarists tell it, Uncle Sam has not a sound muscle in his whole anatomy.

That's the idea that once was prevalent in Spain.

Very Few "Halves" In the Pocket.

Walker Pioneer: With all the talk about prices coming down, a half dollar beef roast remains vest-pocket size.

However, don't let this induce you to eat the vest.

Alimony for Lame Ducks.

Proctor Journal: Some statesmen when they are divorced from the government payroll act as if they were entitled to alimony.

In the case of many of them, the public treasury should be awarded the alimony.

Cause of the Exodus.

Winona Independent: English-speaking miners are leaving the anthracite region. We presume this is because the trust sells coal to the people at such ruinously low prices that it must get cheaper labor.

An announcement to the effect that it will be necessary to increase the selling price of coal because of labor conditions is not an impossible result.

Considerate Mr. Hitchcock.

Proctor Journal: Mr. Hitchcock, the postmaster general, seems to favor a parcels post wherever the express companies have not made other arrangements.

But it's probable that even the smallest beginning of a parcels post system will grow so rapidly in popular favor that even the Hitchcock brand of public official will be forced to inaugurate a universal system.

Kind of Model It Is.

Walker Pioneer: Mexico simply could not stand the strain of being the model Latin-American republic any longer.

The inventor of that government always knew it was only a model—a small imitation of the real thing.

Shortening the Hat Pins.

Carlton Vidette: If it is true that long hat pins frighten men away from church, a movement to provide them with wire fence cutters might mean a spiritual uplift.

Which defensive tactics, if generally adopted, would result in increasing the budget of the ultimate consumer of hat pins, and some man would find it necessary, in most cases, to supply the funds to meet the budget requirements.

Stopping the Paper.

Virginia Virginian: Funny, boys, isn't it, how the outgoing officials always stop the paper about this time of the year?

The outgoing ones would be thankful for a pretext to continue as subscribers, if the address on the wrapper might remain the same as it has been for the last two years.

"Republican Ideals."

Kansas City Times: The declared purpose of a conference of progressive Republican leaders of Minnesota, held yesterday, was to restore the Republican party to its old ideals.

That is a progressive purpose with a retroactive process. The Republican party was once the party of the people, founded on an issue of human rights as against special privilege. But for many years it has been accepted as the party of plutocracy because of its intimate affiliation with the great interests and its fostering of privilege.

In the matter of the tariff, for example, the original Republican ideal was that the protective policy should be employed only for the purpose of "naturalizing" foreign industries; that after protection had been given an industry a reasonable length of time it must show capacity to compete with foreign importations without protection or be abandoned in order that the people, the consumers, should have the benefit of the best possible market.

If the progressives will go back to that ideal they will be going forward indeed. But not only in this direction, but also in others, the progressives cannot employ themselves better than in giving attention to some of the fundamental doctrines of old Republicanism.

As for the restoration of unity in the Republican party, the Minnesota conference offered no compromise to the regulars. If there is unity it must be on progressive lines. And that position is not only morally right but politically sound. The people are progressive. The enduring party or parties must be progressive.

Thieves Ready for Murder.

Cleveland Leader: It cannot have escaped notice that an extraordinary number of footpads, burglars, train robbers and highwaymen who raid street cars and stop vehicles on country roads, have either killed victims or tried to do so. They have used deadly weapons with the utmost readiness and with little or no concern for the consequences.

In short, these thieves have proved, over and over, that they go about their crimes as potential murders. They are ready to kill, and they do not intend to let human life stand in the way of their stealing. They show that they would rather murder men who never harmed them than work for their own living.

Policemen, juries, judges and pardon boards ought never to lose sight of these facts. Officers of the law should not take too many chances of being killed because of excessive consideration for the lives of criminals of the kind that go armed and ready for murder. Juries and judges ought to do the best they can to protect honest men and women from these brutal thieves for long periods, after they are once caught, and pardon boards should remember that they are dealing with men who have proved capable of murder and are ready to kill.

There is another protection for society which ought to be built as high as possible, to decrease the number of innocent victims that fall before the revolvers and automatic pistols of murderous thieves. This is the strict enforcement of laws against carrying concealed weapons and the rigid restriction of traffic in such tools of killing. Every possible means must be taken to abate the thuggery which is terribly common in the United States this winter.

Lincoln and the War Scare.

As for the peril of foreign invasion, the Nashville Banner digs out of an old speech by Lincoln an opinion that ought to impress the general staff. "All the armies of Europe, Asia and Africa combined," said he to an Illinois audience, "with all the treasure of the earth (our own excepted) in their military chest, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not by force take a drink from the Ohio or make a track on the Blue Ridge in a trial of a thousand years."

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

SOME PLAIN TALK ON A STATE LAND POLICY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The ringing recommendations of Attorney General Simpson in regard to the sale of state lands sound pretty good to me. I have been living for years where I could see the viciousness of the state's land policy. I have in mind a piece of fine state land near at hand on which a man settled a few years ago expecting to buy it later, but when it came to the land sale he made the fatal error of winking the wrong eye at the auditor and a land speculator got the land.

The settler was allowed to move his shack away as a special favor. The land is still held for speculation, the price multiplied by three; terms impossible for any one who must depend on developing the land. The land, together with hundreds of other acres that are being held on speculation, makes a great fire trap that keeps us in a guessing contest for a couple of months spring and fall as to the probabilities of coming through alive or burning up. "In the good old summer time" we have a third guessing contest as to whether the lumbermen-government's flood covers all the landscape or leaves some of it sticking out.

The land speculator doesn't care whether the man who buys his land succeeds or not so that he can make a substantial payment at the start, and he expects the state to furnish highly colored advertising matter to bring the investor with a little ready money from the more crowded sections. But when the man comes the speculator does not want to compete with the state land contract, which is very favorable to the settler. It is the hedge the state auditor puts round the contract that kills.

A state officer who has anything to do with the disposal of state lands should not be a speculator in land himself. He is likely to devote more energy to making his private speculations profitable than he devotes to the state's. There are strong reasons for believing they have been doing it for years past.

I note in a recent issue of The Herald that our representative says he goes to the legislature as a "hired man" of the people. He also says he wants the people to let him know at first hand what they want done and right here I am going to tell what I want done in the shape of a state land policy.

First. The state to show the land to the home seeker making it as cheap and easy as possible for the settler to find and settle on the land; wild land at $5 per acre, regular state land contract. Contract as soon as land is selected.

Second. Require settlers to move on land in reasonable time and to keep at least two cows or cattle of some kind for each forty acres. The cattle will almost insure the success of the home maker and one cow ranging in the woods is more protection against fire than any two fire rangers we have known here. The state could discharge its fire rangers and double its money right there.

Taird. Free timber for all necessary building and fencing.

Fourth. Discontinue the sale of timber for lumbering purposes except in case of waste and the forestry commission ought to be able to take care of that.

Of course when a lumberman can buy $100,000 worth of standing timber of the state for $1,000 that lumberman develops very fast but after a few deals the lumberman spends his winters in Florida and his summers in Europe and may buy a few automobiles, but where does the state come in?

With a land policy something like this there are countless opportunities for the home builder. Of course results will not come without intelligent effort but the glory of achievement is far beyond the wildest dreams of the wage slave out of a job.

Let my representative and all the other representatives line up behind the attorney general and lend strength to his arm in this matter and they will not have lived in vain. Come now, don't hang back and look sheepish!

Great Pennsylvania's Place.

Philadelphia Inquirer: With a population of 7,665,111, Pennsylvania is easily the most important commonwealth in the country. New York, with its 9,000,000 and more, makes an apparently better showing, but this disappears when it is remembered that more than one-half of this total is in New York city alone, where the east side foreigners swell the figures. Pennsylvania has over 6,000,000 outside its principal city, while New York has only a little more than 4,000,000. The population of Erie county, N. Y., is tolerably near to that of Alleghany county, in this state, so that the contrast is even more remarkable. The area of New York is larger than that of Pennsylvania and its arable land much greater, but Pennsylvania has the larger rural population.

A Crumb of Comfort.

Boston Globe: With the suppressed Dickinson report that the United States is wholly unprepared for war still ringing in our ears, it is a crumb of comfort to learn that the military equipment of other nations is wofully inadequate.

Two important reforms, according to Le Journal Officiel, are to be wrought soon in the French army. Hitherto an infantry officer's tunic has had seven buttons and a collar of one specified height regardless of length of neck. Hereafter the number of buttons will be increased to nine and the collar may measure any height between 1 3-5 inches and 2 2-5 inches.

Justice Without Technicality.

Topeka Daily Capital: Wisconsin's supreme court, like that of Kansas, is attracting favorable comment by administering justice without regard to technicality, but it is assisted by two laws, recently passed in the state, one as late as 1909, requiring the supreme court to disregard errors in the lower court which do not affect the substantial rights of the complainant, or, in criminal cases, the accused.

A recent Wisconsin decision revolutionizes the rule in that state, and incidentally is contrary to the decisions of the supreme court of the United States, in which the state court holds that an omission of arraignment and plea is not a substantial error, where the defendant clearly understood of what he was accused. This decision, while contrary to the federal supreme court rulings, is in accordance with the practice in England, and it may be said that England's expeditious and sensible criminal practice, of which so much has been favorably said, is something decidedly recent itself. The New York Commission on the Law's Delay a few years ago, which was "profoundly impressed" with English methods of procedure, reported that the English courts had recently become the most efficient in the world, from being actually the most dilatory.

It is stated by the Journal of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology—a title that ought to be changed, by the way, if the publishers ever expect to see it generally quoted—that the contrary rule to that of Wisconsin in the matter of the omission of the technicality of arraignment and plea was responsible not long ago for undoing the labor of months in the indictment of the Chicago packers by the federal government, in which case, while the multitudinous tautologies and verbiage of the law in the wilderness of words that made up the indictment did over and over again explain what the indictment was for, so that there could be no conceivable misunderstanding of the defendants as to what they were arraigned for and what they were answering to, yet the obvious direct statement was omitted in the indictment that the defendants were engaged in interstate commerce. All the work, time and money outlay by the government were therefore lost.

When this sort of worship of legal subtleties and technicalities and traditional wording controls in criminal practice the final result should not be surprising—and that is that justice is so delayed in its final deliverances that it has become a proverb that the courts are overwhelmed with business and it is next to impossible to secure from them prompt administration of justice.

President Taft as one of the greatest of American lawyers and judges has expressed what has long been lay opinion and is becoming the opinion of the bar, that radical reform of judicial procedure is perhaps the chief need of the times. The Kansas and Wisconsin supreme courts, and the supreme court of Oklahoma, have taken the lead in this reform, so far as they have the discretion, but considerable new law-making will be necessary before the administration of justice is efficient in the United States.

A Splendid Chance.

Washington Star: "Turkey raising is an arduous business," said a wholesale poultry dealer of Baltimore. "Day and night you must look after your birds the same as you look after horses.

"California turkeys are very fine. They are very well taken care of. It's no snap to work on a California turkey farm, I tell you.

"I was visiting a California turkey farm last month when a boy applied for a job.

"'Your references are good. I'll try you,' said the farmer.

TWO HARBORS TO PAY HIGH TAXES

Rate Said to Be 65.8 Mills on Every Dollar of Taxable Property.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rate of taxation as reported by County Auditor Paulson will be 65.8 mills on every dollar of taxable property, in Two Harbors, an increase of at least 3 mills.

The cause of this high rate is principally the special levy made by the city council on account of grading Cedar and Poplar streets, one half of the cost being paid by the city out of the general fund, as the cost was in the neighborhood of $24,000 one-half was taken out of the general fund, so $12,000 was assesed by a special levy.

There was also an increase in the levy for general purposes, as the city bought a new rock crusher and made extensive improvements all over the city.

It is the opinion of a great many that the new school now being built, costing $60,000, is the cause of the high rate, but this is not so. The building is being built by bonds which were sold to the state of Minnesota, $55,000 worth drawing 4 per cent interest, and no extra levy has been made by the school board or school district for that purpose.

The new school building of sixteen rooms is to be finished by April 1, and it is expected all the rooms will be filled during the year 1911.

HIBBING SEEKING SCHOOL OF MINES

Commercial Club at Annual Meeting Adopts Resolution to That End.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Commercial club, held last night the old officers were chosen for another year. D. D. McEachin, president; J. T. Lewis, secretary; Miles Gandsey, treasurer, and Robert Stratton, vice president. A strong effort will be made to secure regular terms both of the district, and the probate court, instead of only an adjourned session of the district, and no meeting of the probate court as at present. Acting on a resolution by Editor R. W. Hitchcock, of the Hibbing Tribune, efforts will be made to secure a building to house one of the state schools of mines. Mr. Hitchcock called attention to the large number of mining experts employed in and around the city. A motion by A. P. Silliman to ask the state to vote the sum of $50,000 annually for the support of the school of mines prevailed. Mr. Silliman mentioned that at the present time the school was dependent upon a current expense fund for its support, and that the greatest amount ever voted in one year was $30,000. It was also decided to establish a park board and to make efforts to secure park ground for the city. Various other measures for the betterment of conditions and business were proposed, and an effort made to alter the meeting night from Monday to Wednesday. Reports of committees were read and votes of thanks passed for the work done. It was decided to grant the secretary 10 per cent of the dues to help defray the expenses of his office. The annual finnncial report will be prepared for the next meeting of the club.

CUTTING TIMBER AROUND NASHWAUK

Large Amounts of Lagging, Mining Timber and Cordwood Being Cut.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The timber cutting in this locality is being carried on more extensively this winter than for many years past. George Wilkins has a large contract of cutting logging and mining timber for the La Rue and Pearson mining companies. Mr. Wilkins has in the neighborhood of fifty men employed at his camp, which is located two miles due north of here, and is working under the supervision of Pearce and Drue, Chisholm mining men. His contract is expected to be finished by March 1.

John W. Berguson, who for a number of years has been engaged in the lumbering business throughout this district, has a larger crew of men than ever at work on his many forties north and southeast of here, and is cutting enormous quantities of mining timber, pulpwood, lagging and cord wood and is hauilling it here preparatory to shipping. Mr. Berguson states that his line of business has been of the best in many years this year.

POLICEMAN BEING TRIED.

Officer Stoner of Chisholm Charged With an Assault.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today in the district court the case of the State vs. Harley Stoner of Chisholm, was called for trial. The charge against Stoner is that on Aug. 20 last, while employed as a policeman in the village of Chisholm, he shot and injured James Moore. James Moore and a friend were driving across Longyear bridge in Chisholm at a furious pace. When the patrolman called to them to stop they claim they could not pull the horse up. Harley Stoner apparently thinking they were trying to escape, fired his revolver at them three or four times, finally hitting James Moore in the back, and severely wounding him. It was expected at one time that he would die, but he afterwards recovered, and the charge is one of assault in the second degree. The offense carries a sentence of imprisonment not to exceed five years and $1,000 fine.

The damage case of Reuben Swenson against G. H. Cole to recover $5,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained when the plaintiff picked up a dynamite cap at Cole's drilling camp, which exploded in his hand, was settled out of court yesterday and the action dropped.

loss occasioned by express and freight shipments, damages to business connected with saloons as well as hotels which ran bars.

All saloons will reopen. The decision of Judge Willard, based on the broad question of state rights, meets with general approval. It has not been decided if any suits or actions will be commenced by the local liquor interests. A meeting will be held to determine their action in this regard.

Cost Walker $3,000.

Walker, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.—The news of the "lifted lid" is the one topic of conversation here today and a majority of the people appear to be pleased that the saloons will be reopened. There is no liquor in the village at present, but shipments are now on the way. The loss of business to the two saloon men is estimated by them at $3,000. A greater portion of this loss falls on L. H. Chase, proprietor of the Hotel Chase, and is due to a falling off of business at the hotel as a result of a closed bar. Mr. Carlson of the Cottage Inn says that the thirty-six days in which his saloon was closed cost him about $500 due to the loss of the tonnage and falling off in business to his rooming house. On being asked if he would sue for the loss of money incurred by the closing Mr. Carlson replied that he had no intention of doing so, that the closing order would probably in time work out for good, as it acquainted saloon men more thoroughly with the laws and would have a tendency to make them be more particular in the future in conducting their business according to law. Members of the village council have previously stated that, in case saloons here were reopened, the state law would have to be lived up to in every particular.

fices were closed. He was told to come back the next day and he was just returning from town with the warrant when he found Riley at his house. The shooting took place then, it is alleged.

It was the first impression that the men had quarreled. It now appears that there was no quarrel. They hardly knew one another and on the day Riley was at the Schmitz home, he had made the visit for the purpose of obtaining a horse shoe. Schmitz had the idea that Riley was trying to shoot him and no amount of talk would make him believe otherwise.

Ernest Riley, the young son of the dead man, was on the stand this morning and told how he and his father had been shooting at a mark. The mark was directly in line with the Schmitz home, although, he said, they had thought nothing of it. He said that they had shot four or five times and that once they had hit the mark. He was on the stand when court adjourned for the noon recess.

It took all day yesterday to draw a jury. In all thirty-two men were examined, but twenty of them were excused.

Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene is appearing for the state and Attorney A. E. McManus is defending.

The jurymen are: L. F. Swain, Hibbing; Dennis J. Deighton, Duluth; Dougal B. McDonald, Proctor; James A. Lawrie, Duluth; G. A. Wellner, Hibbing; James T. Currie, Duluth; Walter L. Dash, New Duluth; E. J. Millette, Eveleth; Gust Dahlin, Duluth; E. F. Heller, Duluth; William F. Murnian, Duluth; Louis R. King, Duluth.

OLD COMMON SENSE.

Change Food When You Feel Out of Sorts.

"A great deal depends upon yourself and the kind of food you eat," the wise old doctor said to a man who came to him sick with stomach trouble and sick headache once or twice a week, and who had been taking pills and different medicines for three or four years.

He was induced to stop eating any sort of fried food or meat for breakfast, and was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, leaving off all medicines.

In a few days he began to get better, and now he has entirely recovered and writes that he is in better health than he has been before in twenty years. This man is 58 years old and says he feels "like a new man all the time."

COLD WAVE IS COMING

Mercury Likely to Go Far Below Zero Mark Before Morning.

The Weather Will Become Still Colder By Wednesday Night.

Another cold wave is due to hit Duluth tonight.

Out West they are shivering in temperatures of from zero to 30 deg. below, and this kind of weather is floating along toward Duluth, scheduled to arrive before tomorrow morning.

Duluthians are warned by the weather man to hold pleasant converse with the furnace tonight, to treat it considerately, and coax it along to give forth its best efforts, for by 7 o'clock tomorrow morning when the sun peeps above the horizon, the thermometer will register about 10 deg. below zero, or possibly worse.

The cold snap is due to last all day tomorrow, and by Wednesday night will probably suffer a relapse, and go even lower. "It may run along like this for quite a while," said the weather man, "without any appreciable change for forty-eight hours, and then it may get worse."

BILLS TO EXTEND THE POWER OF THE PEOPLE

nounced. Representative Spooner offered a bill proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing the initiative and referendum and recall. Representative Kneeland proposed to recall upon 25 per cent petitions, in a bill offered this morning. Representative Campbell also came to bat with the initiative and referendum, requiring 8 per cent petitions for the former and 5 per cent for the latter.

J. N. Johnson was the author of another initiative and referendum bill, and in the senate, Senator Lende offered a bill similar to Campbell's house bill.

Representative Keefe offered his Oregon plan bill, described yesterday.

The senate had a brief tilt over printing the evidence in the contest cases, and the matter was laid over to tomorrow without the expected clash between the Stephens and Saugstad forces.

The senate passed under suspension of the rules a bill by Senator Wilson appropriating $175,000 for the expenses of the session.

The house adopted a resolution by Campbell requiring the committee on legislature expenditures to audit all expenditures, and to meet twice a month for that purpose. Representative Nolan offered a resolution requiring all committees to keep a record of committee actions, to be kept open for public inspection. It was referred to the rules committee.

Other Measures Proposed.

Among the bills introduced were the following:

Senator Wilson — Authorizing M. H. Dunnell to make a compilation of the statutes, to be completed in 1913.

Senator Wilson—Authorizing savings banks to buy public bonds of Northwestern states, providing the communities that issue them have no bonded debt exceeding 10 per cent of their valuations.

Senator J. D. Sullivan—Authorizing a legal voter, with a certificate that he is registered, to vote anywhere he may happen to be on election day, on questions of state-wide interest.

Senator J. D. Sullivan—Requiring the use of Minnesota stone in state buildings.

Senator Pauly—Requiring city councils to pass ordinances requiring the sale by weight of nearly all market commodities.

Senator Hayecraft—To keep the polling places everywhere open until 9 p. m. at both primary and general elections.

Senator Dunn—Extending the tree bounty law from the prairies to the rest of the state.

Representative Fisher — To keep voters from getting into the wrong party primary by making them register their party affiliations.

Representative Lydiard—Prohibiting any state officer or employe from being interested in state contracts.

Representative Harding—Prohibiting swearing or drinking on trains or street cars.

Representative Campbell—Requiring corporations to pay twice a month.

Representative Converse—Prohibiting licensing of more than five saloons to the block in first-class cities.

Monday Night's Sessions.

Last night's sessions of both branches of the legislature were purely perfunctory, and held because they had to be held. The Constitution prohibits either house adjourning for more than two days without the consent of the other, and in process of time this has come to mean that the legislature cannot adjourn over two days. Friday and Saturday were the two days, and last night's sessions were held merely to show the respect of the legislature for the Constitution.

In the house all that was done was to approve the journal and adjourn to this morning.

The senate did that also, and besides received several bills, including the Works bill for the Oregon plan of electing United States senators, referred to in these dispatches yesterday.

Senator Murray introduced a bill which amounts to the Oregon plan without the requirement that candidates for the legislature sign statements. It extends the primary erection system to candidates for United States senator, and provides that the successful candidates at the primaries shall be voted on at the general election. The rest is up to the legislature. It can ratify the people's choice or not, as it pleases.

Senator Lende introduced a bill repealing the mortgage registry tax law.

Senator Works offered a bill providing a pension of $12 a month to citizen soldiers who participated in the Minnesota Indian massacres of 1862-65.

Senator E. P. Peterson proposes the abolition of the death penalty in a bill offered last evening.

This evening the citizens of St. Paul will entertain the legislature at a banquet.

Range Court Terms.

Senator Boyle of Eveleth and Representative Knapp of Chisholm, the lawyer members from the range, were busy yesterday preparing a bill affecting the range terms of district court. At present there are four terms a year, nominally held at Virginia, but frequently adjourned to Hibbing to take care of cases on the Western Mesaba. This has proved unsatisfactory. It is said, because it is impossible to determine very far in advance when the Hibbing sessions will be held. To cure that trouble, it is proposed to have six terms a year on the range, to be held alternately at Virginia and Hibbing.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

THREE MARQUETTE DEATHS.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — Mrs. Nettie Culver Jones, wife of Shelley B. Jones, manager of the People's Drug store, died Saturday evening at her home, of pneumonia. COULD NOT PUT HANDS IN WATER

Because of Severe and Stubborn Eczema. Used Everything for Nearly Eight Years. Could not Sleep. After Few Applications of Cuticura Ointment, Burning and Itching Lessened. Could Sleep Well.

Now Has Hands as Clear as Anyone.

"Some nine years ago I noticed small pimples breaking out on the back of my hands. They became very irritating, and gradually became worse, so that I could not sleep at night. I consulted a physician who treated me a long time, but it got worse, and I could not put my hands in water. I was treated at the hospital, and it was just the same. I was told that it was a very bad case of eczema. Well, I just kept on using everything that I could for nearly eight years until I was advised to try Cuticura Ointment. I did so, and I found after a few applications and by bandaging my hands well up that the burning sensations were disappearing. I could sleep well, and did not have any itching during the night. I began after a while to use Cuticura Soap for a wash for them, and I think by using the Soap and Ointment I was much benefited. I stuck to the Cuticura treatment, and thought if I could use other remedies for over seven years with no result, and after only having a few applications and finding ease from Cuticura Ointment, I thought it deserved a fair trial with a severe and stubborn case. I used the Ointment and Soap for nearly six months, and I am glad to say that I have hands as clear as anyone.

"It is my wish that you publish this letter to all the world, and if anyone doubts it, let them write me and I will give them the name of my physician, also the hospital I was treated at." (Signed) Miss Mary A. Bentley, 93 University St., Montreal, Que., Sept. 14, '10.

A MEETING OF PROTEST

Socialists of Duluth Plan Gathering to Air Their Grievances.

Will Be Part of World-Wide Movement on Lincoln's Birthday.

Although no definite plans have been made, it is probable that the Socialists of Duluth will hold a meeting Feb. 12, the anniversary of Lincoln's birth, to protest against what a Socialist paper terms the "lawless despotism of the capitalist courts of the United States."

Fred D. Warren, editor of the Appeal to Reason, a Socialist paper published at Girard, Kan., was arrested, tried and convicted of violating the postal laws and put in a federal jail. Warren offered a reward of $1,000 if somebody would get Governor Taylor of Kentucky and take him back to the Bluegrass state, when he was under indictment for an alleged crime.

Fred Warren is now in a jail at Fort Scott, Kan., and on Feb. 12 thousands of Socialists in this and other lands will utter a protest against the machinery of federal courts, the delays of civil and criminal justice, and what a Socialist papor terms "the despotic power that is exercised to maintain capitalistic misrule."

On this eventful day several hundred thousand Socialists will send telegrams to President Taft, if the scheme is carried out in the United States and abroad as fully as is expected. Probably none will reach the president personally, but the business will help the earnings of capitalistic corporations and will bring pleasure to the Socialists. It will be a good advertising stunt, too. The Socialists have proven themselves first-class advertisers, and the last election returns show that they are the third party in the United States and the fastest growing political power in the world.

MAKES YOUR HAIR SOFT AND GLOSSY

"Most shampoo mixtures," says Mrs. Mae Martyn, in the Philadelphia Press, "rob the scalp of all oily secretion, leaving it dry and harsh, and the hair grows brittle and is hard to manage. This causes dandruff, falling hair and premature grayness, ageing a woman ten years.

"A reliable shampoo mixture can be made at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water. Pour this on the scalp and rub well, then rinse carefully, and you will find it leaves the hair soft and glossy and puts the scalp in a healthy condition.

"Shampooing with this mixture is a delight and costs but a trifle, but you should be careful to get an original package of canthrox."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Fools the Calendar

Don't look older than you are. It is just as easy to look younger. While lack of hair or poor hair is not always an indication of age, it is frequently accepted as such.

A person well advanced in years possessing a good head of hair is always spoken of as "well preserved."

Every one can retain beautiful, luxuriant hair if they make the effort. In almost every instance poor hair or the loss of hair may be traced to the activity of the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide kills this germ and puts the scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. With the destruction of the dandruff germ the hair no longer drops out. The itching of the scalp stops almost at once.

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy for which there are many substitutes, preparations claimed to be "just as good." You don't have to accept a substitute. Insist upon having genuine Herpicide.

For sale by all druggists. Applications obtained at good barber shops. One dollar size bottles are always guaranteed. Send 10c in postage to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for sample and book.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LA MOURE IS CHAIRMAN

Members of North Dakota Senate Appropriations Committee.

Decreased Revenue Will Necessitate Cutting Down of Appropriations.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate's experience in the establishment of an appropriations committee removed from the prejudicial atmosphere of a membership reasonably certain of being selfish in the protection of "home institutions," when that membership is made up of members from counties in which state institutions are located, will be watched with a very great amount of interest this year. Lieutenant Governor U. L. Burdick, whose stand in this matter has been for the decision reached in the placing of members on the committee who are removed from sectional prejudices so far as possible, has been subjected to no little criticism because of his position, but he is quite confident, as are others who favor the plan, that it will work out satisfactorily to all concerned.

The members of the senate appropriations committee were announced by Lieutenant Governor Burdick today and are as follows:

Jud La Moure of Pembina, chairman; J. E. Davis of Sheridan, S. N. Putnam of Eddy, C. W. Plain of Cavalier, A. E. Movious of Richland, James Duncan of Benson, A. S. Gibbens of Towners, H. H. Steele of Renville, A. E. Martin of Billings, J. E. Williams of McLean, H. J. Line of Mountrail, W. B. Overson of Williston, C. W. Hookway of Granville, J. G. Gunderson of Nelson, Charles Ellingson of Steele, P. T. Kretschmar of McIntosh, W. C. McDowell of La Moure.

To Cut the Appropriations.

Appropriations by the legislative assembly this year will not be very great. The fact that only a fair percentage of the taxes will be paid this year—property owners allowing them to run a year—means a decreased revenue this year, although the biennial period will find the total revenue average up satisfactorily.

In view of this condition the appropriations committees of both houses will take on added importance, as it will be necessary to shave down a great many requests for appropriations.

In looking over the membership of the senate appropriations committee it appears that practically every member of that house, living away from an institution, has gained a place. Mr. Movius of Richland county comes from a county that has a state institution, but it is not in his district. Mr. La Moure also has an institution in his county, but that fact was not taken into consideration in his appointment.

The members of the appropriations committee of two years ago who lose places under the new order of things are Simpson of Stark, Gilbert and Kennedy of Cass, Stevens of Grand Forks, Welch of Burleigh, Pierce of Ransom, Baker of Devils Lake, Steel of Stutsman, Cashel of Walsh, Wallin of Dickey and McLean of Cavalier.

More Work to Other Committees.

Judiciary, state affair and appropriations committees will not be the only committees of importance in the house this year, and the same plan that has been adopted in the senate will be carried out in that branch as well. Two years ago the judiciary committee had a total of about 300 bills before it during the session, while the state affairs committee had about 250 bills.

This year, in order to relieve the work of those committees, Speaker Hanley has stated that he will adopt the policy of giving more work to other committees. One of the committees that will be made active will be the ways and means, and members of that committee are thus assured places that will carry considerable responsibility. Also, under this arrangement more members of the house will be put into active service.

Oregon's primary election law will be presented to the assembly this year to take the place of the present primary bill. H. D. PAULSON.

OLD TRAPPER HAS VERY CLOSE CALL

His Shack on Shores of Lake Hattie Takes Fire in Early Morning.

Pine River, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—August Radue, who lives in a trapper's shack on the shores of Lake Hattie, seven miles northeast of here, had a narrow escape from death in a fire which destroyed his shack a few morning's ago. The flames caught from an overheated chimney and had a big start before discovered by Radue, who was awakened. He was compelled to roll in the snow to extinguish the flames which had caught his clothing. The entire contents of his shack, including a large amount of provisions and a big batch of furs he was about to ship, were totally destroyed. Mr. Radue is an old scout, soldier, hunter, trapper and plainsman, being one of the few living men at this day who were with the United States soldiers fighting the Indians when Custer made his last stand. He was with the reinforcements that failed to reach Custer at the Little Big Horn when the Indians massacred Custer and his men.

SNOW SHOVELERS GET COLD SHOULDER

Effort to Force Great Northern to Pay Them More Money Fails.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forty-five Great Northern snow shovlers who came from Minneapolis without a cent in their pockets struck after two days labor at Larimore when asked to work on Sunday. They made a demand for 75 cents extra and when the company refused they stormed the chief of police's office for assistance.

The chief, however, did not think much of their refusing to work when they had not the price of a meal so they received little sympathy. The company gave them transportation back to Minneapolis.

The prices named on Minnesota farm machinery will save to those who purchase these machines $19.23 on a seven-foot Minnesota binder, $19.13 on a six-foot Minnesota binder and $6.78 on a five-foot Minnesota mower."

FARGO PLANS FOR A BIG GATHERING

Annual Meeting of Tri-State Grain Growers to Be Well Attended.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargoans have a busy time ahead next week. The twelfth annual session of the Tri-State Grain & Stock Growers will be held here and incident to that will be meetings of nearly a dozen other state organizations. There will be probably 1,500 visitors if the weather conditions are favorable.

The Tri-State organization had its inception from a suggestion by Budd Reeve of Buxton one day in Fargo, to the late J. A. Johnson, then mayor, and President Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college, that they could score a big hit by getting the grain and stock growers together. The idea appealed to them and they developed it into the biggest farmers' meeting held anywhere in the United States. It is attended by the up-to-date, wideawake, progressive agriculturalists.

Equity Societies to Meet.

The North Dakota Society of Equity and the district meeting of the society of the three states is also in session at the same time to discuss the matter of a terminal elevator at either the Twin Cities or the Head of the Lakes. The subscriptions required have practically all been secured. Later terminals will be established at both places.

There will be exhibitions by the North Dakota Kennel association and the North Dakota Poultry association and sessions of the state live stock society, the state horticultural society, the state veterinarians, the state civil engineers, and other meetings.

The horticulturalists, the equity people and the live stock men will have parts of the program during the four-day meet. One day will be devoted to matters of interest to women and James J. Hill of St. Paul is among the speakers for the last day of the Tri-State.

CREAMERY INSPECTION.

New Dairy Department Head to Call for Clean Up.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A more efficient method of governing Minnesota creameries will be outlined in the state dairy and food department under the direction of Joel P. Winkjer, the successor to Andrew D. French. He is planning a system by which all of the creameries of the state will be placed under the proper kind of inspection. Mr. Winkjer believes that much that Caroline Bartlett Crane said about the Minnesota creameries is true and he proposes to begin remedying the defects at the jump.

"The Minnesota creameries are not what they should be in cleanliness and methods," he said. "I have visited many of the creameries and canning factories in the state and I am by no means pleased with the conditions. In some places the creameries are good but in the majority every rule which tends to preserve public health is violated."

Mr. Winkjer favors a more thorough inspection of the creameries. He does not propose to make any threats, but believes that if the defects are brought home to the creameries by the state inspectors they will be glad to remedy them and place their plants in a sanitary condition. Mr. Winkjer assumes his office Jan. 15.

ROBBER BREAKS FROM SOUTH DAKOTA BASTILE.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 10.—With the aid of confederates on the outside who furnished him was a skeleton key, and a broken combination, Tom Dare, the would-be bank robber, who was sentenced to eight years and nine months in the penitentiary Saturday, escaped from the county jail here.

Sheriff Noonan was to have left with him and now has men scouring the hills. When Dare got out of the cage he bluffed the other prisoners into silence, dug through the brick wall and dropped to safety. Last month he attempted, in broad daylight, to hold up the First National bank here and shot at Cashier Poenansky.

PLAN PONTOON BRIDGE ACROSS THE MISSOURI.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 10.—One of the largest real estate transfers in the history of the county has just transpired when the Williston Land company transferred $50,000 worth of property here, including the black diamond coal mine, to J. W. Jackson. It is proposed to build a pontoon bridge across the Missouri river here, the city, Williams and McKenie counties, Great Northern railway and United States war department joining in the project.

Deputy Sheriff Rutledge Quits.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. G. Rutledge, deputy sheriff under Sheriff A. B. Hazen, for some time past, has tendered his resignation to the sheriff which is to take effect at once.

Sault Ste. Marie—Charging that he has obtained money under false pretenses, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of J. L. Shallerle on complaint of W. J. Bell of this city. Schallarle's trouble has to do with the recent cement deal which he endeavored to float here.

Woodlawn — Milton Bartsche, a woodsman, is dead from the effects of injuries received while standing near a skidway at John Duncan's camp here. His skull was fractured when a timber flew up and struck him on the head. It is stated that although Bartsche was employed in the camp he was not working on the skidway, but happened to be standing near it.

Barasa, formerly of Negaunee, who during the past few years has been the leading attorney in a number of criminal cases in Illinois and other states, has been engaged to defend Tony Ross and Michael Onifio, Kalamazoo men, who are charged with the murder of Joe Mourello. DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The Fargo postoffice shows a substantial gain in the sale of stamps during the last month. The sale of December, 1910, amounted to $514.93 more than it did for the same month of the preceding year.

Lakota, N. D.—Word was received that C. E. Kelly, who recently acquired fame in the financial world, is again in the toils at Brandon, Man. This time the charge is blackmail. Just what there is to the matter is not known, but it is presumed that if he really is under arrest in the Manitoba city, he will not be able to appear here for trial, and that his $250 bond will be forfeited for his non-appearance.

Fargo, N. D.—Mayor V. R. Lovell is confined to his home with an attack of the grip. Mayor Lovell, in company with City Engineer Anders, had contemplated leaving Friday night for Minneapolis to have a conference with some of the big consulting engineers of the Mill City, but the illness of the mayor caused the trip to be postponed. The trip will be taken at a later date.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Arthur, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. McKee, has won a reputation as a somnambulist. Friday night he was discovered about a block away from home near the Catholic church, having crawled out of bed and got that far before being missed. The little fellow was shivering and will no doubt have a severe cold to suffer with as a result of the experience.

Bismarck, N. D.—The funeral of B. F. Gage was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the McCabe Methodist church under the auspices of Bismarck Lodge No. 5, A. F. & A. M. The twine plant fund shows up at $63,860, and the game fund has reached up to $17,142. The treasury will within the next two or three days make a call for about $225,000 of outstanding general fund warrants, carrying cash to meet matured capitol warrants.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Burglars broke into the Minneapolis & St. Louis depot here, but secured only a little small change. The agent had deposited the day's receipts before closing at night. There is no clew to the thieves.

To make the analysis will occupy some six weeks, but at the end of that time the people will know all about the quality of the water.

Stillwater—The picturesque dwelling and grounds on the shore of Lilly lake has been sold to Mrs. Lois M. Tolen, wife of Gordon E. Tolen. Appleton—That the Wisconsin Telephone company officers fully intend to carry out the announcement made some time ago with respect to the erection of a new exchange building of substantial size here is evidenced by the fact that representatives of the company have been casting about for a possible site in the heart of the business district.

Wausau—Almost $3,800,000 was expended in building and construction during the last year in Wausau. The year just closed has seen the incorporation of companies in Marathon county with more than $1,000,000 in capital stock. Most of these industries were financed by local capital.

PACKY WINS DECISION

McFarland Has Better of Johnny McCarthy in Ten Rounds.

Chicago Boy Unmarked and Opponent Is Badly Beaten.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 10.—Packy McFarland won the decision over Johnny McCarthy of San Francisco in a ten-round bout here last night.

The Chicago boy led by a wide margin every round and left the ring unmarked. McCarthy's face was badly bruised. His nose bled freely from the third round until the end of the battle. Both fighters and Emmet Mellody, the referee, bore bloody evidence of McFarland's stinging blows to his opponent's face.

McCarthy fought a game fight, but his blows were ineffectual. He played for Packy's wind and kidneys in every round. McFarland's dazzling footwork caused the San Francisco pugilist to miss at least a third of the blows he started. When McCarthy did land his punches did not seem to carry force.

McFarland had agreed to make 135 pounds yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. To convince the fight followers that he was capable of reaching the lightweight limit of 133 pounds, he weighed in at a few ounces over this mark.

The much mooted question whether the Chicago boy was possessed of the knockout blow, was not settled last night, but few of the spectators were willing to say after this battle that he is not strong. With rights and lefts delivered from many angles, his contitunally rocked the Pacific coast fighter's head. At least three times during the fight, in the third, fourth and fifth rounds the gong saved McCarthy.

In the fifth round, so superior was McFarland's showing that McCarthy, bleeding badly, was so groggy he was forced to hang on to save himself and the crowd shouted to the referee to stop the fight.

McFarland paid little attention to his opponent's body. The majority of his blows were left uppercuts to the jaw and right and left swings to the head.

The tenth round finished fast. It appeared as if McCarthy would be knocked out. He swung wildly and ran into such a tattoo of McFarland's head punches that he became groggy. He clinched and was able to go the limit.

Referee Mellody several times cautioned McCarthy for hitting low.

In a preliminary bout Pierce Matthews of Denver knocked out Eddie Ramsey of Philadelphia in the fifth round.

Who Was the Greatest Pitcher?—Muddle in Minny League Politics—Hockey Players Delighted With Offer of Trophy.

(BY BRUCE.)

More of the greatest series—who was the greatest pitcher?

Mathewson, many of you fellows will say. Perhaps, and maybe not.

Amos Rusie will come right along in the running, for in those glorious days of his prime, where was there a pitcher who had anything on this giant?

Tim Keefe, a marvel, was considered the greatest pitcher in the world, along in 1883 and the six following years. In seven years he pitched 350 games, an average of fifty a season and his percentage of wins averaged .664. In 1888 this great man won nineteen straight victories and his work at that time had never been excelled for brilliancy.

There was old John Clarkson, the $10,000 beauty, who with King Kelly made up the famous battery. There was the famous German, Theodore Brietenstien, and there are Waddell and Brown. These were all great ones, and you know, Brown may be great this very day; that remains to be seen.

Jimmy Ryan, in a story just the other day, remarked that Rusie was as great as any of them. He probably possessed the most tremendous speed of any man who ever stood in the box. A giant of great stature, width and bulk, he seemed to know how to place every pound of his great weight behind the ball. Charlie Comiskey once stated that it was almost murder to permit this cannon ball flinger to pitch after it began to get in the least hazy.

It is hard for any man to say. There will always be disputes. Perhaps there was no greatest pitcher, for greatness on the baseball field is relative, in a way.

If you placed Mathewson at the head of all pitchers, you would find a lot of fans to agree with you; and if you stated Rusie was the greatest boxman who ever lived, a legion of the old timers would howl with glee.

Mathewson has a shrewd and calculating brain, wonderful curves and great speed. His speed was even greater a few years ago. Old fans say that Rusie had the greatest speed of any living pitcher, and this is generally admitted. He also had wide and terrific shooting curves. It is a question whether he had the brains of the pride of the Giants.

The majority of the fans who have lived in the days of the greatness of these two premier boxmen, will generally agree that the palm of pitching supremacy should be extended to one or the other. Which shall it be? A grave question that! Let's say Matty, who comes awful near approaching the greatest perfection of box work. Let not the verdant memory of the wonderful record of Uncle Cy Young be forgotten; he, too, must come right along with the great pitchers produced by the grand American game of baseball.

Some one, with a constitutional dread of mixups, has stated that the politics of the Minny league have been muddled. Isn't that a shame? Muddle means confusion and all that stuff, you know.

Awfully Sorry, Little Reggie, if Anyone Has Really Started a Baseball Muddle.

Muddles are good for politics and baseball. In fact, until we began to have muddles and things in our state and national politics the greedy bosses had things pretty much as they desired. Hurray for the heroic muddle.

Let's have a muddle in the Minny league political pond. Let's stir things up and give the league some advertising. It needs it. One complaint regarding the present regime, was that things were too quiet. It pays to advertise; pray let us advertise, as King Henry the VIII admonished.

Mr. Barton is a very clever chap, and he believes in advertising. He would make a very good president. True, he has not been called as mediator into any International dispute, for he has been so busy boosting clean and wholesome sports in the growing city of Minneapolis. But he is a sensible, level-headed and cleancut gentleman, and has a very large following in the Northwest.

There are lots of things Georgie hasn't done—and they are all to his credit. The things he has done, and his word is as good as his check in Minneapolis, have been creditable to clean sport, and because of his record he stands high among sportsmen of the Northwest.

Of course it isn't nice to make a muddle; it is real rude and no doubt inconsiderate. No one should have really butted in, as it has been implied that Mr. Force wants the job. That's always the trouble with politics—this mean muddle.

Of course when several gentlemen from this city approached Mr. Barton and gained his views on the situation, he should have told them that it would cause a muddle; that dreadful, horrible muddle! But he told them, unmindful of the muddle, that if the gentlemen so honored him, he would perform the duties of the office to the very best of his ability.

Now it is a matter of repeated fact that after sizing up the Barton boy, true blue, every bit of him, the gentlemen from this city were pretty well satisfied with him. They liked him, stated so plainly, after the meeting, and that is enough. But against you say that muddle! Of course, it's terrible, but I suppose that we must face it.

Let's have a good one. Give the league a lot of advertising. Bring out a lot of candidates, it makes the election all the better. Of course Barton is busy. In Minneapolis they have called Georgie Booster Barton, and he has earned the name honestly.

The fact that he hasn't been called into international disputes, to settle grave arguments, should not be held against him. His field of activity in Minneapolis has been broad and comprehensive, and he has delivered the goods.

He has played baseball, knows baseball and knows baseball people. He is a good booster and he would make an able president. Of course, there's that muddle; but if it must be, it must be. What's the matter with Barton? Those who know him, say he is all right.

Some interest in this great old game of hockey! The whole city is awakened to the thrills, sure, that's the game gives. word, that the Hockey is fast and clean and rare sport, and the business men and the fans are behind it.

Local Hockey Players Are Solid For The Manley-McLennan Cup.

As to the Manley-McLennan cup, the local boys are enthused with the idea. Yesterday Guy Warren, one of the pioneer boosters of clean sports in this city, stated that the offer of the business firm was an excellent one, and the result would be an increase in the already high interest in the game.

Edward Furni, pink-cheeked Ed, believes that in time the offered Manley-McLennan trophy will become as famous as the renowned Stanley cup, the trophy that is contested for annually on the other side of the International boundary line.

The scheme suggested by Mr. Manley is good. The trophy will be one of the handsomest ever offered in this country, if the present plans are carried. It has been suggested to Mr. Manley that some board or qualification committee rule on the teams that are eligible to contest for the trophy, and this suggestion has met with his warm approval.

There is little doubt but that the offer of the Manley-McLennan company will boost hockey here. The whole city is interested in the game, after the two corking games last week, and the offer of the cup was made at a most opportune time. It has advertised Duluth as a hockey center, and it has shown that we like good sport up this way.

Eventually it is going to bring some of the best hockey teams of the country here, and, Bill, that is precisely what we want.

It is pretty certain that we are going to have a fine hockey rink next winter, that will insure the success of one of the greatest winter games in this city. With a hockey rink such as the officials of the Duluth Curling club propose building, the crack aggregations of the United States will play here, and right there is where the cup will be the potent factor for adding the finest kind of competition.

Hockey players are enthusiastic, as they should be, and through this column Mr. Warren and Mr. Furni and others have asked that their thanks and appreciation be extended to the gentlemen making the kind offer.

New York, Jan. 10.—Joe Coster of Brooklyn had a shade the better of Abe Attell in a fast 10-round bout before the Vanderbilt A. C. in Brooklyn last night. Attell was forced to exert himself at all stages and in the tenth round Coster, with a hard right to the jaw, nearly put the featherweight champion through the ropes. Attell came back strong and both were fighting furiously at the bell.

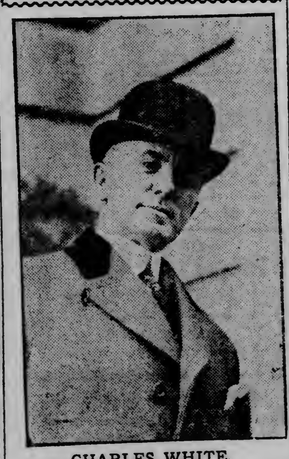

WRESTLERS ARE BUSY AT BAY CITY, MICH.

Bay City, Mich., Jan. 10.—After 1 hour and 50 minutes of hard wrestling here last night John Billiter of Toledo, lightweight champion of the United States, caught William Bingham, of London, Eng., English lightweight champion with a hammer-lock. Bingham's shoulder ligaments were torn. He will not be able to wrestle for at least two months.

Bingham defaulted the second fall with the understanding that he is to have a return match, thus leaving the championship title undecided.

In another hall "Strangler" Lewis of Toledo and Frank Burns of this city, middleweights, wrestled three hours without a fall.

CHARLEY WHITE INSISTS ON FIGHTS BEING "SQUARE"

CHARLES WHITE.

If Charley White lives up to his reputation he may find it necessary to stop the Sam Langford-Joe Jeanette fight in Boston. Although these old rivals have met at least a dozen times there has never been a knockout, the contests having gone the limit in every case. It has always been believed by the sporting world that Langford could beat Jeanette any time he wants to try. White is known as a referee who will not stand for any loose work and it will not be very surprising if he finds it necessary to stop the fight.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office for the benefit of curlers only.

FRANK CRASSWELLER, CHARLES WEST, E. A. FORSYTHE AND CHARLES OWENS.
Probably the Greatest Bunch of Curlers in the Local Club.

This is the outfit from Lakeside.

They look humble enough as they stand there posed for a picture, but if the photographer had yelled "Woodland" they would have started in a hurry. No, we didn't say which way.

During the summer months each man keeps a garden. When they are not fighting mosquitos or digging in the garden they may be found at the town hall. It is a great hangout, that town hall. The four are always there because they are afraid to stay away—those that are there might talk about the missing ones.

The town hall is a sort of clearing house for garden rakes, hoes, spades and other aides to growth. It is here that they borrow and lend and discuss how old Stebbins got stung in a horse trade by that smart young fellow from the city. Clever chap, thunder.

Looking carefully at the picture you will find on the extreme left Frank Crassweller. He bears up as well as he can under the strain of living in Lakeside. He pretends to enjoy life there, but a Woodland man says that he has almost won Frank over. Mr. Crassweller is well known through his long during the bonspiel. When Harry sons. He began curling years ago with Rev. Alexander Milne, but that was rather slow so he hooked up with a fast one, "Charlie" West. When a young man he learned the lawyer's trade and he has been working steadily at it ever since. When he is not in the trade, in the garden, or at the town hall, he may be found at the Curling club.

The peaceful looking fellow with the how-natural-he-looks pose is Charles West. He wanted to have his picture taken alone, but then he would have had it on the others. It is a mighty jealous bunch and his neighbors wouldn't stand for it. West is a soft shoe artist and some of his trips down the rink are featured with big circuit stuff. He never says a great deal, but when he does it is the last word.

E. A. Forsythe is the happiest member of this rink. This is probably because he hasn't lived in Lakeside as long as the others. He has had lots of practice at home in the sweeping line and that probably accounts for the tired feeling that is always with him when he has a game at the rink.

Charles Owens is always late. Of course, that is the car service more or less, mostly less. He can study on a shot longer than any other man in the club. When he starts to figure out how the shot should be played, the members of the two rinks go into the observation room for a game of seven-up. He is a very earnest curler and is very serious about it.

This rink has won several games during the present season.

Minneapolis, Dec. 10. — (Special to The Clarion.)—Harry Feetham of this place will leave Sunday of next week for Duluth, where he expects to be awarded several medals for good curling moved here some months ago it was summer. At the station he hired a taxi and told them to take him to the Curling club. He found the club and then rented a house as close to the rink as he could. He has been living at home when he couldn't get into the rink.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 10.—(Special to The Clarion.) — A. H. Smith started yesterday to walk to Duluth, where the big annual bonspiel will be held next week. He says he has just naturally got to be on hand.

SUPERIOR WINS FIRST CONTEST

Duluth Curlers Beaten in Opening Game for Manley-McLennan Trophy.

To the surprise of many members of the Fireside club, and also contrary to the general dope, the Superior curlers last evening took the opening game of the Manley-McLennan contest, the total score being 44 to 40 in favor of the suburbanites.

Some very good curling resulted and from the form shown by the visitors there is deep fear and shivering apprehension least the time honored trophy, which has been held continuously by the Duluth club, may pass into the hands of the Philistines, so to speak. The curling of Smith's rink was particularly good, and Duluth men say it will take a very fast rink to defeat that combination. The defeat of Ralph Bradley's rink by Gates was another surprise. Bradley is one of the best curlers at the local club and has picked a very fast bunch.

Ron Smith's curling was one of the features of the play, his rink being the only one of the locals to win. "Ron" is expected to do wonders this evening, when the second games will be played at Superior. If the Superior curlers win this evening, the Manley-McLennan trophy will pass into their possession for the present season.

Following is the result of the play:

JOHNSON WILL MEET JEFFRIES

Black Champ Takes Exception to Statement Saying Jim Was Drugged.

Chicago, Jan 10.—Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, showed little concern yesterday when told of the stories circulated by Barney Oldfield, the automobile racer, to the effect that Jeffries was doped when he fought at Reno. According to Oldfield, Jeffries is as good as ever, and the speed king asserted in a recent interview that he would be willing to wager a small fortune that Jeffries can defeat the present champion.

"I'll give Jeffries a return match any time he wants it," said Johnson. "If Oldfield believes Jeffries is as good as ever just let him get some club to hang up a suitable purse and I will sign the articles. I will not ask anything unreasonable except that I will demand a champion's end of the money. I am getting tired of these stories about Jeffries being doped and if he thinks he is a better man than I am, I am willing to sign up for another match and show the world that Jack Johnson is a real champion."

Jack indicated by the tone of his speech that he wants to fight in the near future. He does not fear any man in the world, and believes he rules supreme in his class. To bear out this statement he cited the fact that none of the promoters have been willing to hang up a suitable purse to match him with any of the present day heavyweights.

The champion is arranging to leave on an extended Western theatrical tour next week. He said he would be willing to meet James Coffroth, Tom McCarey, or any of the other Western promoters half way in their attempts to sign him up for a match. He still maintains that he is going to Europe the latter part of March or the first of April.

RAINY RIVER CURLERS FIRST TO ENTER.

The official entry of the Rainy River, Ont., Curling club, which was received yesterday by Secretary Peehler of the Northwestern Bonspiel association, is the first entry to be recorded here. The rink includes E. D. Calvert, H. J. Calvert, H. J. Bradford, H. B. Jackson and W. G. Chapman, skip. This is considered a very strong rink; one that will make trouble all the way through.

Driscoll Gets Fight.

London, Jan. 10.—Jem Driscoll, the English featherweight, who was recently defeated by Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, has been matched to meet Spike Bobson, the clever English feather, in a 20-round bout at the National Sporting club of London, on Jan. 30. Driscoll knocked out Robson in eleven rounds last April.

BOOSTING FOR CARNIVAL DURING REGATTA WEEK

Eastern Boat Makers Promise to Bring Record Flyers to Duluth.

Venetian Fete, Naval Maneuvers and Races Would Advertise City Widely.

(BY BRUCE.)

A water carnival for Duluth—let's all boost for it.

Quietly various interests throughout the city are organizing to lend their influence for the holding here in July of a water carnival that will bring people to this city from every point in the Northwest.

The one requirement to make the carnival one of the biggest fresh water attractions staged in the Northwest, or in the West for that matter, is the securing for Duluth of the naval militia maneuvers. Influence is being exerted at the present time to secure the annual summer cruise of the Great Lakes squadron, and it is practically assured through the recommendation of Commander Marsh.

Officials of the Duluth Boat club have secured the promise of several of the big Eastern manufacturers of motor boats that they will send some of the very fastest flyers of the East here, so that a great attraction has been assured to add to the features of the carnival.

Two days ago A. W. Crouch, head motor designer for the Crane company, the company that designed the famous Dixie, was in this city. After looking over the bay and lake Mr. Crouch stated that no where in the country was there such a natural course for motor boat racing, nor did he know of any city in the country that had finer facilities for the encouraging of the best motor boat races.

Then the subject of the motor boat races in connection with the proposed carnival was broached to Mr. Crouch.

Designer Enthusiastic.

"Fine! fine!" said that gentleman. "The very thing. I know that the Eastern manufacturers will send some of their fastest boats out here. You have started on the right track, and have started early. If you have better ideas in many details you have better ideas than the Eastern people. Get after the big boats for your carnival; it will show the people of the West the finest sport they have ever witnessed."

The Scripps people have made the officials of the Duluth Boat club a definite promise. This company has promised to send a fast boat, one of the fastest in the East, and this without knowing tha a water carnival is contemplated here. If the fact of the water carnival was made known, and its magnitude advertised, there is little doubt in the minds of the officials of the Boat club but that there would be any number of the big manufacturers ready to send their boats out here.

Local naval militia officers have stated the present week that they believe the annual summer cruise can be secured for this city, and that the time can be made to conform with the time set for the holding of the Northwestern regatta, the state tennis tournament, and some of the other events which are scheduled for that week.

The real estate men of the city are behind the idea, and yesterday several merchants informed the officials of the boat club that they would do everything in their power to make possible the holding of a water carnival that will advertise Duluth from coast to coast.

With the holding of the annual Northwestern rowing regatta in this city, which promises to be the largest in the history of the reorganized association, and also the holding at that time, as it is planned now, of the water fete that has for the past few years been an annual event of the boat club, the coming of the naval militia ships and the fastest motor boats in the East, would make the water carnival an event that would attract thousands to this city.

A well known business man in discussing the project yesterday, said: "As Sioux City became advertised all over the West by the holding of the corn carnival; as St. Paul became famous from one end of this country to the other by the ice palace; as Portland is known by the carnival of roses: as Frisco's portolla week has become famous; and as the Marda gras of New Orleans has advertised that southern city as no other event possibly could, so the holding of the water carnival would advertise the city of Duluth and would be the magnet drawing visitors here from every point in the West."

Idea Fairly Launched.

It may be said that the carnival idea has been fairly launched. A lot of work has been done, and many details completed without a word being said to the general public. If the naval militia cruise is secured, Duluth is assured of a water show that will be the talk of the country. Practically every other detail is arranged for. The promise of the big Eastern motor boat manufacturers, regarding the bringing here of some of the fastest motor boats of the country, make certain an attraction that alone would prove a big sport card.

Mr. Crouch will be in the city again within a few days. He has already designed a racing motor boat for the club, with the idea that this boat shall be raced during the carnival, and it is hinted that he will receive an order for a high power boat upon his return to the city.

This gentleman is enthusiastic over the carnival and as a disinterested observer, the plan strikes him as immense. He has been one of the best boosters. The other boosters are falling in line, and plans for the carnival are beginning to take definite shape.

EASY VICTORY FOR SAILOR JACK

Details of the victory of Sailor Jack over Matsuda, the Pacific coast Jap, have reached the city. The first fall was secured by Jack in six minutes, the second fall coming at the end of forty-two minutes of wrestling. By the terms of the match provided that the marine throw his man twice in an hour. Hardly any one accorded the sailor a chance, for the Jap is supposed to be one of the toughest customers on the coast.

In his letter Jack says he will be in this city within a short time, and also states he will be ready for Miller or Adamson. Advices from St. Paul state that Adamson and Miller will wrestle in the Saintly City, and efforts will be made to match Jack with the winner.

Henry Ordemann, the champion of America, whose movements are always watched with a great deal of interest in this city, will meet George Hackenschmidt in a finish match, the bout being scheduled for Minneapolis, Jan. 17.

Later Ordemann will be seen in this city in a finish match with Karl Lehto. Attempts have been made to hold this match in Minneapolis, but it was finally decided to hold the contest here.

Westergaard is at the present time disputing the claims of the big Minneapolis Norsk to the American championship. Henry Ordemann has defeated about all the good men but Westergaard, Americus and Lehto, and as he has a match in sight with Americus, the Baltimore wonder, and also with Lehto, and the prospect of a meeting with Westergaard before the close of the winter, it is very probable that the claims of the Minneapolis man will be settled one way or the other before the present wrestling season is brought to a close.

The new athletic club of Superior, which is composed of some of the best lovers of sports in that city, has a strong athletic card for Jan. 12. Ole Johnson, the big Superior heavyweight and Martin Johnson of this city, may meet. The Duluth Johnson has long awaited a chance with the Superior Johnson, so that the match should be a very good one.

Eyes of the wrestling world are at the present time centered on the movements of the big actors in the game, and never before has there been so much interest in the sport. Between the lines it really looks as if Gotch will meet Hackenschmidt, and this meeting will excite even more interest than the first match, for during the intervening years the wrestling world has asked many times the question, verily, which of these two men is the greatest?

That question can only be answered by a meeting, and it begins to look as if these two giants of the wrestling world will come together within the next two months.

PRINCETON AND MICHIGAN TO MEET IN BASEBALL.

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 10.—Michigan is one of the new teams on the Princeton baseball schedule for 1911, announced last night by Andrew P. Monroe, baseball manager. The usual series of three games with Harvard has been reduced to one because of difficulties in arranging dates.

Princeton will play Michigan May 24 at Princeton. Other dates are: May 20, Harvard at Princeton; June 3, Yale at New Haven; June 10, Yale at Princeton; June 15, Yale at New York in case of a tie.

EXCITING INDOOR BALL GAME IS SCHEDULED.

One of the fastest indoor baseball contests ever witnessed in this part of the country should be the game scheduled for this evening between the crack Company A team and the strong aggregation of the Adams Athletic club. These teams have been aching for a return game since the close contest which was played about a month ago, which was won by the militia boys, the score being 11 to 10.

After the contest this evening there will be dancing and a general good time. It is expected that a very large crowd will be on hand, for some very exciting playing is looked for. Schaefer, Summers, Bennett and other of the crack militia players will be in the Company A lineup.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock and one of the best contests ever pulled off here should result.

BIG DULUTHS WIN FIRST

Last night the Amateur City Hockey league season was opened with a game between the crack Big Duluths, the winners of the 1909-10 championship, and the strong Adams team. The contest was fast and interesting and was won by the Big Duluths, the score being 5 to 1.

Better form was shown than could be expected at this time of the season. While the play was rough at times, there was no unclean work in the contest and some of the prettiest team play seen on the local ice for a long time, was shown by both teams.

The first score was made by Bartlett, the same player who scored both goals against the Portage Lake team. He scored after the first ten minutes of play, taking the puck down the ice and making a brilliant shot. Shortly after this Bartlett took the puck clear through the Adams' forwards, making the second goal. Billy Olsen scored the first goal for the Adams, eluding the defense of the Big Duluths and shooting a pretty goal.

George Wood, Bartlett and Brown made the three scores of the Big Duluths in the second half. Wood secured the puck on a pass and shot a pretty goal, sure and true as a die. Ostergren carried the puck from near the Big Duluth's goal to a point near the Adams' goal, where he passed it to Bartlett, who shot a perfect shot by Krlz. In a hot scrimmage in front of the Adams' goal, Brown shot the last score of the game.

There was a fair crowd present at the opening game, and from the interest shown in the contest, and judging from the class of play, the present season is going to be the most successful in the history of the sport.

The lineup:

OLD SOLDIER WISHES TO HELP SUFFERERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER AND BLADDER TROUBLES.

I am frequently troubled with kidney and bladder trouble, especially in the Spring and Fall. Being an old Vetran of the Civil War, a little exposure or cold settles on my kidneys, and then I am laid up with kidney or bladder trouble. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root was recommended to me a number of years ago, and I took a number of bottles of it and was more than pleased with the results. I consider Swamp-Root the greatest and best kidney medicine on the market and it never fails to give quick results in kidney trouble, bladder trouble and lame back.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has done me so much good that I feel if any words of mine will be the means of relieving any poor sufferers, that you are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE W. ATCHLEY,

BOY BANDITS ARRAIGNED

Melodrowski and Johnson Charged With Murder in First Degree.

Cold Weather Is Responsible for Their Capture, Says Johnson.

Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, the two boy bandits who held up the night clerk at the McKay hotel and later in an attempt to escape, shot and killed Officer Harry Chesmore, were arraigned before Judge Cant of the district court yesterday afternoon. The indictments charging them with murder in the first degree were read to them and they were given until this afternoon to enter a plea by Judge Cant.

As neither one of the boys has any money, attorneys will be provided for them. They will be tried on the indictment charging them with murder in the first degree, first. It is probable that if a conviction is secured the indictment for robbery will be dismissed.

The trial will take place during the present term of the district court. County Attorney John H. Norton will handle the case.

Although they know now that they have been indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree and that they will be tried at the present term of court, the two boys maintain the attitude of indifference they have had since they were arrested. They do not seem to realize the enormity of the offense with which they are charged and they freely discuss the events that led up to their present predicament.

"If it had been summer we would never have been caught," young Johnson declared to a visitor at the county jail yesterday. Only for the extremely cold weather he would not have been noticeable without an overcoat he said and the mail carrier would not have paid the attention he did. The rural mail carrier gave the information that resulted in their arrest, and Johnson says that he would never have had the information if the weather had been such that they would not have needed the "lift" he gave them.

RAILROADS

TRAINS ON TIME AGAIN

South Shore Tracks Have Been Cleared of Heavy Drifts.

Crews Compelled to Get Out and Shovel Snow at Times.

Officials of the South Shore state that the track has been completely cleared, that the trains were on time this morning, and that no further trouble is expected from the deep snow that paralyzed traffic on the system and compelled the complete abandonment of all train service.

Yesterday morning the first train that operated in over twenty-four hours was started out and this train met with little difficulty over the line, so thoroughly had the work of clearing the track been done. General Passenger Agent Adson stated this morning that practically all the resources of the company, in the way of snow plows and extra engines had been set to work to clear the track, with the result that the incoming train was on time this morning.

The train crews were compelled to shovel snow at times for a stretch over a hundred miles in length, and the very fact that trains were operated yesterday testifies to the amount of work accomplished during the time allowed the crews for the clearing of the track.

The officials of the Soo and Omaha also report that their tracks have been cleared of the heaviest part of the drifts, and that no further train trouble is anticipated, unless the weather should turn very cold, or more snow comes.

NEW OFFICE IS CREATED

W. E. Stevens Will Be Superintendent of Missabe Commissary Department.

The office of superintendent of the commissary department has been established by the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, and W. E. Stevens, formerly superintendent of the dining car service of the Northwestern line, has been given the place. At the present time Mr. Stevens has established his office in the union depot here and is looking over the dining car service of the Missabe, with the view of making some changes for the better. The establishing of the new office, is said to be the result of heavier passenger travel on the Missabe, and also because the officials of the road desire to have the dining car service of the road equal to that of any railroad in the country.

Mr. Stevens comes very highly recommended, and it is said to be one of the best superintendents of dining car systems in the country.

WEST END WILL PUSH CIVIC PLANS

Commercial Club Will Renew Efforts for Municipal Improvements.

After a lull in the affairs of the organization, occasioned by the rush of the holiday season, the West End Commercial club will again renew interest in several projects and at its meeting Friday evening, the first of the new year, will lay out a program for the next twelve months.

The establishment of a market at the West end, the paving of West Third street between Twentieth and Twenty-ninth avenues west, and the installation of more electric light standards on West Superior street in the business district are among some of more important topics to be taken up for immediate consideration

Two delegates for the meeting of the State Federation of Minnesota Commercial clubs, which will be held at St. Paul in February, will probably be chosen at the meeting Friday evening. The annual meting of the club will not be held until February.

An early start will be made this winter to agitate the market question at the West end. Members of the club urge that steps be taken to secure a location in time for the opening of the marketing season next summer. Last summer, when the agitation was at its height, a number of property owners stood ready to donate the use of lots. It is thought that the offer will stand good this year.

The completion of the Hermantown road cutoff, known as the new Hutchinson road, will offer special inducements for farmers many miles around to bring their produce to the West end to a public market, if one should be built. An easy grade has been provided and the new "cutoff" shortens the distance considerably.

COSTUMER SUES LEAN COUNTESS FORMERLY FAT

Court Orders Garments Made Too Large Owing to Rapid Shrinking of Owner's Fat to Be Remodeled to Fit.

Paris, Tuesday: This week all fashionable Paris is laughing because the suit brought by Schelci against the Countess Kostalicki has betrayed the Countess' secret, but successful, method of getting thin.

It seems the formerly too plump countess ordered some art lingerie of Schelci, but on its delivery found it several inches too large in more places than one. The countess requested alterations, to which Schelci refused, contending his work was perfect according to the countess' former figure. The countess refused to pay and Schelci brought suit.

At the trial the judge asked the countess how she had succeeded in such a short time in getting rid of so much of her flesh. "Judge," replied the countess with a charming smile, "it is an idea Americaine—superb. Formerly I took nothing inwardly for I was afraid of wrinkles. I took baths and exercise and terribly monotonous non-flesh-forming diet, but these methods failed. Then an American friend told me to try ¼ oz. Marmola, ¼ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ oz. Peppermint Water, mixed together and taken after meals and at bedtime—a delightfully pleasant little receipt which I had prepared for me on the Rue Paz, and took with such good results that it is simply out of the question for me to use these garments made according to my former measurements by M. Schelci. Therefore, I desire him to make them smaller—oh, much smaller." Schelci did so.

VETERANS ARE CALLED

Two Survivors of Civil War Hear the Final Summons.

Edwin Barnum Passes Away at Daughter's Home in Lakeside.

Two veterans of the Civil war died in Duluth within the last twenty-four hours. One passed peacefully away at his daughter's home, where he had been cared for for years. The other heard the final summons just as he was planning to leave for an old Soldiers home. One was a Union man and the other a Confederate.

Edwin Barnum, 73 years of age, a veteran of the Civil war, died early this morning at his home, 1801 East Superior street.

His sickness was contracted during the time he served in the army and he never recovered from it. He has made his home in Duluth the last seven years. He is survived by his wife and his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Clemens, wife of the former presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church in this district.

Mr. Barnum served in the engineering corps of the Federal army, enlisting from this state. He was married in Minneapolis in 1866, after he had received an honorable discharge. He lived there ten years. Then he moved to Parribault and later went to Lakota, N. D., coming from the latter city to Duluth. He had a large number of friends and acquaintances. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the residence.

Harry Smith, a Civil war veteran, died last evening in his room at the Sixth avenue hotel. He was 73 years of age.

His landlady stated that he had planned on leaving for Alabama today, where he intended to go into a soldier's home. Efforts to locate any one in the city this morning who knew him, were futile. The body is at Crawford's undertaking parlors.

DISPATCHERS WANT RAISE

Claim Salaries Are Lower Than Those of Men Under Them.

Say Work Is Much More Difficult Than Twenty Years Ago.

Duluth train dispatchers want more pay.

As yet there is no move toward a strike, but peaceful methods are being used. The movement is not confined to Duluth, but covers the entire country.

There seems to be a general feeling among railroad train dispatchers that they are being neglected by the different railroad companies in the way of an increase in wages.

The train dispatchers have always been considered as officials. Their duties are primarily what the title "Train Dispatcher" implies, i. e., attending to the meeting and passing of trains, but this is only a small portion of what is now expected of them. They must be familiar with the contracts of train and enginemen, switchmen, etc., and handle their trains with a view to avoidling any extra expense to the company. They must be trained by long experience and have the faculty of anticipating just what an engine will do with a certain kind of train and must know what work each train has to do at every station and arrange their work so such train can arrive at its terminal without drawing any overtime.

Duties Increased.

Twenty years ago the train dispatcher received east of the Mississippi an average of $100 a month and west of the Mississippi $110. They now receive east an average of $120 and west of the Mississippi an average of $140. The train dispatchers contention is that the organizations of the engineers, conductors, trainmen, switchmen have been gradually receiving an increase in wages until the amount that can be earned by a member of any of the above organizations is so far in advance of what the train dispatcher can earn that it places the train dispatcher as an official in an embarrassing position. Furthermore, they contend that traffic on the railroads twenty years ago was only about half what it is today. This means that the train dispatcher of today must be much more efficient than the dispatcher of twenty years ago. There are federal laws regulating the hours of train and enginement on duty. This is a law that requires constant attention from the train dispatcher and he is held responsible for any violations. There are many accidents and delays to trains that exempt them from complying strictly with the law, with all of which the dispatcher must be perfectly familiar.

The live stock law placing limitations on the time live stock shall remain in the car, the many state laws, among which are advance notice of late passenger trains, stock quarantine, electric headlights, federal safety appliance, in fact, all laws pertaining to operation of trains, must be thoroughly understood by the dispatcher as he is the man who protects the railroad company and sees to it that these laws are not violated.

Twenty years ago the train dispatchers had nothing like this to contend with, and they did not put in as strenuous an eight hours over the train sheet as the men do at present.

The train dispatcher has always been considered a part of the official family. They have an organization which has always been used for the social and professional relations and for increasing the efficiency of its members so they may better serve the railroad companies.

The very essence of the dispatcher's contention is this: If dispatchers are officials, let them have an official's salary, which means an amount greater than those they direct. If they are not officials, then let them convert their organization into a labor organization and secure contracts with the railroads which will raise their salary equal to the other organizations.

RECOMMENDATIONS BY IOWA'S GOVERNOR

General Revision of the Primary Election Law Is Urged.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 10.—Governor B. F. Carroll in his annual message to the Iowa legislature, transmitted today, recommended a general revision of the primary election law, urged a wider power for state board of control and parole board and for the railway commission. Specifically, his recommendations were: Amendment of laws by repeal and re-enactment; revision of fee systems of inspection; direct inheritance tax, graduated according to amounts, in addition to a rewritten collateral inheritance tax; concurrence in the proposed amendment of the federal constitution to permit federal income tax laws; stricter laws for safety of miners; arbitration board for labor disputes; more attention to needs of the farming population of Iowa; reorganization of state departments, centralizing and simplifying present systems, and combining similar bureaus; a larger and more powerful public utilities commission, nonpartisan and with executive power; primary election law amendments to enforce observance of party affiliations; state supervision of highway construction, and active building work, with a fund of one-third of the road tax set aside in each county solely for dragging roads to keep them in shape; much wider powers of the state board of parole, so that while courts would determine the guilt or innocence of the defendant the parole board would determine the time of servitude with a tendency to leniency toward new offenders and strictness with habitual criminals; greater care and broader scope in caring for persons under the supervision of the state board of control.

Closing, Governor Carroll says:

"There has been much talk about the legislatures withholding action on the matter of electing a senator and providing for a special primary so that the people may express their preference with reference thereto. The law clothes you with all the authority necessary to act and enjoins you on your responsibility of filling the vacancy and I trust that you will do so in due time."

RAILROADS WILL SOON SHIP LIQUOR

Believed Decision on the Indian Lid Case Will Stand.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Willard's decision in the Indian lid case, enjoining Agent Johnson and other federal agents from interfering with the liquor traffic under the provisions of the Indian treaty of 1855, was a topic of interest among lawyers and many other persons today. Attorneys generally believe that the decision is logical and will stand.

What further action will be taken cannot be stated yet. District Attorney Houpt says he does not know whether the government will appeal the case. That is up to the attorney general of the United States.

Officials of the anti-saloon league were not ready this morning to make any statement. P. J. Youngdahl was not at his headquarters and it is not known whether he will insist upon an appeal.

F. W. Zollman, one of the attorneys for the liquor interests, declared that the decision is most important and far reaching.

"It opens up all the territory covered by the treaty of 1855," he said, "and settles the Indian lid question, in so far as it is affected by any and all treaties entered into prior to the admission of the state. No treaty made before Minnesota entered the Union can be effective, under this decision, in its provisions as to the liquor traffic."

It is expected that the railroads in St. Paul in two or three days will accept liquor shipments to territories adjacent to the Indian reservations.

While the railway attorneys have not given their opinions on the injunction, it is said that they will do so in a few days, giving freight agents the legal authority to transport liquor as previously.

Railroad attorneys in St. Paul kept the wires to Minneapolis hot this morning, asking for copies of Judge Willard's opinion. They were informed that the stenographer will not be able to get out the copies for two or three days.

"The decision, as reported, is a sweeping one," said E. C. Lindley, general solicitor of the Great Northern. "If it has been reported correctly, there is nothing left for the common carriers to do except to accept liquor shipments. If the liquor dealers are entitled to receive shipments into these territories, under the law, it is the duty of the common carriers to transport them."

MAY DECIDE TO BUILD HOSPITAL

Annual District Meeting of Swedish Lutherans at Superior Jan. 23.

Arrangements are now being made for the annual meeting of the Lake Superior district of Swedish Lutheran churches, which will be held at Superior Jan. 23.

Delegates will attend from Duluth churches and from the ranges and other Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin towns.

Among other things, it is expected that the proposition to build a hospital in Duluth will be taken up at this time. Although the hospital will ultimately cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, only one wing costing $15,000 is planned for the present.

The hospital committee comprises Rev. J. A. Krantz, president of the Minnesota conference; Rev. Carl Solmonson of Duluth, Rev. C. G. Olson of Duluth, Rev. J. R. A. Edstrom of Hibbing, R. Iverson of Duluth, Gust Bergquist of Duluth, A. T. Lofgren of Superior and Andrew Johnson of Superior.

TWO YEARS' SENTENCE ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Sam Kosky, a woodsman, accused of having entered the room of Pete Kosak in a lower Tower avenue boarding house on Christmas eve and stealing a watch valued at $17 and $12 in cash, was found guilty by a jury in superior court yesterday afternoon. Judge Smith gave him two years at hard labor in the state penitentiary.

Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet and installation of officers of the letter carriers and postoffice clerks of Superior was held last evening at the federal building. Past President Law acted as installing officer and toastmaster. Among the speakers of the evening were Julius Szarkowski, president of the clerks' organization; Miss Lottie Roberts, Fred S. Thompson, W. T. Logie and A. T. Ledin, president of the carriers. The postoffice quartet and postoffice drum corps contributed to the musical program of the evening.

Body of W. J. Sadler Will Be Brought From Saginaw for Burial.

The body of William J. Sadler, aged 22, who was found dead in his room at Saginaw, Mich., yesterday, will be brought to Superior, his old home, for burial.

Sadler was the son of Mrs. J. W. Pollock of 1611 North Sixteenth street and had gone to Saginaw to secure work. He was afflicted with throat trouble and asthma and it is supposed that death resulted from natural causes.

Besides his mother, Sadler also has a wife living in Superior. Undertaker Downs left today for Saginaw to take charge of the body.

Will Appeal Case.

City Attorney R. I. Tipton left yesterday for Madison for the purpose of getting the Hughitt avenue paving case appeal on the state supreme court calendar. It is expected that the motion will be granted. The case would have been on the calendar regularly had not the express company failed to deliver the papers promptly at Madison, City Attorney Tipton having forwarded them in plenty of time.

New Secretary Named.

Rev. R. A. Barnes will succeed Rev. J. W. Helmuth as secretary of the Superior Ministerial association. An election was held yesterday resulting in this choice. Dr. H. W. Knowles was also instructed by the organization to appoint a committee to arrange for a men's federation banquet similar to the one held last year. At the meeting yesterday Miss Florence Two, public welfare social worker, gave an interesting talk on tuberculosis.

DESTROYERS MAKE A FAST TRIP UP RIVER.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 10.—After making what is believed to be the fastest run ever recorded on the Mississippi river, the three United States torpedo boat destroyers, Paulding, Roe and Terry arrived at this port last night from Key West, Fla. The boats made the trip from Mississippi bar to the city, about 116 miles in four hours and fifty minutes. This beats by over one hour the record of the scout ship Birmingham, made on the trip of President Taft up the river in February, 1909.

NEW YACHT FOR M. H. ALWORTH

Fine Pleasure Craft Being Built for Duluth Man at Muskegon.

M. H. Alworth of this city is having a big cruising motor yacht of the latest model, and designed for deep water use, built at Muskegon, Mich.

The big boat, which will be 96 feet 4 inches in length, with a beam of 16½ feet, with a draft of 3½ feet, will be completed in June and will be brought to the Head of the Lakes.

According to the statement of Marshall Alworth, the boat will be used here during the summer and next fall will sail down the Great Lakes, probably down the Hudson river and then down the coast of Florida.

According to the description of the boat under construction at the present time, it will be of the very latest model and will be constructed throughout of the finest material.

The interior will be of selected African mahogany. This will be relieved by white enamel. The decks will be left almost clear with the exception of two small companionways, aside from the main saloon and pilot house, which will be amidships, thus avoiding an unbroken view.

The building of the new boat has attracted the attention of lovers of yachting, and also the manufacturers, for it will be one of the finest boats ever floated in Western waters. Its coming to Duluth will further attract attention to this city as the home of fine yachts, and will also call attention to the fine facilities for pleasure boating here.

CANNOT COLLECT TAX FROM TELEPHONE COMPANIES

Judge Dibell Upholds Gross Earnings Tax Law of 1897.

The gross earnings tax law of 1897, which provides for the taxation of telephone companies under the gross earnings system, was constitutional at the time it was passed and has not been repealed by any subsequent act of the legislature or constitutional amendment, telephone companies thus being exempted from taxation by local authorities, according to a decision handed down by Judge Dibell in district court today in the action brought by St. Louis county to enforce the payment of taxes assessed against the Duluth Telephone company on its local property, which was placed on the tax rolls by County Auditor Odin Halden.

The action was regarded as a very important one by attorneys, county authorities and telephone people throughout the state. A similar case is pending against the Zenith Telephone company and Judge Dibell's decision will, unless there should be a change on appeal, stand as a precedent.

In making up the tax rolls for the past year, Auditor Halden placed the local property of the two telephone companies on the tax roll, claiming that the tax amendment of 1906 had taken the place of the constitutional provision under which the law of 1897 was passed and the taxation of telephone companies under the provisions of the old law was not the proper proceeding. The telephone companies refused to pay the taxes levied against them and the county took the matter into court to enforce payment or obtain a decision on the point.

The telephone companies contended that the law of 1897 was constitutional at the time it was passed, that it had not been changed by any subsequent legislation or constitutional amendments and the payment of taxes under the gross earnings law by the companies constituted an exemption from local taxation. Judge Dibell's decision upholds that contention.

WOULD HAVE NINE JURORS

Instead of Twelve to Try and Decide All Civil Cases.

So Governor Stubbs Recommends in His Message.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 10.—To Alleviate "the law's delay and mistrial of cases," Governor W. R. Stubbs in his message to the Kansas legislature today recommended that the state law be so amended that nine jurors out of twelve shall decide all civil cases.

"Some states," he said, "withhold the salaries of judges who delay decisions beyond limited time. Kansas can make no mistake by doing likewise.

"I recommend that a law be enacted requiring the supreme court to disregard errors that do not affect the substantial rights of parties in criminal as well as civil cases."

The prohibitory law in Kansas, according to the governor, is now better enforced than ever before. "There is not, to my knowledge, an open saloon, or joint, in the state," he declared. "The sale of liquors for all purposes has been outlawed and placed on the same basis as other crime."

Recommendation is made for the enactment of a public utilities law that will place all state-wide public utilities under control of a state commission. City councils, or city commissions in cities which have the commission form of government, should, Governor Stubbs said, have control of local public utilities, but final appeals should in all cases go to the state commission. Among other recommendations the governor made were:

An amendment to the primary election law providing that the names of candidates for president and vice president be placed on the ballot that the people of the state may instruct their delegates on nominations for these officers.

Working men's compensation and employers' liability laws.

The submission to the voters of an amendment permitting the state to derive its entire revenue from state-wide public-service corporations, thus relieving all counties, municipalities and local sub-divisions of the state of any state tax whatever.

The election of United States senators by direct vote of the people.

A law compelling foreign corporations doing business in the state to begin all litigation in Kansas courts.

The ratification by the legislature of an amendment proposed by the sixty-first congress of the United States providing a federal income tax.

A law providing a flat 2-cent passenger rate in Kansas.

The rewriting of the anti-pass law limiting free transportation to bonafide railroad employes and their families.

ANNUAL MEETING OF STATE FAIR

Indications That All the Old Officers Will Be Elected.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Little politics came to the surface in the fifty-second annual meeting of the Minnesota State Agricultural society, which convened in the courthouse today, with about 200 delegates present.

In contrast with the strenuous meeting of last year, expressions by delegates indicate that all old officers and board members will be re-elected.

The only sign of politics on the floor is the presence of W. A. Nolan of Grand Meadow, who figured prominently last year, and Dr. Hall, former senator, who resigned last year.

President Underwood's address was received with much applause when he pointed out the [illegible] fair of 1910.

D. A. Wallace of St. Paul spoke on "The Relation of the Agricultural Press to the State Fair." Smith B. Hall, a publicity agent, spoke on "Some Phases of Advertising." D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls spoke on the "Relation of County Fairs to the State Fair."

Each address was followed by general discussion.

The society will be in session four days. The business meeting and election will be held Thursday.

UNIFORMS IN THE NAVY.

Both the officers and the crews of the older navies used to dress pretty much as they pleased. In Nelson's time an attempt was made to get the officers arrayed with some sort of system, but the sailors wore whatever they could get hold of.

That the dominant colors in dress in the British navy (and resultingly in navies of other countries) were determined by a woman's influence is shown in English records, says the Bluejacket. The Hon. John Forbes, Admiral of the Fleet, said:

"Adverting to the establishment of naval uniforms, I was summoned to attend the Duke of Bedford and, being introduced into an apartment surrounded with various dresses, my opinion was asked as to the most appropriate. I said red and blue, as they were our national colors.

"'No,' replied his Grace, the King (George II.) has determined otherwise, for having seen my Duchess riding in the park a few days ago in a habit of blue faced with white the dress took his Majesty's fancy, who has appointed it for the uniform of the royal navy."

While wearing a uniform himself, Nelson was jealous in guarding against further encroachments on the sailor's prerogative in the matter of dress. About the time of the French revolution epaulets began to be worn in continental navies; at first only on one shoulder, according to the officer's rank. In 1783 Nelson, while in France, wrote to his father:

"Two noble English captains are here. They wear fine epaulets, for which I think them great coxcombs. You may suppose I hold them a little cheap for putting on any part of a Frenchman's uniform."

It was only a few years after this, however, that Nelson himself was wearing an epaulet, not only on a single shoulder but on both.

In the United States navy uniforms were prescribed from the outset—but with the very wise clause, inserted as a parenthesis, "if they can be procured." By a resolution of the Continental Board of Admiralty, captains were to have a coat of blue cloth with red lapels, slashed cuffs, a stand-up collar, flat yellow buttons, blue breeches and a red waistcoat with yellow lace.

Lieutenants were to have a blue coat, red lapels, round cuffs faced, a stand-up collar, yellow buttons, blue breeches and a plain red waistcoat. Midshipmen were to have a blue coat with lapels, round cuffs, faced with red, a stand-up collar, red at the buttons and buttonholes, blue breeches and a red waistcoat.

Officers of the marines were to have a uniform consisting of a green coat faced with white, round cuffs, slashed sleeves and pockets, with buttons around the cuffs, a silver epaulet on the left shoulder, skirts of the coat turned back (like the uniform of the Continental soldier), buttons for the facings, while waistcoat and breeches edged with green, and black gaiters and garters. The marines were to wear green shirts.

But it is highly improbable that these prescribed uniforms were ever worn except in cases of great ceremony or where the officer was sitting for his portrait.

The facts in the case seem to be that John Paul Jones, Nicholas Biddle, John Barry and other nautical heroes of the Revolution achieved their greatness in red or blue flannel shirts and in any other clothing that came handy; doubtlessly patched by the ship's tailor, not too neatly, with sail cloth by the assistance of a marlin spike and spun yarn.

A KANSAS OUTRAGE.

Marion Record: If the brute who stole over 250 quarts of canned fruit from Mrs. Albert Fox one night last week could realize what an outrage he had committed he would sneak around tonight and return the goods. But he won't do that, because there isn't a spark of manhood left in the system of a fellow who will commit that kind of a theft. It was below the level of horse stealing, for it robbed a faithful mother and hard-working wife of the fruit of her labors. The thief ought to be canned, and the chances are that he will be, for Tom Armstrong is hot on his trail, and everybody who reads these lines—with possibly one exception—will hope that the villain will soon be landed in the pen. He deserves no sympathy whatever, and won't get any if he is caught with the goods. The robber has an opportunity to save himself from a whole lot of trouble by returning the goods on the quiet, but no one will feel inclined to think he has sense enough to do that, but if he is given a couple of years to think it over at Lansing he may be able to see it differently.

BIRDS TAUGHT US HOW TO FLY.

Hatchet-Souplet in the Strand: The information furnished by the observers of flying animals, from Leonardo da Vinci to Marey, has the utmost possible value to future aviators. They have taught them above all, two vital things: In order to fly it was sufficient for man to drive forward, with a speed which may be calculated, a slightly inclined plane, the forward part being the most elevated, while the most practical method to obtain motion was by means of a motor-driven screw. This is to say, it was necessary, in order to construct a flying machine; to follow the example of birds as far as regards the supporting planes, and the screw-like movements of insects as regards the means of propulsion. The Blerlot monoplane is, of all actual flying machines, that which most closely approaches the aspect of a gliding bird.

KING GEORGE FOND OF SPORT.

King George, who recently became patron of the amateur and professional football associations, has been interested in football for some time.

He rarely misses a service football match, whether army or navy, and takes his elder boys with him when possible, for they are enthusiastic lovers of the game, and there is an idea that he may be able to attend the cup final this season.

As a schoolboy he was almost as good at football as at cricket, says the Gentlewoman, and of late years he has kept programs of all the games he has witnessed.

These programs are among his interesting collections, which include his world famous one of stamps, that equally famous of walking sticks, the property of the late king, which he naturally bequeathed to his son, and of sporting trophies.

When King George, by the way, was traveling in the colonies he received from an anonymous donor a very handsome book of stamps inscribed "A tribute from one of King Edward's sons to his future successor."

Duluth Policemen Search Every Man Placed Under Arrest.

Patrolman Perry Makes Arrest at Point of the Gun.

Duluth policemen are taking no chances of being shot, since the murder of Patrolman Harry A. Chesmore, Friday morning. Everybody who is arrested is being thoroughly searched and every dangerous weapon taken from them.

When Patrolman Perry was called to a rooming house Saturday to arrest a man who had been shooting through the floor he held him up at the point of a revolver and took him and his companion to the station in handcuffs.

Victor Maki, the man who was brought in on a charge of discharging firearms in the city limits, was found guilty after a trial in police court this morning, and given $100 or sixty days in the county jail.

It appears that he was crazy drunk and was shooting through the floor of the lodging house at 6 East Railroad street, narrowly missing a man, who was lying on a bed in the room underneath.

Frank Malmsten was arrested at the same time on a charge of being drunk. When Officer Perry was called to the scene he made both men hold up their hands at the point of a gun. It was the day following the murder of Patrolman Chesmore and he was taking no chances. After he had secured the revolver with which Maki had been doing the shooting, he brought both men to the station handcuffed.

Malmsten was fined $10 and costs or ten days. Both men paid their fines.

BOYS STUDY AEROPLANES

Novel Club Is Organized at Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A.

Will Make Models and Study Theory of Aerial Navigation.

An aeroplane club has been launched at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. with a charter membership of sixteen. The club met last evening to talk over the plans and to elect officers for the season. Mortimer Stanford was elected president, Glen Merritt, treasurer, and Henry Hallenbeck, secretary.

The object of the club will be to study the various makes of aeroplanes and to make models. Each member will make his own model and prizes will be awarded those who make the best. Later in the season an aeroplane meet will be held. In addition to the making of small models, the club will finish the large glider and get it in readiness for use this summer. The members will also make smaller ones that can be used for swimming. This is a great form of sport that is used in many of the watering places and an exhibition of which will be given by the Duluth club this summer.

The club is open to any member of the boys' department and will meet every Monday evening at 7:30, under the direction of Curtiss Carman, instructor of manual training for the public schools. The manual training room at the boys' building has been converted into an aeroplane shed and each member of the club will have his own compartment to work in.

The following are the charter members of the club: Glen Merritt, Mortimer Stanford, Harold Armstrong, Henry Hallenbeck, Arthur Spear, Ralph Dunning, Stephen McGifferet, Carl Quinn, Dudley Trott, Earl King, Arnold Oreck, Charles Everett, J. R. Batchelor, Curtiss Carman and N. D McLeod.

READY FOR UNSEATING

Senator Crawford Willing to Vote to Oust Lorimer.

South Dakota Statesman Thinks Illinois Man Illegally in Senate.

Washington, Jan. 10.—In an exhaustive and carefully prepared speech, Senator Coe I. Crawford of South Dakota today denounced the alleged methods employed by agents of Senator William Lorrimer in the legislature of Illinois, and declared it his conviction that Mr. Lorimer was not entitled to retain his seat in the upper branch of congress.

More than usual interest attached to the speech, because Mr. Crawford took a stand directly opposite to that occupied by his colleague, Mr. Gamble. In the face of Mr. Lorimer's repeated protestations of innocence, Senator Crawford flatly charged that the latter was cognizant of the questionable practices of his lieutenants.

"I regret to say it," declared Mr. Crawford with emphasis, "but I am personally convinced that Mr. Lorimer knew enough about what was going on at Springfield to put a reasonably prudent man upon inquiry; that Shurtleff and Browne were his political agents, and that he ratified their acts and accepted the fruits of their corrupt practices, of which he must at least have had some knowledge—and that he was not legally and duly elected to a seat in the senate of the United States by the legislature of Illinois."

Reviews Testimony.

Senator Crawford began by reviewing the testimony taken by the senate sub-committee of the committee on privileges and elections, which was instructed to inquire into charges against Mr. Lorimer. His study of the testimony, he said, had forced him reluctantly to arrive at a conclusion different from that of the majority of the committee. The evidence, in his opinion, showed conclusively that the election of Mr. Lorimer was the outcome of a carefully laid plan, beginning with the election of Edward Shurtleff, whom he described as a "bitter enemy of Senator Hopkins and a political henchman of Mr. Lorimer," to be speaker of the legislature, and Lee O'Neil Browne to be leader of the minority.

A Game Being Played.

"A game was being played," said Mr. Crawford, "in which at the very beginning all party principle was abandoned, the expression of the party vote at the primary was unceremoniously disregarded and the control of the house was seized by unscrupulous and unprincipled men with dark lantern schemes to promote."

The senator carefully analyzed the evidence of alleged bribery, which, he said, proved to his satisfaction that money was used in the garnering of votes for Mr. Lorimer. Shurtleff and Browne were the active agents in the campaign of corruption, contended the senator, and he charged that Mr. Lorimer was aware of what was being done.

Bears No Ill Will.

"I wish I could believe that he did not," he said, "because I bear him no ill will and would not do him the smallest injury or injustice knowingly. But I cannot overlook the fact that for days and nights immediately preceding the 26th day of May, 1909, when these corrupt and tainted votes were cast for him, he was in Springfield directing his own campaign; that he was in almost constant conference with Lee O'Neill Browne and Speaker Shurtleff and they reported progress to him."

Mr. Crawford concluded by announcing that he stood ready to vote for a resolution to unseat Mr. Lorimer.

WHEAT OFF BUT RALLIES

Market Firms at Close—Winter Wheat Crop Reports Alarming.

Cash Position Easier---Foreign Prices Up---Flax Declines.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 10.—The wheat market declined slightly today. Buying as a result of a cold wave that is approaching the winter wheat states and which is now general in Northwestern Canada and the Northwest in this country, enabled the market to recover most of its early loss. May declined ¼c and December lost ¼c. Cash was 1c under May.

The May option in flaxseed declined 7c. People wanted to pick up seed offered the market down, but their efforts were unavailing. They got a few odd lots in May, but they were unable to buy cash seed. The cash price went on a basis of 3c under May and some offers of 2c under for seed on track did not bring out any stuff. Holders believe in higher prices.

The crowd played for a break today in a dull market and got it. Although cables were higher and reports from the winter wheat territory were unfavorable the professionals took advantage of the unexpected increase in both the European and the world's supply of wheat to depress values. The shorts hailed the decline with delight and the bulls were willing to see values go lower so they can get in again at lower levels.

Bradstreet reported an increase in the world's visible of 2,817,000 bu and Broomhall reported an increase in the European stocks of 3,900,000 bu or from 106,350,000 bu to 110,472,000 bu. The continental demand was slightly easier but Platte offerings were firmer and the Buenos Ayres market was higher. If the Buenos Ayres market was advanced for the effect it might have on the foreign markets the raise was successful as Liverpool closed higher, the Argentine reports and firmer Platte offerings frightening the shorts into covering.

The Ohio report which showed a January condition of 82 for wheat compared with a December report of 94 may be taken as an indication of deterioration of winter wheat. Yet too much credence must not be placed in the Ohio report as Kansas is the only state that employs the methods of the government in its crop reporting system and most state reports are unreliable.

A cold wave is sweeping down over the Northwest. Colder temperatures and heavy snow prevails over North Dakota and most of the three Canadian provinces. It is possible that precipitation may reach the winter wheat states, where colder weather is predicted. Lighter receipts probably will result in the Northwest.

In the Southwest crop reports said that moisture on wheat not germinated will rot it, as it is too cold for the seed to germinate. If the seed should happen to germinate, say the bulls, the root would rot and die. Reports from Kansas City said that at least 4,000,000 acres of wheat have not germinated. From the bulls' standpoint it seems that there is no hope for the wheat, no matter what happens. The bears, of course, are hopeful that the covering of snow is so general that the loss in acreage will not exceed that of last year, in which case there is chance for a bigger crop than a year ago, as the acreage is much larger.

The cash demand was easier today as mills appear to be well supplied with wheat for the present.

Bulls are still in control of the May option, but they lack leadership. They have had the advantage, however, of assistance from the country which has not marketed much wheat while the bulls were putting up prices. In this situation the absence of a good demand in the flour trade and the lack of export business have not had much effect.

The barley market has not undergone any fireworks this week after the quick upturn a few days ago. Barley buyers are not as frequently in evidence and sellers are forced to seek them out. Speculators are not interested in the barley market at present and maltsters have probably reached the opinion that barley is not worth prevailing prices. The situation is in the air. Factors that are forming are still too indefinite to give a clear perspective of the market. Prices are high and it is likely that if maltsters offered to buy at lower prices they could fill their immediate requirements. Brewers are endeavoring to use as little barley as possible. The crop was greatly curtailed in the Northwest and brewers do not desire to be caught toward the end of the season with no supplies in sight. They think that by curtailing and by substitution they may be able to get through the season and leave a surplus of barley, causing a heavy slump in values in the face of a new season. Receipts continue exceedingly light.

The demand for oats from North Dakota appears to have subsided, and the market is not in line with the East. Very little business, consequently, is being transacted. North Dakota has supplied its requirements for the time being although it is still buying corn. The shipments of oats from here are in driblets and are mostly to apply on Eastern sales made some time ago.

MARKET GOSSIP

Foreign wheat markets closed: Berlin unchanged; Liverpool ½d higher; corn ⅛d higher to ⅜d lower. Antwerp, ⅝c lower; Paris ¼c up to ¼c off; flour ⅜c to 1½c lower.

Broomhall Cable from Liverpool: The wheat market at the opening was influenced by lighter offerings and some covering by shorts and values were unchanged to ¼d higher. The strength being influenced by the firmness in America yesterday. Following the opening the market was under further buying by shorts and some speculative support and values further advanced ⅜d to ⅝d with the principal support in May. The later firmness was induced by the closing strength in Buenos Ayres with firmer Plate offers and the fact that the continent was a buyer of futures in this market. Cargoes were firmly held at an advance with light offerings. Just before midday there was some realizing on the heavy receipts for three days with unexpected increase in the visible and the bearish tenor of our summary and values declined ⅛d to ¼d. At mid-day the market was firm and ⅜d higher than yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Increase in the European Visible Supply Sends Wheat Downward.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—An increase in the European visible supply served to lower the price of wheat here today. Furthermore, the foreign crop summary was unusually favorable. Sentiment was still generally bullish, but in view of a disposition shown to take profits, many traders were of the opinion that a recession was in order. An Argentine cable reported the weather there fine for the movement of wheat. Prices opened ⅛@¼c down to ⅜c higher. May started out $1.01¾ to $1.01½, declined to $1.01⅜ and rallied to $1.01¾.

Predictions of rain or snow today in the Southwest caused additional weakness. The close was steady, however, with May at $1.01⅛@1.01¼, a net decline of ⅛@¼c.

Corn suddenly took a big spurt of activity buying becoming general on the comparatively light country acceptances over night. There were many resting orders to buy at 50c. May opened a shade off to a shade up at 50c to 50⅛c, touched 49⅞@50c, and shot up to 50¼@50⅜c.

A cablegram from Argentina declared three-quarters of the crop there was lost. Profit-taking, however, held the market down. The close was steady with May at 50¼@50⅜c, a net advance of ¼c.

Oats kept in a narrow rut, despite corn strength. May started unchanged to a sixteenth lower at 34⅞ to 35c, sold at 34¾c, and recovered to 34⅞@35c.

Provisions at the outset were easy on account of a drop in hog prices, but later advanced materially with corn. First sales were 2½ to 10c under last night, May options going at $19.17½ to $19.20 for pork, $10.27½ to $10.30 for lard and $10.10 for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Take Abrupt Drop in Final Hour and Close Is Weak.

Heavy Selling of Obscure Specialties and Weakness of Coppers.

New York, Jan. 10.—The strength of Canadian Pacific on its increased dividend was a notable feature of the stock market at the opening. Fifteen hundred shares sold at 202½, an advance of 5½ points over yesterday's close. The stock soon made a further advance. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, gained a point. The tone of the general list was irregular with a sprinkling of gains and losses. Some heaviness was shown by United States Steel.

The market became reactionary and prices declined moderately with pressure directed especially against United States Steel, Reading, Union Pacific and Amalgamated Copper. The lower level uncovered buying orders in sufficient volume to check the decline and there was a general recovery under the leadership on Canadian Pacific, which advanced further to 203⅞, an over-night gain of approximately six points. Business in general was repressed pending the publication of the monthly tonange statistics of the United States Steel corporation.

Prices were irregular and inclined to be heavy throughout the morning and the market was dull. The increase in the dividend of Canadian Pacific at this time came as a surprise, as it was not expected until February. Room traders were tempted to sell the stock short on account of the sensational character of its rise, but soon showed some timidity in doing so. Copper shares were heavy, reflecting the decline in futures abroad. United States Steel was relatively firm in advance of publication of monthly figures of unfilled orders which showed a decrease of 85,656 tons compard with November. The bond market was irregular.

The market closed weak. Stocks had an abrupt decline in the final hour. The heavy liquidation of obscure specialties and the weakness of the copper stocks eventually spread to the railroads and the whole market went down sharply. Losses of a point or more were made by Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Wabash preferred, Consolidated Gas, Amalgamated Copper & American Smelting. American Hide & Leather preferred broke 3 points.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 10.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 1@14 points on the relative strength of Liverpool, the big English spot sales and the census showing of 11,087,442 bales ginned to Jan. 1 when the market had been sold yesterday on rumor that the report would show over 11,100,000 bales. Inside of the first half hour prices worked up to a net advance of from 15 to 20 points on active covering and bull support, but commission houses turned sellers around 15.15 for May, presumably for the purpose of taking profits and as soon as long cotton began to come on the market there was a renewal of Wall street bear pressure under which prices eased off 3 or 4 points from the best during the middle of the morning.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.95; middling gulf, 15.20. Sales, 2,646 bales. Futures closed easy; closing bids: January, 14.62; February, 14.73; March, 14.87; April, 14.95; May, 15.03; June, 15.03; July, 15.03; August, 14.74; September, 13.77; October, 13.38.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

REAPPORTIONMENT IS WELL TAKEN CARE OF BY THE COMMITTEES

Selected in Both Houses to Report Honest Reapportionment.

Senator Hackney Goes On Record Strongly In Its Favor.

Obstacle to Adopting the Oregon Plan of Electing Senators.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—If reapportionment fails to pass at this session of the legislature, it will not be the fault of Governor Eberhart, of the presiding officers of the legislature, Lieutenant Governor Gordon and Speaker H. H. Dunn, nor of the representatives from Northern Minnesota.

Governor Eberhart, after practically pledging himself at Brainerd to call an extra session for reapportionment if the legislature neglects its duty in this respect, spoke emphatically in favor of reapportionment in his message to the legislature.

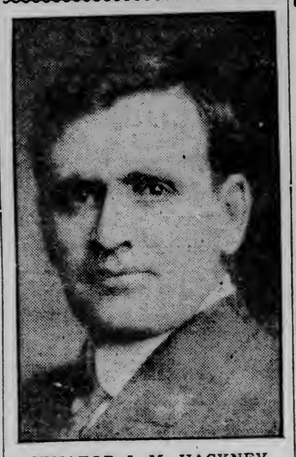

Both Lieutenant Governor Gordon and Speaker Dunn have framed up reapportionment committees that mean business, and whatever happens, Northern Minnesota is indebted to both.

Representative Chester A. Congdon of Duluth is chairman of the house reapportionment committee, and that he will work energetically and effectively for reapportionment in that body goes without saying.

Senator J. M. Hackney of St. Paul is chairman of the senate committee, and

SESSION TO BE IMPORTANT ONE

Legislature of Wisconsin Met at Noon---Ingram Elected Speaker.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11.—The legislature of Wisconsin met at noon today for what is expected to be the most important session in the state's history. Charles A. Ingram of Durand was elected speaker of the assembly or lower house, and Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris of La Crosse presided over the senate. Senator H. C. Martin of Darlington was chosen president pro tem. of the upper house.

Tomorrow Francis E. McGovern will personally read his message to the joint session, after which adjournment probably will be taken until next Tuesday. In the meantime a joint committee will work out plans for shortening the session, which include reduction of the number of committees from a score or more to six.

UNSCIENTIFIC MANAGEMENT

The Cause of Trouble in the Operation of Railroads.

Freight Rates Are Ample, Says Brandeis to Commission.

Washington, Jan. 11.—"We contend that rates are ample, but that the expense of operation is excessive; that wages are not too high, but that, as the management is unscientific, labor, material, equipment and plant fail to give adequate results. We plead for the introduction of scientific management, under which the railroads shall get 1 cent for every dollar expended."

In opening his argument for the shippers of the Atlantic seaboard before the interstate commerce commission today, Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, thus presented the fundamental reason, in his mind, why freight rates should not be advanced as proposed by the railways.

Mr. Brandeis declared that no railway company operating in official classification territory had introduced into any of its departments the principles of scientific management.

Attention was directed to the statement of the railroad officials that the proposed freight advance would contribute to the operating income of the railroads in the Eastern territory only $27,000,000.

"This sum," said Mr. Brandeis "is little more than 3 per cent of the aggregate operating expenses of these railroads for the fiscal year. It cannot be seriously doubted that if a determined, co-operative effect was made by these railroads to reduce the operating costs it would be found possible to affect a saving of 3 per cent even without the aid of scientific management."

Co-operation also, in Mr. Brandeis'

Preliminary Step to Relief of Border Forest Fire Sufferers.

Resolution to Ratify Income Tax Amendment Is Introduced.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preliminary to the proposed legislative action for the relief of the sufferers from last fall's border forest fires, Representative Donald Robertson of Argyle this morning introduced in the house a joint resolution calling for the appointment of a commission, consisting of two senators and three house members, to investigate conditions in the afflicted regions and report to the legislature as soon as possible. The resolution was referred to the forestry committee.

BELIEVES LODGE CAN BE BEATEN

Ames Says He Has Votes Enough Pledged to Bring About Defeat.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11. — What will follow the Republican legislative caucus to choose a candidate for United States senator is the question of leading political interests in Massachusetts today. That Henry Cabot Lodge will be named to succeed himself is quite generally conceded. The caucus is expected to nominate Mr. Lodge by acclamation and then adopt a resolution binding all present to vote for him in the legislature. Representative Butler Ames' friends claim to have the pledges of enough Republican members to prevent the re-election of Senator Lodge.

PAYS ATTENTION TO CHORUS GIRLS

To Be One of Charges Against Nat Goodwin in Divorce Suit.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 11.—Attentions alleged to have been paid to chorus girls by Nat Goodwin in the summer of 1909, will form the basis of a divorce suit to be filed by his fourth wife, Edna Goodrich, according to depositions taken here yesterday.

Herman L. Roth, counsel for Mrs. Goodwin, and John B. Edwards, representing Goodwin, yesterday afternoon examined witnesses before a notary.

Jack Harris, a chauffeur, testified that he drove Goodwin and several chorus girls through Forest park late one night, and Walter Price, a waiter, testified that he had served drinks to Goodwin and a company of chorus girls after the show.

Miss Goodrich's attorney announced that one of the chorus girls is to be named as co-respondent in the suit.

JURY VISITS THE SCENE OF MURDER

Men Who Are Trying Schmitz Take Trip to Prisoner's Home.

Drive to Colbyville to Get Accurate Idea of Distances.

The jurors in the case of the state against Frank Joseph Schmitz, accused of the murder of George Riley, are on the scene of the trouble this afternoon trying to get a more definite idea of the locations of buildings and lines so that they can better decide the case.

But little progress was made this morning. Gus Meden, Ernest Riley, Robert B. Langley and Chief Troyer were the only witnesses called. Langley was on the stand when court adjourned. The testimony of the other witnesses was short and if the maps or exhibits had been plain enough for the jury to understand, the state's case would have been in by noon.

There is a good deal of speculation as to what the defense will be. Thus far it has not been disclosed. Attor-

JESSE JAMES' WIFE SECURES DIVORCE

Given Separation From Son of the Famous Bandit.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 11.—Stella F. James was granted a divorce from Jesse E. James, son of Jesse James, the famous bandit, in the circuit court here last night. James made no effort to contest the suit. Mrs. James was given the custody of their four children and $100 a month alimony.

Mrs. James testified that she and her husband had separated three times since their marriage, eleven years ago. She said the last separation had lasted six months and that it was impossible for them to be reconciled.

ON ACCOUNT OF BRIBERY

The Findings Are Filed With Governor McGovern of Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11. — United States Senator Isaac Stephenson is charged with a number of violations of the laws of Wisconsin in a lengthy statement filed with Governor F. E. McGovern today by the 1909 state senate committee in its report on the investigation of the primary campaign and election of Senator Stephenson.

The committee recommends that a copy of the report be submitted to the United States senate and that body investigate Mr. Stephenson's election.

Senator Stephenson is charged with violating the statue which requires an account under oath of campaign expenditures to be filed and that such violation was premeditated.

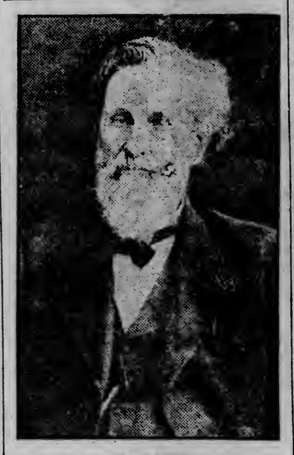

That he violated the law which prohibits any one from contributing money to assist a candidate for the legislature residing outside of the district in which the contributor resides.

That the civil service law of this state was violated when he caused to be paid money, which the evidence shows, was paid to State Game Warden Stone and L. B. Dresser, then president of the board of control.

MONOPOLY OF TOWING IN HARBOR

Independent Tug Owners Say They Are Unable to Get a Line.

Taking Testimony in Government's Action Against Great Lakes Company.

The scene of the government's efforts to "bust" what is alleged to be the "towing trust," the Great Lakes Towing company, was shifted to Duluth today when the taking of testimony was begun before Special Examiner Bertrand C. Miller of Cleveland. There being no room to conduct the hearing in the federal building, the sessions will be held in the county commissioners' office on the second floor of the St. Louis county courthouse.

The story of the dissolution of the Independent Towing line, which operated on the lakes in two seasons, 1902 and 1903, was told by Joseph Place, who was the head of the independent line in Duluth and who is now an engineer on the steamer George W. Peavy. The independent line was organized by Place, Louis Lautenschlager of Buffalo, Sweeney of Cleveland, Sullivan of Chicago and other men in

FIFTY PERSONS KILLED.

Earthquake Did Much Damage in Vicinity of Lake Issikkul.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—Communication with Przhevalsk, Russian Turkestan, which was interrupted by the earthquake of Jan. 4, was re-established today. The town was not greatly damaged, but the northern shore of Lake Issikkul, to the west of Przhevalsk, was severely shaken, and in that vicinity fifty persons were killed.

STILLWATER LOSES 2,120 IN POPULATION.

THE POLICE STRUGGLE WITH GREAT CROWD AT TRIAL OF MRS. SCHENK

Over 2,500 Persons Demand Admittance to the Courtroom.

Necessary to Double the Force of Patrolmen on Duty.

Prosecutor Promises Some Sensational Testimony Will Be Given.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 11.—While the crowd that besieged the Ohio county courthouse after the luncheon recess of the Schenk trial yesterday almost staggered the court and its attaches, it was apparent early today that there was to be little falling off in attendance of the sensation-seekers and the morbidly curious.

This is the third day of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk's ordeal of being placed on trial on the charge of poisoning her husband, and the second day in which testimony was taken.

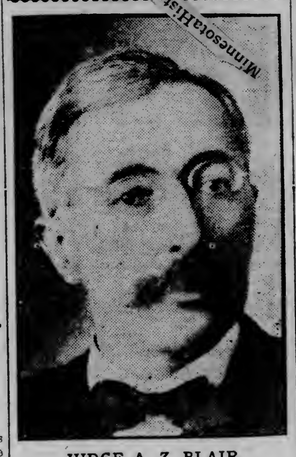

The scenes yesterday morning and again in the afternoon, when the women had to be beaten back by the police, the stampede in which one woman was so badly hurt that she had to be taken to a hospital, and the noisy demonstrations in the courtroom when certain bits of testimony were heard, have astounded and shocked the judge, who insists that order be kept. His admonition to the spectators yesterday that it would be more becoming in them to stay at home and appease their curiosity by reading the reports in the newspapers, was not taken seriously, apparently, for the crowd that assembled about the courthouse doors this morning outnumbered that of yesterday.

Four hours before the doors were thrown open there was a knot of the curious assembled, and by 9 o'clock there were fully 2,500 persons, with whom the police struggled and pleaded and pulled and hauled.

As the crowd grew, the police guard

GEN. BONILLA APPROACHES

Great Excitement Prevails in City of Ceibu, Honduras.

Booming of the Hornet's Guns Heard in the Distance.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 11.—A wireless dispatch received this morning from Ceiba, Honduras, states that great excitement prevails in that city over the approach of Gen. Manuel Bonilla's revolutionary army and that the booming of the Hornet's guns can be heard in the distance.

The dispatch further states that Gen. Bonilla and Gen. Lee Christmas, with an army of 5,000 men, yesterday occupied Cuero Solado, Juan Lopaz, Obispo and Colorado. Bonilla is reported to be moving rapidly toward Ceiba.

Communication Cut.

Washington, Jan. 11.—An expedition of Gen. Bonilla's force landed on the northern coast of Honduras near Truxillo yesterday morning and communication between that port and Tegucigalpa, the capital, has been interrupted. This information was received by the state department today in a dispatch from United States Minister McCreery at Tegucigalpa.

PAY CONVICTS FOR ROAD WORK

Recommendation of Governor of Washington to the Legislature.

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 11.—Governor Marion E. Hay sent in his message to the legislature recommending the enactment of a law providing for the payment of 50 cents a day to the convicts employed on the road work.

He recommends further strengthening of the local option law, including the passage of a county unit law and the enactment of regulations based upon the lines of the Nebraska daylight saloon law. Governor Hay says:

"The people are determined to go to any length to wipe out the abuses of the liquor traffic, even to absolute prohibition of the manufacture and the sale of all manner of intoxicants, if necessary."

The governor recommends an employes compensation law, and advocates the creation of public service and public revenue commissions.

He opposes federal control of natural resources within the state and urges immediate provision for the state's control of its own natural resources.

FIND HOUGHTON MAN LYING DEAD IN SHACK.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Frank Francori, aged about 48 years, was found Monday by Tom Bresnahan, delivery man for a Houghton meat market, in a one-room log shack between Dodgeville and Isle Royale locations. Francori had evidently been dead for several hours when found. The decedent had made his home at this shack for some time, and was employed as teamster for the Isle Royale Mining company. There were no evidences of foul play, and it is believed that death was due to natural causes, although it may have been the result of the extreme cold weather.

TAFT WAITING FOR DECISION

No Action on "Indian Lid" Until He Reads Willard's Decision.

Washington, Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Stevens this morning called upon President Taft to ascertain what action, if any, he contemplates taking in view of the recent decision of Judge Willard, who held, in brief, to the effect that the enabling act under which Minnesota came into the Union of states in 1860, nullified all treaties then existing relative to the so-called Indian country as then existing.

President Taft informed Mr. Stevens today that he had read the press reports relating to Judge Willard's decision and had sent for an official copy of it. Until he receives an attested copy of Judge Willard's decision President Taft said he would not take any action looking toward abrogation of the old Indian treaties under an executive order, where such might be possible, or to suggest any action by congress settling the questions.

FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

National Association Strongly in Favor of Proposed Plan.

Annual Convention Opens in Washington With Large Attendance.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The annual convention of the National Tariff Commission association opened this morning at the Columbia theater with over 700 delegates from all parts of the United States in attendance. It was an unusual gathering of business men that was called to order at 10:30 by John C. Cobb of Boston, the president of the association. There were representatives present of practically every important commercial organization of the country, in addition to those chosen by the governors of many states and the mayors of the larger cities.

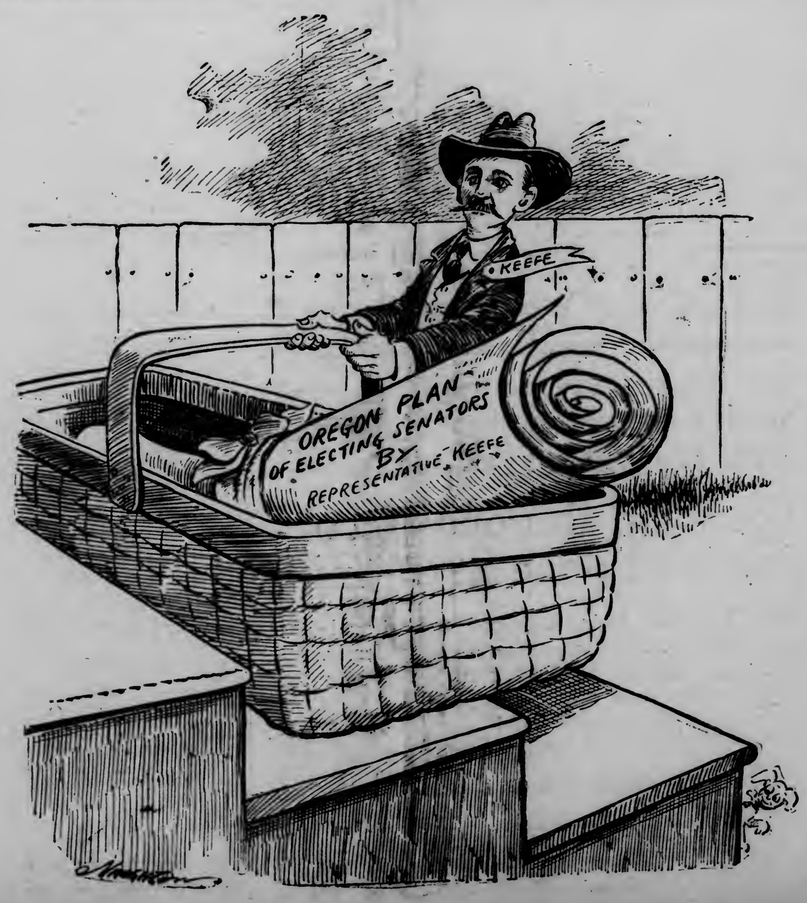

Mr. Cobb, in calling the convention to order, spoke very briefly, outlining the purposes of the meeting.

Following the invocation by the chaplain of the senate, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, the principal speaker of the session, Prof. Henry C. Emery, chairman of the tariff board, was introduced. Prof. Emery said in part:

There has been much discussion as

FIVE ROOMS AND A BATH

Every American Should Also Have Piano, Says Charles Purdon.

That Is His Platform in Campaign for Seat in Congress.

"'Five rooms, a bath, and a piano for every man in the country.' That is my platform, and that sentiment will guide me when I become a member of congress. I will be elected. There is no doubt in my mind about that. No opponent can improve on that platform and none will try to argue against it."

Charles Purdon, formerly a resident of Duluth, now living at Douglas, Ariz., made these declarations today at the St. Louis, where he is a guest. He was in the utmost earnest when he made them and obviously is sincere in his utterances.

Mr. Purdon is very well known in this part of the state and many St. Louis county people will second his nomination in far-away Arizona, the lure and charms of which region Mr. Purdon extolls, while confessing to a desire to live at Washington during sessions of congress. Mr. Purdon's confidence that he can be elected as a representative of the new state of Arizona is well founded, for he has been for several years closely associated with the leaders of Republicanism in that territory. They are leaders who know their domain well and are not in the habit of fathering candidacies which are doomed to misfortune, while the former Duluthian is a shrewd politician as well as a progressive of the most pronounced type.

"Joe Cannon is demonstrating now that the Danville district should have sent him to the penitentiary instead of returning him to congress," said the prospective congressman. "He and his kind have destroyed the Republican party, to the extent of their power to do so. Senator Aldrich, as compared with Cannon, is a gentleman. He saw what was coming to him and got out of the way. The immobility of Taft has been frequently commented upon, but that same immobility has served a good purpose, although not with the consent of Mr. Taft. Providence moves towards its goal with an irresistible force, and it passed right over the immovable form of the president to the removal of Cannon and Aldrich from our public life.

Arizona's Constitution.

"I do not believe that the gentleman from Cincinnati will have the nerve to turn down the Constitution upon which Arizona will vote Feb. 9. That Constitution represents the greatest struggle between the people and the corporations that is being fought anywhere in this country today. It is a Constitution which is calculated to restore the rule of the people in fact as well as in name, and when adopted it will accomplish just that result. The initiative, referendum and recall are included in it, and the recall is operative on the judiciary as well as upon all other offices.

"That is the most important feature of this recall provision. It is the feature of the constitution which is being most strenuously fought by the corporations, but it is my opinion that the constitutional election next month will demonstrate Arizona is not ruled by the corporations. When the recall is operative on the judiciary, the last ditch will have been lost by the corporations and the people will come into their own. It is a great fight that is being made and I am confident that the people will win, as they must eventually.

A Lurid Campaign.

"When I make my campaign for congress I will resort to such methods as will most certainly attract attention to my candidacy and the policies for which I stand. I have in mind the making of three floats to be used on the streets, with a band to add to the attractiveness of the whole. On the first float I would probably have a representative of the Roosevelt home at Oyster Bay, with the children of the former president at play there. On the second I would have a monster tin dinner pail, labeled "The Full Dinner Pail in 1896." On the third I would show a room, nicely furnished, and containing a piano. That float would carry the legend, 'Five rooms, a bath and a piano.' We might have an Italian laborer in it, playing a harp."

Mr. Purdon was formerly private secretary to Don H. Bacon, president of the old Minnesota Iron company. When living here he devised a method of concentrating iron ore, but at that time the scheme was considered to be impracticable and other reasons contributed to inability to secure a patent on the process, which now is in use and is making millions for its users.

FIRE SCARE IN SCHOOL

Cigarette Butt Causes Blaze in Matt Carpenter Building.

A lighted cigarette butt, carelessly left in the overcoat pocket of a schoolboy, was responsible for a fire which broke out at the Matt Carpenter school about 9:15 this morning, giving the teachers and students a scare.

Aside from burning several garments, left in one of the cloak rooms and filling the building with smoke, there was no other damage. Principal P. B. Clements put out the blaze with a hose.

The children left the building in an orderly manner, making a new record for the school.

As it was, she sustained a broken arm and two smashed fingers.

OBITUARY

United States Senator Charles J. Hughes, junior senator from Colorado, died in his home at Denver, Jan. 11, after a long illness. Death was due to a general breakdown.

Senator Hughes was elected Jan. 20, 1909, to succeed Senator H. M. Teller, and his term would have expired March 3, 1915. He was a lawyer and gave special attention to mining and irrigation litigation.

J. S. Paulding, aged 90, an early friend of Mark Twain, committed suicide Jan. 10, in an undertaking establishment at Butte, Mont. Before his suicide, Paulding laughed and vouched for the authenticity of Mark Twain's jumping frog story, declaring that he was with Clemens at the time of the incident.

H. W. Armstrong, a resident of Minneapolis for fifty-four years and a pioneer fuel dealer, died Jan. 10 in his home, 1300 Linden avenue. He was born in Boston, Mass., in 1829, and came to Minneapolis with his brother, John A. Armstrong, in 1856, from New England, and has resided here ever since. His brother was one of the early day sheriffs of Hennepin county.

NOTED MEDICAL MEN PRAISE THE BAKE OVEN TREATMENT

MADE FAMOUS BY LOUGHNEY & LOUGHNEY.

THE BAKE OVEN TREATMENT FOR CHRONIC DISEASES.

By A. W. Meyers, M. D., Bloomington, Ill. Read before the McLean County Medical society.

Wherever counter-irritation is required, hot air finds fruitful application. In the category of diseases in which it has been employed with signal success are sprains, synovitis, rheumatism, gout, arthritis, neuralgia, lumbago, gangrene, phlebitis, ankylosis, in the after treatment of fractures and dislocations indolent ulcers and infected sores, uremia and obesity. Its sphere of usefulness is daily widening, and the inviting field it presents for profitable research has enlisted many progressive practitioners.

A case of synovitis of knee joint, patient on crutches, was subjected twice on alternative days to 300 degs. for thirty minutes, patient went to work the following day. Sprains are frequently entirely relieved by one application. In rheumatism, acute, articular, chronic and muscular, the improvement is marked from the beginning. Deposits of gout and arthritis are removed by use of the hot air bake.

SYNOVITIS AND PERIOSTITIS OF TRAUMATIC ORIGIN TREATED BY DRY HOT AIR.

By F. H. Little, M. D., Muscatine, Iowa.

Dry hot air of intense temperature, intended first as a remedy for acute and chronic, articular and muscular rheumatism, was soon found to be very efficient in arthritis, synovitis and teno-synovitis, no matter whether due to trauma, rheumatism or tuberculosis. My own experience in traumatic periostitis is practically new. The intense heat apparently reduces inflammation, even when situated deeply, causes absorption of effusion and relieves pain.

BAKE OVEN AS A THERAPEUTIC AGENT.

Hudson D. Bishop, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

The use of heat as a remedial agent dates, no doubt, from the beginning of the healing art, but it is only of recent time that it has been possible to apply high temperatures to diseased tissues of the body.

My attention was first called to the Bake Oven by its use in rheumatism and joint troubles. Whatever the pathology of rheumatism is, the clinical picture is one of inflammation, and the theory of heat therapy applies to it. I have treated twenty-two cases of articular and muscular rheumatism of varying duration, the majority, however, of long standing. Hot air relieves the local conditions in a rheumatic patient and it will do this and do it quicker and more satisfactorily than anything else.

"THE ABOVE CLIPPINGS ARE FROM MEDICAL JOURNALS."

Drs. Loughney & Loughney, who own the Bake Ovens, occupy all the offices on the third floor of the Christie building, located on Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. They give free consultations to all who call—do not tell them what your ailments are; they will tell you. They do not take incurable cases, such as consumption or chronic Bright's disease, cancers, fevers, or any contagious diseases. In spite of the fact that they advertise such cases will not be taken; they have a great many calls from such sufferers, but they are all refused treatment, and go away disappointed. Hundreds of citizens are now calling on Drs. Loughney & Loughney, and many are on the road to new health. Owing to the many letters and requests that have been received, Loughney & Loughney will see patients up to as late as 7 o'clock in the evening, and it is asked that only those who are unable to come during the day consult them after 6 p. m. Loughney & Loughney have the best of Graduate Nurses to look after the Lady Patients, and they invite all who are ailing to come and receive free consultation. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 12 only. Telephones: Melrose, 2442 and 2425.

HARLAN ASKS ABOUT CHEWING TOBACCO

Supreme Justice Wants to Know Why He Cannot Buy Good.

Washington, Jan. 11.—During Attorney Hornblower's address before the supreme court yesterday Justice Harlan, whose love of good tobacco has been the basis of many amusing incidents, around the court, asked if any explanation could be advanced as to why he was unable to get any chewing tobacco that was not unsound or rotten or adulterated.

"The Imperial Tobacco company never manufactured chewing tobacco," the attorney replied. "My understanding is that the English people do not chew tobacco, and the only demand for it in England is by tourists."

Counsel for the tobacco corporations yesterday attacked the government's effort to have the supreme court of the United States dissolve the so-called "tobacco trust." First Delancey Nicoll addressed the court. He was followed by John S. Johnson, and he was in turn followed by W. B. Hornblower. The last named spoke on behalf of the Imperial Tobacco company, referred to as the "British Tobacco trust." The first two appeared for the American Tobacco company.

Mr. Nicoll in his argument to the court said: "The history of the American Tobacco company is the history of the expansion of trade. It is the government's largest taxpayer. It has no enemies except competitors and politicians. The enormous patronage it receives from the public attests its popularity.

The defense contended that the Northern Securities case did not apply to the present litigation. In that case, he argued, both railroads concerned were in duty bound to compete. Private corporations were not bound to compete with one another, he contended.

opinion, would secure reductions in the cost of steel rails, in the prices of which he believes an enormous saving could be made. He suggests, however, that no effort was being made by the railroads to obtain a reduction of the price of steel rails, because of the financial condition of railroad officials with the four great steel companies which manufacture the rails.

Forty of sixty-five directors in these steel companies are also in the aggregate, in fifty-two railroads.

"The economies which would result if all the railroads in the United States introduced scientific management has been estimated at not less than $1,500,000 a day."

Mr. Brandeis then presented figures to indicate that this estimate was moderate.

He believed that a saving of $50,000,000 a year could be made in the one item of coal, his argument being that there was enormous waste in fuel on practically all lines.

Judicial Ditches Ordered.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An order was filed recently by Judge C. W. Stanton of the district court, to the effect that judicial ditches 3 and 4 should be built. These ditches are in the Shotley and Battles country, Beltrami county, and will mean about thirty miles of ditch and road.

other ports. Place said that when Lautenschlager sold out to the Great Lakes Towing company and went into the employ of that company, the independent line died for lack of business. The Tom Dowling, one of the tugs owned in Duluth, was sold, but the J. B. Merrill and A. A. Carpenter could not be sold and sank.

The testimony taken this morning was evidently largely intended to supplement testimony already taken, and on the face of it was not of special moment. The questions of the government attorneys were evidently intended to establish that the Union Towing & Wrecking company, a subsidiary of the Great Lakes company, has a monopoly on the vessel towing in the port of Duluth. Tug owners were examined and the government established that, during the strike which tied up the tugs of the Union company in 1902, independent owners were able to get business, but as soon as the strike was called off, the independent owners were out of it again.

Couldn't Get a Line.

"We couldn't get a line," said Capt. D. E. Stevens. Capt. Stevens said that he maintained a tug office for three days at the foot of Fifth avenue west, but closed it because the business was not lucrative enough.

The attorneys for the Great Lakes company directed their questions on cross-examination to the descriptions and the relative size and power of the tugs owned by independents and the Union Towing & Wrecking company, evidently with the intention of supporting a contention that the Great Lakes company handles the bulk of the business because of superior facilities for handling it and not because any steps are taken to establish and maintain a monpooly.

John Shea, the first witness called this morning, testified that he owns the tug Crosby, with which he operated for a time at Ashland during the past season. He said he did no towing in the harbor of Duluth now and has done none since 1902 when he operated the Walter W. Richardson during the strike. He said the Singer and Inman lines were operating in the harbor when the Great Lakes company came in 1899.

Capt. D. E. Stevens now owns three tugs, which he uses in towing logs, scows, etc. He testified that at one time several years ago he had seven or eight tugs, but admitted on cross-examination that the log-hauling business has fallen off considerably since that time. Capt. Stevens told of his ability to get business in vessel towing at the time of the strike, but said that as soon as the strike was called off the independent owners were shut out of the business. Capt. Stevens said that the Union company had big, powerful tugs, but he claimed he had two tugs able to handle the business at that time.

F. H. Chandler testified that he owns a half interest in the tug J. L. Williams, which was purchased from the Great Lakes Towing company. The tug is engaged in towing logs and scows and does not do any vessel towing in the Duluth harbor, Mr. Chandler said.

Harry Merritt of the Northern Dredge & Dock company said that the tugs Ella G. Stone and Mentor, owned by that company, have done vessel towing in Ashland, Ontonagon and Marquette harbors, but not in the Duluth harbor.

W. C. Robinson of the Zenith Dredge company said that the company's two tugs, the Mystic and Duncan Robertson do no vessel towing.

Simon Clark testified that the Marine Supply company's tug Walter W. Richardson does no vessel towing.

Place On Stand.

John Place was the most important witness of the morning session. He said that during the time Lautenschlager was with the independent company the company had a good deal of business in the Duluth harbor, but as soon as Lautenschlager sold out at Buffalo and joined the employ of the Great Lakes company, the Independent Tug line couldn't get enough business to make it pay.

The action for the dissolution of the Great Lakes Towing company was filed in the circuit court for the eastern division of the Northern district of Ohio last June. The contention of the government is that the company is a trust in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, that it has violated that law in establishing and maintaining a monopoly in restraint of trade, that it binds vessel companies with which it has towing contracts to use no other tugs in any port in which it operates, that it sells tugs to independent owners with the restriction that the tug shall not be used in vessel-towing in ports in which the Great Lakes company operates.

Rival is Crushed.

The Maytham company, which operated tugs on the Great Lakes several years ago, is alleged to have been crushed by "clubbing" methods on the part of the Great Lakes company. The Independent Tug line was put out of business by inducing Lautenschlager to sell out, it is alleged. Favors have been given in the way of rebates to companies which have employed Great Lakes tugs in vessel-towing and day wrecking for whole seasons without employing other tugs, it is charged.

The Great Lakes company, which is the principal defendant in the action, although the subsidiary companies, stockholders and others are joined as defendants, will set up the claim it is expected that in building up its big towing and wrecking business it has used only lawful means, that the superior facilities of the company for handling towing business and the inferior facilities of the independents have forced the independents out and not any "clubbing" or other unlawful actions on the part of the Great Lakes company or its officers.

Testimony in the case has been taken in Cleveland and Detroit, where the story of the Maythams' fight with the Great Lakes company was told. James Davidson, vice president of the Great Lakes company, testified in Detroit. Many tug owners testified to their inability to get vessel-towing in ports where the Great Lakes company operated and exhibits were introduced showing restrictive clauses in contracts of the company with its parons and also in the bills of sale of tugs sold by the company.

Day in Charge.

The prosecution was started by William L. Day, United States district attorney for the northern district of Ohio. Mr. Day is being assisted in the hearing by E. P. Chamberlain, special assistant United States district attorney, who has been detailed to the case by the department of justice at Washington. Martin J. Lins, a special agent of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, is also engaged in the case.

For the Great Lake Towing company, Harvey D. Goulder and Herman A. Kelley are the attorneys. Edward Smith, president, and M. W. Wardwell, secretary, of the Great Lakes Towing company, are also in attendance at the hearing here.

It is expected that twenty-five or thirty witnesses will be examined here, after which an adjournment will be taken to some other port. It is expected that testimony will be taken in Buffalo, Milwaukee, Chicago and probably other ports before the case will be submitted to the court. It is expected the hearing here will be completed tomororw evening.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

E. A. Silberstein and His Efforts on Behalf of the Associated Charities and the Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

E. A. SILBERSTEIN

The man, woman or child who has been "up against it" and has been forced by circumstances to appeal for help to those authorities in Duluth, who are charged with the duty of attending to their needs, has found a readiness to help them that has saved them from any feeling of humiliation.

Much of their thanks for such a condition is due to E. A. Silberstein, whose efforts to bring about a systematic and effective charity through the agency of the Associated Charities, are well known. As president of the board he has labored continuously and efficiently and before becoming president he was always to be counted upon for service in the cause. He had much to do with securing the services of Courtenay Dinwiddie as executive secretary of the Charities, whose expert knowledge of ways and means has already resulted in a decided improvement in charitable methods.

Mr. Silberstein also is deeply interested in the crusade to stamp out tuberculosis. He is treasurer of the St. Louis county anti-tuberculosis society, which is carrying on a very thorough and painstaking campaign to eradicate this plague. He pushed the sale of Red Cross stamps during the holidays to such good purpose that a record-breaking total was secured in Duluth.

Mr. Silberstein takes a lively interest in every civic movement. The commission form of government agitation has interested him and he has investigated that scheme of municipal government, with the result that he is an earnest advocate of the adoption of that system by Duluth. Every proposal for bettering conditions in the city receives his earnest approval and active support, and he does not hesitate to initiate movements along this general line.

Preventing poverty, curing diseases, and reforming the city government, might well be classed as work that is "worth while."

Green Room Gossip.

The fact that the "The Lion and the Mouse" has been such a phenomenal artistic and financial success over the country for two years, has a peculiar bearing on the work of Charles Klein, the author, John Burkett Ryder, the lion of many millions, has never experienced defeat, during his strenuous business career, and every turn he makes brings monetary gain. It is not known whether or not the United Play company placed any credence in the existing triumph of the leading character in the play as a money maker, being brought to a pleasing and unquestionable reality. Nevertheless, Ryder and his business methods as pictured by Mr. Klein, have carried the play to a point of success that brings the line of comparison within a small radius, as few plays have achieved the success enjoyed by this great drama of finance.

The United Play company sends a special company and an entirely new production of "The Lion and the Mouse" to the Lyceum Saturday and Sunday, with a matinee each day.

The Boudini brothers, the clever accordion players, who are one of the hits of the Orpheum bill this week, are Italians who were born in Ireland.

"That is not a joke," said Dominick Boudini, the younger brother, yesterday. "Our parents were both Italians, and we were born in Belfast. Later we moved to Paris, and my brother and I opened a music store there, selling and repairing accordions. All the accordion players of Europe used to come to our shop, and they kept telling us that we would make our fortune in American vaudeville. We finally came to this country and secured an engagement without difficulty. This is our first tour of the West. Few Americans appreciate the accordion fully. One of these instruments costs about $300 and you can't get a good one made in America. The best ones come from Italy, and German instruments are a good second. We have to keep our instruments in repair, and we can secure no music written for the accordion, but have to take a piano score and do the best we can with it. An accordion player certainly has difficulties to contend with in this country."

Both brothers speak excellent English, with but a very slight accent.

The Three Alex, who are appearing at the Empress this week, are brothers, coming from a German family, and they have been in this country but five weeks.

These young men have a gymnastic act which is entirely different from any ever seen in this city. A great deal of their act consists of hanging by the teeth, holding ladders braced by using their teeth and many similar feats. Of course to do this sort of work one must have very strong teeth, but it is of far greater importance to have a strong neck. In this kind of work all the strain comes on the neck, and the leading wrestlers in Germany now include these exercises in their routine when training for a match, as it is one of the greatest means of developing the neck.

In conection with the present talk about the effect of immoral moving pictures it is interesting to note the rigid inspection of all picture films shown at the Odeum and Lyric theaters. Manager Furniss personally inspects all films run and refuess to allow any pictures that might have an immoral effect upon children. The majority of the patrons at the matinee performances are women and children and Mr. Furniss states that even if he were so inclined he could not afford to allow any pictures to be shown which would in any way offend them. Not only are the pictures not immoral, but all of them, with the exception of the purely comedy films, are either instructive or point a decided moral through the presentation of a little photo drama.

MANY MILES OF SIDEWALK

Forty-Two Miles of New Walk Laid During Year 1910.

Steady Gain in Amount of Cement Used in Duluth.

Over forty-two miles of new walks were laid in Duluth the last year, according to the annual report completed by Sidewalk Inspector E. W. Johnson of the city engineering department. The total cost of the work was $131,230.88.

Of this amount thirteen miles of cement walk, costing $62,894.58, and 6.54 miles of wooden walk costing $10,756.33, were laid by the city, and 10.2 miles of cement walk costing $43,649.53, and 12.66 miles of wooden walk, costing $13,930.44, were laid by private contract.

There has been a steady gain in the amount of cement walk laid in Duluth, as it has been found to be more durable and more economical in the long run. Last year the gain in the amount of cement walk laid by the city over the year previous was 91 per cent. There was a falling off of about 20 to 25 per cent in the amount of wooden walk laid by the city.

The amount of wooden walk laid by private owners the last year was greater than a year ago. This was due to the large number of new additions which were opened in all parts of the city. The owners of the additions laid the walks in order to facilitate the sale of the property. The year previous but three miles of wooden walk, approximately, were built by private contract.

New walks have been laid in all parts of Duluth. The new work was especially noticeable in the suburbs, in some of which old wooden walks were replaced and other walks laid where there had been nothing but paths, or nothing at all. The work includes hundreds of separate jobs. Some of them were several blocks long and others but twenty-five feet in length. All of them had to be inspected, keeping the inspector on the jump from morning until night.

RUSH DRINKS TO DRY BELT

Duluth Railroad Receives Notice That Embargo Has Been Lifted.

Local Brewery Promptly Offers Carload Shipment—Cold Weather Interferes.

The booze embargo has been lifted. Duluth railroads will be able to ship into the district that has for the past few weeks been under the vigilant and sleuthful observation of W. E. Johnson, according to the instructions that were received today by the local officials of the Northern Pacific.

While the Great Northern and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern had not received the instructions allowing them to accept shipments for the territory that has been closed against beer and all spirituous liquors, up to this afternoon, it is expected that these instructions will be received before night.

It is not advisable to ship liquor when the thermometer hovers below the 5 below mark. Fate may be against the saloon keepers of the "dry belt," for none of the local roads would receive liquor for shipment today, if they were compelled to carry the wet goods on their own responsibility.

But they do want strong drink in that country. That fact was made evident early today, soon after it was learned that the embargo had been lifted, for one of the local breweries wanted a carload of assorted bottled goods shipped out today, just as early as possible, and stated that the railroad need not accept any responsibility for the spoiling of the liquor.

The fact that the cold weather will prevent the shipping of liquor, and the further fact that the saloon owners in the large heretofore "dry belt" are clamoring for drink, with clamorous clamors that are insistent to say the least, will have the affect of bunching orders, and it is expected that the railroads will be literally swamped with shipping orders by the time the weather moderates.

Orders began to pour in this morning, shortly after it became known that the embargo had been lifted; in fact, even before the railroads, or the Northern Pacific company, rather, received permission to accept shipments, a few orders came down from the arid country.

Many of the dealers had naturally read the decision rendered by Judge Willard, and they wanted to have their orders in on the ground floor, so that they would be shoved out ahead of the rest.

Reports from the territory that has been shut off from the pursuit of the pleasures of Bacchus, state that they are terribly, yes, terribly dry.

Already, it is stated here, the different breweries have their agents in the field in the northern part of the state taking orders. St. Paul and Minneapolis breweries do a big business in the northern part of the state, and they, too, are jumping into the competition.

It is expected that the refrigerator service of the various Duluth railroads will be taxed just as soon as the weather moderates.

TWO BALLOONISTS AT NEW ORLEANS

Aeronauts Arrive After Landing in Woods Near Scooba, Miss.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 11.—J. Cowan Hulbert and Paul J. McCullough, the aeronauts, whose flight from St. Louis in a balloon last Saturday terminated when the balloon landed near Scooba, Miss., on Monday after being fired at twice, arrived in this city this morning. They will go by steamer from here to New York.

"High winds drifted us southward," said Mr. Hulbert, "and instead of landing in New York, we had to come down in Mississippi to avoid being blown out over the Gulf.

"After leaving St. Louis a strong wind got us and we were blown out across Illinois. Near Mount Vernon, when less than 500 feet high, we heard a shot, and a bullet whistled through the basket, barely missing us. In Kentucky we were fired at again but we were out of range."

HOLSTLAW'S SEAT DECLARED VACANT

Lieutenant Governor of Illinois Takes Action in Senator's Case.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—The committee to investigate the charges against Senator D. W. Holstlaw reported to the senate today that although they had found sufficient evidence to warrant the removal of Holstlaw it was not in their power to recommend such action in view of his official resignation directed to the governor.

The report suggests that a new resolution be adopted empowering the committee to subpoena witnesses and administer oaths.

Lieutenant Governor Oglesby later declared Senator Holstlaw's seat vacant.

NEW THEATER ORDINANCE

Public Hearing Will Be Held on the Proposed New Measure.

Prohibits Immoral Shows—All Public Exhibitions Must Be Licensed.

The council committee on ordinances and resolutions, consisting of Aldermen Shartel, Hoar and Hector, will hold a public hearing in the council chambers at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the new theater ordinance introduced a week ago by Alderman Moore.

The ordinance was drafted by Attorney E. M. Morgan, former assistant city attorney, at the request of a committee from the women's council. It is stated that several exhibitions of an improper nature which were being shown in the city had been brought to the attention of the council, which took the matter up.

Attorney Morgan stated this morning that he does not anticipate any opposition to the ordinance at the meeting tomorrow afternoon. He said that its provisions are only in the interests of clean, moral shows and entertainments and he does not think think that any manager of a theater could object to it.

It is entitled an ordinance to regulate shows, exhibits, circuses, moving picture shows, entertainments, theatrical plays and performances and other public amusements. It covers practically every form of entertainment or exhibition which the public attends. It also takes in baseball and football games in one section which prohibits the sale or use of intoxicating liquors.

The ordinance prohibits anything of a lewd or immoral character being shown, or the sale or exhibition of any obscene books or pictures. It requires that any person wishing to give any exhibition or entertainment covered by the provisions of the ordinance shall first make application in writing, agreeing to comply with the specified terms. Shows or entertainments for religious, charitable or literary purposes are exempt.

The ordinance provides that if an affidavit signed by two or more persons, stating in general terms that a proposed show or exhibition violates the ordinance, is left at the box office or served upon any officers of the firm or corporation, they shall be deemed to have knowledge of the character of the performance, and if convicted, be punished by a fine of not to exceed $100 or eighty-five days' imprisonment. In addition to the above penalty the ordinance provides that upon the first conviction the licenses shall be suspended one month, three months upon the second conviction, and that the license shall be revoked upon the third conviction.

WRESTLING MATCH ENDED IN ARREST.

Jacob Longsio, a bartender at 150 St. Croix avenue, was arrested last night by Sergeant Gillon and Patrolman Perry on a charge of assaulting Charles Tuomi, cutting him on the arm and inflicting a severe scalp wound.

It appears that the two got into an argument as to which was the better wrestler, and that the bartender came from behind the bar to demonstrate his superior abilities in that line.

John Sarman, who was with Tuomi, was arrested at the same time on a charge of being drunk. Longsio, who is booked for assault in the second degree, was not arraigned in police court this morning.

Laxative Sent Free to Try

It may be taken for granted that there is no family of any size that goes very long without needing a laxative. If you don't know of a good laxative, or the laxative you are using is losing its effect, we want to call your attention to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of families are using successfully.

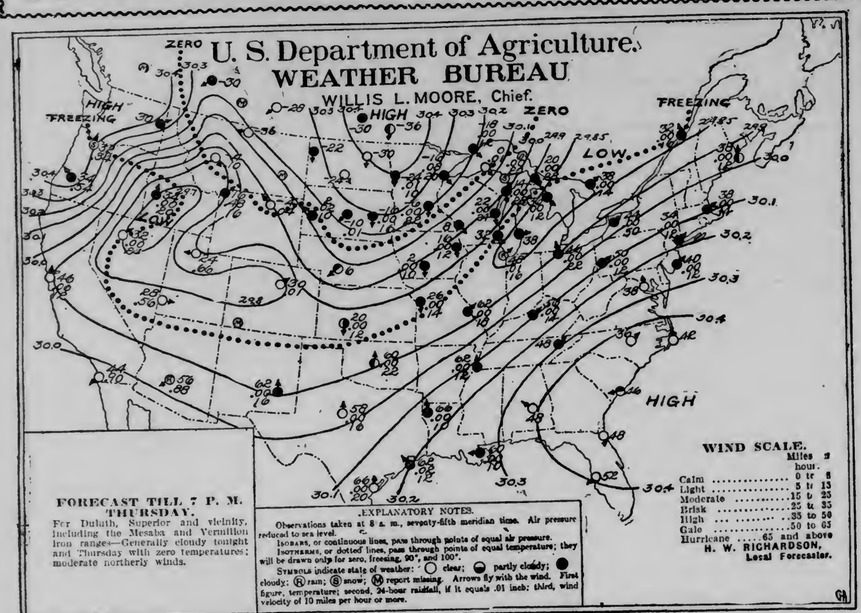

We have scores of letters from mothers, and scores from prominent men saying they are using it personally and giving it to their families, men like Mr. C. K. Smith of the Traffic Clearing House, Pine Bluff, Ark., and Mr. George B. Turner, a lawyer of Harlem, Ky. The thousands of mothers who use it themselves and give it to their children would take too much space to mention.

The reason they prefer Syrup Pepsin is that it is a mild, gentle laxative-tonic that does not gripe—effective and yet so mild that babies can take it. Its tonic ingredients invigorate the body and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they again do their work naturally. If you have been a victim of salts, pills and strong cathartics you will discard them when you once use Syrup Pepsin.

You can buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of any druggist, but before doing so you may want to try it free. If so, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly forward a free sample bottle. Then, being convinced, do as others are doing and buy it in the regular way of your favorite druggist.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FORECAST TILL 7 P. M. THURSDAY.

For Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges—Generally cloudy tonight and Thursday with zero temperatures; moderate northerly winds.

CONTINUED COLD

Pretty breezy wasn't it? Sixty-two miles an hour was the pace of the gentle blast that descended on Duluth about 8 o'clock last night. If you descended a steep avenue at about that time, one would not wonder if you thought 100 miles more nearly the velocity. You were traveling some no doubt. Indeed, 'twas a beautiful evening for a walk. The mercury began to drop last evening and by 7 o'clock this morning it had reached 16 deg. below zero. The wind was only doing about twenty miles an hour at that time, but 'twas sufficient. The cold wave covers the Northwest and little relief is in sight.

Mild weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:52 and it will set at 4:40 this evening, giving eight hours and forty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The northwestern cold wave now covers Western Canada, the Upper Mississippi and Upper Missouri valleys, the Dakotas, and Western Lake Superior with temperatures ranging anywhere from zero to 50 deg. below. The temperature fell at Duluth from 7 p. m. Tuesday to 7 a. m. today was 43 deg., while at Rapid City, S. D., the drop in the same period was 54 deg. The highest wind at Duluth last night was sixty-two miles per hour from the northwest at 8 p. m. CHAUFFEUR IS BURNED

William Shive Suffers Painful Injuries in Fire Following Explosion.

Car Is Destroyed—Firemen Put in a Busy Afternoon.

William Shive, chauffeur for A. W. Hartman, was badly burned on the face and hands yesterday afternoon when an explosion occurred while he was working on Mr. Hartman's big touring car in the garage.

The car, which was a Lozier Six valued at about $5,000, was completely wrecked by the explosion and subsequent fire, and the garage was damaged to the extent of about $700. Both losses are covered by insurance.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is thought to have been the gasoline tank. Mr. Shive was struck full in the face and knocked against the wall of the garage. The place was in flames in a moment and before Shive could escape he sustained severe burns. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

An electric machine, which was in the same garage, was taken out without being damaged. Mr. Shive worked hard to save the smaller vehicle, in spite of his injuries.

The firemen had a busy time of it yesterday afternoon.

Fire which started in the basement damaged the Midland hotel, 210 West Second street, to the extent of about $300, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Two engines and two trucks soon had the fire under control. J. W. Sullivan, who was sick in his room, was removed to the Y. M. C. A. in safety.

About an hour later the department was called to extinguish a chimney fire in the hardware store of L. K. Daugherty, 501 East Fourth street. The damage was slight.

P. McDONNELL MAKES PROTEST

Duluthian Objects to Way Crookston Council Awarded Paving Contract.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—It took three ballots to elect M. W. Hussey, president of the city council over T. A. Harris for the ensuing year, and Alderman Snyder, starting as low man, was elected vice president on the fourth ballot over O. O. Christianson, J. J. Kelly and J. O. Sargent.

But this was only the beginning of the fireworks. The plans and specifications of the asphalt and westrumite paving to be done were approved but a motion was defeated to advertise for bids for westrumite, it developing that City Engineer Carroll has divers and sundry communications from city engineers and other authorities as to westrumite and he was instructed to make a written report with letters attached covering the subject at the next meeting of the council. This it is expected may upset the westrumite proposition altogether or at least start another paving fight.

The asphalt paving bids were opened, the bid of the General Contracting company of Minneapolis at $2.38 per yard being accepted over the bid of P. McDonnell of Duluth at $2.23. Mr. McDonnel protested vigorously and it is probable that the city will be enjoined from executing the contract with the high bidder.

The election of A. J. Barrette as chief of the fire department was confirmed by the council, to succeed T. R. Johnstone, who has removed from the city to St. Paul.

JUDGE J. J. EGAN PASSES AWAY

St. Paul Pioneer Was at One Time Resident of Duluth.

Judge James J. Egan, who was one of the early day residents of Duluth, died Monday night in St. Jospeh's hospital at St. Paul, where he had been for the last four weeks. His health had been failing for several years.

Coming to Minnesota from New York state as a boy in 1857, he was at first a resident of St. Paul. When the Sioux uprising came, he was among the volunteers who fought the Indians and was one of the very few survivors of the battle of Birch Coolie. During the Civil war he was a lieutenant in the First Minnesota heavy artillery.

It was just after the close of the Civil war that Judge Egan came to Duluth to make his home and practice law. He took a leading part in the politics of that day and was a powerful factor in affairs, and many a Duluth pioneer will remember him. The judge was a strong and unfailing friend of Alexander Ramsey, with whom he became intimately acquainted during his residence in St. Paul. Ramsey's political career was marked by a number of desperate battles and Egan was always found fighting at his side.

In 1877 Judge Egan returned to St. Paul to live, and a year later he was elected to the office of county attorney which he held for six terms. So popular was he that several times he was indorsed by both parties and elected without opposition. From 1890 he was judge of the district court of Ramsey county for six years. Since then he had lived a retired life. His health steadily failed and his death was not unexpected.

His widow and two sons, Frank Egan of St. Paul and Floyd Egan of Milwaukee, survive him. He was a member of the Loyal Legion and the G. A. R. The funeral was held this afternoon in St. Paul.

STATE CONTROL OF WATER COURSES

Advocated By Governor West of Oregon in His Annual Message.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Governor Oswald West, in his first annual message, advocates state control of water courses that are wholly within the state, but thinks that interstate streams should remain under federal control.

He paid especial attention to forests and forest fires, and recommended better protection of the forests. A greatly enlarged forest patrol provided with sufficient funds in case of necessity is urged.

Paroling convicts, Governor West says, has been highly successful and resulted in the reformation of many convicts, and he thinks the system should be greatly extended.

Capital punishment he would have abolished as barbaric and because of reluctance of jurors to inflict the extreme penalty, conducive to hung juries and hence to the miscarriage of justice.

SKI RIDER KILLED.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TERMINAL ELEVATORS

In Duluth and Minneapolis Owned By State of North Dakota.

One of Suggestions By Grain Commissioners Brown and Clifford.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grain grading on its commercial value from the milling point of view, care in the placing of car weights inside of the car, together with the establishment of state terminal elevators in Duluth and Minneapolis as the solution of the evils purporting to exist in the present methods of inspection by the Minnesota grain board, are points set forth in the report of the grain commissioners of the state, H. C. Brown and T. J. Clifford, who have been located in Minneapolis and Duluth the last two years.

Accurate chemical analysis and baking tests are the methods by which the commissioners believe the grades should be determined, and, discussing this feature of the situation, they say:

Think It Is Urgent.

"We find that wheat was graded No. 3 northern on account of its badly bleached color, made as good color and the baking test was equal to the best hard or No. 1 northern grades. Also smut in wheat affects the grades just to the amount, of smut it contains. Take, for example, a sample of our best Northern wheat and let it contain smut and it will be graded as low as No. 3 or rejected. This we also believe to be unjust. All wheat is washed by the modern millers of our country, as well as smutty wheat, in order to properly temper it for grinding. We understand that the cost is no more to condition smutty wheat than any other wheat, the smut being all removed by the same operation. This is another good reason why it should be graded upon its commercial value.

"We find, and it is freely admitted, that about all cargoes loaded out of Duluth carry one pound, and oftentimes more, dockage per bushel, that is, not taken into account or considered. The mixing of the different grades as they are inspected in, and the grades they finally take on out inspection, is unjust and works to the disadvantage of our state.

Politics Should Be Barred.

"In justice to the farmers and growers of grain we believe the inspection department, from the samplers to the board of appeals inclusive, should be taken out of politics and come under civil service regulation, so that no person or persons connected with the service would depend on holding his job upon the success or failure of any political party.

"No doubt the matter of weighing grain at the terminals at Minneapolis and Duluth, and other weighing stations, have been more severely complained of than any other department of the grain business, but we believe not always justly from the fact that shippers do not always weigh their grain."

After setting forth the methods employed in weighing grain at the terminals, the commissioners state that the Minnesota law requiring the shipper to place a card in the car giving the shipping weight is not complied with in more than one case out of ten. It is very important that this law should be complied with, as then the state weigher would notice any difference between the state weight and the shipper's weight, while the grain was still in the hopper, and the matter could be immediately investigated. If the loss was caused by the leaky condition of the car he would have a valid claim against the railroad company, and, as the shipper would know his actual loss, settlement could be more easily obtained.

The number of bad order cars, that is, cars without seals, doors or having leaking sides, ends or bottoms, found by the state weighing department for the past five years will average more than 15,000 cars each year at Minneapolis alone.

Durum Wheat.

On the question of durum wheat the commissioners believe that 75 per cent of all durum received at Minneapolis is mixed with northern spring wheat and made into patent flour. At the Duluth and Minneapolis terminals about 20,000,000 bu of this wheat is received annually, of which amount about 9,000,000 bu goes to Minneapolis. The difference in price has ranged from 20 to 25 cents under the northern grade.

As a solution for conditions existing in the Minnesota terminals the commissioners recommend the establishment of state warehouses, contending that by so doing the people could save approximately $4,850,000 annually, now lost to them through the dockage and failure to receive the premium price that Eastern millers would be glad to pay for North Dakota grades. A saving of $750,000 annually in commissions is another argument used in favor of the state warehouse, making a total of $5,600,000 annually.

This does not take into consideration the loss the farmers sustain at the local end of the business, but only the terminal or selling end. For the last five years the state has shipped an average of 60,000,000 bu of wheat annually, and 15,000,000 bu of flax, which at 2½ cents per bu profit at the local elevators would amount to $1,825,000 each year. In addition to this must be taken into account the underweight, overdockage and undergrading done by many local elevators, of which farmers so grievously complain. The total loss at the local end from those causes is estimated at $1,000,000.

Loss of $8,324,000.

"The loss that our grain growers have sustained in each year by the present method of handling their grain is about $8,324,000," say the commissioners. "This loss to our grain growers would build or buy, fully equipped, 1,000 local elevators and provide a terminal house with a storage capacity of 5,000,000 bu each, at Minneapolis and Duluth or Superior."

Another reason advanced for this system is the fact that farmers could store their grain at the terminal at actual cost, receiving a state storage certificate which he could use as security for loans at very reasonable rates of interest. Interest as low as 3 per cent could be secured, and as high as 90 per cent will be advanced upon state terminal warehouse receipts.

A continuation of the grain commissioner's plan is advocated and they recommend that one commissioner be located at Minneapolis and the other at Duluth, and the expense of maintaining an office at each place be provided for by the state. Healthy influence in promoting just decisions and a prevention of careless methods of grading can be secured through the presence of the commissioners, although they are without power in the decisions of the board of grain appeals of the state of Minnesota.

MORE HOLLANDERS COMING THIS WAY

Dutch Settlers Like Minnesota and More of Them Will Come.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 11.—Another large colony of Hollanders is to be located in this county in the coming spring. The priest who came over with the hundred or more who settled in the town of Butler last spring has just returned to Holland in company with one of the colonists, a young man named De Braw, for the purpose of inducing others to come.

The colonists in this county are now recovering from their homesickness, or at least, the men among them are. Some of the women still long for their garden-like little homes in Holland. They have had a most unfavorable year on account of the drouth and have been unable to raise either grain or vegetables. The dry, hot weather of the summer was the exact opposite of the damp, moist weather from which they had been accustomed since childhood. If there was ever a year that was calculated to discurage them, it was the year just closed, yet they are by no means discouraged. They are going extensively into dairying, in which they are experts, and they are fortunate in being located in a section of country that has thousands of acres of wild meadow land. This land is low, and has yielded an abundant hay crop, so that they have plenty of fodder for their cattle.

The men, without a single exception, have come to like Minnesota. Not one of them has gone back to stay and none will go back.

Tooth Powder Economy.

If the public were better informed, much money could be saved, even for such a simple household article as tooth powder.

Why should a family pay 25 to 50 cents for one or two ounces of tooth powder or paste when an expenditure of from seventy-five to ninety cents will make three-fourths of a pound of the finest, purest and best tooth preparation ever conceived?

Living expenses are so high and yet every one of decency desires to preserve the teeth, and keep them white and free from decay and germs. Many are compelled by money stringency to do without.

Make this powder at home; sufficient to last a family a whole year. Buy separately one ounce powdered soap, five ounces precipitated chalk, 3 ounces powdered sugar and two ounces antiseptic viiane powder. Put all in a paper sack, shake and mix thoroughly. Keep in a tight box or jar, and apply daily with tooth brush.

IRON RIVER MOURNS LOSING GOOD PRIEST

REV. FATHER BROUILLARD.

Iron River, Wis., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent death of Rev. Father Brouillard, for six years pastor of St. Michael's church here, who passed away at St. Mary's hospital in Superior, caused widespread regret in this section, and he is sadly missed.

His funeral took place at Chippewa Falls, interment being made in Notre Dame cemetery.

By his untiring zeal and devotion to his duties Father Brouillard endeared himself to his parishioners here and the community at large. A solemn requiem high mass, at which Bishop Shinner officiated, assisted by five priests, with nineteen priests in attendance, was sung in his honor, after which his body was taken to its last resting place.

HOLY ROLLER FREEZES.

Stands in Biting Cold Until Neighbors Rescue Him.

Warren, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. Sole has been brought in from the eastern part of the county with his hands and feet badly frozen. He has been taken to the hospital and his condition is serious. He belongs to a peculiar religious sect called the Holly Rollers and claims that God had told him to go outside the house and stand on his knees and then He would meet him. If neighbors had not found Sole when they did he would undoubtedly have found his God, though in another world.

Vulcan, Mich., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bethany chapel, the new Episcopal church here, was dedicated with appropriate services on Sunday.

To Warn off Trespassers.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lumbermen who control most of the property in the unsettled districts of the upper peninsula, are talking about putting up signs warning off trespassers. This would put an end to hunting in the Upper Peninsula. The reason they are considering this course is because their cruisers refuse to go into the woods during the hunting season because of the danger of being shot and killed by careless hunters.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Headache Five Minutes Later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

HIBBING WILL BUY A BOILER

Water and Light Commission Decides to Purchase One at Once.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The water and light commission decided to purchase a new boiler at the meeting last night. Old boiler, No. 6, which has been declared beyond repair, will be replaced by a new one to be 72 inches by 18 feet horizontal tubular Hartford specifications, to stand a guaranteed pressure of 150 pounds. Bids were ordered to be advertised for, to be in the hands of the secretary not later than Tuesday next.

The Buffalo Oil company, with office in Superior, have recently made an effort to get some of the business of the commission, and it was decided to open up correspondence with them with a view to seeing what inducements they have to offer before renewing the now expired contract with the Standard Oil company. When the present repairs being made at the power house are finished and the new boiler is installed the electric light plant will be in good condition, and with the improved high voltage system in use the plant will be able to carry the full load without risk of failure. Several applications have recently been received for information regarding electric current for cooking purposes. The monthly bills were passed.

COMMERCIAL CLUB OF TOWER MEETS

Question of Developing Water Power for City Is Being Considered.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Commercial club was held Monday evening at the Vermilion hotel. The following officers were elected: President, F. E. Kolb; vice president, J. D. Murphy; secretary, W. G. Gallien; treasurer, Charles Roland; directors, N. J. Benson, O. C. Sovde, Gunder Peterson.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented. The committee having charge the matter of the university athletic training camp was continued and urged to do all possible to secure the camp for Tower.

The forming of a branch here of the Producers' Co-operative association of Duluth was discussed and several farmers were present by invitation. The forming of a local branch was deemed highly desirable.

The subject of changing the power from steam to water, for operating the municipal lighting plant was given some consideration and it was found that the matter needed very careful consideration from various standpoints, and especially the matter of damages that might result in the case of overflow of lands, which might be due to damming the river at Pike River Falls. The cost of the change it was thought would be considerably more than expected and ought to be figured with very great care, as the city has had several unpleasant experiences in voting bonds for enterprises which in some instances, were for objects which the city today has nothing to show for.

The aldermen on being questioned, stated the street obstruction in the vicinity of the recent fire on Main street, would be removed early next week.

The attendance at the meting was large and the proceedings very harmonious. The club now numbers fifty-three paid members, and no meetings have been adjourned for want of a quorum. It is hoped that the membership will rapidly increase until fully a hundred are enrolled.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.—Charles Nelson of the car shops, sustained a very painful injury yesterday morning while dismantling a wooden ore car, a heavy timber falling on his instep badly twisting the foot and breaking some bones. He will probably be laid up for several weeks.

HIBBING COUNCIL MEET

Indorses Movement to Secure Regular Court Session in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two liquor licenses were renewed at the council meeting last night, being those of Mike Bizal and Joseph Ranger. The weekly report of the clerk of the municipal court showing receipts for the week ending Jan. 7, of $65.53. The monthly report of the police department for December, showed a total of $451.18. The annual report of the chief of the fire department was received.

A resolution by Village Attorney Robert Stratton, indorsing the efforts of the commercial club in asking for regular sessions of the district as well as the probate court in Hibbing was adopted. Some discussion was entered into with regard to a claim for damages entered some time ago by Mrs. Adams for injuries received in a fall on an icy sidewalk. Some doubt was expressed as to who the sidewalk belonged to, and if the village was actually liable.

STATE TREASURER IS GIVEN SMOKER

Eveleth Elks Honor Member Who Has Been Elevated to High Position.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local lodge of Elks entertained royally at a smoker last night in honor of their brother, Walter J. Smith, who is now state treasurer. A substantial spread was served. The City orchestra furnished the music. Exalted Ruler H. C. Barton as toastmaster called on Supt. B. O. Greening, Editor Larin, Supt. R. J. Mitchell, D. W. Freeman, John Glode, Alderman W. G. Sutherland, Banker Thompson of Gilbert, J. P. Tredinick, Dr. Gans, and Dr. Medler, who responded and paid tribute to their departing townsman, to his worth as a citizen, generosity and cheery personality that included in large measure the "Smithy Smile." Mr. Barton, in behalf of the lodge, presented the guest of honor with a handsome diamond-studded Elk lapel button as a token of esteem and admiration. Mr. Smith responded feelingly with words of gratitude and regret at leaving Eveleth, and thanked his friends in the county, range and city who had made possible his ultimate victory. A reception to the guest of honor followed, at which was expressed the hearty good wishes that follow Mr. and Mrs. Smith in their new home, though universal regret is felt that Eveleth can no longer claim them as its own.

HAIR-CUTTERS OF VIRGINIA WIN OUT

Objection to Elimination of Shops in Saloons Cut Out of Ordinance.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The small barbers of Virginia who have been running chairs in the rear of saloons shut off by partitions, won out over the big fellows who own their own shops, in the discussion before the city council last night over section 13 in the new saloon ordinance, increasing licenses from $500 per annum to $1,000, which had its second reading. Represented by Attorney S. S. Dahl, the little fellows claimed section 13, abolishing partitions in the shops, would put them out of business, while the regulars, represented by Attorney W. J. Archer, contended that to permit shops in saloons would mean that some of the regular shops would have to quit.

After discussion the council cut out all of section 13 with the exception of a paragraph stating that "a reasonable view of the interior must be allowed."

Want More Carnegie Money.

A communication was received and filed from the park board, asking the council to join in the movement for securing $50,000 more from Andrew Carnegie to enlarge and remodel the present Carnegie library, which cost $10,000, and is deemed too small for a city of this size. It is an open secret that while grateful to the ironmaster for what he has done, the people have never been very proud of the Carnegie library, as it has been an eye-sore to the citizens. It is located at the west end of Chestnut street, on the banks of Silver lake, and its prominence makes it all the more unsightly to look upon.

There has been considerable talk to the effect that the Canadian Northern Railway company desires the library site upon which to erect a depot, but the authenticity of the rumor can not be ascertained at this time.

A communication from the members of the Virginia City band, to the effect that its former leader, Frank Meehan, had taken certain property belonging to the band and had refused to give it up, was read by the clerk. As the council had no jurisdiction in the matter the communication was referred to the Commercial club, which organization is the father to the band.

Meat Inspector John Byrne reported that the markets in the city were in good condition during the past week, with the exception of the one conducted by Harney Schneider, at which place seven chickens were condemned and confiscated.

SULLIVAN ODD CHARACTER.

Man Nearly Frozen to Death at Gilbert Came From Sparta.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tim Sullivan, better known as "Tim, the Butcher," who was found Monday by Chief of Police Ole Saline, nearly frozen to death in a small shack near the Duluth & Iron Range depot, as told in Tuesday's Herald, was an old character whom Gilbert inherited when Sparta came over. He has been a vagrant or derelict in this section for many years, making his living and staying around Silver's saloon until it was destroyed by fire a month ago, when he took possession of the shack, where he was found Monday morning.

Sullivan had been using the shack for sleeping. The building is owned by a former tailor, who removed to Chicago recently. Sullivan stayed in it at night. He had a cast-off gasoline heater that had apparently not been used, however. He slept on rags and in filth so vile as to be nauseating. When found, both hands and feet were frozen stiff. He was so stupified that he did not know he was freezing. He is being treated by Dr. Barrett and will be sent to the poorhouse as soon as he is able to travel.

GOT IT.

Got Something Else, Too.

"I liked my coffee strong and I drank it strong," says a Penn. woman, telling a good story, "and although I had headaches nearly every day I just would not believe there was any connection between the two.

I had weak and heavy spells and palpitation of the heart, too, and although husband told me he thought it was coffee that made me so poorly, and did not drink it himself for he said it did not agree with him, yet I loved my coffee and thought I just couldn't do without it.

"One day a friend called at my home—that was a year ago. I spoke about how well she was looking and she said:

"'Yes, and I feel well, too. It's because I am drinking Postum in place of ordinary coffee.'

"I said, what is Postum?

"Then she told me how it was a food drink and how much better she felt since using it in place of coffee or tea, so I sent to the store and bought a package and when it was made according to directions it was so good I have never bought a pound of coffee since. I began to improve immediately.

"I cannot begin to tell you how much better I feel since using Postum and leaving coffee alone. My health is better than it has been for years and I cannot say enough in praise of this delicious food drink."

Take away the destroyer and put a rebuilder to work and Nature will do the rest. That's what you do when Postum takes coffee's place in your diet. "There's a Reason."

Tells Splendid Cure for Compound Callouses

A compound callous is the secondary stage when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Callouses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system. The following is a most effective and speedy cure: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide in a basin of hot water. Bathe and massage the feet in this for fifteen minutes." The soreness will disappear immediately and the callous can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial.

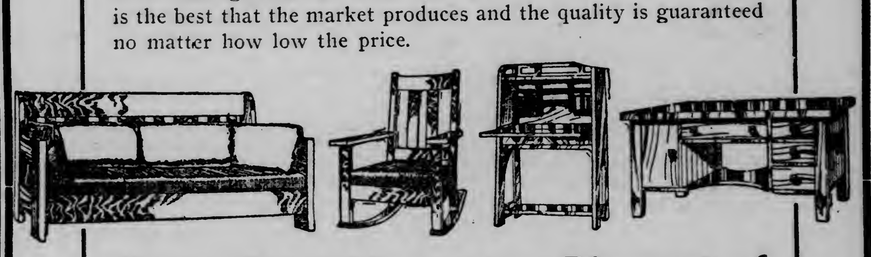

This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrown nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Bad smelling and sore feet need but a few treatments; likewise with frost bites and chilblains. Calocide is no longer confined to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffectual tablets and foot powders.

THAT ECONOMY ARGUMENT.

When Louis D. Brandeis, representing the shippers in the hearing on the proposed increase in railroad rates, proposed that the carriers increase their net revenue by economy as it could be practiced by scientific reduction in running expenses, he was met with a storm of protest from railroad officials. He was told that these men would have to be shown. "What do you know about this business," they asked. "You stick to your Blackstone and leave the management of our business to us who know something about it."

Interesting light is thrown on Mr Prandeis' suggestion by a report by Harrington Emerson on his work as "efficiency engineer" in the Topeka shops of the Santa Fe road. According to the Topeka Capital, what Mr. Emerson says about the management of belts in the shops is characteristic of the workings of the entire scheme. The system is explained thus:

> Belt breakdowns had been frequent, but were not regarded as of great consequence in the general expense. The theory of Emerson involves the principle that "dependent sequences" increase the waste and loss of single delays or breaks in one operation, in geometrical progression. For example: "Every belt failure entails a dependent sequence of loss, as the broken belt puts machine and man out of commission, delays the work in progress, holds locomotives in the shops, prevents the moving of trains, lessens revenue, in an endless This-is-the-House-that-Jack-Built series."

Mr. Emerson, it is stated, took hold of the work in the Topeka shops in 1905. In 1904 the cost of new belting was $1,000 a month and belt failures averaged 300 a month. In four months Mr. Emerson's work reduced the maintenance figure to $163 a month and the number of failures to forty-three, and in less than a year the cost had been cut from $12,000 to $630.

Following out the work in all departments of the Topeka shops, Mr. Emerson's innovations reduced the "unit cost" of maintenance of machinery and tools from $10.31 in 1904 to $10.16 in 1905. In the next year, with the new system more fully established, the "unit cost" was cut to $6.51, and in yet another twelve months it reached the low figure of $4.89, with the expense of maintenance down to $315,844 as against $487,171 in 1904. Meanwhile, in the Southern Pacific shops, which had continued under the old principle, the expense of maintenance remained at practically the same figure, with the "unit cost" varying from $9.42 to $10.90.

Take last year in addition to those already given, and we find the "unit cost" brought still closer to the point of 100 per cent of efficiency, having reached $3.24. This, it is explained, relates only to tools and machinery, a comparatively small item in the gross expenditures of railroad systems.

As to the results in the running of trains under the efficiency system, on one division of the Santa Fe on which the number of locomotive breakdowns had averaged one to every 4,377 miles of travel, they now average one to every 29,995 miles for freight engines and 17,683 miles for passenger locomotives.

In the light of Mr. Emerson's work it looks as if the railroads have been overlooking something. At any rate the results obtained in the Santa Fe shops at Topeka justify an expectation that they will give the efficiency idea a trial before putting additional and unnecessary burdens on the shippers.

THE WATER BOARD'S REPLY.

"We have done nothing that we are ashamed of, and we court investigation," is the substance of the reply of the Duluth water and light board to the charges filed with the city council by the general committee of the hillside improvement clubs. The answer is frank in tone, and where it takes up the specific charges made by the committee it appears to meet the accusations squarely. The members of the board occupy a peculiar position in the public service. They are giving time and thought to the conduct of the water and light department of the city government, and their relation to the city, with their known ability as individuals, gives their reply weight that would be lacking if they were office holders seeking to retain profitable public positions. They do not deny the possibility of their having made errors, but they maintain that error in detail should not be classed as mismanagement or inefficiency, and their attitude in this is not unreasonable.

It is not to be expected that the reply will be entirely satisfactory to the hillside improvement clubs or to their supporters. In many respects the board's statement is merely a flat denial of the charges. The board would have the city believe that some of the accusations were made without a shadow of fact as a basis, a position which would discredit the hillside men. As to the points on which the board complains that it has not been furnished with specific charges, perhaps, if the hillside committee cares to push its case before the council, it can remedy that feature of the service, and so leave the hillside clubs successful in the principal point of their contentions. It may be that the revision of the old rates will remove the conditions which, in the eyes of the hillside clubs, pointed to the existence of other matters that should be corrected. In any event it would seem wise to wait for such a revision before the charges are pressed further before the city council, unless the accusers of the board can furnish evidence of specific mismanagement other than that which has been answered fully by the accused.

MEANS MUCH FOR THE STATE.

There is promise of good things for the entire state in the list of committee appointments made by Speaker Dunn of the Minnesota house of representatives. With such an alignment of members the present session of the legislature should be able to accomplish much good in the way of advanced legislation. Incidentally, the Northern Minnesota Development association is to be congratulated on the recognition which is given to its work by the appointments, for they indicate that the proposals made by that association for the benefit of the state at large will receive recognition in the legislature, and the appointments are in themselves recognition of the fact that the association's aim is the equal development of the entire state, instead of the benefit of one section at the expense or regardless of the portions not included in that one section.

In the membership of the committees no less than in their chairmanships, Speaker Dunn's appointments show that he is looking out for the principles of development that mean the good of every section, and of the entire commonwealth. He has chosen strong men for the important positions, and while avoiding the likelihood of getting the legislature into profitless consideraton of ultra-radical measures, has given an opportunity for advanced legislation of the kind that Minnesota needs. There appears no reason for criticism of the speaker. He has done well, and if his work as speaker during the remainder of his term is of as high grade as his choice of committees, he will earn the hearty appreciation of all the citizens.

A SILENT SLEUTH.

Admiration has been given freely to the wonderful deeds attributed by Edgar Allen Poe, A Conan Doyle and other writers to their chosen heroes in fiction, but there is at work throughout the country today an agent for justice and law enforcement that is being put to the test day after day, and time and again has proved a wonderful power for the aid of the police. This is the daily newspaper. It was through the account of their crime and a description of the fugitives published in The Herald that the two misguided boys who robbed the Hotel McKay and murdered Police Officer Chesmore were run down and captured. A rural mail carrier recognized the pair from The Herald's description of them, and put the officers of the law on a trail that up to that time had baffled the best efforts.

Only recently another instance of the value of the newspaper in running down fugitives from justice was furnished in Georgia, when five jail-breakers, one of them a murderer, were recognized in distant cities from their pictures published in a newspaper, and were taken back to face the law they had violated.

Police efforts are materially helped by the telephone and telegraph. Word of crimes committed and descriptions of the fugitives can be sent over the wires faster than it is possible for the criminals to get away. But such means of communication necessarily is limited in the number of persons it can reach, while the newspaper goes to every class of citizen, and makes it almost impossible for the fugitive to reach a point where his crime is not known and where he is not liable to recognition. If he seeks refuge in a neighboring town he finds that word of his crime and a minute account of his personal appearance have been spread broadcast there. In whatever village he enters, practically every person has had the same information. If he applies at a farmhouse for shelter or for food, he is likely to find that the rural mail carrier has left with the farmer's family a newspaper that tells all one need know to identify the fleeing man.

The newspaper of wide circulation has become more than a mere recorder of the history of the world. It has become a powerful agent of justice, and one that often leads to the tripping up of fugitives when they have eluded all other provisions for their apprehension.

A SPEED-MANIA CURE.

From out on the coast comes another suggestion as to how to treat the automobile-fool. Not heavier fines, not work-house sentences, not even undesirable notoriety, but something even more drastic, is suggested by the Portland Telegram.

Drawing a parallel between the case of the fool with a motor and the fool with a gun, this paper suggests that inasmuch as the latter is punished in part by confiscation of the weapon, it would be well to apply the same treatment to the former. Here is the way the Telegram puts it:

"When an insane man goes about the country with a gun, which, in his hands, is a constant menace to people, the courts detain him and take the gun away from him. When a man becomes possessed with speed-mania to the menace of the lives of other people, there is no good and substantial reason why he should be permitted to own and handle the instrument of destruction. The trouble has been all along that the courts have dealt too leniently with this crime of speed madness; for it is a crime rather than a misfortune. Confiscation and imprisonment in cases where there is a contemptuous indifference to the safety of pedestrians would work wonders."

Unquestionably. And there need be no fear that any city that tried the experiment would have a job lot of automobiles on its hands to dispose of. Most city governments could find good use for two or three good cars, and it is not in the least likely that more than that number would fall into the hands of the authorities under such a regulation as is suggested. The lesson would be learned with astounding rapidity, considering the denseness which the speed-maniacs show in learning from the experience of their fellows who are only subjected to fines.

Somehow the Republicans do not seem to have thought to lay it to the comet.

Senator Owen insists that, in regard to Lorimer, "stern" measures should be used. Isn't that usually the case when a man is kicked out from anywhere?

"'Subside' instead of 'subsidy' seems to be the government's word to the shipping companies," says the Chicago Post. Perhaps the editor of the Post forgot to read the president's message.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Silence of T. Roosevelt.

Cambridge Star: Some people who are wondering why Roosevelt doesn't say something. We beg to assure such inquiring persons that before long he will have something to say and that something will be all the more interesting because he has been silently thinking continuously since Nov. 8.

In that case Teddy is in danger of losing his reputation for impulsiveness.

Playing With Death.

Fergus Falls Journal: The record of airship fatalities is really appalling. Men win a game one day and the next day the dispatches announce that they have been dashed to death. It is said that there were thirty fatalities during 1910, which is a very high percentage, considering the very small number of men who are engaged in aerial navigation.

Every advance civilization has made has been signalized by incidental loss of human life, but the toll that is being taken as the price of mankind's conquering of the air does seem an excessive one.

Don't Help the Robbers.

Anoka Union: The parcel post will protect the people from the robbing express companies. Don't sign a petition against the parcel post.

Every effort will be made by the express companies to get a great number of signatures of such petitions as is referred to by the Union. Petitions of that sort help congressmen who need a pretext for voting against the interests of their constituents.

Being Married At Winona.

Winona Independent: A computation of the marriage and divorce records of Winona county demonstrates that most of the marriages performed here are of the permanent kind. Last year the divorces were of the ratio of one to seventeen as compared with the marriages.

This may mean that people living and marrying in Winona thereafter depart to some other place before they are divorced, if that happens to be the fate of their matrimonial venture. Reference to the census figures may serve to throw some light on the question.

Interesting Events Impend.

Bemidji Sentinel: The Minnesota Progressives held their meeting as per advertisement in the Twin Cities, and as a result the nation's affairs are all settled. Theodore Roosevelt and Bob La Follette wil be the slogan for 1912.

With a couple of fighters like Bob and Teddy hitched up together, something closely resembling disaster might be expected to happen.

Lacking In Human Interest.

Princeton Union: Mayor Haynes' inaugural address to the city council of Minneapolis was almost as long winded as President Taft's message to the congress of the United States.

And one was about as carefully read as the other, which is saying not much.

The Making of Laws.

Sandstone Courier: The state legislature will soon convene to add another budget of laws to the statute books. If that body would nullify about half of the laws already passed and then pass a law to have the remaining half enforced, without the "special privilege" clause to a few favorite individuals, it might be doing a better service to the public and the state.

The fact is, men elected to the legislature go there for the purpose of enacting laws. Perhaps if they were candidates on a do-nothing platform they wouldn't be elected.

The Real Detective Today.

George Edgar in the London Outlook: Sherlock Holmes solves his problems snugly ensconced on the mat in Baker street and wrapped up in a dressing gown. The ordinary detective has to perform without even a carpet.

I have only known one detective. He looked almost as dull as I do, but he wore a better hat. He also smelt of rum, a penetrating fluid that does not necessarily promote acute reasoning. The criminal was in the house opposite to mine; the solution lay in watching; the only place of satisfactory vigil was my garden. For three nights he stood there watching. It was November and it rained the misty, soggy rain peculiar to November, each night. The rain fell in a moist, misty blanket of wetness, and, catching our only tree, collected there for a spell and then dropped in big tearful splashes down the detective's neck. He must have been horribly wet for three nights and all he saw was (1) the boy from the oil shop delivering goods; (2) a cab which delivered a drunken man in the dead of night to the unsuspected house next door; (3) the night policeman in oilskins trying the latches, and (4) your servant going to the last post.

Nothing came of all this. The criminal, who was caught for another crime twelve months after, was arrested by an ordinary constable, with the help of a cabman, in fine weather.

That seems to be all there is in being a detective. You wait round the corner and get wet. Or perhaps you get your head punched. Detection played in this manner has no rooms in Baker street nor a good friend Watson. There is not even a dressing gown, an old violin or the dear lad Billy. The detective, after getting wet while successfully watching, usually performs unobtrusively. He taps his quarry on the shoulders. "You are Mr. Blank?" he suggests. Admitted. There is a little matter Mr. Blank may help the detective to adjust if he does not mind, and Mr. Blank says "With pleasure." They therefore step round the corner. That is the end—no curtain, no cheers, no limelight and no hero worship. All the detective gets apart from his pay is lumbago.

The detective of real life eats bread and cheese and onions, lives in a little house and nurses his own baby; enjoys the same misery as we all do when our feet are wet. Knowing this, one can then give him real credit for sticking to a doleful task under dismal conditions and occasionally succeeding despite the most depressing odds.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A HIGH FLOWN THEORIST AND PROUD OF IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

An article by "One Who Tires of High Flown Theory" attacking the consistency of Socialists in general appeared in The Herald of Saturday. To begin with, it would be sauce for any well-posted Socialist to meet Mr. Tired of High Flown Theory on the lecture platform. That "long-haired foreign fanatic" would make him look like 2 cents in about two minutes.

Socialism is not a theory without a foundation. Its basis is found in the struggle for existence in our every-day life. Its principles have been ably set forth by Patrick Henry, Abraham Lincoln and Jesus Christ. Patrick Henry said "Give us liberty, or give us death;" Lincoln said, "Inasmuch as all good things have been produced by labor, it follows that all such things belong of right to those whose labor produced them," and we have it from the Century dictionary that "The teachings of Socialism are identical with the teachings of Christ." Combine the three and you have a pretty good outline for Socialism.

The recent holdup of a Duulth hotel by two boys of tender age had a cause. If this cause was not poverty, what was it? Under a sane system these two children would have been at home under the care of their parents. They would have been at school, learning the things that would make good, industrious citizens, not on the streets begging dimes to keep body and soul together, not working for a bare living to help a hotel keeper hold the provision trusts at bay.

It is an established fact that for every worker in our productive industries the daily output is $10 worth of goods. The worker gets $2, the capitalists get the rest, but the consumer has to pay the full ten just the same. That is where the Socialist backs up. He wants to get all he earns and all he pays for, and he wants the majority to rule in all cases where there is a dispute. That's all.

HAS A GOOD WORD FOR MOVING PICTURES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Seeing several articles in the daily papers lately about the moving picture shows and moving pictures, I thought I would take the liberty to express my opinion. They are one of the best amusemetns put before the American public and they furnish pleasure for many a one who has not the financial means to attend the larger theaters. It has also been said that they lead many astray and to do wrong. I have seen these moving pictures in quite a number of large cities and I have never seen anything to them that should lead any one to go astray or do anything wrong. Some of them have a moral which, if we would go by, it would do none of us any harm. By the way, I am neither a moving picture show owner or interested in any way in one. If there was less cheap literature published there would be less crime. There certainly ought to be enough good substantial reading in our libraries without reading some stuff that is published nowadays. But getting back to my subject, I would like to say that any one can spend as pleasant an hour or so as can be desired in going to any moving picture show. Yours respectfully, N. L.
West Duluth, Jan. 10.

What Do You Know About That?

Puck: Young ladies being educated within the walls of a convent never know much of the world outside. New Yorkers, in some respects, are like the young ladies of the convent. They never know much of the world outside. For instance, take the case of the initiative, referendum and recall. Most New Yorkers, if they regard it at all, regard it as some crazy theory which is being agitated "out West." In not more than two New York newspapers could they possibly get any other idea of it, as New York papers for the most part encourage the notion that the Hudson river is the western boundary of the United States. No New York paper printed the initiative and referendum map, a recent chart which showed that only in some of the Atlantic states is this reform ignored politically. In the West many states have the initiative, referendum and recall already in force; in still a larger number both parties pledge themselves to it in their latest platforms. To most of us here in New York, however, the thing is but a vague dream, "something which is all right in theory, but which would never work in practice." That it is working in practice you could never learn through the perusal of the average metropolitan or Eastern newspaper. That which the initiative, referendum and recall is designed to bring about, quite a few Eastern interests besides journalistic regard with grave misgivings. The idea that the public should ever be trusted with a say in their own business has always seemed too radical to these gentlemen. They have felt that the public, particularly the Eastern public, would be worried at the thought of having a voice, and a loud voice, in the counsels of government, so the fact that eastward the course of initiative and referendum takes its way has been carefully kept secret.

How to Spend Money.

E. G. W. in Harper's Bazar: My sister had the faculty of spending money and of having something to show for it. I had the ability to disburse my equal allowance and to have little or nothing left to show whither it had gone. It was annoying and even embarrassing. I determined to place a check upon the useless leaks which sapped my financial strength. I purchased a neat little leather covered book which would fit into my purse, and every cent expended was honestly noted down. At the end of the week I went carefully over this accumulated list of expenses, and opposite those which I decided were necessary I placed a tiny circle, opposite those that were entirely unnecessary I placed a cross, and opposite those which were of no particular advantage and could as well have been dispensed with I placed a small rectangle.

The first week I was honest enough to acknowledge that almost every expenditure called for a cross. The next week the rectangles predominated, and after that the circles began to grow more numerous—and needless to say, the items were fewer.

I learned why my sister could always have ready money and yet be well dressed.

Growth of the New Rule.

Kansas City Star: "To The Star: I am one of a committee appointed by the board of trade of Camden, N. J., to consider the commission form of government for that city. We have been informed that the Star would give us valuable information on the subject.

"Edmund E. R. Daubmann."

In addition to this letter yesterday's mail brought the Star similar inquiries from Toppenish, Wash.; Emory, Va., and Wilmington, Del. These inquiries from four different states, representing the West, East and South, are but typical of the inquiries that the Star receives every day. It reveals the nationwide sweep of the modern movement for good city government.

The new rule has passed the experimental stage. Galveston, Houston, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids and Leavenworth, where there has been ample time for a thorough trial of commission government under practically every condition of municipal life, have demonstrated its efficiency to meet modern civic requirements. The whole country is taking note of its success, and cities everywhere are engaged in a movement to secure it.

A POLITICAL PREDICTION.

Des Moines Register and Leader: Those who are following the growth of the commission government idea will be much interested in this prediction which appears in an article on "The Cause of Political Corruption," which appears in the current number of Scribner's magazine:

"It (speaking of commission government) will spread rapidly everywhere in forms of state government, just as it is now doing in forms of municipal government."

The writer is Henry Jones Ford, a distinguished Eastern editor and now lecturer on political history and science in Princeton university. He bases his prediction on the growing recognition of the fact that government of separated powers, with the legislative and executive pitted against each other instead of being united, has failed of reasonable success in this country. He attributes corruption and wastefulness and inefficiency in both municipal and state government to this separation of powers. He finds that everywhere men are discovering that this separation makes for inefficiency and out of this discovery comes the remarkable spread of the commission government movement, among municipalities, a movement that will not end with municipalities.

"A government of separated powers," says Mr. Ford, "is plainly incapable of responding to the demands for greater efficiency of administration. In fact, as soon as attention is turned to business efficiency, separation of powers seems out of place. Any one who should suggest that in the organization of a private business corporation the president should not take part in the meetings of the board of directors would be stared at as being out of plumb mentally. There is really no difference between public business and private business as to the principles of successful management."

In the movement now under way in Oregon to consolidate the forty-seven state boards under one business management and to give the governor and members of his "cabinet" seats in the legislature Mr. Ford sees a movement to go further in uniting legislative and executive powers than in municipal government alone. As soon as the break is made in Oregon or elsewhere, the idea will spread everywhere, he declares as above quoted.

The article presents a very thorough discussion of the origin of the separation of powers in government in this country. Mr. Ford lays the blame on Montesquieu, the distinguished French political scientist of the eighteenth century, who invented the scheme, although claim for that distinction is made for Locke, the English philosopher and scientist. Mr. Ford points out that wherever the theory was adopted, there followed sooner or later inefficiency in government. When Montesquieu promulgated the theory there was serious objection to it, but the fathers of the constitution of the United States were so filled with admiration of this man's ideas that they adopted most of them. Since then the separation of powers has been applied to every sort of government in the United States, down to the very lowest, without question or doubt.

Now, however, men everywhere are beginning to question the wisdom of separated powers. So widespread are these doubts, in fact, that men may hold them now without being looked upon as enemies of their country

Boy Bandits.

Butte Miner: Every upright citizen will read with sincere regret the account of the escapades of the two Duluth boys who, after holding up a hotel, culminated their desperate actions by killing a police officer.

It is sad to see any man go wrong when the opportunities for proper conduct are so numerous and when everyone knows that the way of the honest man is the only rational, happy way, but it is all the more regrettable when boys ruin their lives by crimes that never should have been attempted by them.

Where these boys get their evil suggestions is a matter of conjecture, but nevertheless of much importance.

It may be bad literature; it may be that their imaginations have been fired by hearing of the accounts of notorious criminals.

A mighty good thing to impress on all boys is the fact that no criminal ever was successful.

That, of course, is not exactly the ethical standpoint from which to inculcate morality, but remembering that boys often go wrong on the basis that there is great monetary reward to be derived from wrong doing, it seems a practical standpoint.

No criminal ever was successful.

Even were he to escape the light of investigation or publicity, the time surely must come when he regards himself in his true light and the self-contempt he must feel, perhaps is worse than any punishment could be at the hands of others.

"And Teddy Did It."

Boston Globe: It is strange that the only voice to speak a good word just now for Col. Roosevelt should be George W. Perkins, the retiring partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. In New York the other night he spoke vigorously in favor of co-operation instead of competition in business, also for actual profit-sharing between capital and labor instead of wages merely, and for publicity of corporation accounts to show how much capital is actually making.

He adopts the motto of the American steel institute: "Right is might; co-operation," and condemns the spirit which is represented by the motto. "Might is right; competition."

"Efficiency now stands not only for the saving of waste," said Mr. Perkins, "but also for a lively regard for public opinion, and above all for open, honest and square dealing." Then he added, "When I came to this point in dictating my speech my stenographer added, 'And Teddy did it!'"

Perhaps the voice of history, mute now amid the multitude of criticisms hurled at Col. Roosevelt, will some day write on a shining page of our country's annals, "And Teddy did it."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Exchange: Judge (to burglar on trial)—Have you anything to say, prisoner?

Burglar—Yes, your honor. I was only actin' on me doctor's advice to take something afore goin' to bed.

Boston Transcript: Edith—Mercy! Heres' a telegram from Jack. He's been hurt in the football game.

Ethel—What does he say?

Edith—He says: "Nose broken! How you prefer it set—Greek or Roman?"

Life: "To what denomination does your father belong, little boy?"

"I think it's the Brewers' union."

Baltimore American: He—Dearest, I would do a lot of deeds to win you.

She—Darling, one deed to a lot would suffice.

Washington Herald: "My wife faints on the slightest provocation."

"What do you use to resuscitate her?"

"The last time it took a sealskin coat."

Chicago Tribune: Teacher—Tommy, you should take better care of your finger nails.

Tommy—I know it, ma'am, but I can't hire a manikewer on a 'lowance of 8 cents a week.

Washington Star: "Don't you feel any personal resentment toward the man who got your job?"

"No," replied Senator Sorghum, "not if he is going to have as much trouble with it as I had."

Cleveland Leader: The Author—Did you read the manuscript of my novel?

The Editor—Yep.

The Author—Of course—er—I don't expect it to set the river afire, but—

The Editor—I should say not. It didn't even warm up the stove.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Your daughter looked very beautiful at the opera last night," said Mrs. Oldcastle. "I heard several people say they thought she was the best dressed person in any of the boxes."

"Yes," replied her hostess, as she hung her $20,000 dog collar over the back of a real Chippendale chair, "both me and Joslah could see that she was the sinecure of all eyes."

Philadelphia Ledger: "I don't believe any two words in the English language are synonymous."

"Oh, I don't know. What's the matter with 'raise' and 'lift?'"

"There's a big difference. I 'raise' chickens and have a neighbor who has been known to 'lift' them."

Exchange: The following entry appears in the "Visitors' Book" of a hotel in Germany: "The living here is good, plain and substantial. So is the waitress."

Argonaut: Thomas Hood was visited shortly before his death by a clergyman. "My dear sir," Hood said to him, looking at his gloomy countenance, "I am afraid your religion does not agree with you."

"Beating La Follette Expensive."

Fargo Courier News: The Wisconsin Stalwarts spent $114,000 in their effort to defeat the re-election of Senator La Follette, while the latter's committee spent but $6,000 in the campaign. My, how the big interests must hate the little giant from Wisconsin!

FIGHT FIRE IN SAWMILL

West Duluth Men Combat Flames in Bitter Cold.

Stubborn Blaze in Slab Road Follows Fire in Mill.

Chilled to the bone through fighting fires which broke out simultaneously at the blacksmith shop of the Virginia & Rainy Lake mill, and in a slab road leading to the mill, while the thermometer hovered around 10 below zero, firemen from No. 8 department, West Duluth, have had a strenuous time of it since early morning.

They were called out at 2 o'clock this morning to a blaze which entirely consumed the blacksmith shop at the Rainy Lake mill. The loss, according to a statement given out by the mill people, is about $1,500, covered by insurance. The shop is about 25 by 18 feet, and one story high. The machinery was also damaged, though not beyond repair.

On their way back to the fire hall at 5:30 o'clock they were stopped by men who had hunted a gas leak in the Superior gas mains which cross the slab road leading to the mill, with a lighted match. That they had found the leak was evidenced by the smoke and blaze which was pouring from the slab piles, used for a road.

Since midnight, employes from the Zenith Furnace company have been trying to fix a leak in the Superior mains. The leak was located, but not definitely until one of the workmen struck a match. Fire spread quickly in the slip road and all this morning firemen from No. 8 were busy extinguishing the blaze.

A slab pile fire is one of the hardest to fight. The blaze undermines and works underground say the firemen, and it is necessary to dig up the burning wood and pour water on it to put it out. At first it was thought that the road was not safe enough to cross with a fire engine, but the firemen examined it and the passage was made safely although it was afterwards discovered that the fire had undermined a portion of the road crossed.

The origin of the fire at the mill is not known. It had gained considerable headway when the department arrived there at 2 o'clock.

LIVED LIFE OF RECLUSE

Aged Proctor Shoemaker Passes Away in His Little Shanty.

Worked at His Bench Although Over 80 Years of Age.

After shunning his relatives, refusing to accept aid from charitable sources, stoutly protesting against being taken to the county poor farm, choosing to live the life of a recluse, and always working hard, William J. Bain, about 80 years old, a shoemaker, who has lived at the Head of the Lakes for the past thirty-eight years, died in his shanty at Proctor yesterday afternoon.

Morrison Bain, living at 1127 East Fifth street, an old resident of Duluth, is a brother. He is also survived by two other brothers, James and John, residing near Seattle, Wash. He has lived at Proctor and worked as a shoemaker for the past five years, but prior to that, he resided with his brother, Morrison, in Duluth.

He left his brother's home, about five years ago, and for a time, all trace of him was lost. Once last summer, according to Dr. Specht, he was found alone and unconscious in a shack at Proctor and he was removed to the poor farm to spend his last days. He firmly protested against being made a county charge and insisted upon a chance to make his own living. He then went back to his old trade as a shoemaker, which he has always worked at, and started up a shop again at Proctor. In that suburb, he was familiar to many people, but never made friends. His shop was located near Schell's drug store.

Yesterday afternoon, Dr. Specht was called at 2 o'clock to the old man's place by strangers who had discovered the man lying unconscious on a bed in his shop. An examination showed that the man was dying and he immediately notified the Duluth authorities. Policeman Noreen in turn notified the brother, Morrison Bain, in this city.

The body was brought to West Duluth to the undertaking rooms of W. H. Richter. No funeral arrangements have been made.

NO DATE SET FOR THE MEETING YET.

No date has yet been set for the meeting of the directors of the Zenith Furnace company, at which the contract for the new $225,000 alternate furnace will be let.

The plans for the new stack are still in the hands of an engineer, and until he turns over the specifications to the officials of the company, there will be no meeting of the directors to let the contract.

It is expected, however, that the plans will be completed within a short time.

DIES FROM RIFLE WOUND

West Duluth Boy Victim of Young Friend's Carelessness.

Injuries From "Gun That Wasn't Loaded" Prove Fatal.

After lingering at the point of death for nearly three months at St. Luke's hospital, Arthur Mahlum, a 13-year-old boy, formerly of West Duluth, but more recently of Independence township, near Saginaw, died last evening of a rifle wound in his chest.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mahlum, formerly of No. 128 North Sixty-fourth avenue west, who moved to a farm in Independence township some time ago. The body was removed today to the Richter undertaking rooms at West Duluth and will be sent to Saginaw tomorrow.

The shooting of young Mahlum was accidental, it is said. Clifford Bijould, a West Duluth boy of the same age, living at 27 North Sixtieth avenue west, who "didn't know that the gun was loaded," swung a 22-caliber rifle to a more comfortable position and in doing so discharged the weapon.

Bijould and Wesley Knapp, another West Duluth boy were hunting in the woods near the Mahlum homestead on Oct. 16, Sunday. The accident happened in the morning and the boy was rushed to the hospital in an automobile, Dr. D. F. Seashore, under whose care he was placed, says that it was remarkable that the boy lived as long as he did, under the circumstances.

The bullet entered the boy's left side, penetrating the left lung below the heart and coming out near the armpit on the right side.

The boy's parents were here at the time of his death. A sister, Miss Agnes Mahlum, lives in Duluth. She is employed by the Duluth Telephone company as an operator.

"WILL THEY HANG ALGOT?" ASKS BOY BANDIT'S MOTHER

Parents of Johnson Boy Come From Virginia to Visit Son.

Mother Brings Bible to Lad ---Wants Him Back Home.

"Do you suppose they'll hang Algot?"

That was the first question asked by Mrs. Ole Hagdahl when she arrived in Duluth yesterday from her home at Virginia. Mrs. Hagdahl is the mother of Algot Johnson, the boy with whom Charles Melodrowski held up the night clerk at the McKay hotel, and later, in an attempt to escape, shot and killed Officer Harry Chesmore of the police department.

"They wouldn't hang a boy so young?" she asked. "Why, he is only a little fellow. I am sure he wasn't the one who killed the policeman. I am almost crazy. Everybody in Virginia feels so badly about it all, and I don't know what to do. Will they let us see Algot at the jail? See, I have brought his Bible to him—the Bible that was given to him by the pastor of the church when he was confirmed."

Mrs. Hagdahl is a weak-looking, nervous woman. She, with her husband, Ole Hagdahl, a carpenter by trade, had just reached the city and were wandering about the halls of the courthouse trying to find Algot, when directed to the jail by a Herald reporter.

When a place was found where she could sit down she seemed to feel better, and she talked freely about the trouble.

Algot Ran Away.

"Algot ran away," she said. "We didn't know for a long time where he was. Then he began to write home and we wrote to him. Frequently he came home for clothing. He said that he had a good job in Duluth, and we were very glad and proud that the boy could secure and hold a position in the big city.

"Every time he came home I used to have talks with him, and he used to tell me all his troubles. I always told him to be a good boy and he would never regret it.

"No, his step-father and he didn't have any trouble. They seemed to get along well together. His step-father tried to help him all he could, even to mending his shoes when he was visiting at home. At different times he was given money, although many times we needed it badly ourselves.

"He said one time he was home that he would like to live at home and go to school, as he realized how little he knew. His step-father told him that he was welcome to stay at home, but that he would have to find some sort of light work to do out of school hours.

Never in Trouble Before.

"He was always a good boy and never got into any trouble. He worked for people in Virginia and they all speak well of him. I can't understand what had gotten into the boy. I don't seem to be able to believe the things they say about him.

"I am nearly crazy with thinking about it and it just seems as though everything is black. I don't want them to take my boy from me. I wish I had a chance to take him back home where I could take care of him. It would break my heart if they should—," and here Mrs. Hagdahl's voice quivered, then broke and she gave away to tears.

Mr. Hagdahl seemed to be as interested as the mother. He said that although he was working each day and by the day and had not a great deal of money, he would do everything in his power to help the boy out for his mother's sake. He too, thought the boy was not really a bad boy at heart.

Mrs. Hagdahl was formerly Mrs. Johnson. On grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment she is said to have secured a divorce from her first husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagdahl left for their home, Virginia, this afternoon. Mr. Hagdahl said that he could not longer afford to be away from his work. They will be back for the trial which will probably take place in about two weeks.

The family lives at 511 Hemlock street, Virginia.

MERCURY 16 BELOW ZERO

Sixty-Mile Gale Makes Night a Bitter One in Duluth.

Little Relief in Prospect for Next Thirty-Six Hours.

Duluth was given another reminder last night that it is in a northern clime of high winds and low temperatures. Boreas was in a nasty mood and the breeze that breezed down the avenues about 8 o'clock last evening was about the liveliest little wind Duluth has seen in many moons. About 8 o'clock the little zephyr was traveling at sixty-two miles an hour and, although it fell off some during the night, it maintained more than a comfortable velocity in the face of a mercury plunging down the tube.

The temperature began to drop early last evening and when the big wind was whirling around the corners and accelerating the speed of people venturing down the avenues, the mercury was near the zero point. At about 1 o'clock this morning it passed the zero mark and the low temperature, 16 deg. below zero, was reached at 7 o'clock this morning, when the speed of the wind had moderated to about twenty miles an hour.

The wind has died down somewhat now, but the air is still cold and little relief is in sight. The mercury is expected to get from 10 deg. to 20 deg. below zero tonight. Cold weather prevails all through the Northwest and the last ripples of the cold wave are not expected to pass Duluth for at least thirty-six hours.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE REPORTS ELECTION OF ISAAC STEPHENSON NULL AND VOID

States senator, such supporter afterwards switching to Stephenson, and that he paid large sums of money to others which was afterwards used by them to induce other persons to assist in procuring his election.

"On the whole record, therefore," the report states, "Stephenson is charged with knowledge of the manner in which his campaign was being conducted and the purposes for which money was being disbursed.

"The failure to keep or require accounts and the practice of destroying original memoranda by those engaged in disbursing Stephenson's funds in the campaign, makes it clear there was premeditation and method on the part of Stephenson and his managers to cover up their methods of conducting the campaign.

Approved Methods.

"That he approved of these methods cannot be doubted. Those managers, in plain violation of law, gave considerable sums of money to Levi H. Bancroft, C. C. Wellensgard, Thomas Reynolds, John Mulder, E. A. Everett and W. L. Smith, who then were candidates for nomination to the assembly.

"Large parts of the money distributed in the Stephenson campaign, probably a sum in excess of $50,000, was used by Stephenson's managers to unlawfully and corruptly procure the nomination and election of Isaac Stephenson to the United States senate.

"Further, Isaac Stephenson was elected by the legislature to the United States senate by a majority of three votes while the charges of corruption against him were being investigated by the legislature.

"In addition to the several acts of corruption and fraud herein referred to, it should be remembered that the election of Isaac Stephenson on March 4 was made possible by three Democrats, who, at the instigation of the Stephenson managers and agents, walked out of the joint assembly when it became known that their presence would prevent the election of Isaac Stephenson.

Should be Denied Office.

"Under the law, if a person elected clearly participates in any act of bribery or attempted bribery, he should be denied office, although the result of the election was not thereby changed. This, in the opinion of the committee, Senator Stephenson did.

"It is also the law that if by bribery or corrupt practices on the part of the friends of the candidate who are conducting his canvass, votes are obtained for him without which he would not have had a majority, the election should be annulled, although proof is lacking that he knew of the bribery or corrupt practices.

"This, in the opinion of the committee, Stephenson's managers and workers did, thereby changing enough votes to give him the nomination in the primary and the election before the legislature.

Election Null and Void.

"The findings of the committee are that the nomination in the primary and the election to the United States senate by the legislature of Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin is null and void on account of attempted bribery, corrupt practices by himself and by his campaign managers, agents and workers and violations of the laws of Wisconsin defining and punishing offenses against the elective franchise.

"The committee recommends that a copy of this report be certified to the United States senate by the governor and the legislature with the request that that body investigate the manner and means by and through which Isaac Stephenson secured his election to the United States senate for its action thereon."

The report further recommends that prosecutions be commenced by the district attorney of Dane county, against all persons shown by the evidence to have committed perjury in the investigation and that a like copy of the evidence be submitted to the attorney general with the recommendation that he cause to be commenced prosecution against all persons shown by the evidence to have been guilty of corrupt practices or of perjury.

ney A. E. McManus, for the defense, stated to the court this morning that he does not wish to present his case until the state has finally rested. This point was raised when it became necessary to send a surveyor to the scene of the shooting that lines might be definitely established. Judge Cant thought that the trial could go on while the work was being done, but Mr. McManus objected on the ground that he does not wish to begin his case until after the state has finished.

Third Shot Fatal.

The most important testimony of the morning was given by Robert B. Langley, a neighbor to both men, when he stated that he did not hear Riley yell until just after the third shot was fired. This would indicate that the first two shots, the one inside the house and the next went wide, and that Riley was not hit until the third shot. Langley lives but a short distance from the scene of the tragedy and he was very positive on this point.

Langley said that the shooting took place at just about the time of recess at the country school. This, he said, was about 3 p. m.

He said that after hearing Riley yell, he ran quickly to Riley's house. He found Ernest there and together they ran to the road where they found Riley lying on his back. Langley said that Riley died almost as soon as they reached him and without uttering a word.

Langley also told of the target shooting by Riley and his son on the day previous. He said that he saw them shoot three times and that the time between the shots was long enough so that the men had time to go and look at the target.

Chief Troyer said that as nearly as he could make out, the point from which the men had been shooting and the direction of the shots was in direct line with the Schmitz home. He said that he could not be positive, as it was hard to see the house from the point of the shooting, but that this is his best judgment in the matter.

If this is true, the men were shooting at a target, and if they missed, the bullet would go through the woods to the Schmitz place. This is on the theory that the stories told as to the target shooting are true, and it explains how it was that Schmitz thought that the bullets were directed at him.

The state's case is now made more plain than it has been at any time since the beginning. It seems very probable that the state will claim that it was the third shot that did the work. This, it is supposed from the evidence presented by the state's witnesses, was fired while Riley was running away.

Meden on Stand.

Gus Meden, also a neighbor, told of hearing the shots and also of hearing the scream, which he supposed at the time was that of a woman. At the third shot and while about 200 yards from the Schmitz place, he turned around and saw Schmitz standing near the house with the gun in his hands. He did not see Schmitz shoot. He said that he saw no one else in the neighborhood with a gun.

On being asked to indicate to the jury about the length of time between the shots, he clapped his hands three times to indicate the reports. The time was about fifteen seconds. This he later admitted could not be right.

Ernest Riley tried to help the jury to understand where the different points were that were being talked about. The jury could not seem to get them straight and Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene asked that they be allowed to go over the ground themselves. The jury retired and decided among themselves to take the trip to Colbyville.

was increased, and today there are double the patrolmen on duty at the courthouse.

The first witness for today was Dr. Frank Hupp, who was on the stand when court adjourned yesterday. It was during Dr. Hupp's direct examination yesterday that Mrs. Schenk showed the first agitation over any of the testimony, when the doctor told of statements of Mrs. Schenk's that "perhaps I would be better satisfied if you would let him die."

Prosecutor J. B. Handlan said: "What we brought out yesterday was very mild. Watch what we produce today."

The physicians who assisted at the blood tests and other toxicological tests will be witnesses. Following these will come the nurse who attended Mr. Schenk throughout his illness.

Dr. Frank L. Hupp, on the stand when court closed yesterday, was again called by Prosecutor Handlan, when the trial was resumed. The doctor admitted that the symptoms which he had declared were those of lead poison, might have been from some other cause and at first he believed Schenk was suffering from the bite of a mosquito. Schenk was confined to his bed only three days. He also said that Mrs. Schenk was the first to call a nurse.

The morning session closed with Dr. Hupp still on the stand.

to the particular character of such a commission as you urge, and still more as to how its duties and powers should be determined in detail. I do not consider these questions of vital importance, provided the real principle is adopted. Your association is an association of practical business men. I am sure you will be the last to lose a real gain by quibbling over details. Furthermore, your association represents a large number of commercial organizations throughout the country made up of members in many different fields of commercial and industrial activity. As an association you ought to realize, and must realize, the futility of constantly harping upon the antagonism between producer and consumer, or manufacturer and merchant. Many of you manufacture goods. You all consume goods, and you all buy and sell goods. I understand that this movement which you represent is a movement not of one class, nor of one section, but 's a business men's movement to attempt to secure a closer and more intelligent relation between the government and the business world in matters of policy which vitally affect business interests and the general economic welfare. I know that you are here out of public spirit, hopeful of securing not such legislation as would benefit your own private interests, but such legislation as you think would be of permanent and general benefit. Your deliberations cannot fail to be profitable and harmonious, if you bear always in mind that only two things are necessary and essential: First, the facts; and second, a continuous source from which these facts may be derived."

Tomorow Congressman Lenroot of Wisconsin will speak.

The convention is expected to proclaim the merits of a permanent tariff board as they never have been proclaimed before.

STATE GETS PATENTS.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—S. G. Iverson, state auditor, has received from the federal government patents to 59,107 acres of land in the Cass Lake land district. He also received lists of the selections of 31,420 additional acres to which the state will receive patent in a short time.

These lots are part of the swamp lands which Mr. Iverson and other state officials have been endeavoring to get from the government for a number of years. Since 1903 active steps have been taken and just recently the state received patent to 11,000 acres of land.

The land comes to the state under acts of congress of 1860 giving to Western states certain swamp lands. The government held that the land now given to the state was timber land rather than swamp land.

Strength Comes

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest.

A Tablet Digests a Meal. Trial Package Free.

Most people eat most foods without discrimination—it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn on the road to dyspepsia. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the unquestioned causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison throughout the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of poison. What else can be expected? If the food lies in the stomach, if the system is constipated, fermentation is the natural outcome. It shows itself in sour watery risings, belchings, heartburn and painful breathing.

There is only one way to relieve this condition. If the stomach refuses to digest your food put something into it that will. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nothing but digestives. They are not a medicine. They work when the stomach will not.

Each tablet contains enough pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive elements to reduce 3,000 grains of ordinary food to the proper consistency for assimilation into the blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are absolutely pure. There is nothing harmful in them as shown in their indorsement by 40,000 physicians in the United States and Canada.

Ask your family physician his opinion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and if he is honest toward you he will state positively that they will cure your stomach trouble whatever it may be, unless you have waited too long and have allowed your disorder to develop into cancer.

Act today and begin to end your suffering. A free trial package will be sent to your address upon request. The 50-cent size packages are for sale at your druggist's. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Salter, master of ceremonies. The officers for the ensuing year, elective and appointive, are as follows:

Commander, C. G. Howard; senior vice commander, Don Carlos V. Musser; junior vice commander, J. P. Burnett; adjutant, M. J. Murray; quartermaster, F. G. Hanson; chaplain, W. O. Flodin; officer of the day, F. G. Knowlton; officer of the guard, Carl Anderson; surgeon, Charles V. McCoy; historian, W. C. Kimball; sergeant major, R. M. Weaver; quartermaster sergeant, John D. Schweiger; color sergeants, Joseph Carhart and Paul Clarkson; musician, E. G. Simpson.

Lieut. Christian Briand of the Fifteenth United States cavalry was mustered into the camp. Lieut. Briand is in charge of the recruiting offices for this district.

During the present session of legislature a bill will be presented which has for its object the placing of veterans of the Spanish war on the same footing as the G. A. R., as provided for in the state laws relating to appointments, promotions and removals of soldiers. The bill has the indorsement of the camp and copies of the resolutions urging its passage will be sent to each senator and representative in the state legislature from this district.

The installation ceremonies and business meeting were followed last evening by a smoker and social session.

The annual reports show the camp in a flourishing condition in point of membership and finances.

RESTITUTION MADE.

Million and a Half Surrendered to the State of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 11.—Restitution to the amount of $1,300,000 and the surrender of warrants aggregating $200,000, upon which payment had been stopped, were made in the Dauphin county court yesterday by the men convicted or otherwise implicated by the state of Pennsylvania in the capitol frauds. The commonwealth agreed to drop all criminal action against the defendants with the exception of the case of Joseph M. Huston, who is under sentence and who has an appeal in the superior court. Thus ends one of the most important criminal prosecutions ever brought by the state and which has stirred Pennsylvania from end to end.

The new capitol, a magnificent structure, with its rich furnishings, cost approximately $13,000,000. Of this sum the state alleged that it had been defrauded out of about $5,000,000.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickeled, and easily polished.

EXPERIMENTAL STAMP MILL

North American Stockholders Re-Elect Directors and Plan Development.

Directors of the North American and the Vermilion Iron & Steel companies were re-elected yesterday afternoon at meetings of stockholders in the companies' offices in the Sellwood building. Directors of the North American are T. J. Walsh and G. F. Ross of Duluth and Fred Jorens of St. Paul. Mr. Walsh was re-elected president and treasurer; W. B. McCormick of Minneapolis, vice president; and H. G. Champlin of Duluth, secretary.

Directors of the North American authorized the construction of a small experimental stamp mill to treat the gold bearing rock which is said to be found in close association to the iron formation at the company's property at Tower. The plant will have a capacity of thirty tons a day. In the last year the company has put down a concrete shaft and has erected a steel shaft house. The machinery has a hoisting capacity of 600,000 tons a year. About 75 per cent of the stockholders attended the meeting and they went to Tower today to visit the property. They live not only here but in the Twin Cities, Chicago, Milwaukee and other towns in the Northwest.

Directors of the Vermilion Steel & Iron company were re-elected as follows: George F. Ross, T. J. Walsh and George W. Boden of Duluth. Mr. Walsh was re-elected president and treasurer; Mr. Boden, vice president; and M. Farnum, secretary.

The Vermilion Iron & Steel company is putting down a shaft on its property near Tower. The shaft has reached a depth of 114 feet. Ore has been disclosed in eight drill holes at from 300 to 800 feet. The property is equipped with a first-class hoisting plant and other equipment.

FARRELL TO HEAD STEEL CORPORATION

Selected to Succeed William E. Corey as President.

New York, Jan. 11.—James A. Farrell of Brooklyn is the choice of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation to succeed William Ellis Corey as president of the corporation. After a meeting of the committee yesterday afternoon Chairmar Gary issued this statement:

"The finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, after consulting individual members of the board of directors, not on the committee, has unanimously decided to recommend to the board at its next regular meeting the election of James A. Farrell as president of the corporation.

"Mr. Farrell has been president of the United States Steel Products company ever since its organizaaion in 1903. He has been connected with the iron and steel industry for more than twenty-five years.

"It is believed the selection will be gratifying to the officials of subsidiary companies and to all connected with the industry."

The United States Steel Products company formerly was known as the United States Steel Products Export company. It handles all the export business of the parent corporation.

Mr. Farrell is a practical man "from the ground up," according to Mr. Gary, and the growth of the company's foreign trade is largely due to him. He is about 52 years old, is married, and has a large family. It is understood when elected to the presidency of the corporation, Jan. 24, that he will confine his activities to the practical and technical sides of the vast corporation.

CINCINNATI HAS $1,000,000 FIRE

Handsome Chamber of Commerce Building Completely Gutted.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 11.—Entailing a loss of more than $1,000,000 this city sustained its second great fire within three weeks, last evening, when the Chamber of Commerce building was destroyed. A dozen firemen were injured and others are unaccounted for.

Through members of the fire fighters' force are missing, early reports of fatalities among firemen and spectators caught in the wreckage of the collapsed roof, up to a late hour had not been confirmed. There were a large number of employes at work at the time in the Cincinnati stock exchange and the Louisville & Nashville railroad offices. Both the offices contained valuable records which were consumed completely in the fire.

Only the bare skeleton of the walls of what was pronounced to be Cincinnati's most magnificent building, remain. The building was valued at $1,000,000 and the fixtures in the various offices were valued at $50,000.

Fully 5,000 persons were crowded directly outside the fire lines when the roof fell in. Smoke and flying sparks completely filled the streets for two blocks and a panic followed as men and women fought to escape. When the smoke lifted, it was found that many had sustained bruises and cuts. No one was seriously injured.

Nearby office buildings were turned into hospitals and shelter places.

DECISION MIGHT STRIP DULUTH OF HER REVENUE

Other Business Concerns Should Be Taxed Like Telephone Companies.

Court's Decision Followed Out Logically Would Pauperize City, Says Auditor.

"If the decision of Judge Dibell prevails, the city of Duluth is cheating the state of Minnesota out of many thousands of dollars," said Odin Halden, auditor of St. Louis county, today, discussing the result of the litigation instituted by him to compel the Duluth Telephone company to pay taxes on its real property in this city.

"What I mean by that is that if this decision is supported by the higher courts, practically every business in the city should pay taxes to the state and not to the city," continued Mr. Halden. "The Duluth Herald and every other newspaper published in Duluth should pay taxes to the state and not to the city, under the terms of this decision. The income of these publications and of all the other enterprises conducted for gain comes, not exclusively from residents of the city, but from people living in all parts of the state, and beyond the borders of the state. If the fact that the telephone company derives a portion of its income from other parts of the state than Duluth serves to exempt it from taxation here then the same condition should make the local business concerns amenable to the same process. If this decision is to stand, Duluth business concerns could be made to pay a gross earnings tax direct to the state and avoid paying taxes to the city and county on their real property. The legislature, if this decision is sustained, can constitutionally require this and deprive the city of its revenue.

"The Duluth Telephone company enjoys all the municipal advantages that are provided at the expense of the city of Duluth. It has fire protection, of which it is in constant need. There is always fire in its wires and cables, and the attention of the fire department is directed toward this company's property perhaps more than to any other one business location. Along First street, where its building is situated, the city has a sewer system, the advantages of which are enjoyed by the company. The police department looks after the safety of the company's officers, employes and property. Then there is the water supply system, which has been provided for the Duluth Telephone company by the city of Duluth. The company freely makes use of that necessary convenience. These are only a few of the things that this city provides for the Duluth Telephone company.

"And under the decision of Judge Dibell, the company need not pay a cent for any of them, so far as taxes are concerned. That doesn't prevent the company from taxing the people of the city as it pleases, however."

The telephone case will be appealed. Mr. Halden said he was determined that every effort shall be made to get the ruling of the supreme court on this case, which he declares is of the highest importance to the mass of the people. Mr. Halden, in his contention that under the decision most business enterprises could be made to pay a gross earnings tax to the state and no tax to city and county, is not indulging in any flight of fancy, he declares. The constitution and laws of the state are cited by him to bear him out in the contention, and attorneys who have studied the question are inclined to indorse the logic of the conclusion.

"The case will be carried to the court of last resort," said Mr. Halden. "I believe I am right and that the supreme court will say I am. Win or lose, it is necessary to reach a final decision as to the meaning and intent of the law and the constitution as amended."

while St. Paul—like Minneapolis—is nowhere near so agitated about reapportionment as all parts of Northern Minnesota are, Mr. Hackney is earnest and aggressive in his determination to bring about a just reapportionment if it is in his power.

Senator Hackney's Position.

He went on record yesterday afternoon to that effect in the following interview with The Herald:

"It is the unquestioned duty of this legislature to pass a reapportionment act, and such act should take effect for the next general election even though this may mean the legislating out of office of every member of the senate.

"My appointment as chairman of the reapportionment committee came to me as a great surprise. My constituents are not worrying over reapportionment, as it will make little or no difference in my district.

"Yet I recognize the importance of the subject to the state at large. Minnesota has been without reapportionment many years too long. The bill for this purpose should have been passed two years ago. The leading excuse for the neglect of legislative duty at that time was that the reapportionment should be based on the national census. No such excuse can be offered at this time. The people are rightly demanding immediate justice in legislative representation, and it is indeed more than time to act when some legislative districts in Northern Minnesota have respective populations of 60,000 and over, to populations of little more than 12,000 in some Southern Minnesota districts.

"As chairman of the senate committee on reapportionment, I intend to exert every honorable effort to secure the passage of a reapportionment bill this session which shall take effect in time for the next general election. When the bill comes to our committee, I will do all that I can to get quick action on its hearings, and a report back to the senate as speedily as possible recommending the bill for passage. So far as I am concerned personally, the state will get a fair and square deal.

"The enactment of a reapportionment law is, in my opinion, the present crying need of the state, and the greatest duty to the people which the present legislature can perform."

There can be no mistaking such sentiments as these.

Committees Are Right.

The reapportionment committees in both houses were picked to report out an honest reapportionment bill, and they can be depended upon to act promptly and in entire good faith. The house committee, appointed by Speaker Dunn, consists of three from each congressional district, and in choosing them it is evident that the speaker took into consideration the situation of each member, with a view to picking men who would help reapportionment and not block it.

The same thing is true with the committee selected by Lieutenant Governor Gordon. That committee consists of nineteen members, and Mr. Gordon, after giving two to each congressional district, gave the odd member to Northern Minnesota, thereby showing his good faith in the matter. The extra member went to the Eighth congressional district, which has on the committee Senators Boyle of Eveleth, Cheadle of Duluth and Gunn of Grand Rapids. Senator Victor L. Johnson is assigned to the Fourth district as he lives in Chisago county, but two of the three counties in his district are in the Eighth district, so he can be counted, really, as a fourth representative of the Duluth congressional district.

Obstacle to Oregon Plan.

There is an embarrassing, if not an insurmountable, obstacle to the adoption in Minnesota of the Oregon plan of direct election of United States senators.

So far no way out of it has been pointed out, and it is a pity, too, because the measure stood a better chance of passing at this time than it even did before.

The Oregon plan requires candidates for the legislature to sign one of two statements. Statement No. 1, the one usually signed, binds the candidate to vote for the choice of the people for senator. Statement No. 2, which is seldom signed, is to the effect that the signer looks upon the people's verdict at the election as merely advisory.

On its face this is a very clever and practical way of putting into the hands of the people the selection of their United States senators, and it has worked out admirably in Oregon and other states, and has wide support in this state, not only outside the legislature, but in the legislature.

But—

In Minnesota house members are elected for two years, and senators for four.

Last November both branches of the legislature were newly elected, but while in 1912 house members must go before the people again, the senators will not have to do so unless a reapportionment bill is passed cutting the senatorial terms in two.

If the Oregon plan were adopted by the legislature this winter, it would have its first trial in 1912, when Senator Knute Nelson's term will be about to expire. But there will be no senators running to be pledged—unless a reapportionment bill is passed.

The house would be pledged, and the senate unpledged; and the plan could hardly be expected to work out as it should.

Would Recur Later.

Even if a reapportionment bill is passed, so that this difficulty would be obviated in 1912, it would recur again later.

Senator Clapp is about to be re-elected for six years. At the end of his term there will be a complete election of house and senate, so it would not happen then. But if a reapportionment bill is passed, the next state senatorial election will be in 1916, and in 1918 the Nelson term will expire and the same situation will present itself.

There is an obvious remedy. The senatorial terms might be cut permanently to two years, and the legislature would then be renewed completely at each general election. Then the Oregon plan would work.

But it takes a pretty wide stretch of the imagination to picture the senate, after years of enjoyment of a four-year term, cutting its term permanently to two years. It is utterly out of the question. Nor would it help to increase the house terms to four years, because that would result in bringing about a senatorial election under the Oregon plan when there would be no members of the legislature at all to pledge themselves.

Maybe a way will be worked out of it, but in spite of popular and legislative sentiment for the Oregon plan, it looks as though its goose were cooked in Minnesota.

First Election Hearing.

The senate election committee held its first meeting yesterday afternoon, and fixed upon next Tuesday evening for the first hearing, when the Emmel-Ahman contest will come up on a motion by Ripley B. Brower of St. Cloud, attorney for Senator Ahman, to dismiss the contest on the ground that the evidence produced is not sufficient to warrant the institution of a contest. This case involves soley the question of Senator Ahman's citizenship. His father took out his first papers before Mr. Ahman was 21 years old, but it seems to be admitted that his second papers were not issued until Mr. Ahman was over 21. If that is the case, Mr. Ahman could become a citizen only by taking out naturalization papers, which he has not done, though he has served a term in the senate.

It is interesting to note that even if Henry J. Emmel, who instituted the contest, should succeed in unseating Senator Ahman, he would not gain the vacant seat. Emil Hrdlicka, who was also a candidate, has joined in the contest and declares that he is entitled to the place.

Drainage Investigation.

The action of the Aitkin county board in asking that State Drainage Engineer George A. Ralph be discharged from the superintendence of the Aitkin-Itasca-St. Louis county judicial ditch is to result in a legislative investigation of the state drainage commission from which sensations are promised. The state fair board probably will have its usual legislative investigation, also.

Lynn Haines, professional muckraker, correspondent of a number of country weeklies and author of a book "exposing" the records of the members of the last legislature, has attained a seat at the press tables in both houses by virtue of credentials from a Minneapolis newspaper.

Governor Eberhart favors the abolition of capital punishment, and he is withholding the announcement of the execution of several death sentences in the hope that Representative George A. McKenzie's bill doing away with hanging in this state will pass. One of these cases is that of Michaelo Rossi, convicted of murdering a companion in Duluth. The files in this case have been held in the executive offices since December, 1909.

Five Great Northern box cars were burned. The origin of the fire is not known. The elevator was managed by James Glasgow.

PREDICTS DISASTER

Col. Roosevelt Warns Lumber Interests of the Country.

Must Have Wise Laws to Conserve Our Natural Resources.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—The importance of forest conservation was the theme of a speech by Former President Roosevelt at a banquet under the auspices of the Harvard university forest school at the Exchange club last night. Mr. Roosevelt warned lumber interests that unless they rose "above the grade of barbarism now displayed, disaster would overwhelm the country."

The colonel in opening, paid a high tribute to Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester and to Mr. Newell, head of the reclamation service, as early interesting him in the reclamation work. He declared that the present chief forester Henry S. Graves, combined in the highest degree absolute disinterestedness with efficiency in the work of the department.

Col. Roosevelt described conditions in the North of China, where centuries ago Marco Polo found great forests and commerce laden streams which now are bare fields and dry streams with a poverty-stricken populace. He predicted the same disaster for this country unless wise precautions were taken and enforced by able men.

"We must have wise laws to accomplish results," said Col. Roosevelt, "but laws will fall far short of what they ought to accomplish unless we have men behind them. The lumbermen must not only co-operate but they must lead in this movement for the conservation of our natural resources, in which forestry is the most important division.

"The lumbermen should make it their chief aim so to conduct their business that it may be handed down to their children enhanced in value as any other other business.

"We need laws to protect the lumbermen who desire to leave the lumber business to their children against those who would destroy it for all time. But most of all we need the lumbermen to co-operate in framing the laws on this subject to make them practical. We want co-operation because we don't want foolish laws.

"We are on a low grade of barbarism if we eat the seed which has been saved for planting, instead of planting it, as that is what we are doing now."

PATTEN SUED FOR $6,000,000

Suit Brought By President of Chicago Anti-Gambling League.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—James A. Patten, retired millionaire grain broker, whose successful operations in the cotton market led recently to federal grand jury indictments against himself and associates, was sued for $6,000,000 in the superior court yesterday.

The plaintiff is Dr. Paul Burmaster, president of the Chicago Anti-Gambling league. He brings suit under an Illinois statute whereby any person having knowledge of a gambling transaction may sue and recover to the amount of three times the total lost by any of the players.

The suit was suppressed for service to await the return of Mr. Patten from Hot Springs, Ark., and complete secrecy as to its nature was maintained by counsel for both sides of the action.

Burmaster was inspired to bring the suit, he said, through recently becoming acquainted with a retired broker who related to the physician the manner in which men win and lose money on the board of trade, chiefly through dealing in "futures."

Through a brokerage house in La Salle street, Dr. Burmaster is said to have obtained the names of persons who dealt with Patten during the last two years and through this list of transactions arrives at the total of $2,000,000 loss. The list is the foundation to the action begun.

BLOOD DISEASES

CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness and vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. MISS ALICE H. CONKLIN DIES

Duluth Girl Passes Away at Her Home After Long Illness.

Miss Alice H. Conklin, formerly a teacher in the local schools, died at her home in Duluth Heights at 10:10 last evening after an illness of about a year of lung trouble. She was 23, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Conklin and a native of Duluth.

Miss Conklin graduated with high honors from both the Duluth Central high and the Duluth normal and as a seventh grade teacher in the local schools ranked among the best, according to Supt. Denfeld, until her sickness forced her to give up her school work. She taught last in the Bryant school. She was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Besides her parents and one brother living here, she is survived by her paternal grandmother, an aunt and an uncle living at Amenia, N. Y.

The funeral arrangements have not been perfected pending advices from out-of-town relatives and friends, but it is expected the services will be conducted from the deceased's home at Duluth Heights at 2 p. m. either Thursday or Friday.

AVIATOR LATHAM HAS A CLOSE CALL FROM DEATH.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 11.—Hubert Latham, the young French aviator, had a remarkable escape from death on San Francisco's aviation field yesterday. In his second flight of the afternoon he encountered a flaw of wind that dropped him to the ground when he had attained a height of about 30 feet. In the fall he crashed into a fence, completely wrecking his Antoinette monoplane.

The boat-like body of the craft was broken in three pieces, the breaks occurring just in front and behind the driver's seat. Latham sat tight and escaped without a scratch, while his machine was splintered about him. The engine was badly damaged, both blades of the propeller were snapped off short, the planes were torn into strips and one wheel of the running gear was wrenched off.

When an army ambulance, which dashed out from Camp Selfridge near which the accident occurred, reached the aviator's side, Latham was ruefully contemplating the wreck while he puffed hard on a cigaret.

KUEHNOW FOR PRESIDENT

Duluth Man May Be Elected to Head "Minny" League.

Twin City Sporting Writers in Jumble Over Candidacy.

(BY BRUCE.)

A. W. Kuehnow, former owner of the Duluth White Sox and one of the best known and best informed baseball men in the Northwest, is slowly being forced into the limelight as the strongest probable choice as president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league.

With the somewhat strong feeling that has arisen between the sporting writers of the Twin Cities, and that gradual belief that after all there is no need to go outside of the circuit to select a president, the three strongest probabilities in the race are Davis of Eau Claire, Sommers of Superior and Kuehnow of this city.

President Elliott of the league is known to have a very high regard for Mr Kuehnow, in fact he recommended him last year as the strongest choice the league could make. Duluth is entitled to consideration in the matter of the league president, and the Head of the Lakes delegation will go to the meeting prepared to make a hard fight for the election of Mr. Kuehnow.

Mr Kuehnow has never sought the position. It is only the fact that in every respect he is the logical and best fitted candidate of the position that his name has been brought into consideration. Last season he was considered the strongest man to succeed John A. Elliott, and the lapse of time has only strengthened the fact that the election of the Duluth man at the head of the league would be the wisest course that could possibly be pursued by the directors of the league.

For years Mr Kuehnow has been associated with baseball in the Northwest, has the acquaintance and at the same time the confidence of the biggest baseball men in this part of the country. Perhaps, outside of John Elliott, Mr Kuehnow is better acquainted in baseball circles than any man connected with the Minnesota-Wisconsin clubs.

If the present Minny league is to continue, harmony should be the keynote of its future existence, and it is clinch that the election of Frank E Force will not make for harmony in this part of the league. As dean of the baseball men in the Minny league circuit, Mr. Kuehnow is the most logical man for the place, and as Duluth is logically entitled to the honor of naming the president the city can put forth a suitable man. It would seem that A. W. Kuehnow is by all odds the best man for the place.

Has Interest in Baseball.

Mr. Kuehnow has been instrumental in fostering baseball in the Northwest. He was interested in the organization of the old Northern league and was later also instrumental in keeping interest alive in the fading Northern Copper Country league. He has been one of the pioneers in baseball in this part of the country, and during the years of his baseball activity has made a long list of firm friends.

Perhaps more than any other man Mr. Kuehnow knows the needs of baseball in these parts. He has studied baseball these past twenty years or more, and he is thoroughly in touch with the needs of the Minny league and the future development of baseball in these parts.

As the two biggest cities in the league and the two cities that have given the chief support to the league during the two years of its existence, either this town or Superior is entitled to the honor of naming the next president. Aside from the fact that Mr. Kuehnow lives in one city that should be allowed a great deal of voice in the selection of the executive of the league, he is about the strongest candidate that can possibly be put forward.

Sporting Writers Clash.

Advices received from the Twin Cities this morning by the writer, indicate that there is somewhat of a small sized storm brewing among the various sporting editors. Already they are talking of Lew Drill as the compromise candidate. An excellent fellow, Mr. Drill can hardly be mentioned in the same sentence with Mr. Kuehnow as being ably fitted for the place. He is an ex-baseball player and also an attorney.

Things are getting down to cases and politics are picking up. The Minny needs a strong man at the head, a man thoroughly acquainted with baseball and its needs in this part of the country. A. W. Kuehnow is such a man; he is a man who would take hold of the league and make a success of it, and that is the kind of president the league will need.

Some uninformed writer in one of the Eau Claire papers, a writer, who jumbled his stuff somewhat dreadfully, stated that this town has always been a "yeller." Well since this town and Superior have supported the league for the past two years, perhaps the excuse may palliate the sin somewhat. It is right that these two cities up here should have quite a lot to say in the forthcoming meeting, and it is quite logical to believe that the Head of the lakes delegation will fight to the last ditch for A. W. Kuehnow, one of the best informed men in the Northwest on baseball, an organizer, a capable business man and one who has had a wide experience with the needs of the game in this part of the country.

Force often means friction, and that's what the election of a certain Force is going to mean in the league. Kuehnow looks like the strongest man the league officials could possibly put into the office, and his name should carry a lot of consideration at the coming meeting.

A. W. KUEHNOW.

LANGFORD IS WINNER

Joe Jeanette Is Outclassed By Stubby Sam in Boston Bout.

Langford Has Decisive Lead But Is Unable to Land Knockout.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—Sam Langford defeated Joe Jeanette in a slashing bout of twelve rounds before the armory A. A. last night.

Langford had a decisive lead in every round but one, and in the first round dropped Jeanette for a count of eight.

Throughout the fight, except in the third round, Langford outpointed his opponent. He used right and left swings to Jeanette's face and right jabs to the body almost exclusively, but he was unable to land a knockout blow.

In the opening round Jeanette drew first blood. Angered by the blow, Langford landed a left hook to the neck, which dropped Jeanette for a count of eight. In the second round the New York colored man was unable to ward off Langford's uppercuts to the head and the gong alone apparently saved him from being knocked out, but he rallied in the following round and had a shade the better of the argument. The remainder of the battle was entirely in the Boston man's favor. Charley White of New York, the third man in the ring, gave Langford the decision.

In the preliminary, Frank Moran of Pittsburg knocked out Ken Sallsbury of Arlington in the second round.

OFFERS BAT NELSON $1,000 A ROUND.

New York, Jan. 11.—One thousand dollars a round for a defeated champion is some money in the opinion of local fans, but if is the amount that Tom Jack O'Brien" is willing to pay to have Battling Nelson perform in Quakertown.

The Battler was proudly displaying the following telegram today:

"Battling Nelson—We still think that you are the greatest lightweight ever. Will give you $1,000 a round or 40 per cent of the gate to meet any opponent to be selected in a six-round bout before the American Athletic club here. If you knock out your opponent will give you $10,000 for a second fight to be held at any club. Will be in New York one night this week to close deal.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office forthe benefit of curlers only.

MELVIN OLSON, E. G. KREIDLER, CLIFFORD HOLMES, RAY DONALD, Probably the Worst Curlers in the West Duluth Club.

The editor of the Fireside Clarion went out to the Western Curling club's rink last night and "looked 'em over."

They probably have worse curlers in West Duluth than in any club at the Head of the Lakes except the Duluth club and the Superior club.

West Duluth curlers never have any trouble to get away from home at night. They bring their wives with them, and in one part of the rink the wives of the members do their sewing, while in another part the members do their curling.

The Clarion editor thought that it might be a good idea to change jobs, but he repulsed the idea.

One rink that is just as bad as any of them is the quartet known as "Olson's Misfits."

Melvin Olson, skip of this rink, has the reputation of losing more games with his last stone than any man in the rink. Several times he has had the misfortune to sweep up, but with his last shot has frequently raised in as many as three of his opponent's rocks. He has great difficulty in deciding on the laying stone and has done more measuring than any skip in the rink.

Ray Donald, "Olson's" third man, has earned the title of "Running Shot Ray." His ambition has always been to put a rock into the waiting room and with the improvement he has shown each season he will probably realize his ambition in a few more years. He has got the broom three times in one game.

E. G. Kreidler does not belong with the above rink, but was willing to have his picture taken with them. The only thing that can be said about Mr. Kreidler's curling is that his third man was heard to remark, "Gee, I would like to get in with a bunch that could curl."

Cliff Holmes, lead of "Olson's Misfits," has yet to lay a rock in the ring. He says that the man who told him about the game said that the object was to hit the end of the rink and let the rocks bounce back.

The president was heard to remark last night, "I don't see anything in the by-laws that puts it up to me to break up dog fights."

The caretaker has quit skating. He says he can do better work without getting on the ice.

After the recent series with Superior one of the members who did not play asked Charlie Raymond how he happened to get beaten. Charlie told him that he could not keep any of his rocks in the ring.

INTERCLASS HOCKEY LEAGUE

High School Athletic Association Active—"D" Sweaters Awarded.

The High School Athletic association held a meeting yesterday and decided to form an interclass hockey league. The matter of a representative hockey team for the school was taken up, but it was decided that both basket ball and hockey teams could not be supported at the present.

A board of control, consisting of Mr. Carey of the faculty and the four captains of the class basket ball teams, was formed for the purpose of drawing up rules and providing a schedule for the interclass basket ball league.

The members of the Central high school football team of 1910 did not receive their coveted "D" sweaters until this morning. During chapel exercises Principal Young gave a short talk, commending the players upon their excellent showing this year. He then presented the following players with the football insignia: Mars, Nolte, Kelley, Solheim, O'Brien, Johnson (captain), Jeronimus, Boyle, Glass, Brown, Le Duc, Boden, McClaran and De Vey.

ASSOCIATION MAGNATES MEET

"Minny" League Petition Will Come Up for Consideration at Chicago.

Tomorrow at the Congress hotel, Chicago, the annual meeting of the American association magnates will be held. After the meeting tomorrow something more definite may be known regarding the seriousness of the statements that have been made for the past month, crediting the Minny league clubs, or at least part of the old organization, with an excellent chance to break into the A. A. playing territory.

Jack Desmond, who at the present time is looking after the interests of the local club, is in St. Paul today, and it is possible that he may go to Chicago. He is one of the Minny league magnates who is very confident that the Minny league may be allowed to break into the Twin City territory. Whether Mr. Desmond is over sanguine will probably be determined at the meeting tomorrow.

To the fans of this city that is the most important consideration. There are those who state that the petition of invasion will be given scant consideration. The meeting of the A. A. magnates tomorrow will at least carry more than the ordinary amount of interest for the fans around these parts.

There is little stock taken in the war talk. A quiet meeting is expected.

CENTRAL TO PLAY AT SANDSTONE

Basket Ball Five in Good Condition After Vacation Practice.

The basket ball players of the Central high school put in a strenuous vacation under the coaching of Mr. Shilling and promise to open the eyes of the devotees of the sport when they play in Duluth for the first time.

Next Friday the team will go to Sandstone to play the high school team at that place. Although they know little of the strength of the Sandstone five, the Duluth boys do not expect a very hard game. They will not take any chances, however, and will play the game with all their strength.

Waldron, who was injured in the early football season, has again thrown out his injured knee and will most likely be replaced by Osman at center for Friday's game.

Kelly is a new man at basket ball, but in the practice games during vacation has shown up in fine form and with more experience will be a contender for a regular position.

Those who will make the trip are: Capt. Harris and Johnson, forwards; Osman and Waldron, center; Jeronimus and Solheim, guards; and Coach Schilling.

Fifteen Rounds to Draw.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 11.—Tommy McFarland of San Francisco and Jake Bareda of St. Joseph fought fifteen rounds to a draw last night.

McFarland had the better of the fight in the start, but Bareda gained strength and at the end of the fifteen rounds the men were about even.

WITH THE WRESTLERS

Matsuda, the same chap whom Sailor Jack defeated at Ellensburg, Wash., will wrestle in Minneapolis on the evening of Jan. 17 when Ordemann and Hackenschmidt will meet in their finish match. Matsuda is looked upon as the champion lightweight of Japan, and the Minneapolis writers are crediting him with being one of the best little men Japan has sent to this country for a long time. The very fact that Sailor Jack beat him shows the class of the local wrestler.

Henry Ordemann is one of the busiest wrestlers before the public today. He meets Tom Winklehoffer of Chicago this evening at Winona. The Chicago wrestler is a whale for size, outweighing Ordemann, who is no infant. However, the Minneapolis crack should win the match.

After the match with Winklehoffer comes the finish contest with George Hackenschmidt, the man the American public is anxious to see clash with Gotch. Then Ordemann goes to Detroit and meets Zbyszko in a handicap match. After the Detroit match will come the contest in this city with Karl Liehto.

Ordemann has made a hit in Detroit, where he recently defeated big Fenby. He is in demand there and Kansas City is also bidding for the services of the Minneapolis man. The officials of the Missouri Athletic club want Ordemann and Westergaard to meet to settle the much mooted question of supremacy.

From Chicago comes the statement that Frank A. Gotch has signed for a tour of the world for the highest salary ever paid an athlete, especially a wrestler. It is stated in the dispatch that Frank will tour every country on the globe.

If this is true, it probably means that the American will meet Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko and the rest of them, or the best of the foreign stars. It is to be hoped that the one and only Frank does come off the farm and don the old red tights again, for when all has been said and the form closed, this Gotch boy is about the greatest of them all.

ADAMS TAKE SECOND GAME

West End Boys Win an Exciting Extra Inning Contest.

Bat Out Victory After Being Apparently Hopelessly Beaten.

Last evening at the Armory the crack Adams indoor baseball team defeated the Company A aggregation by the score of 15 to 14. The game was one of the most exciting and most interesting ever played at the Head of the Lakes, the winning run being scored in the eleventh inning.

After the soldier boys had scored three runs in their half of the eleventh the game seemed hopelessly lost to the supporters of the Adams. It was here that the grand rally of the West end team was made, four runs being driven across the plate.

Al Olsen stole home with the first run of the inning. Erickson scored on Grenner's smash to McGraw and Grenner and Olund crossed when Salvoy smashed the ball on the nose.

At the end of the fourth the score was 7 to 3 in the favor of the soldiers. The score was tied in the last half of the fourth. The militiamen took the lead in the sixth, the Adams evening up matters in the seventh and again falling behind in the eighth inning. The score was again tied in the last half of the ninth, the winning runs being shoved over in the eleventh.

The contest was hard fought all through and showed some fast ball. Salvoy's hitting was one of the features of the game.

The result of the game last evening gives each team one contest, the third and deciding game to be decided some time in the near future.

The lineup:

FAIRMONTS WILL MEET PARK POINTERS.

The Fairmonts and Park Pointers, two of the fastest teams in the City Hockey league, will clash this evening at the French club rink, Twenty-fifth avenue west, in the second scheduled game of the league. Both teams have been practicing hard for the contest and it is expected that the game will furnish some of the best hockey that has been seen here the present season.

The lineup is as follows:

McFadyen	c	Gillis
Johnson, Berg	r w	Roberts
Ostdahl, Renauld	l w	Shearer

WILL BUILD CLUB.

New York, Jan. 11.—The finest boxing club in America will be built in San Francisco this winter if the plans of Matt Larkin, the well known sporting man of the coast, work out.

Larkin is one of the biggest sporting men in the West, a great follower of the game and a big bettor on all events. He was one of the biggest winners on Johnson in the Reno event, having captured more than $15,000 from the admirers of Jeffries.

Larkin has just arrived home after a visit East and intends coming through with a boxing club on the lines of the great National Sporting club of London, that will be a wonder.

There hasn't been a really swell club in the West since the old California club died out years ago and one of the exclusive plans help the game greatly.

Who Was the Greatest Catcher of Them All? —More Minny League Politics—Baseball May Die at Winona — That Old Dope Story.

(BY BRUCE.)

Let us deal some more in greatness. Here are the catchers.

Who was the greatest catcher? You couldn't make a positive declaration on that point without pulling down disputes, like over ripe apples come tumbling down on the head of the youth shaking the old apple tree.

There have ben so many of them—Buck Ewing, Silver Flint, Charley Bennett, Chief Zimmer, Duke Farrell, Wilbur Robinson, Bill Schriver, Dick Buckley, Billy Earl, Billy Sullivan, Johnny Kling, Roger Bresnahan, Lou Criger, Jimmy Archer and George Gibson.

There is a brilliant bunch of receivers for you! Every one a star. Cutting through the fields and avoiding all possible roundabout argument, you might say that Charley Bennett, the wonderful old catcher of the Detroits, the lad who lost both his legs in a railway accident, was about the greatest catcher who ever lived.

For years baseball students have compared Buck Ewing, the famous former catcher of the Giants, and Bennett. In recent months the old argument has cropped up, and the major opinion credits Bennett with being about the greatest receiver who ever stood behind the mask.

Different pitchers work well with catchers that understand them. Thus Brown, Overall and the rest of the Cub stars will say that Johnny Kling is the greatest catcher who ever lived, because he has performed such yeoman service in getting the best out of these great stars.

Cy Young's loyalty might be divided between Chief Zimmer and Lou Criger, two catchers who had much to do with the unparalleled success of the G. O. M. of baseball.

Mathewson used to like Bowerman and Waddell always showed a fondness for Schreck. But neither of these catchers have been classed in the list with the greatest receivers of the game.

Bennett, Ewing and Kling should rank right in the front receivers' row, with honors accorded to Bennett, according to the best dope of the writers who have seen these three men perform.

What wonders a catcher can do for his team! What would the Giants be willing to pay for a man like Kling? What would Detroit have given for a great receiver in the three world's series that the Tigers went through? They are born, even more so than the poets, Bill. They only produce a great catcher every so often. They don't seem to bloom on the baseball bush with the other great players. That is why the memory of Charley Bennett's good one still continue to shine on through history, for his deeds were brilliant, and he has ever been spoken of as one of the most wonderful ball players who ever added luster to the national game.

Bennett comes awfully near to being the greatest catcher the game has ever produced, and any one pronouncing him the greatest backstop ever, will satisfy a lot of fans.

And still the political pot is boiling. They are still talking Minny league politics. The geek from Eau Claire, who is industriously, if not sagaciously booming H. C. Davis for the presidency of the league, is dispensing knowledge with more lavish hand than did ever old King Solomon, who for years hit over .300 in the Wisdom league.

Mercy, Clarence! Another Knowledge Knight Maketh a Big Loud Noise.

This chap has the undaunted nerve to state that Eau Claire is a live town. He should receive a rude slap on the wrist and be sent from the room. He is either a humorist or an unconscious juggler of a wild and untamed imagination.

Wasn't it Eau Claire, that with a pennant winning team, fell behind the expenses of running the team? This may be a mistake, the question is only asked so that the oft repeated rumor can be rocked to gentle sleep in its little cradle.

No one has said very much about the unprofitable teams in the Minny league, but there were some, Clarence, of Eau Claire, and your little team down that a way was one of the most unprofitable of the unprofitable. On a big day the gatekeeper could count up the house by the simple system of mental arithmetic.

But back to the presidency. If they go outside of the newspaper fraternity one of the Head of the Lakes towns is clearly entitled to the executive. A. W. Kuehnow, one of the best posted baseball men in this part of the country has been mentioned, as has Will Sommers of the Superior club, and perhaps, as these two towns at the head of the great unsalted seas have done rather more than their share in supporting the league the past two seasons, the directors will give some voice to the ability of both of these gentlemen.

Now, Clarence, you have got the wrong hunch. You are clear off your base. The wheels of your intellect have become clogged by the vast amount of knowledge that so far you have failed to assimilate.

We are not trying to break into the American association. Honestly, Clarence. Who ever told you we were? Kick the idea into the waste basket. There now, feel better?

But we are trying hard to break into the Twin City baseball vineyard, Clarence, and Mr. Barton told the truth when he wrote an article stating that Duluth and Superior were ripe for bigger baseball company. It can't be helped, little one, if this makes you angry; it is true, and we are all plugging for the invasion thing, and when the A. A. magnates say we can come in and the national commission approves of the welcome to our city salutation,—why, gee whiz, we're coming in, Bud.

Don't lose your temper, and don't get choleric, whatever that is. Outside of the fact that Eau Clair won the pennant last year, it hasn't done much for the league, so you really mustn't kick if some of the teams look for more profitable territory.

Naughty, naughty, bad, bad boy, little Buddie.

At the meeting of the directors of the Winona baseball club, called for tonight at Winona, it is stated that the future of professional ball in that little city will be taken up. According to one of the Winona papers, there seems at this time a grave doubt as to whether there will be a professional club in Winona the coming season.

There Seems to Be a Question About Winona's Baseball Future.

With some doubt as to baseball as Wausau, Winona and possibly the other members of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, it would seem that these towns should become well satisfied on their future standing in baseball, before doing a lot of that "Rally around the Minny league" stuff.

It is a well known fact that baseball has failed to pay in some of the towns of the Minny league, and it takes patriotism of the deepest dye to provide baseball with the popular music of the American dollar, one of the best singers we have. Therefore the magnates should at least get together and take stock of the ship before deciding upon whom shall be cast the choice of leading the league's destinies.

James Jeffries has shown startling lack of originality in thus harping on the story telling how he was cruelly doped, causing his massive and somewhat ponderous strength to appear as the attacks of a crossgrained old buck on the base of Gibralter.

Wherein the Dear Old Dope Story Is Played for a Faded Show in in the Sympathy Race

Now if Billy Brady, the big theatrical man, who was the former manager of the big fellow, had the managerial reins clasped tightly in his little hannies, it is a cinch that Jim would have no excuse at all, or he would have a good one. Jim Corbett could have though up a better one than that overplayed dope romance, which sounds like one of Old. Capt. Colyer's most maudlin massacre.

All the dope Jim received was from the change in plans engineered by Delaney and the fact that fear lent wings to fading ability. A Duluth man who was with Jeff before the fight, and after the fight, says the big fellow was really ill before the fight. This illness has been attributed to nervous dread of the outcome, rather than the mysterious potion that some one was supposed—by Jeff and Barney Oldfield—to have passed to the gink who operated at the soup kettle.

It will not go. Even James J. Corbett refuses to recognize the value of the story as a publicity ray of light. When James J. passes these things up, they are dead and of morbid temperament. There are many people sorry for Jeff; ah, but they don't believe this dope story.

TOMMY BURNS WILL FIGHT IN LONDON.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 11.—Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, cabled to Hugh McIntosh yesterday an acceptance of the latter's offer of a purse of $12,500 for a fight with Bill Lang in London.

Burns is guaranteed $12,500, regardless of the result of the fight. He is recovering from injuries received in a lacrosse game at Vancouver and in a train wreck near Tacoma and promises to report in London within sixty days. Burns will take Jack Lester to England with him.

Do Not Believe Jeff.

New York, Jan. 11.—The repetition of Jeffries' charge that he was drugged in his fight with Jack Johnson, sprung this time by Barney Oldfield in Los Angeles, has received no more than a passing notice by the New York sports. Among these the opinion is general that Jeffries should "forget it."

The only thing that will ever make the rank and file of fight fans believe the dope story will be for the guilty person to make a clean breast of it.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The Linnaea club is the first of the women's clubs of the city to take definite action in regard to the furnishing of the rooms of the new anti-tuberculosis hospital which is to be under construction by next spring.

At a meeting of this club yesterday afternoon it was decided that the club would give $225 to the society for the furnishing necessary for three patients at a cost of $75 per patient.

This society has been doing good work along this line in the past and is now maintaining two patients at the hospital at Walker, Minn.

A number of other clubs of the city have promised aid and there will be a meeting of the presidents of all the women's clubs affiliated with the Women's councils Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Burris for the purpose of discussing what their clubs will do in the matter.

HAS LEFT STAGE.

Mme. Rothwell-Wolff Refuses Flattering Offer.

Mme. Rothwell-Wolff, who is to be the soloist at the Monday evening concert of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra at the Lyceum next week, has had an interesting musical career, and of her the manager of the orchestra says: "We have had no one here who has been quite so successful, a fresh young voice and an exquisite art. She is in the Gadske-Schumann-Heink class as an artist with a much younger voice."

Mme. Rothwell-Wolff has been a success from the first of her career, and her American fame began when she first came to America to sing in "Madam Butterfly." Her retirement from the stage at the time of her marriage was a surprise to those interested in her work, but she has repeatedly refused offers to go back to the opera. She has recently received an offer from Henry W. Savage to sing the title role of "The Girl of the Golden West," which will be given in English by his forces next season, but she has refused, as well as an offer for more operatic work in Germany next spring.

She intends to stay with her husband and accompany the St. Paul Symphony orchestra on its tour, as one of the soloists.

CONCERT A TREAT.

Charming Program By Miss Miller Before Matinee Musicale.

Miss Christene Miller and Carl Bernthaler presented a concert program at the Pilgrim Congregational church before the members of the Matinee Musicale which was one of the most delightful musical events heard in the city in many months.

Miss Miller has a contralto voice, so full, and rich in feeling, and under such perfect control, and she interprets her songs with such charm and such emotion, that she wins her audience completely.

Her program last evening was divided into groups of five songs each. Great variety in the songs chosen showed the versatility of the artists. Her second group, which was devoted to compositions by Brahms, showed a great dramatic ability and depth of feeling, and her ability to carry her audience with her is remarkable.

Her first and last groups were made up of varied selections and the program was rounded out in a charming manner.

Carl Bernthaler, who accompanied her, is also the director of the Pittsburg Symphony orchestra and is a finished musician of unusual ability.

CARD PARTY

For Benefit of New Catholic Gymnasium.

The Catholic Young Men's club will give a card party this evening at the Cathedral hall. This is the first of a series to be given and is for the benefit of the new gymnasium.

ASK FOR CLOTHING.

Bethel Supply Short for Distribution Among Needy.

Good clothing and stout boots and shoes for men, women and children are needed by the Bethel society to carry on its work of helping the sick and poor. The fire contributions last fall being so large the Bethel did not receive its usual supply of clothing for the poor and with this severe weather the need for warmer clothing has been made apparent in many homes.

Miss Frazer also asks for canned fruit and jellies and canned goods for sick people. The Bethel reaches a good many people who are not reached by any other association or in any other way and a response to this appeal will benefit many.

GUESTS AT DINNER.

THE EVENING STORY

THE CONVICT AND THE COCKROACH

The convict whistled softly. From some unseen cranny in the wall of the cell crept forth a cockroach and made swiftly for the feast of crumbs which the convict had placed on the floor. A repulsive looking insect it was. Most people would have shrunk from the creature with a shudder of disgust. Not so the convict. He bent over and tickled its head caressingly with a straw which he had taken from the mattress. The insect paused in its feeding and seemed to look as though accepting the caress.

Presently it ran up the convict's leg and settled itself upon his knee; and still he tickled its head with a straw and whistled to it half under his breath. A certain tenderness shone in the hard, defiant eyes, transforming and refining the brutalized face. The coarse animal seemed to die from it; the human to reassert itself. Only a loathsome cockroach; a filthy insect-vermin marked out for destruction to all clean-minded persons. Yet a living, sentient thing, the handiwork of our common Creator; and to this convict a friend, a confident, a solace from lonelieness and despair, a thing to live for, a softening influence, a minister of redemption.

Hark what was that? The warden's step in the corridor. Gently, very gently and tenderly, the convict took the cockroach in his hand and set it on the floor. The convict was distrustful of the warden; it understood and ran swiftly back to its hiding place. He thought the official mind likely to be intolerant of cockroaches. Yet, as a matter of fact, the warder knew all about it, having frequently seen the convict feed his strange pet through the keyhole in the cell's door.

He was a decent man, that warder. He had a heart under his blue tunic, and by reason of his heart he had tolerated the cockroach and connived at it. Possibly he didn't understand all that it meant to the convict. But he understood enough to make him shut his eyes.

The convict was a favorite with the governor of the prison. There was nothing strange in that. The convict was far from a prepossessing individual, and in the governor's presence he always showed his worst. Lawless, perpetually at war with authority, the sight of this domineering martinet who represented to him as it were, the personified embodiment of galling tyranny, stirred all the black rebellion within him. He dared not let it break out. The dread of the punishment cell deterred him. So he took refuge in sullen, dogged, obstinate taciturnity.

It chanced one evening that the governor took it into his head to make a round of inspection. He was passing along one of the corridors in his rubber-soled shoes when his ear was caught by the sound of a low, crooning whistle. Without difficulty he located the cell—our convict's cell—and looked through the keyhole. For a moment or two he watched. Then he silently beckoned to the warder to unlock the door. In a twinkling it was done. The governor marched into the cell.

"What's that? What are you doing?" he demanded sharply of the convict.

With a hasty movement the convict set the cockroach on the floor and the creature ran for its hiding place. The governor saw it.

"Filthy vermin!" he said. Then he stamped on it and crushed it. That was the end of the minister of redemption.

The convict was white as death. For a moment the shock of it held him stunned, stupefied. Then rage and hate, bitter murderous hate, leaped into his haggard eyes.

"You devil!" he cried.

The governor's thin lips compressed themselves grimly.

"Warder, see that this man is brought before me tomorrow morning," he said.

He turned and left the cell. The door slammed with a sharp click. Only just in time. The convict, having now recovered his faculties, hurled himself against and beat wildly with his fists on the solid wood in his insane desire to get to the governor—beat till his knuckles were raw and bleeding, yet felt nothing of the pain, and still he kept beating, and only desisted at length from sheer exhaustion.

Then he threw himself on his face on his bed, and there was silence. Only the man's heaving shoulders and mangled hands clutching spasmodically at the blankets bore witness of his agony. At length he sat up with bloodshot, maniac eyes, staring about him. He rose. He paced the cell. After a little he fell on his knees. It was an awkward attitude. Not for twenty years or more, save as a matter of compulsion in the prison chapel, had the convict knelt in prayer. But now he knelt and prayed; and the man's whole soul, his sore, festering, ulcerated soul, was in the petition.

"God in heaven—curse him. Plague him. Confound him. Do unto him as I would do unto him, great God in heaven."

It was not the convict's ordinary language. A sort of inspiration was on him, the inspiration of rage, grief and hatred, lifting him out of himself and imparting to his lips an unusued, in a sense, an exalted phraseology.

Next morning the governor of the prison, while still at his toilet, received a message that one of the warders wished to speak to him at once on an urgent matter. He hastily completed his dressing and went down to see the man.

The warder's agitation was apparent through the outer crust of his disciplined self-control.

"I have a report, sir, that No. 8401 has committed suicide in his cell," he said.

"Eh? Committed suicide?" exclaimed the governor, with a sudden frown.

"Yes, sir. Hanged himself by a strip of blanket from the bar of his window. We have just cut him down. The doctor has seen him, but it is too late."

"I'll come round at once," said the governor, still frowning.

The convict's body lay on the bed, covered with a sheet. The warder drew it aside, disclosing the dead man's head and shoulders. It was not a pleasant sight—the blue, livid mark around the neck, and the tongue still hanging from the mouth, and—worse than all—the staring, glassy eyes protruding from their sockets.

The governor was the reverse of a sensitive man. But he shuddered as he bade the warder replace the sheet. An extraordinary idea had flashed across his mind—fanciful, weird, even grotesque. Those protuberant eyes standing out so horribly from the face reminded him exactly of the eyes of a cockroach.

Five years passed. The governor, now retired, was living with his wife and family in an old-fashioned country cottage.

For some while now he had been morose, irritable, ill at ease. He could not sleep at night. His appetite failed. His favorite pursuit of gardening lost its interest for him. At length his wife became seriously alarmed. The doctor was called in.

"Your husband is thoroughly out of sorts and run down," he told her. "His nerves are all wrong. Get him away from here for a while. Take him on a sea voyage, if that is possible. If not, induce him to interest himself in local affairs, or at least to take up some occupation. Idleness is the worst possible thing for him in his present mood. He wants to employ himself and have plenty of cheerful society. In the meantime I'll send him around a tonic."

The governor's wife did her best to comply with those instructions, but found her husband intractable. Of leaving home he would not hear, and he positively declined to take part in any local affairs. So, finding that pressure in this direction only made him irritable, she at length desisted, and matters were allowed to drift. Indeed, in the face of his refusal to carry out the doctor's orders, what was there to do?

One morning, as she was writing letters in the drawing room, she was startled by a sharp cry. At once she hurried to her husband's study, whence the sound proceeded.

He was sitting on his chair, his face ashen-gray, his eyes shining with a sitting up in bed, his face transfigured with terror.

"Those eyes! Those eyes! Take them away! Save me!"

He stretched out his hands to her in a gesture of agonized appeal. She sprang forward. Too late. He had already fallen back upon the pillow—dead.

At that dreadful moment her gaze was suddenly attracted to a dark object on the coverlet. Her heart within her seemed to stand still with horror. She was staring into the beady eyes of an enormous cockroach.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Baths that Soothe the Weary.

Women unfamiliar with baths save the ordinary ones of warm water and soap and the cold plunge, have a veritable treasure trove of good things suited to their moods and requirements when they find other plunges that exercise a specially beneficial effect upon the nerves, muscles, circulation and even the brain.

Little luxuries may be added to the bath quite inexpensively to beautify the skin. Among them are dainty bags made from various cleansing agents calculated to soften and whiten the cuticle.

Bags of bran scented with orris root are very simple to make. Cheese cloth should be cut about six inches square and only half filled with the following mixture:

An ounce or two of orris root to a pound of bran. Plain oatmeal boiled for a quarter of an hour, then strained, is still more homely and very delightful in effect. Place the grains in a bag with a little orris root.

An elaborate formula which may be used in any desired proportion implies one and a half pounds of oatmeal, four ounces of powdered orris root, five ounces of almond meal, and one-eighth of a pound of olive oil soap first dried and then shaved or scraped. This should be mixed and placed in bags.

A bath to soothe the nerves is made of two ounces of tincture of camphor, one ounce of simple tincture of benzoin, and four ounces of rectified spirits. Mix these ingredients thoroughly and pour sufficient of the result into the bath to make the water milky and give it a faint odor. Soap may be used in this bath, or the water be used simply as a laving for the body.

Making a Scrap Splash Board.

Holland is the best foundation for a splash board, as it does not crack or bend as easily as cardboard. Make a frame of thin wood just the size that you require the splash board, stretch the Holland over and secure it firmly. Then decide on the position of the large pictures, cut and shape them as necessary and place them on a table so that they are within easy reach of your hand. Boil down some size and give the Holland a coating while it is still hot. Make some ordinary flour paste and see that it is perfectly smooth. When the size is nearly dry, coat quickly with the paste. Pass the paste brush over the back of the pictures, lay them on the prepared Holland and press them evenly from the center towards the edges. When the large pictures are in position, finish decorating the splash board with small scraps and then leave for three days. Coat it with white size, leave again for a day or two and then varnish.

Household Economy

To Make Oil Paper.

Brush over sheets of thin paper with boiled oil and then hang them on lines to dry. This will be quite waterproof, and is useful to tie over jars, and can be used in many ways when an impervious paper is needed.

To Blacken Tan Boots.

Wash the leather in rather strong soda water, but do not saturate it. When quite dry blacken the boots all over, using the cut half of a potato instead of a brush. Black thoroughly, then polish with a brush as usual.

Making Linen White.

To make linen white and take stains off, put a dessertspoonful of spirits of turpentine in copper when boiling clothes. It has the advantage over bleaching stuffs that it does not damage the finest linen and is no trouble.

Helps For the Housekeeper.

If a dessertspoonful of vinegar is added to the washing up water it will take away the nasty smell from cutlery which has been used for fish.

Old potatoes are greatly improved by being soaked overnight or for several hours before being peeled. Change the water once or twice during the time.

The best way to prevent rust on grates which are not in frequent use is to mix the blackening lead with turpentine. This gives a quick and lasting polish.

To fill cracks in wall use vinegar instead of water in mixing plaster of Paris. It will not set for twenty minutes or so, and can be nicely smoothed over with a knife.

Follow the Heat

By CARA REESE.

Follow the heat. Perhaps not quite as far as Dante did. Also it depends somewhat on the season of the year. But follow the heat. There is comfort in heat. The birds are wiser than man. They quit when there are signs of winter.

Anything for heat. The furnace is out of order, the radiators are dripping icicles, the registers breathe a chill blast like a Boreas; anything for heat. The small stove in the bathroom is cracked in the rubber tubing, the "instantaneous" has taken a "week" spell of inaction, the fireplace shows more dilution than ever and very little caloric. Oh, for heat units, or whatever it is that you are to pay for and receive or get your money back if you do not get it. Try and grasp the "feel" if you cannot grasp the sense. If only the units would hasten and bring a sample of warmth.

Follow the heat. If you get too close you can always unfasten your collar or rid yourself of superfluous clothing, or use a fan or sit in a draft. But when you are cold you have no redress without catching pneumonia. Follow the heat; leave the ice for the inanimate. Follow the heat. Go to Florida or to the tropics, anywhere where fuel is cheap or not needed. It is the cold that congeals the gray matter, that makes icebergs of human beings and breaks the "pitcher." Follow the heat if you would be active and limber.

It takes heat to "try out" the fat of the land. It takes heat to raise the "dough" and make a "loaf" out of it. It takes heat to fire a match, to make an air float of a kerosene can, to get a move on to the whole house or the stagnant business. Follow the heat, the restaurant where the coffee is served piping hot, the entertainment where there is a rousing enthusiasm, the church where the sermon is a warm theme and delivered hotly. Follow the heat. Strike while the iron is hot. Success usually waits where there is ardor and fervor. Likewise heat stands for expansion, and in business this is an important factor. Follow the heat, providing you stop short of hothouse, violence and superheated argument. Follow the heat, even though it keeps you in the house tending the fires.

It is necessary to fan the flame sometimes, to use the blowers, to build a bonfire. It is necessary sometimes to trail up the smoke, to huddle close over over the embers, to scrouge in with others. But only so there is heat, that is the point at present. Follow the heat, but stop this side of caldron or furnace.

THE ABRUPT GIRL

By FRANCES WILEY.

There are some girls who seem to breathe exclamation points. Everything they do or say or think is exaggerated.

Abruptness is a fault of youth. It seems to come natural to young folks to bang doors, make curt answers, enter a room with a dash and leave it unceremoniously.

Much of the abruptness will be toned down by years. She may be very shy and seek to hide her shyness by an assertion of independence. Frequently abruptness is caused by an overflow of spirits. A girl full of life and energy is apt to feel conventions silly. She thinks the more noise she makes the better time she has spent, and is apt to resent any curbing.

More often a girl is abrupt through sheer selfishness. As long as she enjoys herself, she cares not at what cost to others.

Whatever the cause, the effect is bad on others and for the girl who is abrupt. Other people do not care to have her about them, and she is creating an impression that years will not efface.

PARKS IN ALL NEW PLATS

Park Board Wants to Inspect All New Additions to City.

Will Ask the Power to Choose Sites for Playgrounds.

There was a meeting of the parks, playgrounds and public docks committee of the Commercial club today, at which it was announced that a decidedly progressive step has been taken toward securing more parks and playgrounds for the city's rapidly increasing population. Mayor Cullum is chairman of this committee.

The park board at a meeting last night considered the draft of a bill which the legislature will be asked to enact. This bill provides that in the future when tracts of land within the city are platted, the plat shall be submitted by the plat commission to the park board for its examination, so that the board may select and designate park and playground sites. These designations will be submitted to the plat commission, which may be expected to approve the action of the board. Then the platting company or individual will donate the sites to the city, which will devote them to park and playground purposes only. The fact that these reservations are made will serve to accentuate the demand for the lots when they are placed on the market, better prices will be realized by the vender and the purchaser will profit by reason of the fact that the living conditions will be improved in that tract.

One-half the territory within the city limits remains to be platted. Under this proposed procedure, each part of the city that is to be platted in the future, will be provided with breathing spaces and the city will be saved the necessity of buying land to devote to park purposes. The same system is in operation in many European cities, notably Berlin, except that in the German capital the lands are owned by the city, which buys them before they are added to the city and controls the plans upon which they are built.

Much interest was evinced in this project by those attending the committee meeting today and all expressed the most enthusiastic approval of it.

SUES FOR THE LOSS OF AN EYE

Joseph Conners Asks $10,000 From the Alger-Smith Lumber Company.

Joseph Conners, a minor, by his mother, Mrs. Mary Gietz, is trying through a personal injury action in district court, to obtain $10,000 from the Alger-Smith company for the loss of an eye, alleged to have been lost while working in the employ of the company at its mill as edgerman.

The action is being tried before Judge Ensign of the district court. Samuel Anderson, the St. Paul personal injury lawyer appears for the plaintiff.

Conners claims that the edger catcher employed on the same machine was incompetent and that it was directly due to his carelessness that the accident happened.

It seems, according to the complaint, that in some way a board became wedged in the machine and a portion of it flew off, hitting Conners in the eye. He claims to have lost the use of the eye.

TWO PRISONERS ARE ARRAIGNED

Spooner Youth Enters Plea of Not Guilty to Burglary.

Tony Hendrickson, accused by the January grand jury of grand larceny in the second degree, entered a plea of not guilty when brought before Judge William A. Cant of the district court this morning.

Hendrickson is accused of selling a watch that had been intrusted to his care for cleaning. The complaining witness is George Thatcher.

Robert Waldren, a youth from Spooner, Wis., pleaded not guilty to burglary in the third degree. He is accused by the January grand jury with having broken into the building at 17 North Fifth avenue west with intent to commit a crime. The contents of the building are owned by Louis Liedn.

Waldren is but a boy and when arraigned did not seem to understand the proceedings at all. He seemed to be ignorant of what went on about him and had to be spoken to sharply by the court before he could answer any of the questions put to him.

Several other secret indictments will le made known when the prisoners are brought into court this afternoon or tomororw morning.

LOCAL COPPERS SHOW STRENGTH

The copper market today was weak and depressed. Liquidation in the leaders continued. The railroad market was unsettled by liquidation in Pennsylvania which was weak on account of rumors of a new stock issue.

The local market was strong. Butte & Superior was the feature. Keating ran it a close second. Butte & Superior, old stock, advanced from 85c to 91c and then jumped to $1.12½. The buying was occasioned by the favorable report made at the annual meeting yesterday. The finances of the company are in better shape than for some time and a new contract with the Basin smelter will effect a saving of 30c a ton. The new stock went from $8.50 to $9.50 bid without sales. The friends of the management are now in complete control of the company. The retirement from the directorate yesterday of A. M. Chisholm, who resigned, gives A. B. Wolvin and his friends a firmer grip on the affairs of the company.

Keating showed continued strength. Buying continues and the stock is closely held. Keating sold at $1.05¾ to $1 to $1.06¼ and then to $1.25. The part paid Scott sold at $1.87½ and the full paid at $5. Denn sold at $4.87½ to $4.62½ to $4.81¼ to $4.75. Red Warrior sold at $1.25, Shattuck at $21.31¼, Calumet & Montana at 63c to 64c and Carman at $1.12½. Rice Bay was put on the unlisted board and was $1 bid. Rice Bay is a Vermilion range iron stock.

Amalgamated sold at $63, $63.25 to $62.25; Butte Ballaklava at $6.25, Butte Coalition at $18, Calumet & Arizona at $46.50 to $47 to $46.50, Giroux at $6.81¼ to $6.75 to $6.62½, Greene at $6.75 to $6.62½, North Butte at $27.75 to $28 to $27.50, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.87½ to $14 to $13.75, Cactus at 23c to 20c, Ojibway at $6 to $5.75, Shattuck in the East at $21.75.

J. Bruce Kremer of Butte, Mont., succeeded A. M. Chisholm of Duluth, as a director in the Butte & Superior Copper company yesterday. Other directors were re-elected as follows: A. B. Wolvin, William White, I. Freimuth, Theodore Hollister, J. B. Becher, John G. Williams, J. F. Kilorin and H. S. Clark, officers will be elected tomorrow. SITUATION IS STRONG

Wheat Market Advances and Undertone Is Firm---Receipts Light.

Foreign Crop Reports Bullish---Cold Wave Hits Winter Wheat States.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 11.—Light receipts, inclement weather, unfavorable news from Russia, an improved continental inquiry for wheat, higher Russian and Argentine offers, reports of further damage to winter wheat in this country and continued buying by the leading longs put wheat up today. May advanced 1¼c and July gained 1½c. Cash wheat was 1c under May. Durum gained 1c, oats lost ⅛c, rye and barley were unchanged.

Flaxseed advanced. Crushers bought a little stuff. The market was so narrow that it was without significance. People who were instrumental in putting flax down yesterday tried to buy May today and ran the price up on themselves. Some were successful in getting their flax and others were not. Nobody got any cash flax as holders refuse to sell at present prices. Minneapolis advanced its cash prices to within 3c of our May. The local cash position was 1c under. Winnipeg May closed at $2.38.

The wheat markets recovered today from its slight reaction of yesterday and values continued on their upward march. On the upturn there were evidences of profit taking by bulls but there was no indication that the leading longs, the Lichstern-Armour interests, were letting go their wheat. The public came in to a larger extent than for some time and relieved the bulls of part of the trouble of advancing values.

Wheat cables were unchanged to slightly higher. Plate offers were fewer and reports from Russia were less favorable. In the southern part offers, less favorable reports from Russia, lighter Russian offers at firm prices, strength in cargoes and the fact that there was no cargo arrivals. The advance was checked by private reports received here of predictions of rain and warmer in the American winter wheat belt. At mid-day the market was dull but firm and unchanged from yesterday. The corn market at the opening was firm and ¼d to ½d higher and following the opening prices were unchanged at the advance. The strong advance in Buenos Ayres was offset by freer American offerings and a smaller demand for parcels. Our Argentine agent cables that rain threatened in the North, otherwise the outlook for corn continues very bad. The closing strength in Buenos Ayres was attributed to further covering of shorts and speculative buying on damage reports and a good demand from exporters."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Cold Wave Working From North Sends Price of Wheat Upward.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Wheat ran up quickly today because rain and snow predicted for the Southwest turned out to be of little consequence, and there was a cold wave working down from the North. In addition, Liverpool reported fewer Russian and Argentine offers and noted a better demand for cargoes. The flour trade in this country was said to show a little improvement and there was more call for cash wheat. Falling off in receipts in the Northwest formed another bullish influence. Opening prices were a shade to ⅝@¾c higher, with May showing the extreme range at $1.01¼@1.01⅝. From that point the option mounted to $1.02¼, and then under heavily increased selling reacted to $1.01⅞. Forecast of snow for Kansas tonight and tomorrow eased the market for a while, but the effect wore off. Export sales were reported at the seaboard. The close was firm with May 1¼c net higher at $1.02¼@1.02⅝.

Corn was sharply higher on news from the Argentine showing a big advance there in the last ten days and telling of further bad crop conditions there today. Initial figures for the May delivery were a shade to ⅝@¾c up at 50⅜@50¾c. A rise to 50¾c followed.

Rain reports from Argentina led to reaction, but the market hardened again. The close was steady with May at 50½@50⅝c, a net gain of ¼c.

Big sales of oats by a leading elevator concern prevented that cereal from keeping pace upward with other grain. May started a shade higher at 35c and sold at 35¼c but displayed a tendency to drag.

Provisions opened easy with hogs and turned strong in sympathy with corn strength. First sales were 7½c lower to 10c higher with May options at $19.02½@19.05 for pork, $10.10@10.15 for lard and at $10.00@10.00@10.02½ for ribs.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 10.—New high prices on this turn were registered late today in wheat when May sold up to $1.09⅜ and July up $1.09¾@1.09⅞. Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 11.—The cotton market opened barely steady at a decline of 2 to 8 points under over-night selling orders and bear pressure. Liverpool was a buyer here on the decline, and there was some support from trade interests but the market showed little rallying power.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Undertone Heavy and Traders Generally on the Short Side.

Increase in Pennsylvania's Capitalization Brought Attack on Prices.

New York, Jan. 11.—The stock market today opened dull and barely steady with practically no change in the three leading issues, United States Steel, Reading and Union Pacific. There was a gain of 1 point in Rock Island preferred. Canadian Pacific lost some of yesterday's gain and there was some other unimportant fractional declines.

The tone of the market was rather heavy in the first hour and the low priced industrials yielded on a continuation of yesterday's late movement. American Beet Sugar broke to 40 and the Central Leather stocks lost 1 to 1½. Representative stocks were not much affected below yesterday's closing. Delaware & Hudson sold 8½ points higher than its last transactions.

The market showed a heavy undertone throughout the morning. Traders were generally arrayed on the short side and disquieting rumors were circulated which found no credence in well-informed quarters. The partial collapse of certain pools, while hardly a factor, was not helpful to the long account. United States Steel was altogether the steadiest of the speculative issues, and the street accepts latest developments in the affairs of that company as indicating that prices will undergo no further revision in the immediate future.

The market closed heavy. The announcement of an increase of $100,000,000 in the capitalization of the Pennsylvania railroad for refunding purposes was greeted by an attack on prices and trading became more active. Pennsylvania, New York Central and Amalgamated Copper gave way to a noint below yesterday's close and the list generally lost a good fraction. Central Leather preferred broke over 3 points and Railway Steel Spring lost 2½. The pressure against Amalgamated Copper was based largely upon the unsatisfactory condition for the raw copper market.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

EASTON LEAVES FOR NORTH SHORE

Booth Line Steamer Takes Provisions for the Settlers.

The steamer Easton of the Booth line left this morning for North shore points. The vessel is loaded with provisions for many of the settlers along the shore. Ice breaking was resorted to before the steamer could force her way out of the bay.

The ice is about a foot thick in the bay at the present time, and without a tug breaking ice the steamer had to work hard to get out.

"VAG" IS A WEALTHY MAN

Pioneer in County Jail Said to Own St. Paul Property.

Peter Peppin, worth a considerable sum of money and the owner of St. Paul property said to be very valuable, is serving a sentence of thirty days at the county jail for vagrancy.

Peppin was sent up to the jail about a week ago. He didn't have any money and he had been causing the department and others much trouble by hanging around the streets, hotel lobbies and the depots. Anywhere that was warm looked good to Peppin and he was finally sent up on the bill.

John Peterson, a man who works with Peppin, visited police headquarters this morning and informed the police that Peppin is the owner of considerable property.

The informant stated that Peppin has not been "right" for a long time. Information of insanity will probably be filed against him this afternoon. He will either be sent to the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls or his relatives a St. Paul will be asked to care for him.

ATTORNEYS ASTONISHED

Say Bill Rearranging Court Terms Has Many Bad Features.

Clerk Would Be Buried Under Mass of Routine Work.

Duluthians are showing a good deal of interest in the bill, described in The Herald's dispatches from its representative at St. Paul, providing for rearranging the court terms held on the range.

This measure was drawn by Victor Power of Hibbing, an attorney. Under its provisions, it is contemplated to hold six terms of court on the range, three at Virginia and three at Hibbing. Here in Duluth it is proposed to secure an alteration in the schedule of court terms, but only five terms are wanted here, as compared with the six asked by the range.

The bar association of the city plans to take up the questions created by the proposal of this legislation. The attorneys find in the bill a number of features that astonish them, they say. It is proposed, for instance to require any officer of the court here to supply any party to any suit tried on the range with a certified copy of any document on record here, and without cost.

Another feature is that it is proposed to maintain a deputy clerk of the court and a deputy sheriff at each of the range towns where the court shall hold terms, and that all records of range cases shall be kept in the towns where the cases are tried. Also it is provided in the bill that these deputies shall be paid not less than $2,000 a year, which is more than any deputies in Duluth receive for similar services.

The section requiring Duluth officials to supply range litigants with certified copies of whatever records they may be inclined to ask for, and to do this work without compensation, is declared to be an amazing thing. Under the terms of the bill, the Duluth officer of the court would need to transcribe records of any and every length and the work that would be saddled upon him would be of such volume as to make his task beyond the possibility of performance.

As to the salary item, that is considered an impossible condition. It would result, say county employes, in the complete disarrangement of the county's system of paying employes and would be a distinctly unfair proposition in every way.

The bar association probably will exert its influence to prevent the passage of the bill.

FOUR MEN ARE STILL MISSING

Bodies Believed to Be in Ruins of Cincinnati Building.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 11.—Four men who were known to have been in the Chamber of Commerce building when it caught fire last night were unaccounted for early today, and fears are entertained that they may have perished in the flames, which destroyed the structure and caused a loss estimated at close to $1,000,000. A score of persons, including a dozen firemen, were injured.

The missing men are Brent Marshall, a clerk; Fred Selm, night engineer; Chris Nieutes, night fireman, and Harry Leslie, porter.

These men were known to have been in the building at the time the first alarm of fire was given, and efforts to find them have since proved futile. Search of the ruins was not possible, early in the day.

STEAMER FLOATED.

The Harold Cousens Released and Proceeds in Tow of Cutter.

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 11.—The Barnegat life-saving station reports that the schooner Harold Cousens, from St. John, N. B., for Washington, which grounded off Barnegat Monday night, was floated early today and proceeded north in tow of the revenue cutter Seneca.

START PULP EXPERIMENTS AT GOVERNMENT PLANT.

Wausau, Wis., Jan. 11.—The United States pulp experimental station has started operations. Five carloads of pulp wood are on the ground to be ground and experimented with for making a cheaper grade of paper. The first experimenting will be on jack pine.

AN IMPROVED CAMERA.

Popular Mechanics: A new German camera comprises a number of new features. When the box is opened the lens springs instantly to universal focus and the camera is ready for an exposure. The plate drops down from the magazine before the shutter moves and is returned to the magazine again after exposure.

The plates are numbered automatically, as they are exposed so that they can be identified during development and afterward, and there is no danger of developing an unexposed plate. Two exposures cannot be made on the same plate, nor can plates be wasted by forgetting to expose or unintentionally drawing the slide when the lens is uncovered. Furthermore if the operator has forgotten to wind the shutter or draw the slide the camera becomes inoperative until these are attended to.

TARRED ROADS AND THE EYES.

London Daily Mail: Several doctors have recently stated that the dust which rises from tarred roads has a bad effect on the eyes, and a professor at the French Academy of Science has stated that unless tar is given up every one will, in order to save his eyesight, have to wear protective goggles.

But the use of tar is rapidly increasing. Wallace Richie, secretary of the Roads Improvement association, stated yesterday that there are even today roughly 10,000 miles of tarred roads in Great Britain, as compared with 2,000 miles in 1908. "The practice is extending very considerably," he said, "especially in the southern half of England.

"I have heard something of this complaint before, but only in the way of conversational remarks by surveyors who are constantly passing up and down tarred roads. They say that the dust from these roads seem to worry the eyes more than does the dust from untreated roads."

BADGER, MINN., NOTES.

Badger, Minn., Jan. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Wotzich Novotony died at the home of his son, J. T. Novotony, after a five months' illness. He was born in Bohemia in 1831 and had resided in this country since 1885.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Maimskog of Stokes were pleasantly surprised by a large number of their friends on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding and presented with a beautiful silver service set.

According to reports Roseau county has fared better during the recent cold and stormy weather than most parts of the country. While the temperature has been low at times, this section escaped the blizzards that have struck the East and Southwest.

At a meeting of the Roseau County Farmers' Mutual Insurance company a motion to annex the township of Warroad to the company's territory was carried. The following directors were elected: John E. Hegstad, N. E. Wold, E. A. Aase, B. L. Sundal, Edward Erickson, A. G. Lokken, Ellert Hanson, O. E. Erickson. At the directors' meeting B. L. Sundal was elected president; E. A. Aase, vice president; A. G. Lokken, secretary; Edward Erickson, treasurer.

JUDGE WORKS TO BE U. S. SENATOR

Elected to Succeed Flint of California, Defeating A. G. Spalding.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 11.—On joint ballot of the legislature yesterday Judge John D. Works of Los Angeles, "progressive" Republican was elected to succeed Senator Flint in the United States senate. Judge Works received 92 votes while A. G. Spalding got 21 votes.

The result was made certain before the senate voted. Works received 62 votes in the assembly, one more than necessary to elect. The 11 Democratic members of the assembly voted for Works.

The election ends a bitter fight that has been carried on ever since the primaries when Works received the popular votes of the state, while Spalding carried a majority of the districts.

Judge Works, prominent in politics for many years, has held several high offices. He is a native of Indiana and a veteran of the Civil war. He was born March 29, 1847. Mr. Works has been a member of the superior bench of San Diego county. His term was interrupted by his elevation to the supreme court of the state.

DIVISION OF OPINION BY THE COMMITTEE ON EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY

Two Reports Are to Be Presented to the Legislature.

Public Hearing Next Week on Changes in School Laws.

Tri-County Committee to Meet Regularly on Thursday Afternoons.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the committee appointed by the late Governor John A. Johnson to investigate the subject of an employers' liability law and report to this session of the legislature was due the first day of the session, but it will not get in until next week, and it is reliably reported that the delay is due to a division of opinion among the members of the committee that will result in two reports, which will come before the legislature some time next week.

W. E. McEwen of Duluth, late labor commissioner, and H. V. Mercer of Minneapolis, will present a majority report, and George M. Gillette of Minneapolis will present the minority report.

The majority report will be more favorable to the workingmen. The minority report will be more favorable to the employers of workingmen.

In the selection of the committee authorized by the legislature of 1909, Governor Johnson chose Mr. McEwen as the representative of the workers, Mr. Gillette as the representative of the employers, and Mr. Mercer to repre-

EXPRESS CHARGES BEING ATTACKED

North Dakota Laundry Men Claim Rates in State Are Too High.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern, the Northern and the Western Express companies are fighting it out with the laundry men today before a special session of the state railroad commission here. The laundry men have representatives from Grand Forks, Devils Lake, Jamestown, Wahpeton and Fargo, and the express companies have attorneys looking after their interests.

The contention is made that the present express charges are exorbitant.

HIGH COURT IS CROWDED

Many Interested in Great Legal Battles Being Fought.

Arguments in the Standard Oil Case Eagerly Awaited.

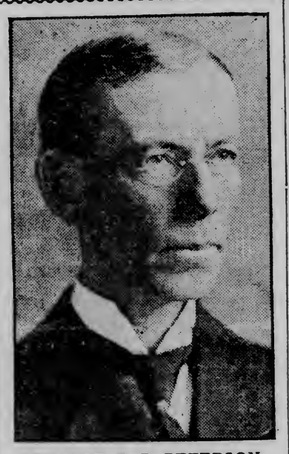

Washington, Jan. 12.—With the closing words in the great fight of the government against the so-called "Tobacco trust," and the opening words of the even greater contest over the continued existence of the Standard Oil organization, crowded into one day, the supreme court of the United States was an unusual center of attraction today.

Representatives of many interests were present to hear the final arguments of Attorney General Wickersham in the tobacco case. On these might rest the prosecutions of the future or might be found the justification of the existence of other business concerns.

Much interest attached to the opening address of John G. Milburn of New York, representing the Standard Oil. Attorneys were anxious to learn whether any change had been made in the array of arguments by means of which the Standard Oil hopes to remain intact.

Besides those interested in the technical side of the two big contests as many men and women from the various walks of life could crowd into the little courtroom did so.

INQUIRY INTO COAL TRUST

Investigation Asked Into Alleged Coal Combine in Minnesota.

State Commission to Promote Uniform Legislation Is Proposed.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative M. Edwards of Breckenridge this morning offered in the house a resolution calling for an investigation of the alleged coal combine in this state. It directs that an investigation be made forthwith by a committee of five house members, and a report may be made as to "whether or not there exists among the fuel dealers doing business in Minnesota a combination or agreement in restraint of trade." The resolution went over to Monday on a notice of debate, given by Representative Fowler of Minneapolis.

Uniform Legislation.

A bill for a state commission to promote uniform legislation on marriages, divorce, pure food, and other matters came into both houses this morning, being offered in the senate by Senator Dwinnell of Minneapolis and in the house by Representative Fowler of Minneapolis. Three citizens are to be appointed by the governor, attorney general and chief justice, to meet with the projected conference of state commissions on uniform legislation, and they are to do all they can to promote uniformity among the state in legislation on subjects of common interest.

Cheadle's First Bill.

Senator Cheadle introduced his first bill this morning, an amendment to the anti-pass law, providing that persons otherwise eligible under the law to use passes shall not be deprived of the right solely because they hold commissions from the state as notaries public.

The house committee on rules proposes two important amendments to the rules, concessions to the radical wing, and the house ordered them printed in the journal for consideration next week. One authorizes the house by a majority vote at any time to withdraw a bill from committee, and the other provides that committees shall keep records of their votes on pending bills, and that these records shall be filed with the chief clerk, and

CANNOT IDENTIFY BODY OF CHILD

Chubby Five-Year-Old Lad Found Dead in a Swamp.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Aid of the police in every large city of the country has been sought thus far in vain, in the effort to learn the identity of the chubby 5-year-old boy whose frozen body with acid stains about the mouth, was found yesterday in a swamp on the Schenectady road.

Today an autopsy will be held to determine more definitely the cause of death, but the police have little doubt that the boy was slain by some one who forced carbolic acid, bearing the label of an Albany druggist, was found under the body. The feet were without shoes, and the stockings showed no traces of mud.

It is the theory of the police that the child was murdered by kidnapers. If the boy came from this vicinity they believe they could have found his home. Every mark that might have served as an identification had been removed from the child's clothing.

ACTIVITY OF SPECIAL INTERESTS IN POLITICS IS WARMLY ASSAILED

Governor McGovern of Wisconsin Dwells Upon Duty of Legislature.

Removal of Influence of Money in Campaigns Is Important.

Passage of an Effective Corrupt Practices Act Is Recommended.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—Special to The Herald.)—Governor Francis E. McGovern, in his message to the legislature today, assails the special interests for entering political life for private gain at whatever cost to free institutions, and urges an effective corrupt practices act to remove the baneful influence of the increasing use of money in political campaigns. The message says:

"We are in the midst of one of the great epochs in the history of our country. From the first our state has been a leader in the Progressive movement and in carrying forward the work of constructive reform legislation. You now meet after much of this legislation has been fairly tested, and at a time of unusual and genuine interest in public affairs on the part of all the people. Many legislative matters of the very highest importance concerning which men of every shade of political opinion are agreed, have been fully

BAD DAY FOR N. Y. FIREMEN

Twenty Are More or Less Seriously Hurt in Five Conflagrations.

New York, Jan. 12.—Twenty firemen were injured, one perhaps fatally, and damage aggregating $150,000 was caused by a series of five fires early today. Fireman Leo Hackbarth fell four stories down an air shaft and broke a skylight in a burning Harlem tenement. Physicians say he cannot recover. He fell while assisting a woman tenant to escape. The woman was not hurt nor was any of the occupants.

Five firemen were severely burned when a liquor and drug importing house on Pine street caught fire and twelve were injured, five seriously, in a blaze which destroyed a five-story building on Duane street. The other small blazes caused slight injuries to two more firemen.

PROTEST BY JAP CONSUL

Deprecates Any Anti-Japanese Legislation By California.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 12.—Japan's first official protest against proposed anti-Japanese legislation in this state comes in the form of a letter from Consul General Matsuzo Nagai, at San Francisco, to Senator Leroy Wright, chairman of the senate committee on federal relations.

"I think the people of this state hardly realize the deep concern felt in Japan on this subject," say the consul general. "Discrimination at this time would be particularly surprising to the Japanese people in view of the efforts which have been made during the past two years to cultivate the good will of the American people and to prove to them the sincerity of Japanese goodwill."

The letter contains figures supporting the consul's contention that the Japanese population on the Pacific

TOLD NURSE TO GET KEYS

Mrs. Schenk So Instructed Her Husband's Attendant.

To Search Trouser Pockets in Case He Passed Away.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 12.—Jubilant at what they termed "scoring heavily" yesterday, the attorneys for Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk appeared in court today with renewed confidence.

Attorney J. J. P. O'Brien of Mrs. Schenk's counsel, has displayed a knowledge of medical jurisprudence and of toxicology that surprised the prosecuting attorney and his questions at times confused the witnesses. In the hope of finishing the case by Saturday night, the court sessions have been lengthened and this morning court convened at 9 o'clock instead of 9:30 as hertofore. Another half hour is added to the daily session by convening after recess at 1:30 instead of 2 o'clock.

Herbert O. Baer, a local druggist, was scheduled to be the first witness today. His testimony is wanted to prove that the bottle of mineral water from which Schenk had been drinking, as well as several botles containing medicine that was under suspicion, were brought to his store to be sealed for shipment to the chemists in the East, where it is alleged an analysis was made.

Dr. J. E. Burns, who will follow Mr. Baer is one of the physicians who made tests of Schenk's blood after he is alleged to have been poisoned by the arsenic and acetate of lead. Dr. Burns has charts showing the results of his tests and these are to be placed in evidence.

Dr. J. J. Thornton, who will follow Dr. Burns, assisted the latter in making the tests. Miss Evans, the

The passenger train was the regular southbound local. The freight train, of which E. Paul, son of the passenger engineer, was engineer, was trying to get into the siding at Marquand before the passenger arrived at 4 o'clock.

Both engines were demolished, and the mail, baggage and chair cars of the passenger were thrown from the embankment.

The injured passengers were taken to St. Louis. No other fatalities are expected.

TO SEARCH RUINS FOR MISSING MEN

Certain That Bodies of Six Are in Debris at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Search for the six missing men who are believed to be buried in the ruins of the chamber of commerce building, was begun today. While firemen will still pour in water the ruins had sufficiently cooled for the attempt to be made. It is almost certain that the bodies are in the debris. Nothing has been seen or heard of the men since the fire.

A thorough investigation has failed to locate George Hayman, a reporter of the Cincinnati Inquirer, who was reported as missing last night. Hayman was at work at the building and was seen to enter it just before the roof collapsed.

HAS MONOPOLY ON THE VESSEL TOWING BUSINESS

Independent Owners Couldn't "Get a Line" After Strike Ended.

Attorneys in "Tug Trust" Investigation Complete Their Work Here.

When the Inman and Singer tug lines were engaged in the vessel towing business in this harbor, a tug of each fleet was stationed as far down the lake as the Apostle islands, sixty miles away, to compete for the tow lines to be thrown from the incoming ships. After the Inman and Singer lines were bought up by the Union Towing & Wrecking company, competition fell off so that tugs did not go outside of the harbor to take tow lines.

That was one of the points brought out by the government this morning in taking testimony in support of its contention that the Great Lakes Towing & Wrecking company is a combination in restraint of trade and has an enforced monopoly on the vessel towing business in ports on the Great Lakes.

Thomas Grady, who was a night dispatcher for the Singer line when it was in existence, was on the stand. Mr. Grady was asked by Mr. Kelley for the defendants whether he knew of any arrangement between the Singer and Inman lines as to division of business.

"What? Between Capt. Singer and B. B. Inman?" he exclaimed. "There was too much competition for that. The Zenith and B. B. Inman were stationed as far down as the Apostle islands to go after the business."

Hearing Completed.

The hearing, or that part of it to be held in Duluth, was concluded this morning and Examiner B. C. Miller and the attorneys in the case left this afternoon for Cleveland. The hearing will be resumed in Buffalo, it is expected, in about two weeks.

Only two witnesses were examined this morning and much of the ground which was covered yesterday was gone over again. Capt. W. E. Hoy, who is in the employ of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, was connected with the Independent Tug line, and he said that the Independent line stopped vessel towing just as soon as the strike of tugmen, which tied up the Union company, ended in 1902.

Fewer Tugs Needed.

Mr. Hoy said on cross-examination that the number of steamers and towbarges requiring the assistance of tugs, has fallen off greatly in the last ten years and three times as many tugs were required to handle the vessel towing business ten years ago as are required today. He also went into the extent to which the tugs render assistance to steamers. Mr. Hoy said that it would take a small tug longer to handle a big steamer than a large tug and that steamers are anxious to make as good time as possible in loading and getting out of port.

The matter of discounts was touched upon during the examination of Mr. Hoy. Mr. Day for the government asked if it wouldn't be an advantage for a vessel line to get a discount of 10 to 20 per cent from tariff rates and Mr. Hoy admitted that it would. He said he always understood that all tug lines maintained a system of giving discounts from tariff rates for service.

Beyond bringing out the fact that competition for vessel towing business was much greater before the Union Towing & Wrecking company entered the field, Thomas Grady contributed little new to the inquiry. On cross-examination, he said that the tug Corona, which is now owned by the Lake Superior Sand company, by which he is employed, has done some day-wrecking during the past few years, but he said it is not engaged in the vessel towing business.

It was stipulated from the records of the office of the collector of customs here that the Great Lakes Towing company has seven tugs, barges and wreckers enrolled and the Union Towing & Wrecking company has twenty-four enrolled. It was also entered on the record for some reason which the government's attorney did not explain, that the Pittsburg Steamship company has enrolled at this port ninety-nine steamers and barges with a net tonnage of 335,738 tons.

Some of the testimony which the government expected to introduce in Duluth was not secured on account of the witnesses not being in the city. They will probably be subpoenaed to appear in Milwaukee, Cleveland or some other port to give the testimony.

Only the government is introducing testimony in this investigation, the efforts of the attorneys for the defendants being confined to cross-examination. After the government case is all in, testimony for the defendants will probably be taken in the same manner.

FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

Competition for vessel towing was keen between tug owners before the Great Lakes Towing company entered the field in 1899, but the Great Lakes company, or the Union Towing & Wrecking company now has a monopoly on the business.

Independent tug owners towed vessels during the tugmen's strike in 1902, but "couldn't get a line" after the strike ended.

Independent Tug line was strong until Lautenschlager of Buffalo went over to Great Lakes Towing company, when the company dissolved.

Of twenty-five or thirty tugs said to have been in vessel towing business in Duluth harbor, only six or seven are engaged in that business, they being owned by Union Towing & Wrecking company, while other tugs are engaged in hauling logs, scows, gravel, sand, etc.

The bill of sale of tug J. L. Williams, sold by Union Towing & Wrecking company to the England Towing company, contained clause which prohibited purchaser from using it for vessel towing in several ports on the lakes, among them those in which the Great Lakes Towing company operates, or is alleged to operate through subsidiary companies.

Tugs of Union Towing & Wrecking company tow ships from Duluth to Superior and Superior to Duluth, constituting, it is alleged, interstate commerce.

FOR THE DEFENDANTS.

On account of deeper and wider channels, many steamers do not require tugs and many steamers handle their own tow barges.

Tug McGonagle, owned by Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, hends many vessels into the channels at the Missabe ore docks.

Larger ships could not be handled as quickly by smaller tugs as they can by tugs of the Union Towing & Wrecking company, which are especially adapted to the business.

Union Towing & Wrecking company has only ice breaking tugs in the harbor.

No merchandise is loaded at Duluth and unloaded at Superior by ships towed between the two towns by tugs of the Union Towing & Wrecking company.

RAILROADS

LIQUOR SENT TO THE RANGE

Railroads Resume Shipments to "Dry Belt" In Spite of Cold.

Duluth railroads are at the present time shipping liquor to the northern part of the state.

Contrary to expectations several carloads left this city last evening for various points on the range. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad received shipping orders last evening and as a result some liquor left for the range yesterday.

This liquor was shipped despite the fact that the weather was so cold that the company sending it was taking chances that it would be spoiled.

The Northern Pacific also sent out some liquor yesterday. More shipments will be made today by the two roads and the Great Northern will also send some out.

On Inspection Trip.

H. Moir, mechanical superintendent of the Northern Pacific; H. M. Curry, general master mechanic, and O. C. Wakefield, supply agent, were here yesterday on an inspection trip of the road. The three officials looked over the terminals here and also made an inspection of the line between here and the Twin Cities. They left last evening.

STATE LEGISLATOR FAILS TO APPEAR

Judge Hopes to Bring Him Before Grand Jury in Bribery Case.

West Union, Ohio, Jan. 12.—There is much comment here because B. F. Kimble, a member of the state legislature, chosen at the November election, has not appeared before the grand jury in answer to a subpoena.

If he appears in West Union he will be taken before the grand jury. If he fails to come Judge Blyair hopes to find some way of bringing him, although he feels it is impossible, under the law while the legislature is in session.

The grand jury will adjourn today until Jan. 23, as Judge Blair is to go to Portsmouth to hold court. In the interim the grand jury will investigate cases in several townships.

BOTH TRIED TO MAKE PROFIT IN POSTAGE STAMP BUSINESS

Many business men have encountered trouble and annoyance in the matter of overcharges shown on the bills they receive and on those they send out, and in most cases it was possible to demonstrate that pure error was responsible for the seeming attempt to swell the total. An incident in point was described today by a man who has a great deal of correspondence and is a valued patron of a number of Duluth printeries.

"Recently I ordered a lot of 1,000 stamped envelopes for a special purpose and when the bill came in I went right up in the air. The printer had charged me approximately 28 per cent more than a fair and profitable price and, as I have the utmost faith in him, I couldn't understand how it happened. So I called him up and expostulated a bit. He seemed puzzled and said he thought the bill must be all right, but he would look it up. Pretty soon he called me up and said he had discovered the error. In figuring the price the cost of production was totaled and then a certain percentage was added for profit. Just from habit, that percentage had been added to the total cost of production, which included 1,000 stamps at two cents apiece. So he was making a profit on the stamps Uncle Sam makes. He figured the account up again and eliminated the profit, so I was satisfied.

"Following the usual channels, the bill reached my discount desk and 2 per cent for cash was deducted from the total, just as a matter of course, by the disbursing employe. When the check reached the printer he went up in the air, just as I had done, and it took considerable time to explain to my employe that it was hardly just to deduct 2 per cent from the $20 the printer had expended for stamps.

"But it's all straightened out now."

COUNTY CAME TO THEIR AID WHEN UNCLE SAM TURNED THEM OUT

The examiner and attorneys engaged in the investigation into the workings of the Great Lakes Towing company, which is charged with being a "trust" in violation of the anti-trust law, were crowded out of the federal building and found a place to meet only through the courtesy of St. Louis county officials, who gave them the use of the commissioners' room in the courthouse.

The attorneys were delighted with their quarters and grateful to the county officials.

"It's the most common-sense courthouse I ever saw," was Attorney W. R. Day's tribute. "In thanking the county officials for giving us the use of the room, I want to compliment them also on having such a fine, commodious, common-sense building."

The incident is taken as proof that the government needs more commodious quarters in Duluth, and it may hurry the consummation of the grouping plan of public buildings, which will be furthered by the erection of a new government building.

MEN!

GET CURED OF BLIGHTING WEAKNESS and POISONOUS DISEASES

There are thousands of partially and totally wrecked constitutions among men today from ignorance, neglect and indiscretions in early life. Their weakened vitality, shattered nerves and exhausted energies tell a pitiable story. Multitudes have brought upon themselves the horrors of disease and weakness through these causes, which sap the very foundation of manhood, destroying their health and strength, leaving them mental and physical wrecks, clouding the brightest minds and destroying all noble thoughts and aspirations; family circles disrupted and the poisonous fangs reaching out and blighting even succeeding generations.

WE HAVE CURED THOUSANDS of men in Duluth, for we have been in practice in this city for over twenty years. Don't make the mistake of going to inexperienced doctors or those which go from one town to another nor to those doctors which treat everything and everybody. They will experiment on you, while we have passed this stage many years ago and either cure a man or we will tell him that nothing can be done for him if his case is incurable. We have the most modern equipment for curing men's diseases, for which we spent more than $5,000. We guarantee to cure you of Stomach Trouble, Catarrh, Lung Trouble, Contagious Blood Poison, Eczema, Pimples, Lost Vitality, Rupture, Piles, Kidney and Bladder Diseases, Unnatural Discharges, Stricture, Skin Diseases and all lingering, chronic and contagious men's diseases. ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING WILL BE SCHMITZ'S PLEA

Attorney McManus Outlines His Case to the Jury.

Claims That Gun Was Discharged During Scuffle With Riley.

That the discharge of his gun was accidental will be the defense of Frank J. Schmitz, accused of the murder of George Riley, whose trial is now going on before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

While Attorney A. E. McManus outlined his defense in opening his case before the jury this morning, Mrs. Schmitz, who occupied a seat in the rear of the courtroom, wept bitterly as he told of the incidents that led up to the final shooting.

The defense will try to show that Riley was a man of bad reputation, wicked temper, a fighter, a brawler and a man who was feared by those who lived near him.

On the other hand Mr. McManus will attempt to sllow that Schmitz was, at the time of the shooting, a peaceful man who cared for his family and bore a reputation of the best.

The defense will claim that four shots which struck close to Schmitz were fired the day before Riley met his end. On the day before, the defense claims, that while Schmitz was out in the yard with one of his younger children, a bullet lodged in a tree close to Schmitz. He thought he saw the tree move. He sent the child into the house and another bullet lodged in the side of the house so close to the window that the jar rattled the glass. When this happened both Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz became very much alarmed.

Schmitz went out into the yard, it is claimed, and a third bullet passed close to his head. He was very much excited over the matter and when Tony Warsen, a neighbor, came along, he spoke excitedly to him about it.

Saw Riley With Gun.

Warsen invited him to ride down the road some distance and try to ascertain where the shots came from. Schmitz agreed to this and when they got near enough to the Riley home they saw Riley in the yard with him gun. Schmitz was then convinced that Riley was trying to shoot him, although he did not know what for.

He determined to go to town for a warrant for Riley's arrest and while Mrs. Schmitz was upstairs in the house for the purpose of obtaining for Schmitz some clothing, another shot passed close to her head and lodged in the chimney.

Schmitz then went to town and to the county attorney's office for a warrant for the arrest of Riley. It was late in the afternoon and as the municipal court was closed it was refused him, but he was invited to come back the next morning and it would be given to him.

On Guard All Night.

Schmitz, according to the defense advanced by his attorney, was back at his home shortly after 8 o'clock in the evening. He found his wife and children in terror and afraid to have a light. The children were sent to bed and Schmitz remained on guard with his gun all night. Mrs. Schmitz also remained up during the night. At daylight the next morning he started off to get the warrant for Riley's arrest.

Later in the morning Mrs. Schmitz heard the dog bark and on going to the door she found Riley. He had an ax in his hand and she asked him not to kill the dog. She also asked him why he had tried to kill her husband on the day before. At this point Mr. McManus stated that he did not recall the exact conversation that took place between Mrs. Schmitz and Riley. That will come out in the evidence.

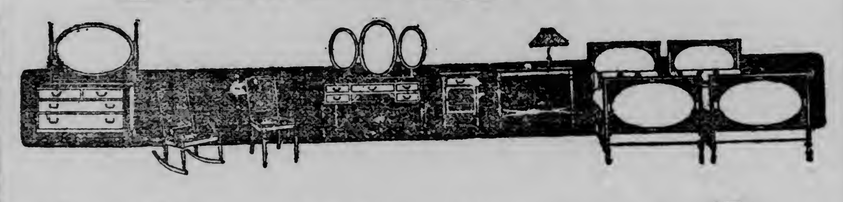

Riley followed Mrs. Schmitz into the house without invitation and sat down.

Schmitz appeared at this time. He asked Riley what he was doing there and ordered him to get out. The defense claims that Riley sneered and refused to move.

Schmitz then grabbed his gun and Riley started to go. As he was going out the door Mrs. Schmitz screamed and jumped toward her husband, catching the gun in some way and it was discharged. The bullet entered Riley's arm, it is claimed, and he turned around to say: "You shot me in the arm. I'll get you yet." Schmitz claims that he shot twice in the ground to frighten Riley. He did not know until the next day that Riley was dead. After that he came to town and gave himself up.

The case cannot be finished this week. It will probably be Monday, at least, before it is finally put into the hands of the jury.

EXHIBIT OF BOYS' WORK

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Will Show What Boys Can Do and Make.

Other Activities for Winter Months Planned at Meeting.

The cabinet of the boys' department, Y. M. C. A., held its regular monthly meeting last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Duncan, East Second street.

The following members were present: Palmer Bevis, Glen Merritt, Rex St. Clair, Earl Bradley, George Martin, Ely Salyards, Ledru Bevis, Caldwell Harris, Duncan Frick, Russell Duncan, Nat McConaughy, Forest Huyck, Richard Cullum, Harold Bradley, Irving Moore, J. R. Batchelor and N. D. McLeod.

After reviewing the work of the last four months the cabinet decided that some of the committees would have to be enlarged in order that the policy outline at the beginning of the season be carried out. The committees were authorized to add new members as fast as suitable material was discovered.

The report on the special holiday activities was that it was the most successful program ever carried out. The cabinet decided to change the night of the popular social evening to Saturday instead of Friday, and they will be planned for different groups instead of for all the boys, as in the past.

Saturday, Jan. 20, will be the first, and it will be given for the high school boys and their girls friends. A special committee of high school boys will plan the program.

The minstrel show committee will present the annual minstrel show on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 24 and 25. Practice will be commenced at once.

The athletic committee will give an exhibition of gymnastics and games the latter part of March. The date for the second annual boys' hobby exhibition has been set for April 14 and 15. The date has been set early this year so that exhibitors can have plenty of time to get their exhibits ready. The exhibit last year was a big success, and with the growing interest plans will be made for a much biger affair this year. Both floors of the Boys' building will be used for the exhibits. The object of the exhibition is to encourage boys to have hobbys that are worth while, and to give them an opportunity to compare their work with that of their friends. Prizes will be awarded the winners in each class, and judges who are experts will be secured to make the awards. The exhibition will be a city-wide affair and every boy in the city under 19 years of age is eligible to make one or as many exhibits as he desires. The prize list will include the following:

Class 2. Drawings, size 10 by 14—Still life, landscape, animals, cartoons, poster of Camp Miller, map of the United States, water color (any subject), pen and ink sketch; mechanical drawing, (a) projections, (b) intersections; architecural drawing, pulp modeling.

Class 3. Collections — Stamps in albums, curios, buttons, badges (mounted), souvenir postals in album, insects fully labeled.

Class 4. Manual training—Taborette, waste paper basket, book shelves, chair, table, book rack, footstool, picture frame, camp bed. A special prize will be awarded the finest piece of manual training work exhibited.

Class 5. Penmanship (copy will be furnished)—Show card, plain black writing, copy furnished; show card, fancy black writing.

Class 6. Miscellaneous — Model of boats, wood carving, aeroplanes, copper and brass work, mechanical model, electrical apparatus, collections of knots.

HARTER HEADS PARK POINT CLUB

Committees Are Appointed and Plans Made for Civic Meeting This Year.

The Park Point Improvement club last evening elected as officers for the coming year: J. W. Harter, president; Juhn Hultquist, vice president, and P. S. Kingsley, secretary and treasurer. The meeting was held at Mission hall, Twenty-eighth street and Lake avenue.

A committee was appointed to report to the club upon a constitution and by-laws. George Lindberg was appointed chairman of the publicity committee. A revolving committee of the whole was appointed to furnish programs for the regular meetings, which will be held once every two weeks. Rev. A. H. Wurtele was appointed chairman of the committee to provide the program for the next meeting to be held Wednesday evening.

ST. PAUL IS PLANNING A BOOSTERS' BUILDING.

W. L. Seeley, secretary of the St. Paul Commercial club, who has been in Duluth since Tuesday, left this afternoon for his home. Mr. Seeley is an enthusiastic booster of the capital city and delights in painting glowing word pictures of the beauties of that place, of its river driveways, its parks, its decorative street lighting system and the modern characteristics of its building activities, and while in Duluth he has not failed to boost.

The St. Paul Commercial club is considering the advisability of moving into new quarters and some time ago it was proposed that all the commercial organizations merge with the Commercial club and that the amalgamated association build a commodious club house and unify their work for the advancement of St. Paul. At present there are a number of organizations besides the Commercial club, such as the Manufacturers' association, the Jobbers' union and the Consolidated Publicity bureau.

It is believed that if these organizations will unite, a saving of a considerable sum of money would be realized, but naturally each is reluctant to surrender its identity. Therefore it has been proposed to organize an independent corporation for the purpose of building a structure in which all could be housed under one roof and the advancement work centralized.

This plan probably will be followed, but there is a divergence of opinion as to where the building should be located. This point is now occupying the attention of the several organizations.

Schwittay Case Goes Over.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The libel suits of Attorney Martineau against Sheriff Albert E. Schwittay will not be tried at this session of the court. The impression prevails that there is a truce in these cases.

LAKOTA BLINDPIG CASES DISPOSED OF.

Lakota, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. F. Templeton has disposed of four "blindpig" cases. The cases against Chris Johnson and Sam Thompson, who were victims of the raid at Kloten a short time ago, were dismissed on motion of the state's attorney, evidence being insufficient. Tom K. Husa, who pleaded guilty to violating the law at Thompson, was sentenced to ninety days in jail and to pay a fine of $220. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty against T. E. Pierce, charged with maintaining a public nuisance at Lakota, but sentence was not passed. The case against Antone Pollman of Lokato was also dismissed.

How to Get Rid of Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way, and It Costs Nothing to Try.

Those who suffer from catarrh know its miseries. There is no need of this suffering. You can get rid of it by a simple, safe, inexpensive, home treatment discovered by Dr Blosser, who, for over thirty-six years has been treating catarrh successfully.

His treatment is unlike any other. It is not a spray, douche, salve, cream, or inhaler, but is a more direct and thorough treatment than any of these. It cleans out the head, nose, throat and lungs so that you can again breathe freely and sleep without that stopped-up feeling that all catarrh sufferers have. It heals the diseased mucous membranes and arrests the foul discharge, so that you will not be constantly blowing your nose and spitting, and at the same time it does not poison the system and ruin the stomach, as internal medicines do.

If you want to test this treatment without cost, send your address to Dr. J. W. Blosser, 692 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., and he will send you by return mail enough of the medicine to satisfy you that it is all he claims for it as a remady for catarrh, catarrhal headaches, catarrhal deafness, asthma, bronchitis, colds and all catarrhal complications. He will also send you free an illustrated booklet. Write him immediately.

THE EVENING STORY

Love Sets the Tune

By Maria Warner.

"Oh, I feel thoroughly out of tune with everything!" sighed Nesta Wynne, music teacher.

She was trudging back on foot from one of the schools where she taught to her lodgings near Waterloo Bridge.

It was a November day, with a yellow fog. You know them. The fog stung the Welsh girl's eyelids, got down her throat, reddened her poor little nose, and made her long, oh, so hopelessly, for her pure native mountain air.

The hateful London mud caked her shabby shoes and splashed her skirt.

How tired she was of brushing skirts. How tired of turning out in the morning and listening to unmusical little girls playing Czerny's exercises all wrong. How sick of her life altogether.

"But it goes on, while I get older and older," mused Nesta, who was 23. "I shall be doing the same thing when I'm 60, if any one will have a music mistress of 60. And if not, the workhouse, I suppose. Well, the workhouse can't be more uncomfortable than Mrs. Wace's."

Mrs. Wace was her disagreeable landlady.

"If only some one would marry me, and take me away from it all," sighed Nesta. "Not any one poor, of course. I've given up being romantic as I was in the days when I sang duets at home with Dick Owen. Of course, he's forgotten all about me now. And I want some one frightfully well off. Shouldn't mind how old he was or how hideous, if he were only rich—like we used to be before poor dad went—"

"Splash!"

The wheels of another omnibus covered her with mud at the very door of her lodging.

As she let herself in "the smell of the house" floated up to meet her, a smell composed of oilcloth, gas, kippers, and soapsuds, for it was washing day.

Oh, how Nesta hated it all! And upstairs in her own sitting room she heard someone hammering on her piano.

"Tum, tum, tum!" on G sharp. Then "tum, tum, tum!" on D. And then "D, D, D!" three octaves higher.

"Oh, Mrs. Wase! Who is making that fearful noise in my room?"

"And who should it be, miss, but the piano tuner?" retorted her unpleasant landlady, with an unpleasant sniff. "I asked you if Monday would be all right, if you remember, miss, and you said 'Yes.' And the piano being so shockin' out of tune—"

"Oh, very well! Send me up some tea, please. I must have that, piano tuner or no piano tuner. I do hope the man will have done soon. I've such a headache!" sighed the poor little music teacher.

"D, D, D!" resounded through the room, thumped by a man's finger.

The man on the piano stool had his back to Nesta. She scowled at the back, though it was quite a young and straight one.

She passed into her bedroom. Here she changed her shoes, brushed out her dark, curly hair, and bathed her small, woe-begone face. Then she flung herself on her bed, and, burying her head in the pillow, tried to shut out the piano tuner's truly fiendish refrain of "D, D, D," "B, B, B," and "D, D, D," again.

"I can't stand it! I must tell him to leave off. No, perhaps I'd better wait till he's gone."

And she nearly waited. (Oh, if she had done!) Fortunately she hesitated. There was a trill on the piano; a chord, then, sweet and clear, a few bars of the old Welsh song, "Charm of Love."

"How dare he play a Welsh tune? The tune Dick Owen used to sing long ago!" cried Nesta angrily.

She threw open the door and flung into the sitting room.

"G, G, G!" went the piano tuner.

"Oh, do stop it!" Nesta almost shrieked. "Do leave off now!"

Quickly the piano tuner wheeled round. His eyes met the brown eyes of the young music teacher.

"Nesta!" he cried, amazed.

And she cried back, "Dick! Dick Owen!"

How they laughed and clasped hands. How glad they were to see each other again. And, although Nesta had given up being romantic, how she blushed.

"And what are you doing here?" he asked.

"Teaching music at about nothing an hour. And you?"

"Tuning pianos at 5 shillings."

"Good gracious!" cried Nesta. "For a living?"

"It isn't a job that one would take on for fun," laughed the young man.

So evidently he must have quarreled with his father before that rich old man died, and here he was as poor as herself. His coat was shiny, his boots had been mended several times, his boyish face was thin and peaked as if he didn't get enough food.

She made him have tea with her.

"Thanks, awfully," he replied, with a twinkle. "I couldn't have afforded tea."

"Dick! So hard up as that?"

"Stony-broke! Goodness knows what I'm going to do for new boots. If I don't make an extra five bob this week—"

"Let me lend you the five shillings," pleaded the girl. "I've got that, really. Let me lend it to you."

"Thanks, but I don't borrow. It's my rule," said Dick, firmly. "I've got to make that five bob."

Nesta had an idea.

"Dick, I've been offered seven-and-six for copying out a lot of manuscript music. It's hopelessly mixed up. I can hardly make it out. But do you care to take it on?"

"Rather!" agreed Dick, joyfully, and when he went he was loaded with a roll of crabbed manuscript.

He brought it back in a week's time. The two young people had spent a good deal of that week in thinking about each other. They smiled at each other rather shyly over seven-and-six-penny worth of laboriously copied music; and although she'd "given up being romantic," Nasta's heart beat fast to look at him.

"Half a crown for you," said Dick. "Your share."

"Thank you," said Nesta.

Then Dick bent forward, touched her little, hard-working hand, and whispered:

"How about going shares for the rest of our lives? You know what that means, Nesta?"

"Yes," she whispered. "I know."

"Poverty always, and jolly hard work, but together. Should you think it worth it?"

"Yes," whispered Nesta again. "I should."

"Brave little girl! My sweetheart!"

He drew her to him, and there in that shabby lodging house sitting room they kissed and kissed, and the room seemed full of music, of that "air with variations" of which the world is never tired of listening, the eternal music of love's old sweet song.

"And this old piano brought us together. Not that it's much of a piano. I'll buy you another tomorrow," promised Dick, "a really decent grand piano, Nesta."

She laughed at her lover's nonsense. He talked of "buying."

"Oh, of course! And a really decent grand house to put it in, I suppose?"

"Certainly," Dick answered, quite gravely, "for I shall get the money now."

"Money?"

"Yes, the money my father left me on such odd conditions. Why, I was to show that I'd earned my own living, and supported myself for two years entirely on the proceeds of my own music," laughed the young man. "You know dad never did think much of my music. 'Pon my word, I believe he was right. I found it impossible to get engagements, except just odd jobs at music halls. I hadn't patience to be a teacher, Nesta. I was almost on my uppers when I accepted this piano-tuning job. Thanks be I did, for it's brought me to you, darling! (Interlude.)

"I was just able to satisfy dad's lawyers, just able to show them I hadn't begged, borrowed, or run into debt anywhere for the last two years. That seven-and-sixpence for the manuscript saved me at the last minute, I do believe. We're rich now, Nesta. The hard times are over. I can give you the house and piano, and a lovely garden somewhere in dear old Wales, and pretty frocks, and—and everything you want. My sweetheart needn't go out and work, and get such headaches ever again. We're rich!"

"Oh, Dick! And I never guessed!"

"Of course not. I wanted you to love me, thinking I was poor. I'd been trying to trace you for months, Nesta, and I never could until last week. Oh, it was sweet to see you so sorry for me, helping me, loving me, even when you imagined you were loving a pauper. And now that I'm not a pauper," said he coaxingly, "you will still love me, Nesta?"

"Always," she promised again and again. "Oh, always, always!"

For the music of love's sweet song seems to end only with an "encore."

Hundreds of men will feel more than a passing interest at learning of the sudden death yesterday afternoon of "Tom" Madden, of heart failure.

Many of them have not yet learned of his unexpected end, as they are scattered in scores of camps throughout Northern Minnesota, miles away from the centers of civilization, away from the railroads and out of reach of the newspapers and the telephone or telegraph. These men will feel the deepest regret as one by one or in small groups in the various camps they get the news.

"Tom" was always a friend to them. Not one of them ever came to him to get some temporary assistance but what they always found him ready and willing to help them. They may have needed the loan of a dollar or two to get a job, or it may have been a night's shelter and lodging. His purse was open. He saved many of them from tramping the streets on bitter winter nights or seeking shelter in the rough confines of the police station. They felt their obligations to him and when they came back to the city he was among the first they looked up. Generally they repaid their loans, but if they didn't, never a word was said to them. Any woodsman who knew him always had a big spot in his heart for "Tom" Madden. Many may argue that it was "good business" for him to cultivate the trade of the woodsmen, but those who knew him best, say that his motive in lending was far from selfish.

Besides these, the Duluth men who knew Madden, state that he was one of the most charitable men in Duluth. They explain that in the years he has been here he has given away thousands of dollars to needy persons and families. They say that he was always silent as to anything which he did in this way, and many old-time Duluthians who may have frowned upon Tom's business, respected him personally for his honest and generosity.

Madden was better known to the city as a leader in the sporting fraternity. He was frequently called upon to referee wrestling and boxing matches, because of his well known spirit and desire to see fair play. "Tom" would travel fifty miles any time to see a good boxing bout, and he was always one of the first to protest when it showed signs of brutality. "Fight like gentlemen," was one of Tom's favorite commands when acting as third man in the ring.

Besides his wife, with whom he resided at 229 East Fourth street, he is survived by two brothers, Barney and Edward Madden, and five sisters, Mrs. J. Davis of this city; Mrs. John Kelly of Guelph, Ont.; Mrs. Patrick McCabe of East Toronto, Ont.; Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Kalkaska, Mich.; and Sister Ursula of Hamilton, Ont.

The funeral arrangements will not be made until word is received from some of his relatives. The body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan.

sent the bar. The representatives of the chief parties in interest are leaning to the sides of the controversy that they represent, and Mr. Mercer, the third member, has joined with the labor side.

The difference of opinion, it is understood, touches two subjects — whether the employe shall be compelled to contribute to the fund out of which payment is to be made for injuries incident to employment, and the amount of damages to be allowed.

The majority report will be to the effect that the employer should assume the burden of risk, and take care of injured employes just as he would take care of damaged machinery.

The minority report will be to the effect that workingmen, to get the benefit of the proposed compensation act, shall be required to contribute out of their wages to a fund for that purpose.

The division as to the amount of compensation is along the same lines. Mr. Gillette's schedule of damages will amount to about 50 per cent of the workingman's earning capacity during the period of disability, and Messrs. McEwen and Mercer's schedule will run closer to 75 per cent.

The line of division in the commission undoubtedly represents the line of division that will be created in the legislature when legislation is approached.

The reports, when they come in, will be referred to the proper committees in both houses, and later an attempt will be made to prepare a workingmen's compensation act and pass it. Generally speaking, both employers and employes favor the enactment of such a law, but pressure will be strong from both sides for favors, and the prospects are that one of the liveliest fights of the session will grow up around this subject.

Changes in School Laws.

The present law requiring that all children of school age shall attend school during the full school year has aroused considerable opposition in the country districts, and an attempt will be made to change it so as to allow farmers to keep their children at work on the farm during part of the school year. The farmers say that if the law is strictly enforced—which it isn't, apparently—it would work a hardship upon them, and they want the law amended so that they can get the advantage of the labor of their children during the early fall and late spring operations on the farm.

At a meeting of the house committee on education yesterday afternoon it was decided to have a public hearing in the house chamber next Thursday afternoon at 2:30, when this and other matters affecting rural schools will be considered. The senate committee on education will join in this session.

Another matter that will be considered at the hearing will be the proposal to create a county board of education, the chief duty of which will be to appoint county superintendents of schools. An educational qualification would be imposed, of course, and this measure is a short cut to what is contemplated by Representative Kunze's bill proposing a constitutional amendment requiring educational qualifications from candidates for county superintendent. This bill the house committee today reported favorably upon.

At present the county superintendent is elected, and there is nothing in the law to prevent an ignoramus from getting the place if he has political influence enough.

Fail to Practice Teaching.

It is rather interesting, and the members of the education committee thought it amusing, that when the roll was called for the committee meeting yesterday afternoon the only absent members were Representatives Burnquist and Nolan. They were the chief advocates of the proposal that every member should go on record at all committee meetings, and that the fact of their presence or absence, and the way they voted, should be made a part of the official records of the house.

The house tri-county committee, composed of the representatives from St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties, will meet regularly at 3:30 Thursday afternoons, according to a notice issued yesterday by Chairman C. E. Stone of St. Paul. All bills affecting the three large cities are referred to this committee.

Representative Converse's bill prohibiting drunkenness on trains, introduced yesterday, has the support of the railway conductors, and it is known as the "conductor's bill," in distinction from the bill introduced by Representative Harding, covering the same subject but including street railways as well as steam railways.

The house judiciary committee met and organized yesterday afternoon. Sub-committees were appointed as follows:

Constitutional law — McKenzie, Spooner, Fowler and Hopkins.

Remedial law—Pfaender, Knapp and Lundeen.

Substantive law—Congdon, C. W. Brown and Moriarity.

Courts and court officers—Burnquist, Davies and Lydiard.

Pleading and practice and criminal law—J. N. Johnson, Nash and Frankson.

Indeterminate Sentences.

One of the most sweeping and interesting measures yet proposed at this session is Senator G. H. Sullivan's bill providing for the indeterminate sentence of persons convicted of crime. The object, of course, is to replace the old plan of sentencing prisoners for definite terms, based on the degree of punishment to which they seem to be entitled, by the indeterminate sentence plan, under which the length of sentence is left to the board of parole, and the purpose of imprisonment is redemption, not punishment.

Except for treason or murder, there are to be no more definite sentences under this act. Convicted persons will be sent to prison, but how long they stay there will depend upon their conduct and the judgment of the board of parole; thought they cannot be held longer than the maximum term provided by law for their particular crimes.

The bill creates a state board of control, to be composed of the oldest member of the board of control in point of service, a citizen appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate, and the head of the penal institution to which the convict is sentenced. The board may parole any person sentenced to state prison or state reformatory, except that those sentenced to life imprisonment cannot be paroled until they have served thirty-five years, less the good conduct time allowed on a thirty-five-year sentence. The action of the board in such matters is to be based on the conduct of the convict in prison, and each prisoner is to be informed of his standing each month. The board is to keep in communication with paroled prisoners, and to grant them final discharge when they deserve it, or to revoke their parole when it is necessary.

Legislators Entertained.

The members of the legislature were dined, wined and entertained by the citizens of St. Paul last evening. Arrangements were elaborate and sumptuous in all three divisions, and "a good time was had." Brief talks were made by A. W. Lindeke, Mayor Keller, Governor Eberhart, Lieutenant Governor Gordon, Speaker Dunn and others.

The senate finance committee and the house appropriations committee held a joint session yesterday afternoon to hear ex-Governor John Lind of the board of regents of the state university discuss the needs of that institution. He spoke particularly in reference to the Elwell bill to appropriate more than $500,000 for the completion and maintenance of new university buildings, and it was decided to recommend it for passage.

coast is still decreasing steadily.

"Our objections to the bills introduced are based on their discrimination," says the consul. "They could not be explained to the Japanese people as being otherwise than offensive to national pride."

The letter concludes with a reference to pending negotiations for the revision of treaties between the United States and Japan.

"I feel constrained," says the consul, "to express the fear that such negotiations may be unfavorably affected by the passage of measures by the California legislature which are of a discriminating character."

The Japanese issue is believed to have been responsible for a change made yesterday in the personnel of the senate committee on federal relations.

Among the anti-Japanese bills already before the legislature is one providing against the holding of land in California by "aliens not eligible to be citizens of the United States." It is learned also that a bill for the segregation of Japanese school pupils is to be introduced. It was a measure of this character that occasioned an international controversy in 1909. Upon the earnest solicitation of President Roosevelt, the state legislature at that time dropped the proposals.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gulaicol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PROTECTION TO CONTINUE

a permanent tariff commission is looked for from Representative Longworth of Ohio and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

Speech by Lenroot.

Only when a permanent tariff commission will have been created and empowered to secure facts on production and consumption and attendant phases of the tariff will the voters of the country be able to decide clearly whether they want the Republican principle of protection or the Democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only, according to Representative Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, who spoke at the morning session of the convention today.

"The facts," he said, "are necessary for the proper framing of a tariff bill on either theory."

Representative Lenroot declared the protective idea ultimately would prevail. He said:

"If the protective tariff cannot stand an honest investigation of facts, then it ought to be wiped out at once and forever. But it has nothing to fear. If instead of the log rolling, lobbying, secret session methods of the past, there shall be substituted findings of fact by a tariff commission and the application of those facts to schedules considered separately, then the protective tariff system will not only become more firmly entrenched in this country, but the tariff bills will be honestly made for the benefit of all the people, giving to every industry fair and impartial consideration."

Representative Lenroot referring to pending bills in congress on the tariff commission, said:

"I believe there is now substantial agreement between us all as to the details of the bills except as to one point and that is as to the publicity to be given the findings of the commission."

Representative Lenroot said his view was that there should be annual reports as well as "such other reports as either branch of congress or the president may call for."

Among others scheduled to speak today are Senators Cummins, Newlands and Lodge, Representatives Longworth and Burke, Jacob G. Schurman, John Kirby, Jr., Chandler Cobb, John M. Stahl and others.

TOLD NURSE TO GET KEYS

nurse who attended Schenk throughout his illness, will also be called.

Changes in the plans of the prosecution were made just before the opening of court today and Miss Alma J. Evans was the first witness called. She had been employed as Schenk's nurse. Rain kept the crowds which have daily stood in the streets about the courthouse away today.

Miss Evans testified that Oct. 20 last Mrs. Schenk consulted two fortune tellers and told the nurse that both had told her Schenk could not live until Christmas. She said Mrs. Schenk did little to aid her husband, going out in the evening and once she was out all night. The witness declared that Mrs. Schenk opened the water bottles "so the nurse would not hurt her fingers," and Schenk complained the water had an unusual taste. It nauseated him, and when the witness drank a glass to see if it was right, she, too, became ill.

The witness continued and said that the removal of Schenk to the hospital was a scheme of the Schenks to get John out of her hands. "If John dies you search his trousers pockets and get his keys and call me," witness declared Mrs. Schenk instructed her.

Witness said Mrs. Schenk cautioned her to secure John's keys which unlocked his safety vaults.

Mrs. Schenk had called John's family "Dutch devils" on every occasion, the witness testified. "John is too old for me!" Mrs. Schenk had said, "I want to get in society and he is all for business."

EXPLOSION FOLLOWED BY FIRE IN A TEN-CENT STORE KILLS SEVERAL

Smeak, Cleveland Warrick, Alexander Kooser.

The front wall was thrown into the street and in falling carried with it a large number of electric wires. These were tangled in a mass and prevented for a time the rescue of those imprisoned in the wrecked structure.

Adam Mitchell, a piano player, complained to Manager Poff, of the strong odor of gas and he went to investigate. Before his return the explosion occurred. Miss Mitchell, who was sitting at the piano, was hurled with the instrument from the back of the building through its entire length and into a side street. Four carpenters were at work in the basement. Three of them escaped with slight burns while the fourth will probably die.

Fire broke out in all parts of the building and within a few minutes walls began to fall. Merchandise was scattered, many clerks being buried beneath it. Rescuers organized and, clearing away the wires, forced a passage into the store, carrying out many of the injured.

Ambulances had been summoned, and those of the injured who could not be cared for by physicians on the ground were hastily hurried away to hospitals.

Uniontown responded to the call for help with fire-fighting apparatus and a large force of men.

When the flames are subdued it is hoped to recover those believed to be in the ruins before night.

Later it developed that there had been two explosions, one in the Citizens' National bank, the front of which was also blown out.

INQUIRY INTO COAL TRUST

after the session with the secretary of state.

Caused a Laugh.

When the house educational committee, in reporting favorably on Kunze's bill requiring educational qualifications from county superintendents, jokingly added that there was a roll call and that the two chief pushers for committee publicity, Burnquist and Nolan, were absent, there was a laugh and the house insisted upon putting the fact in the journal, though Chairman Kunze was willing to withdraw it.

On motion of Representative Campbell the house reconsidered yesterday's passage of the bill appropriating $175,000 for the expenses of the session, because it has been discovered that last session's omnibus bill included a standing appropriation of $180,000. Last session's expense was about $280,000, and after the passage of the bill had been reconsidered, it was amended so as to appropriate $110,000, which allows $290,000 altogether for the session.

Bills Introduced.

The following bills came into the house:

Representative Lydiard of Minneapolis—Legalizing acquisitions of park property outside city limits by cities of the first class.

Representative Diessner of Waconia—Nonpartisan primary election for village and township officers.

Representative Hillman of Two Harbors—Proposed constitutional amendment providing for the initiative, referendum and recall.

Representative O'Neill of Thief River Falls—Making roundhouse employes who inspect locomotives responsible if the engines go out without legal spark arresters.

Representative Conley of Rochester—Providing for a branch school of agriculture at Rochester.

The finance committee of the senate and appropriations committee of the house reported favorably on the Ellwell bill appropriating $636,000 for completing and maintaining new buildings at the state university. This is the bill advocated yesterday by ex-Governor John Lind.

BUTTER FAT TESTING.

Subject Treated By Wisconsin's State Dairy Food Inspector.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—"The Fat Testing of Butter by the Babcock Method" is the last subject treated in the biennial report of the state dairy and food commissioner, J. Q. Emery, for 1909-10, just issued. The article is written by Dr. Richard Fischer, for a goodly number of years state chemist and now professor of chemistry in the University of Wisconsin.

"The establishment of legal minimum standard of milk fat in butter," he says, "has called special attention to the desirability of having a simple, rapid and yet sufficiently accurate method of making determinations of the fat content of this important dairy product. • • • The chemical method of other extraction of the dried butter, while accurate, cannot be carried out without special equipment, and then only by a trained manipulator. Of the four main constituents of butter, viz., salt, curd, water and fat, the latter is by far the most valuable and it would seem that the establishment of a standard for this constituent would be much more desirable than standards for any of the other ingredients provided a simple, rapid method could be found which would give sufficiently accurate results in the hands of butter makers using reasonable care."

Dr. Fischer's article describes in considerable detail the experiments conducted by the dairy and food department and the processes of taking the sample and making the butter fat content by the modified Babcock method by using what is known as the Wright butter test bottle.

FRIDAY Holds in Store Richest Bargains for Those Who Attend These Sales of Water-Damaged Goods —

TWO days of most spirited buying have passed, and hundreds of bargain converts have been added to this store's already voluminous lists. Two days of sensational value giving has packed this store from morning until night and kept our greatly augmented salesforce busy waiting upon the throngs of bargain seekers that filled the aisles.

The crowds found things arranged handily for examination. Instead of being offered as one great lot in one section of the store, the water-damaged goods were shown in their regular departments. Jostling and jamming was seldom encountered as scores of people were easily handled in the wide aisles of the various floors where goods were offered.

The Annual White Goods Sale
The Half Price Apparel Clearance
The Sale of Silk Remnants
The Sale of Dress Goods Remnants
The Sale of Wash Fabrics

These all combine in interest with the disposal of damaged goods and have made this a great storehouse of marvelous values that has won the hearty indorsement of thrifty shoppers.

Easily, this will be the greatest week of January business ever experienced by this or any other Duluth store.

Be on hand here Friday, early, because buying has been so great that even the great stocks, as you know this store carries, may be depleted. The values are right and goods are going quickly.

COUGHING BURST BLOOD VESSEL

Says Danger Avoided and Cures Coughs in 5 Hours.

A writer for the medical press states that coughing is responsible for the bursting of blood vessels quite frequently. A cough or cold means inflammation (fever) and congestion, and these in turn indicate that the body is full of poisons and waste matter. Simple relief as found in patent cough medicines, and a whisky, often result in more harm than good; as they cause more congestion. A tonic-laxative cough syrup will work marvels, and here follows a prescription which is becoming famous for its prompt relief and thorough cures. It rids the system of the cause, except it be consumption. Don't wait for consumption to grasp its victims, but begin this treatment which cures some in five hours. Mix in a bottle one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day. Give children less according to age.

CHILLS? IT'S GRIP!

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a Wonderful Remedy for Grip, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Consumption, and All Throat and Lung Troubles.

Grip is an infectious disease, which attacks weak and strong alike, especially if the blood is sluggish, and generally involving the mucous membrane of the air passages from the nostril down to and including the lungs. Serious complications are liable to develop in the course of the disease, as grip settles in the weakest part of the system, sometimes the kidneys, the brain, the stomach or the heart, resulting often in heart failure, but the most dreaded of all, pneumonia, which is particularly fatal when arising from grip.

The fatalities resulting from this disease within the past few years have sufficiently aroused doctors to the importance of giving the disease the closest investigation.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a remarkable remedy in the prevention and cure of grip, coughs, colds influenza, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, pneumonia, consumption, and all diseases of the throat and lungs; it prevents complications and bad after effects that grip so often leaves in the system. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey not only assists in killing the germs, but it stimulates the blood, aids digestion and tones the action of the heart.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Miss Vera Campbell and Her Efforts to Better Condition of the Girls Who Work.

"In any city association the work of the industrial secretary involves, at the very least, three distinct duties: Interesting the citizen in the welfare of the working girl, interesting the employer in the highest good of the girls in his establishment, and interesting the working girls in the development of greater efficiency and nobler womanhood." This paragraph taken from an article written by Miss Vera Campbell, industrial and extension secretary of the Young Women's Christian association of this city, has embodied in it her aim in her work here. She is trying to better the condition of the girls who work. That ought to be "worth while."

Miss Campbell is getting hold of the work in a most efficient manner and the girls are looking forward to her visits. Getting to know the girls where she visits and interesting them in her plans and meetings is what she is doing now and the girls are responding to her efforts in a gratifying manner. She is holding regular weekly meetings at three of the factories, going to the Northern Shoe company Monday at noon; F. A. Patrick's factory Wednesday at noon, and the match factory on Friday, at noon. In her meetings she is trying to help the girls develop along four lines, the physical, educational, religious and social.

She has opened what she calls a "recreation center" at the association rooms and she says that what she really wants to make it "re-creation," in the true sense of the word. They have reading classes, gymnastic classes and informal parties. Last evening for example she taught the girls a Swedish folk dance, "The Blecking."

She says the conditions here in the laundries are better than any she had ever seen, and that the factories are good, but not ideal.

MISS VERA CAMPBELL.

considered, and await only enactment into law at your hands. Unquestionably your responsibility is grave; but the opportunity thus presented for disinterested and patriotic public service is correspondingly rare and enviable.

"The chief characteristic of the present time is combination. Concentration of power in the hands of the few in both business and politics has gone on now for almost a quarter of a century, until it has in many ways revolutionized industry and in some respects transformed government. Monopolies and trusts have displaced the small manufacturer; thousands of independent railways have combined into a few great systems or groups; banking and financial institutions have merged to such an extent that for all large enterprises the money supply and commercial credit of the country have passed into the hands of a few. Thus by the aggregation of capital, the organization of giant corporations, and the consequent growth of monopoly, a new industrial and political order has arisen.

Change Was Beneficial.

"Novel as are many of the conditions thus introduced, this development should not be sweepingly or dogmatically condemned. Nor should all of its results, without distinction as to their nature or tendency, be approved. So far as it has quickened and systematized industry, thus increasing the production of wealth, the change has been beneficial. To the extent that it has put arbitrary power in the hands of a few who have used this power to oppress the people and debauch their government, it is dangerous, and the evils it has introduced should be promptly checked.

"These evils are now so well understood that description of them is no longer necessary. They are both political and economic in nature. Too often in recent years special business interests have entered political life, not from patriotic or disinterested motives, but for private gain at whatever cost to free institutions. By so doing, and by the employment of vicious methods, they have to an alarming extent undermined popular government and destroyed that equality of opportunity in industry and trade which once was the characteristic of our country and has ever been the inspiring ideal of its people.

"To restore what has been lost or impaired in this regard and to reconstruct this government into a fairer and more enduring temple of liberty is the problem which now confronts you. Government must be made representative of all the people, and economic forces must be so regulated as to secure a fair chance for all in every walk of life. The call is for a return to the original fundamental theory of our government. Property must be protected, industry rewarded, thrift encouraged, and enterprise stimulated; but these things must be done in such a way as to afford to the weak, the unselfish and the defenseless, as well as to the man of average ability and means a fair start and an equal chance in the race of life.

People Want Action.

"Accusation and recrimination concerning existing abuses should now come to an end. This was once a necessary phase in the development of present issues; but it is so no longer. The people now want action. They must have results. In all governmental affairs the newly awakened public conscience demands a square deal. In response to this imperative demand, you, gentlemen of the legislature, should accomplish much during the session. The great mass of men, all political parties, are in substantial accord as to the lines upon which you should proceed. Let me most earnestly urge upon you the necessity of taking up this work, and completing it without unnecessary delay."

An amendment to the primary election law is recommended. Under the present law nominations may be made by the vote of a mere plurality. In many cases this has been less than a majority of the voters of a party. Thus a divided majority within each party is at the mercy of a compact minority, although the latter may not numerically represent more than a third, a fourth or even a fifth of the party strength. This is a condition which should not be permitted to continue. It flows from a defect in the present law which may be remedied in large measure at least, if not completely by permitting the voters at the primary election to name their second choice candidate for each office. In most cases this change will result in a majority vote in favor of the successful candidate.

Corrupt Practices Act.

The prompt enactment of an effective corrupt practices act is recommended. Such a law should provide for publication by the state and at public expense of necessary information concerning the qualifications of candidates at all primary and general elections; it should place an absolute limit on the amount of money which may be spent by or on behalf of any candidate for public office, this amount to depend in each case, of course, upon the importance of the office and to bear some fair relation to the salary incident thereto; it should provide that no money whatever be spent in political campaigns except for certain purposes which should be enumerated in the law; it should require a strict system of public accounting of all money disbursed in political campaigns in order to avoid evasion, and to the end that every dollar spent may readily be traced from the original contributor to the ultimate recipient; it should prohibit all political activity whatever on either primary or general election day; and it should compel compliance with its provisions by rigorous penalties, including imprisonment and disqualification of candidates for public office.

Another recommendation is for a workmen's compensation act. The governor favors the German system, which is compulsory and requires no contribution from employes in accident cases. Under the Wisconson and Federal Constitutions, any system of workmen's compensation established here cannot be compulsory, but must be optional or elective, but he has faith the legislature can enact a statute that will do substantially what the German law has accomplished.

Much attention is devoted by Governor McGovern to conservation of natural resources. He says the time has come for the adoption of a definite general policy in Wisconsin to take the place of the special and sporadic legislation characteristic of the past. Various recommendations are made for forest protection; for a comprehensive plan for the development and operation of water power plants, with proper restrictions so as to prevent uncontrolled monopoly; and for educating farmers to the importance of conserving the fertility of the soil.

State Income Tax.

Governor McGovern recommends that the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States for an income tax be approved by the legislature, and that a state law taxing incomes be enacted, with the idea that the latter may become a substitute for the present personal property tax.

There should be a license fee for automobiles based upon weight or horse power, and the revenue should be applied to highway purposes.

Lands should be taxed as at present without regard to their mineral deposits and an occupation or privilege tax levied upon the latter when they are mined, proportionate in value to the amount of ore removed, this revenue to be devoted to the support of education.

Other recommendations are: For the extension of the ad valorem system of taxation to all telephone companies in the state; for the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall; for conferring upon cities full powers of local self-government; for state aid in building highways; for an additional annual appropriation of $7,000 for the legislative reference department; for publication of the revised statutes; for an appropriation of $15,000 to care for indigent crippled and deformed children; for an amendment to the stock and bond law, extending the powers of the commission; for a state board to settle disputes in accident cases; for a state commission to place the state's business on a sound basis of modern accounting and cost keeping, to investigate the penal, charitable and reformatory institutions and to investigate the causes of the high cost of living; for an effective weights and measures law; for the consolidation of county schools, higher salaries for teachers, better supervision of country schools, industrial education and support for the university, and for changes in criminal court procedure.

BABY'S ECZEMA BEGAN IN PIMPLES

When Two Weeks Old. Would Water and Itch. Broken Out Most on Face. Used Box of Cuticura Ointment and Nearly Cake of Cuticura Soap. Was Completely Cured.

"My little girl had eczema on her face which first started to break out on her when she was two weeks old. It began in pimples, and would water and itch. It was on the back of her neck in the edge of her hair, and in between her shoulders. But it was broken out the most on her face.

"I doctored with two different doctors, and they did not seem to help her. Then a cousin of mine recommended the Cuticura Remedies. She said they cured one of her children, so I tried them, and they gave my child relief. I used a box of Cuticura Ointment and nearly a cake of Cuticura Soap, and my little girl was completely cured. She is three years old now and has not a sign of eczema. I have been keeping the Cuticura Ointment ever since and think the Cuticura Remedies are all right. I tell other people about them and how they cured my little girl." (Signed) Mrs. Minnie Clutter, Deer Lick, Pa., Aug. 29, 1910.

Cuticura Remedies afford the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. A cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient. Sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole props., Boston, for free 32-page book on the skin and scalp.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 15. II Chron., xv, 1-15: Asa's Good Reign in Judah.

THE CONNECTION.

Jeroboam continued king of Israel for twenty-two years, growing worse and worse, and on his death was succeeded by his son, Nadab, who was dethroned and killed in two years by Baasha, who made himself king. Meantime history was being made down in Judea. Rehoboam undertook to fortify Judah against the Egyptians, but was soon defeated by them under Shishak. He had led the people on to idolatry and now he only saved Jerusalem by surrendering the sacred golden treasures of the temple and the shields of gold which Solomon had made, which he now replaced by bronze shields. There was constant warfare between him and Jeroboam. A weak son, Abijah, succeeded him and reigned only three years. Abijah did show a little spirit when he was in trouble, but in general, "he walked in all the sins of his father." He held out against Jeroboam, but humbled himself before the Egyptians. Asa, his son, was a wonderful man and king.

THE LESSON.

I.

Encouraged and Instructed.

"And the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded: and he went out to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: Jehovah is with you, while ye are with Him; and if ye seek Him, He will be found of you; but if ye forsake Him, He will forsake you. Now for a long season Israel was without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law: but when in their distress they turned unto Jehovah, the God of Israel, and sought Him, He was found of them. And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in; but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the lands. And they were broken in pieces, nation against nation, and city against city; for God did vex them with all adversity. But be ye strong, and let not your hands be slack; for your work shall be rewarded."

1. WONDER.—As son of Abijah and grandson of Rehoboam, consider the wonder, that Asa was such a great, good man. We would say, first of all, heredity was against him. Bad on his father's side, it was worse on his mother's side. She was an open, shameless idolator. His environment was bad, with the influences of such a mother and father, with idolatry practiced all around him and with all the tendencies of youth towards the vicious practices of heathen religion. Yet, heredity was not all bad, for Solomon and David and Jesse and Obed were his ancestors. His environment was not all bad, for the priests and levites had all flocked to Judah and their influence and work rebuked sin and encouraged the worship of God; three noble and courageous prophets helped him, Shemaiah, Azariah and Hanani. Following some occult law of heredity he went away back for his personal traits and responding to the nobler elements in his environment he laid hold of all the moral power at hand. Following his own deep convictions of need, he sought God, for purity, wisdom and strength.

2. REFORMS.—The country was full of foreign gods and the first thing he did was to take away all the physical instruments and symbols used—altars, high places, images and groves. In one thing, his reforms were scarcely thorough enough, while he forbade the worship of false gods on their high places, he did not forbid the worship of the true God on those same high places. But his reforms were also constructive, with a tender and imperious call to return to the worship of God and to give Him exact obedience. He led an army against the Egyptians and defeated them and it was on his return from that victory that the prophet met him and spoke the words we have in this lesson. He fortified frontier cities, and organized and drilled a good army. They needed it.

3. PROVIDENCE.—The prophet rehearsed the doings of God, both in punishing as well as protecting, in pardoning as well as guarding them. Their whole history was an illustration of the truth that to rebel against God or forsake Him was to be broken and punished by Him. He not only did not condone the offenses, but He took charge of their adversaries and used them as a scourge to chasten them with.

Their penitence was always answered by His prompt mercies; in fact, the purpose of His punishments was always to bring them to the point at which He could show His mercies to them.

4. ENCOURAGEMENT.—For his further work he was given the incentives of a direct command of God to keep at it, and the promise of a reward. That, in addition to the approval of what he had already done. So there we have all the motives, approval, command, promise; promise of power, sympathy, wisdom, success, more approval.

II.

Further Progress. 8-15.

"And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from the hill country of Ephraim; and he renewed the altar of Jehovah, that was before the porch of Jehovah. And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and them that sojourned with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that Jehovah his God was with him. So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. And they sacrificed unto Jehovah in that day, of the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep. And they entered into the covenant to seek Jehovah, the God of their fathers, with all their heart and all their soul; and that whosoever would not seek Jehovah, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman. And they sware unto Jehovah with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets. And all Judah rejoiced at the oath: for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought Him with their whole desire; and He was found of them: and Jehovah gave them rest round about."

1. COMPLETENESS.—Asa had done well, but had not exterminated idolatry, nor perfected the arrangements for the worship of Jehovah. Now he gives his whole attention to those matters. One stroke of wisdom was the convocation.

2. CONVENTION.—It was a great convention they held. People came from the northern kingdom for several reasons. Some had missed the worship of Jehovah and were glad to return. So they broke away from Israel. Some had heard of the prowess of Asa and wanted to be on the winning side. All felt the force of the new personality on the throne of Judah. Many were glad to renew the old worship that had meant so much to them in the past.

The assembly had all the religious elements in it, sacrifices and confession of sins, vows of renewal, shouts of approval and trumpets, signifying that it was all in the name of Jehovah. A new era began that day, and a spirit of worship and content spread all over the land.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The long reign of Asa marks the noble era in the middle of this century of the history of Judah, when the kingdom regained its consciousness of its higher destiny, and formed the conviction that it was the seat of a loftier power for the active promotion of the true religion and was intended for a prolonged existence.—Ewalt.

To be a Jonathan in Saul's court, to be an Obadiah in Ahab's court, to be an Ebed-Melech in Zedekiah's court, and to be an Abijah in Jeroboam's court, is a wonder—a miracle. To be a Lot in Sodom, to be an Abraham in Chaldea, to be a Daniel in Babylon, to be a Nehemiah in Damascus, and to be a Job in the land of Uz, is to be a saint among devils; and such a one the young man in the text was.—Watkinson.

It is only as the child can stand upon the parent's shoulders that the world advances normally—each generation having a higher reach than that which went before. Asa was compelled to remove obstructions which the parents had put in his way. He took away "the idols that his fathers had made," and removed his mother from being queen because she had an idol in the grove. A young man who was about to be condemned to death upon the gallows, called his mother to come to the courtyard and look at him. "See your son," said he, "that is what your bringing up has brought me to." Few sons can rise above the level of parental instruction and example.—Pollard.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Which is of more importance to one's religious life, heredity or environment?

2.—Is the case of any one entirely hopeless, even with the worst heredity and environment?

3.—Why is the least root of evil dangerous when left unkilled?

4.—To what extent are military armaments wrong?

5.—What is the relation between national righteousness and prosperity?

6.—Are there any moral qualifications for a ruler even under our form of government?

7.—To what extent is the ruler dependent on the moral support of his people?

OPPOSED TO ANY PRICE REDUCTION

Steel Men Believe the Rates Are Low Enough at Present.

New York, Jan. 12.—Steel men from all over the country gathered in New York are opposed to any reduction of prices at the present time. This announcement was made by E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation last night, after a dinner given by him, which followed a business conference held during the day. The dinner was a long one and did not break up until midnight.

"There was a large number at the dinner and I suppose thirty or forty spoke," said Judge Gary after the banquet. "Every one expressed the opinion that prices were low enough and should not be reduced."

Judge Gary gave out the following statement, which he had prepared:

"The dinner of the evening, given to the leading steel manufacturers of the country, was largely a social event Many topics were referred to by the various speakers.

"However, the subject of prices was more or less referred to, and, without exception opinions were opposed to any reduction. Figures were given showing that the present prices of all steel commodities are not only reasonable but very low. I do not think any reductions are contemplated. As to business prospects the concensus of opinion was very favorable."

TO RECOVER LAND FOR THE INDIANS

Thousands of Acres Said to Have Been Taken From Chippewas.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Six hundred suits have been prepared by the department of justice and about 700 others are under way, in an effort to recover thousands of acres of valuable lands and timber said to have been fraudulently taken from the White Earth tribe of Chippewa Indians in Northern Minnesota.

Combined forces of the department of justice and the interior department have been working on the cases more than a year.

The reservation, covering two counties, was deeded to the Indians by the government, with the stipulation that no part of it could ever be deeded to any but full-blooded Chippewa Indians. Later, however, an act passed congress permitting sales and transfers.

Attorneys of the department of justice, who have had the investigation under way, declare that when the latter act passed congress, white men who had gathered at the reservation waiting for it to become a law celebrated the news with bonfires and a carnival. The invesigators say insignificant sums of money, whisky, trinkets and even promises which were never kept, were the prices by which the valuable lands were secured. Conveyances were induced from minors, it is charged.

Many thousands of acres of white and Norway pine have been cut over and the lumber sold. The suits which will be filed in the United States circuit court for the district of Minnesota, will seek to restore the land to the Indians and recover for the timber of which they have been devastated.

Healthy Mothers

The bearing of children is frequently followed by poor health for the mother. This supreme crisis of life finding her physical system unprepared for the demands of nature, leaves her with weakened resistive powers and sometimes chronic ailments. This can be avoided if Mother's Friend is used before the coming of baby, and the healthy woman can remain a healthy mother. It is the only remedy that perfectly and thoroughly prepares the system for healthy motherhood, and brings about a natural and easy consummation of the term. Women who use Mother's Friend are always saved much suffering when the little one arrives, and recover more quickly, and with no ill effects, or chronic troubles. Every expectant mother should safeguard her health by using Mother's Friend, thus preparing her physical condition for the hour of motherhood. This medicine is for sale at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

GAYNOR FAVORS EDWARD SHEPARD

Tammany Hall and Murphy Opposed to Him for Senator.

New York, Jan. 12.—Two facts in the United States senatorship fight in New York cropped out yesterday. Tammany hall and Charles F. Murphy are opposed to Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn as a successor to Chauncey M. Depew, and Mayor Gaynor urges his selection.

Mr. Murphy spoke for Tammany and himself just before departing for Albany. The mayor recorded his indorsement of Mr. Shepard in a letter made public last night addressed to State Senator Frank M. Loomis. It says:

"I am heartily in favor of the election of Edward M. Shepard as senator. His selection would bring credit to the state. During a generation the state of New York has been represented in the United States senate by men who were mere lobbyists from their youth up, or corruptionists in politics. We now have the opportunity to set our face against that. Will we do it? There never was a plainer case and if it be evaded the effect will long survive."

The letter was given out at the mayor's office without comment and in Brooklyn Mr. Shepard declined to comment either on the mayor's indorsement or Mr. Murphy's opposition.

"What will be the attitude of Tammany hall on the senatorial question?" the Tammany leader was asked, as he was about to board a train for Albany. By his side stood John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, who yesterday declared for Shepard.

"The organization" replied Mr. Murphy with slow emphasis, "is against Shepard and I have to be."

"How about McCooey's declaration for Shepard?"

"Oh," said the Tammany leader, turning away with a smile, "that is a Brooklyn affair."

With McCooey's and Murphy's statements and Gaynor's letter the attitudes of three important influences in the senatorship fight are now in the open. It remains for the legislature to decide whose preferences shall be followed.

PROF. GRAY WILL LECTURE

"Industrial Education" Will Be Theme of First Address in Series.

Dr. John F. Gray, professor of economics at the University of Minnesota, will deliver the first of the season's lectures on agricultural subjects at the Y. M. C. A., Friday evening.

The hour set for the lecture is 8 o'clock. Dr. Gray's subject is "Industrial Education." He will devote special attention to agricultural studies and his address is certain to be extremely interesting. He is very well known here and his standing as an educator is exceptionally high throughout the country.

More interest is being taken in this course of lectures this year than has been exhibited at any time in the past. This is the third year the series has been given. Much good has been accomplished in the direction of spreading the gospel of good agriculture for Northeastern Minnesota.

LESS RURAL POPULATION.

New Hampshire Shows a Falling Off in the Last Decade.

Washington, Jan. 12.—New Hampshire was one of the few states whose rural population during the last ten years decreased. Statistics of the thirteenth census issued today indicate that the rural districts lost over 5,200. The increase in population 18,948, was contributed entirely by cities having a population in excess of 5,000.

Maine's cities having a population of more than 5,000 furnished almost half of that state's total increase in population of 47,905 in the last decade. They also increased in number from 17 to 18.

Killed By Explosion.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 12.—A special dispatch from Prince Rupert, B. C., says that John Bowman of Kenora, Ont., gang foreman, and four foreigners were killed by an explosion on the Grad Trunk Pacific grade at the harbor front. All were blown into the water.

BANK DIRECTORS ARE DEFENDANTS

Receiver of Mineral Point, Wis., Institution Brings Sensational Suit.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 12.—Christopher L. Williams, receiver of the First National bank of Mineral Point, has commenced an action in the United States circuit court against the directors of the bank, for $700,000 for "injuries and damages sustained by the bank" through their alleged neglect, misconduct and malfeasance.

The complaint charges the directors, Phil Allen, Jr., Charles W. McIlhon, James Brewer, John L. Gray, William P. Gundry, Frederick Vivian and Richard J. Penhallegon, Jr., and the two last named also as next of kin to former directors, of negligence and "knowingly allowing various officers and directors" to make false entries upon the books of the bank and false returns to the comptroller of the currency; of continuing this after being notied by the comptroller at various times from 1899 on of their negligence and misconduct; of continuing to "suppress, shuffle, evade and transpose accounts" to prevent the bank examiners from ascertaining the true condition of the bank's affairs; of falsifying the minutes of directors' meetings; of knowingly allowing loans largely in excess of the legal 10 per cent of the capital and surplus of said bank, mostly to officers and directors of the bank or firms or corporations in which they were largely interested, the total of such excess in 1909 being charged as $119,000.

"Pretended Corporations."

It also charges loans to various "pretended corporations" which the directors "knew were never incorporated" and the allowing of paper to be carried overdue, the amount alleged in 1903 to have been in excess of $125,000 and in 1909 in excess of $200,000, and an amount of overdrafts at all times in the past ten years in excess of $10,000 and at various times in excess of $20,000.

It is further charged that Allen was of a well-known "speculative temperament" and "a person of immoral character and loose in habits and conduct" and that this was well known to the defendants.

Further, that the defendants were associated with Allen in many of these "venturesome enterprises" and that in the last ten years he had appropriated to his own use $460,000 of the funds of the bank, that he had appropriated assets of the bank and had placed among its papers forged notes and took large amounts of securities left with the bank for safekeeping and had placed them in the assets of the bank to cover up his dealings.

It is also charged that the bank had paid dividends illegally for many years and that the directors knew they were not earned.

Allen is now serving a sentence of ten years in Leavenworth prison for embezzlement.

STATE AID FOR SCHOOLS.

Of intense interest to Northern Minnesota is the proposal of Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin by which he hopes to get state aid for the maintenance of schools in sections where there are large areas of state land. Under the plan which Mr. Warner has worked out with Attorney General Simpson it looks as if it might be possible to avoid the snag of taxation of state lands, over which the movement for helping with road building tripped.

It is proposed that the state pay into the school fund an amount in the ratio of 5 cents per acre for each acre of unsold public lands, the proceeds of this fund to be distributed among the school districts that are the sufferers from the inability to tax state-held property. Some details of the plan, such as ratio of apportionment and possible limitation of the number of acres to be considered in getting at the ratio for the establishment of the fund, are yet to be worked out, but the principle of appropriation as a substitute for that of direct taxation is said to satisfy the demands of the state laws and Constitution.

Some such plan is greatly needed. In the action taken at the Northern Minnesota Development association meeting at Brainerd and again in the message of Governor Eberhart to the legislature, the duty of the state toward those settlers who are working the land whose development will add directly to the value of the state's holdings was clearly pointed out. If the state does not help these men to secure proper educational advantages for their children, it will have no reason to blame the settlers if they refuse to bury themselves in the wilderness when their duty to their families demands that their children be given advantages equal to those enjoyed by other citizens. If the plan for appropriation based on unsold public land will solve the problem rasied by the provisions of the state Constitution, that plan should be given the support of every member of the legislature.

MAKING ROOM IN THE JAIL.

A contributor to the Open Court today makes a suggestion regarding the problems surrounding the county jail that at least is entitled to consideration by the county board. He would have the commissioners take the rooms now occupied by the sheriff and his family and make them over into cell rooms, thereby increasing the capacity of the institution.

According to reports made to the county, the average number of occupants of the county jail always is more than 100, and at some times in the year the place is seriously crowded. Just at present, according to the grand jury, there are so many prisoners that some of them are kept in the basement, a condition that is not provided for by the sanitary features of the building. It was on account of this condition that the grand jury recommended the erection of a new building by the county.

In his communication, Mr. "O. N. Looker" asks if it is provided by law that the sheriff shall be given quarters in the county jail for himself and his family. It is not. The practice of allowing the sheriff to live there is common throughout the state, but the law provides only that the county commissioners "may" provide him with quarters there or elsewhere. There is nothing mandatory about it. The proposition of the correspondent would, in the case of St. Loius county, add perhaps 40 per cent to the number of prisoners that could be accommodated.

It is expressly stated in the grand jury report that no blame is attached to the county officers, the sheriff or anybody else, for the conditions that were reported to exist in the jail. Perhaps, then, it would appear to the commissioners too much like making the present incumbent of the office of sheriff suffer for something for which he was not to blame, if he were asked to vacate the quarters which he and his predecessors have occupied. In that case the county, under the law, could provide him with other quarters, if the commissioners saw fit to take such a step.

The custom of allowing the sheriff to have family quarters in the jail is one of the relics of the days of small communities, when the sheriff and his family lived in the same building in which the prisoners were kept, the sheriff's wife did the cooking and washing for the few who were incarcerated there, and the sheriff "slept across the threshold." Today the sheriff has jailers and assistants, and in counties of specified population in Minnesota the sheriff's office has been placed on a salary instead of the old arrangement of fees and allowances. The salary in St. Louis county amounts to $4,000 a year, and an effort will be made during the present session of the legislature to have that increased to $5,000.

In view of the fact that Sheriff Meining made his campaign for office during the custom of providing quarters for the sheriff in the county building there might readily appear to be an injustice in compelling him to provide his own home during his term of office. If the commissioners regard it in that light, it would be no more than just for the county to secure some place for him and his family to occupy in case of a decision to use the space they now have for an addition to the working capacity of the jail. In view of the conditions reported to exist there, it would be well at any rate to consider seriously the proposition of increasing the capabilities of the old building as far as possible rather than to rush to immediate erection of a new one.

GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL.

Some opponents of the postal savings bank system have begun thus early to find fault with it. They point to the small deposits reported from the various cities in which the system has been established, and argue that this lack of patronage is proof of the inadvisability of installing the banks generally in this country. Nothing could be more absurd than that contention. It must be remembered that although the postoffice department is treating the idea as if it were wholly an experiment, the postal bank has been in operation for some years in other countries, and that it has proved wonderfully popular.

Nor can it be claimed that it is being given the best advantages in its tryout in the United States. Being established entirely in the smaller cities, where there is less demand on the part of the people for such an institution, its patronage necessarily is less than it would be if its services were available in larger centers of population. There is less hoarding of savings, and there are fewer people to do the hoarding, in the smaller places, and it is with a view to bringing out these hidden funds by insuring their owners of a safe and profitable place to put them that the postal bank has been established in this country.

For every deposit made in the places where the postoffices have been authorized to accept savings accounts, hundreds or perhaps thousands would be received in the larger cities. If the government really intends to let the success of the trial deposit offices determine whether the system shall be maintained in this country, it is to be hoped that there will be a material extension of the test territory before any thought is taken of abandoning the enterprise.

MIRABILE DICTU!

Five years ago anybody who had the boldness to predict that the United States senate ever would get a report from one of its own committees in favor of the election of senators by popular vote would have won a national reputation as one of two things—a humorist or a fool. During the present session of the Sixty-first congress the senate is actually to have such a report from its committee on judiciary, according to dispatches from Washington.

Of course there will be some—there were some in the committee—who want a string put on the right thus tardily to be given to the voters. Up to date the string takes the form of a demand that supervision of the elections be left in the hands of the senate. A fine proposition, that! Of course the supervising would have to be done by committees, and the country has seen enough in the last few weeks of what senate committees can do in the matter of the election of United States senators. But a majority of the senate judiciary committee is in favor of leaving it to the states themselves to prescribe the time and methods of election, and that will be the provision in the report to the senate.

To be sure the plan probably will get no further than a committee report at this session and in this congress. The lesson of the election of last November, which, by the way, is the lever that has pried open the eyes of the senators as far as they are opened, is not yet real enough to many members of that body to make them favor the popular election measure. They will fight it, and they will win—for the time being. But when the next congress meets and the men who are holding back actually see a Democratic house at the capitol and meet new men in their own chamber, in place of those with whom they have been accustomed to stand shoulder to shoulder against the demands of those who knew what the nation as a whole wanted, they will realize that the old regime has passed and that the ancient bluff of defiance will not go down any longr. Then this popular election question will bob up again, and will go on to victory.

In the meantime it is interesting and instructive to see what a thorough scare has been thrown into the members of the senate. It rather braces one's faith in the power of the ballot. It puts a valuable example at the disposal of those who are constantly seeking to convince the people of the country that if they will only pay attention to public affairs and take an interest in the bodies which govern them they need not worry about representative government.

That Wisconsin committee's minority evidently regards this as the open season for senators.

But just think what a showing Andy Carnegie's ten million would have made in an Adams county, Ohio, election.

The Louisville Courier-Journal spells it "bouse." Does it leave any bigger headache that way than when you spell it with the double-o and z?

Speaking of infant industries that must be protected, what about those youngsters that are bucking the trusts now and need the help of a reduction of the tariff to give them an opening?

Lorimer says that neither he nor his friends bribed anybody to vote for him as senator. What can the man have done to make his enemies seek to put him in such an awful place as the senate?

It would be an awful joke on St. Paul if the legislators got dyspepsia as a result of that banquet and sought revenge on the Twin instead of doing nice things to make up for the lavish hospitality.

When Hubert Latham fell into the English channel with his aeroplane he was found sitting at ease in the floating machine, smoking a cigarette. When the spectators rushed to his side after the accident at San Francisco they found him standing by the wreck, smoking a cigarette. TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Children In New York.

St. Cloud Times: Because there are thousands of children in the schools of New York, city who have never seen a cow, a cow is to be added to the menagerie in Central park as an educational exhibit for the children of the big metropolis. That will sound like a fairy story to the boys and girls who read the Times.

And it is a fact of which Minnesota is proud that very few children in this state have to contend with such conditions as make for infantile misery in the metropolis.

Escaping the Penalty.

Mankato Free Press: The man Gibbon, who killed his wife and a priest at South St. Paul, was found insane. He has been incarcerated in the hospital at St. Peter. How long will he remain there before his friends will obtain his release?

It is deplorably true that this means of escaping just punishment is frequently used.

Frank Eddy's Style.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The Journal-Press will publish a weekly legislative letter from the penchant pen of Frank M. Eddy. It will be good reading.

Especially the penchant part.

Age of Railroads.

Red Wing Republican: The oldest English railroad train according to the London Sketch is the one running from Brighton to London, which is sixty-nine years old.

America can't boast of any roads much older than that, but it has some very decrepit ones of which it does not boast.

Considering His Source.

Eveleth Star: A former Waukegan man has written a play for Sarah Bernhardt in which he portrays Judas Iscariot as a poet. Some poet must once have done the Waukegan man a great wrong.

But then, a man from Waukegan is likely to do anything.

Politics At St. Paul.

St. Peter Herald: Surface indications go to show that the state is slipping into the control of a set of politicians beside which those of the Clough regime appear as artless amateurs.

Some of the things that have not happened at St. Paul since the first of the year lead to one's questioning the accuracy of this observation.

Abating the Dog Nuisance.

Aitkin Age: Dogs making a nuisance of themselves on the public streets will be shot down indiscriminately by the police. That's the order in Hibbing, and it will work all right until some "prom cit" loses a dog and then the policeman will lose a job and the order will be revoked.

It is to be hoped the Hibbing police will not take this as a hint to exterminate "prom cits."

Certainly Not What They Seem.

Winona Independent: The individual who can be fooled into buying dyed carp for salmon is a credulous person, to say the least.

But such is the spirit of this commercial age that many persons have been unknowingly "brought up" on dyed carp.

Eggs and Their Decline.

St. Cloud Times: There is talk of having congress pass a law compelling an inspection of all eggs that are packed for storage. There is already such a provision as to poultry but not as to eggs. It is claimed that many of the eggs are in poor condition before they get into storage.

The necessity for such inspection is obvious and should serve to create much interest in and attendance at the poultry school to be held here next month.

What He Thought He Saw.

Boston Globe: When Dr. Cook declares, as he does in his latest batch of confessions, that he is not the colossal liar of the age, is he telling the truth?"

It seems that the twist of a dog's tail often fascinated him for hours on his journey into the frozen silence of the white North.

Peaks of snow were transformed into volcanoes, belching smoke; out of the pearly mist rose marvelous cities with fairy castles; huge creatures, misshapen and grotesque, writhed along the horizon.

The sun at midnight resembled a vase of blue fire, from which rose luminous flowers.

Sometimes distorted faces laughed or scowled at him.

The Globe Man, in the abundance of his good nature and in the largeness of his desire to see everybody squared with the world, is now inclined to believe that perhaps the doctor may have really thought that he reached the pole.

Man's Sensitiveness.

Atchison Globe: An Atchison man is wearing a wig. No one dares mention it to him. When he meets any one he looks angry, as though ready to say: "You have noticed my wig. Mention it if you dare!" Women don't feel that way about it. When they put on false hair they talk about it to every one and discuss the different styles of wearing false hair. But a man with false hair on his head is mad about it all the time and ready to fight any one who dares mention it.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

LET THE SHERIFF MAKE MORE ROOM IN THE JAIL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I see by what the grand jury says about the county jail, that there is too little room there to make the prisoners comfortable. That is too bad, I'm sure, for if there is anything we ought to look out for it is the comfort of the people who break the law and have to be locked up for it. If we could make them real comfortable in jail, maybe they would be willing to stay there all the time, and then we could dispense with the expense of jailers and other officials, and maybe we could even make it so nice there that the guilty ones would walk right in and sign the register and make their homes in the jail, instead of having to be arrested and tried at the county's expense.

But seriously, if the jail is cramped for room, why not have the sheriff move out and make room? The county could fix over his apartments, and so gain quite a bit of space. Of course that wouldn't help entirely, as I understand some of the sanitary features about the jail are pretty bad. But those could be doctored up and it would make it better for all concerned. Maybe the sheriff has a right under the law to live in the jail. If he has, of course, that is different. I don't know what provision there is for that. But if it would be possible to make even a little more room that way, wouldn't it be better to do that than to go to the expense of building a new jail now? O. N. LOOKER.

Duluth, Jan. 12.

ANOTHER GOOD WORD FOR ALGOT JOHNSON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have just read P. F. Manley's comments on Algot Johnson, connected with the McKay hotel holdup, and I can indorse what he says to the fullest extent. Algot worked for me two years ago in my store and a more active, willing and energetic boy I have not had. He has also been around my house more or less doing odd jobs and was always willing, polite and in every respect a boy one must like when they knew him intimately as I did. In fact, I was so thoroughly confident of his being the making of a good man that I had all plans made to have him go to Texas with me, but his mother had not got him ready when I went. Consequently he remained at home. I am satisfied that it is bad associates that has brought Algot where he is and not any natural evil tendencies. Personally I feel that he should be punished severely for his part in this sad affair, but do think that he should be given a chance after he has become a man to be one in every sense of the word, which I believe will be the case.

W. A. HALL.

Virginia, Jan. 11.

That Little Postal Bank.

Boston Traveler: If you live in Norwood, next Tuesday you may take the change out of the sugar bowl and the dollar bills from the bureau drawer, and put them in the postal savings bank.

The postmaster will take as little as a dollar and as much as $500. Your deposits will pay 2 per cent interest. When you have $20 or more deposited, you may invest every twenty in a government bond paying 2½ per cent.

And then you will be absolutely certain that your money is safe. As long as the government lasts, and its credit holds good, you will be able to get your savings back when you want them, or to sell your bonds back to the government. You and your wife and your children can each put $500 where you won't have to worry about it, and where it will draw interest—small, to be sure, but as certain as death and taxes.

But maybe you don't live in Norwood. There are 3,000,000 of people in Massachusetts who live outside of Norwood. And these people, too, would like to put a little money into a government savings bank when they go to the postoffice to buy stamps and gossip with the neighbors.

Even in Boston there are probably 100,000 men and women who would prefer such a depository to the bureau drawer or old sock. And there are many thousands, chiefly recent immigrants, who would put their savings into such a government institution instead of hiding them where they won't draw interest or sending them to the postal savings bank in the old country.

Really, it's remarkable the amount of money people are hiding or carrying around with them, without its doing anybody any good except to make change with. The postmaster-general says there is about $3,000,000,000 in the country, and two-thirds of it is in people's pockets and in sugar bowls, bureau drawers and socks—not to mention stockings. That's about $2,000,000,000 that isn't working.

The government is merely "experimenting," of course, with the postal savings banks. Not that there's any particular reason for experimenting. Other nations have the system established as universally as postoffices, and it pays. It pays the people, and it pays the government. And as for the private banks.

The postal savings plan encourages thrift, and sets the idle dollars to work. But congress, you see, made such a very small appropriation for the purpose that the postoffice department couldn't start more than just one little bank in a second or third or fourth class postoffice in each state.

Pretty soon the people will make such a loud demand for these banks that congress will be forced to grant an adequate appropriation.

A Bill That Should Be Passed.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Wide approval is being given the bill now before the house to provide retiring pensions for government life savers, which the secretary of the treasury so strongly indorsed in his recent report. The measure is so manifestly a deserved tribute to a class of public servants who have received few favors in the past that its popularity is easily explained.

The bill is now in the keeping of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, the senate having passed it at the last session. It provides for the retirement of life savers who have served thirty years, for those who have reached the age of 64 or who have been incapacitated. The retirement pay is to be 75 per cent of the wages received at the time of leaving the service. An increase of pay is also proposed in the bill.

This is one of the measures that should be passed by the house at the present session. Its justice is well established.

Up to the People.

Cleveland Leader: According to the law establishing a postal savings bank in this country the experiment was to have been inaugurated upon the first day of the year. In most states the innovation is accordingly delayed until the 3rd, tomorrow. There are to be forty-six of the new banks, scattered one to a state. Ohio's will be at Ashtabula.

It is an interesting trial and was frankly established as such. If the people want these postoffice banks, and will patronize them, congress will be certain to extend the system. It depends upon the public. There was much opposition to the establishment of the banks, but it will not count with congress against a great popular demand for them.

The experiment will be worth watching. The postal bank works well in other countries; it is designed to meet a real need. Nothing but a trial will tell whether they will accomplish what is desired of them here.

IN LARGER CITIES.

Portland Telegram: Buffalo and Baltimore are both moving for commission government. Each of these cities is inspired to this movement by the success of the form of commission government which has been in force about a year in the city of Boston. In each of these cities, also, the intelligent, up-to-date, civic spirit is well developed, and that spirit recognizes everywhere that the commission form of government is the modern and efficient form; and that the old machine, ward-caucus style is cumbersome, expensive and out of date.

It has been a favorite and much-repeated argument on the part of those who really oppose, or who think they oppose commission government, that the system might work out all right in small cities, but could not be applied successfully to the more complex conduct of affairs in the larger cities. Boston, in her own experience, has manifestly disproved this. And even if the Boston experiment had not proved so much, we have a most notable example of a well-governed city, whose affairs have been administered by a commission since it became a city, that most of us overlook—the national capital.

There is no use to contend for the failure of certain well-established principles by reason of the complexity of the machinery. Gravity and the other fundamental mechanical forces operate by the laws of mechanics with just the same precision and certainty as the linotype as they do in the grindstone. It is all a matter of correct adjustment.

Directness of action that comes from the exercise of well-defined authority, and the sense of personal responsibility, will tell in the administration of a city as they do in the conduct of a business enterprise, and they will count for as much in the large as in the small city. There is every evidence that the American city is really finding itself, and in the summary of it all this spread of the commission-government idea is the chief fact of all.

Live a Little.

Give a little, live a little, try a little mirth;
Sing a little, bring a little happiness to earth;
Smile a little, while at little idleness away;
Care a little, share a little of your holiday.

Play a little, pray a little, be a little glad;
Rest a little, jest a little if a heart is sad;
Spend a little, send a little to another's door—
Give a little, live a little, love a little more!

PLATFORM NOT A JOKE

Charles Purdon Serious in His "Five Rooms and a Bath."

So general among his many friends has been the interest evinced in Charles Purdon's announcement of his candidacy for congress in Arizona that he has been the recipient of scores of inquiries and messages of encouragement and good will at the St. Louis.

Mr. Purdon is very well known here, as he was for years a resident of St. Louis county and has a host of friends here. Some of them were at first inclined to think the Arizona man was joking about running for congress, but a few minutes' talk with him speedily dispelled that idea.

"Five rooms, a bath and a piano for every man who works eight hours a day," is the slogan with which he will enter the fight. He will have opposition, but says he has not the slightest doubt that he will be elected.

"The man who works eight hours a day is entitled to some of the comforts which his labor earns," he says. "I don't believe that the tendency toward creating a monopoly of the common comforts is a wholesale one, and I do believe it is the business of the people's representatives in congress to see that such laws are enacted as will remedy the conditions which create such a tendency.

"Five rooms, a bath and a piano represent an ideal. It is an ideal worth striving to realize and it can be done. Standing for that ideal as a candidate for congress, it seems to me that anyone who opposes me will need to offer the eight hour day man a hotel. It is my opinion that the five rooms will appeal more strongly to the voters than would a hotel, but I am perfectly willing that the hotel should come next."

Poverty a Curse.

Speaking of political conditions in general, Mr. Purdon said:

"Poverty is a curse. Blackstone's definition of government is the accepted one, and therefore the existence of poverty convicts government of criminality. Individuals who commit crimes are put in jail, and it follows that government is deserving of imprisonment. However, it is impossible to put such an entity as government in jail, and the only solution of the problem is to reform the government, with the ultimate purpose of eliminating poverty. It can be done and should be done and it is because of my desire to contribute to the attainment of that result that I want to go to congress. Five rooms, a bath and a piano for every man who works eight hours a day, represent that ideal condition.

"And every man who works eight hours a day is entitled to at least that. Eight hours is a long time to work; it is a full day of labor. Five rooms are needed in a home. There is the kitchen, the dining room, the living room, the bedchamber of husband and wife and the sleeping apartment for the children. They are mere essentials. Shouldn't the people have them? Won't their possession of them make this nation greater and grander than ever before?"

Among the many friends who met Mr. Purdon yesterday and renewed friendship with him were a number of the young men who were associated with him at Tower, almost a score of years ago, when the Vermilion range was the big ore producer and Mr. Purdon was private secretary to President Bacon of the Minnesota Iron company. Walter J. Smith of Eveleth, the new state treasurer, was one, and W. P. Chinn of Pickands, Mather & Co., another. P. E. Dowling, who ran a store at Tower in those days, also called on his old friend.

Every one of the young men who served as clerks in Mr. Purdon's combined offices of paymaster and private secretary, has risen high in the business world and is now a man of affairs and importance, most of them still residents of St. Louis county.

Foley's Kidney Remedy—An Appreciation.

L. McConnel, Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., writes: "I wish to express my appreciation of the great good I derived from Foley's Kidney Remedy, which I used for a bad case of kidney trouble. Five bottles did the work most effectively and proved to me beyond doubt it is the most reliable kidney medicine I have ever taken." Sold by all druggists.

PROGRAM FOR SATURDAY "POP"

Basket Ball Game Between Midgets and Giants Will Be Feature.

A basket ball game between the Midgets and the Giants will be one of the features of the weekly Saturday night "pop" at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this week. Not only will the contrast in the size of the teams afford amusement, but the excitement will be increased by the rules which will require the little fellows to pass the ball high and the Giants to pass the ball low.

The Midgets will be represented by Capt. Bailey, Patrick, Mondschine, Wisted and Miller and the Giants by Capt. Crosby, Crane, Nelson, Paddock and Leighton. A comparison of the men on each team shows that any one of the Giants is about as big as two or three of his opponents. A wrestling match between Frank Huse and Dennis Deighton will be put on between the halves.

There will be music by the orchestra, and the brass quartet, composed of Messrs. Stal, Bernhart, Paul and Huse, will render several selections. Miss Gertrude Fahrman will give a reading and Miss Eleanor Kraft a violin solo. Frank S. Huse is on the program for a trombone solo, accompanied by a violin and cello.

WILL DISCUSS TRI-STATE FAIR

Duluth and Superior Committees Will Meet to Talk It Over.

There will be a joint meeting tomorrow noon at the Commercial club of the Duluth and Superior committees recently named to discuss the project of holding a tri-state fair in Superior, the northern portions of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota to participate.

The object of the proposed exposition is to attract attention to the resources and attractiveness of the Northland. It is hoped by backers of the scheme that the fair will serve to hasten the agricultural development of the region tributary to the Head of the Lakes. The Duluth committee was appointed at a recent meeting of the public affairs committee. It will report back to the public affairs committee and has no power to act. The meeting tomorrow will be one simply for the exchange of ideas and a fuller presentation of the details of the scheme than Superior has had opportunity to give the Duluthians up to this time.

BANK DEPOSITS GAIN.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That there is about $225,000 more on deposit in the three banks of Marquette now than a year ago is shown by comparing the statements of the three institutions with similar statements made last year, indicating that the people are prosperous, for nowhere are hard times more quickly felt than at the banks.

The annual meeting of all the Marquette banks was held Tuesday, and the stockholders in the three institutions have reason to feel well satisfied with the past year's business. In every case, the volume of business done was large and the three banks start the year under most favorable circumstances and in a healthy, growing and safe financial condition.

At all of the banks, the former officers and directors were re-elected for another year, the meetings being entirely harmonious and formal.

Fishermen Had Good Year.

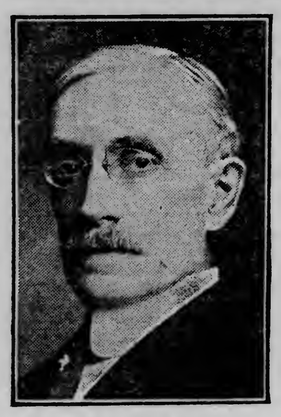

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over $75,000 packages were produced by the fishermen of Green Bay district last year, which was the best record ever made and double the product of the former season. The fishing industry placed $250,000 in circulation in the vicinity of Green Bay.

Dancing will also be one of the features of the occasion.

Woodmen After Drilling Honors.

The degree team of the Modern Woodmen of America has arranged a series of dancing parties to be given Jan. 27, Feb. 10, March 17, April 17 and May 12, for the purpose of raising funds towards defraying the expenses of the team's trip to Buffalo, N. Y., to attend the national convention in June, when competitive drills will be held and prizes awarded the best drilled team. As the local team is one of the best in the state it expects to be able to capture some of the awards to be given at the Buffalo convention.

The members of the local team are: E. F. Murray, captain; James Sisel, Frank Smith, August Narva, Jacob Mattson, Le Roy Edwin, Joseph Kindred, Chris Johnson, Walter Roberts, Bert Ward, Joseph Ziegler, J. A. Johnson, Fred J. Verville and Frank Meehan.

HIBBING SCHOOLS HAVE BIG BALANCE

Report Presented to School Board Shows $25,928.74 in Two Banks.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The balance on hand in the Hibbing banks to the credit of the school district, amounts to $25,928.74; of this $12,992.60 is in the First National bank, and $12,963.14 in the Merchants and Miners State bank. The money on hand at the last report of the treasurer was $15,048.69, the amount received since the last report was $28,322.14, and the total disbursements amounted to $17,442.10, for the month of December. Several matters of minor interest connected with the erection of the new schools in the district were discussed at the meeting of the board held last evening. The board ratified the action of the building committee granting the contract for finishing on the electrical work at the Alice, Pool, Leetonia, Brooklyn and other schools, for the sum of $1,283.46. It was arranged that electric current shall be conducted to the Glen school. A request from Supt. Blair for two additional drinking fountains brought a smile from the board when the superintendent sated that the boys jammed each other's heads under the single fountains now in use when they got tired of waiting for a drink.

Superintendent's Expenses.

It was decided that the expenses of Supt. Blair to the convention of school superintendents to be held in Mobile in February should be paid and leave of absence granted. A mild protest was made to the board by Editor Hitchcock, of the Tribune, on account of not receiving what he considered his share of publications and job work. An application to allow the use of the school buildings at the Leetonia location for Sunday school purposes was referred to the committee on buildings and repairs. The monthly bills were allowed, the following being most important: $1,908, Heazle and Hazelchamp on account of work on new Alice school; $2,396.31, A. C. Schirmer & Co., for ventilating at various schools, and $1,440 for plumbing and heating at the new Alice school.

THOUGHT STONER WAS HIGHWAYMAN

That Was Reason Pair Refused to Stop When Officer Told Them to.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Moore and his companion, Mr. Alquire of Buhl, thought Policeman Harley Stoner of Chisholm was trying to hold them up when he ordered them to stop as they were driving rapidly across the Longyear lake bridge near Chisholm last August causing the officer to fire and wound Moore, according to the evidence Moore and Alquire gave at Stoner's trial in the district court here on a second degree assault charge. They also claimed the horse was unmanageable. There was evidence to show that more than one shot was fired as there were bullet holes in the back of the rig.

Officer Stoner testifying in his own behalf claimed he wanted the pair to slow down on the bridge as he thought they were drunk and that his .32-caliber automatic revolver had a hair trigger so that part of the shots were accidental as he aimed to fire in the air.

The evidence was concluded last evening and this morning the case was summed up and submitted to the jury with the prospects of an early verdict.

It was held at 10 o'clock before Judge Prince, when the arrested parties all pleaded not guilty, furnished a $100 bond each and were released till next Monday, when the hearing will be continued.

The parties are Mike Palkovich, Tony Vetich, Nick Bosizovich, M. Blasozich, Mike Lapech and Mike Capan. This move is the first of a crusade against the blind pigging, said to have assumed huge proportions at the mining locations here.

WANT A WAITING ROOM.

Nashwauk Commercial Club Desires Great Northern Depot Improved.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Commercial club just held, the secretary was instructed to call the attention of the state railroad and warehouse commission to the necessity of a waiting room to be constructed as an addition to the Great Northern depot. The present waiting room at the depot is very inconvenient for women because of tobacco smoke and other disagreeables that constantly collect in the waiting room before train times. The present room is small and accommodates both sexes at present. It is expected that by the working efforts of the Commercial club of this village that a separate waiting room for ladies will be had in a short time.

The following officers were elected for the year to attend to the clubs affairs: President, Dr. John L. Shellman; secretary, H. Haugen, editor of the Nashwauk Herald; treasurer, Alex Jaffe; trustees, Samuel Cohen, term of five years; J. C. Ohles, term of two years, and Louis Shuirman, term of one year.

Alfred Nelson, agent for the New York Life Insurance company was a visitor here a few days this week.

BUHL SCHOOLS CROWDED.

Finnish Hall Rented for Kindergarten to Relieve Congestion.

Buhl, Minn., Jan. 12. — (Special to The Herald.)—In order to relieve the congestion in the local schools, all departments being held in one building, the school board has rented Finnish hall for the kindergarten.

The board could not see its way clear to grant the petition from the Kinney district, under the jurisdiction of the local board, for night school as it would have to be lighted with oil and this would increase the insurance rates.

The board expects by 1912 to be in a position to grant the petition as Kinney expects to have an electric light system then.

The school at Kinney, while not crowded, has about all it can conveniently accommodate and when the mines in this vicinity start up in the spring it will be necessary to increase the number of teachers.

The poor woman had been deserted by her husband, who is said to have been fifteen years her junior. Efforts are being made to locate him.

PLANNING WORK FOR PATIENTS CURED.

The question of how to procure suitable positions for those who have been cured of tuberculosis, is now bothering those who have in charge the building of the new St. Louis county sanitarium.

Light work is absolutely necessary for those who are able to leave the institution. It is necessary that they exercise to some extent and that they be out in the open air. They can work as collectors and watchmen and positions of this sort will have to be obtained for them.

The work on the site of the new sanitarium is coming along rapidly and the buildings will be erected this spring.

The matter of work for discharged patients is being thought over thus early that the institution will, when finished, be complete in every detail.

During the past several years this person has not been obliged to use a kidney medicine, for the cure has been permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills effected a cure of kidney trouble in this case and also brought relief from a dull, heavy ache in the loins. Green Room Gossip.

Charles Klein erected a monument to his ability as a dramatist when he wrote "The Lion and the Mouse," the play of love and political intrigue which has been so conspicuously before the public for the past three years.

Mr. Klein struck an original idea when he selected the money question as the basis of the story. People in all stages of life have become well aware of the abuses in the possession of extravagant wealth, and when Mr. Klein pictured its misuse in dramatic form he immediately began to reap a reward such as few playwrights have received from a single effort. The United Play company will send "The Lion and the Mouse" to this city Saturday and Sunday at the Lyceum, with a matinee each day.

Bird Millman, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, is probably the youngest producing vaudeville manager in America, at least the youngest woman owning her own act. Miss Millman has just passed her 20th birthday, but she owns her present act, producing it and booking it herself. Her father and mother before her were both famous wire walkers, and Miss Millman began practicing on the wire when she was only 6 years of age. When she was 8 years old she made her first public appearance, and since that time has been working almost continuously, appearing in circuses, state and county fairs, theaters and every form of entertainments where wire walkers are seen. Her father is still appearing in public, and has an act of his own, which is now touring England. Her mother appears with Miss Millman in her act, but does not do anything on the wire.

Miss Millman has been called "The Eva Tanguay of the Air" owing to the rapid manner in which she works on the wire. Living up to this title has cost her many bad falls, but they do not seem to "get her nerve," and she runs and dances on the wire more energetically than ever, after each fall.

An announcement of special interest to Duluth theatergoers is the engagement of the Finneys at the Empress next week. These two famous swimmers, James Finney and his daughter, Miss Elsie, are known the world over as presenting one of the neatest and most finished swimming acts before the public. Mr. Finney is the holder of numerous championships and has in his possession over 100 cups, medals and trophies. He is the holder of the world's record for staying under water, remaining under water for 4 minutes 29¾ seconds. Miss Finney is a young lady of extraordinary grace and beauty and is also the holder of several championships. Their work consists not only of fancy diving but an exhibition of the various strokes used in swimming and a great deal of their work is done while under water. The Finneys are in Minneapolis this week and the critics in that city proclaim them to be the greatest swimmers who have ever appeared in that city, and they will no doubt win as much favor during their engagement here.

PROGRAM FOR FREE CONCERT

More Selections From Symphony Orchestra Concerts Will Be Played.

The program for the Masonic free concert at the auditorium of the Masonic temple, Sunday, Jan. 15, at 3:30 p. m., follows:

Organ overture—"Sakuntala" ..... Goldmark
Vocal—Aria, "Rise, O Soul" from the "Marche Slav" ..... Tschaikowsky
Charles O. Applehagen.
Organ—Symphony No. 8; in F major: Op. 93 ..... Beethoven.
a—Allegro con brio.
b—Allegretto scherzando.
c—Tempo di menuetto.
d—Allegro vivace.
Vocal—Song, "Babylon" ..... Watson.
Charles O. Applehagen.
Organ—"Marche Slav" ..Tschaikowsky

This is the second concert in which the instrumental music is selected from the program of the St. Paul Symphony orchestra, those from the last one being from the Tuesday evening program. This is done so that those wishing to, may hear the numbers in advance of the symphony concert and thus be the better able to appreciate them, because no person can properly absorb such music at the first time of hearing.

First comes Goldmark's overture, "Sakuntala," one of the great Hindoo epics, by Kalidasa, which depicts an old-time entrancing picture of ancient India dressed up in poetic garb to which the music does justice and is, of itself, sufficiently beautiful to warrant the closest attention in trying to follow the delicate movements and artistic skill of the composer.

Beethoven's Eighth Symphony is said to have been the especial favorite of the composer and contains more of his individual traits and experiences than the others. There is no slow move in the symphony, the second being allegretto and consisting of a playful melody, simple and bright. The third movement introduces a minuet, the first and second themes are simple and animated and the trio is a duet-like theme, full of the folk music of Germany. The fourth movement is in the rondo form, well worked out the whole ending in a spirit of joy.

The last organ number in the celebrated "Marche Slav," probably the best example of the wild, erratic, stirring music of that race. It possesses odd characteristics, begins gloomily and ends triumphantly.

The soloist, Charles O. Applehagen, has made very fine selections and the whole presents a remarkably fine and musical program.

LOST CHILD PICKED UP BY POLICE.

Lief Kjastad, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole J. Kjastad of 1241½ West Fourth street, was found wandering about alone on Superior street last evening. REAL ESTATE DEALER PRESSING ODD SUIT.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A peculiar realty case is being tried in the federal court. William A. Hanson sues Lackemauer on a farm contract sale. The latter was in the realty business. He had some prospective customers from the east one day and was passing the Hanson farm. One of the men enthused over the place and insisted the agent should purchase it for him. He gave the dealer $300 to bind the bargain and said he would return in a few days to close the deal. Lackemauer hunted up Hanson, made a deal for the farm and waited for the would-be purchaser. The latter forfeited his $300 and never showed up. Hanson now wants Lackemauer to take the property according to his contract.

CITY LOSES LARGE SUM

Miscellaneous Taxes Are Not Being Collected in Duluth.

Special Officer Could Pay His Salary on Dog Licenses Alone.

The employment of a special man whose sole duty will be to collect unpaid taxes due the city, not including real estate or personal property taxes, is the solution which suggests itself to the minds of the authorities who have been investigating the matter.

The last report of the city clerk showed that in 1910 only 1,000 dog licenses were taken out. Records for years past, when a dog catcher was employed, show that the city has at least more than twice that number, and there is little doubt but that several hundred more dogs would be located if such a special man were to be hired.

His salary would be in the neighborhood of $1,000 a year. On the dogs alone he would be more than able to pay for himself. But little more than $1,000 was received by the city last year from the dog taxes. The special man would probably bring the revenue from this source up to $2,500, thereby making money for the city. It is not thought that he would be able to locate every dog running about without a tag, but the fact that he was known to be on the job would induce hundreds to take out licenses who otherwise fail to do so.

The wheelage tax is also far below what it should be. Only about one-third of the amount which it was estimated would be raised in this manner has been paid into the office of the city treasurer. It was calculated that the wheelage tax would produce over $15,000 a year, but thus far less than $5,000 is credited to this fund.

A special officer could devote considerable time to bringing the delinquents to time. He would not stop with making one or two arrests. He would keep at the vehicle owners until the last of them had decorated his rig with the tags supplied at the office of the city clerk.

Many hundreds of dollars are lost to the city annually because such a man is not employed by the city. With the wheelage tax and the dog taxes the city is thousands of dollars short. The city also collects other miscellaneous licenses, and it would be part of the duty of such a special collector to look after all of these. It is probable that the receipts of this kind could be considerably swelled if special attention were given to them. Among other license fees collected are those for drays and hacks, pool and billiard tables, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, peddlers and hawkers, theaters, fortune tellers, house movers, plumbers, circuses, employment offices, second-hand dealers and pawn brokers.

Brainerd Commercial Club Shows to Be in Flourishing Condition.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to Teh Herald.)—Carl Zapffe, the new president of the Commercial club, has announced his committee appointments. The retiring president, Col. A. J. Halsted, gave a verbal report of the work accomplished. A vote of thanks was extended Messrs. Courtney and Michael and also Messrs. Zapffe and Allbright.

A communication was received from the St. Cloud Commercial club asking that Minnesota building stone be used in the construction of public buildings erected by the state. Two delegates will be selected to attend the convention of commercial clubs meeting at St. Paul on Jan. 25 and 26. The matter of a grain elevator for the farmers and of better train service was referred to the proper committees. During the year an exchange of courtesies has been arranged with thirty-six other commercial bodies in different parts of the country. The membership of the club, as shown in the report of the treasurer, E. R. Smith, is sixty-four and the total assets of the club are $1,602.86. Some time in April the club will remove to its new quarters in the Iron Exchange building.

NICER THAN POWDER —EASIER TO APPLY

Mrs. Mae Martyn, writing on beauty subjects for the Philadelphia Press, says: "Society women everywhere are discarding paints and powders and using a liquid preparation, which is easily applied and dries quickly, giving the complexion a soft, pink and white glow impossible with powder or rouge.

"An excellent and trustworthy lotion for the complexion can be made at home by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint of hot water, then adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine.

"This recipe is popular among many social leaders, as it is impossible to detect, and after being applied does not rub off like powder, nor does it require further attention. It is inexpensive and easy to make, and every woman should give it a place on her toilet table."

Advance in Steel Aids Metal Stocks—Local Market More Active.

The copper market acted fairly well today in sympathy with steel. The entire market reflected the buying in the little Steel, which was put up on the strength of the optimistic reports emanating from the meeting of steel men last night. After the declaration that steel prices would not be reduced it was natural that speculators should put up the market. Maintenance of prices does not create new business and radical reductions may have to come later. In view of existing conditions the statement made by Judge Gary is deceptive. The speculative clique can take hold of stocks and run them up but it will be quite a different matter to hold stocks at a higher level if Wall street prices are in truth the barometer of the country's commercial condition, which Wall street would have us believe.

The metal market is weaker, prices for electrolytic having fallen below 13c, even most of the big people making the concession. The copper market today was somewhat oversold. Business conditions appear to be slightly improved. Stocks are scarce.

The local market was fairly active and strong. Keating was the feature, selling up to $1.50 after selling at $1.37½ and $1.43¾. The last was the closing price. More than 3,700 shares changed hands. Calumet & Montana sold at 67c, Butte Alex Scott, part paid, at $1.87½ to $1.93¾, the full paid Scott at $5.75, Copper Queen at 21c and 22c, Denn at $4.87½ to $4.75, Butte Superior, old, at $1, Carmen at 70c, Cliff at $1.50, Summit at 60c.

Amalgamated sold at $62.25 to $63.12½ to $62.87½. Calumet & Arizona at $46, Butte Ballaklava at $6.12½ to $6.25, Butte Coalition at $18, Giroux at $6.75 to $6.62½, Greene at $6.75, North Butte at $27.50 to $28.50 to $27.75, Cactus at 22c.

Globe wired: Sinking of the shaft at the Arizona-Commercial has been finished down to the 1,000-foot level and a thirty-foot sump below that level completed. The cutting of the shaft and cross-cutting toward the vein has been begun and as soon as the station is completed drifts will be extended both east and west to develop the ore that has been demonstrated to the east by diamond drills.

Paine, Webber & Co. received this wire from Boston: "There is likely to be formidable opposition from many Isle Royale stockholders to the terms of consolidation proposed by Calumet & Hecla. Several informal meetings have been held to discuss the situation, and the opinion of the dissenters is that the Royale will be better if it does not go into the consolidation.

"W. C. Langley & Co., who have been largely interested in the property, are understood to be the leading spirits in the opposition movement. No definite plan of action has yet been mapped out although it is stated that the holders of a sufficient number of shares are interested in the movement to prevent a two-thirds vote of the 150,000 outstanding shares in favor of the scheme.

"The point is made that while Isle Royale's financial condition is not all that might be wished, still the property is a going one and has all the necessary equipment for an increased output at a lower cost than has been possible for several years past. Justification for this position is that the 1910 production, which amounted to nearly 7,400,000 pounds of copper, as compared with 6,827,678 in 1909, has made a profit.

"Furthermore, it is believed by the opposition that Isle Royale, after the expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 for purchase of new lands, exploration and construction in the past few years, warrants a further trying out before it loses its identity and becomes a part of the larger Calumet & Hecla. It is recognized that even excluding construction and other extraordinary charges, Isle Royale in the four or five years ending with 1909 has been unable to make any money, but it is pointed out that during 1909 Calumet & Hecla reduced the cost of production over 3 cents per pound, or from 16.31 cents to 13.12 cents, and this was accomplished in the treatment of rock which yielded only 14.3 pounds of copper per ton, or only one-half pound to the ton better than in 1908.

"It is pointed out that these results together with the recent improvement in the Isle Royale, the known improvements in costs in 1910 and the faith in the possibilities of Isle Royale's 500 acres are believed to be logical arguments which the stockholders should consider at this time. It is believed also by those who are not in favor of the merger that the Calumet & Hecla 18 per cent interest in Isle Royale is far too small to dominate the situation in these days when the individual stockholder is coming to the front in the management of his property."

Inquiry Into North Dakota School Land Board Is Sought.

Light Wanted on Work of the State Auditing Board.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three new investigations were launched this afternoon when resolutions were introduced by Senator Gunderson. The most important of these was one proposing an investigation of the board of school and university land for the purpose of determining whether or not better methods cannot be adopted to administer the affairs of that board. The resolution calls for information on the amounts of securities invested, with rate of interest, the amount of securities and investments that have not been paid, the amount of past due interest, the amount of insufficient or doubtful securities and investments, and investments made contrary to law, together with recommendations as to whether or not the fund can be more economically invested at a better rate of interest, and what improvements should be made in the methods of purchasing securities and making investments. A report is asked in time to enact the necessary legislation.

In addition to this investigation one is proposed to inquire into the progress being made in litigation to which the state is a party, while another seeks light on the work of the state auditing board.

FALLS TO DEATH FROM HIGH CLIFF

Sidney Joseph of Cincinnati Killed in the Harz Mountains.

Blankenburg, Germany, Jan. 12.—Sidney Joseph, described as a millionaire merchant of Cincinnati, Ohio, dropped from a cliff in the Harz mountains yesterday and was killed.

Joseph had been for some time at a sanitarium here and it is stated that he deliberately stepped from the height. It is thought that he was seized suddenly with an insane impluse.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 12.—According to members of his family, the death of Sidney Joseph, by a fall over a cliff in the Harz mountains, Germany, occurred Monday. They deny that he had been in a sanitarium and assert that he was on a pleasure trip in the mountains. His father was an iron merchant in Cincinnati, and five brothers have continued the business.

Sidney Joseph broke down in health when 14 years of age, and for the past fifteen years has traveled in search of relief from insomia.

Of late years he had conducted a flower farm near Dresden, Germany, and was considered an authority on roses and carnations throughout Europe. He frequently took trips to indulge in a passion for mountain climbing, his relatives say, and it was during one of these that he met death.

FACTIONAL FEUDS INJURE THE STATE

Governor Carroll Asks Their Cessation in Iowa Politics.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 12.—Governor Carroll in his inaugural address to the Iowa assembly today made a plea for the cessation of political and factional feuds in Iowa, declaring that they had had an unwholesome effect upon the state.

"Give the business of the state precedence over the ambitions of men and let the people join in a united effort to promote the material welfare of the commonwealth," said the governor.

Governor Carroll indorsed the suggestion of President Taft that Iowa halt in its efforts to legislate long enough to secure compliance with the laws already enacted, so that it might be known just what additional legislation was needed.

Beauty Aids
By MADAME MAREE

FOR A VELVETY COMPLEXION.

Stop using injurious face powders and harmful cosmetics, which clog the pores and starve delicate tissues. Use plenty of soap and water to remove accumulated impurities from the pores and skin's surface and apply a good retiring cream. Do this and your rough, pimply, colorless complexion will take on a soft, velvety, pink and white glow, rivalling any "made" complexion. You can prepare your own retiring cream by dissolving two ounces of amarol in a pint jar of hot water. Any druggist can supply amarol, which is not expensive, and a few treatments will clean and clear the skin, giving it a delicacy of texture and rose-toned embellishment impossible any other way.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Dassa: The reason your scalp is dry and harsh and filed with dandruff is because of its exhausted, weakened condition. A shampoo twice a month for a time with a good head wash soon corrects this. The most dependable thing for shampooing is plain eggol. This tends to stimulate a healthy condition of the scalp and hair follicles, overcomes dandruff and makes brittle, streaky hair soft and fluffy, restoring its natural color and brilliancy. Try this, and your scalp will become vigorous and pliant and can be kept so.

Daisy: Your sweetheart is right. Thin, straggly hair is jarring to the eye and detracts from true womanly beauty. A good hair tonic to employ can be made at little cost by adding a half-pint water to a half-pint alcohol; in this pour one ounce beta-canthol. Using this nightly for a while stimulates the hair roots to healthy activity and your hair will become thick, glossy and fluffy. Any drug store can supply beta-canthol.

ICE HARVEST HAS BEGUN

Local Companies Will Cut Many Thousand Tons at New Duluth.

Filling Storage Houses With Duluth's 1911 Supply Interesting Process.

Duluth's 1911 ice harvest is under way.

At New Duluth and Spirit Lake, where the cutting is in progress, over 160 men are employed by the two local ice companies, the Duluth Ice company and the East End Ice company. One concern started operations two weeks ago and the other put a crew to work this week.

The Duluth Ice company, which during the ice harvest employs on the average of ninety men, has a space of three or four acres cleared on the river about two miles south of Spirit lake, where two of the concern's four hourses are located. After the ice crop is harvested at this point and the houses filled, the crew will fill two more houses of the company located just above Spirit lake.

The ice sheds of the East End company are four in number, and are located this side of Spirit lake. Seventy men are now employed in harvesting the ice crop at this point. On an average, about 1,500 tons of ice are taken from the river daily. Last year, according to officials of the company, the daily cut ran as high as 2,000 tons.

Thousands of tons of ice are being stored away in the eight houses up the river. The companies not only supply the needs of the entire city from their warehouses, but also ship ice to nearby towns. Each of the large storage houses holds in the neighborhood of 30,000 tons.

The cold weather of the past few weeks has caused the river to freeze to a good depth. The heavy snowfall recently, however, has handicapped the work somewhat, requiring a larger force in order to get a cutting space cleared off. The first work of the ice harvest, which has already been started up the river is the "plowing."

The cutting of ice is an interesting process. A large field is first cleared and then a small ice plow is run over the field marking out the size of the cakes to be cut. The cakes are usually cut the same size as those distributed from the ice wagons in the summer time.

A larger plow follows the smaller one and the ice is cut two-thirds of its depth. The ice is then sawed and the cakes sent up an incline, similar to the kind used to convey logs from the water to a sawmill.

System Full of Uric Acid--The Great Kidney Remedy Cured.

Two years ago I was very sick and after being treated by several of the best physicians in Clinton, I did not seem to get any better. I was confined to my bed. Seeing Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertised, I resolved to give it a trial. After using it for three weeks, I found I was gaining nicely, so I continued until I had taken a number of bottles. I am now restored to health and have continued my labors. My system was full of Uric Acid, but Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I am sixty years old.

Yours very truly,

With the Curlers.

Wade's Kids defeated Olson in the Esterly event at the West Duluth curling rink last evening, 11 to 9. They are Ellis vs. Evered and Wade vs. Method.

WOULD FORTIFY PANAMA CANAL

President Taft Urges Appropriation of $5,000,000 to Start Work.

Washington, Jan. 12.—President Taft today sent to congress a special message urging the fortification of the Panama canal and recommending that an appropriation of $5,000,000 for the initiation of the work on the proposed defenses be made on the present session of the congress. He forwarded with the message the report of the special army and navy board, recommending fortification of the canal.

The canal when completed, said the president in his message, "will afford the only convenient route for communication between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and virtually will be a part of the coast line of the United States. Its assured possession and control will contribute to our peace, safety and prosperity as a nation. In my judgment it is the right and duty of the United States to fortify and make capable of defense the work that will be so vital a relation to its welfare and that is being created solely by it and at an expenditure of enormous sums.

"I have authorized the submission to the secretary of the treasury of the revised estimate for the appropriation referred to in the accompanying letter of the secretary of war, which estimates are less than the original estimate by approximately one-third."

TO COPY MINNESOTA.

South Dakota Will Do Away With Two State Boards.

Pierre, S. D., Jan. 12.—Senator Gemmill has introduced a constitutional amendment to abolish the soldiers' home board and the state board of charities, combining the functions under a central administrative board of three members, after the Minnesota and Iowa plans.

Representative Bruce of Yankton has proposed a constitutional amendment which radically changes the legislative system. It provides for an annual session of thirty days; terms for legislators four years, half to change each session, and all bills except the appropriations or of having two-thirds majority to lay over until the next session. Senator Curtiss and Representative Sherman have introduced a constitutional amendment giving the franchise to all women owning real property and fulfilling other qualifications of electors.

The soldiers' home investigating committee resolution has passed both houses, Senators Wyman and Morrissey will probably be appointed to the investigating committee.

The senate has passed Cone's bill permitting county officials to collect city taxes. Norbeck's bill appropriating $5,000 for the attorney general's office.

INDORSES WATER FETE

Bentley P. Neff Says Big Carnival Would Attract Thousands to City.

Public Affairs Committee of Commercial Club Will Take Up Plan.

Bentley F. Neff, secretary of the F. A. Patrick company, and also a member of the public affairs committee, today stated that he is thoroughly in favor of the Duluth carnival, or the Water Festival, or whatever the proposed big July celebration is to be called. He also stated that in his opinion the business men of this city are thoroughly behind the plan.

"You can't make it too strong for me," said Mr. Neff. "I think the idea a splendid one. The carnival will be a great thing for this city, as it will probably attract thousands of visitors from many points in the West, while citizens from every point in this state will be drawn here by the novelty of the idea, and because, though I hesitate to say it, there are many people all over this state, who have never been in this city.

"A trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis has become an anual event with many of the people of Minnesota. I am of the opinion that the holding of such a carnival as has been proposed, will do more to advertise this city than any other scheme, and that with the facilities at the hands of the citizens here, the ideal harbor, the great number of ships, the immense number of pleasure craft that would probably be attracted here for the occasion, the number of fast motor boats which I have been told will be sent here by the Eastern manufacturers, there is no reason that I can think of at the present time why the proposed carnival should not be one of the most unique, most beautiful, most spectacular and also one of the best attended pageants ever held in the West.

"The maneuvers of the Great Lakes squadron is an event in itself that should attract many visitors to the Head of the Lakes, and when this big event is combined with the water fete idea, the rowing regatta, the tennis tournament, and other features, it seems that the details are within easy reach which will make a great carnival."

Steps have already been taken to boom the carnival idea. It is very probable that the publicity committee of the Commercial club will discuss the carnival at its next meeting, which occurs next week. Several members of the public affairs committee have stated that they are thoroughly in favor of the idea, and believe it would be a great means of exhibiting the resources and attractiveness of this city.

While perhaps the idea of the carnival originated with members of the Duluth Boat club, they have made it understood that it is their desire that the proposed carnival should be a city affair; one that would represent the interests of Duluth and will be entered into by the business men of the city.

BEGIN WORK ON NEW AUDITORIUM

Hammel Building Being Turned Into Roller Skating Rink.

Work has been begun on the remodeling of the L. Hammel building at Third avenue east and First street. Before the work was started, it was feared that the plans would provide for a veneered building, but it is now assured that the lower part of the building is to have solid brick walls and the upper part is to be of steel frame work and glass.

The building will be used as a roller skating rink and assembly hall. There will be a gallery over the reception rooms and skate room on the west side of the building, but the plan to have a gallery all around the auditorium has been abandoned.

CENSUS KNOCKS SALOON.

Count in Kimball, S. D., Prevents Third Booze Joint.

Kimball, S. D., Jan. 12.—In anticipation that the figures when reported by the census bureau at Washington would give Kimball sufficient population to entitle it to have a third saloon, John Hindrichson had expended several thousand dollars in fitting up a building for a retail liquor business. Everything was in readiness for him to install his wet goods and commence business when the expected license was issued. But now a telegram has been received by Mayor Richards from the director of the census, stating that the population of Kimball was 713. Under a state law only two saloons can operate to every 300 of population or major fraction thereof, so Kimball is short 38 of the number necessary to authorize the city council to grant a license for the proposed third saloon.

CAPT. McDOUGALL HAS INVENTED NEW INDUSTRY

Capt. Alex McDougall has invented a new industry, one that apparently insures the consumer a supply of fresh lake fish at any time and anywhere, the only requisite being cold storage facilities.

The captain had some fishermen clean a few specimens of Lake Superior herring and place them in boxes about the size of a paving brick, which were filled with water. The water froze, so that the cleaned fish was contained in a solid block of ice. Until the ice melts, that fish will be just as sweet and fresh as when it was taken from the water. During cold weather the blocks could be stored anywhere out of doors until the coming of spring, and if put in cold storage they would keep the fish continually in the best of condition.

It may be that hotel menus may bear a lle something like this in the year 1920:

"Fresh Lake Superior herring, catch of 1911."

And it would be fresh, too.

Of course, it remains to be learned to a certainty that the method will be as practicable as it now seems.

INDICTMENT IS RETURNED

William Hill Charged With Fraudulently Obtaining Registered Letter.

Federal Grand Jury Finds Three Indictments---Two Not Made Public.

Charged with obtaining possession of a registered letter by fraudulently representing himself to be the person to whom the letter was addressed, William Hill was indicted by the January grand jury in United States court. He was arraigned this morning, pleaded not guilty and his case will be tried as soon as the trial now in progress is completed.

The crime with which Hill is charged is alleged to have been committed at Virginia, Minn., Sept. 24 last year. The letter, which came from England and was addressed to W. Hill, contained 50 pounds sterling in international money orders. It is alleged that Hill endeavored to cash the orders, but failed. He has been in the county jail since he was arrested in September, having no means of obtaining bonds or engaging an attorney. Hans B. Haroldson was appointed by the court to defend him. Hill's home is in Wellington, Mich.

The grand jury made its final report this morning and was discharged. Only three indictments were returned, two of which were not made public.

The first of the three civil actions to be tried at this term of court was taken up this morning. It is the suit of Adelmar Snyder against J. F. McCarthy for $24,000 alleged to be due as commissions earned in a land deal by which Mr. McCarthy purchased 24,000 acres of land in Colorado. A jury was obtained this morning and the taking of testimony was begun. As soon as the case is completed, the Hill case will be taken up.

Mr. Roycroft was the choice over Evan McIlraith, present assistant city engineer, who also was a candidate. The stockholders of the company also re-elected the old board of directors and chose R. B. THIS SHAMPOO HELPS TO DRY THE HAIR

"It may sound paradoxical to say that shampooing helps dry the hair," writes Mae Martyn, in the New York Herald, "but it is a fact that women using canthrox in cleansing the hair and scalp find their tresses dry quicker than when shampoo mixtures are used. Aside from this, it leaves the scalp in a vigorous condition and gives the hair its natural glossy appearance.

"Next time you wash your head try this simple recipe: Dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacup of hot water. Pour on the head and rub briskly until the scalp is thoroughly massaged, then rinse well.

"Canthrox costs but a trifle, but the only certain way to get it pure is to buy an original package."

The White Hope and the Has-Been Played By the Promoters—The Sporting Events in Superior—What Is the Future of "Minny" League?

(BY BRUCE.)

The degenerate days of "white hopes" and woeful ways of "once-wasers."

When two extremes meet, there is likely to be a ruction, is a rule of physics, or poetic fancy of the young housewife's cooking theory; it is some kind of a rule. This rule is evidently at the present time being applied to the "white hopes" and the dead pugilistic drift wood.

When the maiden fair learns to cook, if she ever does, she is usually impressed strongly with the sense of economics. Save the remnants, cries mother, and daughter strives nobly to tuck every remnant away in the corner of some pudding or some hashy hash, for it is perfectly sportsmanlike to call hash names.

At the present time our managers of fighters are imbued with the theory of economy; they believe in utilizing every bit of pugilistic possibility, and in this remorseful regard are exceeding the limits of suffering patience.

Like cooking, the "white hopes" have recipes. Take a man weighing over 200 pounds, add an advertising manager, mix well with publicity, add a pair of boxing gloves and a photographer, and he is ready for serving.

Bit back to the extremes.

If the "white hope" is a novice. It is agreed that he needs experience. Who should have experience but a veteran, one like Marvin Hart and Michael Angelo Schreck. They are both men of deep experience. They have both traveled and gone without meals, and that sort of thing; when it comes to experience, they are there stronger than onions raised in a lime kiln.

Let him fight Hart and gain a lot of experience," suggests the wily manager of the "white hope." And then, too, think of the confidence it gives the budding Caucasian burden-bearer.

After he whips the experienced veteran, who in most cases hasn't a thing but a line of reminiscences and a cauliflower ear, the burden-bearer generally gets a swelling of the chest that would make the most expansive efforts of a porter look as thin and utterly unyielding as a poor and benighted piece of 24-cent steak that had been choked and frosted by the beef trust.

After that the earnest effort hope wants to fight the champion right away. Here we have Carl Morris saying that he would like to fight Johnson pretty soon now. Carl should earnestly emulate the shining example of Casey Jones and stick to the engine. Mistah Johnson will make him look like a large and confident farm bred dog in a mixup with an alley bull terrier raised in the toughest part of the city.

That's what they are doing at the present time, the two extremes; the man who is big and has lots of raw and untrained confidence and the boy who has slitted along the highway past the mile mark of present day activity.

Tonight the Superior Athletic club will put on its second monthly athletic show, and judging from the card, it should provide a lot of clean sport for the boys of the other side.

Athletics Are on the Boom in the City Across the Raging Bay.

One of the features of the program will be a finish match between Martin Johnson, the wrestling fireman of Duluth and Ole Johnson, the big Superior grappler, who is considered a comer in the wrestling world. It is proposed to match the winner of tonight's match with Chris Person.

As both of the Johnsons have been hankering after a meeting, it is certain that they will both literally wrestle their heads off in an endeavor to win. The match should provide first-class entertainment.

In addition to the wrestling feature of the program, there will be a number of boxing bouts. They are allowing limited round encounters on the other side of the bay, and it is said that the authorities will raise no objection so long as the bouts are conducted in a decent and orderly manner. The program promises to be a very well rounded one, one that will satisfy the fans.

The first show of the club was very successful, considering conditions, and the second one promises to be even more so. Wrestling is taking hold of the fans on the other side of the bay, and if interest continues to increase, it is very probable that some of the stars of the mat game will wrestle before the Superior Athletic club.

A man very well informed on baseball was calmly and disinterestedly discussing the local baseball situation yesterday afternoon. His opinions are of interest because they carry weight, like the fastest horses.

What Is the Future of the Minnesota-Wisconsin League?

This man can see but very little future for this city in the baseball line, unless some bigger towns are brought into the circuit. About the only way this can be done, according to the observations of this gentleman, is to break into the territory of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

He suggests that Magnates Lennon and Cantillon own the Twin City members of the league, whether it be the Minny or some other league, and further points out that these teams would prove excellent farms for the surplus players that lack quite the class for the American association. This idea is an excellent one and possesses the element of reason.

Unless La Crosse secures a downtown park, baseball in that town will not pay. Eau Claire is not a paying baseball proposition, nor is Wausau, Red Wing or Rochester. About all the Duluth teams have gathered there the past two seasons has been the $40 a game guarantee, which will hardly pay expenses.

Just at the present time certain writers in the southern part of the state are saying that Mr. Barton has dug the graves of his hopes for the Minny league presidency by stating that some of the towns of the circuit ought to be cut off. This old truth thing has caused a lot of trouble all down through the paths of history, and perhaps history is merely repeating itself in the present instance.

The people here want better baseball if they can get it, and naturally practical and hard-headed baseball men cannot see the future in supporting baseball where it does not pay. The officials up this way are frank in the statement that they would like to break into the Twin City territory, and as St. Paul and Minneapolis are plenty big enough to support large and smart teams, it is believed here that the move would be prosperous.

At the coming meeting there had better be a stock taking of the goods in the store. It is said that some of the magnates of the Minny league are kind of tired of the patriotism thing and are going out of the baseball business. John Borth and H. C. Davis may be cited as examples.

The people of this town have yearned for some time for a league that would include the Twin Cities, as a city of 50,000 inhabitants should under ordinary circumstances be ready for pretty good baseball. A league including the two cities at the Head of the Lakes, Winnipeg, the Twin Cities and Winona and La Crosse, if the latter town had a downtown ball park, or one of the range towns and Fargo, instead of Winona and La Crosse, should make a very much stronger league than the organization that last summer seriously considered abandoning the schedule.

When the question was asked: What is the future of baseball in this city? it meant all its meaning would naturally imply. We don't at the present time know our future. We want to get into the Twin City territory, and this would mean that there would either be a new league or that two of the Minny league towns would be dropped from the league.

Baseball didn't pay here last season, one of the reasons being that the teams dropped money on the road. Two towns can't support a circuit. If Mr. Force has been telling some of the country scribes that the Minny league is all right in its present form, he has been kidding them.

Mr. Barton told the truth, perhaps unwittingly, and perhaps not. It was the truth, nevertheless, and he is to be admired the more for telling it. A lot of fans up here will heartily agree with just what Mr. Barton said, even if his words of wisdom have raised a tempest in a teapot among the writers in the southern part of the state.

Up here we are just naturally pestered to know what the future will bring, and we would just as soon walk boldly out in the reception room filled with visitors and announce boldly, "We want to get into St. Paul and Minneapolis." That's about all, for the present.

TEN EYCK MAY COACH

Efforts Again Being Made to Land Famous Oarsman for Duluth.

Winning Crew Is Wanted More Than Ever This Year.

Edward Ten Eyck, son of one of the greatest oarsmen this country has ever produced and the winner of the famous sculls trophy at London, also former coach of the University of Wisconsin crew, may coach the Duluth Boat club crew the coming season.

One of the men who has been interested in the crews here for the past ten years or more, and who has coached and lent every assistance to the rowing department of the club, stated yesterday that Ten Eyck was the man the officials of the club are after, and every effort will be made to land the famous oarsman.

Ten Eyck is considered one of the best coaches in the country. He quit Wisconsin as other athletic advisers have quit in the past few years, because of the "butting in" of men like Ehler. The students down there consider Ten Eyck a great coach, but he resigned, as Barry the football coach did, because under the present regime a good athletic coach is not encouraged at Wisconsin, it is claimed.

One great effort is going to be made to place a winning crew on the water the present season. With the regatta held in this city, the officials of the club realize that a winning crew will mean much, and no effort will be spared in developing this crew.

Negotiations will soon be entered into for the securing of a coach. It is the idea of some of the rowing men that the coach should come early enough to coach the men on the machines. The St. Paul crew got some of their useful information before they go on to the water. That plan may be tried here the present season.

It is believed among the men who rowed on the unfortunate crew of last season, that a man like Ten Eyck could make a winning crew out of the splendid material that local coaches failed to make even impressive.

FAIRMONTS DEFEAT POINTERS

Four Play Periods Necessary to Decide Fast Game ---Score 3 to 2.

By the score of 3 to 2 the Fairmonts last night defeated the Park Pointers in the second game of the city league's 1911 schedule. It was necessary to play two additional periods after the two halves had been played. Two halves of twenty minutes each were played, the score being 2 to 2 at the end of these two periods. According to the rules an extra ten minutes was played, during which there was no score. In such cases the rules specify another period of twenty minutes, and if no score is made in this period, the game is called a tie. Nearly all of this fourth period was played before Bird of the Fairmonts broke up the game by scoring the third net for the Fairmonts.

Snow interfered with the play, causing bad ice and also making it very difficult for the players to follow the puck.

Roberts and Fisher scored the two goals for Park Point, while Renauld and McFayden scored the two goals for the Fairmonts, Bird's shot scoring the third goal and breaking up the game.

Considering the weather conditions the game was a dandy. Both teams played every minute of the long game, and for boys who have not had as much experience as some of the other team members of the city league, the Park Pointers made a fine showing. The game was played on the Fairmont club rink, at Twenty-fifth avenue west, where the contest between the Adams and Kodahpa club will be played, Friday evening of this week.

FRANK GOTCH IS MARRIED AT HUMBOLDT.

M'GOORTY AND DILLON DRAW AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis, came together for the third time last night before a big crowd, the decision being a draw after twelve hard fought rounds. Dillon was the aggressor but failed to land where it would count heavily.

McGoorty's most effective blow was a left jab to the face. He drew blood from Dillon's nose in the first, fourth and eighth rounds.

Boer Is Injured.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 12.—The wrestling match between Zbyszko and Nogert, the Boer, was brought to a sudden finish last night when the latter was thrown from the platform, and in falling broke a rib. Zbyszko secured the first fall in thirty-six minutes and forty-five seconds.

"BOMBARDER" WELLS IS KNOCKED OUT.

London, Jan. 12. — "Gunner" Moir last night knocked out "Bombarder" Wells in the third round of an exhibition fight at the Olympia.

WITH THE WRESTLERS

Last night at Virginia Karl Lehto added further to his laurels, defeating Bill Youch in two straight falls. At the present time the young Finn is showing the very best form of his career. He is improving right along and every match has shown a decided improvement in his work. The worst enemies of the young man have stated that he possesses the elements that go to make a great wrestler, and the young man, only 23 years of age, has hardly as yet reached the full state of his physical power.

The work that Lehto will take under Young Miller, certainly a fast and clever exponent of the mat game, will do the Duluth wrestler a world of good. Heretofore Lehto has made a wonderful showing by strength, agility, endurance and the wonderful ability he has for bridging out of dangerous holds. With added science an knowledge of the mat game, which the young Finn is gaining every day, he is going to make one of the very toughest grapplers in the country.

He will prepare for Ordemann as he has trained for no other match he has ever wrestled, and in his training will try to secure the assistance of the cleverest wrestlers in this part of the country.

Ed Adamson writes that he may come to the Head of the Lakes and train for his match with young Miller. As this match will be wrestled at the middleweight division, even the staunchest supporters of the little St. Paul man are somewhat apprehensive over the outcome. Adamson has always held that at 155 or thereabouts, he can defeat any man in the world. He is perhaps, with the exception of Gotch and Farmer Burns, the master of scientific wrestling. Adamson never drinks, smokes or uses tobacco in any form, and therefore at an age when most athletes have retired, this grand little mat man is still one of the greatest, if not the very greatest wrestler, in the world at his weight.

The two Johnsons clash at Superior this evening. The winner of the match will probably meet Ole Sampson, the big Finn, who is believed in the Copper country to be fully as good a wrestler as Karl Lehto. In fact up there the countrymen of the two men are loudly clamoring for a meeting between the two men.

Sampson has been wrestling steadily the present season, and just the other evening took two straight falls from Martin Johnson. He has a match with Dr. Roller in sight for the Copper country.

Demotral, the Greek Demon, has challenged Yussif Mahmout, and has offered to wager real money on the outcome, but so far no answer has been heard from the man who believed he possessed the world's championship—for about twenty-four hours.

RUSSIAN LOSES HANDICAP MATCH

Mandino Secures Headlock Which Hack Is Unable to Break.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 12.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, lost his handicap match last night with Albert Mandino, the Italian wrestler. Hackenschmidt agreed to throw Mandino three times within one hour, one five minute intermission, counting against Hackenschmidt's time.

The Russian won the first fall in 31½ minutes with a toe hold and half-nelson, the second in 19½ minutes with a combination toe and bar hold. In the nine miutes left him for the third fall, Hackeschmidt failed.

During the last four minutes Mandino had the Russian secure in a head hold which he was unable to break.

WANT KAUFMAN AND JOHNSON

Frazee and Gleason Offer $50,000 Purse for Fight in London.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—H. H. Frazee, a local promoter, and Jack Gleason, who aided in arranging the Jeffries-Johnson fight, last night offered a purse of $50,000 for a twenty-round fight between Johnson and Al Kaufman, the San Francisco heavyweight to be fought in the new stadium in London, coronation week.

Kaufman has accepted the offer and the promoters expect to receive an answer from Johnson today. When a tentative offer was made to Johnson here a month ago for a fight with Kaufman, the negro champion declared he would fight Kaufman any time a suitable purse was offered.

CHIVINGTON TO AGAIN HEAD ASSOCIATION.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Club owners of the American Baseball association will meet here today to elect a president and nominate a committee to draft a schedule for the 1911 season. President Tom Chivington is the only candidate for the presidency and it is expected that he will be re-elected unanimously on the first ballot.

Some of the club owners will oppose the plan for booking double headers in the 168-game schedule and will ask that the season start April 12, with the Western clubs appearing on Eastern fields.

Ordemann Wins Match.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 12.—Henry Ordemann last night defeated Tom Winklehoefer, the Australian "Hercules," in straight falls. Winklehoefer was larger than the Minneapolis grappler, but the latter offset this in speed.

Ordemann won the first fall in eighteen minutes, with a crotch and arm hold. In the second bout the Minneapolitan went about his work more earnestly and had the ponderous Winklehoefer facing the ceiling in eleven minutes. A crotch and head-lock brought about the fall. Walter Miller, St. Paul, refereed and challenged Lex Clayton from the ringside. A large crowd watched the match.

"WHITE HOPE" IS AGAIN VICTOR

Carl Morris Knocks Out Spike Kennedy in Second Round.

Bartlesville, Okla., Jan. 12.—Carl Morris of Sapulpa, heralded as the "white man's hope," last night made short work of Spike Kennedy of Kansas City in a scheduled fifteen-round bout by knocking him out in the second round. Kennedy was floored four times.

Morris toyed with Kennedy throughout the short battle. Kennedy attempted to bore through Morris' defense and although he landed some stinging blows, Morris always retaliated.

In the first round Kennedy retreated from the force of Morris' onslaught and went down. He came back strong, but did little damage. They sparred and neither seemed greatly in distress when the gong rang.

In the second round Morris rushed his man, landing straight-arm jolts with left and right. Twice he knocked Kennedy to the floor with single blows. When Kennedy came up the second time, one more blow put him out. Morris easily leaped through the ropes.

CANTILLION FOR RITCHIE

"Horrible Muddle" In Minny League Politics Not Yet Cleared.

Election of a Duluth Man Would Solve the Problem.

(BY BRUCE.)

Again the horrible "muddle" in the politics of the Minny league.

The very latest is that Mike Cantillion is out for J. H. Ritchie, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal. In a letter to A. W. Kuehnow of this city Cantillion writes that in his awe inspiring opinion, the Journal sporting editor would be the best man for the place. This letter, signed by M. E. Cantillion, shows that Frank E. Force has not, as one might naturally suppose from some of the big league stuff that has been written about him, the support of all the magnates of the A. A.

As a matter of fact, it will also probably be found that Mike Kelley, the popular magnate of the St. Paul team, will not be found on the Force fence.

The coming out of Cantillion, boldly and unreservedly for Ritchie, only goes to show that we have arrived at the "muddle." Curses!

M. E. Cantillion writes that he has never spoken to Mr. Ritchie in regard to the league presidency, but knowing him believes his election would be a great boom for baseball and that Mr. Ritchie would make a good president. Mr. Cantillion also adds that he will do anything he can for the league—probably with the force behind.

The Cantillions are fighters from the word go. That's the way they got their money and also into Minneapolis. Joe and Mike have been fighters since the days of the old Western league. They are both strong for Ritchie, and for that reason, in a negative sense at least, may be said to be opposed to the election of the International sport arbiter, Frank E. Force.

It might be suggested that the best thing for the interests of the league, would be to elect a man outside of the war zone of the Twin City sport writers. Frank Force's eagerness for the position has caused the bow wows of war to emerge from the sweet slumber of complacency and look with lowering eyes on the proceedings.

The fans here are strong for some Head of the Lakes man to head the league, and since Duluth and Superior are to date the two most important cities in the circuit, it may be that their wishes should carry weight for age, as they say in the handicaps, and also for size and importance.

The dreadful, horrible, little "muddle" is on. Let's elect a Duluth man. It is about time, and we have it coming. Be good little children and fall in line.

Joe Lands Job.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Joe Choynski, veteran heavyweight, friend and trainer of James J. Jeffries, has been appointed physical director of the new $1,500,000 Pittsburg Athletic club, and will leave the last of the month or the first of next to take charge.

Choynski will have charge of the gymnasium classes and act as boxing instructor as well.

The new club will open Washington's birthday, and will be one of the finest organiations of its kind in the country.

Fisher to Lead Harvard.

Cambridge Mass., Jan. 12.—Robert T. Fisher of Newton Center, Mass., an all-American guard of 1910, was unanimously elected last night as captain of the Harvard football team for next year.

Yale Is Defeated.

New York, Jan. 12.—In a well contested game which went into an extra period, Columbia defeated Yale last night in the second game of the intercollegiate hockey championship series by the score of 5 to 4.

Ten Rounds to Draw.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 12.—Tommy Kilbane of this city and Danny Goodman of Chicago, boxed ten rounds to a draw here last night. Neither man was very aggressive and neither was badly damaged.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office forthe benefit of curlers only.

CHARLES McLENNAN, WILLIAM WHITE, JR., NED CONGDON AND DAVID DUNCAN,

Probably the Greatest Aggregation of Curlers in the Local Club.

And next in line is the Corporation rink.

They have been called the "Millionaire Kids," but they claim that they have outgrown that title.

The members of this rink come to the rink in separate taxis. Some of them bring their man and others a maid—on Saturday nights. They throw their own rocks but men in green livery usually do the sweeping.

After the game they gather at a popular parlor where Lipton's is served with a dainty lunch, talk over the game in a modest way and finally disperse for the night. There is real class to this bunch of season's best catches.

We don't know who skips this rink. Not one of the members will own up to that honor or otherwise. They all looked guilty when asked about it.

They have not been at the game very long and they are doing their best to learn. They are willing and they do the best they can. That is all that can be asked of any one.

Charlie McLennan is a pretty fair curler. We say this after watching his play carefully. He makes long shots just as easily as he does short ones. He can hit the middle of the rail just as easily as he can the other end of the rink. Once he put a stone fairly in the ring and the celebration that took place after the game is still being talked about. The taxi was dismissed that night. Charles was carried, and there was an extra cup of cocoa and extra wafers. Remember, Charlie?

The next picture, ladies and gentlemen, is that of William White, Jr. That is how he gets his mail, but he answers more readily to "Bill." His curling costumes are always in the best of taste, and—get the black spot on the upper lip. "Bill" is a great admirer of King Alphonso of Spain. Lack of language prevents a description of his curling. One skip describes it in language unfit for print and there you are. He said "Bill" might know how to run a department store, but he couldn't curl, and that's about the worst thing ever said about "Bill."

"Ned" Congdon curls when he can find time from running iron and copper mines, and seems to enjoy it. He is popular with the other members of the rink for it is through his ability to draw the button that this quartet once made a point. "Ned" once played football for Yale, and played it well. This helps some and he sweeps with eagerness.

David Duncan is the boy with an idea. He gets ideas right along and he is careless as to how often he gets them. He doesn't care for expenses; he has lots of them. His ideas do not always cost money but they are expensive when it comes to curling. He is sort of a bold youth and likes "running shots." He likes "results," whether good or bad, and always wants to "break 'em up."

Taken all together this is about the classiest crowd that curls at the local Scotch institution.

Curlers From Calumet Coming for the Big 'Spiel.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—The Copper country will be represented at the annual bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association in Duluth this month by at least one rink, possibly two. Four Calumet curlers have already made plans to attend the big "spiel," and two of Portage Lake's best curlers are also anxious to go and may organize a rink with two other Calumet curlers.

The decision to send at least one rink from the Copper country was arrived at during a meeting of curlers at the offices of David Armit of Laurium, Saturday evening.

The Calumet rink, if it goes to Duluth, will be made up of John Wierskip; James Miller, John Miller and David Armit.

Clarion Notes.

Don't neglect the Clarion. Read it every night, for you may be next.

Among the many features soon to appear are:

An "article" on "Ron" Smith, by a prominent member of the club.

"Curling in Minneapolis," by Harry Feedham.

"An Open Discussion With Curlers," by Tucker of Pardeeville, who will soon be here to open it.

"The Relation of Grammar to Curling," by "Dub" Tresise, the Beatrice Fairfax of the local club.

And six other big acts.

In our next issue, the McGregor-Alworth - Whyte - Raulo aggregation will be exposed by Charles Edward Bustle, in an article entitled "The Crime of the Curlers."

There Will Be at Least Eight Rinks From Superior.

Superior, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—From this city there will be at least eight rinks entered in the Northwestern bonspiel at Duluth next week. The rinks are at the present time being made up. The curling club of this place will put in a bid for the next annual bonspiel.

The Famous Murray Kid Rink Is After Some Jewelry.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—It was announced today that the famous Murray Kid rink of Minneapolis has decided to go to Duluth next week to participate in the Northwestern curling bonspiel. The Murray Kids were organized three years ago and although two members of the rink were just learning the game they entered in the Northwestern 'spiel that year and surprised everybody by reaching the semi-finals of the International event by defeating Ron McLeod of Duluth.

Last year the Kids showed marked improvement, but were unable to make the trip to Duluth. This year the junior rink started off with a rush, winning games right from the start. The rink has played fourteen games with the best rinks of the Twin Cities and has won twelve, having broken even in a series with Hastings and Labatt. The Hastings rink will not be able to make the trip to Duluth and the hopes of the Minneapolis club will rest with the Murray and McLeod rinks.

Mr. Blackwood Will Not Be With Us This Year.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—Mr. Blackwood, who was manager of the Duluth 'spiel last year, finds himself unable to attend the event this year.

The above dispatch will cause genuine regret among the Duluth curlers, for they would like to have Mr. Blackwood. He is a good manager and keeps the ices busy all the time. A local man will probably be selected to manage the 'spiel.

Practice Game.

In a practice game played at the rink last night, N. McDonald lost to C. West by a score of 7 to 10.

Free Press Gang Will Be on Hand.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—W. F. Payne, news editor of the Manitoba Free Press, will try to have his newspaper rink on hand for the annual Northwestern bonspiel, which will take place in Duluth next week. He wants especially one game with The Herald rink. The Herald rink is going to be awfully busy along about that time. It is understood that the Free Press rink is composed of men who can curl.

Chet Caldwell Will Be on Hand.

Rio, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—"Chet" Caldwell is training the village blacksmith, the barber and the postmaster in the art of curling and he hopes to make the trip to the annual Northwestern bonspiel with them.

A Rink Is Coming From Arlington.

Arlington, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—"Gabe" McMillan and G. A. Dunlap of this place are organizing a rink to go to Duluth next week.

Columbus, Wis., Will Be Represented.

Columbus, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—Guy B. Dering, the most enthusiastic curler of this place, will probably be on hand with a rink at Duluth when the bonspiel opens next week.

Bonspiel Creates Excitement at Portage.

Portage, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—This place is all excited over the Northwestern bonspiel to be held at Duluth next week. Everybody wants to go and it has not been definitely decided as yet who will go. At least one rink will go from this place, however. Among those who are thinking hardest about going are: J. C. Liesch, Tony Klenert, Pat O'Leary, W. O. Kelm, J. H. Wells, Pete McDermott, H. Rockwood, Joe Raup, Frank Rhyme and "Bill" McKenzie.

Cambria Will Send a Rink.

Cambria, Wis., Jan. 12.—(Special to the Clarion.)—One rink from this place will try to land some jewelry at the Northwestern bonspiel. D. R. Sanderson and Thomas Cottam, Jr., are trying to line up a rink to make the trip.

DULUTH CURLERS TAKE SECOND SERIES OF GAMES.

By a total score of 50 to 35 the rinks representing the Duluth curling club trimmed the Superior rinks at their club last night. The Superior men won the first series of games in Duluth, and the win by the Zenith City rinks last night made it a "horse each."

After the games on Monday night the Superior men thought they were going to romp away with the Manley-McLennan trophy. They didn't even think any more games necessary, but the Duluth curlers had one up their sleeves and slipped it over on the brothers from Superior in the most unexpected manner.

The Duluth men got to talking the matter over after the games on Monday night, and they agreed that it would be too bad to allow Superior to leave them at the post. Last night they got busy, and Superior had no chance. The wives and mothers who gathered at the rink to see the Superior men finally get a firm hold on the trophy were disappointed.

But one Superior rink won. Gates beat Dunlop, 13 to 4. This was not nearly enough to overcome Duluth's lead.

The final games will be played at the Duluth rink Friday night.

The four games each night count as one game. Duluth's lead does not help them any in the games to be played Friday evening.

Last night's scores:

Duluth.		Superior.
R. J. McLeod	17	A. K. Smith	8
Ron Smith	16	Maxfield	8
R. D. Bradley	13	H. H. Grace	6
Dunlop	4	Gates	13
Total	50	Total	35

Easy for Farmer.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 12.—Kid Farmer of Peoria, Ill., fairly smothered Young Kenney of Boston before the National A. C. last night. The fight was stopped by Referee Williams after the third round when Kenney was staggering about the ring.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

Should Never Be Removed With Poisonous, Pasty Compounds Because They Are Dangerous and Increase the Growth.

The preparations above referred to are invariably in the form of creamy pastes. These are easily recognized by their pale grayish-greenish color. They are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they are dry. These contain Sulphide of Barium, an insoluble chemical, which cannot be dissolved, therefore cannot be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these pasty compounds on the skin until they dry and cake and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear stronger and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. De Miracle, known all the World over as the only real superfluous hair remover, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed and after you have used it you will note there is nothing left on the skin. It leaves the skin free from irritation, and what is more to the point, it is absolutely non-poisonous, therefore it will not produce eczema or blood poisoning. Remember, no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no poisonous, pasty compound or so-called "liquid cure" ever did or ever will destroy a single hair root, and we can prove it.

The extravagant claims recently made by unscrupulous manufacturers of hair removers in sensational advertisements unquestionably justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of this class of depilatories. How many people have been enticed into using these dangerous preparations with consequent injury to themselves cannot be estimated, but only guessed at, therefore beware of fake free advertisers and others, who by wording of their advertisements, try to give the impression that newspapers and other reputable publications indorse their worthless preparations. Don't be deceived by them. De Miracle is the only preparation which is so indorsed.

De Miracle is sold at all good stores including I. Freimuth.

No honest dealer will offer you a substitute on which he makes more profit.

We will send you a 52-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable treatment, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals, and the principal magazines and newspapers. You should read this booklet before you try anything. Write to the De Miracle Chemical Co., Dept. D17, 1905 Park Ave., New York, simply saying you want this booklet, and it will be mailed, sealed, at once.

Note—All readers of this paper who are afflicted with superfluous hair growths are strongly advised to write for information concerning this wonderful method, which is endorsed the World over by eminent authorities, who have made a lifelong study of this subject.

Stops a Cough in Five Minutes by the Clock.

Does This Harmless Home-Made Cough Syrup.

MAKE A PINT CHEAP.

Here is told how to make a home made pint of cough syrup cheaply, which has been known to stop a cough in five minutes by the clock. It relieves quickly and certainly brings about a cure, by its tonic laxative action and therefore is superior to ordinary preparations, which only relieve, and then aggravate by their constipating effects.

One dose is not laxative, but 8 to 10 doses daily create a mild laxative action and it is said that you can feel the medicine working on the lungs, throat and bronchial tubes, giving a grand feeling of freshness and strength to the entire system.

Any one can make a full pint very cheaply. Obtain of your druggist or have him order from the wholesale house, a 2½ ounce package of essence mentho-laxene. Empty it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with a home-made syrup composed of one pint of granulated sugar and a half pint of boiling water. When the syrup is cool add it to the mentho-laxene.

The dose is a teaspoonful 8 to 10 times daily or as required. Give children less according to age. It is perfectly harmless.

This is a pleasant tasting and quick acting remedy, liked by all who have tried it.

POWER OF REMOVAL

Should Be Vested in Governor, Says Attorney General Miller.

North Dakota Legislature Is Asked to Provide Contingent Fund.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the power of removal be placed in the executive officer of the state, and that an appropriation be made by the legislative assembly for the purpose of providing a fund to be used by the attorney general in securing evidence and otherwise assisting in the prosecution or defense of actions in which the state is interested, are the principal recommendations contained in the attorney general's report.

Discussing these features Attorney General Miller includes the following in his report:

"My experience during the biennial period has convinced me that the executive power of the state should be vested in the governor in fact as well as in name. While a large majority of the officers of the state and its political subdivisions perform their official duties to the best of their ability, there are officers who are willfully negligent in the performance of their duties, and who fail to appreciate and to discharge their obligations to the public. Failure in this regard by a public officer always makes it difficult for those who desire to perform their duties to succeed, and in many instances such failure by an official causes respect for law and order to be so far broken down that the removal of the faithless official becomes highly desirable, if not imperative. The present machinery provided by our laws for the removal of such officials is so cumbersome that it can be successfully invoked only with the utmost difficulty.

Power to Remove Necessary.

"I believe that so long as the governor is required to take care that the laws of our state are faithfully executed, he should be clothed with the power to remove officials who are faithless to their trust. Such a law has been enacted in a number of other states and from my observation of its operation in Minnesota, Wisconsin, New York, South Dakota and Iowa, I am satisfied that a law of this character would be the most efficient and the most economical instrument for the better enforcement of our laws that could be provided by the legislature.

"It is the duty of the attorney general to enforce our anti-trust laws and other laws placing limitations upon the powers of corporations. During my administration there has been no litigation of this character, except what is generally known as the coal rate cases, which attracted much attention in the state, and which were, at least temporarily, disposed by the decision of the supreme court of the United States in March, 1910, sustaining the decision of the supreme court of North Dakota holding our law valid.

To Test Coal Rate Law.

"I am advised, however, that it is the intention of the railroad companies to again open the question of the validity of our maximum coal rate law, and in such event the state will undoubtedly be prepared to sustain their claims with the testimony of other experts. Cases of this nature always require the services of expert accountants and experts in various systems of bookkeeping as well as experts on the particular questions of facts involved, and unless this office has at its command the necessary means with which to obtain the service of such experts, it is very apparent that the state is seriously handicapped. I desire, therefore, to call your attention to the fact that there is no provision in this state, by appropriation or otherwise, providing means for the use of this office in obtaining the necessary evidence with which to prosecute or defend actions in which the state is interested. I, therefore, recommend that the legislature appropriate for the use of this office such sum as in its judgment will be sufficient to supply this office with the necessary means to obtain expert information and evidence for the prosecution and defense of such actions as the state may be interested."

SIXTEEN-HOUR LAW BLAMED FOR DELAY

Failure of Train to Get Through Attributed to Law's Operation.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time since it came into effect the law forbidding railroads to work trainmen more than sixteen hours continuously had a serious effect on passengers and mail traveling on the Brandon line Tuesday, a delay of twenty-four hours being the result of its enforcement. The train was six hours late getting into Churches Ferry and was there turned around and sent back to Brandon. If it had come on to this city the crew would have been unable to reach its destination within the sixteen hour limit and the train was annulled. Passengers bound for points on the Aneta line were delayed for twenty-four hours and this caused serious inconvenience to men who were en route to Cando where district court opened yesterday.

REPORTS SHOWING GOOD CONDITIONS

Grand Forks Banks and Other Corporations Holding Annual Meetings.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meetings of banks and other corporations being held this week show such concerns to be in good shape despite the tendency to talk about hard times.

An important change in the Union National bank was the election of Stephen Collins as president to succeed D. H. Beecher, who has been at the head of the institution for years. A. I. Hunter was re-elected cashier and the building of much larger and thoroughly up-to-date bank building was favorably discussed but no action was taken.

Consul H. Bendeke was elected president of the First National bank and S. S. Titus will add another year to his service as cashier. The old board of directors was re-elected.

The North Dakota Mutual Life Insurance company elected C. H. Opsahl, Grand Forks, president; J. E. Paulson, Hillsboro, vice president; A. J. Gronna, Lakota, treasurer; and D. W. McKenzie, Grand Forks, secretary.

The Red River Valley Brick company elected A. I. Hunter president; J. R. Poupore, vice president; J. A. Dinnie, treasurer; Louis Campbell, secretary and general manager.

BOY KILLS BROTHER.

Fatal Play for Two Youths With Gun Near Belgrade.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 12.—While Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer, living near Belgrade were absent from their home a few days ago they received a telephone message to hurry home and bring a doctor to attend to their son, Earl, aged 8, who had been shot. During the absence of the parents their eldest son, who is 12 years old, accidentally shot his younger brother, Earl. The two lads were out doors playing with a shot gun, which had been given them for Christmas. The frantic parents drove home with all haste with a doctor, but the little lad had been killed instantly.

GRAND FORKS PLANS A MID-WINTER FAIR.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks is to have its first mid-winter fair on Feb. 7, 8, 9 and 10, and M. C. Bacheller, secretary of the fair association, has been appointed superintendent. The commercial club will make this an annual event and in setting the date for the first one at the same time as the auto show, the corn and clover convention and the poultry show, it hopes to attract hundreds of visitors to the city.

Since John Quit Drinking

By John's Wife

I'm the happiest little woman,
In all this little town;
And my merry laugh and singing,
Takes the place of sigh and frown,
For JOHN HAS QUIT HIS DRINKING
And is like himself once more,
And the world is just a paradise
With such happiness in store!

One day I read some verses—
"Mary's Miracle," the name,
And I said, that's John exactly.
And I'll send and get the same,
So I sent for GOLDEN REMEDY,
(As sly as sly could be)
And I put it in John's supper
And I put it in his tea.

And it didn't taste a little bit;
Had no odor, so, you see—
It was smoothest kind of salling
For little Doctor Me.
And I watched and prayed and waited,
(And cried some, too, I guess),
And I didn't have the greatest faith,
I'm ashamed now to confess.

And John never thought a minute,
He was being cured of drink,
And soon he's as well as any one,
It makes me cry to think!
Just makes me cry for gladness,
I'm so proud to be his wife—
Since he is cured of drinking,
And leads a nice, new life.

"Since John he quit a-drinking!"
I can't say it times enough!
And hates and loathes a liquor
As he would a poison stuff.
And when I says my prayers at night
As thankful as can be—
I pray for John the most of all—
Then GOLDEN REMEDY.

MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Merritt:

Resolved

PROFITS ARE ATTRACTIVE

Professionals Sell Wheat and Values Decline---Leaders Stand Pat.

Snow and Cold Wave Predicted for Southwest---Flaxseed Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 12.—Wheat eased off today. Speculators took advantage of the predicted snows for Kansas and Nebraska to take profits. Reports from the winter wheat states were less bullish. A cold wave, however, is due there tonight. It may carry snow. Foreign advices were mixed. Bullish news came from Russia while offerings from new exporting countries were heavier. May wheat lost ¾c and July declined ⅝c. Cash was 1c under May. Oats lost ⅛c, rye was unchanged, barley went to 76@86c. in place of 76@86c. Durum lost ⅛c.

Flaxseed was strong. Crushers bought lightly in May. At Winnipeg buying was more pronounced. Trading was narrow. May gained 1¼c. Winnipeg May closed at $2.40. Minneapolis cash was $2.54 or 4c under Duluth May. Our cash position was 8c under May and 1c above the Minneapolis spot article.

The professional element sold a little wheat today and took profits. The big bulls stood by their guns and watched values slide. They probably were not anxious to witness an immediate continuation of the advance. On any downturn the market has been invariably bought. In a bull campaign recessions are natural and healthy. If such backward movements did not take place the situation would be regarded with more than usual caution because the absence of occasional soft spots would indicate that the bulls had let the movement get away from them. A sharp advance generally brings a sharp recession. Bull campaigns have invariably forged ahead, steadily when seen from a distance several months later, but with many breaks and wavering points when viewed contemporaneously.

The bulls felt that a break might help the technical position of the market and they watched values decline from the opening. Then they tested the firm undertone by giving the market occasional support. The result was a nervous market in which both sides were disposed to breathe, although the professional crowd talked bearishly on account of predictions of snow for Kansas and Nebraska. A cold wave is due to hit those states tonight.

The bull campaign has now gone forward to an extent where it is impossible for the bulls to turn back. Climatic vagaries have helped the bulls and the situation seems to be framing up for one of the biggest winter wheat crop scares on record. That some people have a fair idea of what is impending does not mitigate circumstances. In fact, it helps the bull campaign, as these people are picking up wheat while the picking is good. The people back of wheat have wealth, talent and ability. Statistics and news both at home and abroad are not so bearish. The heavy supplies of wheat in this country may yet be a menace, but if the winter wheat crops in this and several other countries are partial failures the surplus can be easily carried by the bulls until such time as they can relieve themselves of their load. This is a bull theory and it seems to be exerting considerable influence.

Cables were higher. Australian offers are heavier. Indian shipments are larger and the Argentine market today declined. Price Current was moderately bearish. It said:

"Condition of winter wheat is not materially changed. Light snow covers part of the area and where the ground is bare the young plant is looking fairly good. Farmers are holding supplies until the condition of the new crop becomes more definite. Corn is not drying rapidly and the movement is lighter than for several weeks. Livestock is wintering well and is generally healthy."

The Northwestern Miller said the short crop in North Dakota is responsible for an unusually large number of country elevators being closed in that state. One company has twenty-five less in operation this year than last and other companies are similarly situated. The remaining houses have less grain to handle than former years.

Somers, Jones & Co. of Chicago say: Late high barley prices (97-98c per bu of 48 lb) have resulted in the sending of petitions to Washington asking for a six months' suspension of the duty on barley. It is hard to see where the trade would be benefited. On the other hand, it strikes us that it could become a dangerous precedent and be decidedly against agricultural interests of the great barley-growing states of the country, as it could easily pave the way for the entire removal of the duty later on. This would benefit Canadian and other foreign barley growers, as Russia, like Canada, raises large quantities of barley. Western grain shippers should write their congressmen, protesting strongly against any change in the present tariff on barley. There is probably barley enough at a price to supply all requirements, and high prices now will no doubt result in largely increased barley acreage next spring, just what is badly needed. It is unlikely that North Dakota and Minnesota will again show so severe a crop loss as on the last crop, and the situation will probably right itself in one season without inviting foreign competition, such as could result in a flood of foreign barley to the benefit of the foreign grower and in direct loss to the American farmer.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Our Argentine agent estimates wheat shipments this week 480,000 bu, last week 240,000 bu, last year 296,000 bu; corn this week 2,000,000 bu, last week 2,427,000 bu, last year 512,00 bu. Our agent cables that rain has fallen in the province of Cordoba in the southern part, and also slight showers in the province of Buenos Ayres. The corn crop shows a bad outlook. India shipments for the week 1,024,000 bu, last week 766,000 bu, last year 296,000 bu. Our agent at Calcutta cables that there has been fairly heavy rains and this is causing some anxiety.

The wheat market at the opening showed a firm undertone with values ⅝d higher. Offerings were lighter and shorts covered on the persistent strength in America and firmness of spot. Following the opening the market became dull but firmly held and prices further advanced ⅝d. There was some demand from the continent and some buying from this source with Platte offers lighter and rather more firmly held. The advance was checked by the very small demand for forward shipment, larger Australian offers and heavier Indian shipments for the week and pressure in Buenos Ayres at the close yesterday. At mid-day the market was dull but firm and ½d higher than yesterday.

The corn market was dull but steady, and after opening unchanged the Platte grade advanced ⅛d. Support was due to lighter offers. Argentine rains were only partial, shipments for the week to be light for the week and Platte offers are firm, these offset freer American offers.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Unexpectedly Heavy Shipments From India Depress Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 12. — Unexpectedly heavy shipments from India weighed on the wheat market today. In addition, although predicted snow or rain Southwest had failed to appear, temperatures there were not unseasonably cold, and conditions were cloudy. The fact was not overlooked either that the world's stock of wheat had reached the largest total on record at this season. Larger Australian offers, and selling Liverpool reported small demand, pressure at Buenos Ayres. Opening prices here were ⅛c lower to ¼@⅜c higher. May started at 1.02⅝@1.02⅝, or a shade down to ⅛@⅜c up, and declined to $1.02@1.02⅛.

Assertions that many fields in Russia were without snow covering led to rallies which were aided by purchases here for Northwestern spreaders. The close, though, was weak with May at $1.01⅝@1.01¾, a net loss of ⅝c.

Belief that receipts would begin to swell in the next few days weakened corn. May opened 1⅛@1¼c lower to 1¼@1⅛c higher at 50⅜@50⅝c and steadied at 50½c.

Rumors of a rise at Liverpool caused a temporary advance. The close, however, was easy with May at 50⅛@50⅜, a net loss of ¼c.

The local crowd in the oats pit turned sellers on account of the sag in corn. May started unchanged to a sixteenth up at 35⅛@35¼c to 35⅜c and receded to 35@35⅛c.

A fair demand from commission houses strengthened provisions. First sales were 7½c higher to 10c lower, with May options at $19.20@19.27½c for pork, $10.25 for lard, and $10.12½@10.15 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Lack of Support and Profit-Taking Causes Weakness in Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 12.—The wheat market today had a reaction and the near month declined 1c. Lack of support and moderate profit-taking caused the weakness. Sentiment continued bullish and further advances are anticipated by the local trade. Actual conditions showed little change. May closed ⅞c lower than yesterday and July ⅝@⅞c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 330,000 bu for five days. Minneapolis today received 191 cars of wheat against 306 a year ago; Duluth, 26 against 74 and Winnipeg 6 against 177. May wheat opened $1.09¼; high, $1.09⅜; low, $1.08⅝; closed, $1.08⅜@1.08½. July opened $1.09⅝@1.09¾; high, $1.09⅞; low, $1.09@1.09⅛; closed $1.09@1.09⅛.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Tone Grows Appreciably Firmer as Session Draws to Close.

Raid on Pennsylvania One of Features of the Trading.

New York, Jan. 12.—The feature of the opening of the stock market today was an advance of 7 points in Long Island railroad, which was unexplained. General Electric opened ¼ up and Reading and Brooklyn Rapid Transit each ½. The general undertone was strong.

Operations for the long account were productive of growing confidence and were reflected in substantial advances in all of the recognized speculative favorites. Stocks in which it is presumed the short interest is of some proportions moved up easily and United States Steel jumped to 74½ on the rumored intention to resume operations at the Gary steel plant. Some of the minor stocks were bid up materially. Long Island made an abrupt fall of 4¼ on a few transactions. Advances in the important stocks amounted to 2 points in Missouri, 1⅝ in Reading, 1¼ in Northern Pacific and American Cotton Oil and 1 in Union Pacific, New York Central and Interborough Metropolitan preferred.

Shortly after midday the raid on Pennsylvania culminated and the decline in the general list also stopped. There was scarcely any rally in Pennsylvania and the heaviness of this stock and New York Central discouraged further ventures on the long side in other quarters. The list averaged a good fraction above yesterday's closing figures. Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred broke 2½.

The market closed firm. The tone grew appreciably firmer as the session drew to a close and most of the favorite stocks ruled within a small fraction of their earlier high prices. Business continued sluggish and weak, but New York Central mounted to 110 despite rumors of an impending large bond issue.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 12.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 1 point, near months being influenced by better cables than due, and large English spot sales, while later positions responded to overnight selling orders and at first the whole market was nervous and unsettled. There was less short selling than yesterday, however, and during the early trading prices worked up to a net gain of from 6 to 9 points on the active months as a result of covering, a demand for March from trade interests, the appearance of supporting orders in the hands of leading bull brokers, reports that domestic mills were calling cotton, and talk of relatively steadier interior spot markets.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 14.90; middling gulf, 15.15; sales, 600 bales. Futures closed firm; closing bids: January, 14.64; February, 14.73; March, 14.87; April, 14.96; May, 15.04; June and July, 15.03; August, 14.73; September, 13.91; October, 13.42; December, 13.27.

DECEIVED BY MAN, WOMAN SHOOTS HIM

Turns Gun on Herself and Will Probably Die From Wound.

Tragedy Occurs in a Room in Hotel in Indianapolis.

Woman Leaves Letter to Mother Telling Her of Murderous Plans.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13. — After writing a letter to her mother in which she said "Carl had deceived her and she purposed killing him and committing suicide," Mrs. Alice Poehler of Guthrie, Ind., shot and seriously wounded Carl Storey, a sophomore in the mechanical engineering department of the University of Illinois, and herself, in a room at a hotel late yesterday. Physicians say they have an even chance of recovery. Each has a wound near the heart.

Mrs. Poehler, who was separated from her husband, had lately returned from a visit to Detroit. Storey joined her at the hotel yesterday. They were registered as "Carl Storey and wife, Lexington, Ky."

The clerk at the hotel, hearing two shots, rushed to the room occupied by Storey and the girl. Before he had reached the door, it was thrown open from the inside and Storey staggered into the corridor and tumbled at the clerk's feet.

Immediately after him was the girl, who fell at the side of Storey. A revolver was found on the floor of their room.

This morning it was said that Storey will probably recover, but the woman is still in a dangerous condition, according to a statement by physicians.

TRAFFIC BY RAIL IS DEMORALIZED

Strike in Portugal Has Assumed Serious Proportions.

Lisbon, Jan. 13.—Railroad communication throughout the republic is practically paralyzed as a result of the strike of employes, who went out Wednesday.

Portugal is cut off by land from the rest of Europe. Today the strikers refused to permit the Southern express to leave the capital. Mail from abroad is reaching here by steamer.

The strikers have rejected an offer of a 25 per cent increase in their wages.

Paris, Jan. 13.—A news agency dispatch from Madrid says that a traveler arriving there from Badajaz, five miles from the Portuguese frontier declares that the soldiers in the fortress at Elvas, Portugal, have mutinied, demanding increased pay. The Elvas workingmen have struck in sympathy.

TO SETTLE THE ISSUE

Proposal to Submit County Option at Next General Election.

Senator Fosseen Would End Abuses of Cold Storage System.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Philip S. Converse of Detroit is sounding the membership of the house on a plan to settle the county option issue by putting it up to the people at the next general election.

If he finds sentiment enough in its favor he probably will introduce in the house a bill carrying it into effect.

His idea is that county option is a matter that the people ought to decide, and that it should not be allowed to enter into legislative deliberations of every session of the Minnesota lawmakers.

The plan is not strictly new, but this is the first time it has been sprung at the present session.

If it is carried out, a bill will be introduced submitting to the people at the next election the issue of county

Courtroom Is Once More Crowded With a Curious Throng.

No Foundation for Report of Appointment of Lunacy Commission.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 13.—The Schenk case today was resumed with unabated interest. The counsel for the defense as well as the prosecution were much chagrined and not a little annoyed this morning over false reports that have been sent out concerning the conduct of the trial. There were many rumors last night that the trial was to be stopped and a commission in lunacy appointed to take up the case of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, the accused in the case.

Counsel for both sides were emphatic this morning in denying that any such move had been contemplated or even inspired.

It was stated by the attorneys for the defense in this connection, that they expect to clear the atmosphere considerably with the statement of their client, for Mrs. Schenk will be put on the stand, according to At-

FOR STRICTER SUPERVISION

Roseau Member Prepares Bill Regarding State Drainage Ditches.

Provides for Assistant Engineer to Superintend Actual Work.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative G. H. Mattson of Roseau is preparing a bill for introduction next week providing for stricter supervision of construction work on state drainage ditches. It will provide an assistant for the state drainage engineer, whose duty it shall be to supervise drainage contracts while the work is in progress. At present Drainage Engineer Ralph is in full charge of all work, but there is so much of it that it is impossible for him to superintend actual work, and often contracts are not inspected until they are completed.

"We have no criticism to make of the work of the drainage commission," said Mr. Mattson this morning, "for we are well satisfied with it so far as it goes. However, very large drainage operations are being carried on in Northwestern Minnesota and we feel that there should be closer inspection of the work while it is in progress. If anything goes wrong with the work now and complaint is made, it takes so long to set the machinery of investigation in motion that it is likely to be too late when it is done."

Mr. Mattson's bill will be ready for introduction by Tuesday. It will put the assistant engineer under heavy bonds, to insure adequate and careful inspection of drainage work.

FIVE BODIES ARE FOUND IN DEBRIS

Believed to Complete Last of Fatalities in Fire in Store.

Connellsville, Pa., Jan. 13.—When firemen early today ceased searching the ruins of the McCrory store destroyed by an explosion and fire here yesterday they decided that the five bodies they had discovered were all the debris contained. Two bodies were identified by signet rings on their fleshless fingers and one by the shoes she wore. Another is supposed to be the body of Pearl Thomas of West Overton. She was in the store with her aunt when the explosion occurred and has not been seen since.

The fifth victim is believed to be that of an Italian customer as a pocketbook containing a number of foreign coins was found imbedded in the blackened flesh.

Mrs. Edward Miller is in the hospital with her legs broken and many severe burns.

FOUR PASSENGERS ON PULLMAN MEET AWFUL DEATH IN COLLISION

Bodies So Badly Mutilated That Identification Is Difficult.

Eighteen Others Seriously Injured, Some of Them Fatally.

Engineer With Forty Years' Perfect Record Held Responsible.

Batavia, N. Y., Jan. 13.—In a collision between train No. 49, the Boston and Buffalo special, and train No. 23 on the New York Central railroad at Batavia today, four persons were killed and eighteen seriously injured, some of them perhaps fatally. The accident occurred at 5:30 o'clock, when train 49, due at the station at 5:35 o'clock and ahead of time, was standing in the station waiting for its time of departure. Train No. 23, the Western express, due at 5:20 o'clock, a little late, crashed into the waiting train from the rear.

The engine of train No. 23 telescoped the rear Pullman of the waiting train and smashed into a day coach which was next in the train.

Wrecking crews from Rochester and Buffalo are at present clearing the track, while passenger trains are going through on the freight tracks. The identity of the four persons killed has not yet been learned.

Badly Mutilated.

With one exception, the four bodies of passengers in the wreckage of the crushed sleeper are so mutilated as to make identification difficult. Tatters of light garments were the only indications of clothing found.

Beneath one of the unidentified bodies was found a silver locket and a Ma-

OBJECT TO MANN BILL

Minnesota Congressmen Are Deluged With Telegrams of Protest.

Duluth Men Urge Improvement in Northwest Weather Reports.

Washington, Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller and the other members from Minnesota have received a deluge of telegrams protesting against the Mann public health bill. These protests, in the main, seem to emanate from those who think that its enactment would preclude their selection of a practitioner to attend them or members of their families if ill. In fact, it would appear that many of the protests come from those of the Christian Science faith. However, at a meeting of the committee of interstate and foreign commerce, to which committee this bill has been referred, it was today decided to give such protestants as desire to appear a complete and full hearing next Wednesday.

Want Better Weather Reports.

W. J. McCabe and A. W. Frick of Duluth are in Washington to appear before the agricultural committee to urge an increased appropriation for the dissemination of weather bureau reports throughout the Northwest. The reports as now being sent out are not quite satisfactory, and it is believed an improvement in this service should be made.

Ask Report of Special Agents.

Senator Gallinger today presented in the senate and had passed a resolution calling on the secretary of the interior to submit the reports of special agents who made an investigation of sales of liquor to the Indians in Minnesota.

ROBBERS BATTLE WITH PURSUERS

Have Two Pistol Fights After Attempting to Rob Postoffice.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Three robbers, who attempted to break into the postoffice at Utica today engaged their pursuers in two pistol battles. One of the thieves dropped to the ground with a cry of pain. The robbers seized a mail wagon and two horses and placing the wounded man in the wagon, escaped.

The police here arrested Felix Svatenko, a Hungarian. He is charged with being one of the Utica gang.

HOME BURNS; FAMILY LEFT DESTITUTE

Settler From Point Near Angora Comes to Duluth With Pitiful Tale.

Wife and Four Children Are Living in Abandoned Lumber Camp.

Papers, Money and Other Contents of House Consumed By Flames.

With his home burned to the ground and his wife and four children living in an old lumber camp in the woods, Swan Brown, a settler near Angora, twenty-one miles north of Virginia, came to Duluth yesterday to get some assistance.

Brown was supplied with a letter from Otto Poirier of Virginia, stating that he has known Brown for the last five years, and that he is a reputable citizen. The letter was also signed by Mayor A. Hawkinson of Virginia.

It apears that the Brown homestead caught fire from a defective chimney while he was working in the woods some distance from his cabin. Without facilities at hand for fighting the blaze, the building burned to the ground, and when Brown reached the scene he found his wife and babies huddling around a mass of smouldering ashes.

Not only did he lose his home, but all his papers and money were destroyed at the same time. Among these was a patent to his land, the southwest quarter of section 6, 16-17, which he received from Washington just about Christmas time, after living on the land for the last seven years. He had not registered it, and will be put to additional expense and trouble to get another. He had $150 in cash, which was swallowed by the flames.

Woman Has Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Brown had a narrow escape, as did one of the children. In a desperate

HAD OVERDRAWN OVER $140,000

Alaska Bank Partially Replacing Money When It Was Seized.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 13.—That the Washington-Alaska Bank of Fairbanks, which suspended last week had an ovedraft of $141,000 with a Seattle bank was brought out in the United States district court, as a result of the seizure at Cordova, Alaska, Wednesday of $101,000 in gold and currency shipped by the defunct Alaska bank to the local institution. The money seized had been shipped to Seattle to partially cover the overdraft.

The failure of the Washington-Alaska bank is attributed indirectly to the large demands put upon it as a result of the stampede to the Iditarod, Kuskowim and other camps in the North, following its consolidation with another bank. The Washington-Alaska bank had deposits in excess of $2,500,000.

The fresh gold discoveries caused hundreds to leave Fairbanks. Many of the stampeders withdrew their deposits. When the bank closed its doors it had deposits of a little more than $1,000,000.

COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED

North Dakota Senate Adds Four to Apportionment Committee.

House Will Not Print Bills Until Favorably Reported.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rules of the senate caused trouble for the temporary rules committee of that body and, following a spirited session held last night, it was announced that no agreement had been reached on the question of increasing the membership of a number of the more important committees, these including the judiciary, appropriations, apportionment, educational and one or two others. During last night's session one new rule was adopted, under which a bill may be called from a committee forthwith by a majority vote of the senate. No strenuous objection has been raised in the senate to the plan of printing all bills introduced.

An agreement was reached today and a final revision of the committees was made, and this afternoon they were announced by President Burdick. The biggest change decided on was in the apportionment committee, where four members were added.

MORE BOOKS CIRCULATED

Library Averaged Two for Every Duluth Resident Last Year.

29 Per Cent of Books Given Out Were Non-Fiction.

Business has grown by bounds not only at the Duluth public library, but the branch libraries, during the year just passed.

The report just completed by Miss Frances Earhart shows that the circulation is greater by several thousand than that of last year and that several new departments of work have been opened. Each department is in a most flourishing condition.

In the library there is a total of 55,287 volumes. This is a gain of 3,160 over the year before. The actual gain is 3,096, but it was cut down considerably by books that had been withdrawn. This includes old and worn out books that had to be replaced.

The total number of books circulated during the year was 177,074, or more than two for every man, woman and child in Duluth. Of these 113,667 were adult books and 63,407 children's. The percentage of non-fiction is 29.

The library has been open every day in the year for the circulation of books except two, July 4 and Christmas. On Sundays books have been circulated from 2 until 6 p. m. each afternoon. The largest number of books sent out in a single day was 915.

The library has lost a great number of books during the year through scarlet fever cases. When books are returned from a house in which there has been scarlet fever, they are promptly burned. During the year there have been a great many cases of this kind.

The appropriation for last year was 14,500. It has been raised $500, so that during the coming year it will be exactly $15,000.

New Branches.

Since Feb. 1 the West end branch has circulated 6,564 books. This branch is open but three afternoons and three evenings each week. This far the record is considered unusually good.

During the year the main library has established branches at the Salter and Fairmont schools. Both libraries are used a great deal. One library has been established at the headquarters of the Lake Carriers' association on lower Fifth avenue. These books are appreciated by the sailors. A factory library has been started at the mill of the Scott-Graff Lumber company, and the books are much used. At four fire halls small libraries have been established. The books at these libraries are changed every few weeks. On four freight boats small libraries have been established.

The circulation of the West Duluth library for the year past was 36,134 books. This is a big gain over the year before. The circulation of this branch in 1905 was 7,564. In 1909 it was 30,757. The gain over 1909 is 5,377. During the year this branch was moved into more desirable quarters and the circulation is on the increase each day.

The report of the library is one of the best ever made.

COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED

A. Nestos of Ward county introduced the first tax commission bill of the session.

Under the terms of the bill a tax commission of three members is established, the board to be appointed by the governor, each member having a term of six years. The duties of the commission are to confer with the governor on subjects of taxation; to transmit to the legislative assembly thirty days after it convenes a statement showing all taxable property in the state; to assess at their actual value all light, heat and power companies in the state; to consult and confer with the state board of equalization and to aid them in the discharge of their duty; to visit all counties in the state biennially, half of them each year, for the purpose of investigating the work of local assessors, county boards of equalization, and other tax officials; to review assessments made by different assessors and as equalized by county boards, and order reassessment where the assesment made seems grossly unjust; to require local assessors to place upon the assesment rolls property which may have escaped during the previous six years; to inquire into the method of assesment of property and collection of taxes in other states. The board is given power of summoning witnesses.

The house rules committee's recommendation that bills introduced be not printed until after being reported favorably by a committee provoked the first fight on the floor yesterday afternoon. Representative Streeter lead the fight against the rule and declared that talk of economy came with bad grace from the house after having taken a long adjournment which he said was unnecessary and extravagant. The report was finally adopted.

Electric Road to Asylum.

One of the improvements asked for by the trustees of the state hospital for the insane at Jamestown in their biennial report to the governor is the construction of an electric railway line from the city of Jamestown to the asylum. The estimated cost of such a line is $40,000 and it is claimed that the outlay will be justified by reduction of expenses of transportation of both supplies and patients between the city and the hospital. The electric railroad, however, is but one of the many improvements asked by the board.

At the last session of the assembly an appropriation of $25,000 was made for the erection of a tubercular ward. It was found possible to erect only a building to care for a part of the female inmates and the present report asks for an appropriation of $50,000 for the erection of a fireproof building for tuberculous males. Appropriations to the amount of about $50,000 for other improvements are also asked.

Among the legislative recommendations is one increasing the amount chargeable against counties for the care of their insane patients, from $10 to $16 per month, claiming that if the law is amended in this way it will do away with the necessity of passing appropriation bills for current expenses at each assembly. It is also recommended that an act be passed whereby the superintendent will be empowered to send to the various counties after patients instead of their being brought by the sheriff of the county from which they are committed.

"How cheap it is" has never been a test of the desirability of any garment that enters here.

We prefer to sell a good article at a reasonable price rather than a worthless article at a cheap price. We do not sell Furs of such doubtful quality that their "cheapness" is merely a synonym for their unworthiness.

ORGANIZATION TAKES UP TIME OF LEGISLATURE.

Representative John A. Healy of Hibbing came up from St. Paul last night and is a guest at the St. Louis. He says there has been no developments of importance to St. Louis county in the legislature, except the committee assignments, and these are distinctly favorable to this county.

The work of the organization has occupied the attention of the two houses almost exclusively, he said, but next week the wheels of the law mill may be expected to begin grinding out the legislative grist.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

COPPER MARKET ON THE UPTURN

Values Advance in Sympathy With Rails and Steel--Trading Heavier.

The copper market was strong today. Buying came from good sources and the undertone was firm. The accumulation of stocks broadened although the chief buying was in Amalgamated in the copper list, Steel common in the industrials, Reading, Pennsylvania and Canadian Pacific railway in the rails. The copper market got most of its strength from the rails and industrials. There is nothing in the metal market, so far as the immediate future is concerned, to warrant the belief that metal prices will be much higher. In fact, the metal market is weaker than for several months. Sales of electrolytic are reported at 12⅜c and the inquiry is extremely light.

Argument in the American Tobacco case has been concluded and the Standard Oil company is now getting its hearing before the United States supreme court. In the meantime speculators are putting up prices. If the decisions are adverse, the market can be sold from a high level by people owning stocks, while if the decisions are favorable, the market will start on an upward trend from a level higher than if stocks were not now being boosted. That probably is the mental process of those folk who are now actively engaged in putting up prices.

The local market was dull. Denn sold at $1.81¼, $4.87½ to $4.75. Calumet & Montana sold at 69c and 70c, Calumet & Corbin at 27c and 28c, Carman at 70c and Keating at $1.43¾.

Amalgamated sold at $63.37½ to $64.37½, Butte-Ballaklava at $6.12½, Giroux at $6.62½, $6.68¾ to $6.62½, Ojibway at $5.87½, North Butte at $28 to $28.50, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.87½ to $14 to $13.87½, Shattuck at $22 to $21.50, Cactus at 20c, Greene at $6.62½ to $6.50.

Calumet wired—"No circular to stockholders announcing the terms of the proposed merger of Calumet & Arizona, and Superior & Pittsburg, has yet been issued. It is understood that none may be, and the proposed merger may possibly be abandoned for the present. If abandoned, it is due to opposition on the part of some stockholders of the latter company, among whom is one of the most influential directors. It is claimed that since the examination of Messrs. Ricketts and Douglas extensive ore bodies have been developed in Superior & Pittsburg materially changing the relative position of the two companies."

NO HASTY REVISION OF TARIFF WANTED.

The state and county committee met at the Commercial club today and considered a communication from the New York World, which inquired whether the committee favored the holding of a special session of the congress elected last November, to be convened immediately after March 4 next. The purpose of this proposed session, as set forth by the New York publication, would be to revise the tariff.

It was the sense of the committee that no revision of the tariff is desirable until it can be undertaken in a thorough and scientific way, and that the new congress will not be so constituted as to make such a procedure probable.

This information will be communicated to the New York paper.

Another subject to come before the committee was a request from the Commercial Club of St. Cloud that the Duluth Commercial club take steps to have St. Cloud building stone used in the construction of the new Minneapolis federal building. The reply of the committee is to the effect that it cannot interfere with Minneapolis affairs, but that it is thoroughly in sympathy with the proposition that Minnesota quarries should be favored in the construction of public buildings in this state wherever feasible.

LEGISLATIVE BANQUET WAS "A HUMMER."

Representative E. R. Ribenack is home from St. Paul for the week-end relaxing from legislative activities, and says he is pleased with the progress of affairs at St. Paul. Speaking of the banquet given for the legislators at St. Paul this week, he said:

"It was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever given in the state. In fact, I don't believe anything more successful has ever been given in the Northwest. It was a big affair and it was managed very efficiently.

"This would not have been the case were it not that the hotel is an exceptionally large establishment. The banquet was one that will long be remembered by those who were guests and I must say that St. Paul deserves great credit for the way it was handled."

As to the entertainment features, the representative said the best available in the Twin City theaters were secured.

FILMS PASS CENSORSHIP

Moving Pictures Are Closely Inspected Without City Ordinance.

Edison Draws $8,000 a Week in Royalties From Patents.

Moving pictures as an educative and entertainment agency are being placed in Y. M. C. A. buildings all over the country, and the Duluth association is to have two of them, one in the boys' department and one in the auditorium. Frank L. Hough, representing the Edison Manufacturing company's kinetograph department, was in the city yesterday and Wednesday to make the arrangements for their installation.

"I notice an agitation is going on here for the passage of an ordinance to regulate the moving picture theaters," said Mr. Hough, who was a guest while in the city, at the Spalding. "When Thomas A. Edison won his patent suits three years ago he formed an association of the thirteen companies manufacturing the moving picture camera and transferred to them for a nominal consideration all his patents on this invention. These companies are known as the licensed manufacturers. Every film they make undergoes the inspection of a board of censors before it is allowed to be shown in any theater. At the head of the board is Andrew Carnegie. Another member is Dr. Aked, pastor of John D. Rockefeller's church. There are eighty members, all of them noted for philanthropic work, and, of course, they are volunteers and unpaid censors. They are serving at the request of the licensed manufacturers, whose desire it is to prevent the presentation of any pictures which could possibly have an ill effect on the public mind. Their efforts in this direction have been eminently successful, as the personnel of the board is warrant they would be.

Business Is Extensive.

"The extent of the moving picture business is not generally appreciated, but the fact that Mr. Edison's royalties in the last year have averaged $8,000 a week is an indication that may be enlightening. There are in this country 26,000 picture theaters and the average daily attendance is 20,000,000. The licensed manufacturers of the moving picture cameras are doing everything in their power to make the films such as can be shown anywhere without a word of criticism.

"These companies maintain theatrical companies, composed of actors of talent, particularly for pantomimic work. Just to show what extreme care is taken in the preparation of the films, I will tell you about a company we sent to the Canadian Rockies. Rex Beach had prepared the scheme of the film for us, and the company acted one scene there in the Rockies. Mr. Beach had planned to close the story with a suicide and it was so acted. But when the film was submitted to the censors they objected to the suicide and we sent the company back to the Rockies from New York to act it over again in a modified form, eliminating the actual scene of suicide.

Travel All Over World.

"The companies maintained by the licensed manufacturers travel to all parts of the globe to secure the 'local color' for the pictures. Every picture is a photograph of an actual scene. Many people do not understand this, but it is the only way in which these companies make their films. The camera takes sixteen photographs a second and the films are a thousand feet in length. The films reach the theaters through agencies, which rent them to the theaters. The stipulation is made that the films shall be returned to the manufacturers at the end of six months. This is an arrangement insisted upon by the manufacturers, who want to protect the public and insure that all the films will be clear, rather than scratched and blurred.

"Criticism of the picture shows can be based only on the practices of the theater managers. If they insist upon getting films showing scenes that are thought to possess a vicious quality, the licensed manufacturers should not be blamed. They do not put out such films. Many of them are imported from France, from Italy and from England, and there are cameras in this country of foreign manufacture with which this market is supplied. Theaters which make requests for certain films can get them through the exchanges, but the licensed manufacturers, as I said, should not be held responsible for this condition."

HEAVY SNOWS ARE DROUTH INSURANCE.

Returning from North Dakota to St. Paul, J. T. McKenney, district passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, said at the St. Louis last night that the farmers of the Dakotas are pleased with the heavy snowfall they have had in those states, which insures a proper start for the crops. Because of the drouth of last summer, the soil can absorb an exceptionally large amount of moisture to advantage. Farmers are much encouraged at the prospect of more snow, he said.

PISTOLS FOR THE POLICE

London Bobbies Are Tired of Being Used as Marks.

Are Not Allowed to Carry Guns---Change in Sentiment.

London, Jan. 13.—London has at last been aroused by the murder of the policemen to the defenseless state of its official guardians, and an almost unanimous demand is going up from the newspapers and the public for the arming of the police.

Recently information reached the city police that a band of foreign thieves had hired a house in the back of a jeweler's shop in the East end and were boring through the wall against which the jeweler's safe stood. Half a dozen policemen were hurried round to the place and when they demanded admittance the door of the house was opened and the burglars rushed out, firing right and left. Three policemen were killed, one receiving no fewer than eight bullets in his body, and three others were wounded. The thieves all got away, but the next day one was found in a house in the neighborhood dying from a bullet wound inflicted by one of the friends by mistake. Not one of the policemen who were sent to arrest this gang of desperate criminals carried any weapon more deadly than the short baton which the British policeman is compelled by regulations to keep in a specially constructed pocket of his trousers and which he mustn't use unless he believes that his life is in danger.

About two years ago there was a similar tragedy in another district of London. On this occasion an alien thief shot and killed a policeman and a little boy who happened to be standing in the street through which he ran.

Change in Sentiment.

Until a few weeks ago, however, it was almost impossible to find an Englishman who could see anything wrong or absurd in the existence of an unarmed police force. It didn't seem to matter that the native hooligans took a delight in beating up policemen. Of course, nothing more serious than a broken rib or two happened often and that was considered a sporting risk of the policeman's life. As a matter of fact, most of the London policemen are fairly handy with their fists and can give a good account of themselves in a rough-and-tumble fight with the London hooligan. Then the ordinary English criminal is rather a futile person. As a rule we don't have the skilled professional burglar here unless he is a foreigner. The Englishman hasn't enterprise enough for a life of professional crime and when some poor creature who is starving goes out to do a bit of burglary or sneak thieving he is easily dealt with by the burly policeman.

But recently London has been making acquaintance with a new kind of criminal who is said to be a product of the revolutionary movement in Russia. Certain it is that most of the specimens which we have come in contact with are smart young Russians, many of them well educated and some even with respectable scientific attainments, who have adopted a criminal career deliberately. These men are always armed with the latest weapons and don't hesitate to use them when interfered with by the police. They began to appear in Russia in considerable numbers a few years ago and at first some of them declared that they were robbing banks and private persons for the benefit of the revolutionary cause. Soon, however, they dropped that pretense. The hatred borne by the Russian people toward the police and official classes has always stood them in good stead, and they could rely on the assistance of everyone they came in contact with in avoiding capture. Recently, however, Russia has become too hot for them and an increasing number are transferring their activities to England, where they found that they were favored by the helplessness of the police.

Cannot Speak Dialects.

They are also favored by the fact that although London has a large alien population its police are aggressively English. There are not half a dozen men on the metropolitan force who speak Yiddish or any of the Eastern European dialects which abound in the East end. When a crime has been committed these young foreigners simply disappear among their countrymen and the police are helpless. In the last case all the murderers got clear away and so far the only one caught has been the man who died from wounds received in the fight with the police.

With true English dislike of doing a thing thoroughly, however, a number of the high police officials are trying to whittle down the proposals for arming the police. Some of them say that all that is needed is that a supply of revolvers to be kept in the stations and that men take them along when going on specially dangerous duty. The answer to this, of course, is that they never know when a particular piece of duty is going to be dangerous until the danger arises. Another set of officials hold up their hands in horror at the idea of inexperienced young constables being trusted with a lethal weapon. They might shoot themselves or somebody elsse. They might even shoot a burglar. These officials propose that only sergeants of a certain number of years standing should be armed and that an elaborate code of regulations prescribing when a revolver may be used and when its use is not indicated as the doctors say, shall be drawn up. Imagine a police sergeant stopping to consult his book of rules while a burglar is using him as a target.

"I used to be pretty good with the quarter staff in my village at home," a sergeant said to me today, "and I think that if I had been on the spot with my old staff when these aliens were shooting our men I could have broken their wrists or heads before they could have fired a second shot. Give me a good heavy yard long stick and I'll stand up to a man with a gun any day and take my chance of getting in a blow before he can shoot. But I am tired and my mates are tired of being put in uniform and stood up for targets for foreign burglars or home grown hooligans to shoot at or kick about as they please."

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Raised Me From the Grave"—Mrs. Taylor

This is a strong statement to make, but it is exactly what Mrs. Thomas Taylor, of Blum, Texas, said in expressing her opinion of this remedy.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine raised me from the grave and I have much confidence in it. I can never say enough for your grand medicines. If anyone had offered me $100.00 for the second bottle of Nervine that I used I would have said 'no indeed.'"
MRS. THOMAS TAYLOR,
Blum, Tex.

Nervous exhaustion is a common occurence of modern life. The wear and tear on the nervous system is greater now than at any time since the world began. For sleeplessness, poor appetite and that "run down" feeling, nothing is so good as

MONEY FOR PENSIONS.

Senator McCumber Gives President Taft Estimates of Expenditures.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Senator McCumber of North Dakota, chairman of the pension committee yesterday presented to President Taft estimates as to what expenditures would be required by each of the various pension bills now before congress. His own bill, he explained, would call for about $17,000,000; the Sulloway bill already passed by the house from $45,000,000 to $50,000,0000; the Curtis bill about $60,000,000 and the Dick bill more than any of the others.

The president said he would consider the bills carefully, particularly with relation to the condition of the treasury.

PRISONER USES FIRE.

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 13.—Frank Johnson was arrested and lodged in the Coal Dock police sttation, charged with being drunk and disorderly. He was evidently not very drunk for after being in there about half an hour he attempted to break jail by setting fire to his cell. The cells of the Coal Dock station are wooden and had not one of the officers noticed the smoke the whole station would likely have gone up in smoke. As it was the fire was seen in time and smothered before any damage had been done.

CHURCH MAY LOSE MONEY

Bequest of Mrs. Eddy of $2,000,000 May Be Null and Void.

New Hampshire Law Forbids Bequest of More Than $5,000 Annually.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 13.—That the residuary clause in the will of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, is null and void, is the opinion of ex-United States Senator William E. Chandler, Hannis Taylor of Washington and international law at George Washington university, and others, as given out for publication here last night.

The clause provides for a gift of about $2,000,000 to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, known as the "Mother church."

A statute of New Hampshire prohibiting a bequest to a church of over $5,000 annually is the basis for the opinion which was written by Prof. Taylor. Referring to the residuary clause as "null and void," the opinion says:

"As to the void gift the testatrix died intestate and its subject matter passed on her death to her next of kin, under the New Hampshire statute of distribution."

In the closing paragraph the opinion advises the attorneys for the next of kin that such agreements and contracts as they made with the testatrix and her trustees in her life time bind them only "to recognize as valid such provisions of her last will as are valid legally."

"To that extent," continues the opinion, "you are bound and required to join with the executors in requesting the probate court of New Hampshire to admit such will to probate in solemn form, in order that its provisions may prevail so far as they are not forbidden by law. After you have so acted and performed every part of the agreement you have entered into, it will remain for the courts of equity, federal or state, to construe the will in order to determine whether the residuary clause is valid or void.

Besides Former Senator Chandler and Prof. Taylor, the signers of the opinion are Attorney John W. Kelly of Portsmouth and Dewit C. Howe of Concord, who were associated with Mr. Chandler as counsel for the "next friends," and William L. Chambers, a lawyer of Washington.

Mr. Chandler in his letter to Prof. Taylor reviews the facts regarding Mrs. Eddy's will and estate and the "next friends" suit which resulted in Mrs. Eddy placing a large sum of money in trust for her son, George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., and his children. He then describes the signing the agreement by which the "next friends" suit was called, and adds:

"Mr. Streeter (Gen. Frank S. Streeter of Concord) drew the agreement for my signature. When signing I took it for granted that Mrs. Eddy would not in giving away her property undertake to violate public law. If I had thought she had already done so by attempting to create a church with an endowment of $2,000,000, I would not have signed."

Late yesterday a petition was filed in the superior court here by ex-Senator Chandler and other attorneys asking the court for a construction of Mrs. Eddy's will, particularly the clause relating to the residuary estate.

The petitioners also pray for an injunction against any disposition being made of the property in question pending the construction of the residuary clause.

It is understood to be the plan of the attorneys for George W. Glover and Dr. E. J. Foster Eddy, the sons of Mrs. Eddy, to try to have the question regarding the residuary legatee transferred from the superior court to the supreme court for a decision. No contest in the probate court is expected.

DECISION BY CONFERENCE

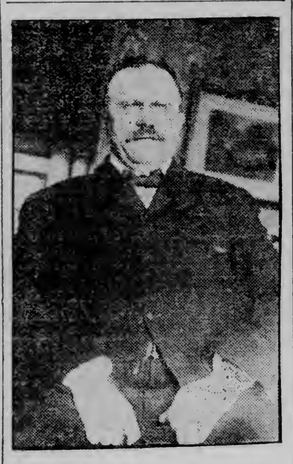

Fishery Regulations With Newfoundland and Canada Adjusted.

Will Be Unnecessary to Reassemble The Hague Tribunal.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The commissioners for the United States and Canada which have been considering the fishery regulations have reached a decision. The Canadian and Newfoundland governments undertake to change the existing regulations to meet the objections of the United States, thus making it unnecessary to call upon the board of experts.

The conferences have been going on since Monday morning and followed similar conferences by the state department officials with representatives of the Gloucester fishing interests. The formal statement of the outcome, issued at the state department, is as follows:

As a result of these conferences, an understanding was reached, that, instead of calling upon the commission of experts appointed under the award to determine the reasonableness of certain existing fisheries regulations to which the United States had objected, the Canadian and Newfoundland governments will proceed voluntarily to make such changes in the existing regulations as are necessary to remove the objections of the United States.

"The effect of this arrangement is to make it unnecessary to reassemble The Hague tribunal to act upon the report of the experts. All differences which ma yarise in the future which cannot be disposed of by diplomatic negotiations will be referred to the permanent fixed fisheries commission to be established in accordance with the recommendations of the award."

The regulations thus to be modified are understood to refer to the use of seins, Sunday fishing, right of search and like subjects.

"The United States was represented in the conference by Secretary Knox, Counsellor Chandler P. Anderson, Robert Lansing, one of the counsel of the United States at The Hague and Seth Smith, acting commissioner of fisheries. The British government was represented by Ambassador Bryce, Prime Minister of Newfoundland Sir Edward Morris, Sir Allen Aylesworth, minister of justice of Canada, (the agent of Great Britain in The Hague arbitration); Louis P. Brodeur, minister of marine and fisheries of Canada, Hon. George Young, secretary of the British embassy; Dr. Wakeham of the Canadian fisheries department and Capt. O'Kelly of the Newfoundland fisheries department.

option, to be placed on a separate ballot. If the people vote county option, the county will become the unit of lid adjustment. If they vote against it, the township and village will remain the lid unit.

Mr. Converse is not a county optionist, having been elected as an opponent of the plan, but he has already introduced a bill prohibiting more than five saloons to the block in cities of the first class, and another bill prohibiting drunkenness on trains and giving conductors police power over such cases.

Cold Storage Regulations.

Both consumers and dealers will be interested in the bill introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Manley L. Fosseen of Minneapolis, prohibiting abuses of the cold storage system and regulating it in the interests of pure food.

The bill requires that before food products are placed in cold storage, the owners must furnish the warehouse proprietors with an affidavit stating whether or not the food has been in cold storage before, and if so when and how long. On the receipt of the goods, the owners of the warehouse must enter them in a permanent record book kept for that purpose. Both the affidavits of the owners of the products and the records of the storage warehouse must be made out in duplicate, and copies sent to the state dairy and food commissioner, who is made responsible for the enforcement of the act.

Every package of food placed in cold storage must be labelled with the month and year of its receipt, and no article that has been in cold storage more than six months can be offered for sale unless it is properly labelled with the date of its admission to the warehouse. This label must show the words "cold storage" eggs, butter, meat, fish, or poultry, as the case may be, with the date in plain letters.

Dealers must post in a conspicuous position in their stores a placard to the effect that they sell cold-storage goods, and hotels, restaurants or boarding houses, either public or private, that give cold storage food to their patrons, must placard their dining rooms plainly with an admission of the fact.

Failure to obey the requirements of the act involves a fine of $100 to $500, or imprisonment for not more than one year.

To Increase Gross Earnings Tax.

Representative L. C. Spooner of Morris will introduce in the house early next week a bill increasing the gross earnings tax on railroads from 4 to 5 per cent, and providing that the tax may be paid semi-annually instead of annually. Similar bills have been introduced in the last two sessions. Four years ago Congressman Miller, then a member of the house, introduced a bill increasing the gross earnings tax and providing that railroads in addition must pay their share of local improvements just as other property-owners do. Though it passed the house, it was killed in the senate. Two years ago similar bills were defeated, and Mr. Spooner was the author of one of these.

Practically all of the members of both houses have taken advantage of the long recess to go home. All of the St. Louis county members are home except Representatives Knapp and Hillman, who are making their homes here for the winter and have their families with them.

Strong for the Water Wagon.

It is related of one of the temperate members of the house that at the banquet given by the citizens of St. Paul, which was a lively affair, according to all reports, he turned his glass down every time the drinkables came his way. When the waiter proposed to open a bottle of mineral water for him he shook his head firmly, pointed to his dry and capsized glass, and said: "No, sir! Nothing but water for me." That there were others not so firm was indicated by the extraordinary demand for head-clearing concoctions yesterday.

There was no meeeting of the tri-county committee of the house yesterday, the regular meeting day, because of the adjournment and the fact that no pressing matters were pending. One will be held next Thursday, however.

Jacob F. Jacobson, long time leader of the house, later a member of the board of control and still later an unsuccessful candidate for governor, has been in St. Paul this week renewing old acquaintances. He showed much interest in the fact that his old-time associate, George R. Laybourn, with whom he locked horns on many an occasion in the house, is no longer in the legislature from Duluth.

The legislature will ballot on United States senator next Tuesday, and Senator Moses E. Clapp will be re-elected without opposition in his party.

MINNEAPOLIS WARY OF COMMISSION PLAN.

Alderman Arthur W. Selover, a guest at the Spalding, discussing the commission form of government, said last evening that he did not believe Minneapolis would witness a strong agitation in favor of its adoption there until the plan has been tried in some other city of similar size. "We have some advocates of the system, but it is probable the majority favors a modified form of the council scheme," he said.

ARE OPPOSED TO RECIPROCITY

Leading Canadian Manufacturers Prefer British Preference.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 13.—Twenty-two of the leading manufacturers of Canada gathered in Ottawa last night and held a meeting which lasted until after midnight at which a case on the tariff was prepared and will be presented to the government. The meeting was designed to offset the influence of the recent free trade demonstration by Western farmers.

It is learned that the meeting decided to affirm to the government that the present protection afforded them by the tariff should be maintained; that the Canadian manufacturers are strongly opposed to any reciprocity arrangement with the United States and that they favor the continuance of the British preference.

It is understood that the representatives of the Canadian steel interests will ask that, in view of the fact that steel bounties are to expire within a year, the government grant a measure of increased protection on steel.

torney O'Brien, who has thus far been the active counsel in her behalf.

Prosecuting Attorney Handlan, seemingly to offset any expectations of the defense, asserted this morning that within the next two days a witness will be called by the state who will show that Mrs. Schenk purchased quantities of arsenic and sugar of lead shortly before the return of her husband from Europe. Who this witness was the prosecutor would not name, but smilingly said: "Just wait."

Among the witnesses to be heard today is Prof. J. W. Mallett, F. R. S., of the University of Virginia, one of the experts who made analysis of the mineral water and the medicine taken by Schenk. He is expected to tell of receiving the samples sent him by Dr. Frank T. Hupp, and also to give the results of his analysis.

Dr. J. F. Burns and Dr. J. J. Thornton, the Wheeling physicians, who made the blood tests, and who diagnosed the case as one of arsenical poisoning, will also be ready to testify while Dr. Gregory Ackerman, who testified for the state on Tuesday and was passed for cross-examination by the defense, will be held in readiness for the questioning by Attorney O'Brien. Dr. Ackerman was one of the first physicians summoned to attend Schenk and soon after the latter returned from Europe, diagnosed the case as one of lead poisoning.

Almost any day now, the defense will call Dr. J. J. Osborn and Dr. S. L. Jepson as experts.

Both these physicians examined Dr. Schenk after he had been discharged from the hospital and Dr. Hupp imparted to them his findings that they might be governed in their diagnoses.

Before daylight a number of men and women were in line waiting for the doors of the courthouse to open. When the trial was resumed the room was full and crowds were standing in the street. The strictest rules regarding attendance are still being observed.

Dr. O. W. Burdetts, Schenk's dentist, the first witness called, testified that he examined Schenk's teeth after Schenk became ill. At first he believed the discoloration was caused by a deceased condition of the gums, but later he concluded something he did not understand was wrong with him.

Dr. J. W. Mallett, emeritus professor of chemistry at the University of West Virginia, testified that his tests of water used by Schenk showed that it contained eight tenths grains of white arsenic to the pint, or eighty grains of Fowler's solution.

Florence Coleman, a maid, who formerly worked in the Schenk family, testified that the Friday preceeding Mrs. Schenk's arrest, she had been told by Mrs. Schenk to clean John's room, ready for his occupancy. She denied ever putting anything or seeing anything put in the water. Edward McAllister, the druggist, from whom the water and medicine came, said no lead was used in the quinine compound or the malturo cascara.

sonic charm, inscribed "Cassius C. Perrin, 9581 Mecca temple, New York."

The following injured are at a local hospital: Monte C. Fiscoe, lawyer, Indianapolis, seriously; F. G. Van Valkenburg, Fultonville, N. Y., probably will die; James O. Moore, lawyer, Buffalo, seriously injured; H. C. Cole, address unknown; H. L. Jones, Chicago, slightly injured; Robert McFarland, Detroit, fatally; Abram Cole, colored porter, Boston, slightly injured; Mrs. John Shaw, Toronto, Ont., scalp wounds; Mrs. Catherine Higgins and son Thomas, Stoughton, Mass., painfully injured; Edward Dobson, Blackburn, England, painfully.

Disobeyed Orders.

Supt. Everett of the Western division of the New York Central railroad made the following statement:

"From such preliminary investigation as I have been able to make, J. B. Lydell of Buffalo, engineer on train No. 23, which ran into train No. 49 (Boston and Buffalo express), was responsible for the accident in that he had disobeyed signals. Mr. Lydell has been in the employ of this railroad for forty years and has been an engineman since 1888, with a perfect record."

The unidentified body found in the Batavia wreck beneath which was discovered a Masonic charm inscribed "Cassius C. Perrin," is probably that of C. C. Perrin, an assistant general manager of a local detective agency, who left Schenectady last night for Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Perrin was a passenger on the train.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13.—Robert L. McFarland, reported to have been fatally injured in the wreck at Batavia, is sales manager for a local weather-stripping factory. He has a wife and one child.

Her hair took fire and was completely burned from her head before she and the children succeeded in putting it out. The oldest child had his hand seriously burned in aiding her.

Brown does not ask a great deal. All he wants is about $63 in cash and some clothing. He has three cows in the barn, and he states that if he can get the $65 to purchase a small separator, he will be able to get along with the proceeds of the money he can raise by selling butter. All his wife and children have is the clothing which they had on their backs when they made their escape from the burning home. Brown received some assistance from the Associated Charities last night, and feels certain that if any one wishes to help him in his predicament the association will be glad to receive the donations and forward them to him.

Brown is anxious to return to his home. He is fearful lest his wife and babies freeze to death in the old lumber camp, or that some other harm may come to them alone in the woods.

WILL LOAF IN AUGUST.

Morocco Manufacturers Will Suspend Operations During That Time.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—Ten thousand men employed in the morocco trades in this city, especially in the manufacture of glazed kid, and 10,000 others employed in the same lines in Wilmington, Del., and New England, will be thrown out of work during the month of August, according to a resolution adopted yesterday at the annual meeting of the Morocco Manufacturers' National association in this city.

The executive committee, after investigating the condition of the trade, reported that barely 50 per cent of the normal production is being turned out at the present time, and recommended the continuance of this policy for the indefinite future, and the absolute cessation of manufacture for the month of August, as a defensive measure against the attitude taken by the shoe manufacturers.

According to those at the meeting, the price of the raw material is so high that any cut in prices would spell ruin to the industry. The scheme of restriction involved about fifty firms manufacturing glazed kid, Philadelphia being the greatest center of the industry in the world.

TOBACCO MAN BUYS LUMBERING OUTFIT

M. H. Bekkedal Purchases Bankrupt Concern on Couderay Reservation.

Couderay, Wis., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. H. Bekkedal, the millionaire leaf tobacco packer and wholesaler of Westby, Wis., has just closed the deal in which he gains possession of all the logging equipment, camps, 1,000,000 feet of unsold lumber and unfinished logging contracts on the Couderay Indian reservation here.

This logging industry had been conducted by the Signor Crisler company the past seven years, but they failed last summer with $110,000 liabilities and $30,000 assets. The interior department handles the affairs for the Indians through their Indian agent, Campbell, at Ashland.

Mr. Bekkedal expects to erect a large box factory here in connection with the sawmill to manufacture boxes for his large tobacco business that he is conducting in a number of towns in Vernon county, and will use most of the lumber output for his own packing business. Waukesha—Max J. Meyer, aged 89, was struck by a Milwaukee passenger train and instantly killed Tuesday night at 6 o'clock while wandering along the tracks one-half mile west of Elm Grove. He came from Portland, Or., five years ago and has resided with his brother, Francis Meyer, Greenfield avenue, since that time.

Janesville—Josiah T. Wright, leader in religious circles, a resident of Janesville for fifty years, and a soap manufacturer, lies at the point of death from the accidental escape of gas from a leaky furnace pipe. Mr. Wright is over 80 and his wife a few years his junior. Both were overcome. A servant found them unconscious.

REGULATION OF FOOD STORAGE.

Fresh hope of wholesome and reasonably fresh food is raised by the news that State Senator Fosseen of Hennepin is preparing to offer before the legislature a bill to regulate the cold storage business in Minnesota. When the system first appeared it was welcomed joyously. Now, chuckled the public, we will be able to have any kind of food we want the year round; we will be independent of the seasons. Oh joy! But after a few years of operation the public has found that the annihilation of the seasons has brought with it the virtual annihilation of fresh foods as far as the cold storage system has been applied to articles of diet. The system has been woefully abused, for instead of being placed on the market at the time of year when they are provided by nature, many articles are packed away and the consumers are compelled to use storage goods the year round.

Time was when chickens varied in price from 8 to 15 cents at different times of the year. Now the variation is slight. The price keeps close to the altitude record of the old system, and the housewife never sees such chickens as she used to purchase.

Consideration of legislative regulation of cold storage will be carried on this winter in other states than Minnesota, a fact that emphasizes the wide-spread character of the imposition that the men engaged in that business are practicing on the public. Perhaps the bill prepared for the New York legislature is as comprehensive as any. It provides for compulsory inspection of every article of food offered for storage purposes, thus putting a check on the putting away of putrid eggs and bad meat, and providing a means for stopping the present practice of returning to storage articles that have once been taken out and offered for sale. Other provisions of the New York bill include the stamping on each article of the date of storage; limitation of the time of storage, and submission of quarterly reports to the board of health. It is provided that fish shall not be kept in storage more than six weeks, meat six months and poultry and eggs nine months, and that refrigerating plants and warehouses must provide itemized lists of the goods in stock. All of the provisions are based on known abuses of the system, and the framer of the bill is right in insisting that drastic steps be taken to prevent the continuance of those abuses. It would be well for the Minnesota legislators to study the New York bill in making up a law to regulate the practice of storage and sale of refrigerated goods in this state.

A KING BEE STANDPATTER.

If anybody doubts where Senator Lafayette Young stands on the tariff question all uncertainty can be dissipated by one glance at the editorial page of the Des Moines Capital. Of all the whoop-'em-up alarms that ever were inflicted on the public in the name of political opinon, the "warnings" and declarations of that pub lication now assume the first place.

Iowa farmers are especially dear to the heart of Senator Young, it would appear, for he is telling them day after day of the dire happenings to their interests that will follow any revision of the tariff schedules. And this, mind you, in spite of the earlier declarations of standpatters that the tariff has no effect on the cost of living or on the produce of farms. See how Senator Young puts it:

"Stop the tariff talk. Give the farmers a chance. The price of farm products is satisfactory. The man who raises his voice to stir up the tariff question ought to be regarded by the farmer as a public enemy."

Give the farmer a chance—for what? To pay tribute to the trusts on all the farm machinery he buys; on the clothes he and his family wears; on the household articles his wife has to purchase; on the matches and the soap and the carpets and the hundred other things that are made the means, under the tariff, of drawing on the pockets of the people to swell the pouches of the plutocrats. That is the kind of a chance that Senator Young would give the farmers.

Incidentally, though his argument is wrong, the senator shows the kind of mental process which is characteristic of the high-tariff standpatter. He tries to make the farmer believe that the tariff reformer is working against the interests of the farmer, and then urges the farmer to regard any man who does such a thing as "a public enemy." In other words, any class of men who find their interests at stake have a right to regard the men who are fighting for the things that threaten those interests as "public enemies."

Poof! Likewise pish-tush and piffle! No opponent of the interests of any particular class as against those of the people as a whole is a public enemy. He is a private enemy, if you please, but only to the extent that those private interests are contrary to the good of the whole nation, and that kind of enmity is rather entitled to high regard as patriotism than to reproach as hostility of any kind.

Senator Young's "warnings" to the farmers of Iowa are amusing when one considers their motive. The farmers will not suffer by reduction of tariff schedules, and they know it. If Senator Young were to make his "warnings" read plainly, instead of burying their real meaning under a mass of flub-dub about prices and public enemies, he would word them something like this: "Farmers! Help! The rest of the people of the state are onto me and my game, and if you don't get busy and support me I'll lose this senatorship that I got by favor, and have to give up to a man who will join with Cummins in fighting for the interests of the people we are sent to Washington to represent. Now be good fellows and send me back to the senate."

THOSE LOST TAXES.

In a story published last night, The Herald called attention to the fact that the city is missing a considerable revenue every year to which it is entitled under the present tax laws, and which might be saved to the city by the appointment of a special officer to look after the collection of certain minor taxes. The suggestion is worth adoption, if not in the form proposed, then in some other form that will bring the desired results.

Taking the matter of the dog tax as an example, reports for the year 1910 show that only a little more than $1,000 was received by the city under that head. That would mean that only 500 owners of dogs complied with the law. There are more than 500 dogs in Duluth, and many of them are not being paid for by their owners. Supposing that there were in Duluth one dog to every hundred people, that is one to every twenty families, there would be 784 canines. Under the law every male dog is taxed $2 and every female $5. Make the proportions of males and females kept by Duluth people about twenty and one, and there would be $610 additional income to the city from the taxation of the canines whose owners have not complied with the law.

But the dogs are not the only things that are escaping taxation under the present system. There is the wheelage tax, whose enforcement is admittedly incomplete; also there are many forms of license which might be looked after by such an official, such as those collected for drays and hacks, pool and billiard halls, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, peddlers and hawkers, theaters, fortune tellers, house movers, plumbers, circuses, employment offices, second-hand dealers and pawnbrokers. In many of these cases the license fees or taxes are paid voluntarily by the parties responsible. In others somebody has to look after their collection.

It might be urged against the plan that the knowledge that a special officer had been appointed to insure the collection of the items would serve as an excuse for some citizens to postpone payment until the officer had called on them personally, and that some might escape payment through his failure to find them. Even so there probably would be no more who escaped payment than there are under the present system, and the difficulty could be still further remedied by providing that the special collector's work should not begin until after a stated period, and that all taxes and licenses not paid voluntarily should be increased by a small percentage if it became necessary for the special collector to look after them.

There would be more than revenue for the city in the adoption of such a plan. There would be an equalization of the forms of taxation included under it, for it would mean the uniform enforcement of the tax law and not its partial enforcement.

THE GASTRONOMIC GROUCH.

Did you ever notice how an employe watches the face of his boss when that important person makes his first appearance of the day at the office or store? Perhaps you have done the same thing yourself, and know why it is. The employe wants to get a line on how "the old man" feels, wants to know whether he is to be caught up short on some point that under other circumstances would go unheeded, or at the most would be brought to his attention with a mere suggestion. In other words, he wants to get early information as to whether his employer is going to be cranky or "decent" during the day.

Now don't think for a moment that the employe doesn't understand cause and effect in this matter. He does not have to be in the office or the store or the shop long before he begins to get a line on the character of the man for whom he is working. If he has the means of knowing something about the social life of that man, he will sometimes say something like this when he meets you in the evening: "I'm in for a day of it tomorrow. The old man is going out to a dinner tonight."

And don't think for a moment that the employe doesn't know what he is talking about. He may not call it by that name, but the thing he has in mind is the gastronomic grouch—that feeling of dissatisfaction and hypercriticism that is the natural sequence of an over-worked digestive system and lack of care of the alimentary organs. Everybody knows the gastronomic grouch from his own experience. Everybody has had it, beginning with the time when he used to "swipe" green apples and on through the ages of too many buckwheat cakes and too generous concessions to the insatiable appetite of growing youth and the unthinking over-indulgence of near-maturity.

But the wisest men get over their personal experience of that particular form of depression of mind and spirit by the time they get old enough to warn their own sons against the green apple and cholera morbus. A sage has said that every man is either a fool or a physician by the time he is forty years old. The sage may have been rather too blunt in his way of putting it; his language may be a trifle spectacular, so to speak; but his idea is correct. Who that was wise would deliberately interfere with the delicate mechanism which nature has provided for the introduction into his body of the means to sustain life? You would not. Oh no! But you do it every time you over-eat. And the next day, or perhaps that same day, you get a gastronomic grouch; you make everybody around you miserable, and you feel as miserable yourself as the worst sufferer of them all. Finally you go and take something to relieve your own discomfort, and although the ruse may work for the time being, it only alters the character of the strain on your vital organs instead of relieving it altogether, and the time of the grouch is prolonged.

There are other forms of intemperance besides over-indulgence in liquor, and they all drag down body and mind. But one of the meanest of the lot as far as its effect on others is concerned is the one that brings on the unscrupulous, ill-natured, mean-spirited, nerve-racking gastronomic grouch.

That name Sheehan sounds an awful lot like "sh-sh-sh!"

While the English government is trying to curb the power of the house of lords, why doesn't it give somebody the right to veto the productions of Alfred Austin?

The South Dakota legislature will be asked to pass a bill limiting the size of hatpins. Probably the suffragettes will oppose the measure as a blow at one of their most pointed arguments.

What do you know about the commission form of government for cities? The Lakeside club will hold a discussion of the subject tonight, and the things said there ought to be worth hearing.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Not a Hurry-up Job.

Cass Lake Times: The list of voters in Adams county, Ohio, will be distinctly diminished for the next five years owing to the disfranchisement of many of its citizens for selling their votes. Is there to be no punishment for the bribers who are equally guilty?

One would need to trace the culprits back to the third generation, for such conditions cannot be the growth of a period covered by only one generation.

Smith for Governor.

Aurora News: W. J. Smith has gone to St. Paul to take the position of state treasurer. There are many who predict that he will sit in the governor's chair before he returns to the range to take up his more serious work as a banker.

"Governor Walter J. Smith of Minnesota." That does sound good to the Northern Minnesota ear.

Magnifying the Banquet.

Coleraine Optic: There are indications which tend to show that one will be able, in course of time, to see two-bits' worth of bacon without the use of a powerful microscope.

If it has come to such a pass that we must use a powerful microscope to see our repasts, the danger of a spread of gout is not immediate.

Dame Fashion Scorned.

Eveleth Star: When a woman wears a hat which comes down over her face so far that she can't see and a skirt which is so tight around her ankles that she can't walk, one wonders why she neglects to have herself handcuffed.

Well, the poor thing must have facilities for feeling of those pretty curls to make sure they haven't blown away.

Get "Highest" Circulation.

Red Wing Republican: The West is going the East one better. Out in California the are arranging to carry newspapers on aeroplanes.

Some varieties of fly paper, perhaps.

The Time, the Place and the Soil.

Aitkin Age: The rapidly increasing number of farm renters in Minnesota is unfortunate. It's the landlordism of Iowa that has decreased the population of that state and driven the actual farmers with small means to other fields of labor where they can buy land.

There's lots of room up here in Northern Minnesota for all of them.

In the County Jail.

Floodwood Broadaxe: John R. Meining began a two-year term at the county jail Jan. 1—as sheriff of St. Louis county.

And he's the handsomest article in the sheriff line that the county could find.

Taft and the People.

St. Cloud Times: If the Democrats and progressive Republicans in congress will get together in the next congress they could be the means of letting the country find out where Taft is at. A tariff that carried a substantial reduction sent to the president for his approval would soon determine whether he had much chance to succeed himself.

Most people are pretty well satisfied that the time is past when Taft could have regained his lost hold on the confidence of the people.

Coal and Uncle Sam.

Virginia Enterprise: Commissioner Dennett of the United States land office favors laws looking to the delivery to the ultimate consumer of coal at the lowest possible price. Why not have the government enter the coal industries, opening the lands in dispute in the famous Cunningham claims as the first step, and put its product in the market at nearly or quite cost price. Such a move would tend to make the prices asked for by others more equitable.

Oh, Mr. Ballinger wouldn't for a moment think of permitting the government of the United States to do such a thing.

Open-Air Schools.

The Survey: The opening of windows in a Providence school not quite three years ago was so novel a feat that the whole country watched. Newspapers reported it at length and committees came to inspect. The example set by Providence has been followed from coast to coast. Now the open-air school is almost taken for granted. In 1908 three cities had outdoor schools, in 1909, five; at present there are twenty-seven schools and some fifteen or sixteen cities have adopted this new feature of an educational system.

Boston, New York, Chicago, Hartford and Rochester, the pioneers after Providence, have had a number of imitators in the last few months. Pawtucket, R. I., besides establishing a very fine open-air school, has adopted the progressive policy, which also prevails in Boston, of including an open-air room in each new school building. Montclair, N. J., has started a school in a tent, which has attracted wide newspaper attention. In Orange, N. J., the new open-air school is run under the joint auspices of the board of education, the health department and the bureau of Associated Charities. These supply respectively teacher, medical inspection, and supervision of the special diet which it is customary to give the children in these schools. A somewhat similar plan is being started in Philadelphia.

Washington, D. C., Milwaukee, Wis., Albany and Buffalo, N. Y., and Oakland, Cal., have recently adopted the new gospel of fresh air for school children. In Detroit Supt. Martindale has ordered that on pleasant days all classes in schools with large enough playgrounds shall be held outdoors.

A host of cities are seriously considering the opening of fresh-air schools, among which are Atlanta, Brockton, Columbus, Erie, Grand Rapids, Mich., Minneapolis, Newark, Toledo and Wilkesbarre. Pittsburg has an open-air school supported by private funds and Philadelphia a private tuition school for normal pupils conducted out-of-doors.

Pneumonia.

St. Louis Times: The health department of St. Louis reports that something like an epidemic of pneumonia is prevailing at present, and calls attention to the fact that the disease may be expected to continue through February and March—the "pneumonia months."

It is also reported that a particularly severe form of the disease is noted in many cases.

The department calls attention to overheated residences as one of the causes of the ailment, and it may not be amiss to cite other dangerous conditions which modern hygienic experts have pointed out.

The first, as well as the last, caution from those who have made a study of the subject is—be sure to have the house thoroughly aired and ventilated. Neither heat nor cold, according to these authorities, can create illness. It is bad air—the poisoned air which exists in every closed room where people breathe.

Only a few decades ago it was the fatal mistake of a majority of people, including many physicians and nurses, to close the sick room tightly in cold weather. Thus the lungs, needing their peculiar form of sustenance, which is pure air, were hindered from recovery.

It has come to be accepted as a primary rule in hygiene that every living room and every bedroom should have a window slightly opened every hour of the night and day—to which must be added abundant and carefully regulated heat.

It may be safely asserted that nearly every case of cold, grip and pneumonia is a result of a violation of these very simple rules.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE APPRECIATION OF GOOD MUSIC.

To the Editor of The Herald:

From the standpoint of the unmusical Philistine, that is, a person with no musical education, as such, merely a liking for sweet sounds and harmony of effects, a few words may not be out of place from the purely untechnical side of the question to show why so many persons will catch up a lilt from some little waltz song and whistle it till they get tired of it, but will protest against going to a concert, or opera where they can hear music much more beautiful, much more taking, much more satisfying and which they will not get tired of.

I don't blame men for staying away from some of the concerts in which the aenemic, trashy, sentimental stuff put on merely to show that the musician is fashionably up to date or can execute difficult passages, form the principal numbers; sickly compositions supposed to please women and degenerate ones by the De Bussy school, etc.; but I refer to what is really acknowledged as good music which has survived the years and is as fresh as it was 100 years ago; the great symphonies, raphsodies, overtures, operas, in which is expressed every emotion of human nature, its tragic, its affectionate, its sympathetic, its humorous side, as in a book which we read through its sounds instead of letters, and when we understand the alphabet of such sounds the musician depicts to us, through our auditory sense, the story in all its analytical significance and glorious poetic beauty. Ah, there's the rub; when we know the alphabet. We go to a concert or opera, under a grouchy protest. We don't know the language or alphabet and because we don't at first hearing understand the complicated composition we "damn" such stuff and go away disgusted, but the director of the household works it somehow that we go again, and to our intense disgust we find ourself recognizing some little familiar strain, some pretty little run, some magnificent burst of harmony and we enjoy our cigar on the way home, but we will never go to such a place again; at least, that's what we say; but we do go again and are interested in watching how the theme is going to work out of the apparent tangle the composer has got it into, looking out for this and that now familiar strain. We are learning the alphabet. We can understand the language of sounds. We can take in the wondrous melodies and appreciate them, in some measure. The next time we offer to buy tickets and then we become a male musical crank, for men appreciate music very much more than women, because they are more earnest and emotional, but insist on the great, the more grandly musical, the stronger harmonies, and those are the ones which live.

Prejudice has a great deal to do with the appreciation of good music. I have in mind a normal man who is one of the best fellows on earth and likes music better than he will allow himself to acknowledge, "because it is a woman's pastime." The concluding portion of Tschaikowsky's "Cappriccio Italien" is somewhat in the nature of a Tarantelle. I told him it was an Irish jig and after the piece he turned to me and said: "Now, if you fellows would only play such things as those jigs and other sensible things we wouldn't think you were so very crazy." A week afterwards I gave the same piece its proper name and his remark was: "No wonder you fellows can't get anybody to listen to you when you play such trash." Some day I am going to tell him, unless he reads the joke here.

Classic music is the simplest themes or tunes, if you like the name better, dressed up by a master hand in an artistic garb which brings out the beauty of the "tune" brighter and more enjoyable because of its setting and we call it classic because of its beauty and simplicity for a similar reason for calling the old Greek garb classic. There is no mystery in any form of real music; wherever there is affectation, pretension and posing, put it down to a lack of brains on the part of the performer and a desire to be dramatic where it is not called for.

What is wanted is the opportunity to hear more than once those pieces which are acknowledged by real musicians as representative selections. They cannot be grasped the first time. Curiosity prevents the necessary application of the mind on the music; prejudice has its power to prevent enjoyment and the ignorance of the language of sounds prevents the appreciation, but all those things and other obstacles disappear after hearing the music twice or oftener and in order that those who wish to enjoy the coming symphony concerts may do so it has been arranged to play some of the important numbers at the next Sunday concert and everybody is cordially invited to listen to the music and hear a short explanation of the pieces themselves.

Piano Support.

Chicago Post: The editor of the Oshkosh Northwestern was consul once to some place or other—we have forgotten where—and ever since that experience his journal has been the most sophisticated thing in all Wisconsin. It was his society editor who recently argued that after all, much was to be said in favor of simple course dinners "as over against" the Oshkosh practice of bringing all the dishes upon the table at once. And his musical critic, "writing up" a recent vocal concert in Oshkosh, plays well up to the editor's hard-earned cosmopolitanism:

"Charles Wark, a man of youthful appearance, slight in build compared with the woman, and gray as to hair, was at the piano. He understands perfectly how best to accompany the prima donna. He knows what volume is required, when shading is desirable and how much of it, and he follows every motion of the singer to detect her next requirement in the matter of piano support. He not only knows these things but he does them. That is why he is such an excellent accompanist. He wore evening clothes. The piano was finished in black, one of the low concert type of instrument, with a little outward turn, on the top of which Madame Jomelli gracefully rested an arm occasionally."

Some musical critic, that Oshkosh Northwestern man.

ABOUT THE LEGISLATURE.

How to Get Results.

Pine City Pioneer: One reason why the best moral sentiment of a community is not always represented in its legislation is because the moral element does not make its demands known to the legislative bodies. Lawmakers always respond to the pressure that is brought to bear upon them. Legislatures reflect the sentiment of the state and if the best element of the state wishes recognition it must make itself felt. The man who sits still and prays for the millennium while doing nothing to make his legislature move will never see the fulfillment of his desires. More work and less praying along this line will bring forth more fruit.

A Bit of Pessimism.

Montevideo Leader: The three paramount subjects for legislative action just now, are good roads, reapportionment and county option. Probably something will be done for the roads, but the other two are likely to meet with "hard times and great tribulations." To hear the shouters at the conventions and during the campaign, one would think that they would go through a afyling, but legislators are apt to get conservative, right after election and see things in a different light. However, we shall see what we shall see.

Concerning Mr. Gordon.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: There is said to have been a deal of criticism from the old guards over the appointment of the senate committees by Lieut.-Governor Gordon. That sort of eruption will only blow up Gordon higher in the confidence and respect of the mere people. Let 'er blow!

"Narrow and Selfish."

Blackduck American: It hardly seems possible that any man elected to the exalted position of state senator can be so narrow and selfish that he is going to oppose a reapportionment measure in order that he may hold onto his office for two years longer. There may, of course, be one of that caliber here and there, but we believe that the majority of Minnesota's legislators are men of brains who put the affairs of the general public above personal interests.

Progressives in Control.

Aitkin Age: Committee assignments by Lieut.-Governor Gordon are displeasing to the old guard and indicate clearly that the progressives are in control of the senate of the legislature. Such farces as saloon keepers on the temperance committee are not included in the speaker's program.

New and Beneficial.

Ely Miner: The state legislature has begun its grind and some new and beneficial legislation is promised the coming winter.

Is Reform Proposed?

Moorhead News: The legislature is contemplating abolishing the omnibus appropriation bill and requiring each appropriation to be contained in a separate bill. It is believed that with the abolishment of the omnibus bill, log rolling and trading at the state's expense would largely be done away with.

State Museums of Safety.

The Survey: One of the most popular exhibits at the recent Minnesota state fair was a collection of devices for the prevention of industrial accidents and diseases. Dangerous machines, each with its own appropriate guard, excited the keen interest of employers. Workmen said: "We will tell our boss about these things." State Labor Commissioner McEwen appreciates the suggestive value of permanent exhibits similar to the safety museums founded by the German government, and through his immediate efforts the Minnesota museum has been permanently installed at the capitol. A traveling exhibit will be sent over the state to illustrate lectures on accident prevention. Wisconsin has made a similar beginning in a modest way, and the coming year will no doubt see many more such exhibits properly founded by various states.

Simple Englishman.

Youth's Companion: One day Lowell met in Boston an English peer, who had been a great friend of his in London, and he invited the peer out to Cambridge to dinner. About this he had some misgivings, for he lived very simple, keeping only one servant. He even went so far as to say, as the horse car jangled Cambridgeward:

"You know, Lord Blank, we are very simple people, Mrs. Lowell and I."

"Oh," said the earl, "I love simplicity."

This remark fortified and comforted Lowell. It kept up his fortitude even when Mrs. Lowell informed him, when he got home, that there was nothing for dinner but creamed fish. But his spirits must have sunk a little when, at table, he essayed to help the simplicity-loving peer to the only dish, and the latter said, politely:

"If Mrs. Lowell will pardon me, I think I will omit the fish course."

To Reduce the Cost of Living.

St. Louis Republic: "Give me a back yard with forty square feet in it and a goat," said Dr. Thomas J. Allen of Chicago, noted as a food specialist, "and I will show anyone how a family of five largely can be supported.

"The high cost of living problem is all bosh if the head of the family would just adapt himself to circumstances and surroundings.

"On a small city lot you can easily raise all the vegetables necessary, except potatoes, to support a family of five people, and with the goat the cost of living will be reduced still more.

"The goat is largely lost sight of in this country. Goat milk is by far the best that anyone can drink. I state this as an authority on food values. Another thing, it is a good animal to have around. It is cheap to keep, is a fine playmate for the children, and you can depend upon it to keep the lawn well cropped without digging up the roots."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Catholic Times: "Look there my lady," exclaimed the thrifty man to his extravagant wife, "you're carrying too much sail."

"Why should that worry you?" she retorted.

"Because I have to raise the wind; that's why."

The Smart Set: The fool said one day in the king's presence, "I am the king!" And the king laughed, for he knew that his fool was wrong. A week later the king was angry, because of an error he had committed, and exclaimed: "I am a fool!" And the fool laughed, for he knew that his king was right.

Washington Star: "Do you think a secret ballot promotes honesty in elections?"

"Can't say that it does," replied the painfully practical politician. "The secrecy of it tempts too many men whom you have paid to vote for you to go back on their words."

Boston Transcript: Litigant—Your fee is outrageous. Why, it's more than three-fourths of what I recovered.

Lawyer—I furnished the skill and the legal learning for your case.

Litigant—But it furnished the case.

Lawyer—Oh, anybody can fall down a coal hole.

Washington Star: "What we want," said the citizen, "is an era of economy."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but there is always bound to be more or less altercation about who shall do the economizing."

Chicago - Record Herald: "Do you believe in making a genuflection before you enter your pew?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle.

"Mercy, no!" replied her hostess, as she flecked a bit of dust from the $2,000 grand piano, "if I have genuflections to make about people, I always do it outside of church."

Cleveland Plain Dealer: First Clerk—Isn't it fine the way the shoppers are coming in? I never knew them to do much buying so early.

Second Clerk — It's fine, all right, with one exception.

"What is that?"

"It's Mrs. Simpson. She did her buying so awfully early that she's already commenced exchanging things."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Farming is all right when it is only a memory.

Genius is a benefit to the world and an injury to its own family.

A man can think he is a good husband by just missing being a brute.

A woman wants a lot of clothes to wear and a lot more that she could wear if there were more days in the week.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

Probation Officer Resche and His Efforts to Give Youthful Wrongdoers Another Chance.

Probation Officer Col. F. E. Resche is engaged in a most interesting, as well as useful work. Every day he is trying to give boys and young men a chance to do better, improve their condition and make men of themselves.

It is a noticeable fact that during the past year he has had but one failure. Instead of reporting to the officer each week as the court ordered, this boy ran away and has not been heard from since. This is but one failure out of several hundred cases. In most cases the boys are glad of another chance and report promptly at the hour and day designated.

Each Saturday morning the colonel's office on the third floor of the courthouse is crowded with boys. He hears each story, drops a word of encouragement to those who seem to need it, points out the mistakes of the week, and praises them for actions that are worthy.

Col. Resche is a strict disciplinarian, but the boys say he is fair and he has their respect.

Col. Resche is the officer of the juvenile court. In this connection he comes in contact with the parents, as well as the children.

He sees all conditions of life and has many different kinds of problems to solve, a great many of which are not easy.

With all his work among the children of the city, he finds time to visit the homes of the destitute and help them.

He is the agent of the court in the matter of wife desertion and many a man has been brought back and made to support his family after being run down by Col. Resche.

He is also agent of County Attorney Norton in the matter of young men who have committed their first crime against the law and are placed on probation. After one of the colonel's talks in the little private room, few of them go wrong again.

COL. F. E. RESCHE.

Incidentally, Col. Resche was in charge of the relief work in the border fire district, and was given the warmest praise for his work there.

WHEREIN COUNTY VISITORS RUN AFOUL WHISKY AND THE LAW

Mike Devich and Fred Brekovitch, his reckless, running mate, hit Duluth yesterday from the country.

It may have been that Michael and Frederick had been in the country for some time, and that the sights of a city awakened a thirst for knowledge and for whisky. Running neck and neck in the race for the conquering of the ethical or the capacity part of Mike and Fred, the thirst for assorted booze seems to have clamped a half-nelson on the knowledge thirst, for according to report, both the visitors from the country were in that state where man's veneration for policemen and plate glass and other little things is as dead as an embalmed being.

Fred and Mike started to tear up the Bowery, while in this somewhat deluded state. Perhaps they didn't like it, or an ethical improvement sense teased into being by numerous draughts, suggested improvement; at least they started in to demolish a restaurant.

They entered one of the Fletcherizing joints conducted by one of the sons of the myster ous Orient, alive with garlic smells and husky odors that would discourage men with less resolute spirit than Frederick and Michael.

They ordered many things and when they didn't come fast enough, Fred and Mike started out in the kitchen to gently prod the help with the end of a mean looking knife.

One screaming girl, just as the heroine of the ten-twent'-thirt' show interposed her frail, black-clothed form in front of the villain, jumped in front of Frederick and Michael and screamed loud, long and fearfully. It might be said that the screams were heart-rending, but that word has been dreadfully overdone.

But the girl continued doing a combination Gertrude Hoffman Salome and an Eva Tanguay "I don't care" pedal accompaniment, in the meantime screaming notes louder if not possessing the sublime melody of Madame Tetrazzini. The screams were effective, for a person can't warble that way without being arrested or having some one else arested, for the sake of law and order and the prevention of riot, and the police and the waiters and proprietors and cooks and cookees descended upon Fred and Mike simultaneously, which means bunched.

At this juncture Fred or Mike, it isn't clear which, drew a knife that wasn't more than a foot long, and prepared to take the initiative, if not something more material, such as life and the effects of the place. But Officers Olson and Musolf, strong-armed minions of the law, secured holds on the country visitors, pin-falls resulting, the first bout going to the officers. In police court this morning the boys were fined $17 each, the second bout going to the court.

Fred and Mike will return to the verdant and peaceful country, if they can pay the line chalked up for their assault on the ways of the city's serenity, and may ponder wisely on the folly of meeting attack openly, instead of employing diplomacy and stealthy means.

PINE CITY WINS DEBATE

Industrial High School Team Defeated in Argument on Commission Government.

Pine City high school debaters defeated the team of the Industrial high school of West Duluth in a debate on the commission form of government at Pine City last evening.

The judges were Prof. McGuire of the University of Minnesota, Prof. Isaac of South St. Paul and County Attorney Stalberg of Chisago. The vote was two to one in favor of the Pine City team.

The West Duluth school was represented in the debate by John Davis, Fred Johnson and Clifford Stowell. On the Pine City team were Miss Lillian Polk, Miss Elinor Clark and James Clark. Both teams made a splendid showing, according to Principal Foster, who accompanied the local trio.

The question was stated: "Resolved, That the cities of Minnesota should adopt the commission form of government." The affirmative was upheld by the local team.

The local team lost its chance to take any further part in the state league debates, as the decision leaves the Pine City aggregation champions of the Eighth district. This title has been held by the Pine City school for the past three years.

MIDWAY SCHOOL CLOSED; LONG WALK FOR PUPILS.

Midway people have closed up one of the district schools in the neighborhood and have dispensed with the services of the teacher.

The thirty-seven children affected by the change are sent to a school three miles from the one that was discontinued.

While the change suits some of the people and perhaps a majority, there are a few who are inconvenienced by it. C. C. Miller of Midway has moved his family, in which there are four children attending school, to the city so that they may have the advantage of a school without walking over three miles a day.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL ELECT DIRECTORS.

An important meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club is scheduled for this evening when the election of the directors will be held. It was postponed from the last meeting when the annual election of officers was held.

Plans for the coming year's work will also be discussed at this evening's meeting. The annual reports of the past year's work were read at the last meeting, and at that time the work of the ensuing twelve months was but lightly touched upon.

WOMAN'S REALM.

During the present season orchestras all over the world have been honoring the 100th anniversary of Schumann's birth by giving programs devoted partly or wholly to his works. It is therefore eminently fitting that the opening number of the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra concert on Monday night next is Schumann's Symphony in B flat major, known as the "Spring Symphony." It was written in the happiest period of Schumann's life and creative activity, shortly after his marriage to Clara Wieck, and voices his longing for approaching spring. From beginning to end, the work bears the stamp of youth and freshness, absolutely healthful and natural with a fine breath of truly German romantic sentiment.

The program for the three concerts, as they are to be played, are:

Monday Evening, Jan. 16, at 8:15.

STUDY CLUB MEETS.

Hear Music Composed By Superior Musician.

Mrs. E. Frank Barker was hostess yesterday afternoon at her Park Point home to the members of the Park Point Study class and some of their friends. A program of interest was given by Mrs. O. A. Oredson, who told of her visit to English palaces and cathedrals giving most enjoyable word pictures. Miss Cora Stevenson gave an interesting talk on moving pictures and their effects.

A musical program was given by Miss Alta Hallock, who sang two numbers in a delightful manner. Her voice has a sympathetic quality of interpretation, which is charming. Three pleasing numbers were sung by Mrs. Florence Jolliceour Shilling of New York city and Mrs. Vernon Price played.

Miss Georgia Le Clare of Superior also added a number of unusual interest to the program in playing some selections, which were written by her brother, Alceroy Le Clare, formerly of Superior, but now of Chicago. Mr. Le Clare's pieces are delightful and have an individuality in them all which gives promise of marked musical ability. He has never had any of them published, but has received very favorable criticisms from well known musicians like John Porter Lawrence of Washington and Mary Hallock.

SATURDAY CLUB.

Mrs. Smith Will Speak on Oberammergau.

The regular meeting of the Saturday club will be held tomorrow afternoon at the library clubroom at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst as leader of the program which will be on the study of French art. Mrs. Brocklehurst will read a paper on "Gerome" and Mrs. Harbison, "Meissonier."

Instead of the current events discussion which is usually a part of the program, Mrs. Robert Smith will speak on the Passion Play at Oberammergau as she saw it last summer.

Will Sail for China.

Miss Elizabeth Hughes, a sister of E. T. Hughes of this city, will sail from San Francisco tomorrow for Pekin, China, where she will teach in the English Preparatory School for Boys. During the past year she has been a member of the faculty of the Normal school at Missoula, Mont.

Montenegrin Princess May Wed the Duke of Abruzzi

PRINCESS XENIA OF MONTENEGRO.

It is reported that Princess Xenia of Montenegro may marry the duke of Abruzzi. The princess has had many candidates for her hand, among them being Prince George of Greece and the Grand Duke Michael, brother of the czar of Russia. There are five living daughters of King Nicholas of Montenegro and three of them have made matches far in advance of anything their own country might afford. Princess Helena is the queen of Italy, Princess Militza married the Grand Duke Peter of Russia, Princess Anastasia is now Grand Duchess Nicholas and Princess Anna is Princess Francis Joseph of Battenburg.

DULUTH GIRL SINGS.

Miss Pressnell Makes Hit in University Operetta.

Miss Myrna Pressnell appeared in the Japanese operetta given by the European club of the University of Minnesota Wednesday afternoon and evening at the university chapel and of her part the Minneapolis Tribune of Thursday morning says:

"Miss Myrna Pressnell, in the role of Miss Knowall, the chaperone, was one of the best characters in the operetta. She presented a picture of the typical school governess we read about in books, and oftentimes see in every day life. Miss Pressnell acts well, speaks in a clear voice and displays an unusual ease of movement and expression. Her acting brought into the play many clever little situations without which which it would have been less successful. Her character work was exceptionally fine."

How to Manage a Man

By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WINTHROP.

The management of man is so simple, the managing so delightful to all natural women, that it really seems extraordinary that all do not acquire the art, and that the sad sight of an unmanaged person is ever seen.

Just as it is good for man to be managed, so it is good for woman to manage him. It is the one intellectual effort that doesn't render her haggard and hideous.

Women are all born mothers, and by "mothering" men, treating them as the strongly weak, wisely foolish, warm-hearted big boys that they never really cease to be, most of the "managing" is really done. There are, however, other things.

The highest aim of art is to conceal art. No smallest hint of the iron hand must ever be detected in the velvet glove. Not a touch of leading rein, spur, or curb be ever felt; or also, for any chance of that particular man ever being managed.

There is nothing of which men are more jealous than their absolute impenetrability to feminine influence; nothing they value like their so-called freedom. Once let him get the idea into his dear delightful head that these things are threatening, and wild asses from the tablelands of Tibet would be easier tamed.

In leading a man in the way one desires him to go, that is a method that never fails—flatter him into believing that is is the one particular road he is unalterably determined to tread, in spite of every obstacle that may present itself to him.

It's quite simple.

"As you so rightly said the other day, dear," is too flattering a speech to be contested as a rule, by easily-flattered man. He may possibly not exactly remember saying anything with quite the meaning that has been attached to it, but—it is so wise and sensible that, of course, he did say it.

"Feed the brute," has passed into a proverb, and maybe unthinking womenfolk are inclined to pin too much faith to it. There is another word beginning with "f" that is at least as important. If the art of man managing had to be summed up in two words, "food and flattery" would undoubtedly be the two.

At any rate the woman who doesn't know enough to bide her time, and win her way after her lord and master has dined, and got pipe or cigar in his mouth, doesn't deserve to own a man to manage.

It is said that in the Emerald Isle, the recognized method of driving pigs is to pretend to drive them in the opposite direction. Between managing the "lord of creation" and the conveying of a Hibernian piggy-wiggy to market there is naturally, no comparison. And yet—

Man's greatest charm is his simple-mindedness.

Almost always does he believe precisely what he is told, especially when the tale told is one that makes him realize afresh how great and noble and altogether perfect he is in the eyes of the story-teller.

Managing a man isn't nagging him into docility, or correcting his faults and failings by a course of "I told you sos," when he begins to suffer for them. Managing is just coaxing and leading by devious, but always pleasant routes to the path where it is best and happiest that he should walk.

As has been said before, managing a man is a pleasant enough task to a woman; yet such as the natural perversity of the feminine heart that it is doubtful if she is ever so thoroughly happy, or even loves her man so dearly, as when he throws off her yoke, declines to be managed, and proves himself in very truth her lord and master.

THE EVENING STORY

"SUCH IS LIFE"

By A. T. Owen.

When I was 13 years of age I was very much in love. She was a year my junior, with lovely dark eyes, and a wealth of glorious, glossy black hair. To me she was very beautiful. Her name was Lily. Looking back on the years that are past, I find food for reflection in my partiality towards sweethearts thus named. The Lilys outnumber the Ethels, Mabels, Roses and Floras by nearly two to one. There was only one Beatrice, and she—but to return to Lily, this Lily.

I remember how proud and happy I used to feel walking by her side on our way to the board school which we attended. People, it seemed, singled us out for their especial gaze; other boys glared at me enviously. My imagination was rather vigorous as a child. Sometimes—and oh, what splendid times they were—I had money. Then would we march importantly into the cozy little general shops near the school and I would buy goodies for my lady love. And she, dear girl, would offer me the bag so graciously. I believe I was sufficiently moderate in my acceptances; I know I tried to be. I recollect her preference was for a frosty sparkling confection called "snowdrop creams," and that one only got six, or, at the most, seven for a nickel.

In the evenings after tea I would wend my way with all possible speed to the house in which she lived. She would come out sometimes. Often, however, I tarried for many weary minutes, and was only rewarded with a glimpse of her fair features when it was nearly 8 o'clock and a fond parent at home required my presence indoors. I have pondered, and do so even now, on the suspicion which sometimes entered my head, that she was not always so busy helping mother, as she made out to be; but indulged her feminine instincts so much as to keep me waiting purposely. I know I used to sometimes think I saw the curtains at the window of the dark front room twitch slightly.

On Saturday mornings, after she had finished what she grandiloquently called her housework, she would come to the park to meet me—mud-stained and lightly clad—returning from the football match. Usually I had a tale of victory to tell, of splendid and heroic charging, of science and elusive play. Now and again, a beating having been my team's portion, I would be gloomy and monosyllabic. But on whatever occasion, her words and presence always cheered, raising my triumphant joy to greater heights, lightening the darkness of defeat.

In the evening we would go shopping. Advice, serious and very wise, I would give her, and warm with inward pride when it was acted upon. The joy I experienced when a pair of quiet boots which I had recommended were bought by her in preference to a costlier pair of gorgeous high-legged brown ones to which her own fancy inclined, cannot be expressed in words.

Sunday crowned all. With what loving care I polished my boots that day—the compulsory week-day clean, imposed by a strict school master, received nothing near the same amount of attention—brushing them till they shone resplendent in the morning sunlight. How feverishly I unfolded my suit of Sunday best, with a coat cut like a grown man's, and looked carefully over each garment to see that nothing was amiss; that there were no specks of fluff, no bits of clinging cotton, no little burst of seams, no stains. And oh! the attention lavished upon the bow, which finished off the speckless white collar encircling my throat. How many times I tied and untied and retied were impossible to count.

Then, when all was finished I would sally forth in all my sartorial glory, arrayed, in vulgar phrase, "to kill"—and succumb in the first moment of our encounter. For she, always beautiful, was on Sundays inexpressibly so. She would wear—but there, how can I say what she wore? I was blinded, dazed in her company, and only recollect that it was something that became her wonderfully as a gilded frame a beautiful picture.

In the mornings Sunday school was neglected. We walked out instead, "the fields" being honored by our presence on their shady paths. We talked a good deal, about flowers and grass and trees. Indeed, Sunday mornings, it seems to me, were our most loquacious times. Not so the evenings. Afternoon Sunday school separated me from my goddess for a few hours, and tea, prosaic meal, had to be endured before we met again. Once more "the fields" would receive us; this time less talkative. As the dusk deepened we would speak in whispers; so as not to disturb the slumbering flowers it may be. I would hold her hand. She used to thrill deliciously when I called her "dear." The gloaming made me bold. Sometimes I would muster up courage to put my arm around her waist, and once—once, when there was nobody in sight—I kissed her.

All this was many, many years ago.

I saw her again last night. It was raining thinly and she did not see me, her attention being otherwise engaged. She had changed. Her eyes, instead of glowing softly, burned with a bright fire. Thos lips, which once, full and ripe, had met mine in an ecstacy of bliss, were now bloodless and tight drawn. Her hair, that had been her greatest pride, was unbrushed, hanging about her face in tangled, untidy masses. She was not dressed, her clothes merely hung on her, a shapeless, draggled heap.

I recognized her by her voice, which, though harsh and shrill, yet retained something reminiscent of her girlhood tones. She was saying—but there, why repeat it? What she said had been said many times before in similar circumstances. The being whom she addressed lurched along before her, head bent, hands in pockets, mumbling blasphemously. He heeded her not at all, as, following at a little distance, she poured out the vials of her wrath upon him.

Spellbound, I stood for a moment listening, while scenes from the years gone by crowded back into my brain. Then she swore I hastened away.

The Kitchen

Rules for Making Pastry.

1. Make in a cold place, if possible.
2. Keep hands, utensils and ingredients as cool as possible, or the pastry becomes heavy.
3. Rub in the shortening with tips of fingers, as they are cooler than the rest of the hands.
4. Add the water carefully, so as to avoid making the pastry too dry or too moist. If the former, it will be chippy; if the latter, heavy and sodden.
5. Handle pastry as lightly and as little as possible.
6. Use the rolling-pin lightly and as little as possible.
7. Bake pastry in a very hot oven, to expand in it, and thus lighten.

Oatmeal Biscuits.

Ingredients—Four ounces of medium oatmeal, two ounces each of flour and butter, two eggs, half a teaspoonful of baking powder and two teaspoonfuls of castor sugar. Method—Mix the oatmeal, flour, baking powder and sugar in a basin. Warm the butter gently until melted, pour it into the oatmeal, etc. and add sufficient beaten eggs to mix all into a stiff paste. Turn and roll it out about one-eighth of an inch thick. Stamp this paste out into rounds. Prick them through several times with a sewer or fork and lay the biscuits on a slightly greased baking tin and bake for about twenty minutes. They should be crisp and a light fawn color. They keep well in a dry tin with a well-fitting lid.

Helps for the Cook.

A kitchen golden rule is to clean as you go, and to save unnecessary labor and fatigue.

Before using a new saucepan, boil it out with soda water to which a few potato parings have been added.

When roasting potatoes under the meat, they should first be parboiled, and then lightly sprinkled with coarse salt before serving.

Never leave a metal spoon in a saucepan if you wish the contents to boil quickly, for the spoon is the means of carrying off a great deal of heat.

SOCIETY IN WASHINGTON

No "Four Hundred" and No "Bohemia" at the Nation's Capital.

An Aristocracy of Brain and Brawn Which Does Things.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Washington—the most provincial capital of the world!

That is the accusation which Baroness Hengelmuller, the wife of the ambassador from Austria, has hurled at the nation's law center.

"Provincial and dull" is alleged to have been the exact wording of the indictment, which the countess is said to have brought against us.

Her extremely undiplomatic utterance is regarded in Washington as positive proof that she expects to leave town and that this is her last dart at the society which she found so distasteful. Previous impeachments are regarded as accountable for the rumored departure.

Needless to say, Washington is breathing great sighs of relief at the news, for the wife of the Austrian ambassador has long been a thorn in the flesh of the society of the nation's capital. She has been the one woman who has dared to defy the Taft social regime.

A recognized leader in society at the capital, the baroness has created more than one sensation by her utter disregard of Washington's customs and conventions. She favored the European sunday and has not hesitated to give affairs on the Sabbath in the face of the disapproval of the wife of the president.

Only one other member of the noblesse stationed in Washington has had the temerity in recent years to make such an arraignment of this country's capital as has Baroness Hengelmuller. The other woman was Baroness Des Planches, wife of the Italian ambassador, who held the post at Washington until six months ago. The Baroness Des Planches was so indiscreet as to make a remark at a public function that she did not care for Washington society. The remark is held largely responsible for her husband's transfer. In both instances social dictators were quick to answer the charges.

Says It Is Delightful.

"Washington society is most delightful," declared Mrs. John W. Foster, wife of the former secretary of state and minister to China. "In no other capital is intelligence and character more appreciated."

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, personal friend of both Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft, said:

"The fact that Washington is not as large as New York, London, Paris and Vienna gives the inhabitants of this city many advantages that dwellers in those cities are apt to overlook. The absence of opera and other diversions here has a good effect, for it makes society dependent more on the personality of its members."

The truth about Washington society is that it is a bundle of contrasts and contradictions. It has no foundation in tradition. It is both cosmopolitan and provincial. It is cosmopolitan in that it is the seat of a great government. It is provincial in that it is nothing else. It is a society of contrasts, but no one can deny that its intelligence, culture and refinement are not only as great, but greater, perhaps, than those of any other community in this country or abroad.

What makes Washington provincial in comparison with foreign capitals is the absence of great political houses, such as for generations have existed in London, in which government leaders meet and members of the opposition gather for the exchange of political views or for consultation over public measures. There are no political salons, such as were so potent in the annals of France in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and which still exist in Paris.

Influence of White House.

Washington probably appears "provincial" also to visiting peeresses for the reason that the White House exerts less influence upon the social life of the capital than do the executive mansions of other capitals.

Questions of rank and precedence come under the jurisdiction of the White House also, and to this extent the structure and its occupants do influence the doings of Washington society.

To be truthful, it must be said that there is no really great society in Washington such as there is in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. For instance, Washington in reality may be fairly described as a salaried man's paradise. Here are found the country's best and most talented, but by no means its wealthiest. These employes of the government do much to raise the general level of intelligence, culture and refinement which distinguishes Washington from other cities of the country, but they do not make toward its social prominence, as that term is generally interpreted today.

There is no "Four Hundred" in Washington. There is no "Bohemia." There are no ancestral trees. There is, however, an aristocracy of brain and brawn which does things.

The atmosphere of Washington is primarily political. The commercial instinct has no place there. As a result, on subjects of general interest the run of men are generally better informed than they appear to be in other cities of the country. This is due, no doubt, to the greater leisure they enjoy, the peace and repose that come to them when the day's work is done—the absence of the storm and stress which accompany the business man's active career in these days.

Washington men are men of the world. The average woman in Washington society knows little and cares less about politics than she might about the quadrature of a circle. She is in this respect quite unlike the English woman of society, who as a political factor is almost the equal of her husband; whose views on public questions are listened to with respect, and whose influence is frequently felt in the settlement of public affairs.

Women Most Charming.

The women of Washington, however, are among the most charming and delightful of the country and the world. They are for the most part democratic and unpretentious. The simplicity of the earlier days when Washington was a purely Southern city still leaves its influence. Many of the old customs survive—hence the provincialism. Families still sit on the front steps when the weather permits; carriages are still drawn up in front of the markets on certain days of the week; young girls still sanction the parade through the streets in the evenings to the theaters without head covering, the social leaders still believe in the primitive character and potency of the picnic and other bucolic diversions, and families still dine in the middle of the day on Sunday.

Washington's only really serious offense of ruralism, however, is one which it shares with sister cities throughout the country—the homage which it accords any foreigner of rank. No capital in the world makes so much of diplomats as does our own. Neither in London nor in Paris nor in Vienna does the fact that one is a diplomat open the doors of a single private house to him.

Yet in Washington there are many houses which fairly yawn to admit within their walls any foreigner, providing he is a diplomat. It is one of the worst evidences of Washington society's provincialism.

Society closes its eye to many things in the family life of diplomats which it would not tolerate for a single moment in the family life of Americans. Skeletons may be rattled as often and as loudly as the owner pleases, and yet it does not seem to impair his standing.

On the other hand, it must be said that all newcomers are made welcome in the capital providing they have something in them to make the welcome worth while, and in that does the city show its easy-going liberality and its cosmopolitanism.

The orange is the most luscious and healthful fruit. California excels in quality of oranges. The best of the California oranges are now packed in individual wrappers labeled "Sunkist."

Five thousand orange farmers in California do their own packing, shipping and selling. They grade and select their crop into "firsts," "seconds," etc. The firsts are fancy, tree-ripened, hand-picked, seedless, fibreless, thin-skinned oranges—every individual orange a perfect specimen of the finest variety of oranges. They are not only more healthful and more palatable than other oranges, but they are actually cheaper, for they are nearly all meat and nourishment.

Your dealer sells "Sunkist" Oranges. Ask for them. You will know them by the tissue paper wrapper in which each "Sunkist" Orange is packed. On the wrapper note the label, "Sunkist." Keep all the wrappers. They are worth money to you

Best California Lemons Come in "Sunkist" Wrappers

You can judge lemons by the "clothes" they wear. If they wear "Sunkist" wrappers they are juicy and good, for they are not thick-skinned or pithy. They are just as fine as "Sunkist" Oranges, and their wrappers are equally valuable.

MUCH MILK IS NOT FIT FOR USE

So Says Report of the State Board of Health.

St. Paul, Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—"It may safely be said that only a very small proportion of the milk sold in the cities and villages of the state of Minnesota is fit for use," says Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer of the state board of health in his biennial report, which will be issued soon.

This is not the only statement which merges on the sensational concerning the milk of the state, which he says is no better in quality now than two years ago.

"The use of any other food product," he says, "in as filthy condition as a portion of the marketed milk would not be tolerated. Water containing as much filth would be classed as sewage."

Dr. Bracken discusses the entire subject of milk regulation and inspection by state and city authorities. He says that if the money spent in the last ten years in attempting to stamp out tuberculosis among cattle of the state had been spent in the education of farmers and dairy men, much greater results would have been accomplished.

PROF. GRAY WILL LECTURE

Dr. John H. Gray of the University of Minnesota, where he is professor of economics, will deliver the first of the series of lectures on agricultural subjects this evening at the Y. M. C. A.

These lectures are given under the auspices of the Association Institute of the Y. M. C. A., and the Commercial club and include practical discussions of farming, dairying, gardening and horticulture by men who know.

The lectures are of the greatest value to Duluth and surrounding territory because of the growing demands for agricultural products here and the excellent quality of the soil that lies idle and awaiting the tillage that will make Northeastern Minnesota the garden spot of the state.

OPPOSED TO HUNT.

Montana People File Charges Against His Confirmation as Judge.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Charges filed with the senate committee on judiciary aginst the confirmation of Judge William Hunt, associate judge of the court of customs appeals, appointed by President Taft as an additional judge for the Ninth judicial circuit for service on the new commerce court, were the subject of an executive hearing yesterday.

Judge Hunt's opponents are land owners in the vicinity of Anaconda, Mont., who claim that their lands were ruined by the fumes from the great Anaconda smelters.

Judge Hunt was on the district bench in Montana in 1905 when the land owners began proceedings against the smelting company. It is charged that the case was delayed in every possible way to assist the corporation.

The chief argument was made by C. J. Sawyer of Anaconda. He said the land owners never had sought relief in the state courts because the state was in the grasp of the smelting trust. Mr. Sawyer was asked to submit a written brief.

DIX NEUTRAL.

Governor Will Express No Preference in New York Senatorial Fight.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Governor Dix last night took issue with Governor-elect Wilson of New Jersey, in the matter of taking part in the senatorial fight. Governor [illegible] said he would not declare himself for a candidate.

"I do not agree with Governor Wilson," he said, "I think the legislature is amply able to cope with this question. They were answerable to their constituents for their decision."

Governor Dix said that he intended to confer with Charles F. Murphy to learn at first hand the sentiment of the New York county Democracy. It is said that the Tammany leader intends to stay here until after the legislator senatorship caucus Monday night.

The pressure upon the governor to abandon his neutral attitude is increasing every hour. Friends of Edward M. Shepard went to the executive chamber yesterday in increasing numbers.

"Not yet," was also Mr. Murphy's answer when asked if he had taken any public stand in favor of William F. Sheehan.

STOTT-BRIQUETS

"The Fuel of the Century"

Actual demonstrations made in the Twin Cities during the past month have shown the wonderful possibilities of "the modern wonder fuel."

Read this reproduction of a letter from one of the most experienced merchants in the Northwest:

BOUTELL BROS. COMPLETE HOME FURNISHERS. DRAPERIES, LACE CURTAINS & WALL COVERINGS. CORNER FIRST AVENUE SOUTH AND FIFTH STREET. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. 11/8/10

The Northwestern Fuel Co.,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Gentlemen:—

After two weeks trial in a Steel Range, and two weeks trial in a Heating Stove, in our Stove Department, we feel justified in recommending your Stott Briquets for general use in these two different stoves. We found it particularly satisfactory in the Steel Range, making a quick fire, and as clean as Anthracite Coal.

Yours very truly,

Dict. F. D. B. BOUTELL BROS.

F. D. Boutell

THIS LETTER tells its own story—it is the result of a practical and exhaustive test of the "Modern Wonder Fuel" in the well known Boutell Bros.' store in Minneapolis. It only reflects the universal experience of Stott users.

STOTT BRIQUETS are made from Pure Anthracite screenings. They are, therefore, pure anthracite coal.

STOTT BRIQUETS burn to a white powdery ash—"there's not a clinker in a carload."

STOTT BRIQUETS have solved the fuel problem for many a household in the Twin Cities—they will do it for you.

STOTT BRIQUETS when properly used give the best results of any fuel ever known. Their uniform shape, the ease of handling, their cleanliness and many other advantages commend them to every user of fuel.

STOTT BRIQUETS will save you money if used in furnaces, stoves, ranges, heaters and grates. The only kind of heater to which they are not adapted is the self feeding stove.

STOTT BRIQUETS show less loss on account of breakage than any other fuel on the market; they show the greatest heat efficiency of any fuel ever known.

Think of buying PURE ANTHRACITE COAL, delivered at your home, for, per ton

$6.25

That's what you do when you buy Stott-Briquets.

Ask any fuel dealer about this wonderful fuel. If your dealer won't tell you, call on, write or telephone us.

Strength Comes

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest.

A Tablet Digests a Meal. Trial Package Free.

Most people eat most foods without discrimination—it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn on the road to dyspepsia. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the unquestioned causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison throughout the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of poison. What else can be expected? If the food lies in the stomach, if the system is constipated, fermentation is the natural outcome. It shows itself in sour watery risings, belchings, heartburn and painful breathing.

There is only one way to relieve this condition. If the stomach refuses to digest your food put something into it that will. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nothing but digestives. They are not a medicine. They work when the stomach will not.

Each tablet contains enough pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive elements to reduce 3,000 grains of ordinary food to the proper consistency for assimilation into the blood.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are absolutely pure. There is nothing harmful in them as shown in their indorsement by 40,000 physicians in the United States and Canada.

Ask your family physician his opinion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and if he is honest toward you he will state positively that they will cure your stomach trouble whatever it may be, unless you have waited too long and have allowed your disorder to develop into cancer.

Act today and begin to end your suffering. A free trial package will be sent to your address upon request. The 50-cent size packages are for sale at your druggist's. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CONTINUED COLD

Duluthians may think it is colder, when the mercury is seeking the bulb at the bottom of the tube, but remember, Angeline, there are colder spots on this frigid globe than little old Duluth. 'Twas a half century below the zero mark at Prince Albert, up in the Canadian Northwest, last night. At Calgary, which is not far from Medicine Hat, the highest temperature yesterday was 34 deg. below zero. The low mark for Duluth was 9 deg. below. Faugh! and likewise Fudge!" Duluth is in the tempertae zone—perhaps. Milder weather will prevail in Duluth tonight, but the inland country will continue to entertain this hard working cold wave.

Balmy, slushy, sticky weather was Duluth's portion a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:51 and it will set at 4:43, giving eight hours and fifty-minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The cold wave central Thursday morning over Saskatchewan and Alberta has spread eastward to including the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Northwestern Wisconsin, Western Ontario and Manitoba. Zero weather prevails in all those districts and westward to including Montana, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, the coldest being 50 deg. below zero at Prince Albert. As there is a considerable probability that the wind at the Head of the Lakes may shift into the northwest during tonight the temperature here will be somewhat modified as a result, but further inland the weather will continue cold throughout tonight and most of Saturday. During the last twenty-four hours snow or rain fell over the greater portion of Middle and Northern states and the Southwest in connection with the barometric depressions overlying Western Wyoming and Western New York. Snow flurries are quite probable at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Saturday:

Upper Michigan—Snow and much colder tonight; cold wave; Saturday generally fair and colder in east portion.

Wisconsin—Threatening weather tonight and Saturday.

Minnesota—Generally fair and continued cold tonight and Saturday.

Iowa—Snow tonight or Saturday; not much change in temperature.

North and South Dakota—Snow tonight or Saturday; continued cold.

Montana—Snow tonight or Saturday; continued cold.

Shippers forecast: Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against zero temperatures in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and the Michigan Upper country.

HEARING IS ADJOURNED

Proposed Theater Ordinance Discussed at Length in Open Meeting.

Managers Want Information on Censorship Methods in Other Cities.

Following a lengthy discussion of the proposed ordinance regulating shows and exhibitions in the city before the committee on ordinances and resolutions in the council chambers yesterday afternoon, an adjournment of two weeks was taken, until Jan. 23. The additional time was granted to allow of a further investigation of the methods of censorship followed in other cities.

The members of the committee who listened to arguments for and against the ordinance are: Aldermen Shartel, Hoar and Hector. The council chambers were well filled by representatives of both sides, including theatrical men, members of the women's council and clergymen.

Manager Charles A. Marshall of the Lyceum, H. W. Piering of the Orpheum, Joseph Maitland of the Empress and Thomas Furniss of the Odeum and Lyric, were all present.

The draft of the ordinance as submitted by Alderman Moore was taken up section by section. As each was read it was subject to comment. The chief objection was lodged against that which provides that the filing of an affidavit signed by two persons, stating in general terms that the show violates the provisions of the ordinance, shall be sufficient evidence that the management has knowledge of the character of the show, should it violate the requirements of the ordinance.

Manager C. A. Marshall of the Lyceum theater stated that he would rather have the captain of police tell him to keep his house dark on a certain night than be arrested and dragged into court, as then there would be no trouble. He wished at least two weeks' time in which to communicate with other cities to ascertain the methods of censorship followed by them.

One person present shouted that indecent pictures are being shown on the curtains of some of the moving picture houses of Duluth. When he was promptly challenged to name them, he said that he had not been to any shows in several weeks, but that he had been told that such was the case.

The theatrical men took the general stand that they favor any move which will prevent indecent or immoral shows or pictures, but that they did not want to be put at the mercy of irresponsible persons. They wanted only a fair chance and desired to have at least an equal opportunity to defend themselves, should they ever be brought into court. They also maintained that they had heard absolutely no complaint of immoral shows or pictures in Duluth.

GLOTFELTER IS MADE PRESIDENT

Waterville Man Beats J. M. Underwood for State Fair Board Head.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 169 to 123, C. W. Glotfelter of Waterville was chosen president of the Minnesota State Agricultural society yesterday afternoon over J. M. Underwood, president since 1910.

The balance of the officers chosen are: First vice president, E. J. Stilwell, Minneapolis; second vice president, Reuben Werner, Jr., St. Paul. Board of managers, Robert Crickmore, Owatonna, term expires 1912; C. P. Craig, Duluth, term expires 1912; F. W. Murphy, Wheaton, term expires 1913; Thomas Canfield, Lake Park, term expires 1913; George Atchison, Mankato, term expires 1914; W. W. Sivright, Hutchison, term expires 1914.

Life Member Is Stricken.

A dramatic feature of a lively session was the death of C. B. Clark of St. Paul, a life member of the association, who made a strong plea for the retention of Mr. Underwood, but never lived to hear the outcome of the vote, as he was stricken and carried from the hall, dying soon afterwards. Some say the fight on Underwood was for the purpose of getting the scalp of Secretary C. N. S. Cosgrove, but this will not be determined until Tuesday evening. Mr. Cosgrove has the support of George Atchison, W. W. Sivright, Reuben Warner, Jr., and Thomas Canfield, and is believed to be favored by C. P. Craig. Mr. Craig has not stated his position. Governor Eberhart's friendliness to Mr. Cosgrove, it is believed, will keep him in the place for another year at least.

President Glotfelter's inaugural address, while brief, was pregnant with the work he expects to do. It is evident he enters upon his duties open to suggestions. That he is unpledged was indicated in his brief address.

FEW DOSES END KIDNEY MISERY

Most Severe Backache, Bladder and Urinary Trouble Vanishes.

In all the world there is no man or woman who can afford to neglect the slightest kidney disorder for one single day.

Kidney diseases are the most dangerous, because the first signs are seen in other parts of the body before anything wrong is noticed with the kidneys themselves.

Some of the symptoms, though, cannot be mistaken; for instance, a constant aching or misery in the back, sides or loins, or headaches and dizzy spells, nervous twitchings, disturbed sleep, inflamed or puffy eyelids, heart palpitations, rheumatic pains, weakness, bilious stomach or a feeling of languor and fatigue. Sick, unhealthy kidneys also cause thick, cloudy, offensive urine or it is full of sediment, irregular of passage and often uncontrollable or attended by a sensation of scalding.

The time to cure kidney trouble is before it settles into Diabetes, Dropsy, Gravel, or Bright's Disease. The moment you suspect the slightest kidney, bladder or urinary disorder, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere in the world, which will effect so prompt a cure, in just a few days you feel and know that the kidneys, bladder and urinary organs are healthy, clean and normal and all danger passed.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will vouch for the responsibility of Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati, Ohio, who prepare Pape's Diuretic — 50-cent treatment—sold by every druggist in the world.

COLD STILL GRIPS DULUTH

Low Temperature of 9 Deg. Below Zero---50 Below at Prince Albert.

The mercury touched 9 deg. below zero, the low mark, at 7 o'clock this morning and the weather was pretty brisk all during the night, with the wind fresh at times. Comparatively, the conditions were mild at Duluth. To the north and northwest, temperatures vary from zero to 50 deg. below, the latter mark being registered at Prince Albert this morning.

The wind will get into the northeast tonight, it is expected, which will cause more moderate conditions at Duluth, with the temperature at zero or slightly above. Inland, including the ranges, the mercury will get to 10 deg. below zero or thereabouts, with the extreme cold continuing throughout the Northwest.

ADVANCES SUSPENDED.

No Change to Be Made in Freight Classification Before March 15.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Official announcement was made by Judge Clements, acting chairman of the interstate commerce commission, yesterday of the further suspension of the proposed advances in official classification territory to March 15. The suspension was made voluntarily by the carriers.

It is probable that, there will be a similar suspension in Western trunk line territory arguments which are to begin next Monday morning.

The probability is a decision of the two cases may be reached about March 1.

Final statements by counsel for the carriers, largely in response to arguments for the shipping interests, were submitted yesterday to the commission.

FAMOUS TABLE.

One on Which Treaty of Ghent Was Signed, to Be Used By Architects.

San Francisco, Jan. 13.—Members of the American Institute of Architects who attend the annual convention in this city next week will sit at the table upon which was signed the treaty of Ghent, ending the war of 1812 with England.

The table became the property of President James Madison after the signing of the treaty and was placed in his office at the original White House. The White House was burned soon after and the table was one of the few pieces of furniture rescued.

President Madison moved his executive office and the table to Octagon house, in Washington. Octagon house is now the home of the institute of architects, but the table has had a vagabond career and has come into the possession of Mrs. Olfred Voorhies of this city. She will lend it to the architects for the conference.

THE FIRESIDE CLARION

EXTRA "Oh wad some power the giftie gie us to see oursel's as others see us."—Burns. EXTRA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office for the benefit of curlers only.

"JIMMY" MYRON, WALTER HARRIS, "BILL" McKAY AND JACK McMILLAN,
Probably the Greatest Curlers in the Local Club.

Give a look at what happened to this picture.

There are several versions.

One is that after beating Harry Hurdon, this rink got so swelled up on itself that they couldn't all get in the picture. The men used to be of ordinary size but the best the special photographer for the Clarion could do was to get half of them in.

It doesn't make so very much difference, anyway, as "Jimmy" got three pictures in the Clarion out of five poses and that is not such a very bad record.

The careful observer will detect that there is something missing on Jack McMillan's right. We will state that there was a broom there. Mr. McMillan held it all the while the picture was being taken. They cut the broom out when they trimmed the picture because it really is not an asset. Jack never uses it on the ice and the photographer was trying to get a picture as true to life as possible.

Of course, Myron was all at the rink at the time. It must not be supposed that because he takes pictures in sections that he sends himself around that way. This is positively the last appearance of a picture of Myron in the Clarion. The editor refuses to be worked for more press-agent space.

It is hard to say anything about Walter Harris. You cannot say anything bad, and it is against the policy of the Clarion to say anything very good. He talks a lot and makes a good deal of noise for one so young. He has a strut down the ice that rivals the one carried about by Johnny Pugh and he is cultivating Pugh's worried look. He is nearly always at the rink and never does he curl so well as when the observation room is crowded with admirers. Walt, old boy, you're all to the mustard.

"Bill" McKay came to Duluth several years ago from Heaven only knows where. It didn't take him long to find the curling rink and that is where he has received his mail ever since. It is said, however, that he knows a lot more about wholesale groceries that he does about curling.

Jack McMillan was actually seen to sweep a stone once. The particulars are lacking. It is said that he forgot himself and caught himself sweeping before he knew it. He swears that he didn't do it intentionally. Everybody believes him. The first time he ever sent a stone down the rink, it turned around 15,456 times. He was told about the inturn and the out-turn and he evidently thought that this was the most important part of the game. After curling that number of times the stone brought up with a bang mid-way between the start and the finish. Since that he has learned a lot about the game and he now is able to show some of the rest of us.

This rink has won games on several occasions.

THIS SPACE RESERVED FOR LATE CURLING NEWS.

P. S.—There wasn't any.

"REDDY" IS COMING; TUCKER WON'T BE WITH US.

A personal letter to "Jim" McLennan from W. G. McKay of Pardeeville, Wis., says.

"Dear Mac: Your letter at hand this morning. We are expecting to send several rinks from this county to your 'spiel. I contemplate going with a Portage rink if we can get it fixed up. The fellows all remember you, Mac, and will appreciate a personal invitation.

"You remember Chet Caldwell of Rio, or 'Reddy,' as you called him. I understand he expects to go with a rink skipped by Gabe McMillan of Arlington. Mr. Tucker does not expect to be able to attend the 'spiel this year on account of the recent death of his father, otherwise he would certainly have been there, for he appreciated the way you treated him last year.

"The date of our 'spiel is Monday, Feb. 6, in the new rink house, which is the best in the state. We are planning on having a delegation from Duluth at our 'spiel, and shall endeavor to give them a good time. We can take care of the people much better in Portage than we were able to here last year. I hope, Mac, that you are planning to attend our 'spiel yourself, also the other boys who came with you last year. Your mayor is very kind in promising to turn the key over to the curlers while at Duluth, for you know, Mac, we might need it.

"Thanking you for your kind invitation, and hoping I will be able to meet you on the 16th, I am, very truly yours,

"W. G. McKAY."

THE HERALD EVENT NEARING THE FINALS.

The Herald event is about over.

McLeod reached the finals last night when he defeated Ralph Bradley, 12 to 8.

In the final game he will meet either Charlie Brewer, Dinham or Dr. Catterson.

Dr. Catterson is at the present time in the semi-finals of the event. He will meet the winner of the Dinham-Brewer game for the right to contest the finals with Ron McLeod.

The second round in the St. Louis event is nearly over and the rinks are gradually thinning down to a point where the contest is becoming extremely interesting.

In The Herald event Brewer and Dinham will play off their game Saturday night. This will leave the winner to meet Dr. Catterson. The winner of this game will meet Ron McLeod in the finals but with the bonspiel coming on next week the latter games will have to be postponed until after that event.

HERE IS SOME "DOPE" ON THE BANQUET.

Wednesday evening of next week the annual banquet will take place.

The committee in charge of the affair has sent postals to all the members of the rink and from the answers that have come in, there will be at least 225 at the big feed.

The annual affair will be held in the ball room at the Spalding hotel. This room is large enough to accommodate all who wish to attend. The committee asks that all those who intend being there inform the committee of their intentions. This is simply so that arrangements may be made to care for everybody.

The dinner will begin at 6:30. No telling what time it will break up.

After the meal there will be speeches by home and out-of-town curlers and a good old-fashioned musical program in which a number of the members of the local club will take part.

The banquet is the big affair of the year. Get in, everybody, and help make it a "howling" success.

FIVE RINKS ARE COMING FROM WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Clarion.)—There will probably be five rinks from this place. Only one of them will be in attendance the first of the week, but the other four will be on hand in time for the big international event in which there is a great deal of interest here.

GOOD FOR RAINY RIVER; ATKINSON IS COMING AGAIN.

Rainy River, Ont., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Clarion.)—Atkinson had such a good team at Duluth last year that he will be on the job again this year with three other curlers which he says are as good as ever stepped on the ice.

HERE'S SOME GOOD NEWS FROM DOLLAR BAY.

Dollar Bay, Mich., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Clarion.)—A Dollar Bay rink is going to curl at Duluth next week. The makeup has not yet been decided upon.

HARD LUCK, GEORGE; WE HAD EXPECTED YOU.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—George McKenzie of this place is about the most disappointed man that ever was. He had fully intended attending the big 'spiel at Duluth next week and he now finds it impossible to get away.

EVELETH IS SURE TO SEND AT LEAST ONE RINK.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Clarion.)—There will be at least one rink and probably two from this place at the Northwestern bonspiel at Duluth next week. Fred Smith is trying to line up the boys and they are willing enough to line up if they can make arrangements to get away.

HURRAH FOR VIRGINIA; FOUR RINKS COMING.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Clarion.)—Four rinks from Virginia will probably be in attendance at the big bonspiel at Duluth. The curlers here are much interested and as many rinks as can be made up will be sent to represent the local club. There is a good deal of interest by all the range clubs in the Ordway contests.

Others are falling in line. You are next.

It was a big week, many games being played.

Here's hoping in the games with Superior tonight.

From present indications the 'spiel will be the biggest ever.

We were glad to have the compliments of the "press agent" of the Minneapolis Curling club along with the good dope on the Murray Kid rink which he sent. Come in again, Minnie.

The work of putting in the extra rinks has commenced. The skaters will suffer for about ten days.

Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele made his first appearance at the rink last night. He curled in the Richardson--Dinham contest. "It seemed mighty good to see you, Artie. Come again."

Rupert Meads is not curling much this year. "Rup" is a good curler and there is lots of room. McGilvary is shy a man for the bonspiel. Get in, Rup.

There were four good games at the rink last night and the other sheet of ice was being used in a game of points. No other year has the rink been so popular.

Isn't St. Paul going to be represented in the bonspiel? It wouldn't seem like a real bonspiel if there were not at least one rink from there. Can't you make it, Bob?

Clarion Notes.

Watch for the Clarion bonspiel extras.

Did you pipe the exclusive features in the last issues.

A department will soon be opened and edited by Rumpus Cameron on "Hints to Curlers." In this column there will be something of interest to everybody. No curler is too old to learn. Three lessons are guaranteed to teach you enough about the game to beat Ron Smith.

"Gentlemen, What Are You Going to Do About It," will be the title of an illustrated article by Stephen Henry Jones and will deal with the building of a new rink.

Arthur Plato Michaud is soon to contribute a serial on "Frenzied Curling."

"The Most Graceful Way to Lose a Game," by Edward Bok Harbison, is a fine piece of work. It will appear shortly.

"Walter Poehler," a character sketch by Guy Warren, will tell exactly what Warren thinks of him.

And many other big features including a pose from real life by Master William Dinham.

HOCKEY CLUB AT MICHIGAN

Three Duluth Boys Represent Ann Arbor Institution on Ice.

For the first time in the history of athletics at the University of Michigan the chances look bright for the successful launching of a hockey club. While in other years there have been a few men who played a game of varsity caliber, there have been at no time enough to make a team.

This wealth of material has resulted in considerable agitation by the hockey enthusiasts with the result that the first of the week a hockey club was organized. Of the seven men selected for the first seven three hail from Duluth, Minnesota, Wharton, Kenny and Doyle, constituting the trio who call the Head of the Lakes their home.

The organization so far has been unable to secure university recognition because of the newness of the venture but already games have been scheduled with the teams of the Detroit Athletic club. It is hoped that before the end of the season that the team will be able to play under university auspices. Much will of course depend on the first games.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Larry Wilcox of Cloquet writes in and asks how long Corbett was out in the Fitzsimmons fight and what was his attitude after he regained his feet.

That knockout was one of the most dramatic in the history of fistiana. As many of you remember, Fitz suddenly shifted and drove in that body-crushing solar plexus blow. Those at the ringside say that never has there been such an expression of agony on the face of a fighter, as was depicted on Corbett's countenance. Terrible physical suffering, the fear of defeat and agony of mind and body made even hardened followers of fighting and Fitzsimmons adherents feel for the sinking champion.

Corbett crawled to the ropes and attempted to lift himself to his feet. He was not unconscious, but his mind was held in an agony of terrible physical suffering. The count had hardly been completed, and Fitz had started to walk to his corner even before Siler had finished the count, when Corbett rose to his feet and made a frenzied rush at Fitz. He swung wildly at the new champion and acted like a man in an insane rage. When he was quieted he begged Fitz for a fight, saying he would lick him on the street.

Then Fitz replied he would shoot Corbett, or something to that effect.

E. H. Kerkhoff, Pierz, Minn. — The Central high school basket ball team of this city is by far the best aggregation in this city. The team defeated the Y. M. C. A. team last season, and so far the present year has shown high class form.

There is a communication with the sporting editor for Vaarno Saaron, heavyweight wrestler.

Here is a new one. The Minneapolis Curling club has a press agent, and there comes a lengthy communication regarding the rinks that will come to Duluth. The Murray Kid rink, which is mentioned in the communication, should prove an attraction at the spiel.

VIRGINIA SOUTHPAW SIGNED BY NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 13.—The New York American League club yesterday signed Ernest Burbank, a left-handed pitcher of Hampton, Va. Burbank is 19 years old, weighs 170 pounds and stands five feet, 10½ inches high. Contracts were received by the New York National League club from Frank Manush, a third baseman, who was with New Orleans last year, and from Jack Johnson, an outfielder, who was with Dallas in 1910.

"Doe" White Signs.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—"Doe" White, famed as the singing twirler of the White Sox, has attached his name to a contract for the coming year, according to an announcement here today. H. G. Reynolds, a catcher, obtained by the Sox from the Columbus, Ga., team of the South Atlantic league also is reported to be safe within the fold. Reynolds is noted throughout the South for his throwing arm.

INNOVATION IN SCHEDULE

American Association Clubs Will Make Four Trips During Season.

Will Play 168 Games --President Thomas Chivington Is Re-Elected.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Thomas M. Chivington was re-elected president of the American Baseball association at the annual meeting held here yesterday. He also will serve as secretary and treasurer of the organization while William R. Armour, owner of the Toledo baseball club, will act as vice president.

The election of both officials was unanimous. They were elected for one year.

After the election President Chivington named a committee to draft a 168-game schedule for the 1911 season, which will open April 12 with the Western club appearing on the Eastern fields. It was decided to book no double headers in the schedule although postponed games will be doubled up later in the season. The playing season, Chivington announced, probably would run a week longer than last season.

The club owners decided that each club make four swings around the circuit instead of three, thus breaking up the schedule to three game series and giving each club more games at home. The plan of arranging a four-jump schedule is an innovation in baseball especially in the big leagues as it has been the custom since the inception of the American association for each club to make but three trips during the season.

"Adopting a four-jump schedule will be an experiment," said President Chivington, "but I believe it will be more satisfactory than if the clubs were to make only three trips. It will give the teams more games at home and lessen the traveling days. While making a trip the teams will only be away from twelve to sixteen days, whereas they were on the road from eighteen days to three weeks in following the routes of the previous schedules."

No Invasion Talk.

The plan of invading Chicago with a club was not discussed although it has been reported that an option has been secured on the North side with a view of launching a team to fight the National and American league clubs in Chicago. The American association is held to a ten-year agreement with the Eastern league and national commission and will be unable to formulate plans for expansion until the expiration of the contract next fall.

Managers or captains of teams who permit players under their charge to burlesque the game will subject them selves to a fine of $300 and fifteen days suspension without pay according to the resolution adopted by the directors. President Chivington has been authorized to inflict the penalty for any infraction of this rule.

President Chivington announced that he would issue a call for a schedule meeting to be held in Chicago early in February.

The presence of Hughie Jennings, manager of the Detroit American league club at the meeting caused a report that the Milwaukee club was after Tom Jones, first baseman for the Detroit team. The report was not confirmed by Jennings, however, who is on his way to California with his bride.

JOHN RUD MAKES HIT DOWN EAST.

Reports received here from John Rud, the sensational somersault artist, the boy who does the aerial turns on skis, state that he is making a tremendous hit in Boston and some of the other of the New England cities. They have never seen anything like it before, and Rud is attracting fame as one of the most popular outdoor performers who has ever appeared in the East. Rud may be home in time to appear at the Duluth ski tournament.

ADAMS AND KODAHPAS WILL MEET TONIGHT.

One of the best hockey games of the present season should result this evening when the Adams and Kodahpas of the City league line up at the rink at the Twenty-fifth avenue west. These two teams are strong rivals and also are two of the strongest organizations in the league. There has been a great deal of rivalry between the two clubs, and the lovers of hockey are assured of a warm contest.

The lineup will be as follows:

Adams.	Position.	Kodahpas.
Amel Krlz	g	Fenton
Axel Erickson	p	MacCrea McKenzie
Billy Olsen	cp	Watterworth
Ed Olsen	r	Caulkins
R. Alder	rw	Trathen

POLITICS OF BASEBALL

The Rival Candidates for President of the Minny League.

Barton Urges Invasion of Twin Cities---Force Does Not.

(BY BRUCE.)

Here is a typical example of the politics of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league. Winona will send a representative to the league meeting next Tuesday, will undoubtedly hold out for this "rally around the Minny league" stuff, and yet as a matter of fact ways and means have not as yet been devised to raise the indebtedness of the club.

At the meeting of the stockholders the other evening, President John Borth resigned, as did Fred Schaefer, the secretary of the club. Several of the directors declined to stand for re-election. The condition of Winona is an example of the condition of some of the other clubs of the organization.

Just at the present time politics is going strong at the half, and so exciting has the race been that some of the other facts have been overlooked. It is humbly suggested here that some very important financial facts be investigated before the directors cast the ballot for the president. The directors are assured right here that some very interesting information will be brought to light.

Frank E. Force is at the present time bidding for fame by assuring almost every club in the league that if he is elected president, that club will remain part of the organization. As yet he has failed to give his attention this way, for an interesting situation might spring to light.

Fans Rule Club.

The directors generally rule the destinies of a club, it is true, but in the end the fans rule the destinies of baseball. Today is Friday, the meeting of the league directors is scheduled for Tuesday. A careful inquiry among the fans of this city has brought out the fact that the very large majority of them are for an expansion of the Minny league and the dropping of some of the towns on the present circuit. It is time it was told.

George A. Barton of the Minneapolis Daily News told the plain and unvarnished truth. He stated that baseball did not pay in some of the towns of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, and it was about time that the Twin Cities were invaded, as the towns were large enough to support two teams. Frank E. Force says that all the towns should remain in the circuit. Mr. Barton happens to be right, in the eyes of the fans here in this city, and Mister Force happens to be very wrong.

Mr. Barton hasn't abandoned the race and his support isn't the kind that gets weak-kneed and shows a timid streak, as a certain writer has intimated. There is nothing like scrapping away to the very end, for the game is never over, you know, and there may be a lot of interesting things brought out at the meeting.

Want Expansion.

It has been stated on numerous occasions that Duluth and Superior are lined up for Force. The inside facts are as follows, and it might as well be told right here, that Duluth and Superior are first and last for the invasion of the Twin Cities, if this move can possibly be accomplished. Both cities lost money in the Minny last season. Duluth owes the league money at the present time, and neither is crazy about the same circuit for another season.

That is the plain truth. The fans in this city are strong for the Twin City idea, and it is a wise club owner who follows the voice of the fans. The most successful magnates have, like Teddy, kept their lobes close to the ground.

It has been stated evidently by a writer who has a little knowledge of the politics of the Minny league that he closes his little eyes and takes a headlong leap at glittering generalities, that the reason why John A. Elliott is resigning is because he lives in the circuit and he verily believes that someone outside the circuit should be elected.

That is the best joke sprung since the Eau Claire writer stated that in a forfeited game every player is credited with a hit and putout.

Mr. Elliott is leaving, for one thing, because the partisan fans down Winona way were so het up over baseball that they tabooed the Elliott bottled stuff. Elliott is in the wholesale liquor business, and he discovered that his Winona receipts had dropped to very nearly nothing. Business and only business, is the cause of the wish of Mr. Elliott, a genial gentleman and loyal friend, to withdraw from the presidency of the league.

Mr. Elliott is on record as saying that Duluth deserves consideration in the election of the presidency. On former occasions he has stated that A. W. Kuehnow was one of the best informed and ablest baseball men over the Minny circuit. Fair minded critics, knowing both Barton and Force, would be honest in admitting that between the two men Barton has it on the chap who is so eagerly seeking the presidency. Honest writers would simply be fair in stating that as far as qualifications go, A. W. Kuehnow is far better qualified than Force to lead a reorganized Minnesota - Wisconsin league.

It is a safe wager that some of the men writing of the two candidates, know neither Barton or Force, their personal characteristics, their work, or what they stand for personally. Those who know George Barton best boost for him hardest. He isn't out of the race, and as for the Duluth stand and Duluth interests, there is something on ice at the present time that may develop interest later.

CENTRAL HIGH QUINT WILL MEET SANDSTONE.

Central's crack basket ball team will meet the high school team of Sandstone this evening. The students of the hillside institution are confident of victory as Central is believed to have one of the strongest teams in the history of the institution. Osman, Johnson, Harris, Jeronimus, Harris, Solheim and Waldron are the players who will make the trip.

The team has been working hard the present week under the coaching of Coach Schillings and at the present time is in the best form of the present season.

Kilbane Is Winner.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland defeated Gussie Wellson, a Buffalo featherweight in a ten-round bout near here last night. Kilbane was too fast, especially in his footwork, for his opponent.

GOSSIP PICKED UP ALONG THE SPORTING HIGHWAY

'Tom' Madden's Word Final in All Sporting Affairs in Duluth—The Grand Old Game of Curling.

(BY BRUCE.)

"Poor Tom, there was one good fellow."

That statement has been heard on every side since the sudden death of "Tom" Madden. "Tom" Madden was big of heart and honest in intent and purpose. He was not "cultured," and the word covers a multitude of sins, and he might not have hit over .200 in the drawing room league, yet "Tom" was a man, all man, through and through, and he was square and above board.

No man at the Head of the Lakes bore such an enviable reputation, in many respects as the big fellow. He was always on the level and his word was good enough for most men, even of men who habitually look with the scrutinizing eye of suspicion upon any deal, or statement, and impugn distorted meaning to every motive.

Genial, big of heart as he was big of body, generous, recognizing the spark of humanity in the lumberjack as quickly as he would in the man of position, "Tom" Madden was a man liked upon all sides for his big and human qualities.

In the rougher and tougher days of this town, when every gang that swarmed down from the woods had its fighting man, big Tom was a power to be reckoned with. He was far too genial to seek trouble; instead it was his wont to act the part of the peacemaker. But if ever the genial giant was aroused over some mean trick, some underhanded piece of work, or was accused of cowardice, he turned like the genial Jekyll to the furious, hating Hyde, a fighter with the primitive strength of man.

In those days it is doubtful if he realized his great strength. Many tales are told to this day of the feats of strength of the departed man. But he it said of him that he never used this great strength in an unfair or cowardly manner, and that often he stood between the strong and the weak; calm and strong in his judgments among the rougher class.

In the world of sports his decisions were looked upon as final. Big Tom was never accused of any ulterior motive, for rugged and unflinching honesty enfolded this placid giant, as a mantle enfolds the gentle sleeper of the night.

A lot of people will miss the big fellow. He was associated with the growth of Duluth from a small village into a large and prosperous city. He made friends easily and he retained them firmly, as the magnet draws the lode stone. By no means were his friends confined to the sporting world. Business men knew and liked Tom. Honesty and rugged qualities of manhood will arise above environment often, and though Tom Madden kept a saloon, which at times has been the hangout of the roughest and toughest of characters, he seemed somehow strangely untouched, uncontaminated by the surroundings.

He was a type, a character. He was Irish clear through and spoke with just enough of a brogue to be delightfully naive at times. He was a child in many things, guiltless as a child in many things, and his character was unmarked by a mean or petty trait.

He was a man, before all, and in some primitive age where strength and courage were the ruling factors in life's advancement, Tom would have been a great leader of men who bow to strength or physical force.

There was nothing ethical, artistic or pessimistic about Tom; he was a rude force of common clay, radiating sunshine and good cheer, taking life as he found it and doing little acts of kindness along the rough path. He was liked, yes liked on all sides, and his going will cause a pause from the day's activities and a genuine sadness among those who knew the big fellow as he was.

Let genial joy be unconfined; three 'rahs and a tiger for this genial joy stuff. It is not true at all that a clever lawyer could have all curlers committed before the probate court on a charge of insanity—it is merely because you don't understand the game and are naturally pessimistic or have dyspepsia that you thus frown on the game of the roaring stanes.

Rally Round the Curling Rink; the Boys Are Coming Along.

Sitting in the glass fronted observation room, Gertrude, and watching these men sweeping the ice, yelling, gesticulating, talking, imprturing, entreating a cold granite, spinning rock, you might yawn a well bred yawn, Gertie, and state that it is Dustin Farnum and a box of chocolates for yours, but you have the wrong idea, and if Archie, seated beside you, says he agrees with you thoroughly, and that it's a funny, nonsensical sport, you want to can Archibald and get a real steady.

To witness the unbending of reserved Seymour and to hear the impassioned, didatic and rhetorical declamation of A. E. McManus, an Irishman garbed in Scotch trimmings; to see Marshall Alworth really moving fast and animatedly; to actually be enlightened by the spectacle of "Tony" Telford leaping, yes, fairly leaping from the cautious calm, from the grave, settled serenity that seems to sit on Attled serenity that seems to sit on Attlo as a burden weigheth, one must come from the state of doubt and become suddenly convinced of the wonderful influence this game has on the transformation of character.

Len Culbertson has actually been observed running from one end of the rink to the other, and so interested in the games the other evening was Ralph Bradley, that he was seen without a cigar. This is the first time this has occurred in three years. The game draws men from the jacket of their everyday habits and transforms them, for the time at least, into a being bathed in the youth-giving waters of some Utopian spring.

When you gravely observe, and observe again to assure your doubting orbs, "Colie" Naughton lose that habitual expression of the martyred saint, with features like a Raphael, and literally burst forth into chubby-faced glee, cooing and crooning over that stone, like a sweet young matron to her very first; why, gracious sakes alive, Gertrude and Archibald, you have to hedge a little and sell short on that first opinion.

When the creases of care and concentrated thought are brushed gently away from the grave countenances of our leading business men, powder erases trial marks from the countenance of the shady siders, and the smiles come bubbling forth, like a sudden geyser on the stern profile of a rugged mount; then you must know that the spring of regained youth is in the game, and that the fount of youth, that Ponce de Leon searched for fallingly, through the long waste of desert miles, is found there.

She is a great old game, which melts away the crusty crust from men's hearts and makes them Marathoners in the broad highway of genial joy. On the square, Gertrude, if Archibald knocks the game, shake him, for the boy has a frozen well of sorrow in his system that would make the cold and forbidding smile of a South African missionary seem like unto the glorious rise of old Sol on a summer's morning rampage.

WINONA GETS LEAGUE MEETING

News received here this morning states that the Minny league meeting will be held at Winona next Tuesday. But six answers were received from the querries sent out by President John A. Elliott, asking the magnates to express a preference for the scene of the annual meeting and election of officers. Four of the answers were in favor of Winona, one for St. Paul and the remaining one for Rochester.

The meeting will be called to order at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and it is expected that some very interesting matters will come before the magnates. Outside of the election of a president, which is naturally an important matter, there are seven fathoms or more of financial fuss to go through, and along this line some interesting information regarding the past baseball season may develop.

It is very probable that A. W. Kuehnow of this city will attend the meeting.

ALROTH WILL SKATE FOR NATIONAL HONORS.

Carl Alroth of this city will enter the amateur ice championships which will be skated in New York city Jan. 23. One of the prominent skaters of the West, Alroth will attempt to win one of the national skating championships the present season. In the past he has made strong bids for the coveted honor, but has never been successful in landing one of the national titles. ON THE IRON RANGES

PARCELS POST PLAN INDORSED

Two Harbors Commercial Club Goes on Record for That Boon.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The parcels post idea is popular with the members of the Commercial club, while Postmaster General Hitchcock's scheme to advance postage on magazines is equally unpopular.

At a meeting of the Commercial club last evening, it was the unanimous opinion of all present that action along those lines should be taken, and recommendations were made, instructing the secretary to write our senators and congressmen at Washington advising them of the wishes of the people in this locality favoring parcel post and being opposed to the advance of postage on magazines.

JURY IN STONER CASE STILL OUT

At 1 p. m. Today Twelve Men Had Not Reported Reaching a Verdict.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A disagreement of the jury looks probable in the case of the state against Stoner, the Chisholm policeman, tried in the district court on the charge of shooting a Buhl man by the name of Moore last summer.

The jury took the case at 11:15 a. m. yesterday, deliberated all the afternoon and evening and was locked up last night. Up to 1 p. m. today the jury had not been heard from.

CHIEF THAYER AND VIRGINIA SCHOOLS

Claim That All His Charges Are Without Foundation.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Fire Chief F. A. Thayer, who made a sensational report on the local school buildings, came in for considerable unfavorable comment by members of the school board and citizens present at the meeting Wednesday night. Mr. Thayer was summoned to attend the meeting and substantiate the statements made to the police and fire commission, but he was too busy with his duties in some lodge, to come and offer suggestions to remedy the "terrible" conditions which he had pictured in his press dispatches to a Duluth paper. If any of the school buildings are "unsafe" or "death traps," as the chief represent, he should not rest day or night until the "awful" conditions are remedied.

That any such condition exists the board of education denies absolutely. The chief visited the Roosevelt school in vacation time, Jan. 3, when there were no children in the building. He says he found some of the doors locked. Strange, isn't it, that the school doors should be locked in vacation time? These doors are always unlocked while the schools are in session. He found two lengths of hose off the racks in vacation time. This had been permitted partly to test the hose and partly to flood the rink. The hose was in place when school opened and is always in place in case of emergency. The chief forgot to mention the fact that he ordered the expensive fire alarm box, No. 42, disconnected last October, and it hasn't been connected up since. Before these boxes were put in he represented to the school board that the lives of the children would be in jeopardy without said connection; now he orders box 42 in a three-story structure, disconnected, and leaves it disconnected for three months. Will he please explain why this is done?

In his newspaper article the chief speaks about "doors opening inwards." The chief must have made his inspection from the "far distance" with a telescope, for as a matter of fact there is not an outside door in any of the buildings in the whole school system, that opens inwards.

The chief says he found an accumulation of snow and ice on the Johnson fire escape. Thomas Carroll, the man in charge of this building, says that when the inspection was made he accompanied the chief, and that there was not then and never is allowed to be, "an accumulation of snow and ice." The school authorities inspect these fire escapes weekly and have never found this one out of condition. As to the use of a basement room in this building, the only exit from which, as the chief reports, is "through a door leading from the boiler room," it is hardly believable that a man holding a public position would make a statement so easily proven false. The exit from this room is not through the door leading to the boiler room at all. The exit from this room is through wide double doors, which communicate to three separate and independent stairways, besides the room in question has twenty-two large windows that open out on to the ground level. There was no cause for starting the above sensational yarn.

At the Primary building the chief says he found "the fire escape not properly taken care of" and "the boilers under a good head of steam with no one in charge," etc. Ernest Geske, who has charge of this building, was present at the board meeting Wednesday night to hear Mr. Thayer make this statement, if he would. Mr. Geske says that on the day of the inspection he went with the chief to look at the fire escape, that it was not covered with snow or ice, and that he is never absent from the building while school is in session. Moreover the boilers are low pressure, and never carry a "good head of steam," the steam gauge seldom showing over five pounds. The school board is wondering how it happens that the Central school, which is the weakest one in the system, escaped the chief's spleen.

The school board is doing and is anxious to do, everything in its power to add to safe fire conditions surrounding the school buildings. To this end, some time ago, it gave an order for a steel fire escape to the Virginia Foundry company, which escape will be ready for erection on the Central building at an early date. The auditorium stage is to be rebuilt soon, at which time the wiring for the footlights and overhead lighting will be put in conduits. A new fire escape was built on the Primary building last year under the direction of Director Clarence Moore. If it is not all right now, who is to blame? When the iron fire escapes now in place on the Roosevelt and Johnson buildings were erected, they were pronounced properly constructed by the state authorities. What has happened to make them out of date in five years? The truth of the matter is, Chief Thayer has used his important office to pull other people's chestnuts out of the fire.

VIRGINIA CLUB OPENS CAMPAIGN

Fires First Gun in Struggle to Divide County of St. Louis.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Commercial club, 159 members being present, the first gun was fired last night in the campaign for the division of St. Louis county with Virginia as the county seat of the new county.

President Arnold said the time had arrived for Virginia to take the initial step for division. Being authorized to appoint a committee to start things, President Arnold named Judge J. R. Montague, Alderman A. D. Heritage and Attorney R. C. Pickering. This committee will meet this afternoon in the offices of Arnold & Pickering to consider work to be done. This committee will send notices to the Commercial bodies of the ranges to send committees to meet here with the Commercial club, which is scheduled for next Thursday, Jan. 19, at the city hall at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The publicity committee, which will be appointed later by President Arnold, will have considerable work and in view of this fact this committee have been empowered to select a permanent secretary, who will devote his whole time in looking after the interests of the club, promoting everything for the welfare of the city and in advertising its advantages.

Want Better Library.

C. C. Butler, a member of the library board, urged the club to interest itself in the appeal to be made to Andrew Carnegie for an additional appropriation of $50,000 for a new library building. It will be the endeavor of the board to convince Mr. Carnegie that the amount asked for is not too large. Mr. Butler said that a building as proposed would not cost the taxpayers one dollar more than is now being paid by them for the support of the present library. The Canadian Northern Railway company, has made an offer to the board for the purchase of the present library site to be used for depot purposes, and it is now up to Mr. Carnegie to say whether the board may let it go.

Judge Montague scored the express and telegraph companies entering this city for their discrimination against Virginia. He said that the express companies would not deliver a package off the main street without extra charge. The telegraph companies came in for a bitter denunciation by Judge Montague for charging double rates for sending and receiving messages at this point. He suggested that the Commercial club get busy and see if such discrimination could not be abolished.

A committee consisting of John R. Krogdahl, J. H. Fleming and W. J. Archer was appointed to look into the affairs of the Virginia City band, which is having trouble with its former leader, Frank Meehan, over some property belonging to the band, and which the members claim has been confiscated by Mr. Meehan.

N. B. Arnold was unanimously chosen to succeed himself as president of the club; C. C. Butler was elected vice president, to succeed Otto A. Poirier, Attorney W. J. Archer succeeds O. H. Griggs as secretary-treasurer, and Mayor Andrew Hawkinson, Alderman A. D. Heritage and Judge J. H. Fleming were chosen as trustees.

Over 100 cars of mixed freight are being received from the Head of the Lakes and switched via Kelly Lake daily. Coal forms the heaviest item of the 100 cars.

Green Room Gossip.

There is a certain amount of satisfaction in seeing the other fellow receive the same sort of treatment which you did under blood-boiling conditions, which you were unable to resent for business reasons.

There is a scene in "The Lion and the Mouse," which aptly illustrates this. John Burkett Ryder, the money king, is awaiting the advent of "Sarah Green," in his private library. The great and the near great have appointments with the financier. The private secretary enters the presence to announce the governor. Ryder looks up growling, "Can't see him."

"But Mr. Ryder—"

"Tell the fool to go home; I'll send for him when I want him," snaps the money king. The desk telephone rings Ryder grabs the receiver savagely. Then comes a monologue like this: "Had an appointment with you? It's broken. Came a thousand miles to keep it. Mr. Ryder is out." Nearly everyone has cooled his heels in the ante room of the mighty. That's why the scene is enjoyable and contemptible.

"The Lion and the Mouse" will be seen at the Lyceum Saturday and Sunday, with a matinee each day.

"Do you know why it is that not until recent years did America begin to produce great acrobats and gymnasts?" asked Miss Bird Millman, who is at the Orpheum this week, appearing in a sensational wire walking act. "It is because it takes two or three generations to make a great dancer, or a great acrobat, or a great gymnast. In Europe there are great acrobatic families, and the children, generation after generation, follow in their parents' footsteps. They begin their training when they are hardly old enough to walk, and it is continued until they become too old and stiff to continue, when they become instructors to the next generation. We are just beginning to get the second generation of acrobats and gymnasts and dancers in America, and in time I think American dancers and acrobats will be the finest in the world, for they seem to put more life in their work, and attempt more sensational feats.

"My mother and father were both wire artists before me, and my father is still working, having an act in England now. They put me on the wire when I was hardly more than a baby, and I made my first public appearance when I was 8 years of age. So you see, I am an old timer in the profession, having been appearing in public for twelve years as a wire walker. I have lived in circuses and theaters for twenty years, and I like it as much as I ever did. I would like to spend a year or two at some other line of work, but I would never be content to leave this permanently, I think."

When Donnelly and Girard used to hit Penn Yan, N. Y., twenty years ago, to present their comedy, "Natural Gas," it was an event which shook that little town to its depths. Penn Yan didn't have any amusements in those days, which were even before the time of the Swiss Bell Ringers, and Donnelly and Girard were looked upon as bigger men than the president. The "opery house" wasn't big enough to hold the crowds that turned out for this annual visit and the natives reckoned that Donnelly and Girard were about as "smart as anbody in New York."

Today Eddie Girard is in vaudeville. His old partner is no longer with him, but he has as an assistant funmaker, Miss Jessie Gardner, and they are appearing at the Empress in a sketch called "Dooley and the Diamond." Girard is the same old Girard who used to delight the natives of Penn Yan, and incidentally about fifty other small towns in New York and Pennsylvania, on his annual tour in "Natural Gas." He has some new jokes, for those in "Natural Gas" became classics, and some of them are still in every-day circulation with a little different local coloring. They have become classics, but many an old-time Easterner will remember fondly the enjoyment that Donnelly and Girard gave in the old days before vaudeville was known.

New bills for the second half of the week are being shown at the Odeum and Lyric theaters. The famous old story of "Justinian and Theodora," written by Elbert Hubbard, is the feature of the Odeum photoplay. Other numbers on the bill are "When a Man Loves" and "In the Neighboring Kingdoms." Elizabeth Maddox is singing an illustrated song, "Just a Dream of You," which is well received.

At the Lyric "The Argonauts" and "All's Fair in Love and War" are the feature films. The first tells the story of the gold rush to California and the latter tells an amusing story of the love affairs of a school teacher and two mischievous children. The third film on the bill is a Western story, entitled "The Gambler of the West." L. S. Mistachkin is singing the illustrated song, "Show Me the Way to Frisco."

The Saturday matinees at these two theaters are growing in popularity every week, as women shoppers find the two theaters convenient places for an hour's rest and amusement.

CLOSED POUCH MAIL SERVICE

People on Soo Line Between Moose Lake and Plummer Authorized.

Chief Clerk De Forrest of the railway mail service received notice today that a closed pouch service has been authorized for the Soo line between Moose Lake and Plummer beginning Feb. 6.

Duluth business men had hoped that a complete service, including mail clerk and postal car, would be established on this line, but it is said that the present policy of economy being followed by that branch of the postal department will prevent the desired extension until the volume of business warrants the additional expense.

PHILIP LLOYD, GRANDSON OF MRS. JONES.

The following are some extracts from letters Dr. Caldwell has received:

"I wish to thank you for the sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. My little grandson, Philip Lloyd, had suffered from stomach trouble; when I sent for the bottle of Syrup Pepsin he was suffering all the time and had an acute attack of gastritis. I gave him the medicine, which he said was 'nice,' (he is six years old) and by the time the bottle was empty, he was cured. I was so pleased that I want to tell you what a valuable remedy you have made."—A Dr.'s Widow, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Jones, 4125 Perry St., Chicago, Ill.

"I liked the sample of Syrup Pepsin so much that I sent at once to my druggist for two 50c bottles, so I have it in the house regularly. My children like to take it, which pleased me very much, as sometimes we have trouble in getting them to take other laxatives."—Chas. H. Reichert, 3101 Jamaica Ave., Richmond Hill, L. I.

"We have received your sample bottle which you sent upon request. I have never had anything in a medicine form that has accomplished anything like yours has. It is simply great. I have already used two bottles of the 50c size after the arrival and using of your sample."—Mrs. Katherine Haberstroh, McKees Rocks, Pa.

There are literally thousands of women in this country who gratefully acknowledge that they owe the present good health of their Children to the timely use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The crying baby usually is constipated or suffers from intestinal trouble due to some error in diet. It needs no heroic measures—just a gentle laxative like Syrup Pepsin. A small dose of it will right the baby. It is a great laxative and digestant, pleasant-tasting and non-griping. No baby or child refuses it. Many mothers never give their children anything else, and they have robust children and no doctor's bills. It is a great money saver as well as a great life saver. If space permitted, thousands of women's addresses could be given who write they will never be without Syrup Pepsin in the house. It is for all the family—for anyone who realizes that salts and strong cathartics are only temporary expedients. You can buy a bottle of your favorite druggist at fifty cents and one dollar, or if you wish to make a trial of it first, you can obtain a free sample bottle from Dr. Caldwell by sending him your name and address.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. The following are some extracts from letters Dr. Caldwell has received:

"I attribute much of my own present good health, and surely that of my baby, to the use of Syrup Pepsin. I always have it in the house, as it is so often needed, and I could not exaggerate its value to me."—Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, Good Will, Okla.

"I received your sample bottle of Syrup Pepsin and also bought a 50c bottle. It is the finest remedy I ever bought for constipation for children. I am very much pleased with it."—Mrs. Ella N. Williams, Wathena, Kas.

"I received your sample bottle, used it, and got a 50c bottle and find it is the best thing I could get. My baby was troubled with constipation and I now have no trouble."—Mrs. Toomey, Emingsville, Pa.

"About two years ago I sent to you for a sample bottle of your Syrup Pepsin. After taking it I concluded to give the remedy a fair trial, for I had been suffering for some time with indigestion. My stomach would ache so badly at times that I could not be still. I commenced taking your Syrup Pepsin and found it to be a good remedy. I can eat anything I want now. I have found it to be a good remedy for children. Now I keep a bottle on my mantle all the time."—Mrs. Ida A. Fortune, Grand Junction, Tenn.

Duluth Commercial Club Committee Considering Tri-State Fair.

As the result of a general discussion of the project for holding a Tri-State fair annually in Superior, with Northern Michigan, Northern Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota participating, the representatives of the Superior Commercial club, at a meeting held today, in the Duluth Commercial club rooms, agreed to submit some time this week a general outline of their scheme, setting forth the financial and other essential factors involved.

When this has been done, the Duluthians will give the plan careful consideration and the public affairs committee may be called upon to act definitely on the proposition.

The discussion today covered many features of the proposed fair so far as they have been developed and the Superior committeemen were enthusiastic advocates of united action by the two cities to make the exposition a big success.

They emphasized their belief that such a fair would be of incalculable value to the northern regions that are in need of settlers and declared its results would immediately benefit the Head of the Lakes.

SENATOR BOYLE HOME FOR THE WEEK END.

State Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth was in the city today, coming from St. Paul last night. He went on to Eveleth today to attend to some business matters that require his attention and will return to St. Paul Monday.

"The work at the capitol has consisted of organization and the introduction of bills, so far," he said. "It will be some time before measures of local interest will come before the legislative bodies for action, as the committees have them in charge and they have not settled down to work yet."

The legislature adjourned yesterday to reconvene Monday evening.

FRIDAY THE 13TH BRINGS NO BAD LUCK.

Friday the 13th.
But nothing in particular occurred on the street to denote the supposed significance of the day. To be sure, slippery sidewalks had their victims, but no serious results from these mishaps came to light.

"Unlucky day? Well I should say not," said a traveling man at the Spalding. "This little snow flurry is enough to mark the day as an ideal one. Snow in the winter time for me, and for business. Besides, it isn't so blamed cold when there is a snowfall. Friday the 13th suits me to a T."

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 13.—The house today went on record 67 to 1 as opposed to the customary junket to visit all the state institutions. HEAVIEST SNOW STORM KNOWN

Steady Fall for Thirty-Six Hours Breaks Record at Reno, Nev.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 13.—The present snow storm is the heaviest within memory in this district. After a steady fall of thirty-six hours, there was a record depth of two feet on the level late last night. A depth of twelve feet is reported at Truckee and six feet at Immigrant Gap, Cal.

Passenger trains are being held at Truckee, Cal., and Sparks, Nev.

Temperature 42 Below.
Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 13.—While the snow blockade situation is relieved in British Columbia, the Canadian Pacific railroad is having great trouble in the mountains. The best snow fighters in the Canadian Pacific railroad service are on the ground seeking to start traffic moving but so far their efforts are unavailing.

The temperature in Feld last night was 42 deg. below zero with a bitter wind blowing and snow falling. Men with shovels are making practically no progress.

MUCH EASIER TO HAVE BEEN SILENT

Senator Gore Tells of the Attacks Made on Him.

Washington, Jan. 13.—"My experience has demonstrated how much easier it is to remain silent and secure than to wage war against wrongdoers of a certain character," said Senator Gore of Oklahoma today in his concluding statement to the house committee, which has been investigating charges of attempted bribery in connection with legislation bearing upon contracts of certain Western attorneys with Indians, calling for large fees.

"My fate has been the common fate of every man who makes such a disclosure as I felt compelled to make to the senate," said the senator. "I know that all that malice and money could do to discredit me would be done; and the results have justified my anticipation."

Senator Gore characterized the counter-criticisms against him as a "prodigality of perjury." He said that he believed silence on his part would have cost the Indians millions of dollars. As it is, he believed that the Indians had been saved at least three or four million dollars.

Cecil Smith, the Texas lawyer, who closed the argument in behalf of J. F. McMurray, declared that there was no evidence in the record to connect his client in any way with the bribery, which Senator Gore alleged had been attempted.

Feet So Sore Couldn't Walk Down Stairs--

TIZ Cured Her Quick.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouss or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She had not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes.

No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ. It's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25c per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago Ill.

TELLS COURT COLD FACTS

Frank B. Kellogg Begins Argument Against Standard Oil.

Government's Side of the Story Now Being Presented.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The government's side of the story of the Standard Oil corporation with all the charges of sins laid at its doors was placed today in part before the supreme court of the United States. After a few words of summary by John G. Milburn for the Standard Oil company, Frank B. Kellogg, special assistant to the attorney general began an address to the court in an effort to show that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey should be dissolved in accordance with the decree entered by the federal court in Missouri. He was expected to conclude next Monday.

Mr. Kellogg first referred to the rebates the Standard received, "up to the time this suit was begun." He took issue with Mr. Milburn's position that before the passage of the interstate commerce law in 1887 it was legal for a big shipper to receive a lower freight rate than a small shipper.

"I have listened to the story," he said, "of how the Standard Oil was the result of natural growth, guided by the master mind of Mr. Rockefeller. But I mean to tell the court the cold facts. And I say on my oath as a member of this bar, and I regard that highly, that the equal of this record in oppression is not to be found in the commercial history of this country. I distrust my ability to present these facts."

Then he added that the Standard was "born and reared in oppression and hangs today over the country like a threatening cloud."

"Mr. Milburn does not know this record as I do," he said. "He did not sit for 187 weary days as those 20,000 pages of record were being written."

In closing, Mr. Milburn said: "Damned for anything, but praised for nothing, is the way the Standard Oil has been treated by the government. In this record, covering forty years of business, everything the Standard has ever done is related. It has done some things in strenuous times that it should not have done; that was human. It has done nothing that goes to the issue here.

"The evil of the affirmance of this decree, it is needless for me to say, would be monstrous. It is fortunate that the case is left in the hands of a court that listens to reason and never hears the voice of passion and prejudice."

Eat What You Will, Food Makes Not Fat

It is a mistaken theory that food makes fat. It is not the food you eat, but the way it is digested that makes fat. Your system produces digestive juices that turn good food into poor flesh and fat. Stop those juices from being made by your body and you stop making fat. The famous Marmola prescription which has created so much comment in our cities has been prepared in tablet form for the convenience of those who do not desire to take the liquid prescription. These little tablets when they reach the stomach stop the juices from working the wrong way. They renew those fluids and at once your food gives your body just what it wants and only what it needs. This is the secret of Marmola tablets. They will reduce the fat that is now on your person at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day and they will not cause you the least inconvenience or worry. You may eat early or late, you may sit still or run about, it will not make any difference. Just put a tablet in your purse or your pocket when you go out to a dinner. After each meal take one of the Marmola tablets and rest assured that the meal will not harm you or make you grow more stout. There will be no large wrinkles after your fat has fled. Your skin will be smooth and regular. These little tablets are sold at every drug store, or if your modesty will not permit you to ask for them at your druggists you may receive a package from the makers. The Marmola Company, 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The price per large case of the marmola tablets is 75 cents.

The Latest Discoveries—Yes, the up-to-date modern and direct methods are now successfully used by us. Many come to us daily that have tried doctor after doctor for weeks, months and years; until they concluded their cases were incurable.

They had heard of us and how easily we could cure them. We find the cause—then by our new, modern and direct methods we readily cure them all. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

COSTS MORE TO RUN CITY THAN IT DID A YEAR AGO

Increase in Disbursements for 1910 Over Those of 1909 Shown By Comptroller's Report.

The first figures on the receipts and disbursements of the city for the past year, were given out by City Comptroller William E. McCormick today, the expenses being only slightly heavier than the expenses of 1909, though there are several items in the last year disbursement list that greatly exceed the items for similar departments in the 1909 disbursement.

The figures given out today do not include an itemized expense statement, as the later figures will, but include the expenses and receipts of the various departments. The total disbursements the past year were $2,403,851.64 against $2,066,064.23 for 1909. The greatest increase in the items of expense is found in the public works fund, the park fund, water and light fund, revolving fund and the fire and police funds. The past year the disbursements in these departments showed an increase over the disbursements in the same departments a year previous.

Opposite those items where the largest increases have been made in disbursements the figures for the previous year will be found.

Following are the figures:

Albany N. Y., Jan. 13.—The body of the 5-year-old boy found dead in a swamp on the Schenectady road last Tuesday and believed to have been murdered by the forcible administration of carbolic acid, was identified by relatives today as that of George Melber of Schenectady.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. W. Glotfeller, the new president of the State Agricultural society was asked this morning if Mr. Cosgrove will be retained as secretary of the state fair board.

"I am open to conviction as to whether or not Mr. Cosgrove shall be retained," he replied. "My hands are not tied. I have made no promises. If it can be shown to me that it is better for the state fair to have Mr. Cosgrove retained, I shall vote so. If it is shown that the best inteersts of the fair demand a change, I shall vote for a change.

"I accepted the presidency because my friends believed I would be a harmonizing element and because a majority of the board wished me to run. I am here to give my best to the fair."

Although Mr. Glotfeller was elected largely by those who instigated the fight against Mr. Cosgrove and caused the recent investigation, Mr. Glotfeller said this morning he thought the proportions of the investigation were largely over emphasized.

Troubles of the state fair board are not yet ended, if a resolution which has been drafted by a state senator providing for the appointment of a joint investigating committee from the house and senate is adopted.

It became known yesterday that a further inspection of the fair board books was contemplated and that the resolution providing for the appointment of the investigating committee had been drafted.

WHEAT IS OVERSOLD

Values Rally Sharply and Sellers Scramble to Buy Back Their Wheat.

Cold Wave After Rain and Sleet Expected to Hurt Winter Plant---Flax Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 13.—Wheat went up again today, recovering from the slump following the opening. The precipitation that occurred in the states of Kansas and Nebraska was scattered. A cold wave is expected to hit those states tonight, having been delayed. The freezing weather that is expected on top of today's scattered rain, snow and sleet will cause further damage to the winter wheat plant, the bulls think. The market became quickly oversold today and values jumped upward toward the close. May wheat gained ¼c and July advanced ⅛c. Cash wheat was 1c under May, oats lost ⅛c, rye gained 1½c and barley was unchanged. Durum wheat gained ⅜c.

May flax gained 1c, closing $2.59 asked. Cash was 2c under May. La Plata linseed closed $2.24 at Antwerp for January-February shipment. The local market was featureless.

The wheat market was erratic today, values declining from a weak opening on account of reported precipitation at several places in Kansas and Nebraska. Toward noon it was said that the moisture had been insufficient and the market became firmer. Strength was pronounced in the Northwest, where the cash market was more active. The flour trade, while moderate, was reported to be improved.

The Modern Miller said that rain or snow has been scattered in most of the winter wheat states with insufficient moisture in the Southwest where the least precipitation has fallen since the crop was seeded. From Oklahoma and Southern Kansas come complaints of the unfavorable appearance of the plant. Reports of thin growth are heard of in other localities.

The strength of the market after noon was due partly to the estimates of greatly decreased world's shipments next week which are expected to be 5,600,000 bu exclusive of North America compared with 7,114,000 bu last week. Primaries are exceedingly small and the interior movement, which is low, is further reduced on account of inclement weather in both the winter and spring wheat states.

Russian offers were lighter, crop reports from Russia were not favorable and the continental demand for wheat showed some improvement.

MARKET GOSSIP

Only nineteen cars were on track today, the lowest record in many months. Weather conditions were partly responsible.

Cars inspected: Wheat—No. 1 northern 7, No. 2 northern 1; rejected 3; No. 1 durum 2, no grade durum 1, total durum 3; mixed 1; total 16, last year 56; flax none, last year 5; oats 1, last year 17; barley 2, last year 16; total 19, on track 31.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—At the opening there was some little disposition shown to realize owing to the weaker American cables yesterday and values were ½d to ¼d lower. This influence, however, was immediately offset by fairly good support, and with offerings lighter, prices advanced ½d to ¾d. Buying was attributed to prediction of lighter world's shipments other than America, fair spot demand and firmer spot offers, lighter Russian offers and improved cargo demand from the continent. Just before midday there was an easier undertone on freer Argentine cargo offers, loading, and the dullness here. At this time the market was firm and unchanged to ⅛d lower than yesterday with the strength in May. The corn market was steady but dull with Platte grade ¼d higher and American unchanged. Shorts covered on the firmness of Platte offers, unfavorable Argentine crop outlook and growing scarcity of spot.

Chicago Record-Herald: Perry Smith of Kansas City was on the floor yesterday and bought 20,000 bu of No. 2 red winter wheat on which shipping directions were given to Texas mills on a through rate. It was claimed that the price here, with the through rate, was lower than Kansas City. Mr. Smith declared the situation in the Southwest was the same as in all other parts of the country. "All the wheat is in the show windows and none anywhere else," he said. In support of this position for the Southwest he claimed that interior Kansas mills had ground 25,000,000 bu, Kansas City had received 22,000,000 bu more—all of Kansas wheat — and that the state had seeded 10,000,000 bu. This total of 54,000,000 bu, he figured, left only 8,000,000 bu of the 1910 Kansas crop of 62,000,000 bu, and 9,000,000 bu carried over from the 1909 crop to run the mills until the new 1911 crop is available. He figured the importation from Oklahoma and Nebraska had been offset by shipments West and Northwest from Kansas markets other than Kansas City. He estimated the annual consumption of the Kansas mills at 40,000,000 bu and said that they ground 46,000,000 bu from the 1909 crop and 39,000,000 bu in the Patten year.

World's available wheat supplies Jan. 1, 1911, as compiled by the Daily Trade Bulletin of Chicago, are 234,057,000 bu, as compared with 54,936,000 bu less, or 179,121,000 bu, on Jan. 1, 1910. There was a decrease last month of 33,550,000 bu, which, compared with a decrease of 9,808,000 bu in December, 1909. Breadstuffs supplies in the various positions on the dates named were:

"The Minneapolis output of flour last week increased 38,245 barrels," says the Northwestern Miller. "This made the output for the week ending Jan. 7, 286,770 barrels, against 329,655 barrels in 1910. This week about the same capacity is in operation and the output should be approximately the same. There seemed to be a common report, especially with Minneapolis mills, of a marked falling off in flour booking last week. The absence of sales of occasional round lots was especially noticeable. Buyers appeared to look upon the advance in wheat as speculative and fictitious, and consequently stood aloof from the market. Orders booked were unusually small and scattering."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Moisture in Southwest and Heavier Shipments Cause Wheat Weakness.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Moisture Southwest and heavier shipments from the Argentine caused further weakness today in the wheat market here. Liverpool reported a continuance of free offerings of Buenos Ayres cargoes. Some of the big buyers yesterday were sellers this morning and pit sentiment had taken a bearish turn. Opening prices were ⅛@¼c lower to ⅛@¼c higher. May started at $1.01⅝ to $1.01¾@1.01⅞, a shade off to ⅛c up, and declined to $1.01⅛.

Dwindling of flour trade led to a further decline, but expert opinions confirming reports of bullish crop conditions southwest caused a rally. The close was firm with May ⅛@¼c net higher at $1.01⅞.

Everybody seemed to have a little corn for sale. Shorts were a little more aggressive on account of the huge hedging sales the last few days. May opened 1-16c to ⅛@¼c lower at 50⅜@50¼c, and dropped to 50c flat.

Commission buying checked the decline at 49⅞c. Later the market recovered with wheat. The close, however, was easy with May at 50⅜c, a net loss of ⅛@¼c.

Oats eased off a shade under fair sales by a prominent local speculator. May started a shade to ⅛@¼c lower, at 34⅞@35c, and slid down to 34¾@34⅞c.

Provision dealers, though cautious about selling much, were plainly in favor of a paring of prices. First sales were 5c cheaper to 7½c up, with May options at $19.05 for pork, $10.07½@10.10 for lard, and $10.05 for ribs.

STRENGTH IN STOCKS

Wheat Opens Higher and Rise Proceeds With Broadening Demand.

Reacting the Dominant Feature of the Final Hour's Trading.

New York, Jan. 13.—There were some fairly wide openings in initial trading on the stock market today. United States Steel opened with a block of 7,000 shares from 74⅞@75 as against yesterday's closing price of 74½. Other large lots of the same stock sent the price up to 75¼. Reading showed a gain of 1 point on a block of 2,500 shares, and Baltimore & Ohio a gain of 1¼ points. The weakest feature was St. Louis Southwestern, which declined 1 point.

The strength of the opening was reinforced by a confident buying movement and prices continued to advance throughout the list. The movement caused a reversal of positions by some traders who had been on the short side and covering of their contracts aided in the rise. Among conspicuous gains were Canadian Pacific and Southern Railway preferred stock 2, American Beet Sugar 1½ and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, St. Paul, Louisville & Nashville, Lehigh Valley, Denver & Rio Grande, Kansas & Texas, Amalgamated Copper and American Car 1. Business became dull on the advance and prices were maintained at the best.

Material gains were well held and there was an absence of selling pressure in advances. Denial of reports that new financing was soon to be begun by the Harriman lines and New York Central strengthened the list. Unofficial reports that the bould interests were to relinquish active management of the Missouri Pacific was accompanied by a further substantial advance in that stock. London was reported to be a fairly large purchaser. Canadian Pacific extended its rise to 207¾, placing it 3½ above where it left off yesterday and making the gain on the week about 10 points. Bonds firm.

The market closed strong. Reading was the dominant feature of the final hour, advancing to 156¾ on more than a full recovery of its 3 per cent semi-annual dividend. There were no known developments in connection with this movement. Elsewhere the rise proceeded in a more orderly fashion, with the demand steadily broadening. Final prices were the best and showed advances of 1@3 points all around.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 13.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 2 to 5 points, but Liverpool cables were no better than due and prices later weakened under renewed realizing on local selling and before the end of the first hour showed a net loss of about 4 to 6 points. Liverpool and trade interests were buyers on the decline, but general support was lacking and the street showed a disposition to sell on moderate bulges.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 13.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Retail demand shows decided improvement. Big mules met with call and several pair of draft type changed hands. Inquiries for farm mares and horses are coming in from the Dakota trade. Horses are being handled on the narrowest margin possible and very few offerings bring country cost to dealers. Unless shippers can buy their horses cheaper in the country they had best leave them.

WIFE TELLS HER STORY

Mrs. Schmitz Makes Good Witness in Her Husband's Defense.

Corroborates His Story That the Shooting Was an Accident.

Mrs. F. J. Schmitz made a star witness in behalf of her husband, who is being tried in the district court for the murder of George Riley, Oct. 21, when she was put on the stand this morning.

Throughout she strongly corroborated the testimony which had been given by Schmitz yesterday and this morning. In scarcely a detail did she differ from what he said, and added some statements which tended strongly to strengthen the defense.

She repeated in full the conversation which she said she had with Riley at her home before Schmitz arrived on the scene after having been to the city to secure the warrant for Riley's arrest. Among other statements she asserted that Riley admitted having done the shooting of the afternoon previous.

Mrs. Schmitz claims that she told Riley of the different shots which he had fired in the direction of their home and the one through the roof. She alleges that she asked him what she would do had she gone into the field and found Schmitz's dead body there, leaving her with five children to support and no one to care for them. She claims that Riley answered that if Schmitz had been killed he supposed that he "would be taken up for it."

She declared that the shot which entered Riley's arm was fired when she grabbed the arm of her husband and Riley was going through the door. She gave as her reason for grabbing the arm that she wanted Schmitz to stay in the house, being afraid that he would follow Riley out. She denied on cross-examination that Riley had his hand resting on the door jamb, with his arm in an extended position, approximately at right angles to his body. She substantiated the statement of Schmitz that it was down near his side, and that the muzzle of the gun was only a few inches away from his arm at the time the gun was discharged. She also denied that Riley denied having shot at her husband the day previous.

Feared Riley.

Mrs. Schmitz described the night which she and her husband had put in following the shooting of the afternoon and previous to the murder. She claimed that she had patroled one side of the house and that he had kept watch on the other, fearful that at any time under cover of darkness, Riley might attempt to set fire to their home and shoot them. She said that Schmitz left for town before daylight and that she was so afraid that she kept the two older children home from school.

The state scored a strong point yesterday in the prosecution, when Judge Cant ruled out all testimony as to the character of the deceased.

Attorney A. E. McManus attempted to show that Riley had a reputation in the neighborhood in which he and Schmitz lived as a "bad man," and that he was a brawler and fighter.

When the first question tending to bring out these alleged facts was put to Schmitz an objection was entered by Assistant County Attorney Greene. He stated that the defense had outlined accident as the means which would be used to acquit Schmitz, and not self-defense, and that such testimony was not admissible. His objection was sustained by Judge Cant.

Later the same question arose when Schmitz was asked if he had heard that Riley had put dynamite under the residence of another man in the vicinity. This was also barred under an objection from the state.

Schmitz on Stand.

Schmitz was the first witness on his side of the case. He went on the stand at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon and had not finished when court adjourned at 5 o'clock. He told of all the events as he knew them, leading up to the shooting, and of his subsequent actions.

He claimed that when he entered his home after he returned from Duluth, where he had secured a warrant for Riley's arrest, he found Riley in his home. He declared that he ordered him out, and that when Riley refused to go after repeated demands, he picked up his rifle. He asserted that he had no intention of shooting Riley, but that all he wanted was that Riley should leave his premises.

When the weapon was turned upon him he explained that Riley backed towards the door. When but a short distance from it he alleged that Riley made a half turn, with a threatening motion of his arm. At that time he claims the muzzle of the gun was but a couple of inches from Riley's arm. As Riley turned, he stated that his wife screamed and grabbed his arm, discharging the rifle, the bullet going through Riley's arm. He said that Riley grabbed his arm and ran to the road, and that he followed, firing two more shots into the ground to scare Riley. He claimed that he feared Riley might have a gun nearby and try to use it.

LEHTO TO MEET ROLLER AGAIN

Finnish Champion Will Wrestle Seattle Physician at Calumet, Mich.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Karl Lehto, the Finnish champion wrestler, and Dr. Roller, the Seattle physician-athlete, will meet in a finish match in Calumet Saturday night.

Lehto, who is a Copper country man, is a much more clever man than when he met Roller in Duluth some months ago and wrestled a three-hour draw with the big Westerner. Roller, on the other hand, has been on a long tour of the country, has had scores of matches and will be in fine shape to meet the Finnish champion. The match will be held either at the Palestra hockey rink or the Light Guard armory, probably the latter.

Lehto and Henry Ordemann, the big blacksmith of Minneapolis and claimant of the American championship, meet in Duluth, Jan. 28.

BREWERS WILL TRAIN AT CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—The Milwaukee American Association baseball team will do its spring training at Champaign, Ill., beginning March 21, according to announcement by Manager Barrett today.

NO FEATURES IN MARKET

Butter Is Lower But Egg Prices Are Firm—Advance in Meats.

The produce market is practically featureless at this period of the year when staples comprise the bulk of the trade and values hold to a narrow trend. The butter trade is in a semi-demoralized condition with buyers curtailing purchases in expectation of lower prices and holders anxious to dispose of their stock and accept moderate losses now rather than take any chances with the future. Cold storage holders are loaded up with stocks and heavy liquidation is liable to send the market tumbling at any moment. Both creamery men and speculators are regarding the situation with some concern and are inclined to hold aloof until the atmosphere clears.

The egg market is not moving in sympathy with butter as prices are slightly firmer while the undertone to the butter market is weak. The colder wheather is responsible for the firmer tone to the egg market. The storage supply is not as proportionately large to the general demand as the butter supply is to the butter trade. The storage stock of eggs are just about of sufficient volume to carry the trade until spring, when fresh eggs will become available.

Meats are up. Pork is higher. Beef has had a slight advance this week. Mutton, veal and lamb are firm. The poultry list is firm and prices are slightly higher. The trade in fat hens and spring chickens is good but the demand for turkeys and geese is slow.

Western barrel apples are holding firm and box lots are selling freely. Oranages are moving freely. Cranberries are scarce and expensive. The potato market is firm. The supply is fair and the quality is good. California fruit and vegetables are coming into the market and prices are ruling high.

From a position of temporary oblivion dried apricots have risen during the week to a live, active article with an advance of ½c per pound on all grades as evidence of the interest that has been revived in this fruit. The advance in apricots was made first in the primary market on the Pacific coast and was followed by a correspondingly higher price in the local market. Apricots have been in slow demand for several weeks but with a revival of interest came higher prices, coast holders claiming that the primary market is about cleaned up and that the advance is justified.

Evaporated apples are scarce and prices are ruling firm. Within the last two weeks prices have advanced 2 cents a pound on the three grades of New York apples, prime, choice and fancy. Higher prices are expected for all dried fruits as the big season for dried apricots, apples and peaches is still in the future.

Canned goods are holding their firmness well. Among the reasons advanced why prices will not decline this season is the fact that notwithstanding an apparently successful season in the year just closed a packing firm in New York, operating twenty plants for canning fruits and vegetables, failed and three of the largest pea packers have hoisted signals of financial distress. The trouble of the pea packing companies is due to the short pack. While higher prices were received the advance did not overcome the difference in the cost of operation. None of these plants will be operated in the coming season, resulting in a reduction of the pea pack. The high cost of seed as a result of the light crop in 1910, the advance in the cost of tin cans and boxes, labor and freight all tend, it is claimed, toward higher prices. Leading packers of Wisconsin peas have practically withdrawn from the future market on account of the number of orders received from brokers who are covering their futuro requirements.

Domestic sardines have undergone an advance of 25 cents per case on both mustard and oil in the quarter and the three-quarter size tins, the new prices having been posted by the leading Maine packers this week. Retailers have been slow to follow the advance.

Prices of prunes and dried peaches have advanced ¼c and ½c on the Pacific coast and the local market is strong in consequence.

Jobbers are taking an interest in the agitation in favor of the tea board establishing regulations that will prohibit the entrance of teas into this country that are colored or adulterated. The coloring of tea is not harmful, but it gives to tea an appearance that is deceiving as to its quality. Teas have been colored for the last fifty years, but there is no reason why the practice should be continued.

VESSEL TONNAGE TAX WARMLY OPPOSED BY STATE COMMISSION

Claims It Practically Exempts Such Property From Taxation.

Urges Repeal or Amendment of Bushel Tax on Grain.

Way Found Out of Difficulty in Applying Oregon Plan.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—After issuing its recommendations in brief form, the Minnesota tax commission is following up with its report, which is being issued in sections. Later the report will be published in full, but in the meantime the more important chapters are being issued separately and yesterday three pamphlets were laid on the desks of the members of the legislature.

They cover the following subjects: "Taxation of Money and Credits;" "Taxation of Incomes and Inheritance Taxes;" and "Taxation of Vessels, Taxation of Grain and Timber Lands, Logs and Lumber."

The commission is emphatically against the present tonnage tax on vessels, and claims that it practically exempts such property from taxation. Under the present law vessels hailing from any port in this state are taxed 3 cents per net ton in lieu of all other taxes, half of the tax going to the state and half to the county in which the port of hail is situated. Under this law the taxes paid in during the past six years have been as follows: 1905, $12,513.94; 1906, $15,989.90; 1907, $16,176.45; 1908, $16,320.17; 1909, $17,252.14; 1910, $21,814.03.

Says the commission: "There were 423 vessels registered at Duluth in 1909. Of this number 145 were steel propellers, 30 steel barges, 36 tugs and scows, and the balance are unclassified. The total gross tonnage of these vessels was 502,726 tons, and the total net tonnage 636,444 tons. The insurable value of these vessels as rated

GOVERNMENT HAS NO JURISDICTION

New Laws Will Be Enacted in Regard to Foreign Steamships.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Unofficially, it was learned that the department of justice does not consider that the courts of the United States have jurisdiction over the foreign steamship companies named in the government's suit recently filed in New York.

There was a conference at the department yesterday which had for its object the framing of a law which will create jurisdiction for the case, and it is practically settled that the bill introduced in the house early in the week by Representative W. E. Humphrey of Washington will be used as the basis.

Representative Humphrey's bill provided that the accused steamship companies should be barred from American ports on penalties of fines and confiscation of their ships, if they did not desist from the so-called Atlantic conference which the government complains of as an illegal agreement in restrainst of the immigration traffic.

SAYS LAW IS UNNECESSARY

North Dakota Solon Would Abolish Office of Hotel Inspector.

Complete Revision and Readjustment of School Laws Proposed.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Abolishment of the office of hotel inspector is proposed by Representative Gardiner of Nason county in a bill introduced yesterday afternoon, and so firm is Mr. Gardiner in his belief that the law is unnecessary that he has added an emergency clause which would make it effective immediately upon passage.

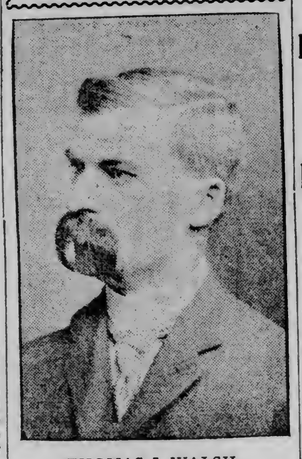

Another bill introduced yesterday, particularly interesting to Grand Forks county, was one by Representative Edwards of Pembina county covering the question of collection of taxes. It provides that penalty and interest collected by the county on special assessments made by a city shall be turned over to the city, instead of being retained by the county as has been the custom in Grand Forks.

Revision of School Laws.

As a result of the labors of the school laws compilation commission a bill has been introduced in the house by

FORMER WISCONSIN MAN SEEKING TOGA

THOMAS J. WALSH.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unable to agree upon a caucus to settle the question of electing a United States senator to succeed T. H. Carter, the Democratic majority in the legislature is dividing its vote between Thomas J. Walsh of this city, W. G. Conrad of Great Falls and other candidates. Mr. Walsh, who has thus far received the highest Democratic vote, is one of the leading attorneys of the state, a native of Wisconsin and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He has resided in Helena about twenty years. In 1906 he made the unsuccessful race on the Democratic ticket for congressman at large against C. N. Pray, which was his first entry into Montana politics. There are 102 members of the legislature of which the Democrats have fifty-four, and the Republicans forty-eight, but as one Democrat, Representative Terrett, is very sick in California, the margin between the two parties is very close. It is hardly expected the deadlock will be broken for several days.

STATE WATER RESOURCES

Legislation to Control Rates By Public Utility Plants Urged.

Commission Proposed—Surveys of Various Streams Recommended.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the state drainage commission on the water resources of Minnesota, referred to briefly in these dispatches yesterday, contains much interesting and valuable information. It covers the work done by the state drainage engineer in cooperation with the United States geological survey, pursuant to a joint resolution adopted at the last session of the Minnesota legislature.

Further appropriations are recommended for the purpose of carrying on the work of investigation, and legislation is urged to control the water resources, "not to get a large direct revenue, which would retard their development, but rather to fix the returns from their use so that the expenses of the control would be met. Beyond this the aim should be to control the rates charged by the public

EXPLOSION BLOWS MAN INTO ATOMS

Carrying Chemical Compound in Pocket While Crossing on Ferry.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 14.—A bottle of chemical compound, dropped by or crushed in the pocket of John O. Norbon, a well known mining engineer, is believed to have caused an explosion late yesterday on the Southern Pacific ferry boat Berkeley, bringing instant death to Norbon, seriously injuring two other men and creating a panic among the 2,000 passengers.

Norbon was identified by a letter in his pocket and a note book which contained a list of explosive chemicals. These chemicals are thought to have been carried in a compound on Norbon's person.

ANOTHER EARTHQUAKE IN RUSSIA KILLS 204.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—A dispatch received here today from Vyerny, capital of the territory of Semiryetchenck, Asiatic Russia, says that a violent earthquake occurred last night in Kebery, in the Pishpek district of the territory, and that 204 bodies have been taken from the ruins of fallen buildings.

STEEL PLANT IS RAPIDLY TAKING FORM

Good Progress Noticeable on Site of Duluth's New Industry.

Between 300 and 400 Men Employed Throughout Winter Months.

Huge Machine Shop Completed---Greater Activity for the Spring.

The great steel plant, the importance of which to Duluth is only beginning to impress the mass of citizens, is gradually coming into being at New Duluth.

Busy men are digging, building and fitting things together, and a general view of the site convinces the observer of the vast magnitude of the undertaking. A visit to the site would convince the most skeptical of the rapid progress that is being made.

The machine shop and the forge and plate shop are built. The foundations for one of the three blast furnaces are built. The power plant has been built and has been in operation for months. The administration office and storeroom has been built. A monster concrete mixer has been built. A cement block factory has been built and has been in operation for months, and the great double-decked steel bridge across the St. Louis river is completed and in use.

Between 300 and 400 men are employed on the site. The number varies slightly at different times, but there is

MEDICAL STUDENTS OBJECT TO NEGROES

Over 100 Refuse to Attend Lectures With Colored Men Present.

Washington, Jan. 14.—More than 100 medical students from Georgetown and George Washington university here, have gone on strike against lectures given by Dr. William White, superintendent of the government hospital for the insane, because of the presence in the last lecture of about thirty negro medical students from Howard university. Expulsions, it is said, may follow.

The faculties in both white institutions have apologized to Dr. White for the stand taken by the students, but so far no action has been taken. The students declare that they will not attend the lectures unless the negro students are barred.

Forty-five students from Georgetown and fifty-five from George Washington cut the lecture.

GREAT CROWD GATHERS EXPECTING SENSATIONS IN THE SCHENK TRIAL

Technical Examination of Physician Occupies Forenoon Session.

Spectators Wait for More Sensations Similar to That of Friday.

Judge Refuses to Allow Juror to Visit His New Born Babe.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 14.—As early as 6 o'clock this morning crowds began to gather and crush for admission to the Schenk trial, who looked for a continuance of such testimony as Daniel Phillips, a local piano salesman gave yesterday in admitting that he and Mrs. Schenk had been taking night automobile rides in her limousine for the past year or more. They were to meet, however, with a less interesting chapter.

The effort of Prosecuting Attorney J. B. Handlan to prove that Mrs. Schenk attempted to poison her husband last fall was directed at the morning session today to a hypothetical question covering all the facts in the case so far as they have developed. This question began yesterday while Dr. J. T. Thornton, who was called to attend Schenk during his illness, was on the stand. Dr. Thornton had concluded yesterday with the admission on cross-examination that the symptoms of poisoning in Schenk's case might have been due to "serious stomach disorders." In his direct questioning he had stated that certain symptoms indicated lead poisoning and others arsenic. The continuance of this more technical phase of the testimony was expected to occupy the court's attention until the noon recess, Vessel Christened By Miss Mary Macon of Helena, Ark.

Governor of State Miffed and Fails to Attend the Event.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14.—Splashed with the traditional bottle of champagne, the battleship Arkansas, the largest warship ever constructed in this country, was launched this afternoon from the yards of the New York Shipbuilding company at Camden, N. J. Miss Mary Macon, daughter of Representative Robert B. Macon of Helena, Ark., was the sponsor for the ship.

There was one unusual feature to the launching, the absence of an official delegation representing the state government of Arkansas. The failure of Governor Donaghey or other official representatives to attend was due to a controversy between the governor and the navy department at Washington over the date of the launching, the governor wanting the launching postponed so that the state could make adequate arrangements to send an official party.

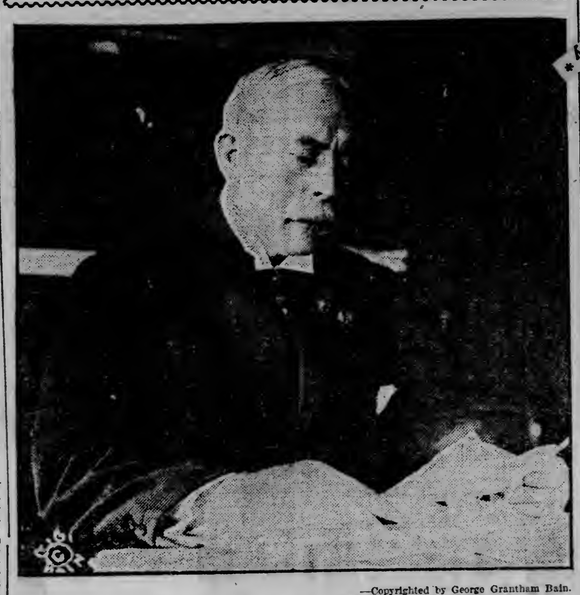

There was, however, quite a large delegation of Arkansans present. It included Representative and Mrs. Macon and other members of the Arkansas congressional delegation, all of whom had been invited by the shipbuilding company. The navy department was officially represented by Beekman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the navy, and a long list of rear-admirals and other officers. There also was a large delegation of congressmen from other states.

Christening Party.

With Miss Macon on the raised christening platform waiting for the word to name the great ship were Miss Edna Ellerbe, the daughter of Representative J. E. Ellerbe of South Carolina, the parents of both —Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

NEW PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION

JAMES A. FARRELL.

On Jan. 24, Mr. Farrell will be elected president of the United States Steel corporation. He was born in New Haven, Conn., and started business life at 16 years of age as a laborer in a wire mill at $4.65 a week. He worked himself up to a responsible position and later organized the Pittsburg Wire company. After its absorption he became president of the United States Steel Products company, and for eight years has been a dominating factor in that branch of the industry. He is 48 years of age, 6 feet 1 inch in his stocking feet and weighs 220 pounds. He has prematurely white hair, parted in the middle, and a drooping white mustache. His grip is that of an athlete, and his clear blue-gray eyes look straight at a questioner.

FIREMEN CALLED AT 20 DEG. BELOW

Park Rapids, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out in White's store at 11:30 Friday night. Prompt action by the fire department confined the loss to the inside of the building, the store and contents being a total loss. There is insurance.

A. W. Rodgers' loss is $1,200 on the building, with $400 insurance.

Seven minutes after the alarm two streams of water were in full force, the splendid work of the firemen saving the adjoining property. The store was located in the center of the block. The men fought the fire with the thermometer at 20 deg. bleow zero. The task was difficult and the results speak well for the efficiency of the fire department.

DEFRAUDING GOVERNMENT

Merchants Are Arrested for Under-Valuation of Imports.

Secret Agent Sent to Japan Reveals the Alleged Fraud.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 14.—Serious charges of attempting to defraud the United States customs by under-valuations of imports occasioned the arrest last night of two prominent merchants of Oriental goods in this city. The prisoners are Carl J. Cutting, who has a store in this city, and W. A. Wilson of Oakland, who operates between this city and Yokohama as an importer and tea expert.

A secret agent sent to Japan by the customs department last year is said to have laid the foundation of the present prosecution. Upon his advice that imports were being marked far below value, shipments of Oriental art goods to Cutting's store were held at the local customs house.

Shipments valued by the importer at $20,000 are involved in the present proceedings but customs officials express the belief that wholesale frauds in the under-valuation of imports from the Orient have been perpetrated in the last few years. They estimate the government's loss by these operations at $200,000 a year.

FOR DOMINION'S NAVY.

Canadian Naval Will Begin Instruction of Its Future Officers.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 14.—The Canadian Naval college will, on Jan. 19, begin the instruction of future officers of the Dominion's navy. The first class in the new naval school has enrolled with a membership of twenty-one midshipmen. The naval building in the dock yard has been temporarily fitted with lecture rooms for the use of the students.

PLAGUE IS SPREADING THROUGH MANCHURIA.

Pekin, Jan. 14.—One death from bubonic plague in this city was reported to the officials today.

The government is being urged to institute a five days' quarantine of first-class passengers at the great wall until observation camps can be established at Harbin, Mulden and Shanhikwan, and to prohibit second and third-class passenger traffic from Manchuria. The latest reports say that the plague is spreading throughout Manchuria. Precautionary measures are being adopted here.

NOT MUCH DANGER OF A FLOOD AT PRESENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 14.—In spite of melting snow and heavy rains at the headwaters of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers the stage today at the point where they meet was only twenty feet. Two feet more may come, bringing the Ohio to flood stage, but the Monongahela, from which the greater part of the water is coming, has commenced to fall at Greensborough and the water will soon run out.

ALL SEAMEN WILL STRIKE

To Demand Increased Wages in World-Wide Walkout Next June.

New York, Jan. 14.—According to Matthew Tearle, United States agent of the National Sailors and Firemen's union of Great Britain, it has been decided to call a world-wide strike of seamen during June next, at the time of the coronation of King George. There have been rumors of such a strike hertofore, but until now no date was set. Mr. Tearle's information, he said, was received in a letter from J. H. Wilson, M. P., president of the British union. He added that it was planned to call a general strike of miners in order further to complicate the situation in behalf of the men.

Steamship officials here said they knew nothing about the movement aside from general unrest among seamen in England. Increased wages will be the demand in event the strike is called.

SEARCHERS FIND BOOZE

Proceed to Drink It, Delaying Work on Wrecked Building.

Cries of Drunk Raise Hope That a Survivor Is Discovered.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 14.—To be suddenly buoyed by the hope that men were to be rescued alive and to have that hope as suddenly shattered was the fate yesterday of hundreds who stood watching rescuers as they burrowed in the ruins of the Chamber of Commerce building.

"Will help never come? I am smothering!" was walled from underneath a pile of debris. A thrill went through the watchers and spurred the workmen to their utmost.

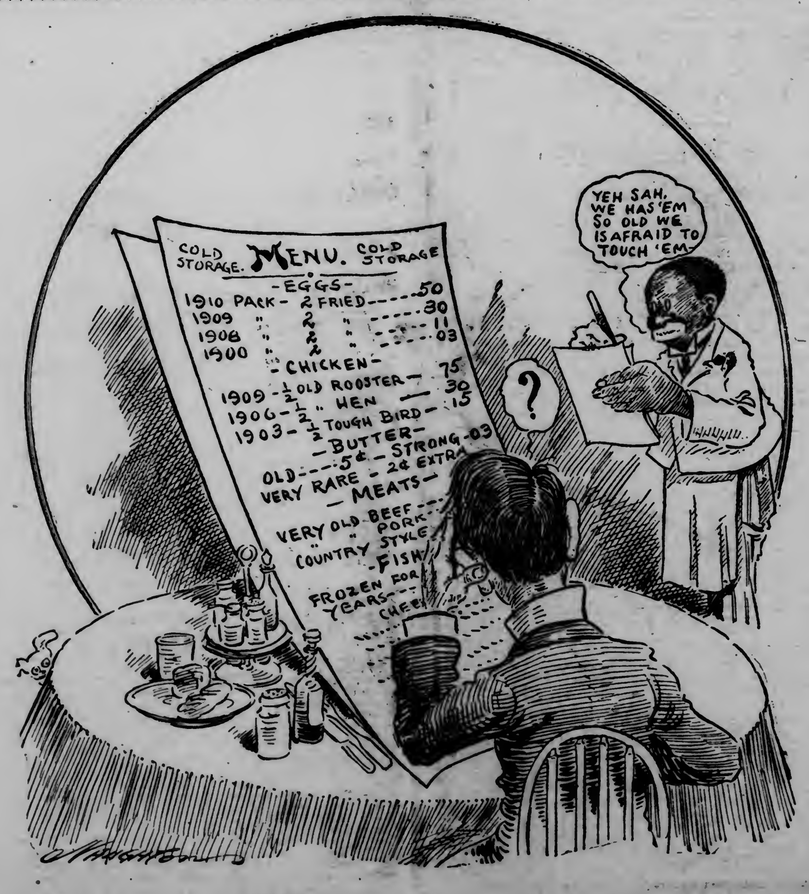

When a massive piece of slate was removed the incident was explained and it might have been amusing under any other circumstances than surrounded as it was by tragedy.

The man rescued had been engaged in the work of digging for the six bodies from Tuesday night's fire, and stupefied by drink had slid under the pile of slate.

The contractors experienced great difficulty with the men yesterday on account of the fact that with almost every lift made by the huge machines, bottles of liquors were turned up and in many instances promptly consumed.

MOVEMENT TO CANADA

Northwest Wheat Country Expects Great Rush of Immigration This Year.

Developments in Canada Are Wonderful, Says Railroad Man.

James Thompson, traveling passenger agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company, who was in the city yesterday, and who has just returned from a trip over Western Canada, says the immigration and home seekers' movement to all parts of the Western provinces will be the heaviest the coming spring in the history of the Canadian land movement.

"Everywhere in the Western part of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Alberta and the other Western provinces, they are preparing for the biggest land run in the history of the wonderful Western Canadian country," said Mr. Thompson. "It is perfectly wonderful to hear the people in that country talk and to witness with your own eyes the development that is taking place.

"I have not been in that part of the country for several years and was astonished at the result. You could have bought in Western Canada several years ago for a few dollars land which today is selling in many instances at $25 and $30 an acre. Fortunes have been made in that section of the country, and there is still hundreds of thousands of acres left to meet the coming tide of immigration.

"The men up in that section of the country look for a tremendous influx of immigrants and also the better class of landseekers from this country. There are many farmers from this country going over there, and many of these men are buying land for speculative purposes. With the present rate of the development of Western Canada, there is little doubt of the increase in the present price of the land."

Duluth is particularly interested in the land settlement of Canada, as many of the immigrants pass through this city en route to the various parts of the Western provinces.

Last year many immigrants on their way to Western Canada passed through Duluth, and with the coming of the Soo, adding another direct line from Chicago, it is expected that during the coming year even more of the flood of immigration will pass on to the Canadian Northwest through the Duluth traffic gateway.

SAW HOXSEY BREAK RECORD

Duluth Man Attended Big Aviation Meet at Los Angeles.

David H. Costello, who returned several days ago from California, was an interested observer of some marvelous aerial feats during the Los Angeles aviation meet. Speaking of that series of startling exploits, Mr. Costello said today:

"I am glad to say that I was not present the day Arch Hoxsey met the aviator's death that he felt some day would be his. I had seen him establish the world's altitude record by going up 11,474 feet above the earth and make a perilous descent in safety while 85,000 persons wildly applauded him.

"We had gone out to the field several times and saw him do wonderful flying with his machine, and quite naturally we found a profound sense of grief in his death. In a week he had become one of the most famous men of his profession in the world, and his daring journeys into the skies had won the admiration of all.

"It seems too bad that these brave men who are blazing the trail which, in years to come, the countless thousands will surely follow, have to die, but while the science of flight is in a state of experimentation many lives of these men will be sacrificed."

WOMAN HELD FOR ATTEMPT ON LIFE

Shot Herself While Occupying Room in New York Hotel.

New York, Jan. 14.—A smartly dressed woman, who said she was Clara E. Pratt, 35 years old, a widow of Cincinnati, shot herself twice today in her room in the Hotel Martinique. She will recover.

The woman secured her room two nights ago and registered as "Mrs. Charles R. Pratt." Dr. D. E. Waler, called at the hotel today, and asked to be shown to Mrs. Pratt's apartments. He explained to the clerk that he was a physician and was shown at once to her room, where he said he found Mrs. Pratt suffering from the effects of bullet wounds in the left breast and right side of the forehead. She told him, the doctor, that she was "fooling with the weapon when it went off accidentally."

She was taken to a hospital a prisoner, charged with attempted suicide.

VAN LEAR WILL SPEAK HERE

Prominent Minneapolis Socialist Will Give an Address in Duluth.

Thomas Van Lear, the Socialist candidate, who made a sensational run for mayor of Minneapolis in November, coming within 1,000 votes of the vote received by the successful candidate, will be in Duluth Jan. 22 and will deliver an address at an open meeting.

Duluth Socialists are looking forward with considerable interest to Mr. Van Lear's visit. He is a practical exponent of Socialist principles and jumped into national fame by the manner in which he convinced Minneapolis voters of his sincerity and the merit of his teachings. He is the leader of the Socialists in the state and he hopes to be able at some future time to give a concrete example of his administrative ability, such as has been given in Milwaukee by Victor Berger and Emil Seidel. Mr. Van Lear is a member of the Machinists' union in Minneapolis.

The hall in which Mr. Van Lear will speak in Duluth has not yet been selected. His address will be open and free to all and it is expected a large crowd will hear him.

MANY ATTEND MADDEN FUNERAL

Hundreds of friends attended the funeral services of the late Thomas J. Madden, this morning to pay their last tributes of respect. Short services were held at the residence, 229 East Fourth street, followed by the regular services at 10 o'clock at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, Second avenue west and Fourth street. Many beautiful floral pieces were received.

A strong sermon eloquent of the virtues of the deceased was preached by Rev. Patrick J. Lydon at the cathedral. He told of his many kind deeds and of his charities and spoke of the suddenness of death. The Eagles, the Redmen and the Owls, of which orders he was a leading member, marched in a body with the full Third Regiment band. Interment was at Calvary cemetery. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the city. Friends were present from the ranges and the lumber camps, men who had known "Tom" Madden in his life time and were deeply grieved to hear of his unexpected end. He died Wednesday afternoon of heart disease. He was 47 years of age.

SCHMITZ MURDER TRIAL GOES OVER

Case Will Be Resumed Before Judge Cant Monday Morning.

The case of the state against Frank Joseph Schmitz, accused of the murder of his neighbor, George Riley, will be continued before Judge William A. Cant of the district court Monday morning.

Today was special term day in district court and the regular criminal actions as well as the regular civil actions were postponed until the next regular meeting of the court.

The Schmitz case is attracting a good deal of attention. His defense, that of the accidental discharge of the gun, was a surprise, as it was thought that it would be self defense. The accidental theory throws an entirely different light on the whole affair.

Both Schmitz and his wife maintain that the gun was discharged accidentally when she jumped at him as he held the weapon.

The whole case is a badly tangled affair. The two stories are so widely different that it will probably take the jury some time to straighten it out.

The case, it is stated, will not be finished before Tuesday evening.

DULUTHIANS WHO ARE DOING "THINGS WORTH WHILE"

F. A. Patrick, His Plans for Ideal Terminal Facilities and His Work for the Park Board.

F. A. PATRICK.

For a man who is so busily engaged in building up a big business, F. A. Patrick does about as much for the community in which he lives as most men could do if they devoted all their time to civic, social and other activities.

Mr. Patrick is a member of the park board, he is an energetic worker for the appreciation of art in Duluth, and he takes a hearty interest in every movement that is calculated to result in bettering the conditions that surround the people of the city.

Most particularly, Mr. Patrick is an enthusiast as an advocate of improved terminal facilities here in Duluth and that is his chief hobby. He was largely instrumental in engaging an engineer to evolve a scheme that would, if adopted, result in giving this city as good terminal facilities as are possessed by even the most fortunately situated municipalities in the country, in spite of the topography of Duluth.

Mr. Patrick and his engineer devised a system of terminals that appealed at once to the popular desire for improved conditions, but nothing has been done to make it materialize. However, the plan is at hand whenever it is wanted, and when it is adopted and Duluth is enjoying the benefit, it surely will confer, the city will have Mr. Patrick to thank for the ground work plan it must follow.

As a member of the park board Mr. Patrick is assidious in his devotion to the welfare of the city. He takes the most active interest in bringing to consummation plans for the expension of the park system and realizes to the full the advantages that accrue to Duluth from its beauty spots, not only as good advertising features for the outside world, but to a larger extent as necessities for the people. His interest in the advertising possibilities of Duluth's exceptional features was strongly demonstrated in the contest conducted by The Herald for the selection of a name for the boulevard drive. To give a city ideal parks and terminal facilities should be work "worth while."

Besides which he is about the busiest business builder in the city, and as a jobber he is spreading the name and fame of Duluth over the whole world. His part in the making of Duluth, the great Western distributing center, is an important one.

SETTLER IS GIVEN AID

Associated Charities Donates $25 and He Returns to Virginia.

Swan Brown, the Angora settler whose home was laid in ashes several days ago, was sent back to Virginia by the Associated Charities yesterday with an initial dontaion of $25.

Letters have been given him to Virginia people which it is thought will help him re-establish himself and take his family from the deserted logging camp in which they have found temporary shelter.

The fire destroyed all of Brown's papers and $150 in cash which he had saved. All he asked was some clothes and $65 in cash with which to buy a separator. He thought that he would be able to make enough money selling butter to make both ends meet the rest of the winter, when the biggest part of the hardship will be over. A donation of $2 was also received by The Herald from an "Unknown Friend" this morning, which will be turned over to the stricken settler.

The case came to Wayne county on a change of venue.

LITTLE MONEY IN BABIES

Business of Taking Care of Infants Fails to Return Profit.

And the "Duluth Babies' Consolidated" Stock Sells at Discount.

The stock of "Duluth Babies' Consolidated" will never be floated on the Duluth stock exchange.

Perhaps it was because the little ones like the matinee performances so much, or because Duluth mothers do not take their children to the theater, that the unique business of taking care of baby while mother takes in the matinee, failed to prove a success in Duluth.

A woman had an idea and started a vest pocket edition of a baby farm in a room in the old Masonic temple. There were two rooms in the establishment, and the plan proposed taking gentle care of many cooing, crying and chuckling kids of various ages and descriptions.

For two weeks the lady in charge of the vest pocket edition of the baby farm waited for babies in vain. At last one mother who had some important engagement at the matinee, brought her infant and left it with the woman to amuse and care for during her absence.

Here was hope, indeed. Business might pick up. But the one infant brought one dark and dreary afternoon was the only infant brought in during the two weeks the baby farm was in existence. And as no other babies were brought to be gently humored, the baby farm went up, failed, moved away, ceased to exist.

Inquiry was made this morning as to the whereabouts of the baby farm. In response to the knock on the door, a sleepy-looking man poked his head out of the door, and after blinking at the morning light for a few minutes, came through with the information regarding the fate of the depository for babies.

"It's gone," he vouchsafed. "The lady in charge has moved away. I am living in the rooms now. They only had one kid during the two weeks they was here. I guess they got kind-a discouraged, for no women brought their kids around. Anyway they have gone."

The baby depository has gone, and its going means that mothers will be forced to take the babies with them to the matinee or on shopping tours or leave them in charge of some one at home. There was evidently no aching void to be filled by a public nurse.

This has been well known to the best doctors for years and is now given to the public. "Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Good effects are felt the first day. Many of the worst cases here have been cured by this. Any druggist has these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. 70 YEAR OLD DULUTH CITIZEN BAKED BY DRS. LOUGHNEY & LOUGHNEY

TOBIAS GRADY.

For twelve years Mr. Grady has suffered untold agonies from Rheumatism and he has been a constant sufferer from Catarrh for over 20 years. He could not breathe through his nose, Catarrh was so bad. Mr Grady is very grateful to Drs. Loughney & Loughney's odd Bake Ovens. Mr. Grady says, I am 70 years old and for the last twelve years I've tried a good many remedies for Rheumatism, but could not find a cure, but after only a few Bake Oven treatments in Drs. Loughney & Loughney's Bake Ovens I feel like I was 25 years old. The aches have all left my muscles and bones, and my joints are limbered up wonderfully. I can go up and down stairs on the run, where before for years I've had to go up one foot at a time, and hang onto the railing to help myself. That Bake Oven treatment has also completely relieved me of Catarrh, that has bothered me for over 20 years, and on first hearing of the Bake Ovens I was afraid they would be too severe for an old man like myself, but I tell you they are the greatest treatment of the age for an old man or woman for they are not at all severe and they limber up old stiff joints just fine. I can't say enough for those Bake Oven Doctors, and I did not have to tell them what ailed me. They gave me a thorough examination and told me just how I felt. I live at 831 Lake avenue south.

CURES OF MEN!

Wrought Scientifically By Progressive Medical Specialists. Most Complicated Diseases Give Way to Their Methods.

If you want to see the revelations of science used in the service of suffering humanity you must see the Duluth Specialists. Among citizens of Duluth and Superior the reporter today found in the chowded offices men from Bergland, Mich., Cloquet, Calumet, Mich., Ballard, Wash., Chicago, Bemidji and Aurelia, Iowa, with Tumors and festering Cancers, Gall Stones, crippled from Rheumatism, ulcers of legs and the most rare diseases. Their fame has reached far beyond the borders of our state and crowds their offices almost daily.

There are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering from disease of long standing, and, asked why so many men suffer, they explained that constipation and stomach troubles cause self-poisoning. To relieve this trouble, men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, although they know very well relief is only temporary, and their condition is worse than before. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fulness in your abdomen, you may know that your intestines are diseased and they cannot perform the work of digestion.

You are getting pale and losing flesh and your feeling tells you that you are a sick man. You have started the process of self-poisoning, your blood is diseased and your blood vessels harden, which slowly but surely prepares your grave and your suffering is a long one.

Rectal Piles cause cancer and many other diseases. The bad and stagnant blood is forming piles, and these in turn result in a train of other diseases, as cancer, constipation, rheumatism, sciatica, pain in the back, kidney trouble, heart and liver diseases and nervousness. These specialists are most wonderful in curing all these diseases, and also Bright's disease, catarrh and lung trouble, bronchitis, blood poison, rupture, pelvic and bladder trouble, eczema and all skin diseases. If you have any ailment and you want to know all about it you are invited to consult the Progressive Doctors. Consultation is free. These doctors can cure your disease for they have studied in the best universities here and in the old country. They are well professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. BIG FIGHT IS IN PROSPECT

Distance Tariff Bill Will Precipitate Battle, Says Senator Cheadle.

Woman's Suffrage Amendment May Be Submitted to Voters.

The first big fight in the state legislature will be over the distance tariff bill, according to State Senator Harry W. Cheadle of the Fifty-first district, who is spending the week-end with his family.

Senator Cheadle states that the nub of the opposition will come from the Twin Cities, which are at present reaping the benefits of the railroad tariffs. The changes proposed by the bill would work greatly to their disadvantage, but would be of much assistance to manufacturers in all the smaller cities and towns of the state. At present the railroad rates are so arranged that it is practicaly impossible for manufacturers to locate anywhere but in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Under the new bill the railroads will be forbidden to charge more for a short haul than for a long haul; that is, they could not charge more for hauling freight from here to Pine City, for instance, than to St. Paul and Minneapolis. Also, if a rate were established for a certain distance, the same rate would apply to other equal distances between other points. For example, if a rate were made between Duluth and the Twin Cities, the railroads would be obliged to give the same rates for hauls in other directions, as to the western part of the state.

Senator Cheadle states that he has not yet determined what position he will take upon the matter. He has asked the traffic commission of the Commercial club for a report on the matter as it would affect Duluth, and will make a further investigation of the merits of the bill before committing himself.

Hunting Accidents.

He has also prepared an amendment to the state law defining manslaughter, which will be of much interest in this part of the state as it applies largely to hunters. It takes the position that a man shall not be charged with manslaughter unless he fails to render assistance to the person shot, or fails to bring the body, in case of death, to the nearest town. As the law now stands the offense is so severe that many men will run away after having shot a man. This will give the man who does the shooting an incentive to aid the man injured. This would leave the case to be handled in the courts on its merits.

He also has a bill under course of preparation for the improvement of what is known of Burntside park, consisting of about 20,000 acres near the lake of that name a short distance from Ely. It was donated to the state by the national government some years ago with the understanding that it would be fixed up. The state forestry board has recommended that the state appropriate $10,000 for two years for this purpose, and this feature is incorporated in the measure. A large part of it has been burnt over by forest fires and provisions will be incorprated for reforesting the tract, which will become one of the finest in the upper part of the state with proper handling. Roads and trails will also be cut through it, and quarters provided for an overseer.

An amendment to the state constitution which is of much interest is being urged by women of the state. They want the legislature to authorize the submission of an amendment allowing the voters of the state to pass upon woman's suffrage. Numerous members of the gentler sex are doing much lobbying in favor of the proposition and it is understood that they have secured the pledges of many members to help them in their efforts in this direction. Senator Cheadle says that if it is apparent that a large part of the people wish to have the matter submitted to a vote of the people, there is no reason why they should not have the opportunity.

He states that reapportionment will not be all clear sailing. Some opposition is developing, but that it is yet too early to definitely analyze its significance.

Defended His Mother.

Bert Melin, the young man who was arrested on complaint of his father, states that the case against him was not dismissed because his father refused to prosecute. He states that the true facts are that his father attacked his mother and that he came to her assistance. He says his mother swore that his father used a knife and threw dishes at her, and that he proved to the satisfaction of the court that he simply acted in defense of his mother.

No Ground For Arrest.

William Houghton, arrested several days ago upon a warrant sworn out by a former wife, from whom he had been divorced, charging him with failing to support a minor child, was discharged in police court yesterday. The evidence was that the mother had obtained custody of the child at the time of the divorce with the provision that she would maintain her and provide for her education. No liability was attached to Houghton.

Pioneer Is Discharged.

Jacob Louksio, a bartender at 150 St. Croix avenue, was discharged in police court this morning after a preliminary hearing on a charge of assault in the second degree. It was alleged that he had stabbed Charles Tuomi in the arm several days ago during an altercation as to which of them was the better wrestler. The court stated that the evidence was not conclusive, failing to show that Louksio had done the stabbing. Louksio was represented by Attorney Victor Gran and Attorney Walter Dacey represented the state in the absence of the county attorney.

THE LAW AND THE INJURED WORKMAN

How Employer's Liability Works Out—Antiquated Defenses, Dating Back to Early Customs—Odds Which Favor Employer.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A great problem of our industrial system is how to compensate workmen fairly for accidents received while serving their employers. Since the United States supreme court declared the federal employers' liability act of 1906 unconstitutional, the states have the responsibility for providing adequate protection to most of the vast army of the employed.

To understand why legislation is needed we must know something of the general law of negligence in personal injury cases. If a person injures another accidentally through carelessness he is civilly liable for the harm, reckoned in money, which his heedlessness caused. It is only fair that one who is unduly careless should make all possible amends. If the injured was also negligent he cannot recover. A master is responsible for the negligence of his servant while engaged in work for him. But if the person injured is an employe of the same master there are important modifications of the rules of liability. The law says a change is made by the contract of hire in the relations that would otherwise exist. It is mistakenly assumed that the two parties are equal, that the servant is free to take or leave the work as he likes. If he accepts the place he makes an implied contract in which he legally assumes certain risks.

An employe must run the risk of all ordinary dangers in his calling. The employer does not insure his help against mishaps. In many trades accidents, humanly speaking, are inevitable. It is more precarious to quarry granite, run logs or make steel rails than it is to practice law or drive a hay rake. If a man does one instead of the other, it is his own lookout. The law further assumes that in especially dangerous occupation the extra exposure is recompensed by larger wages. The worker has no redress, not merely for accidents which happen despite every care, but for those which occur from methods common to the business even if there are improved devices that would prevent them. A handle on a bucket holding two tons of iron pulls out, killing a laborer. The handle was merely clamped on instead of being forged on as they are in the newer buckets. But since the old and less safe type is still in common use, the plaintiff had no redress. The danger from this cause was decided to be an ordinary risk of the employment.

Besides ordinary exposure, an employe assumes all extraordinary risks, such as those from defective machinery, if he knew or should have known of the danger and continued working. For instance, a 17-year-old girl in a laundry called attention to a loose board in front of the rolls, but did not stop working. Finally, while cleaning the machine, this board flew up and thrust her hands into the machine, where they were crushed. She was not allowed to recover damages because she had gone on working when she ought to have known it was dangerous to do so.

Finally, an employe assumes the risk of all dangers from careless, inefficient or ignorant co-workers. As between master and servant, the former must merely use reasonable care in hiring assistants of ordinary skill and carefulness. Perhaps a yardmaster places a car of dynamite at the end of a train instead of in the middle, as the rule would require, and as a result, hundreds of miles away the dynamite car suffers a collision and is blown up. A cow browsing in a pasture near by and a station agent at his lonely post in a country depot next to the field are killed. The farmer can recover for his cow, but the station agent's widow has no redress, for her husband was a fellow-servant of the man whose mistake caused his death. Yet he had no more to do with the yardmaster's act or with his employment than did the cow.

All who work for a common employer in furtherance of the conductors, engineers and firemen of a railroad, even if on different trains, are fellow servants. A girl in the tailoring department of a store and an elevator boy working for the same company have been held to be fellow workers. Foremen, bosses and even superintendents are usually considered co-workers unless the rule is specifically changed by statute, of the men under them so that even if an accident occurs as a result of following the direct orders of a superior, the employer is not liable.

In addition to profiting by these three modifications of the general law of negligence, the employer has still another defence—contradictory negligence—which applies in all cases. He escapes penalty for admitted negligence if he can prove that his employe by his own negligent act or omission contributed to cause the accident. Although possibly fair theoretically this works hardship usually rather than justice. A brakeman often rides unnecessarily on the pilot of an engine or a member of a track gang goes between cars instead of around to cross the tracks. recklessness is sometimes merely the out-crop of boyish dare-devilry, sometimes in the case of bewildered foreigners it is really stupidity and awkwardness. But much of it is the fearlessness and unconcern that are necessary for dangerous work. How long would a cautious structural iron worker or bridge builder who was "careful of himself" hold his job?

As though the employer did not have odds enough in his favor the plaintiff has the burden of proof to shoulder. If he is unable to make out a pretty strong prima facie case the plaintiff is non-suited. The injured worker may have an advantage with the jury, but it is difficult to get the caes before them. If the evidence is equally consistent with negligence or non-negligence on the part of the employer the suit is stopped without a submission to the jury.

There are further inequalities. The long delay before the trial is bread and butter to the worker, but merely a postponement of annoyance to the employer. The plaintiff's witnesses must usually be fellow-workmen whose positions are often at stake if they do not stand by the employer.

All these unfair conditions grow from the legal misconception that every workingman from the American locomotive engineer belonging to a strong union to the newly landed, tongue-tied and bewildered greenhorn, is on equal terms with the Standard Oil company or the United States Steel corporation.

The law assumes that the workman is as free to accept or refuse a place as the corporation is to take him or drop him. The law assumes that the grieving widow of an ignorant laborer is equal in a legal battle of wits to the experienced and hardened claim agent. The law assumes that the common laborer can secure witnesses to swear to the employer's negligence as easily as the latter can to swear to the worker's contributory carelessness.

Admitting that these abstract theories no longer fit modern industry we can try to remedy the conditions in two ways. We can amend the present laws piecemeal and take away the unfair defenses of the employer. Almost every state has taken steps in this direction. Several have modified the fellow servant rule. Another group of statutes abolish the "assumption of risk rule" if the injury resulted from a violation of statutes. A few states for awarding damages have adopted the principle of "comparative negligence." In one state or another there is precedent for almost any change that may be desired.

The other way is by law to require each employer to compensate employes injured while at their work, according to an established uniform rate, regardless of negligence (except for wilful misconduct). This plan has been in force in England since 1897. It makes each industry bear its own cost in lives as well as in depreciation of machinery. Employers will insure against this risk and market the product at a price to cover the expense so that the burden will be distributed among all consumers instead of falling on the individual worker. This is a radical departure from old theories of liability, but it is reasonable and just and is the most economical way to distribute these losses vital of industry.

DIES FROM HIS INJURIES

John Reid Struck By Northern Pacific Train Near Sandstone.

John Reid died at St. Luke's hospital early this morning after having been brought to the institution about 1:30 o'clock last night in a dying condition. He was struck by a train near Sandstone and was brought to the city on the night train of the Northern Pacific from St. Paul. He had no chance of recovery. He had a broken leg, a broken arm, several crushed ribs and a deep gash in the head. The manner in which the accident occurred was not learned by the local authorities. The case is being investigated.

"VAG" OWNS SOME PROPERTY

St. Paul Man in County Jail Also Has Bank Account.

Hector O. Pepin, a brother of Peter Pepin, who was sent to the county jail from here, Jan. 9, for thirty days on a charge of vagrancy, has written the local authorities for information relative to the case.

He confirms the report that Peter Pepin is wealthy, stating that he has considerable property at both White Bear and St. Paul, as well as a bank account. The local officials believe that Pepin is slightly demented, and have been planning to bring him before the probate court for an examination. They state that he is obsessed by the belief that he is not going to live long, for which reason he wants to get to his sister's home at Minneapolis.

Pepin was taken sick while working in the woods in the Alger-Smith camps. He went to the hospital at Two Harbors, where he was told that he was not sick enough to remain in the institution. From there he came to Duluth and was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. At the time he was arrested he had no money on him, but it appeared later that he had left a check for some $35 with a friend with whom he had worked in the woods. He acted queerly, and apparently had no place at which to stop.

His brother is very much worried about him. He has asked for all the particulars in the case, stating that he will bear any expense connected therewith. The local authorities believe that the best thing he could do under the circumstances would be to come to Duluth to take charge of the ailing man, who is still in the county jail.

Hector Pepin learned of his brother's plight through a story which was printed several days ago in The Herald and reproduced in the St. Paul papers.

JOINS STATE FEDERATION

West Duluth Commercial Club Affiliates With Similar Organization.

Special Meeting Called to Discuss Retail Trade Conditions.

WHAT THE CLUB DID.

Joined State Federation of Commercial clubs, which meets in Minneapolis this month.

Planned special meeting of business men Jan. 27 to discuss retail trade conditions at West Duluth.

Heard a report of an interview with the Canadian Northern officials as to an agreement relative to overhead crossings at West Duluth.

Elected the following directors for the coming year: Louis Ramstad, David Sang, C. M. Brooks, P. H. Martin, E. J. Zauft, Thomas Olafson, J. J. Frey, A. H. Merriman, Dr. C. R. Keyes, Andrew Myles and F. W. Jolitz.

At its meeting last evening, the West Duluth Commercial club voted to take a membership in the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs. The local club, up to this time, has never been affiliated with the state federation, although on various occasions delegates were sent to the annual meetings. At least two delegates will be chosen at the next meeting to represent the West Duluth club at the annual meeting to be held in Minneapolis, Jan. 25 and 26. The club planned for a special meeting of West Duluth merchants, Jan. 27, Trade conditions at West Duluth will be discussed from the retailer's standpoint and also ways and means for the club to advance the best interests of this end of the city. It is claimed that West Duluth people, not of the laboring class, patronize uptown stores instead of buying from West Duluth merchants and a campaign may be instituted to bring about a different condition of affairs in this respect.

Directors for the coming year were elected at last evening's meeting as given above. They will serve with the officers, who were elected at the last meeting of the club. The officers are also considered as being members of the board of directors.

President L. A. Barnes announced the appointment of some of the committees for the coming year. The hall committee comprises: Thomas Olafson, J. J. Frey and W. B. Getchell. On the membership committee were placed P. H. Martin, A. G. Macauley, C. M. Brooks, Andrew Myles, M. J. Fillatrault, A. H. Merriman and F. W. Jolitz.

The president also submitted a report relative to an interview, which he had obtained with the Canadian Northern officials as to their intentions in the matter of overhead crossings at West Duluth. The road proposes to place a set of posts in the center of Grand avenue to support the overhead bridge. Two rows, it is planned, will be placed in the center of the avenue, with a space of twenty-four feet between them for street car tracks. On the north side of the posts there is a space of sixteen feet for team traffic and additional space for a sidewalk. South of the posts it is proposed to leave a space of twenty-eight feet for team traffic.

The proposal will meet with much opposition from the club, it is understood. The committee is in accordance with the resolution passed by the council Monday, providing for a clear span. Next Friday, the matter will be taken up as special order of business. Invitations will be sent to the aldermen and city engineer to be present at this meeting.

SOLD MILK BELOW GRADE

West Duluth Restaurant Keeper Arrested By State Food Inspector.

August Erickson, 46 years old, was arrested this morning for selling poor milk to his customers at his restaurant, 327 Central avenue. When arraigned in the West Duluth justice court before Judge J. B. Black, he was fined $15 and costs, in all $18.50, which he paid.

Erickson was arrested at the instigation of A. D. Sibbald, deputy state dairy and food inspector, who alleges that on Dec. 14 of last year he obtained milk from the Erickson restaurant which fell below the required 3.5 per cent on butter fat.

Inspector Sibbald, who has been looking over conditions at West Duluth, and who has visited the various restaurants, bakeries and other places where food is sold, says that although there is considerable room for improvement, conditions are not as bad as they might be.

"The dairy conditions in the places visited at West Duluth are not quite up to grade," said Mr. Sibbald this morning. Mr. Sibbald did not state as to whether further arrests would result in West Duluth as a result of his investigation.

SHOULD INSPECT ALL MEAT SOLD

Dr. Bracken Recommends Inspection for Food for Use in State.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—More humane methods of killing animals in a slaughter house and some system whereby meat for state consumption may be inspected are recommended in the report of Dr. Bracken of the state board of health. He states that only a very small proportion of the meat consumed in this country is inspected. Federal inspectors do not examine animals designed for consumption in the state in which they are killed, and a large amount of meat is killed in the state in which it is eaten.

Dr. Bracken contends that the federal laws make the buyers of animals for this inspection more careful, and the poorer animals are left for home consumption.

"A meat consumer in the United States has no assurance that the meat he buys has been inspected," says the report, "unless he in person sees the carcass from which the meat is cut and notes whether it bears a government inspection tag."

A bill introduced in 1899 establishing a system of fees for state inspection is quoted in full and recommended for adoption. The report says that this law was killed by those interested in plants where there is free federal inspection.

The jury in the case of Adelmar Snyder against J. F. McCarthy in United States court went into deliberation about 10 o'clock this morning, and a verdict is expected this afternoon. The action was one for $24,000, alleged to be due for services rendered in connection with a land deal.

The criminal prosecution of William Hill, charged wit hobtaining possession of a registered letter by false representations, was taken up this morning. The offense is alleged to have been committed at Virginia, Sept. 24. Hill is being defended by Hans B. Haroldson, and Assistant District Attorney E. S. Oakley is appearing for the government.

OPPOSITION TO SHEEHAN

Revolt in Tammany Hall Against His Election as Senator.

Cram Says He Will Quit Politics if Sheehan Is Chosen.

New York, Jan. 14.—Storm signals indicating a revolt in Tammany hall, against the selection of William F. Sheehan for United States senator were hoisted here today when J. Sergeant Cram, long a member, and high in the councils of the society, announced that if Mr. Sheehan was elected he would quit politics. "I think," said Mr. Cram, "that the interests have one senator and should not have two. Why should not the other 9,000,000 people of this state be represented?

"Between Sheehan and Shepard, I certainly prefer Shepard. Mr. Sheehan is a charming man and a friend of mine, but as I said before, the interests that desire his nomination have one senator and why should they have two? Mr. Shepard is a man of fine character, spotless reputation and ability. His election at least would not drive the people into such bitter resentment that they would turn against the Democratic party, as I believe they will if Mr. Sheehan is elected. The people are up in arms and will resent the election of another representative of the interests.'"

"Who was your original choice for senator?" Mr. Cram was asked.

"Many of my friends came to me and asked me to be a candidate, but Mr. Murphy would not hear of it. I might have been a candidate if it had not been that he did not regard it with favor."

"Is it true that Thomas F. Ryan and Anthony Brady dictated the nomination of Sheehan?"

"I cannot answer that question," replied Mr. Cram.

"When did you see Mr. Murphy last?"

"About a week ago."

"Did he tell you then that he was for Sheehan?"

"Oh, no; that was settled right after the Rochester convention, I think," replied Mr. Cram.

Senator Godfrey Saxe and Assemblyman Harold J. Friedman, both members of the Tammany organization, declared today that they would not vote for Mr. Sheehan for senator and would work and vote for Mr. Shepard.

Governor Dix, who came down from Albany today, said to reporters, who met him on his arrival, that the senatorial contest is still an open issue. He declined, however, to state his preference for the office. The governor took luncheon with President H. Woolsey Stryker of Hamilton college. Tonight he will be a dinner guest of the Lotos club.

WOULD ABOLISH GAME WARDENS

State Senator Victor Linley of Superior is at the head of a movement which proposes the abolition of state game wardens and the placing of the protection of game in the hands of the county and local officials.

In his work in the upper house of the Wisconsin legislature he is already active in the agitation of his plan, consulting legislators and urging legislation with the view of bringing about a radical change.

"I would do away with the entire system of game wardens," he said. "Thousands of dollars are now spent annually in salaries for game wardens and may be saved the state without any injury to the real interest of game conservation."

He urges that game wardens should be appointed by the county boards of various counties as they are needed and that all license money collected by the counties should be retained by the counties collecting them.

Senator Linley also advocates an open season for rabbits the year around as they are a pest to farmers and settlers. He also believes that the limits of the deer season are ill advised stating that it should be longer and that actual settlers should be allowed to kill deer for their own use.

GOODMAN IS ON PACKEY'S TRAIL

JACK GOODMAN.

It is said that a match has practically been arranged between Jack Goodman, the clever West side fighter, and Packey McFarland of Chicago. Goodman is in excellent shape and aspires to be the champion of lightweights some day. His recent victory over Lew Powell of California shows that Goodman can fight. He was too fast for Powell and the Westerner could make little impression on Goodman in the ten rounds. Perhaps in a longer fight he would do better. Goodman has challenged Ad Wolgast a number of times.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

FEW WILLING TO RETIRE

Most Famous Men Have Hung On Until Forced Into Retirement.

Bill Dineen Proved One Exception to the Time-Honored Custom.

(By Billy Evans.)

The hardest lesson for any athlete to learn, is when to retire.

It is next to impossible to convince some broken down wrestler that his days as a grappler are over.

It's almost worth your life to argue with a once great fighter that he is all in and should retire on his laurels.

It's just as foolhardy to try and impress on some ball player or umpire that his best days are over and that he is rapidly going back.

For some reason or other every athlete in every branch of sport can seldom be made to realize that he is hitting the toboggan and should make room for the younger generation. They all insist in clinging to the belief that they will come back stronger than ever, that they never were more valuable to the respective teams.

Perhaps no fighter ever enjoyed more popularity with the sporting public than Battling Nelson. His willingness to meet all contenders for his title, his policy of always fighting on the square, his gameness under any and all conditions, made him a big favorite. Nelson's proudest boast however, until his Moran bout was that he had never been knocked out. What a shame that Nelson, with his snug little fortune and clean record, couldn't have retired after losing his title to Ad Wolgast, although he wasn't knocked out. The Battler insisted he wasn't in shape when he met Wolgast, that he was as good as ever, and that he would prove the truth of his statement to the public. In his first fight of any importance after the Wolgast affair Nelson suffered a knock out at the hands of Owen Moran, thereby taking the edge off his wonderful record.

Jim Jeffries' Experience.

Jim Jeffries went into retirement, an undefeated fighter. He was looked on by many as the greatest heavyweight of all times. Promising fighters were always contrasted with the giant boilermaker. The lure of gold and the fact that he was looked on as the hope of the white race caused Jeffries to come out of retirement. Every follower of the giant Californian knows what happened to him last Fourth of July. Jeffries has fattened his bank roll, but in all probability he would trade back his winnings for the lost title of undefeated heavyweight champion. Johnson's defeat of Jeffries is the one black spot on the latter's great record.

No greater umpire ever donned the mask than Jack Sheridan. Players and public always regarded him with favor and confidence. Last summer trouble with his eyes caused him to announce his retirement. While his decision was a big loss to the American league, yet he retired with a 25-year record as an umpire that was without a blemish. Illness made it necessary that Sheridan return to work, after an absence of several months. He also worked in the world's series. During those games he had a number of difficult plays to decide. Had any other umpire on the American league staff rendered the decisions in the same way, it is questionable if anything would have been said. The fact that Sheridan, who once retired because of eye trouble, so decided the plays gave the supporters of the Cubs a chance to say unkind things about Jack. While Jack probably doesn't mnid any of the criticism that has been handed him, as he gave the plays just as he saw them, still it's to be regretted that after twenty-five years of wonderful service he should have been so condemned.

The National league, by the pensioning of Bob Emslie, retires that great official with a 24-year record as umpire of which any man would be justly proud. No finer fellow ever lived than Bob Emslie. No umpire has done more for the game than the former dean of the National league staff.

Players Hate to Quit.

The ball player is not unlike any other athlete when the retirement stunt is broached. It is really quite a fad for players to announce their retirement, but mighty few make good their threats. Generally there is a method in the madness of a player or umpire when he informs the sporting world that he is through with baseball, that he intends going into the newspaper game, the banking business, or some other business than the diamond game. Usually the contract tendered him by his employer fails to meet with his approval and he uses the retirement speech with a hope of getting the desired amount of salary.

Just at the present time the papers are filled with matter relative to the only Cy Young. It has been rumored that Cleveland intends to dispose of him, that waivers have been asked on him, that he will be sent to the minors, and a score of other things. For twenty years Cy Young has twirled big league ball. His record stands out alone in the history of baseball; his wonderful pitching performance is a high-water mark, that may never be touched by the present-day twirlers. Cy must have a pretty nice bank roll, fat enough to enable him to spend the remainder of his days in comfort, to allow him to go into retirement and be talked of forever as the grandest old man of them all.

Would it not be a shame if some club found it necessary to release Cy? Would it not be a shame if he drifted back to the minors, after being the monarch of all he surveyed in baseball way for a score of years? Would it not be a shame to have his wonderful record besmirched by either of the two above named happenings? Baseball fandom will hope that Cy gracefully retires if he discovers in the spring that he will not be able to stand the pace. It would grieve every fan in the country to see Cy draw a release or be relegated to the minors, and possibly be tineanned there.

Fielder Jones, who had such wonderful success as the manager of the Chicago American league team, appears to have had the good judgment to know when to retire. During his last year as a player Jones could see himself slowing up. He realized that in a year or so he would be compelled to do the managing from the bench. His wonderful success with a club that was universally known as the "Hitless Wonders" caused him to be regarded as one of the most strategic managers in the game. Evidently Jones saw that his team was retrograding, that even his great managerial ability might not be able to keep it in the race. He came to the conclusion that another year with his club of veterans, many of whom were going back, might destroy the reputation that it had taken him years to build up. He demanded a fancy figure for his return, didn't get it, so he went into retirement and has y t to come back. They still talk about Jones in Chicago, and all managers are compared with the great Fielder Jones. There is not a single blot on his baseball record.

Bill Dineen an Exception.

Bill Dineen is another player who knew when to get out of the game. Bill could have possibly worried along another year as a big leaguer and probably could have got along for five or six years in the bushes with the stuff he possessed. Bill made up his mind, however, that when his days as a big leaguer were ended he would retire from the pitching game.

"The first thing that made me realize I was losing my stuff," said Bill one day last summer, "was the way some of the fellows who I once made look foolish were clouting my offerings. There is one fellow, whose name I won't mention, who couldn't hit me with a snow shovel when I was right. One afternoon in 1909 this fellow made a home run, a double and two singles off me. He was up only four times, so consequently didn't have a chance to do anything else toward fattening his batting average. That afternoon I decided that Bill Dineen was through as a pitcher. I tried to tell my manager, Jimmy McAleer, that I was through, but Jimmy was good-natured and insisted that a little rest would bring me back as good as ever.

"I didn't do much of anything for about a month. I really began to feel better and my arm seemed to have regained much of its strength. The St. Louis club was scheduled to play an exhibition game at Springfield, Ill., and I asked Jimmy McAleer to let me work the game as a final try-out. He consented.

"I have worked in deciding games in pennant races and world's championships, but I never pitched harder in my life than I did that afternoon against that bush league club, yet every ball I threw was hit to some corner of the field. The harder I was hit, the madder I got, but finally the humor of the situation struck me about the seventh inning. At that time Springfield had nineteen hits to its credit, and they made six more before the game was over.

"Perhaps some fellows don't know when to quit, but that was a strong enough warning for Bill Dineen. I decided that, since I couldn't pitch any more, I would try umpiring. I'm still umpiring, but when I go blind in a baseball way, believe me, I'll hand in my resignation. No releases or bush leagues for Bill."

BASEBALL GAINS IN PUBLIC FAVOR

Attendance Figures Show Baseball Drew Big Crowds During Past Year.

New York, Jan. 14.—Baseball had another prosperous year in 1910. Every year the national game retains its place as the most widely patronized sport, and last season was no exception to the rule. Both the National and American league games were largely attended. Many new minor leagues were organized all over the county until at the end of the season the National Association of Minor Leagues comprised a membership of fifty-five organizations, by far the largest in the history of baseball.

Unofficial figures as follows will show the attendance at the games of the National and American leagues during the season of 1910:

National League.	Total Attendance.	Av. per Game.
Chicago	730,963	10,152
New York	628,000	9,373
St. Louis	561,400	7,381
Pittsburg	448,167	6,224
Cincinnati	439,075	6,014
Philadelphia	369,743	5,358
Brooklyn	333,000	5,045
Boston	181,972	2,983
American League.	Total Attendance.	Av. per Game.
Boston	740,250	10,031
Athletics	607,600	8,438
New York	535,060	7,753
Chicago	488,798	6,700
Detroit	391,925	5,207
Cleveland	303,783	4,339
Washington	269,881	3,953
St. Louis	248,600	3,763
Total	3,586,837

The principal event of the season was the signal victory of the Philadelphia Athletics over the Chicago Cubs for the world's championship by four games to one. The result was a surprise because the Cubs had found no difficulty in twice defeating Detroit in previous years, the Tigers winning only one game out of ten played with Chicago. The betting on the series was 10 to 7 against the Athletics before the start. The Cubs were confident they would win, so much so that they were charged in certain quarters with not observing the training rules before the series.

A special feature of the season was the first series of the New York Highlanders with any club in the National league since the invasion of New York city by the Americans and the organization of the Highlanders. The Giants won the series, four games to two. In addition the teams played a tie game.

Many Inter-League Games Played.

There was a larger number of games between the teams of the two major leagues than in several years. The inter-league games of the spring and fall exceeded those of any season since peace was proclaimed between the leading baseball organizations except the seasons of 1903 and 1905.

In the spring thirty-four games were played between teams of the National and American leagues. Of these the American leaguers won eighteen and the Nationals thirteen, with three tied.

In the fall there was a total of nineteen inter-league games, of which the representativts of each league won nine with one game a draw, making the record for the entire season twenty-seven victories for the Americans and twenty-one for the Nationals.

Fans must agree that old 1910 was a great year for the game, come to think it over!

NEW SWIMMING RECORD IS SET IN SYDNEY.

Sydney, N. S. W., Jan. 14.—Longworth, the New South Wales swimmer, today clipped 3 4-5 seconds off C. M. Daniels' record for 1,320 yards, making the distance in 17 minutes and 42 seconds. Daniels' record of 17 minutes, 45 4-5 seconds was made in New York city, Feb. 25, 1907, making sixty-five turns in a tank.

Longworth in the present competitio finished twenty-five yards in front of Cecil Healy, the Australian holder of the amateur record for 100 yards in open water, and who in turn was one ahead of F. E. Beaurepaire of Victoria, holder of the amateur record for 1,000 yards in open water.

SIX-DAY BICYCLE GRIND NEARS END.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The final nine hours' grind in the six-day bicycle race at the Broadway Arsenal in this city began today with every indication of a fascinating, hard-fought climax. The total scores when the riders took the track showed three teams tied at 1,052 miles, 8 laps, two teams a lap behind the leaders and four teams another lap away, as follows:

Hehir-Goullett, 1,052.8; Lawson-Root, 1,052.8; Clarke-Pye, 1,052.8; Wiley-Mitten, 1,052.7; Walthour-Walker, 1,052.7; Galvin-West, 1,052.6; Crebs-Thomas, 1,052.6; Lawrence-Drobach, 1,052.6; Hill-Fogler, 1,052.6.

Nineteen distinct nationalities being represented. The total enrollment is 557. The Finns lead with 262 members, and are followed by 102 Italians. The Swedes do not get into the 100 class, the number being 53. Next come the Austrians with 37 pupils, who are followed closely by Americans for the fifth place with 36 pupils. Norwegians are sixth with 16 members. Ten Germans hold the next place. Bulgarians and Polenanders come next with 8 each, after them come 7 Russians, followed in turn by 6 Slavs. England is represented by 3 members; Denmark and Switzerland by 2 each and Scotland has only 1; 1 Greek, 1 Jew, 1 Dutchman and 1 Crovation completes the list. Bearing in mind that the fact that practically every member works in the mines and must sometimes go on night shift the attendance is good.

Average Attendance 236.

The average attendance for the last term was 236 or a percentage of 86. The total individual attendance during the term amounted to 24,610. The chief cause of absence was night shift which claimed 178 pupils; sickness kept 89 away from school, while 78 were working too far from Hibbing to be able to attend. GREAT CROWD GATHERS EXPECTING SENSATIONS IN THE SCHENK TRIAL but the crowd stuck tenaciously to the courtroom, believing that the tedious technicalities would be relieved by the calling of more witnesses to show that the love of another man might have been a motive for the crime with which Mrs. Schenk is charged.

It was intimated that Phillips might be recalled during the day for further questioning as to his relations with Mrs. Schenk.

Before court opened Juror Albert Lasch had been informed that a little stranger had come to his home during the night, and he desired to visit the newcomer, but the court would not permit it. It was 10 o'clock when the trial was resumed.

Dr. J. T. Thornton was recalled and the defense continued the cross-examination.

Scandal Introduced.

The tedium of hypothetical questions and technical testimony was suddenly varied yesterday, when toward the close of the day the state, through a witness, brought into the court records the first intimation of scandal, in its prosecution of Mrs. Laura Farnworth Schenk, who is charged with administering poison to her wealthy husband, John O. Schenk.

Ever since the arrest of Mrs. Schenk last November, there have been intimations and actual statements from the prosecuting attorney that "a well-known young man of Wheeling" would be called by the state to show a probable motive for the alleged poisoning, and when Daniel Phillips was called, it created more than the usual murmur about the courtroom.

Phillips, who is a member of a prominent Wheeling family, is a piano salesman. His name has been guarded from publicity from the first.

He told of long automobile rides with the accused, at her invitation, for a period extending over eighteen months previous to her arrest. During the last year, he said, Mrs. Schenk had talked to him about plans to secure a divorce, and later talked almost constantly of the strong probability of her husband's death.

Phillips admitted that Mrs. Schenk on various occasions had given him many costly presents, among them a diamond pin and a smoking jacket, but denied knowledge of the purchase for him of a $300 fur overcoat, which, it has been alleged, he was to have received the day she was arrested and lodged in jail.

The state attempted several times, through queries, to get an admission that undue intimacy existed between the witness and the defendant, but to all questions along this line Phillips refused to answer, on the ground that he would not incriminate himself, and he was sustained by the court in his position.

Phillips testified that after he became acquainted with Mrs. Schenk she visited his place of business so often that he was forced to ask her to stop coming. She then resorted to the telephone, and he was called so frequently that this means of communication was finally stopped by him. She then sent her chauffeur, Lundy Wilson, with notes, according to Phillips, or had the chauffeur call up Phillips to make arrangements for their automobile rides. He told of meeting the accused at Martin Ferry and other Ohio points.

Phillips admitted further, under the rain of questions from the prosecutor, that upon arriving at their destination, a point near Smithfield, Ohio, the refreshments would be disposed of, the chauffeur dismissed, and that he and Mrs. Schenk would remain in the car. When they desired to return to the city, Wilson would be summoned by a certain signal on the automobile horn. The witness exhibited much nervousness on the stand and hesitated in his replies. Mrs. Schenk was agitated more than at any time during the trial, keeping her head lowered and fumbling with papers on the table before her. The defense refused to cross-examine the witness, and after the grilling at the hands of Mr. Handlan, he almost fled from the courtroom.

GREATEST WARSHIP EVER BUILT BY U. S. LAUNCHED AT CAMDEN

young women and others, constituting the christening party. On another platform were gathered hundreds of invited guests, and in the background thousands of spectators. As usual the shipyard employes were given a holiday and nearly all of them were there to see the product of their labor slip into the waters of the Delaware.

When the critical moment arrived, when the workmen had ceased hammering and sawing away the keel blocks, and the great hull quivered and slowly began to move, Miss Mason crashed the bottle against the reading prow and exclaimed: "I christen thee Arkansas!" The contents of the bottle foamed over the nose of the great ship.

Guests Have Luncheon.

Following the launching the officials of the company entertained the guests at a luncheon spread in one of the big buildings of the plant.

The principal dimensions of the latest and largest addition to the navy are: Length over all, 562 feet; beam over armor, 93 feet, 2¾ inches; draft, 28 feet, 6 inches; displacement, 26,000 tons. The contract for the ship calls for a speed of 20½ knots an hour.

When complete the Arkansas will have the greatest gun power in broadside fire of any ship afloat. The main armament will consist of twelve 12-inch breech-loading guns mounted in six heavy armor protected turrets. For defense against torpedo boat attacks there will be a battery of 21 5-inch rapid fire guns. There will also be 2 submerged torpedo tubes and 10 small guns. The total weight of broadside fire will be about 11,000 pounds. The armor belts will have an average thickness of three inches.

The Arkansas will be turbine driven and will have 25,000-horse power. The vessel will be fitted for a flagship and her complement will consist of 55 officers and 1,030 men.

The keel of the Arkansas was laid last January and at present the ship is about 60 per cent completed.

COPPERS DECLINE AFTER A BULGE

Values Slightly Lower Following Liquidation on Early Hard Spot.

The copper market opened firm and advanced in sympathy with the industrials and rails which were favorably influenced by the upward trend of little Steel and several rails in which the accumulation was pronounced. There was no favorable feature of especial interest. The general undertone of the market was improved as traders were inclined, as is their custom, to take a more optimistic view of the outlook so long as stocks were advancing.

On the hard spot which developed shortly before noon there was considerable realizing and stocks tumbled, closing lower than the opening. There was no support on the downturn and Eastern reports said the people who had been putting up stocks were feeding them out the bulge.

Business is still dull but trade papers indicate that there is a disposition to throw off the yoke of conservatism and broaden business operations. The banks, however, are inclined to proceed cautiously. Idle cars in the last two weeks increased 105 per cent. Shorts are having considerable difficulty in getting stocks to cover their commitments. The irregularity today was due in a large measure to a desire to take profits before the holiday.

The local market was dull. Calumet & Montana sold at 71c, Calumet & Corbin at 29c, Keating at $1.43¾ and Denn at $4.93¾ @ 5.00.

Amalgamated sold at $64.50 to $64 to $64.25 to $64.37½, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.87½, Butte-Ballaklava at $6.50, Giroux at $6.75, Butte Coalition at $18.50, Greene at $6.62½, Calumet & Arizona at $47, North Butte at $28.50.

The Financial Bulletin says:

"It was reported toward the end of the week that there had been sales of electrolytic copper at 12¾c and that the metal is being offered in London on a basis of 12½@ f.o.b. New York. It is believed that these quotations are for small lots and that it would be difficult to buy much copper below 12½c. The leading seller of electrolytic is understood to be asking 12¾c. The statement issued by the Producers' association early in the week was disappointing from the standpoint of the production which failed to show the expected reduction and the falling off in the deliveries to domestic consumers. It is generally believed that a large part of the exports have been going into warehouses on the continent which do not report. One statement has been made that there are 65,000,000 lb in the warehouse at Hamburg. This is taken as the explanation of the failure of the metal to reflect the continued reduction in the surplus as reported. There is, however, a better feeling apparent in financial circles and with the accumulation of funds in the banks and the better investment demand there is a hope that the larger railway corporations can be financed and placed in a position to renew construction work. Thus it would not be surprising if there was a large buying movement in the metal during the next few days."

Officials of the Anaconda-Amalgamated companies have one reason at least to increase whatever spirit of optimism they now have for the new year, for it is estimated that the Anaconda company will some time during the first three or four months of 1911 attain a cost for its copper laid down in New York at least 1 cent less per pound than present costs.

The installation of electricity and compressed air will be the prime factor in bringing about this reduced cost, and will also enable the hoisting of an increased tonnage from the Anaconda mines when conditions warrant. At first the hoisting will be done by compressed air at but three of the mines, the Diamond, High Ore, and Mountain View, but it is anticipated that eventually the new process will supplant the old method in all departments. It will take about a month to make the direct change in each of the mines from the old method to the new, and during this time production will cease where the work is being done, but it is planned to make up any deficiency in this respect by a slightly increased production from other mines.

Three Nordberg air compressors have been installed, each with a capacity of 7,500 cubic feet of air per minute. Electric power will be brought from Great Falls, a distance of 130 miles, and it will require 3,600 horse power to operate the air compressors at full capacity.

Thompson & Toule say: It was only a few years ago that the Calumet & Hecla was the one big giant in the copper world and no other property was within striking distance from any viewpoint. Today, however, the great Calumet & Hecla, after having paid $114,000,000 in dividends is on the down grade and several other properties have now passed it in everything but low capitalization. The Anaconda in Butte, the Copper Queen in Arizona, the Utah Copper company and the Nevada Consolidated company are now pressing it hard for fourth place, though the contemplated consolidation of a dozen smaller companies into the Calumet & Hecla will materially increase its production.

The most marvelous growth in the history of copper mining in the United States has been the development of the Utah Copper company within a period of only five years, and the record of that company makes interesting comparison with the great Calumet & Hecla as is attested by the following:

	Cal. & Hecla lbs.	Utah Cop. lbs.
Production 1910	72,108,000	122,000,000
Cost per lb	8.43c	8c
Capital stock out.	2,500,000	15,400,000
Selling value	54,000,000	69,000,000
Divs. paid in 1910.	2,900,000	4,667,000
Prospec. prod. 1911.	71,000,000	150,000,000

"In the proposed consolidation, however, Calumet & Hecla should increase its production by 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 lbs. per annum and its capital to $10,000,000, but its copper costs should likewise increase above 1c per lb.

"The above figures of the Utah Copper company include stock issued for 51 per cent ownership in Nevada Consolidated, and one-half that company's production for both 1910 actual and 1911 prospective."

DIFFERENCES SETTLED

Between Ward County, N. D., Commissioners and Fair Association.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The controversy between the officers of the Ward County Fair association and the county commissioners has been amicably settled. The commissioners have authorized the issuing of a warrant to the treasurer of the association for $4,315, the balance of the amount derived from the tax levy of one-half mill made last year. This will aid the fair association and plans for organizing a western racing circuit to be held in connection with the county fairs will be perfected at once. Every county so far approached is in favor of such action.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WERE FIRST AT BAUDETTE

Bemidji People Who Hastened to Fire-Stricken District Seek Relief.

Claim to Be Presented to the Legislature to Pay Them for Services.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the legislature takes favorable action, the twenty residents of Bemidji who heard the call for aid from the fire stricken regions of Northern Minnesota last October and hurried to Baudette and Spooner, being the first to succor the sufferers, will be reimbursed. Sheriff Hazen of Beltrami county has prepared a claim for them and it has been presented to the attorney general to receive his sanction as to its legality.

This relief squad was in charge of Sheriff Hazen and Deputy Sheriff A. G. Rutlege, and to this little band is given much of the credit for bringing order out of lawlessness and chaos.

In addition to Sheriff Hazen and Chief Deputy Rutlege, there were fourteen deputies and three professional timber cruisers, Rev. S. E. P. White of the Bemidji Presbyterian church went along, also. Bemidji physicians. Eighteen members of Company K of Bemidji accompanied the expedition, but they have been paid by the state through the adjutant general's office.

Deputies Want $250.

The total amount asked for the deputies, outside of Sheriff Hazen and the physicians, is $250, for the time varying from three to six days' period. Sheriff Hazen's fees for traveling, per diem and cash paid out are $66.95.

The physicians who accompanied the expedition were: Doctors A. E. Henderson, L. E. Ward, E. H. Marcum, E. R. Sanborn and E. E. Smith, who want $200 each, on the ground that they worked ceaselessly night and day. The professional cruisers are scheduled to receive $4 per day.

The list of names in the claim are: John Taylor, cook, six days; John J. Rose, Lewis Bennington, J. P. Essler, professional cruisers, four days each; C. W. Brandborg, Charles Swedback, L. G. Crothers, C. J. Woodmansee, John McDougal, T. J. Burke, J. O. Harris, F. R. Murphy and C. L. Wight, three days each.

TWO BIG DITCHES ARE AUTHORIZED

Judicial Ditches 31 and 32 to Reclaim Much Land in Kittson County.

Hallock, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—District ditches, Nos. 31 and 32, were established this week and probably will be the last public ditches authorized in Kittson county for years The hearing was held before Judge Grindeland, Attorney Peterson of Lancaster appearing for the petitioners and P. H. Konyen for those who did not favor the ditches.

Judicial ditch, No. 31, runs east and west through the towns of Cannon and Poppleton, from the swamps in the corner township and empties into the North Branch river, about a mile and a half northeast of Lancaster. It runs through a well settled community and will not only enhance the value of thousands of acres of rich farm land, much of which has been too wet for cultivation before, but will give the settlers a good and direct road to market that will be safe to travel at all times.

Judicial ditch, No. 32, will run eastward along the northern edge of the county and will connect the Roseau river by means of ditches and through the North Branch river with the Red River of the North. Bids for the two ditches will be asked at once and construction will commence in the spring. The cost will average about $115 to each quarter section of land one and one-half miles on both sides of the ditches.

TO CHECK LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Indian Agent Campbell Confers With Indians at Odanah.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Maj. Campbell, the Indian agent, held a confab Wednesday with a number of Indians at Odanah, at which the Indians talked over the plans of the Committee of Ten, to cut out the sale of liquor to Indians. Another conference will be held in the near future, to which all members of the tribe will be invited.

Chiefs James Blackbird, James Doolittle, and George Messenger delivered addresses in the Chippewa tongue, and others talked. Father Loefler, the Catholic priest, attended the Knight mass meeting, but he was unable to attend Wednesday. Rev. Mr. Thomas was one of the speakers. All of the chiefs spoke emphatically in favor of the action taken at Ashland. Chief Blackbird took the ground that it is the duty of the United States to protect the sons of the framers of he original Indian treaties, making the point that the framers of that treaty foresaw that their descendants would need protection from liquor and liquor sellers, and it was especially stipulated that liquor should be barred from the ceded lands. The tenor of the addresses was in appreciation of the assistance that is promised at Ashland.

It may be said that the exact plan which will be put on trial at Ashland will in due time be tried at Washburn, Saxon, and other places and also in connection with any road houses which may attempt to profit by the cutting out of the sale of liquor in the cities.

MISSING MAN IN BAUDETTE

That Is Theory in Grand Forks Respecting Peter Murphy's Disappearance.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—First word of the wanderings of Peter Murphy, who disappeared from this city Oct. 27, leaving his wife and family, supposedly to secure work in the re-building of Baudette, Minn., was brought here yesterday by Charles Berry of Baudette. Mr. Berry recognized the cut of Murphy in a newspaper as a man he saw at Baudette not more than three weeks ago. The news was at once reported to the authorities and they will renew the search for the man, whom they had given up as out of their reach and knowledge.

The man whom Mr. Berry feels confident is Murphy was working at his trade, of a carpenter in Baudette, and when he met him his hand was carried in a sling, having been injured in some manner and he wanted to dispose of a batching outfit. He claimed that he wished to go to Detroit, Minn., and wanted to sell his articles immediately. His eagerness to dispose of the collection made Berry a little suspicious that he had stolen them so he refused to give the matter any consideration.

utility plants so that the consumers' burden may not be too heavy." To that end it is proposed that a state water supply commission be created, consisting of three members to be appointed by the governor, and that the commission appoint a chief engineer who shall be a civil and hydraulic engineer of recognized standing in his profession, together with such assistants as may be necessary.

The commission is to pass upon all applications for the use of surface waters in the state, for municipal water supply, water power, sewage disposal, and all projects for the improvement of rivers in the interests of flooded control and prevention. Franchises for such uses are to be issued by the commission at fees to be fixed in the statute.

River Surveys Suggested.

The report recommends that $15,000 a year be appropriated to carry on the investigation of this subject, and it is urged that river surveys be made of the following streams: Blue Earth, Zumbro, Cottonwood, Cedar, Des Moines, Redwood, Vermillion, Whitewater, Littlefork, Bigfork, Kettle, Whiteface, Crow, Clearwater, Wild Rice, Pigeon, Brule (north shore), Baptism, Beaver Bay, Cascade, Devil Track, Lester, Manitou, Gooseberry, Poplar and Temperance.

It is also recommended that surveys and maps be made of various sites for storage reservoirs, of which the following are the most important: Crow Wing lakes, Red lake, Otter Tail lake, lakes at the head of Wild Rice rivers, clearwater river, St. Louis river, Little Fork river and Bigfork river.

The present developed water power is thus tabulated:

System—	Plants.	Wheels.	—Horse power— Install'd.	Av. Dev.
Mississippi	199	374	118,040	76,120
Hudson bay drainage	24	60	18,140	15,000
Lake Superior	2	20	49,000	22,000

The plants in the Hudson bay drainage include one on Rainy river at International Falls, and twenty-three on the Red river and its tributaries. The Lake Superior plants are at Cloquet and Thomson.

Undeveloped Water Power.

Undeveloped water power, which can be increased nearly 50 per cent by resorting to storage, is thus located as compared with developed power:

Streams—	Theoretical.	—Horse power— Devel'p.	Undevl'p.
Mississippi river	234,000	60,300	173,700
Minnesota river	8,300	600	7,700
Minnesota river tributaries	9,500	2,400	7,100
St. Croix river	28,000	4,504	23,500
St. Croix river tributaries	4,900	1,200	3,700
Mississippi tributaries above Minnesota river	26,300	2,000	24,300
Mississippi tributaries below Minnesota river	28,800	5,100	23,700
Red river (including Otter Tail river)	30,400	1,100	29,300
Red river tributaries	28,300	1,900	26,400
Rainy river (including American and Canadian rights)	22,000	12,000	10,000
Rainy river tributaries	61,800	.....	61,800
Lake Superior tributaries east of Duluth	20,700	.....	20,700
Lake Superior tributaries west of Duluth	50,700	22,000	28,700
Totals	553,700	113,100	440,600

It will be noted that the report estimates the potential power of the St. Louis river (Lake Superior tributaries, west of Duluth) at 50,700, and with 22,000-horse power developed, this leaves 28,700-horse power to be realized.

Says the report: "Lake Superior tributaries west of Duluth are second only to Mississippi river and the boundary waters tributary to Rainy lake. Development of water power in this section is well under way."

The many streams of the north shore of Lake Superior that tumble down the hillsides to the lake are estimated by the commission to contain possibilities of 20,700-horse power. Says the report: "The noticeable feature of these streams is their great fall in the last few miles before entering the lake, making them susceptible of easy development. It is probable that nearly ideal reservoir systems could be devised whereby the available horsepower might be increased to 40,000 or even more."

The Thomson Plant.

Of the Thomson plant of the Great Northern Power company the report says: "The Great Northern Power company has a plant a few miles below Thomson, which utilizes a head of 273 feet. At Thomson is a service reservoir which is designed to hold twenty-four hours' supply for 80,000-horse power. From this reservoir there is a canal which terminates in three pipe lines which lead to the power house. Each line is composed of California redwood staves seven feet in diameter, three and one-third inches thick, for a distance of 4,000 feet. The lower 1,000 feet of each line is constructed of riveted steel plates. Each line leads to a 13,000-horse power Allis-Chalmers turbine of the Francis type, which is set on a vertical shaft connected to a 7,500 kilowatt General Electric generator at 6,600 volts. This gives an installed hydraulic power of 39,000-horse power with an electric power of 30,000-horse power. There is space for a fourth turbine which has not as yet been installed, and eventually it is expected to build an addition to the power house doubling the present capacity, which will give an electric installation of 80,000-horse power.

"At the present time the average power developed is about 15,000-horse power, which is transmitted to Duluth, a distance of fourteen miles, at a voltage of 20,000, which can be increased to 60,000 if required. In Duluth there is a second power house where the voltage is stepped down. In addition to the service reservoir at Thomson, there is a storage reservoir at Wild Rice lake which has a capacity of twenty-five square mile-feet. It is estimated that the entire system represents an investment of $5,000,000."

The report will be presented to the legislature next week

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's For One Thing Only, and Duluth People Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.

They cure sick kidneys.

They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is Duluth evidence to prove it.

David H. Todd, 1102 East Second street, Duluth, Minn., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills gave me confidence in them. Long before coming to this country, I heard of this remedy, it being considered a very valuable one in England. I first took Doan's Kidney Pills in 1897. I had been working hard and I believe over-exertion weakened my kidneys. My back ached a great deal and was so lame and painful that I could hardly endure the misery. The kidney secretions were unnatural. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, there was a change for the better and as I continued using them, I steadily improved. I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a parent who had a child troubled by a kidney weakness and in this instance, their use brought great relief."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Solves the Problem of Good Hair.

After Prof. Sabouraud confirmed the germ origin of dandruff, science was confronted by a new problem which was not solved until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide being the first successful preparation compounded in harmony with this new theory, becomes the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ.

Since then, numerous preparations said to be "just as good" as Herpicide have been thrown upon the market; others have adopted Herpicide claims, and without making any change in their remedies, but none have ever reached the same degree of popularity. Everywhere this remedy is recognized as the one genuine dandruff germ destroyer. As a result Herpicide has more satisfied users than all other hair preparations combined.

Being the original remedy, users expect more astonishing results from Herpicide than they would look for from any other preparation and they usually get them. So wonderful has been the success of this germicide that it is now recognized as the standard hair remedy of the world.

Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, checks falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications obtainable at the good barber shops. Insist on having real Herpicide. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

CONTINUED COLD

Reflect a moment, you favored resident of the fair city of Duluth. The highest temperature at Edmonton yesterday was 30 deg below zero and this morning 50 deg. below was reported from that point. Prince Albert, which is also in the Canadian Northwest, had a high mark of 28 deg. below zero yesterday and a low mark of 50 deg. below this morning. In Duluth the mercury mounted to 6 deg. above and this morning it only dropped to 9 deg. below. Who says Duluth isn't in the banana belt? We'll have to trot out our summer garb and Panama lids if this unseasonable condition holds very much longer. The low mark tonight will be about zero and even warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow.

Mild weather prevailed in Duluth a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:50 and it will set at 4:44 this evening, giving eight hours and fifty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Cold weather continues throughout the Northwest with zero temperatures southward to including Iowa, Northern Nebraska and Wyoming. The coldest places last night were Prince Albert and Edmonton, both reporting 50 deg. below zero. The low pressure areas overlying the Eastern lake region and Southwestern Idaho caused further snow or rain over most central and Northern states. Northern California and the Southwest. Somewhat higher tempertaure prevails in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. If expected variable winds prevail the temperature at the Head of the Lakes may moderate somewhat during Sunday.

General Forecasts.

COLD WAVE IS SLOW IN PASSING

Thermometer Registers 9 Deg. Below Zero Again in Duluth.

The mercury dropped to 9 deg. below zero this morning at 7 o'clock and the low mark was accompanied by a wind that was making thirty-two miles an hour. The weather was decidedly uncomfortable for those who had to venture forth early, but conditions moderated somewhat for those who appeared on the streets later.

Continued cold weather with temperatures about zero or a little below is the prediction for tonight. Mr. Richardson of the local weather bureau looks for moderation tomorrow with a return to normal conditions by Monday.

The intense cold prevails in the Canadian Northwest. Prince Albert and Edmonton reported temperatures of 50 deg. below zero again this morning. At Edmonton the temperature was not above 30 deg. below yesterday, while at Prince Albert 28 deg. below zero was the high mark.

Representative Olsgard of Nason county, which provides for a complete revision and readjustment of the school laws of the state. There are no changes provided for in the manner of electing the state superintendent, in his qualifications or the tenure of office. The state superintendent of instruction shall receive, according to the bill, an annual salary of $3,000, and also traveling expenses incurred in the discharge of his duty not to exceed $1,200 in any one year. The election of county superintendent shall be held at the same time as other county officers are named and for a term of two years as at present. The qualifications for this position are raised to a slightly higher standard. County superintendents shall receive a salary equal to that of the register of deeds in each county, and in addition thereto necessary traveling expenses.

One of the radical changes proposed is the abolition of the district school treasurer. His duties will be given over to the county treasurer.

Length of terms of schools in common school districts and time of year at which they shall be held is mentioned, no term to be for less than seven months in each school year, and it is also provided that schools may be discontinued when the average attendance for ten consecutive days shall be less than four. The question of consolidation of rural schools may be voted upon the presentation of a petition of one-third of the voters in the districts affected. District high schools may be established in any district having four or more schools and an enumeration of sixty or more persons of school age. Any city or incorporated town having a population of over 150 may be constituted a special school district. The school boards shall employ one or more physicians for the medical inspection of pupils, and the medical inspectors shall be required to make at least one inspection annually of all children in the school except those who present a certificate of health from a reputable physician.

A state board of examiners is created consisting of the state superintendent and four other persons actively engaged in school work to be appointed by the governor for a term of four years. The appointive members of the board shall receive $5 per day and their expenses for time actually employed. The state board of examiners will have the preparing of all questions for teachers' examinations in the state. There are to be four regular grades of the certificates issued, and they are to be granted only to people of good moral character who have the other qualifications required.

Agricultural High Schools.

Representative Davis of Larimore introduced a bill providing for the establishment of a system of agricultural, manual training and domestic science high schools, ten of them to be established in the next two years. The bill is to meet with the provisions of the Dolliver bill in congress, which, if passed, grants to the state an amount just double that given by the state in support of such institutions.

Another anti-pass bill was introduced in the house yesterday, S. J. A. Boyd of Hannah fathering the measure.

In the senate a number of important bills were introduced. Senator Cashel introduced several measures bearing upon the question of the primary election caucus, election of judges and school officers on a less partisan oasis, with amendments to the primary election also being introduced by him. Outside of the introduction of bills the proceedings in both houses yesterday were tame, there being absolutely nothing doing.

Representative McClellan has proposed an amendment to the Constitution on the question of coal lands. It is provided that the state shall reserve the ownership of lignite coal in school lands remaining unsold. In the western section of the state there is a very large amount of school and institution land owned by the state that is underlaid with lignito coal. It is now appraised at about $50 an acre.

Would Make It a Felony.

Violation of the liquor law in North Dakota will hereafter be a felony if the bill presented by Representative J. T. Hoge of McLean county becomes a law. It provides that as punishment for the first offense in the matter of violating the prohibition law, that the offender shall be sentenced to six months in the state penitentiary. The present minimum punishment is ninety days in jail and a fine of $200, and violation of the law does not become a felony until the second offense.

Further efforts at promoting publicity in connection with administration of the affairs of the office of the state treasurer are made in a bill introduced by Representative Walters of Stutsman county. This bill provides that the state treasurer must make a monthly statement showing all moneys in his hands or control on the last day of the preceding month, this including a detailed statement of the deposits in banks, as well as the cash on hand.

In the bill to prohibit the use of the public drinking cup on trains and in public places of all kinds, a fine of $25 for each offense is provided.

Reapportionment of the state into legislative districts will be one of the big questions up for consideration at the present session. A bill introduced by Representative Nestos of Ward county provides for a membership of fifty in the senate and 125 in the house.

by Lloyd's is more than $38,000,000, and their actual value is probably not far from $40,000,000. Assuming for the purpose of this article that the insurable value represents the actual value and that personal property in the city of Duluth is assessed for taxation purposes at only 25 per cent of its real value, these vessels, if taxed on an ad valorem basis, would have an assessable value of $9,500,000. If vessels were subject to a general property tax and assessed at 25 per cent of their insurable value, the vessels registered at Duluth alone would be subject to a tax in 1911 of more than $224,400, or seventeen times more than they now pay under the present law.

Are Practically Exempt.

"It is evident from an examination of these figures that our present law practically exempts from taxation all vessels owned in this state engaged in the navigation of international waters. If the shipping industry on the Great Lakes were an infant industry without an assured future there might be some possible, though doubtful, merit in exempting vessels from taxation. But such is not the case. The lake carrying business as now conducted is prosperous and its future is as bright as that of any other legitimate business.

"No other state bordering on the Great Lakes has a vessel tax similar to our own. In all of them vessels are subject to a general property tax the same as other personal property. A law providing for a light tax on vessels based on their net tonnage, and substantially like our own, was enacted in Wisconsin in 1901, but after a trial of four years it was repealed because of a very general feeling that it was grossly unfair.

"For reasons that are obvious all of the states and provinces bordering on the Great Lakes should employ the same method in taxing vessels. Any other plan inevitably leads to easy tax evasion and results in confusion all along the line.

Not a Wise Policy.

"It is safe to say that a majority of the vessels hailing from Duluth are registered there, not because our law practically exempts them from taxation, but from purely business considerations. There is, however, convincing evidence that many vessels are registered there for the sole purpose of evading taxation in the states where they rightfully belong, and we do not believe that it is a wise policy for this state by unfair and inadequate tax laws to convert its ports into convenient retreats for tax evading vessel owners of other states.

"There would doubtless be a very material shrinkage in the total tonnage registered at Minnesota ports if the present tonnage tax were repealed. It is also doubtless true that many vessels now displaying the name of a Minnesota port as their 'port of hail' would replace this name with the name of the port where they rightfully belong and rightfully should pay taxes. But even so the tax commission believes that the state of Minnesota, the county of St. Louis and the interested ports would all gain much more than they would lose by the repeal of the law. The law should either be repealed and replaced by a law similar to the one now in force in Wisconsin, or the tax should be increased to at least 20 cents per net ton."

The 3-cent tax was created, in the beginning, to induce vessels to register at Duluth and advertise that city as their port of hail. It has been very successful in that respect; and on the whole it may be that about as much taxes have been derived by the state from it as would have been derived from an ad valorem tax when other states were offering special inducements as they were then. If, as the tax commission states, no other lake state now offers reduced taxes, it may prove difficult to prevent an increase in the tax rate on vessels, even if it is considered desirable to oppose it.

The proposed tax of 20 cents per net ton would yield, on the registered net tonnage of 1909, a tax of $127,288.80 as against $21,814.02 derived from the 3-cent tax in 1910. Half of this tax would go to the state and half to St. Louis county.

Bushel Tax on Grain.

The commission also urges the repeal or amendment of the bushel tax on grain enacted two years ago, on the ground that the rates specified, a quarter of a mill a bushel on wheat and flax in elevators and an eighth of a mill on other grains, are altogether too low to yield any considerable revenue to the state. "Doubtless," says the commission, "the reason for fixing such low rates was to meet the objection that if they were much higher the incidence of the tax would fall upon the producers of grain—that the elevator or warehouse would recoup the tax paid by reducing the prices paid for such grain. There is considerable merit to the objection ,provided it is true that the rate is high enough to offer an inducement to the elevator to do this. But a tax rate of one-fourth or one-eighth of a mill, being one-fortieth or one-eightieth of a cent, is so infinitesimal that it can hardly be supposed that it would be so used. In all probability the grain dealer charges the tax to expense the same as he does the oil for his lights or the fuel for his office stove, and lets it go at that. No evidence has come to this commission that in any instance anywhere in the state has the price of grain been even in the smallest degree reduced by reason of the bushel tax. We are of the opinion that the bushel tax is a very decided improvement over the former method of taxing grain upon an ad valorem basis. It is in fact not a tax upon grain at all, but a tax upon the business of handling grain. The greatest objection to it in its present form is that the specified rates are too low. In our judgment these rates should be increased to at least a mill on wheat and flax and one-half of 1 mill on other grains. Such an income would yield a fair revenue to the state, and is altogether too small to induce any grain dealer to attempt to saddle it upon the shoulders of his customers."

If the rate is not increased, the commission recommends the repeal of the bushel tax because as a revenue producer it is a failure.

The total amount of taxes collected under the bushel tax in Minnesota during 1910, was $35,820.28; and in 1909 the amount was $34,880.49.

North Dakota also has a bushel tax, which applies only to grain grown within the state, but it charges 5 mills on wheat against Minnesota's quarter of a mill, 3¾ mills on flax against Minnesota's quarter of a mill, and a half-mill on other grains against Minnesota's one-eighth of a mill.

Tax Land and Timber Separately.

Of interest as applying to taxation of iron ore is the discussion of the proposition to tax land and timber separately, and to tax the timber only when it is cut, which is similar to the idea of the tonnage tax on iron ore. On this point the commission says: "One difficulty with this plan is that it would result in an irregular and uncertain revenue for the towns and counties in which the timber was located. In addition, unless the state could exercise some authority over the time of cutting the timber, such a law would enable the owners of timber lands to hold the timber for an indefinite period for speculative purposes. The plan of taxing the land annually and the timber when cut, or entire exemption for a limited number of years, as applied to reforested land has much to commend it; but we do not believe that matured timber should escape taxation until the owner is ready to cut it, any more than that iron ore in the ground should not be taxed until mined."

Bills are coming in more slowly so far this session than they did in 1909, when all records for new bills were broken. As the legislature has a fixed and limited time to do its work, there is no harm in this because the fewer bills there are to be considered, the more time there will be to consider those that do come in.

Ore Freight Rates.

Leon E. Lum, who is proceeding against the iron ore freight rates before the interstate commerce commission and has asked the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission to intervene, and conduct the case, will have a chance to show the commission Monday afternoon what his reasons are for its so acting. Under the law the state may intervene and become a party if it desires to do so, and it is up to Mr. Lum to show the commission what interest the state has in acting The commission will decide promptly after Monday's hearing whether or not it will become a party to the action.

St. Paul, having done itself proud by entertaining the legislature, Minneapolis probably will follow suit, and there are reports already that that city is preparing an entertainment. "If it tries to outdo St. Paul's lavish party it will have to go some," said a country member yesterday.

The Oregon Plan.

A way out of the apparent idifficulty in applying the Oregon plan to Minnesota, mentined in these dispatches the other day, has been discovered by Representative Keefe of North Redwood, and he will arrange his Oregon plan bill to take care of it.

The difficulty referred to was that in 1912, when there will be a senatorial contest if the Oregon plan is adopted, there would be no state senators in the field to be pledged; and the essential feature of the Oregon plan is the fact that candidates for the legislature must pledge themselves to vote for the people's choice for United States senator.

If a reapportionment bill is passed the state senators will have to run again in 1912, and they can be pledged. Therefore all that is necessary, according to Mr. Keefe's plan, is to require that all legislative candidates, at the beginning of their terms, shall pledge themselves that they will abide by the choice of the people on all senatorial contests that come up during their terms.

A house member from Northern Minnesota, who doesn't care to have his name mentioned in connection with it for the present, will shortly introduce by request a bill making incurable insanity of more than five years' standing a ground for absolute divorce in this state.

PARCEL POST BILL IS PRESENTED TO SENATE.

Washington, Jan. 14.—A measure providing for a limited parcels post on rural free delivery routes, yesterday was reported favorably to the senate from the committee on postoffices and post roads. The report was presented by Senator Burrows and was the unanimous action of the committee.

The measure provides, in substance, that for one year, beginning April 1, 1911, the postmaster-general may authorize postmasters and carriers on such rural routes as he shall select to accept for delivery by carrier, at such rates of postage as shall be determined, packages not exceeding eleven pounds in weight containing no mail matter of the first class and no matter that is declared unmailable. The results of this experiment the postmaster-general is directed to report to congress at its next session.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock and the experts of the postoffice department who have investigated the subject earnestly favor the establishment of the parcels post system on rural free delivery routes.

Now Healthy and Strong: Had Been Failing for Years

MR. J. La FORGUE, 80 years of age.

Mr. La Forgue, a harness manufacturer, is a fine old man, 80 years of age, and he feels as lively as anyone could expect. His health had been very poorly for the last few years before he began the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It built up his system, brought him such strength and vigor and gave him so much enjoyment in life that now he will not be without it.

In his recent letter he said: "I am 80 years old and have been failing for the last three or four years. I read of the great cures made by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, so I bought two bottles of it, and in two months it put me back in health. I am feeling as fine and strong as a person could ask for, and I truthfully give your whiskey all the credit for it, and, one thing sure, I will not be without Duffy's Malt Whiskey now. I will gladly answer the letters of all who care to write me in regard to the good that this whiskey has done for me."—J. La Forgue, Prescott, Iowa.

Mr. La Forgue's case is similar to that of thousands of others, both aged men and women, who have been kept hale, hearty and vigorous by the regular use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whriskey as a medicine.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. When taken at mealtime it stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. This action upon the digestive process is of great importance, as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutriment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. It makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y., stating your case fully. EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYES

HAVE ALL AGREED

That the Neal Cure Does Cure the Drink Habit in Three Days Without Hypodermic Injections.

Without aid the victim of the drink habit is helpless. Indulgence in intoxicants not only weakens the will power, it cultivates a craving for drink which nothing but more drink will satisfy. It unfits a man for business. Employers recognizing this, do not want a drinking man around. Drinkers are blacklisted by railroads and other large employers of labor. No man will knowingly employ a victim of the drink habit in a responsible position. The man who is ambitious to get on in the world cannot afford to allow whisky to have the mastery over him. To the victim of the drink habit the Neal Cure holds out a helping hand. By taking the Neal Cure a permanent cure can be effected without publicity. Only three days' time is required. A man may excuse himself from business, and go to a conveniently located Neal Institute, and after the days return to his home thoroughly cured and changed mentally and physically. Such is the wonderful result of Dr. Neal's cure, demonstrated in thousands of cases. At the Neal Institute each patient is assigned a private room. He need see no one except the doctor and nurse, nor meet any other patients. His meals, and for these he can select anything the market affords, are served to him in his own room. Or he may take the treatment at his own home. The Neal Institute contracts and bonds itself to give complete cure and saisfaction or refund every dollar of money paid.

TRUE STATUS OF LEAGUE

Politics Should Give Way to Investigation of Financial Condition.

Choice of a President Has Ceased to Be Important.

(BY BRUCE.)

Tuesday the magnates of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league will meet to put their house in order.

The election of a president has been advertised as the headliner on the bill, but indications point to the developing into more importance of some of the less-talked of details.

Here in this city the very future of the league is doubted. There is nothing like being frank, and the time has come for frankness.

There are a lot of fans in this city who don't care a rap about the Minny league and who will cease to take an interest in baseball should Duluth fail to get into a higher class organization the present season. This is the simple truth, uncolored by statement or personal feeling.

Here, also, is the correct dope on the deferred action at Chicago, sent to this column by a man who was present. The magnates debated for two hours on the petition to admit the Minnesota-Wisconsin league into the Twin Cities, and the matter has not been decided yet. The very fact that the American Association is contemplating war, and also because of the uncertain attitude that the minor leagues of the country may take in regard to the American association in the future, and further, the fact that the Blue Grass league, in addition to the Minny, the Onlo state and others, are desiring to break into the A. A. territory, have caused the A. A. magnates to postpone decision.

Owe League Money.

For the benefit of the fans at the Head of the Lakes, it is due that a statement was made of the Minny league's financial condition at the present time. There is hardly a club in the organization that does not owe the league money. Last season the Duluth and Superior teams lost money on the road, the $10 a game guarantee being the only revenue received from the games played away from home. Now comes the joke of all—the small town magnates propose to put in a resolution demanding that this guarantee be cut out, as they believe it is too high.

This is the joker of the whole business to date. The ingenious correspondent in the southern part of the state, with unconscious irony in the midst of a spread eagle article, touched the core of the whole matter when he stated that the magnates wanted each club to back itself.

These clubs have come to the Head of the Lakes during the past two years and in many cases taken away good money. The two Head of the Lakes clubs go down to the smaller towns and are prevented from walking home by the guarantee. Now the magnates want to take down the guarantee, which was raised from $35 to $40 last season, after the magnates from these two towns had made a hard fight for the increase.

Do you think that the Duluth and Superior teams are going down in the small towns without a guarantee? These small town owners come up here and play before the larger crowds and then set up the slogan about each club backing itself. "Consistency, thou art indeed a jewel."

Baseball is on a very doubtful basis here. It is due that the fans be told the real truth in the matter, and they have it here. It would not in the least be surprising to see Duluth withdraw from the present organization, as there are already rumors of another lineup.

The Presidency.

With the postponement of the decision of the A. A. magnates, the election of a president has lost importance in the eyes of the fans at the Head of Lakes, and at the present status of the game has become a matter of minor importance.

Yesterday John Ritchie of the Minneapolis Journal stated over the telephone that he has never at any time sought the presidency and any stories stating that he has worked to secure the position are untrue. Mr. Ritchie is not a candidate, he says, and has never at any time sought to gain support for the position.

Frank E. Force is the man who has sought the job from the first.

The Cantillons were behind Ritchie, because they are warm personal friends of his. Their boosting was done entirely without the solicitation of the Minneapolis Journal man. Barton was the first man approached and asked to stand as a candidate.

A prominent man here yesterday said: "We want baseball on a good business like basis and we want to get into a good league. Duluth is big enough for better baseball, and this city also has the right to ask questions about the management of the league and to demand that business methods prevail."

Here it is again humbly suggested that before an executive is elected to head the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, that a stock taking be held, that the reserve fund be a fact and not a myth, and that the towns at the southern end of the circuit show a willingness to bear part of the burden.

Boosting for Duluth's Water Carnival—More White Hopes in the Limelight—Ehler Makes a Reply to Storm of Criticism.

(BY BRUCE.)

Hooray for the carnival!

Everybody is interested in the progression of the plans of the big Western water fete.

Lovers of athletic sports, business men and those who believe in the advertising of this city throughout the West, are hoping that the water sports and naval militia maneuvers, as well as the Venetian fete, will be held next July.

To the citizens of this city it would mean one of the most spectacular events that could possibly be staged here, and to the business interests of the city it would mean that hundreds upon hundreds of visitors would be attracted to the city by the originality of the whole exhibition, and because if the fete were held in July this city would perhaps be made the Mecca of hundreds of tourists from every point on the Great Lakes, in addition to the many visitors who would be attracted from every point in the West.

As to the athletic point, it would furnish the greatest sport ever held in Western waters, and in making this statement the famous Peoria motor boat meeting is not forgotten. The fastest oarsmen in the Northwest would be here; arrangements would be completed for the fastest sailboats from White Bear lake and Minnetonka; while a definite promise has been made that some of the fastest motor boats in the United States will be brought to the Head of the Lakes.

At the head of Lake Superior, the passage point of several thousand tourists during the summer months, the big July show could, by judicious advertising and arrangements with the lake lines and the railroads, be made the means of bringing to Duluth a great number of people.

While the whole plan is big, in line with the development of this city, the bigness of the idea is not appalling by any means, since most of the facilities necessary for making the proposed water fete a great success, are at hand.

The annual fete of the boat club has been so successful that already it has attracted attention outside of the city. This could be easily expanded into a water carnival of large proportions and spectacular effects. Then there is the naval militia maneuvers, which it is believed at this time can be secured for July, the rowing regatta, the sailing races, some special swimming races, the securing of one of the world's greatest divers, and last, but by no means least, races daily between some of the fastest motor boats in the world.

There is no other city in the state of Minnesota which could offer such a great program. Duluth is unique in respect to its commanding position on the Great Lakes, and the proposed carnival would be even more typical of the resources, position and character of this growing city than the corn festivals and other agricultural exhibitions that have been held with success in other Western towns.

Men who have stood for the best in amateur sports in this city, who have stood sponsors for motor boating, rowing, sailing, and the growth of kindred sports, are very enthusiastic and likewise very earnest in their efforts to secure the carnival for the coming summer.

Business men have taken to the idea with surprising alacrity, and at the present time it begins to look as if the carnival idea will develop into a big, booming success.

It is a great idea and means much to this city. The boosters are gathering force, and you ought to make up your mind to boost the idea.

If Carl Morris, the pride and diversion of Salulpa, Okla., is big and broad and radiates with pugilistic promise, what of Ulric Morris, who may play the Duke of Richmond to the Richard III of Brother Carl's pugilistic pride, meeting him on the field of battle and routing him.

Reports from the oil country do say ah how Ulric, which name conveys the lusty sound of battle, is bigger, younger and more powerful than "White Hope" Carl, who, according to dope, occupies as much atmospheric space as the side of a young mountain.

The dream seems too golden ever to be fulfilled. It sounds rosy, too very much to the late T. Moore's Utopia idea. Very seldom has one family produced two great pugilistic sons. The Sullivan Twins and the Gardner brothers are exceptions to the rule, for all through the history of distania little brothers have been continually springing up to ape the actions of big brother, with the result that they have accumulated severe lickings and little lucre.

There was Jack Jeffries, and Terrible Terry McGovern's two little brothers, and James Edward Britt's brother, and Abie Attell's brother, etc., for the list is long and dreary, marked by the punctuation marks of defeat for the brothers of the truly great.

Ulric would probably never have thought of fighting, had not Brother Carl rushed to the call of battle; and when Brother Carl gets his'n, it is very likely that Ulric will develop into a first class piano mover.

They are overplaying the "White hope" game something scandalous, and this shunting into the broad and beaming limelight of another Morris chap, of the same brand, it is a trifle to the bush stuff. When old man calamity kicks Carl on the nose Ulric will most likely do a Marathon for the eight-hour-a-day shift, where meals come regular even if champagne and lobster are not even mentioned.

They do say that some ex-telegraph operator has big Carl in tow and has already made several bush plays with his charge. He has about as much idea of training and bringing his man along, according to distant dope, as a Berkshire hog, corn-fed and lethargic, has of the higher investigation into the spiritualistic movement.

After the victory over the has been Hart this rube manager decked the former engineer out in a dress suit and tile, and rode him back behind on the velvet seats clear to Memphis, Tenn., to challenge the winner of the Ross-Barry contest, and also to impress by his after six costume.

Carl would have been rigged fine for a masquerade, none of his intimate friends probably recognizing him; but as the riotous rig for a gathering of those whose lofty thoughts have descended with savage delight on the primitive fight, this dress suit play was bad and showed the hand of the rube.

We are all patiently waiting for Carl to develop and hail with ill-concealed delight the news that he is to meet Jake Kilrain, who will offer his venerable and time hallowed reputation on the altar of Carl's climbing reputation.

The Ehler chap, the one who pulled the storm of caustic comment down on his little thought dome, like hickory nuts pounding a chiding warning on the coco of a venturesome chee-ld, comes out in the Wisconsin Alumni magazine with an explanation. There are many in the world of sport who have believed for some time that Ehler was due with this little afterthought, for afterthoughts are often best.

If Mr. Ehler is to be taken seriously, he is not against the great American game of intercollegiate football, but desires to investigate the merits of Rugby and ascertain if it will not be a nice genteel game for the 850 first-year men at the University of Wisconsin.

Why can't these men play the American game? If the men come out teams will be formed. Is there anything the matter with the present game? However, there are a lot of us who are gleefully glad that Mons. Ehler is not against the game, for his resolution, voiced at the Chicago conference meeting, raised savage howls from the lips of men loving greatly the dear old game.

One good thing Pa Ehler says, and a remark that should have widespread comment, is that the reports of deaths due to football are not only exaggerated, but in some cases willful misrepresentations. He cites cases where the post-mortem gave the cause of death as one wholly disassociated from football. If the real facts in regard to football were known, the senseless hue and cry, the inane and insane lampooning of the game, coming in many cases from the pale characters with dim eyes for real facts and wild fancies for sensational exaggeration, would cease in part and the game would be judged on its merits, not condemned on false premises.

MORRIS WOOD DENIES THAT HE FEARS LAMY

MORRIS WOOD.

Charges recently made that Morris Wood, the professional ice skating champion, left the amateur ranks because he feared defeat by Edmund Lamy, the present amateur title holder, have brought forth a prompt denial by Wood. Wood has issued a challenge to Lamy for a race for any distance for a side bet of $500. The relative merits of the two skaters has been much discussed since thye met in races as amateurs. Wood declares that in their last four meetings he proved victorious by good margins and is confident that he can beat Lamy any time. If Lamy accepts he will, of course, forfeit his amateur standing and become a professional.

KANSAS CITY WINS FROM BOSTON AT BILLIARDS.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 14.—Kansas City administered a second defeat to Boston in the three-cushion carom match of the National Billiard league tournament last night, the score being 50 to 35. Gillespie of Kansas City secured a high run of four, while his opponent, Ramsford, made a high run of six. The final game of the Boston series will be played tonight.

CONNIE MACK IS A MODEL MAN.

New York, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Mary McGillicuddy, mother of Connie Mack, the famous Philadelphia club manager, is pleased at her son's recent marriage. He is now in Europe. She lives in Philadelphia. His mother says he is one of the best sons ever born.

"I recall the time when we lived in East Brookfield, Mass.," she said. "My son went to work in a shoeshop. One day he laid down his tools and told his employer that he was going to play ball for a living. The first money he earned on the diamond was deposited in Meriden, Conn., and the money is there still.

"Connie has been a most indulgent son to me," she went on, "and every wish I have is gratified. I have followed the games during the season and I saw some of them. My son does not smoke or use liquor in any form, and I have never heard him utter a profane word. He is the same Connie among his men as he is at home."

BURNS WILL GO TO ENGLAND

Former Champion to Meet Winner of Langford-Lang Fight.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 14.—Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion, yesterday cabled to London his acceptance of an offer to fight Bill Lang on April 17. The message to which Burns replied was sent by Hugh McIntosh, the London promoter, and was as follows:

"Can you meet Bill Lang at Sidney, N. S. W., Monday, April 17, and winner of Bill Lang-Sam Langford battle to be fought here, Feb. 15, in London?"

To this Burns replied: "Accept and will let you know in thirty days if my knee stands training."

Burns will not go into training for a month. He plans to leave Seattle for Sidney about March 1, and will have a gymnasium fitted up on the steamer. He expects Langford to defeat Lang and therefore counts on fighting Langford in London.

ARCHER FOR FIRST.

Chance May Train Star Receiver for Pivotal Position.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Jimmy Archer, regarded by many experts as the best catcher in the National league, will do little backstopping for the Cubs this year, the major portion of that important work falling upon Johnny Kling and Tom Needham. Archer, however, will not warm the bench. Manager Chance expects to have him act as substitute first baseman during a large part of the season. Chance, it is said, realizes that his own playing days are numbered and wishes to mature a good man for the job when he is compelled to retire.

Archer will make a tip-top first baseman is the belief of all who saw him play that position last year, but fans here are divided as to whether such a sterling catcher should be kept out of the game when Chance wants to play first base.

SIX-DAY GRIND IS ON AT BUFFALO.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 14.—When the nine teams in the six-day bicycle race passed the 1,000-mile mark shortly after 9 o'clock last night, they were given an ovation by the large crowd at the Broadway arsenal.

Clarke and Pye, the former still in bandages from his spill on Wednesday, led the greatest sprint of the day.

In the shake-up the Hill-Fogler and Galvin-West teams lost a lap, leaving them in the end division with the Lawrence-Drobach and Crebs-Thomas combinations.

Badgers Lose to Purdue.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 14.—Purdue took a flying start in the conference basket ball championship race last night by defeating the Wisconsin team, 34 to 16.

CURLEY ON WRESTLERS

Famous Impressario Believes That Ordemann Is Best of the Americans.

No Athlete Who Can Successfully Fill the Shoes of Gotch.

(By Jack Curley.)

The timely arrival of George Hackenschmidt upon the wrestling horizon of the season of 1910-11 has stimulated the grappling game of what might otherwise have proved an uniteresting season. The retirement of Frank Gotch, the world's champion, at the close of the season of 1909-10 threw a shadow upon the field; of promoters as well as wrestlers, looked forward to a poor season. However, a chain of circumstances changed conditions, and what looked on paper to be a poor season is in reality turning out the most successful in many years.

Despite the many and most positive retirement announcements on behalf of Mr. Gotch, rumors will not down that the big Iowan is only in temporary seclusion and at some time in the not distant future the game will call him back.

With Gotch out of it, there is no question but that George Hackenschmidt heads the list of wrestling attractions. He may, or may not, be the greatest mat champion of the present date, but his willingness to work night after night, the way he stands the hard knocks of traveling, from one end of the country to the other, and the quickness with which he covered Gotch's forfeit of $500, calling for a $20,000 side bet and a "winner take all" clause, supposed to have come from the Gotch camp, proves that "Hack" is willing to take a big gamble with his own money for another chance at the world's title and unquestionably entitles Hackenschmidt to a first meeting with Gotch, should the latter return to the game.

Curley's Opinion on the Game.

I have been asked by the sporting editor of the Kansas City Post to give my views or opinion of the American wrestlers. To begin with, I know that a great many readers will differ with me and I also know from past experiences in both wrestling and boxing game that an opinion coming from one closely connected with the game is bound to be built up on some prejudice as well as the knowledge of the man and after all, it is only the opinion of one man to which everybody is entitled.

It is a pity that the list of American wrestlers does not contain one single man that can justly fill Gotch's championship shoes. The world produces too few men of the Gotch type. As a man, as well as a wrestler, he occupies a position of individuality never before attained by an athlete. His very reason of retirement, that of a promise made to his fiancee, whtch all the world knows now cannot shake or cause him to swerve from, bespeaks of the man. Gotch in no detail has ever broken his word. That is the reason I have several times offered to wager two to one that Gotch will not come back to wrestling, for he surely will not break a promise made.

It is useless to add that all of Frank Gotch's matches were absolutely bona fide, and that the big fellow gave the public the best that was in him at all times. It is for this reason that Hackenschmidt has not issued a single challenge to Gotch since his arrival from Europe, and any suggestion for a Hackenschmidt-Gotch match must come from the Gotch end.

Ordemann Stands Next.

With Gotch out of it, at the present writing Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis stands at the head of the game. Dr. B. F. Roller, Jess "Reiner" Westergaard, Gus Schoenlain (Americus), Charles (Kid) Cutler come next in a bunch among the heavies, and if Fred Beell is still in the game, one must figure him a serious contender.

Take the above named, all in good condition and one would find it very hard to pick a winner. Ordemann looks the best, not only because he is as good as any of them at the present time, but he is continually improving and I doubt if Ordemann is at his best yet.

Dr. B. F. Roller is a wonderful athlete and a wrestler, as well as a gentleman on or off the mat. Roller has met with few defeats of late, but probably because he is working too often and too hard to train properly. Roller is a great card, and the money inducements to work often keeps him a bit out of shape.

Americus of Baltimore is a great little man. In the last year he has taken on fifteen pounds of good weight and he can go some this season. Jess Westergaard, the Iowa giant, is always dangerous for anyone to tackle and Cutler has a following that feels that the Kid can hold his own in any company.

All Are Drawing Well.

Taking the Hackenschmidt tour as a criterion, the country just now is wrestling crazy; packed houses greet him everywhere, and the spectators are continually in an uproar of enthusiasm. Chicago, Des Moines, Buffalo, Cleveland, New York city, Boston, in fact all the leading cities of the country show big for the wrestlers and with the game continued to be conducted on its present healthful lines it is sure to continue in its flourishing condition. The middleweights and lightweights take well in an occasional spot, but the real wrestling situation is covered by the heavyweights.

While no "white man's hope" condition exists in the wrestling game, the young American fellow of good proportion, plenty of endurance, gameness and wrestling knowledge, in short, for the young fellow who can fill Gotch's shoes a fortune awaits him.

Probably the next few weeks will positively decide as to Gotch's coming back. I once more precict that Gotch will stand pat, but should he return the only natural sequence will be a match with George Hackenschmidt, the only man that Gotch failed to pin in the last few years; in fact, the only man whose shoulders have never touched any mat.

CUTLER STAYS AN HOUR WITH HACKENSCHMIDT.

Chicago, Jan. 14. — George Hackenschmidt lost a handicap wrestling match to Charles Cutler here last night when he failed to throw Cutler within an hour.

THE FIRESIDE CLARION

EXTRA "Oh wad some power the giftie gie us to see oursel's as others see us."—Burns. EXTRA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Issued every once in a while at The Herald office forthe benefit of curlers only.

EDWARD RHINEBERGER, "PHIL" SEYMOUR, NAUGHTON AND SIR THOMAS McGILVRAY.

Probably the Greatest Bunch of Curlers in the Local Club.

It might be stated right at the beginning that the editor of The Clarion is on the job. He is a pretty foxy individual and he doesn't care about having it slipped over on him.

You will notice, Beatrice, what happened to the two geeks who tried to have their pictures published a second time. They are crossed out, their heads chopped and they don't count in the picture. This is done that it may be a lesson to the rest of the bunch who hang around the Clarion office and toy with the scissors and smear paste on the other aids to thought about his desk, while they are begging for a second appearance of their pictures in the Clarion.

Naughton and McGilvray had to be shooed out of the office yesterday. They wouldn't budge until the printer's devil was brought in and threatened to lay his hands on them.

Neither Naughton or McGilvray are any more necessary in this picture than they are on the ice. "Phil" Seymour is the moving spirit and life of this rink.

"Phil" has been a great curler—is yet for that matter. Ever since the time he led for Caitlin and got down to the semi-finals in some event or other, he has relied on his reputation to some extent. At the present time he is one of the best leads in the rink. He leads and all the others follow—a very great deal like a popular advertisement in that regard. For some unknown reason "Phil" was left out when the other members of the rink had their picture taken.

"Cupid," as he was called when he played with McGilvray years ago, features his play with his sweeping. For a long time two worn-out brooms were nailed on the wall at the club and labeled "brooms worn out by Phil Seymour." He is one of the best little sweepers at the rink and he never goes on the ice without his broom. He never lays it down when he throws his stone—he never forgets that the sweeping is one of the first principles of curling. He states that he sweeps "with judgment." "With judgment" seems to be the big secret of his curling success.

Years ago, as has been stated, he curled with McGilvray, Cameron, Hewitt and Walter Newcomb. This was the most popular rink that ever made a reputation, good, bad or indifferent, at the local institution. Everybody wanted to play with them for everybody could beat them. It was while starring with this bunch on a short circuit route that "Phil" got his name, "Cupid," which still sticks.

Rhineberger only played one game with this gang. He was afraid to show up again. Seymour and Naughton and McGilvray did such fancy playing that he knew at once he was out of his class. Before the game was over he dropped his broom in terror and has not been known to show up when this bunch is around since that time.

Rhineberger is a real curler and that is probably the honest reason why he won't have anything to do with the aforementioned members of this most notorious and riotous aggregation.

SUPERIOR CURLERS TAKE MANLEY-McLENNAN TROPHY.

By a margin of one point the Superior curlers won the final series of games played last night at the rink of the Duluth club, and toted back to Superior with them the Manley-McLennan trophy.

The final score was 41 to 42, and the contest was not over until the final stone was thrown by Russell in his game with Bradley. The Superior curlers needed one point to gain possession of the trophy, and they got it. Ron McLeod won from A. K. Smith; Hurdon won from Joe Gates; Ron Smith won from C. Gates; but Bradley lost to Russell and by a score large enough to overcome the leads of the other Duluth curlers and to allow Superior the contest and the trophy.

The games were all good ones, and a large crowd at the rink became very enthusiastic during the last heads.

Superior takes the trophy after it had been held for sixteen years by the Duluth club. Next year Duluth and West Duluth will have to play off for the right to play Superior for the trophy.

The scores:

Superior.		Duluth.
A. K. Smith	11	R. J. McLeod	13
H. R. Russell	15	R. D. Bradley	8
Joe Gates	8	Harry Hurdon	9
C. Gates	8	Ron Smith	11

OVERHEARD AT A MEETING OF THE FIRESIDE RINK.

They do say that in the old days when the curling used to be done at the old Tate rink and Dave Stocking was just beginning to learn the game, he was about as dense a proposition as ever tried to break 'em up.

It was his first game and they were talking about haggles and wicks and runners and all that sort of thing. They talked a very great deal about haggles and try as he did, Stocking could not understand what they were talking about.

Coming into town on the car he had been quiet for some time when he finally leaned over and said:

"Tom, for heaven's sake stop talking so much and bring down a pint of that haggle the next time you come."

There has been a good deal of speculation by the members of the rink as to the real reason why Ron Smith is still a bachelor. Here is the story as told around the Radiant Home the other night by a prominent member of the Fireside rink:

"One morning long, long ago over in Canada, Ron had a date to get married. The marriage was to take place at 10 a. m. At 9 o'clock some one came along and asked Ron to go and roll a few stones in a curling game, which he did. He became so interested that he forgot about his wedding engagement and the minister and the friends went home shaking their heads.

"It was a matter that never could be explained to the girl and Ron came to this country to forget it."

Ron says it isn't true, and that the marriage was set for 11 o'clock.

HELP! HELP! BROTHER CURLERS. "WE" ARE FOUNDERING.

The editor of The Fireside Clarion wants it distinctly understood here and now that The Clarion will not stand sponsor for any effusions labeled poetry and sent to this office for publication. The staff of the Clarion will not produce anything of meter, execrable or otherwise, and anything of that class appearing in this great fireside journal will necessarily come from outside of this office.

The following was perpetrated by a prominent member of the club, who should stick to curlin' the stones. He's no poet. However, as The Clarion wants to prove to him how fallacious is his theory that he can write poetry, the following is published. Out of charity, his name is withheld. He's an Irishman who butted into this grand old Scotch game, anyway.

Sandy Macleod was a bright braw boy
A son of Macleod the Elder
Sandy was only eight years auld
But a promising young curler
He larnt his lessons well at school
And led the other childer
His teachers a' were proud of him
He was fav'rite of his mither.

"Name some great Scots," the teacher asked
Av little Jock Macdonald
And little Jock arose and told
Av Kenneth, Duncan, Donald,
Bobby Burns and Walter Scott
And Thomas too av Mystery
Barbour, Wynton, Robert Bruce
And ither Scots of history.

Up jumped Sandy, face aglow
"What he ain't right" he cried
"Them guys ain't never mentioned.
At the Curlin' club fireside
Did Bob Burns ever draw around
Three guards and to tie button
Did Scott e'er lay four pretty stanes
In the last end and beat Wynton?

Take McGilvray for a runing shot
Or little Johnnie Oldham
When Bob Dunbar's skippin' right,
There ain't nothing that can hold him
Take Charlie West and all the Rons
To make some runnin' shots
Them ginks that Jock just named are dead.
Live ones are famous Scots.

Now what do you think of that? If they pull any more of that stuff on the editor of this sheet, he resigns on the spot, and will seek a job as assistant scissors sharpener for an agricultural weakly.

TWENTY-EIGHT CURLERS COMING FROM ST. PAUL.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Clarion.)—"Bob" Dunbar, champion curler of the United States, with three other rinks from the St. Paul Capitol Curling club, will be in Duluth next week to attend the annual Northwestern bonspiel. Dr. Milson, Milton Griggs and L. Diefield will all have rinks with which they hope to capture some jewelry.

From the Nushka club W. D. Stewart, Tom Cameron and Jack Huntsman will have rinks. This makes seven rinks from St. Paul. It is probable that a number of others will come up, not to curl, but to attend the annual banquet which, it is understood, will be held Wednesday night.

The Clarion hereby retracts the slam at the St. Pauls curlers in last night's issue. The Clarion seldom retracts anything, but any city that will send seven rinks to the bonspiel gets a first mortgage on the Clarion. All they need in St. Paul is an alarm clock. They are all right when they get started.

A RINK COMING FROM GRAND RAPIDS AFTER ALL

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Clarion.) — McNabb will take his quartet of curlers to Duluth for the bonspiel next week.

TWO RINKS FROM "PEG" COMING FOR THE SPIEL

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 14. — (Special to The Clarion.) — Huffman of the Thistle club and a rink from the Granite club will leave some time today for Duluth. They will arrive Sunday and will be ready for the early draw Monday morning at the rink of the Duluth Curling club, where the annual Northwestern bonspiel will be played.

COLBY TAKING NO CHANCES; IS BRINGING ONE RESERVE

Phillips, Wis., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Clarion.)—Colby with three other curlers and one reserve will attend the bonspiel at Duluth next week. They expect to be on hand for the early draw Monday.

Arthur Michaud says that he has lost but one game this year. That is all he has played.

The bonspiel style for event games seems to be popular. The events are farther along at this time of the year than ever before. There are more rattling good practice games, too.

Dr. Catterson is the Bird Millman of the local club. Have you noticed how he can balance himself and walk the length of the rink on the rail?

Hurdon, McLeod, Smith, McDonald, Bradley, Dr. Catterson, McGilvary, West, Whyte, Brewer, Richardson, Dunlop and Jacobi have announced their intention of entering the bonspiel. There will probably be at least ten more local rinks entered when the list is finally closed Monday night.

Benny Petz has curled every night this week. Ben doesn't seem to care much about the game.

The St. Louis event is progressing. The second round is about finished and already two games have been played in the third. Stillman and Brewer are down to the third. Both names look determined on the score sheet.

The St. Paul Jobbers trophies arrived yesterday. Four large silver loving cups are the first prize. Each cup stands over a foot high.

The skating ice has been made over into four curling ices. This makes eight sheets. Everything is now ready for the first games.

ILLINOIS WILL MEET GOPHERS

Champaign Team Will Take Michigan's Place on the Schedule.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 14.—The University of Illinois will take the place of Michigan university in the annual football game that heretofore has taken place between Minnesota university and Michigan. It was announced here yesterday that Minnesota and Illinois will meet here on Illinois field Nov. 25 next.

Minnesota and Illinois have not played together for many years. Michigan no longer is eligible for games with conference colleges, as a result of the action of the conference schools in Chicago recently.

DESMOND BACK FROM CHICAGO

Says Definite Decison Regarding Invasion Has Not Been Reached.

John J. Desmond, secretary of the Duluth Baseball association, returned this morning from Chicago, where he attended the meeting of the magnates of the American association.

According to the statement of the Duluth magnate, the matter is still before the directors of the American association, as a definite decision has not been made as yet.

According to a statement of Mr. Desmond, which cannot be made public at the present time, some very interesting events are promised for the near future.

"Jawn" says there is nothing further to give out regarding the Chicago meeting at the present time. President Moll of the Wisconsin-Illinois league worked hard for the invasion idea, as he is interested, too, as did C. S. Havenor of Milwaukee. A definite decision is expected in the near future.

SAYS BOYLE IS A WONDER

Yost Tells Sporting Writer to Watch the Duluth Youngster.

Here is what Fielding Yost, the great coach of the Michigan team, said to Frank McInerny, sporting editor of the St. Paul Dispatch, regarding Henry Boyle, the Duluth lad who made so great a record on the freshman football team last season:

"In talking of his prospects for next season, Yost informed the writer that despite the fact that a few of his bright stars would be lost to his team, he would have a big eleven in the field. Yost also informed the writer that he had a Minnesota boy on his squad who should develop into one of the greatest quarter backs the country has ever known. Henry Boyle is the name of the Gopher state athlete, and he is a brother of Pat Boyle, the old Minnesota baseball star, who is at present a representative from Upper Minnesota.

"This young Boyle is a world beater," said the Michigan coach, "and I want you to watch his work next season. McMillan, my 1910 quarterback, is a little wonder, but I would not be at all surprised to see this little Boyle fight him out of the quarterback position. Of course I could use either man at any backfield position, so there will be room for both. You may not believe me when I say that Boyle will be another McGovern, but just watch his work next fall and you will see that my guess is not a wide shot. It would be great to play a Minnesota team with a Minnesota boy a star on the Michigan team, wouldn't it? But, of course, this cannot come about, at least not in 1911."

ATTELL HAS BETTER OF NEWARK FIGHTER.

New York, Jan. 14.—Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, out-pointed Patsy Kline of Newark in a snappy 10-round go at the National Sporting club of America last night. Kline kept after Attell throughout the fight and took a lot of punishment in his endeavor to land a knockout blow, but Attell's clever foot work and ducking caused many of Kline's vicious swings to go wild.

TRACK SCHEDULES OF UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 14.—Athletic Director Barteime of the University of Michigan last night gave out the 1911 schedules for the Michigan track team.

The indoor schedule includes Syracuse at Syracuse, March 18; Cornell, at Ann Arbor, March 25.

The out-door schedule follows: April 25, Pennsylvania relay games at Franklin field; May 13, at Ann Arbor; May 19-20, interscholastic meet at Ann Arbor; May 27, Eastern intercollegiate meet.

FRANKIE CONLEY STALLS AND IS DISQUALIFIED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 14.—Frankie Conley of Kenosha, claimant of the bantamweight championship, was disqualified by Referee Frew at the end of the eighth round of a 10-round no-decision bout with Freddie Andrews of Milwaukee last night.

Referee Frew claimed Conley passed up several chances to put his man away, and refused to permit the bout to go further.

MEETING OF AUTO CLUB

Dinner and Business Meeting to Take Place at the Spalding Hotel.

Gathering Will Probably Be Largest in History of the Club.

Thursday evening, Jan. 26, at the Spalding hotel, will occur the dinner and business meeting of the Duluth Automobile club.

The dinner will be at 7 o'clock and the tickets will be sold at $1 each. This will probably be the biggest meeting ever held by the club and it is desired that those who intend to be on hand notify the officers, so that an estimate can be made of the number to plan on.

The last meeting and dinner at the Commercial club was a great success and it is proposed to make this meeting an even more enthusiastic one. Reports of the committees appointed since the last meeting will be read. It is stated that each committee has been doing business and will have an interesting report.

The club members will take action on the work of the committees. The matters to be presented are of interest to every auto owner in the city and it is desired that at least 200 be present.

Arrangements have been made for an orchestra and President Abbott states the meeting will be over by 9:30.

ROBERTSON WILL DRIVE NO MORE

Famous Race Track Dare-Devil Retires From Auto Racing Game.

George H. Robertson has definitely retired from automobile racing and gone into business. He has acquired a one-third interest in an auto supply company and been elected president of the concern.

"Smiling George" declares that hereafter he will be a spectator only at speed events on road and track, except that he may act as an official occasionally. He drove his first race at Elkwood Park track in 1903 and his last public apeparance was at Brighton Beach track last Labor day, when he defeated Barney Oldfield. He became famous in 1908 when he won a twenty-four-hour race one Saturday, won the Vanderbilt cup race the second Saturday and captured the first Fairmount Park road race the third Saturday, being the first American to win the Vanderbilt race with an American-made car.

In 1909 he won the Fairmount Park road race again and also the national stock chassis race at Bowell. He finished second in the Indiana trophy race and third in the Cobe cup race the same year. With Al Poole as his teammate he won two twenty-four-hour races in 1909. Driving a Fiat car at Atlanta in November, 1909, he made speedway records for 10, 50, 100 and 150 miles in the class B stock chassis that still stand. He also raced at Los Angeles, where he made the ten-mile free-for-all existing speedway record, and at Indianapolis.

AMERICANS MAKE GOOD MACHINES

Automobiles Manufactured Here Are Sold All Over the World.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The American manufacturer of automobiles has not waited for the flag and the Constitution; he has invaded practically every country in the world and the chug of American made motors can be heard from London to Sydney and from Bombay to Manila. All the figures for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1910, have not been compiled but for 1909 and the years previous they prove an interesting record for automobilist and those concerned in their manufacture and sale.

In 1909, Europe took 1,127 of our automobiles, valued at $3,018,228; North America (exclusive of course of the United States) took 1,577 cars, worth $1,983,106; South America secured 143 machines for $122,836; Asia got along with eighty-eight cars, worth $74,920; Oceania trailed next with 211 motors, valued at $150,662, and Africa the Dark Continent had to have thirty-eight automobiles of American make, worth $37,269.

Egypt got one car in that year, the Canary Islands two, the Straits Settlements down under the equator listened to the spit of fourteen gas buggies, while the city of Hongkong, the empire of Japan, Turkey, New Zealand and other places a few thousand miles from Broadway or Detroit or Cleveland, where they use and make these cars, each saw the American made machines fly past in dust and glory.

In round numbers, American manufacturers exported during the fiscal year of 1910—for which time the recapitulation by countries has not been completed—6,926 cars, valued at $9,548,700. In 1902, the American trade amounted to only $948,528, an increase in the eight years of practically $8,500,000. The number of automobiles exported was not collected by the bureau of statistics until 1907, but in that year just 2,862 machines were sent out of the county, showing that the trade has apparently increased almost two and one-half times.

In giving out these figures, O. P. Austin, head of the bureau, wished it understood that they were not entirely accurate because so far as the bureau has been unable to determine just how many automobiles reported under the "export" column were in reality taken out of the country by Americans bent on touring and later returned. Instructions have been issued to collectors of customs to ascertain where possible if cars being taken out of the country were taken for touring purposes or for sale. Collectors on the Canadian and Mexican borders have been able to comply with this direction, but those at ports like New York and Boston found insurmountable obstacles to this plan.

"While the figures show that almost 7,000 automobiles were exported in 1910," said Mr. Austin, "it is impossible to say how many of these were taken out for touring purposes by residents of the United States and later brought back again. To state accurately therefore the value of American automobiles actually exported for sale abroad is rather difficult. I discovered that under the title of 'articles, the growth, product and manufacture of the United States returned,' more than $12,000,000 worth of goods came back to this country last year. In the same year, according to our reports, we apparently imported 1,624 automobiles, with a value of $2,905,391. How many of these cars actually were imported and how many had been taken out by Americans and brought back again cannot be stated. We are making efforts to collect more accurate data, but so far they have been unattainable."

LESS SPEED AND MORE COMFORT

The 1911 Purchaser Wants an Easy-Riding Durable Machine.

Buyers this year are paying more attention than ever to those features which add to comfort and convenience. There is a correspondingly less demand for excessive speed. The 1911 models of all the well known makes reflect this tendency. Before the advent of the motor car man was forced to travel the road at a speed not to exceed fifteen miles an hour. The motor car offered a way to obtain sixty. Man took advantage of it, demanded it for a it—didn't need it.

For cmofortable traveling thirty miles an hour is enough. The real value of a motor car to the average individual is not that it can make seventy or eighty miles an hour on the track, but that it can make twenty to thirty miles an hour on a road and be ready to repeat the performance day atfer day. There has been a great increase lately, in response to this public demand for cars which are of less power, easier controlled and more reliable, in the output of machines selling at moderate cost.

Economy of maintenance hangs squarely upon economy of speed. Nothing knocks out a car so rapidly as long continued fast work, and this spells extravagance and useless stress upon every part of the car as well as on the tires. And in connection with this public demand we are more emphatically impressed all the time recently by the increasing call for cars of lower price. The low priced automobile is the logical car despite some popular opinions.

It has been stated that the low priced car, sometimes labelled the popular priced machine, is inferior in quality and this largely because it is an assembled car. This is not true. Neither is the low priced car inferior in quality nor is it always an assembled car, it being the universal verdict of engineers that assembled cars are cheaper in quality and more expensive in initial cost. In the earlier days of the industry a car selling for $1,500 was rare, while now the greater number of machines sell under that figure. The figures show that still a trend in manufacturing has been to give more every year for the same list price rather than make a cut in the selling price. From $1,133,37 as the average price for cars in 1903 the average ran up to $2,137.56 in 1907 and since that it has decreased until the first six months of 1910 show $1,550.25 as the average price.

Woman Drives Motor Stage.

There is no question about the growing importance of woman in everyday business affairs of the world. The American woman is especially progressive. Mrs. Frank Perry of Coalinga, Cal., is an excellent example of this. She drives a Chalmers "40" touring car between Coal'nga and the oil fields in the rent service and probably has the distinction of being the first woman to enter this field.

BUSINESS WILL BE GOOD

Leading Auto Makers Think 1911 Output Will Be Smaller, However.

The automobile consensus as far as 1911 is concerned shows that the trade is good. There is in some quarters a danger of overproduction, but even those who were a trifle overenthusiastic have calmed down, and the chances are that automobiles enough will be produced, and not many more. Instead of attempting to force a larger supply of cars into the already exploited districts manufacturers have turned their attention to other sections, and each one had determined that there are opportunities for placing many cars.

For instance, Windsor T. White of the White company, after a swing through the West and South, was able to give public assurance that the farmer element was in the field for cars and ready to buy them strongly. The general opinion is that the West and South and Southwest will be buyers of automobiles, and that the palm held once by the East of being the car purchasing center will be taken from it before very long.

Some opinions of manufacturers have been collected and they are given here to readers:

H. O. Smith, president of the Premier Motor Manufacturing company, after saying that things have greatly changed from the time when production problems were few and the public was not much interested, continues:

"I am convinced that there will be a shortage of motor cars for the selling season of 1911 and that every car of a standard and reputable make produced prior to July 1 will find an easy outlet, and also that the dealer who delays too long in ordering out his quota of cars will be unable to get sufficient to meet his later requirements."

He says there was a surplus of some types at the end of the 1910 season, although only a small percentage of the cars made. In 1909, he says, there were 112 per cent more cars made and sold than in 1908, and in 1910 there were sold almost four and a half times as many as in 1908 in this country.

"Little fault can be found with a market in which the sales of a product is doubled two years in succession," continues Mr. Smith, "but blame can be placed upon those who take an inflated view of the prospects and without logically considering the effect of their own actions increase the output to an unreasonable degree.

"The trouble during the recent year can be traced directly to the manufacturers of moderate priced and cheap cars who multiplied their production four or five times as against the previous year, and yet with this phenomenal increase in the number produced an outlet was found for the product of standard makers which were ready for delivery in the spring of the year prior to the middle of May or the first of June.

"It has been the conservatism of the makers of high priced cars which has saved the day in the automobile industry," he continues, "and has given it the stability which it deserves. They have not increased from year to year in proportion to the possibility opened by the demand, and as a result this high class of manufacturers have found a continuous and steady opening which has created a steady market for their product, paralleling the knowledge of buyers that quality and reliability are the only safe criteria in the selection of motor cars."

He concludes by saying that "a trade condition which will be of material value to the entire nation will arise if the manufacturers hold down their production to the quantity that they are able to produce and deliver by June or July and the opening of 1912 would find the motor industry in a healthier condition than it ever was before."

FRANK GOTCH DODGES ISSUE

Refuses to Answer Questions as to Movements on the Mat.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Successfully dodging illat answers to all querles as regards his "come back" intentions, Frank Gotch, peerless mat artist, pitched camp here yesterday, accompanied by his wife, fresh from the scene of matrimonial rites at Humboldt, Iowa.

The recent jump into the benedict league caused the mat game to sink into the background for the time being and all questions touching upon the intentions of the champion were referred to Mrs. Gotch, who, it must be remembered, holds the whip hand on the wrestling proposition. Simply clinging to past determinations the bride of forty-eight hours said that her husband would not figure in any big match.

While the matter was being talked over Gotch bore a knowing smile and sort of intimated that if it was absolutely necessary he would consider a proposition. He even hinted in a roundabout way that something was in the fire at the present time. Just what is being cooked up was not divulged, but Gotch satisfied his interviewers with a few words that things might materialize within the next week.

The champion has agreed to go on at the wrestling carnival Monday night at the Dexter park pavilion for the benefit of the firemen's fund. He said yesterday that it was of little account whom he was slated to meet, but when informed that Dr. Roller would be his opponent, Gotch simply said that Roller is a good man.

CENTRAL WINS FROM SANDSTONE

Fast Local Team Outclasses Opponents, Winning By Score of 45 to 14.

The crack basket ball team of Duluth Central high school last evening defeated the Sandstone quint by the decisive score of 45 to 14. The only points of the losing team were made on baskets thrown from fouls, not a field goal being registered by the Sandstone players during the evening.

Solheim threw six baskets for Duluth and Capt. Harris registered five. Harris also scored eight baskets from fouls. After the contest the high school boys were given a reception.

Osman played at center, Johnson and Harris forwards, and Jeronimus and Solheim played guards. The game was fast and central's team work showed to great advantage.

The game was played at Sandstone.

WOULD TAX YANKEE NAGS

New York, Jan. 14.—Quite a crusade is going on in England relative to the invasion of American bred horses. Judging from the feeling existing among some owners and breeders there, worked up to a pitch by astounding reports in some of the papers regarding the outcome of the magnitude of the invasion, there are some persons who do no wish to see American horses shipped to England, especially yearlings, for the purpose of sale. It is claimed that the Americans are destroying the English market and a petition will in the near future be handed to the Jockey club asking that body to take some action with regard to the taxing of all foreign bred horses sent to England's shores.

Jack Joyner has become one of the most popular trainers in England. Mr. Whitney is spoken of as "our popular American visitor" and columns have been written about his horses and their successes. In the stakes of the future special attention is drawn to the foreign entries, nine-tenths of which are American, from the stables of Mr. Whitney, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Belmont, Mr. Keene and John Madden, yet some one is trying to persuade a host of men that such admirable sportsmen are not wanted, or at least their horses are not.

It has been proposed to tax every horse not bred in England $250, which would kill off the importation of yearlings.

The whole thing may be a crack at J. B. Haggin, who has recently shipped yearlings to England for market, and whose colors have not been carried by a horse in England. If other breeders were to follow the example and simply breed for English markets the little island would soon be flooded with foreign stock.

To shut out yearlings bred by Mr. Whitney or bought here by him, Mr. Belmont, Mr. Keene and others, looks as if there is a bit of fear that too many rich prizes will get away from the Englishmen.

It would be the same here in some cases if an Englishman brought over a stable of twenty or thirty horses and gathered up something like $150,000 of good American dollars from the home horsemen.

ADAMS DEFEAT KODAHPA CLUB

Fast Hockey Game Is Won By Close Score of 2 to 1.

Last evening the strong Adams Hockey team defeated the Kodahpas by the score of 2 to 1, the game being played at the French club rink, Twenty-fifth avenue west.

The contest was the third regularly scheduled game of the City Amateur Hockey league to be played the present season.

A blowing, drifting snow made the ice slow and interfered somewhat with the speed of the skaters and the general play. Despite the fact that the ice was not in the best condition, however, both teams played a great game, individual work dominating perhaps a trifle to the detriment of team play.

Alder was the first to score, shooting a goal within about five minutes of play. H. Grenner followed with the second score, the goal being a clever shot. MacCrea made the only score of the Kodahpas during the second half.

Every player on both teams was on his mettle every minute of the play, with the result that there was not a minute of loafing throughout the game. It was a slashing contest, hugely enjoyed by a good crowd.

The lineup:

Adams.	Position.	Kodahpas.
Krls	g	Fenton
Erickson	p	MacKenzie
W. Olsen	cp	McLaughlin
H. Grenner	r	Cauikins
Alder	lw	S. MacCrea
Ed Olsen	rw	Taylor
Arnie Olsen	c	Si Clark

Goals—S. MacCrea, Alder, Grenner.

INTERCLASS BASKET BALL SCHEDULE WILL BEGIN SOON.

Mr. Carey of the high school faculty and the captains of the class basketball teams held a meeting yesterday and decided to open the interclass league.

At the beginning of the next semester, which will begin in about three weeks, Mr. Carey will arrange the schedule.

The interclass hockey question is still alive at Central. Yesterday the juniors elected Ward Brown captain of their team. In a short talk Brown urged all the junior boys to report for practice, the first of which was held at Forty-seventh avenue east at 10 o'clock this morning. A number of fast players appeared and it looks as if the seniors will have a hard tussle in the Junior-Senior game, which will take place some day next week.

Boys' Department Wins.

Last evening the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. defeated a picked team by the score of 26 to 4. The opponents of the boys' quint were players selected from the main association. The score:

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ORPHEUM

Ever since the Duluth Orpheum opened the performers who have visited the theater have been telling of the hit that the Howard brothers have been making this season on the coast. Three years ago Eugene and Willie Howard were practically unknown in vaudeville. They were just two young Jewish boys starting out with a little song and dance sketch. They secured a booking over the Orpheum circuit, and their eccentric comedy began to attract attention. They proved a bigger hit than the majority of headline acts, and succeeded in carrying off the honors in almost every show in which they appeared. The following year they were booked for a return engagement and they more than repeated their former successes. This season Howard and Howard began to attract the attention of musical comedy managers, and in order to keep the act the Orpheum circuit had to agree to headline the two young men, and to pay them a salary which would have appeared fabulous to the boys two years ago.

It is very seldom that a mere song and dance act is headlined, but Howard and Howard are claimed to be one of the genuine hits of the circuit, and they are said to draw more real laughs than any other act on the circuit this season.

They call their act, "The Porter and the Salesman," and it will be the feature of next week's bill at the Duluth theater.

Eugene appears as the salesman, immaculately dressed, and his brother appears as the porter, a shiftless sort of "boy," with a strange patter and a number of "smart" sayings. Their humor is said to be irresistible, and in addition to their comedy they are claimed to introduce a number of very clever imitations. They also sing and dance. During their recent appearances on the coast, the audiences couldn't see any other act during the week but Howard and Howard, and they were more discussed and quoted than any performers who had appeared on the circuit there in months.

Lola Merrill and Frank Otto will be second on the bill. They present a little sketch called "After the Shower," which consists of the story of a summer flirtation with a number of songs interwoven in it. Both the performers are claimed to be clever young people, and the sketch has been described in other cities as very neat and attractive.

An interesting turn next week should be the act of Fred Singer, claimed to be one of the most accomplished musicians on the stage in America at the present time. He has a unique setting for his act, which he calls "The Violin Maker of Cremona." He impersonates the famous violin maker of the Seventeenth century, Amati, who lived in Cremona, and the first part of his act shows him just completing a master violin. He begins day dreaming with the violin in his hand, wishing that he could hear all the famous musicians who would play the instrument. He falls asleep and dreams that the genius of music comes to him and offers to take him through the future and let him hear all the great musicians playing his instrument. Among those who appear are Paganini, Joachim, Sarasate, Kubelik and Remenyi, and they play in turn. Mr. Singer, of course, impersonating them. The act ends when he awakens from his dream and again becomes the old violin maker of Cremona. It is a unique idea for an act, and it is claimed to be of a very high standard musically.

Harry Linton and Anita Laurence are Orpheum favorites who are always welcomed by old Orpheum patrons. This season they have a sketch which they call "The Piano Store," in which a little story is used to introduce their songs and dances. Mr. Linton is known as a clever light comedian or juvenile, and Miss Laurence as an attractive soubrette.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry will pay their first visit to Duluth next week. From coast to coast, Mr. and Mrs. Barry are probably two of the most popular performers in the profession. They have become recognized as two of the cleverest impersonators of the "rube" character on the vaudeville stage, and they have an act that is always relied on by the house managers to be a hit. Their act is known as "At Hensfoot Corner," in which they are assisted by William Barry. It is claimed to be one of the surest fire comedy hits on the Orpheum circuit.

The Gus Onlaw Trio is back from South Africa, after a 10,000-mile tour, and will furnish the acrobatic feature next week. There are two men and a woman in the trio, and a sample of the style of feats performed is when the woman rides a bicycle along a wire held in the teeth of the two men. The three performers are Parisian wire artists, and have been seen in America several times before.

Frank and Rose Gordon will appear in a song-and-dance number. The following notice from the Brooklyn Times tells of their act: "The next number is Frank and Rose Gordon in an animated specialty of fantastic dancing, ludicrous comedy and skillful tumbling. Rose Gordon contributed a pleasing personality that added tone to a well-balanced act. Their novel dancing finish took them off to a substantial hit."

The Orpheum motion pictures and the overture by the concert orchestra will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

For the week of Jan. 22 an exceptionally strong bill is promised. It will be featured by "Marvelous Dick," known as the mind-reading dog. This animal opens a tour of the circuit in Duluth. Bernard & Weston will also open here, coming direct from Hammerstein's. Maurice Freeman, the well-known character actor, and his company will present "Tony and the Stork," and the Flying Banvards will appear with their sensational acrobatic act. All four of these acts are recognized feature acts on the Orpheum circuit, so there will be another four-feature bill, like that presented during the Christmas week. The other three acts will be Stanley and Norton, Ben Beyer and brother, and Paul Florus.

The Imperial Russian Dancers are on their way back from the coast, and during February will play Duluth and the Twin Cities. The exact date of the Duluth engagement is not yet known, as it has not been announced whether they will play Duluth before or after the Twin Cities, but they will appear at the local theater some time during the month of February.

AT THE EMPRESS

James Finney, the champion distance and speed swimmer of the world, will be the Empress headline attraction next week. He will be assisted by his beautiful daughter, Elsie, whom Dr. Sargent of Harvard university, proclaimed as a prodigy and real mermaid, in the presentation what is claimed to be the best aquatic spectacle known to the American stage. Mr. Finney's exhibition will consist of a series of various strokes and swimming maneuvers in a huge crystal tank. Miss Finney will also disport in graceful and daring feats. Their performance, while interesting and instructing, is likewise sensational and thrilling, for many of their exploits are accomplished under water. Mr. Finney's records would fill a good sized book. The following were selected as the most important: Winner of one mile Sporting Life championship cup, open to the world, three times; won 229-yard world's championship at Dundee; remained under water 4 minutes, 29¼ seconds, a world's record, that has never been equalled.

Mr. Finney is an Englishman, of Lancashire, and he was literally brought up in the water until he was as much at home there as he is on land. He is 38 years old, and has been in swimming contests since his boyhood. He has figured in many life-saving episodes and some of these took place when he was a mere boy, playing in the surf on the beach of the little Lancashire village. Mr. Finney is very much interested in instructing children to swim, and during his engagement next week, he will give a series of lessons to the readers of the daily papers.

Miss Elsie Finney is also the holder of many championships, and created a sensation recently by diving from the London bridge. Besides being celebrated swimmers of Europe, they are nearly as well known in America as they are known the world over as a family of swimmers. There are two other daughters, Misses Maud and Gladys, who are appearing in vaudeville with a similar act. While appearing in Atlantic City, last season, the New York Telegraph devoted a double page with illustrations of James and Elsie Finney and proclaimed them to have the greatest swimming act before the public and that they were imitated by many, but equalled by none.

Those who enjoy an artistic sight act will take great pleasure in the equilibristic novelty presented by Miss Itala, who is said to be a very pretty young girl, who wins her audience right from the first. This is the first appearance in Duluth of this daring young artist, who came direct from Europe five weeks ago. Miss Itala is a lithe, sinuous and marvelously strong young woman. She is a product of the gymnasiums of Germany. Her equilibristic and head balancing feats, it is claimed, have never been equalled by any of her sex and her accomplishments are artistically and gracefully presented.

G. Herbert Mitchell, the genteel jester, comes to Duluth with new songs and stories. He has his own way of saying things and his own way of seeing things. And the way he says he sees them, or the way you see him say them, or the way he says you see him say them, or the sight of his saying how he says he sees them, show that he is a philosopher from Philosophyville, an observer from the main observatory and a reconteur. Mr. Mitchell is not only a reconteur, but is the possessor of a rich baritone voice and in singing he interprets his selections with an infectious good humor and a degree of magnetism that powerfully sways his audience, which should make his act one of the most delightful numbers on the bill.

A clever dancing act will be presented by the two youthful, but gracefully aglie chaps, Manning and Ford, known as "The Ginger Boys," whose terpsichorean creations strike a new note in team dancing. While going through their different dances, their movements are identical, and the most difficult steps are executed like the workings of a well-oiled machine.

One of the most important announcements for this week's show will be the added feature attraction, Clayton Kennedy and Mattie Rooney. Mattie Rooney is a sister of Annie Rooney and the youngest daughter of the late Pat Rooney, whose reputation is known the world over as a comedian and dancer. Mattie Rooney and her vaudeville partner, Mr. Kennedy, are presenting in vaudeville, "The Happy Medium," which has been one of the big hits in big city vaudeville the past season. They have both been associated with musical comedy for several seasons and will be remembered as the principals with Big Bill Devere in Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," also, starring the first season in "The Prince of Pilsen," and their vaudeville offering has been one of the biggest hits of their career. The following is a recent press notice from the Journal, New York, while the act was appearing at the Colonial theater: "'The Happy Medium,' which is presented by Mattie Rooney and Clayton Kennedy is extremely original. Mattie visits the medium to learn of her friend, 'Bob.' The medium produces a message from Bob, written on a slate only to be told that Bob was a dog. The two then indulge in fancy dancing and execute every imaginable antic. Kennedy performs on the piano, and as he plays, he twists himself into every conceivable position imaginable, keeping time with his hands, feet and body. He concludes with a selection on a toy piano which brings down the house."

The moving pictures will be in keeping with an excellent bill. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given every Saturday at 2:30, when all scholars under 14 years of age, will be admitted for 5 cents. Special attention is paid to the amusement, convenience and comfort of ladies and children at all times.

ELSIE FINNEY,
Champion Woman Swimmer of the World at the Empress all Next Week.

AT THE ODEUM AND LYRIC

New Programs of Photoplay at Popular Amusement Resorts.

"I would like some of the people who are agitating for this proposed theater ordinance, to visit one of my theaters next week" said Manager Thomas Furniss of the Odeum and Lyric theaters yesterday. "I would like to have them witness next week's programs of photoplay, and point out to me anything in them that is objectionable. If they can find any cleaner amusement, I will withdraw any opposition I have to the ordinance.

"All the pictures shown in the Odeum and Lyric theaters are censored twice, by much more rigid censors than this ordinance would provide, so that is not the foundation for any objections we might have to it. The films are censored by the national board, and they are passed upon again by myself before they are shown. I have thrown out pictures that got by the national board, and will do so again if they are not satisfactory or show anything I think would be offensive. All I ask is that the people who are agitating for this ordinance see for themselves before they pass judgment on the moving picture business."

At the Lyric theater next week there will be two dramatic films, "The Bolted Door" and "The Redeemed Criminal" and one big comic film, "Girls Will be Boys." I. S. Mistachkin will sing, "Don't Wake Me Up, I'm Dreaming," illustrated.

At the Odeum theater next week, there will be an exciting picture called "The Runaway Engine" shown, and a comedy film called "The Italian Barber." Miss Mattox will sing "Always Thinking of You."

All of the films shown at these two theaters are from the licensed manufacturers and are passed upon by the national board of censors.

HOWARD AND HOWARD,
In "The Porter and The Salesman," at the Orpheum Next Week.

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE"

"The Lion and the Mouse," which appears at the Lyceum tonight and Sunday matinee and night, teems with politics and high finance, and strange as it may seem, several figures in the play, notably John Burkett Ryder, Senator Roberts, and ex-Judge Stott, are but actual counterparts of the men who have been filling the newspaper columns with the stories of their questionable careers.

Since the remarkable work of Charles Klein was first seen here, things have occurred which make the return of the drama a matter of psychological interest, in view of the numerous cases against the trusts and captains of industry which are now before the courts. Five years ago "The Lion and the Mouse" would have been a failure for the simple reason that the public did not ask, "Where did he get it?" but rather, "How much is he worth?"

When the play was first produced the insurance scandals were just reaching the public nostrils; then came the action against trusts and railroads, and the public at large discovered that the so-called leaders in high finance were little short of pirates.

The story of "The Lion and the Mouse" is, concisely, this: John Burkett Ryder, the richest man in the world, who controls the government, suddenly finds that the gigantic schemes are blocked by the decisions of a federal justice, Judge Rossmore. Ryder swears to ruin him, and does, financially, besides making arrangements to have him impeached in the senate. The Judge's daughter, Shirley Rossmore, and Ryder's son, Jefferson, meet on a trip abroad, fall in love, and return engaged. The girl, learning of her father's impending dishonor, determines to save his good name. She writes a book, scoring Ryder, his ilk, and their methods, which creates a sensation. Ryder sends for her, and is so captivated with her wit and womanliness that he engages her to write his autobiography, making her a member of his household. Of course discovery is certain, and terminates in a tremendous scene between these two, the lion and the mouse.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Henry Kolker has established himself as a star in "The Great Name," a play which has been adapted from the German. After a week's tryout on the road he opened for a run in Chicago this week. The theme of the play is music, and is said to be based on incidents in the life of Franz Lehar, the famous Viennese composer. The story, which is set forth in three acts, deals with two gifted musicians—Joseph Hofer, a popular and successful composer, who is on the road to fortune, and Robert Brandmeyer, a genius who as yet is unheard of. The former realizes the greatness of his brother artist, and in order that his genius may be recognized, allows the use of his name as the author of a symphonic poem, in spite of the fact that in so doing he places in jeopardy his own name and fortune.

At the Hudson theater, New York, on Tuesday last, Rose Stahl began rehearsals in Charles Klein's new play, "Maggie Pepper," which will have its premier in Jan. 30.

Three stars from other parts of the theatrical firmament are to take flights into vaudeville. They are Nat C. Goodwin, Kitty Gordon and Amelia Summerville. Mr. Goodwin has been engaged for a tour over Percy G. Williams's circuit of theaters, as Mr. Golightly, in a short version of "Lend Me Five Shillings." He will appear first at the Colonial in New York on Jan. 22. Miss Gordon will sing English songs in Hammerstein's Victoria theater, during next week. Miss Summerville will appear in the American Music hall.

Charles Cherry, who was for a number of years a Shubert star, has gone over to the management of Daniel Frohman and has entered into a contract for three years. Accordingly he is to be seen each season at the Lyceum theater, and afterward go on tour, similar to the arrangement which existed between M. Frohman's former star, E. H. Sothern. In connection with the old Lyceum theater in a domestic comedy from the German, entitled "The Seven Sisters," which is shortly going to rehearsal. He will be assisted in this production by Laurette Taylor, who will be featured equally in this play. Miss Taylor, who has been starring under the management of Messrs. Cohan & Harris, has been loaned by them for this production.

Ellen Terry, the great English actress, is traveling this country more extensively than she has ever done before when at the head of her own company or in association with the late Sir Henry Irving. Her stands this time are mostly all "one-night" stands, and her tour is to carry her clear to the coast. Miss Terry has been received with unbounded enthusiasm in her recital of Shakesperean heroines, which she is giving on this tour. The recital gives her opportunity to present the best moments of her celebrated Shakesperean interpretations and gives a complete survey of her efforts among the heroines of the immortal bard.

In the near future John Cort will make a grand revival of an old play. For this purpose he has selected "Never Again." In the cast will be found Albert Weis, Moses Reis, Julius Cahn, Calvin Heilig, John J. Coleman, Charles F. Kindt and Peter McCourt.

Grace Van Studdeford has closed in "The Bridal Tour."

On Jan. 30 Chauncey Olcott will begin an engagement of two weeks at the Academy, New York, in "Barry of Ballymore," a romantic drama written expressly for him by Rida Johnson Young. The engagement is scheduled for two weeks only. Rumors that the management of the Academy intended to abandon its policy of stock presentations have been current for several weeks. Yet the coming of Chauncey Olcott is said by the management to have no real significance, and that stock will be revived after the two weeks.

Frederick Mouillet's initial production of "The Captain of the School" has made a distinct hit at the Gaiety theater. It is described as a clean, jolly story of schoolboy life and very refreshing in its unpretentiousness.

Robert Warwick has been engaged for the leading male role with Louise Gunning in "The Balkan Princess," which is now in rehearsal, and is soon to open for a brief out-of-town tour preparatory to its New York premiere. Mr. Warwick was playing the leading male role with Mrs. Leslie Carter in "Two Women," which concluded its engagement in New York to make room for "The Deep Purple." Mr. Warwick's place in Mrs. Carter's company will be taken by Walter Hale. "The Balkan Princess" will be the first musical offering in which he has ever appeared. The role to which he is assigned calls for the singing of several musical numbers and also requires much strictly "legitimate" acting.

Fritzi Scheff's tour in "The Mikado," which, by the way, was one of the most successful ever enjoyed by any star in the famous Gilbert and Sullivan opera, will come to a close Saturday night in order that Miss Scheff may begin rehearsals of her new comic opera. Miss Scheff's new vehicle is entitled "Rosita," and is from the joint work of Joseph Herbert and Miss Thompson, who collaborated on the libretta, and of Victor Herbert who furnished the score.

Vesta Victoria, the celebrated English singing comedienne will be the headline attraction at the Cincinnati Orpheum next week. She is now playing a hold-over engagement at the Plaza Music hall, New York, and will arrive in Cincinanti on a specially chartered train some time Sunday morning. This will be the fastest trip ever undertaken by this little English girl, who created a sensation on her last visit to this country.

On Jan. 16 "Judith Zaraine" will succeed "The Aviator" at the Astor theater. Lean Ashwell appears in the title role and Charles Waldron has been recruited from "The Fourth Estate" to supply the chief support. Others in the cast are John E. Kellerd, Howard Kyle, Gordon Langford, Charles Dowd ton, Edward Langford, Charles Dowd and Donald Gallaher. Miss Ashwell, it will be observed, is the only woman in the play.

For the two leading roles in "Excuse Me" Henry W. Savage has engaged John Westley and Anne Murdock. The piece will have its premiere out of town next Monday. Two weeks later New York will see it.

The New Year was made brighter for Clara Morris by quite an improvement in her physical condition. The actress, who in private life is Mrs. Frederick C. Harriott, has been during the past year at death's door several times at her home, 537 Riverdale avenue, and for a time was completely blind. She is still compelled to remain in bed and cannot distinguish any object. She received hundreds of messages from old-time friends and her husband read them to her.

Music characteristically American is a thing of the future, according to Ivan Caryll, the latest lion in the musical arena. Mr. Caryll, who is just now very prominently in the public eye, as composer of "Marriage a la Carte," is a big chap, physically and mentally. He is bearded and when he leads the big band at the Casino, it is one of the sights of a large city. He is spoken of variously as a Russian, because he is so abundantly whiskered; a German, because he speaks with an accent; a Frenchman, because he uses expressive shrugs of his huge shoulders to emphasize his conversational points; and an Englishman, because a great many of his successes were won in London. It is trusted that with the authoritative statement by Liebler & Co., that Mr. Caryll is a Belgian, rumor will subside.

"It is a pity America has no school of music, no peculiar style, like the countries abroad have," said Mr. Caryll yesterday, before the performance of "Marriage a la Carte." "If one speaks of the French school or the Viennese school or the German school, a certain almost composite or concrete kind of music comes into one's mind, but, I am sorry to say, there is nothing of this sort in the United States.

"True, you have your Victor Herbert, your Sousa and others who have a real American idea of music, but it is not as distinctive as that of the other great nations of the world. You should have a special college subsidized by the government, in which the young men and women who possess a talent for acting and music could have that talent trained and developed at little expense to themselves. Such is the case in Paris, Berlin and Vienna. The schools there are subsidized by the government, and the government employs the best actors and artists to teach there—thus giving the ambitious an opportunity to improve themselves along their chosen lines. This will probably come later, in America, but I am told that there is very little chance for it now.

"Should there come a time when this is carried into effect, I shall certainly look for some great compositions from Americans, and the birth of a real American school of music which will be fit to hold its own with the like schools of other nations."

Messrs. Haensel and Jones announce Isadora Duncan and Walter Damrosch with the New York Symphony orchestra will again leave for a short tour of the country. Miss Duncan will arrive from Paris, where she is now again appearing with the Colonne orchestra under the direction of Mr. Pierne the last week of January. She has matured several new programs of dance and pantomime in which music of Wagner figures largely, and she will appear in these new programs, as well as in her famous Beethoven-Chopin selections and the Iphigenia in Aulis and Tauris of Gluck.

While her art and its high mission had been recognized in Europe for several years, it was Mr. Damrosch who first proclaimed her in this country as the exponent of the art, which in the golden age of Greece was considered on a plane with music, sculpture and the drama. The announcement that Mr. Damrosch and his orchestra would combine with Miss Duncan drew crowds, which, while at first drawn by curiosity, came again and again, to rejoice in this unique combination of two arts.

Miss Duncan will make her reappearance in America the first week of February. Those who have seen her in Europe since her last appearance here say that her art has deepened and matured still further, and that her pantomimic representations of excerpts from Wagner's "Tristan," "Meistersinger" and "Tannhauser" will be a revelation.

BILL FOR WEEK OPENING WITH SUNDAY MATINEE, JAN. 15

HOWARD AND HOWARD — Howard and Howard have long been looked for at the Duluth Orpheum, for many months. They are claimed to be one of the biggest comedy hits on the circuit. "The Porter and The Salesman" is the name of their act. There is no use trying to describe it. You must see it, and come prepared for the best laugh of the season.

MERRILL AND OTTO — Lola Merrill and Frank Otto offer a dainty little bit of amusement, which they call "After the Shower." It is a summer flirtation with tuneful numbers.

FRED SINGER — Mr. Singer has an act which he calls "The Violin Maker of Cremona." He is one of the greatest musicians on the vaudeville stage, and has a genuine novelty.

LINTON AND LAWRENCE — Harry Linton and Anita Lawrence have an act which they call "At the Music Store." It is a neat and dainty singing and dancing act.

MR. AND MRS. JIMMY BARRY — It must be a pretty high-class bill when Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry are billed fifth. Their "At Hensfoot Corners" is a classic, and will give nearly as big a laugh as Howard and Howard.

Mrs. Jimmy Barry

ONLAW TRIO — The Onlaw Trio are Parisian wire performers. The woman of the act rides a bicycle on a slack wire suspended from the teeth of two men. That is a sample of the novelties they present.

FRANK AND ROSE GORDON — They have a neat comedy dancing and acrobatic act that has more than made good on the Orpheum circuit.

THE KINODROME and the CONCERT ORCHESTRA will complete the bill.

PRICES—Matinees 25c, except Sundays and holidays, Nights, 15, 25, 50 and 75 Cents. Seats are on Sale for One Week in Advance.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Seniors Want Dr. Northrop's Signature Placed on Their Degrees.

Men's Union Opera for 1911 Completed By Edgar Allen.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Resolutions petitioning the board of regents' permission to have the signatures of both President Northrup and President-elect Vincent on the degrees of this year were adopted at the last senior meeting. Before the holidays, President Northrup exercised his willingness to sign the degrees if the sanction of the regents could be obtained. On Feb. 2, the class will have their first cap and gown parade. The custom of making the first parade day a sort of senior jubilee will be inaugurated by having an all-senior spread in the evening.

Gold Footballs for Players.

At a recent meeting of the board of athletic control, gold footballs were awarded to all of the Gopher football players. Upon each of the footballs is to be engraved the score of both the Chicago and Wisconsin games, but it was deemed wiser by the board not to inscribe "Conference Champions, 1910," upon the trinkets, as Illinois has some claim to that position. It was hard to withold this honor from the men, for it is supposed that Minnesota could have beaten the Illinois team if they could have played together. At the meeting of the board, Dr. Williams formally announced that he accepted the offer made to him to coach the football team next year. This is only a one-year contract.

Yale Scholarship Fund.

For the purpose of establishing a Yale scholarship fund at Minnesota, the Yale Alumni have subscribed $500, and a committee is calling upon Twin City graduates for further subscriptions for a Minnesota "Yale scholarship fund." The plan is to send one student to Yale every year. No candidates have as yet been selected. There will be no competing scholarship test, but the aim will be to select a worthy man who will do credit, both to himself and the college. Each alumnus will be at liberty to recommend candidates. The student is expected to pay back the money after ten years, thus helping to make the scholarship permanent.

Awarded to Michigan.

The cup donated by the Western Intercollegiate Magazine to the Western football champions has been awarded to the University of Michigan. The judges of the award were: W. W. Roper of Princeton, Fielding H. Yost of Michigan, and W. J. Randall of Dartmouth.

Men's Union Opera.

Edgar Allen has completed the Men's Union opera for 1911. The name of the operetta is "The Girl in the Moon." Early this week, it was read for the first time to the board of governors, and was pronounced a decided hit. Several Twin City dramatic critics and coaches were present at the first reading and were elated over Edgar Allen's latest work, several saying that it is a most remarkable composition for a college student. It is considered by the critics to be on a par with the best musical operas on the stage.

The opera takes up university life and features several prominent affairs of last year, especially the cadet encampment at Fort Snelling. There are seventeen musical numbers in the opera. Miss Malcolm will coach again this year, and will have charge of the tryouts next Monday afternoon.

Coaches Chosen.

Wilkie C. Clark was chosen baseball coach by the Board of Athletic control at their last meeting. He has been highly recommended to the board, having played in all the big leagues. He is a graduate of the University of Maine.

Dr. Richard Grant was chosen as track coach for next year at a larger salary.

A gallery of football heroes, such as is common to most universities is going to be commenced at Minnesota. It will be composed of captains of the football teams and such players as may make the all-American including, John McGovern, Capt. Lisle Johnston and Jimmy Walker.

Medical Inspector Wanted.

Dean P. H. Westbrook has asked for the appointment of a medical inspector to safeguard the health of the students, to assist in the teaching of personal hygiene and to provide for the sanitary inspection of the buildings and grounds. An appropriation of $10,000 would be necessary. He contends that pupils of the city public schools are in less danger from contagious diseases than are students in the university. The health boards of both St. Paul and Minneapolis have announced that they are heartily in favor of the measure and the executive committee of the state board of health has endorsed it.

Masquers' Club Production.

Members of the Masquers club are completing arrangements for a mammoth production to be staged early in February. The play is Pinero's "Trelawney of the Wells." Since early in December the members of the cast have been practicing faithfully. This play was staged recently by one of the St. Paul high schools. It met with instant and hearty approval and the members of the Masquers' look forward to a crowded house when the production is given in Minneapolis.

The Northrop Building.

The work of securing funds for the erection of the Cyrus Northrop building is being pushed with vigor. Thomas Voegeli, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Minneapolis Commercial club is to appoint a sub-committee to assist in the Minneapolis campaign for funds. The total cost of the building being $350,000 of which the legislature will appropriate $150,000 leaving $200,000 for state subscriptions. Several towns and cities have already subscribed: Duluth pledging $30,000; St. Paul, $50,000; and alumni and students $20,000. Minneapolis will endeavor to supply the remainder.

The plan at present, according to Dr. Tenks is to use the legislature appropriation for the erection of the building, and the amount contributed by the cities and organizations for furnishing it. The money secured in Minneapolis is to be used in furnishing a Minneapolis commons or dining hall, accommodating 1,100 people. The money from St. Paul will be employed in furnishing a St. Paul theater seating 1,000. Duluth's contribution will furnish a large living room.

The building will be used as the social center of the university. All university entertainments and social functions will be held in the hall and student activities will probably center there.

Japanese Operetta a Success.

Wednesday afternoon and evening, the Euterpean club gave its first entertainment of the year. The Japanese operetta "O Ham Son" was without doubt, one of the most delightful entertainments ever given by a college club. The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra accompanied the splendid voices of the thirty chorus girls who took part. Artistic scenery and beautiful costumes showed careful workmanship and harmony. Takashi Murayama in his character of the feudal lord added realism and local color to the play.

No Flowers.

Fraternities an dinter-fraternity clubs at Minnesota are heading a movement to abolish the giving of flowers at the junior ball. No definite action has been taken, but as soon as possible, a resolution signed by all the clubs and fraternities will be presented to the officers of the Senior Ball association asking them to announce and request that no flowers be given at the senior ball.

CHILD MURDERED BY HIS MOTHER

Mrs. Melber Confesses to Giving Boy Carbolic Acid.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Arrested as she claimed her trunk in the New York Central railroad station yesterday, Mrs. Edith Melber, a widow, who says she is 23 years of age, of Schenectady, confessed last night, according to the Rochester police, that in a swamp near Albany last Friday afternoon she gave her 5-year-old son George carbolic acid, from the effects of which he died. She was then locked up on a charge of murder in the first degree.

In explanation of her crime, the police say, Mrs. Melber asserts that she had been a widow for four years, during which time she has had a struggle to care for herself and her child, and that this battle for an existence drove her to take the boy's life. She is an unusually attractive young woman, and at the end of her examination was unnerved and weeping hysterically.

The police were able to make the arrest yesterday afternoon by keeping watch in the New York Central station over a cheap new trunk that had been checked from Schenectady and that was believed to be the property of Mrs. Melber. When the woman appeared to get it, soon after 5 o'clock, she was arrested.

Mrs. Melber at first maintained considerable composure, and declared she had given her child to an uncle, who was to take him to Chicago and care for him. According to the police, the woman said she gave the child the acid when he asked for a drink.

The police say there is a burn apparently on the woman's hand and other stains on her clothing which indicate, they allege, that the child did not take the acid without struggling.

never a smaller force than 300 men on the job. They are now engaged in preparing the sites for the two other blast furnaces, the coke ovens, the open hearth mill and many other structures, including roughing mills, rolling mills and blooming mill pit furnaces.

The Machine Shop.

The machine shop is a tremendously large building, and some prodigious specimens of machinery are to be installed there. A look at this building, with the knowledge that it is designed to serve as an incidental part of the entire plant, will serve to impress anyone with the vastness of the ultimate result of all this constructive labor that is going on in Duluth.

There is a great long gash in the face of the earth on the further side of the site, where gravel has been scooped out to be used in the making of concrete. Every day the monster steam shovel stationed there scops out more of the gravel to feed the hungry mixer, to which it is hauled by an engine that seems to move with nervous haste from shovel to mixer and mixer to the next point, where the output of the mixer is used in the construction of foundations. Every time that big shovel pushes its nose into the deposit of gravel another bit of progress is made toward the completion of the plant.

Machinery is already being received for installation in the machine shop and the forge and plate shop, which are now being equipped with thousands of electric lights, will soon be very busy centers of activity. The work now being done there is in the nature of finishing off the rough edges of construction. Not a great many men are needed for this work, comparatively, but there are about fifty scattered through the huge structures all through the working day, and at times there are many more so occupied.

Progress has been hampered to some extent by the heavy snowfalls of the winter. The site is covered with a thick blanket of snow and to get from one point to another on the extensive tract calls for considerable exertion. This has not interfered with work on the buildings, of which the foundations have been built, but it retarded progress generally.

The Housing Problem.

There has been some talk of a housing problem at New Duluth, but it is not a pressing one, according to the company employes on the site. They say that most of the workmen are not married and that practically all of those who have wives and families left them in Europe when they came here. Some of them have found lodging places in New Duluth, some at Smithville, and the boarding house on the site takes care of a large number of them.

With the coming of spring the situation as to housing will be greatly altered. Additional hundreds of men will be put on the work and they must all be given adequate housing and eating facilities. This probably will be done by the erection of large company boarding houses, where the men can live until their permanent places in the industrial organization there are determined and they have opportunities to arrange their own domiciliary affairs.

It is to be expected that during the coming summer there will be decided activity in the real estate market, many transactions involving lands adjacent to the plant site being expected, and the workman who gets into the field early as a purchaser will be the gainer, of course.

BUTTE CENTRAL DOING VERY EFFECTIVE WORK

Ophir May Have One Million Tons "in Sight" By Spring.

Tuolumne Now Shipping 250 Tons of High Grade Ore Daily.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Butte Central Copper company is doing somevery effective development work in the Ophir mine and by the time the new concentrator is ready for operations in the spring there will probably be 1,000,000 tons of ore "in sight" in the mine. At present the work is confined to the 300 and 500-foot levels, the drifts having been extended eastward from the main crosscut about 400 feet. On the upper levels there are two large veins, but on the 500-foot level the evidence of an approaching juncture of the two veins is very strong, the entire country between the two veins being heavily mineralized. One drift is being run on the hanging wall of the south vein and the other on the foot wall of the north vein. On the latter an ore body eight feet wide is being opened. On the south wall there are ten feet of shipping ore. The two bodies of ore run from $5 to $40 a ton in value. The drifts will be extended to the east boundary line of the Ophir claim, and within 200 feet, it is expected, the great Rarus fault vein will be encountered. This fault vein, one of the two great cross-fissures in the Butte district, has been found to carry enormous copper values wherever it has been found to intersect the east and west veins. The other cross-fissure is known as the Blue vein, and it is this latter that carried the richest of the copper solutions to the Anaconda hill veins and created what is known in minings as the secondary enrichment or secondary copper deposition. The Blue vein strikes through the Butte district in a northwest and southeast direction. The Rarus fault runs northeast and southwest, and goes through the Rarus, Tramway, Pennsylvania and Belmont mines, in which some of the greatest ore bodies in the district are being mined. The Rarus fault apex is traced southwest to the eastern end line of the Ophir, and in its descent into the earth it dips to the west, so that it is estimated it will first show up in the Ophir ground on the 500-foot level. In the Ophir is another smaller fault fissure vein having a northwest and southeast strike, and it is the opinion of W. L. Creden, consulting engineer of the Butte Central, that this fault and the Rarus fault united in the Ophir at a depth of 1,000 to 1,200 feet, and at the juncture enormous copper deposits will be found. The future development work on the Ophir will be in following out that theory.

Wethey on Past and Future.

The retirement of A. H. Wethey, general manager of the Clark interests, on the closing day of the year, was the occasion for a banquet tendered him at the Country club by his associates, at which Mr. Wethey made a notable speech, reviewing the great growth of the city since his advent into it twenty-three years ago. Mr. Wethey also took occasion to refer to the decline of Butte as a smelter center in the past few years. He mentioned the various plants which had gone out of existence and to the fact that the ore which was once treated in this city is now cared for in either Anaconda or Great Falls. He said that it was true that there was one smelter left, known as the Pittsmont and now owned by the East Butte company. It was treating ore from its own mines and from two or three small concerns. After making a passing reference to the sale of the Clark mines to the Anaconda company, Mr. Wethey spoke of the effort now being made by Former Senator Clark to develop the zinc industry in this district. He said that the zinc mines of Mr. Clark promised to be of great importance to the district. Referring to the sale of the Butte Reduction works to the Anaconda company, he said that Mr. Clark had reserved the privilege of concentrating zinc ores there until Dec. 31, 1913. Mr. Wethey informed his hearers that at the present time the works were concentrating over 400 tons a day and shipping in the neighborhood of 125 tons of 50 per cent concentrates daily to the smelting plant at Bartlesville, Okla. Concluding this branch of his subject, he said: "We have installed many additional machines in this plant during the past few weeks. We expect this construction work to be completed this week and that the efficiency of the plant will be greatly improved."

Mr. Wethey was presented by his associates with a beautiful gold watch and fob. With his family he left the city New Year's day, to make his future home in New York. He has purchased an extensive bronze works located in New Jersey, which were owned by Senator Clark, and will give his personal attention to the management of the business. Mr. Wethey was generally considered an exceptionally good business man and the success of many of the Clark enterprises was largely due to his ability.

Corbin Metals.

"I'll give you a real good New Year's gift," said Manager Jack Hoy of the Corbin Metals company to some of the heavy stockholders from the East when they visited the property in the Corbin district last summer. Mr. Hoy was as good as his word, for before the close of the year he had the supreme satisfaction of telegraphing to them that he had encountered a rich body of ore. The strike was made on the 500-foot level and but a few feet south of the shaft. The ore body consists of a five-foot vein which shows 20 per cent lead, 2½ per cent copper, 12 per cent zinc and fourteen ounces of silver. In reply to a telegram sent informing some of the heavy stockholders in Pennsylvania of the strike, Mr. Hoy has received a message telling him to continue development work on an enlarged scale.

Georgetown District.

The Georgetown district may be connected with a railroad during the early part of next summer. The different people interested in mining along with citizens of Anaconda are endeavoring to bring about the construction of a spur connecting the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railway and this brings the ore to the Washoo smelter. Twelve miles of track would bring the railway right into the heart of the Georgetown mining district. Some large bodies of ore have been opened up in some of the properties and it is said that Eastern capitalists stand ready to put their money into mines in the locality if railway facilities are afforded. Some of the mine owners are so anxious to see the line constructed that they have come forward with a guarantee of shipments of a substantial character.

The Raven Case.

The petition for the dissolution of the Raven Mining company came before the district court the other day and was continued until the next term which is next month. The application for a dissolution was decided on by the stockholders at a meeting held last November, at which 615,658 shares of stock were represented out of a total of 630,000 shares. The company disposed of all its property and interests some time ago to the Raven Copper Mining company and states in its application for a dissolution that all debts and claims have been paid and that any assets which remain will be divided among the stockholders to the number of shares they hold.

Tuolumne.

The New Year's gift of a 15-cent dividend presented to the stockholders of the Tuolumne company by the directors at a special meeting caused a great deal of satisfaction among the hundreds of stockholders in this city, and must have been taken by the heavy holders of the stock in the East as a further evidence that the property is going to be a big money-maker. The company is now shipping 250 tons a day of high-grade ore, which runs better than 10 per cent copper, and at the same time is carrying on development work and sinking operations. While the original intention was to carry the shaft down to a depth of 2,000 feet, it is just possible it may be decided to go 200 feet further. The dividend recently ordered will involve an outlay of $120,000, but inasmuch as the company has a good fat treasury and is making money, this amount can easily be taken out. It is more than likely that the dividends, now that they have been started, will be continued quarterly, and that by next September the amount will be increased to 25 cents. The latest advices are to the effect that the new steel gallows, frame, hoist and other equipment will be ready to place in position early in May.

New Dredge Tested.

The new dredge of the Conrey Placer Mining company for operation in the Ruby valley has been tested and found to be satisfactofy in every respect, but it will not be put into active operation before next April. On New Year's day the Conrey company distributed among its employes, according to length of service and salary received, $5,000 as a bonus.

Tesla Group Sold.

Milwaukee capitalists, along with some Colorado people, have completed a deal whereby they take over the seven mining claims known as the Tesla or Eagle group, in Madison county. W. H. Thomson, a Colorado and Arizona mining man, and Mr. Mayo, an expert chemist and mineralogist, inspected the property, and it was on their recommendation that the deal was closed. Machinery has already been ordered and will be placed in position so that operations can be commenced in the spring. The ore will be treated by an entirely new process, the invention of Mr. Mayo, and which is claimed to be much cheaper and better than any yet known in this state.

Anaconda's Production.

The production of the Anaconda company for December amounts to 21,500,000 pounds, of which 15,900,000 pounds were turned out by the Washoe smelter and 5,600,000 pounds by the Great Falls smelter. In the production of the Washoe smelter is included the output of the Tuolumne and North Butte companies. In addition to the production of the two smelters the Butte district sent out about 1,000,000 pounds from the East Butte smelter.

Ohio-Keating.

A the annual meeting of the Ohio-Keating Gold Mining company, R. M. Calkins of Seattle and George M. Bourquin, W. H. Pennfield, C. H. Smith and J. E. Oppenheimer of this city were elected directors. The reports of the officers were considered very satisfactory. The company has an indebtedness of $25,000 and a bond issue of $50,000 has been authorized, half of which will be used in liquidating the present indebtedness. The increase in the capital stock from 500,000 shares to 800,000 shares has been indorsed, the new stock and half of the bond issue to remain in the treasury. The company owns the Ohio and Iron Dollar claims and the group has been greatly strengthened by the acquisition of six additional claims, all in the Radersburg district. The Ohio shaft has been sunk to a depth of 220 feet, the last hundred being in commercial ore. The electric power line has been extended from the Keating to the Ohio shaft, and the mine is thoroughly equipped for operating to the 400-foot level. It is planned to resume operations about Feb. 1.

King Solomon Resumes.

The King Solomon mine, operating in the Clancy district, has resumed operations. The property has made an excellent showing in gold, silver and copper and the company is prepared to carry on extensive development work.

Montana-Corbin.

The Montana-Corbin is insolvent, according to a petition for involuntary bankruptcy which has benefited in the United States court. The petitioners are the Butte Machinery company, creditors for $632.25; Allen P. Bowie on a note for $3,000 and W. D. Gibson for $700 wages. It is stated that the Western Supply company has a lien against the company. Among the stockholders are several New York people. The property has not been operated for some time.

TO MINE GOLD UNDER THE SEA

New Machine Has Been Devised for the Nome Beaches.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 14.—No region has offered more alluring possibilities to the placer miner than the famous beaches of Nome. There were no hardships of travel to be endured to reach them, and no difficulties in mining to be overcome in taking the gold from the gravels in which they were deposited. From the water's edge far back into the tundra, up the creeks and along lines of ancient beaches mining has been carried on for more than a decade, and upward of $60,000,000 in virgin gold has been added to the world's supply from this source.

Nome is no longer a poor man's camp, for rocker and sluice ground has long since been worked out. Big dredges and huge hydraulic works are now the means employed.

Early miners followed the fabulously rich pay to the water line, and while the gold was just as plentiful there as farther back, no mining of any importance has ever been possible beyond this line. It has long since been recognized that some application of the cofferdam principle is necessary to success in this field, and with this in view many inventions employing this principle have been tried without success.

An inventor has entered the field with an ingenious machine for use both on beaches and in river beds, and is operating one of the river machines on the Similkameen. He will install the beach machines next season at Nome.

The machine is a combination, or the assembling, of three old and tried ideas, the cofferdam, the sheet piling and the caisson. The device is built entirely of steel, oval in shape, and consists of a cofferdam wall of steel, which is watertight. The dam is open at both top and bottom and is of sufficient depth to prevent water from flowing over its top.

This machine, it is asserted, can be kept free from the holding power of sand suction and outer water pressure, due to the fact that the outer caisson rests on the sand and the pulling of a single sheet steel plate permits the water to enter the dam and aid in freeing the entire apparatus.

The model set up on the West Seattle beach worked successfully, and if the machine in practical use does as well, it is probable that there has been perfected one of the most important inventions ever applied to placer mining anywhere. If it is as a success when put to a practical test, Nome will add many millions to its already great output.

FIND MADE IN INDIANA

Disclosure of Copper Ground in One of Amygdaloid Beds.

Hancock Company Is Slowly Rounding Into Shape for Production.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indiana Mining company has made another disclosure of copper ground and this time in one of the several amygaloidal beds traversing that territory. The original disclosure and which at the time, about one year ago, created so much excitement because of its extraordinary richness, was in the nature of an intrusion of feisitic material and apparently has its greatest lateral extent north and south cross the bedded formations of this district. The more recent discovery occurs in an amygdaloid of about twenty-five feet in thickness, of which probably twenty feet carries commercial values. All of the mine buildings for which there is immediate necessity have been erected. Shaft sinking has not yet begun.

South Lake.

The South Lake Mining company, engaged in diamond drilling, continues to reveal copper ground of about the same values disclosed in the several holes previously drilled and of a highly encouraging nature. The No. 7 drill hole has just passed through No. 2 lode, so-called, and at this point has tapped a deposit that seemingly is richer than any prior showing. The lode, about twenty feet of which carries copper in commercial quantities, is found to have a copper shoot 8 feet wide and of more than usual richness. A shaft was planned some little time ago, but such work is being held up pending further results of the drill borings in which it is hoped to establish the exact dip and strike of the formation in which these deposits occur.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company is slowly rounding into shape for production and to this end has begun the cutting out of stopes on the thirteenth, fourteenth and sixteenth levels in the No. 3 lode. This lode is opened by winze and raise from the thirteenth level, where connection is had with the main working shaft by crosscut. At the eighteenth level, present bottom of the winze, a second crosscut gives the rock production from this lode a further outlet. Drifting has been carried on to considerable extent at all levels from the thirteenth to the eighteenth, and has resulted in the development of upwards of 800,000 tons of copper rock. The installation of the permanent hoisting equipment, and a system of underground haulage is progressing steadily and these facilities should be available within the month so that milling may be begun some time in February if not earlier. Initial production will be at the rate of about 400 tons of rock daily, that being about the limit of capacity of one stamp in the Centennial-Allouez mill given over for the purpose.

Champion.

The Champion Copper company has been forced to suspend operations in its stamp mill owing to insufficient water supply, and for the present is shipping its rock to the mills of the sister companies, Baltic and Tri-mountain. These mills are fully able to handle the additional duty impose upon them and no decrease in the copper output of the Champion is expected. The difficulty at the Champion mill lies in the anchor ice and stamp sand clogging the intake pipe through which water is drawn from Lake Superior in the operation of the mill. The mill has been idle since the first of the year.

Winona.

The Winona Copper company is this week bedding down the concentrating machinery in the Winona-King Philip stamp mill, preparatory to milling, which is expected to be in progress before the end of the month. The mill stands fully completed, requiring only necessary adjustments that can be made after actual stamping has once begun. The situation in the mine offers nothing new and is entirely satisfactory so far as can be judged from inspection only, and without the better knowledge that only actual operation can bring. Both shafts have been thoroughly overhauled and are well equipped to handle upward of 1,500 tons of rock daily, though it is probably a much greater tonnage than will be produced in the immediate future. The rock is generally expected to yield around fifteen pounds of fine copper per ton of rock milled, but if appearances count for anything may go three to five pounds higher.

ALTIA COMPANY CHANGES HANDS

Taken Over By Parties Interested in Branch Mint Company.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 14.—James D. Hardin, who promoted the Branch Mint and other companies here, with John McGoffin, superintendent of the Altia Mining company, recently spent some time in New York and interested a number of the same men who were in the Branch Mint company, so that they have taken over the Altia from A. D. Snow and the other Kansas City holders, liquidated its indebtedness of $100,000 and left the control of the property to Mr. Hardin. Since work has started on the new Osterman smelter at Galena it will be possible to treat much of the concentrating ore in the Altia ground there. The Altia, which was formerly the Puritan and is located in Strawberry Gulch near the city, has a twenty-stamp mill which is capable of treating 100 tons of ore per day. A shaft has been sunk and it will now be unwatered.

Arrangements are being made by T. T. Cornforth of Denver and associates to develop the old Lexington Hill and other properties adjoining. The Lexington Hill, Belle Eldridge and several other groups just east of the city were developed some time ago, but on the Lexington Hill there has been no work in some years. Small development work carried on by Aaron Dunn on the Belle Eldridge shows some good milling ore, but quartzite has never been reached and no deep work attempted. All the surrounding ground is well mineralized. The Lexington Hill treatment plant, a twenty stamp mill, will be remodeled and ore from the Belle Eldredge used to keep it in operation while the other properties are being opened up.

The Black Hills Development and Financial Corporation has discovered in an old drift on the 200-foot level of the Iron Hill property near here, a body of lead and silver ore that runs practically $50 per ton. In the same drift on the other side afe seams of the same ore running $30 per ton. The richer ore body is solid and shines like steel. The workings in the Home Run and Seabury-Calkins are showing up well and the water in the Iron Hill shaft has been reduced below the 300-foot level on each level cleaned up, some good ore being found.

The Dakota Power company, which is building a 5,000 horse-power hydro-electric plant near Pactola and expects to supply most of the mining companies in the Southern and Central hills, has acquired the property of the Rapid City Gas and Eelectric company and has entered into a contract with the Westinghouse Electric company at Custer to supply it with power for its mica mines. The Westinghouse company is at the present time working but three of its mica properties, the New York being closed down for repairs.

COBALT OUTPUT IN PAST YEAR

Gain of About 4,000 Tons Made Over the 1909 Figures.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 14.—According to figures tabulated by the Nugget at Cobalt the ore shipments for 1910 aggregated 34,000 tons, compared to 29,944 tons shipped during the year 1909. It is believed here that the present tonnage marks a turning point in the production of the mines, and while the earnings can be expected to remain as they are, it is quite likely to come more from concentrates than bonaza ore. During the next two years the output of the shipping product ought to keep well within the figures established during 1910.

Twenty-nine mines shipped in 1910 against thirty in 1909. There were four new shippers during the year, namely, the Hargraves, Waldman, Wyandon and Cobalt Provincial, the Foster, Nancy Helen, North Cobalt and Silver Queen dropped out.

The Nova Scotia shipped only bullion this year. The City of Cobalt, La Rose and O'Brien show reduced tonnage, but as these companies have been shipping concentrates largely for the first time this will not represent any reduction in silver ounces. On the other hand, the Kerr Lake increase is due to the output of a larger quantity of low grade.

The Cobalt Townsite and the Colonial have shown an excellent revival and the increased output of the McKinley-Darragh and the Conlagas have been features of the year.

Although the centenary of organized American missionary effort in foreign fields was celebrated last October, for the sake of expediency, at the annual meeting of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions in Boston, it was not until 1811 that the interdenominational society bearing that title came into existence.

Samuel J. Mills and some of his fellow students at Williams college were pioneers in the movement, and it was the outcome of their zeal that led the new society to send five enthusiastic young men to India. As soon as they landed, they were ordered by the all-powerful East India company to leave the country.

They didn't obey the command. They went into temporary obscurity, but they remained on the job. When the East India company officials had forgotten them, they emerged from their retreat, and settled down to business. That was the beginning of the American religious propaganda in foreign lands. It has been going right on uninterruptedly for a hundred years and much has come of it.

For one thing, it has enriched the history of the century with a marvelous record of heroic achievement. It is a calling that is endowed abundantly with opportunity for one to become a hero, and scores of American missionaries have accepted the chance. The primary act of renunciation demanded by the profession requires a courage that borders on the herculean, but that is only the beginning. Recall, for example, the possibilities which confronted the missionary who felt inspired to practice his profession in Japan about the middle of the last century. If he knew enough of the Japanese language to decipher it, how the cold shivers must have run up and down his spinal column at sight of an imperial edict posted in all public places, of which the following is a literal translation:

"So long as the sun shall continue to warm the earth, let no Christian be so bold as to come to Japan, and let all know that the king of Spain himself, or the Christian's God, or the great God of all, if he dare violate this command, shall pay for it with his head."

This delicate intimation that he was regarded as an "undesirable"—which was in force for 229 years—did not become inoperative until 1859, following Commodore Perry's visit to Japan, and until that time the young American, who had an ambition to do evangelistic work in the island kingdom, assumed a great risk in carrying it out. There is only one American in the flesh today who made the perilous experiment. That man is the Rev. John Liggins, now living at Ocean City, N. J.—in years and in deeds, one of the present-day grand old men of the foreign missionary movement.

John Liggins, First American Missionary to Japan.

On May 2, 1859 Mr. Liggins sailed into the harbor of Nagasaki on a Chinese vessel. It was two months before the recently-made Commodore Perry treaty was to go into effect, and he was not at all certain that he would be permitted to land. The edict which attached the death penalty to any Japanese who professed Christianity was still in force, and remained so for several years after the ancient fulmination of the shoguns was put out of business by Perry's treaty. Mr. Liggins had been engaged in missionary work in China for three years, but he had fallen a victim to the malaria of the low-lying river districts and had started for Nagasaki on his own initiative, not knowing at the time that his spiritual head, the Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal church, had arranged for him and his companion in the Chinesework, the late Bishop Williams, to become the first regularly-appointed American missionaries to Japan. The notice of the assignment was received by Mr. Williams after his companion had gone, and he prepared to follow as soon as possible.

To the young missionary's great surprise, the governor of Nagasaki not only permitted him to land, but received him with open arms. He made him his guest for a few days and then provided him with a good house free of rent and equipped for housekeeping in the most comfortable Japanese style. Although he was puzzled greatly over the warmth of his welcome, the young clergyman was not left long in ignorance of what was expected of him.

The craze to become familiar with Western civilization had just broken out in Japan, and the governor recognized in the coming of this pioneer missionary the opportunity he had been longing for with all his Japanese curiosity and desire to profit from the wisdom of others, no matter how alien. Almost immediately Mr. Liggins was asked to teach English to a class of eight young naval officers, who had already begun their education as official interpreters. By the time Mr. Williams reached Japan the school was in full operation and the original eight pupils had expanded to fifteen.

It was a ticklish business despite the governor's protection. Although the educated Japanese were greatly interested in foreign science they were not a whit less prejudiced against Christianity than were their ancestors of the times of the shoguns. At that time the Western religion was regarded as a sort of anarchistic system and everybody in Japan was afraid of it on that account. The friendly governor made it his especial business to warn the missionaries against any effort to propagate their philosophy and reminded them that no Japanese who should become a convert to it would be permitted to escape with his life.

As soon as the missionaries acquired a working insight into the language, they began services in their house for the benefit of the few American and English traders who were stopping in the city. In 1866, Mr. Williams obtained permission of the Japanese government to build a church, with the proviso that it was to be for the exclusive use of foreigners and that no native was to be admitted to it under any pretext. It was seven years after the coming of Mr. Liggins that the first convert was baptized.

A Valuable Literary Service.

The best pioneer service ever done by Mr. Liggins was literary in character. He had obtained possession of a Chinese-Japanese phrase book, and it occurred to him that if he should translate the Chinese phrases into English and then, with the aid of his native teacher, trans-literate the Japanese words with Roman letters, a work would be produced which would be valuable to English-speaking persons in beginning the study of Japanese and to natives of Japan who wished to learn English. He set about this work and in a few months had it printed in Shanghai under the title of "One Thousand Familiar Phrases in English and Japanese." It proved to be a great success, and was even more popular among the Japanese than with those who were trying to master the island dialects.

It was an entering wedge, but the penalty of the exhausting vigils spent in its preparation was a total physical breakdown for Mr. Liggins. He managed to get back home, but he has never recovered his strength and was never able to take further active part in the work he undertook for the missionary cause in Japan. Fortunately, his companion, the late Channing Moore Williams, who afterward became first missionary bishop in the empire, was on hand to continue the work, in which he spent his entire life, a period of more than fifty years. When the latter died—Dec. 2, of last year—judging from the tone of the Japanese press, his loss was regarded as a national calamity.

When asked to designate the most wonderful point in connection with his evangelistic invasion of the Japanese empire, Mr. Liggins replied: "For me, the most amazing thing connected with the Japanese work is summed up in these three words, 'then and now.' When I set foot in Nagasaki I found a puppet emperor, reverenced as a god, but shut up in his palace, the power in the hands of a shogun, a military despot. Now the Mikado, a constitutional monarch, rules under the constitution. Then learning was not regarded as essential, even by the aristocracy. Now there is a fine common school system adapted from the German. Then the army was a collection of feudal retainers—the Samurai—and there was absolutely no navy, not a warship. Now Japan is among the leading military and naval powers of the world. Then caste prevailed and business men were despised and distrusted and women were regarded as inferior beings. Now there is a common citizenship and some of the most prominent men in the country are engaged in business. Woman is fast acquiring the position of her Western sisters.

"So that I, who knew Japan then as well as you know it now, stand amazed at the difference the half century has wrought!"

Dr. Daniel Crosby Greene's Japanese Experience.

Ten years after the coming of Liggins and Williamson, Dr. Daniel Crosby Greene, another grand old man of the missions, in answer to his urgent appeal to become a resident in the Mikado's country, was commissioned by the American Board of Congregational Foreign Missions to take charge of the work which had been going on under the auspices of that body for several years. The statement that the empire had been thrown open to foreigners for a decade before Dr. Greene settled at Kobe appeals to the imagination, but in point of fact it amounts to little. Japan was open—but only after a fashion. So far as access to its people was concerned, it was practically as closed as ever. Foreigners might live—under suspicion and close surveillance—in certain narrowly restricted quarters of certain cities, but any attempt on their part to come into contact with the native population was resented and all sorts of obstacles were interposed. When such effort did not result in a series of petty persecutions of the presuming foreigners themselves, it took the form of cruel retaliation upon the people who permitted the aliens to approach them. While they made every possible effort to absorb whatever knowledge was to be gained from the new-comers, and encourage the people to make themselves familiar with Western ways of doing and thinking, the Japanese authorities never lost an opportunity to foster and expand the prejudices already so deeply rooted in the minds of the natives against all races outside of the empire, and especially against any form of religious belief brought in from outside.

Dr. Greene declares that all these drawbacks were as nothing compared to the difficulty of the Japanese language and the meager opportunities to acquire it thoroughly. Mr. Liggins had been fortunate in securing a competent teacher and thus was able to make considerable progress, with his previous knowledge of Chinese to give him a starting point. Dr. Greene had been a brilliant student at Dartmouth, but all that he had acquired at that seat of learning was of little use to him during the first years of his residence in Japan. His first step on setting foot in the empire was to engage a teacher, and it took him some time to make the rather depressing discovery that the man he had employed turned out to be a government spy who was not giving him lessons in the vernacular at all, but in some obscure dialect of one of the outlying islands. There was no such work as a dictionary in the country, and for some reason or another Mr. Liggins' phrase book was not a source of much enlightenment to the young missionary.

To add to his discomfiture, Dr. Greene soon discovered that, with perhaps the single exception of Mr. Williams, there was no one among the other accredited missionaries who had obtained a working knowledge of the language, although at that time there were no representatives of four American societies resident in Japan. The Baptist representative, Mr. Goble, had even accompanied Commodore Perry's expedition to Japan for the express purpose of gaining information to be used in future missionary enterprises, but he had failed to get an inkling into the mysteries of Japanese construction. Little wonder that in the spring of 1872, thirteen years after the nominal opening of Japan to all the world, the total number of converts who had been led to adopt the creed brought to them in various forms by devoted bands of missionaries from America and Europe numbered only ten.

An Incident That Had Large Results.

This lack of opportunity was agonizing to the energetic young missionary. With grim determination he made up his mind that he would find some way to overcome the obstacle, but before he had put any of his desperate schemes into opposition his chance came to him. Hearing a commotion in the street in front of his house one night, he lighted his lantern, grasped his stout walking stick and sallied forth to investigate the disturbance. It turned out to be a case of attempted highway robbery. A Japanese nobleman, rambling about incognito, had been attacked by footpads, who were relieving him of his valuables just as the missionary appeared on the scene. At Dr. Greene's approach the desperadoes fled and their victim—who could speak a little English—hailed the missionary as his deliverer.

"How shall I ever be able to reward you?" he asked, as Dr. Greene was bidding him good night at his own door, to which the missionary had accompanied him at his earnest request. "I am at your service."

In an instant the quick-witted young man from Dartmouth accepted the opportunity. "Teach me your language," he returned promptly.

The samura shook his head sadly. "Anything but that," he said.

"Either that or nothing," persisted his rescuer, turning away.

"Stay—or rather go," stammered the nobleman. "We may be watched. I will come to your house tomorrow afternoon."

The Japanese kept his promise. Next afternoon he made his appearance at the humble house of the missionary accompanied by a considerable retinue which remained outside in the street while the samurai entered. Once inside, he announced in a low tone that he had concluded to take the risk—that under the pretense of perfecting his own knowledge of Western science he would come every day and play schoolmaster for a short time. This he did, and this is how Dr. Greene was inducted into the mysteries of the tongue which all Japan was trying to keep from the unwelcome foreigner.

It is too much to say that but for this apparently providential incident the Japanese would have succeeded in safe-guarding their language from foreign appropriation, but it is a fact that it broke down the barrier opposed to Western influence and acquisition. So stubbornly against its acquisition. Dr. Greene's progress was marvelous, and as early as 1878 his Chinese New Testament prepared for Japanese readers was ready for use. Eight years ago he published his Course of Study for Students of the Japanese Language, which has become the standard textbook on the subject. He is also the joint translator of the New Testament into Japanese. When the prohibition against public speaking by foreigners was removed, it was Dr. Greene, who was best prepared to preach in the vernacular, and he has long enjoyed the reputation of being the most capable Japanese scholar in the missionary colony. He has been a resident of Takyo since 1887, and he is as well known on the streets of that distant capital as any lifelong resident of the place.

Archdeacon Thomson's Struggle to Remain in China.

Dec. 21 marked the 50th anniversary of the arrival in China of another of the present day grand old men of the missions, the Rev. Elliott H. Thomson, archdeacon of Shanghai. His going to China was the result of an impluse, not a matter of prolonged deliberation. He was a divinity student at the Virginia Theological Seminary of the Episcopal church when Bishop Boone of China, who had been spending some months in the United States, delivered a lecture at the seminary, and his vivid portrayal of the needs of the China mission so worked on the feelings of the young theologians that seven of them volunteered to go back with him. Elliott Thomson was first to make the decision. Altogether, it was a large missionary party that sailed on that eventful July 10, 1860—Bishop Boone and his wife, four young women missionaries and eight young men. Deacon Thomson is the sole survivor.

It took the ship Golden Rule six months to make the voyage. The archdeacon recalls the fact that the party was on the verge of shipwreck twice and once in danger of being boarded by pirates in the China sea, but nothing more serious happened, and the entire company reached the field in safety. The moment of the arrival of the bishop and his reenforcements was far from propitious. They found the political conditions of the country in great unrest, and there was fighting between the English and French on one side and the Chinese on the other, and the latter were in no mood to discriminate between Caucasians of any description. A strong anti-foreign sentiment dominated the people, and there were fierce riots in the big cities almost daily, resulting in the destruction of property and even loss of life. The interior of the country—the objective point of the newcomers—was closed to foreign influence and residence.

But nothing could abate the enthusiasm of the young Americans who had come to help China. With martyrdom almost in sight, they settled down to such work as could be found for them under the circumstances, and hoped for better things to follow. Still harder trials were in store for them. Just as they began to get in good working order the American Civil war broke out, and that meant an immediate decrease in funds for missionary effort. Instead of the expected remittances, they received peremptory orders for retrenchment.

Some of the band were compelled to return to America, but Elliott Thomson was not among them. When the matter was proposed as an alternative, he announced his intention of remaining on the ground even should he be obliged to work in the rice fields to sustain life. The working force was reduced still further by deaths in the little group—in one instance by violence at the hands of the Chinese mob—and as a crowning blow Bishop Boone died, leaving but two of the hopeful party that had landed in China five years before—Mr. Schereschewsky, who afterward became bishop, and Mr. Thomson. The former soon went to Pekin to continue his Chinese studies, which were destined to be of so great service to future work in China, and Mr. Thomson was left practically alone to represent the American society which had been making such a vigorous effort to do something for the betterment of the coolie population of the river districts.

As Archdeacon Thomson recalls the period, those were the days when the China mission was about as near failure as well could be without the actual fact. Mr. Thomson was not dismayed, and that he was not tells the story of his pluck and power of endurance. He worked and planned and waited and managed to keep things together, hoping all the time that better times were on the way, although he couldn't help admitting to himself that they were rather slow in coming. No one but himself knows how he did it, and he has always been too modest to tell; but he did in some way keep the movement alive and it is due to him that the present China plant of his society is one of the best-planned and best-equipped missions in the Far East. In 1866, with $84 in Mexican money as a starter, he took the first step toward hospital and dispensary work in Shanghai which has resulted in the upbuilding of a great institution that is the charitable glory of the Chinese empire. This pioneer American missionary is also responsible for the foundation and development of St. John's university, a seat of higher learning in Shanghai, with its fine buildings, great influence in the empire and untold possibilities.

The Historian of the Boxer Outbreak.

Another noble and striking figure in the missionary history of the past half century is Dr. Arthur Henderson Smith, who was sent to China in 1872 by the board of foreign missions of the Congregational church, and has been on duty there—with a brief intermission of a few months spent in California for the benefit of his broken health—to the present time. It was at the time of the siege of Pekin, during the Boxer rebellion, that Dr. Smith discovered how great was his popularity among Christian people of all nations. During all that racking period from June to August when the 300 victims of Chinese mob rule were shut up in the embassies, Dr. Smith was the one man whose courage and good nature kept despair at a respectful distance. Of those terror laden days which began with the murder of Baron von Ketteler and developed into the protracted struggle to exterminate the eleven foreign ministers resident in the Chinese capital, Dr. Smith is loth to speak, but his fellow sufferers have not kept silence, and the story of his patient cheerfulness and helpful example is known to all nations. As a further evidence of his popularity it may be stated that Dr. Smith was chosen as historian of those memorable days by the international powers.

William A. P. Martin ranks as doyen of the missionary forces in the Chinese field. He made his beginning at Ningpo, ten years before Archdeacon Thomson settled at Shanghai, and in eight years had become so familiar with the language that he served as interpreter for Minister Reed in negotiating the treaty for China. From the first Dr. Martin succeeded in putting himself on easy terms with the Chinese government and people, and in time became the adviser of the government on matters of international dispute. In recognition of his services he was made a mandarin of the third class in 1885 and a mandarin of the second class twelve years later. Dr. Martin was first president of the Imperial University of China and was also president and professor of international law of Tung Wen college, Pekin, for twenty-six years.

A Half Century of Labor in Turkey.

Dr. Joseph K. Greene has recently returned to America after fifty-one years of service as a missionary in Turkey under the direction of the American Board (Congregational.) During that long period of voluntary expatriation he revisited the United States but three times. Robert A. Hume has been in India thirty-six years in the service of the Congregational board and has been decorated by the government for his efficiency during the famine. Dr. G. A. Wilder, another East India missionary worker for the past thirty years, was recently

REPUBLICAN SUBTERFUGES.

If anybody had doubts as to the moral effect on the Republican party of the election of last November, two or three things that occurred in the message President Taft sent to congress in the following month ought to have removed those doubts. Popular measures received attention that never before had been accorded to them, and if the expiring Republican congress is wise, those particular items will receive attention before March 4. At the same time, it must be recognized that some of the recommendations made by the president are in fact only sops thrown to the nation so that the stigma that became attached to the Republican party after the passage and signing of the Payne tariff atrocity might be removed in some degree, if possible.

One of the measures that is especially transparent in this respect is the president's recommendation regarding a parcels post. Here is what he said in his message.

> With respect to the parcels post, I respectfully recommend its adoption on all rural delivery routes, and that eleven pounds—the international limit—be made the limit of carriage in such post, and this with a view to its general extension when the income of the postoffice will permit, and the postal savings bank shall be fully established.

That sounds very hopeful, with two or three exceptions. In the first place there is the limitation of the service to the rural delivery routes. If the provisions were adopted in just the form the Republican president recommends, you could mail a package weighing eleven pounds from Duluth to anybody living on a rural free delivery route, but you could not send anything above a four-pound package, by mail, to anybody in Superior or St. Paul or Chicago or New York. It means a useless limitation on the use of the postal service extension. How much of the mail business of the country is done on the rural routes, compared with the service to cities? In just the same proportion would the measure benefit the users of the postoffice.

The other two points are to be found in the provision for extension of the parcels post service "when the income of the postoffice will permit" and after "the postal savings bank shall have been fully established." It has been urged in favor of the parcels post that it would increase the income of the department. In spite of this, a Republican president has seen fit to advise limitation of the service to what perhaps is the least remunerative branch of the postal work, and then to tag onto it a financial provision that would delay the extension of the parcels service.

Then there is the phrase, innocent looking enough but surprising in its real meaning, that provides that the parcels post shall not be extended until the postal savings bank shall have been fully established. With that in mind, just recall that the postal savings bank is being tried out in only one city in each state; that the administration intends to give the plan a thorough trial on that basis before extending its operations to the cities where the demand for such a bank is greatest, and that the extension itself depends on what the administration thinks of the way the people in the small towns receive the postal bank. Then you will get some idea of the chances for the extension of the parcels post beyond the rural service, even if congress should condescend to go to the utmost limit that the president has recommended in the matter.

President Taft evidently wants to make a hit, but what a way he has taken to do so! An imperfect experiment with the postal bank, when the system has been in successful operation in other countries for years, and a recommendation for a trifle of parcels post service that still would leave the United States several "whoops and hollers" behind the rest of the civilized world in the matter of postal benefits for the citizens. It is well to welcome even these modified forms of what the people want, and be glad that we have that much. But in the meantime there should be no losing sight of the fact that these concessions, as they stand at present, are nothing more than party subterfuges erected by the Republican administration to try to make the people forget what happened in 1909.

A PLAN WORTH COPYING.

That there is popular interest in the proposed adoption of the commission form of government by Duluth was amply demonstrated last night at the meeting of the Lakeside club. Not only Lakesiders, but a score or more of men from other parts of the city attended the meeting, and every one of them found the discussion intensely interesting. The character of the program prepared and the way in which it worked out fully absolved the Lakeside club from any possible charge of pulling wires for the adoption of the commission plan, for four of the five speakers were known opponents of the plan, and they made the best of their opportunity to fight it openly.

As The Herald has insisted ever since the adoption of the commission plan was broached in this city, it is the duty of every voter to familiarize himself with the details of the question, and by means of such meetings more than in any other way will that purpose be accomplished. The Herald has been a consistent advocate of the commission plan, because it believes that such a form of government would bring the city advantages that it can gain in no other way. But The Herald does not believe that the city should rush into it headlong. For that reason support was given to the proposition that a joint committee of the common council and Commercial club investigate the question, and for the same reason it advocates meetings such as that held last night, so that the voters may become thoroughly familiar with the commission plan and be able to act intelligently when the proposition to adopt that form of government is brought before them at the polls.

There is no reason why the commission form of government cannot stand the test of examination. It has proved successful everywhere it has been tried, and with the adoption of a proper form it would prove successful in Duluth. If other bodies already formed, or if other communities which at present have no such organization will form them, and follow the example of the Lakeside club by throwing open their doors to the men who are advocating and the men who are opposing the adoption of the commission plan in Duluth, the citizens will be in just that much better position to act according to judgment instead of according to prejudice when the matter is presented to them for final decision.

THOSE OPPOSITION ARGUMENTS.

In the meeting held last night by the Lakeside club two aldermen, a lawyer and a Socialist attacked the commission plan of government for cities from their various points of view. Aldermen Getchel and Shartel opposed the plan on the ground that Duluth's present government is exceptionally good and therefore should not be changed, and H. C. Fulton supported them in their contention. Mr. Fulton further protested against the wiping out of the old parties in consideration of municipal affairs, declaring that if that were done the people would divide on other propositions that might be less desirable than these political differences.

As was ably pointed out by S. T. Harrison in a reply to these speakers, the very points which they praised in the present Duluth charter are involved in the Des Moines plan of government. He might have added that because a business is prospering while being conducted along out-of-date lines, is no reason why the owners of the business should not adopt modern methods, in order that that prosperity may be still more increased.

Alderman Shartel presented figures comparing the finances of Des Moines with those of Duluth, and argued from them that Duluth would suffer by the adoption of the commission plan. His argument was plausible, but poorly founded. To find the real results of the commission form of government the present financial conditions of Des Moines should be compared with those which existed there under the old form, and such comparison shows that the city has advanced in every way. He argued further that the plan would fail in a city the size of Duluth, but admitted that Des Moines, where it is hailed as successful, has a larger population than has this city.

As to Mr. Fulton's protest against the elimination of the old parties from city affairs, it would be interesting to know what relation a man's stand on the tariff, for instance, bears to the questions that directly concern the management of the city government.

One point was particularly noticeable in all the arguments against the commission plan presented by the speakers. Every one of them had built up a straw man to kick and beat, and their attacks were made on these dummies instead of against the commission form itself. Just what terms are to be included in the commission charter that will be presented to the voters has not been determined by the charter commission, and until that work is completed, arguments against any particular feature are not worth consideration. It is the principle of the commission form that is before the people for discussion today. Later, when the charter commission has finished its work, the particular provisions of the proposed charter can be praised or condemned. In the meantime the more the voters discuss those basic principles and study the way they have worked out in other cities, the better they will be prepared to act intelligently on the specific propositions the charter commission will lay before them.

If the commission's charter is not satisfactory it should be voted down and another drawn up for presentation, until the citizens get what they want. That has been done in other cities, and it can be done in Duluth. Meanwhile, study the commission form of government; learn what features of it have worked best in other cities, and why they have done so. That is the only way that this city can be sure to get the best charter, and the best is none too good for Duluth.

NOT SO VISIONARY.

When Charles Purdon announced that he will run for congress as a representative from Arizona, with "Five rooms, a bath and a piano for every man who works eight hours a day" as his slogan, some people were inclined to consider the proposition in the light of a harmless joke, with no particular chance that the idea possessed any other quality. Some who were heard to comment on it declared that it was not only an impossible proposition, but thoroughly anarchistic as well.

However that may be, no one has been known to acuse Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, of sociological vagaries, in spite of the fact that he seems to be of the same mind as the former Duluthian whose ambitions trend Washington-ward.

Except for the piano.

The fact that Judge Gary does not go farther than the five rooms and a bath possibly should not be taken to mean he has objections to the presence of the piano in the five-room apartment. The piano is perhaps thrown in by Mr. Purdon merely for good measure, or he is hopeful that its presence adjacent to the bath will contribute to the development of the American taste for music.

At any rate, Judge Gary's wishes were followed largely when Gary, Ind., the new steel city, was built, and one of the requirements was that there should be at least five rooms and a bath for every tenant family.

If a great corporation insists upon five rooms and a bath for its employes, why shouldn't Uncle Sam do the same for his children? asks Mr. Purdon, in effect.

As to the piano,—if every man who works eight hours a day is given a chance to attain the five rooms, and then by reason of less oppressive living conditions is enabled to get the piano, undoubtedly it would be used to thrum out the measures of the national anthem quite as much as for playing any other one "tune."

"Five rooms, a bath and a piano." Really, the mental picture of conditions suggested by the phrase is not at all alarming.

AN OLD BUGABOO IN NEW DRESS.

Did you read "Banzai," by "Parabellum"—that thrilling account of the war between Japan and the United States in which the ease and completeness with which the Orientals seized and held the western part of this country was shown in graphic description? Multiply the disaster to America as portrayed in that book by about a thousand, substitute the element of imminence for the historical aspect, throw in some oratorical flourishes here and there, and you will have a good sample of the kind of material that Gen. Homer Lea has written and which is being published serially in the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune under the title "The Valor of Ignorance."

Gen. Lea would have us believe that the American feeling of security in the event of war is founded purely on past performances and ignorance of the present military and naval condition of the United States. In the light of the recent report of the secretary of war, which was suppressed when an attempt was made to smuggle it into congress, maybe there is some basis for the general's contention. But when he brings Japan into the problem and writes about "the approaching conflict" he draws near to the class of the "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

To prove the inevitableness of "the approaching conflict," which by the way he seems to think may break out at any time, and the sooner the better for Japan, Gen. Lea sketches conditions thus: Japan has not room enough for her people, while the United States has more than she needs; Japan aspires to control of the Pacific, but to effect such control she must have the Philippines and Alaska, both of which are held by the United States; Japan has had several rivals for Far Eastern supremacy, but thirteen years ago she eliminated China by force of arms, four years ago she thrashed Russia out of the running, two years ago she eliminated England by a "subtly accomplished" treaty, and now there remains only the United States between Japan and Pacific supremacy.

To put it more briefly, Uncle Sam has something Japan wants, and Japan is coming after it. Also Japan is going to get it, unless, etc., etc. (The first etc. includes strengthening the American naval and military forces, and the second involves a radical reorganization of the whole system of American military and naval conduct, including continuance of service of the ministries of war and the navy.)

Reading the general's article one wonders at the remarkable remissness of Japan in holding off as long as she has from the conflict, for he says:

> Politically there are no conditions that can restrain Japan from entering into war with this nation. Strong in faith and in the Red Sun of her destiny, Japan began more than two decades ago her predetermined march to the empire of the Pacific. One nation after another, by one means and another, she has removed them from her way. Nothing now remains but the overthrow of this republic's power in the Pacific—and nothing, so far as political restrictions are concerned, prevents her from entering upon this conquest.

Truly, considering her position as the yellow man's hope, Japan has been wonderfully lenient with us thus far. But in his estimate of the likelihood of conflict Gen. Lea has overlooked some points. He contends that Japan would declare war on the United States just as she did on Russia—without warning or apparently ample cause—and that the nations of the world would raise no voice of protest to such action. He forgets, or ignores, the fact that the position of this country among the nations of the world is not to be compared with that which Russia held at the breaking out of the war with Japan.

He claims that England is eliminated from helping America in such a war of conquest by the yellow race, by her treaty with Tokio. But recent cable disaptches say that England probably will not renew that treaty when its expiration occurs within the next year or two.

He forgets that Japan is striving to stand with the highest among the nations of the world, and that an unprovoked war of conquest on another power would ruin any possibility of the attainment of such an ambition. And he forgets that Mongolian supremacy in the Pacific would be opposed by every power in Europe, so that the United States would not be alone in defending herself against the Japanese.

As a treatise on reforms that are possible in American military and naval methods, Gen Lea's article is interesting and no doubt valuable. But as a warning against the yellow peril and possible conquest—it is to laugh.

Senator Bailey says he intends to oppose a tariff commission. Let's see, isn't he one of those senators who are fighting for Lorimer?

Michigan legislators are talking about cutting out the old-fashioned junkets and leaving such work to small committees. Governor Osborn certainly has those people over there thoroughly scared about something.

Almost anybody can understand that George W. Glover might have sentimental reasons for not wishing to see Mrs. Eddy's will broken. Purely sentimental reasons, however.

President Taft visited the highest and lowest spots in the national capital on the same day. The highest was the top of of the Washington monument, and the lowest, singularly enough, was in the senatorial subway.

A Missouri man who claimed to have inherited $300,000 admits it was all a fake. The two automobiles he bought on the strength of his story can properly be referred to as dream bubbles.

King Alfonso is said to be planning to annex Portugal to his kingdom. It doesn't seem possible that Alfonso would do anything so foolish, knowing how rudely those Portuguese interrupted Manuel's game of bridge.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Punishment to Fit the Crime.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The commissioners of Cass county cut the salary of the sheriff from $2,000 to $900 a year. It would afford the sheriff great pleasure to find one of these county fathers violating the law.

He might require them to serve as deputies and set them to hunting down (or up?) the high cost of living.

No Idle Hands Here.

International Falls Press: A farmer told his 12-year-old son to milk the cows, feed the horses, slop the pigs, hunt the eggs, feed the calves, catch the colt and put him in the stables, cut up some wood, stir the cream, split up the kindling wood, pump fresh water on the creamery after supper and to be sure and study his lesson before going to bed. Then he went off to a meeting of the farmers' club to discuss the question, "How to keep the boys on the farm?"

Well, all that ought to hold him for a while.

Inches and Riots.

Proctor Journal: Three barleycorns make an inch, so the table says, and three drinks of barley juice sometimes make a riot.

That's the kernel of the thing.

Concerning the Frieze.

Cass Lake Times: We have been told that our fuel bill may be materially lessened by removing the frieze from the dining room walls. Thanks, awfully, but after mature consideration we think we prefer the frieze on to the frieze out.

It does seem peculiar, but casual observation leads to the conclusion that warm colors predominate in the average frieze.

Eveleth's Stock Holds Out.

Biwabik Times: Eveleth papers continue to boast that W. J. Smith, J. P. Boyle and N. A. Young, all elected to office, are citizens of that town. And they forget to mention the best of all, Neil McInnis, chairman of the county commissioners. Maybe Eveleth is not getting its share of offices! A state treasurer, a state senator, a county superintendent of schools and a county commissioner. We nominate the Hon. Charles McNamara of Eveleth as the Democratic candidate for president.

But the Times lacks credentials as a delegate to the nominating convention. However, the compliment is a proper one.

From Here to There.

Warroad Plaindealer: The correct form in which to express the saying of "Maine to California" in state matters is now from "Eberhart Island to Kanaranzie."

It does sound a terrible long distance.

Cure for What Ails 'Em.

Eveleth Star: The people of Central American countries are reported to be cultivating an intense hatred of the United States. Well, if they can get so mad at us as to cease fighting among themselves, let them go on cultivating.

Mexicans made anti-Yankeeism the pretext for some very savage fighting between themselves, however.

Rhode Island's Habitants.

Winona Independent: Rhode Island is found to have 508½ inhabitants to each square mile, which suggests that there must be a large number of maimed and mutilated citizens.

Maybe the one-half individuals represent the popular strength of Aldrich at home.

Information Too Late.

Princeton Union: News comes from the "dry" belt that vandals have been cutting the tops from pine trees in many localities. Vandals? More likely moonshiners gathering material for the manufacture of that all-fired intoxicant known in Georgia and Florida as "pine-top whisky."

Well, as the lid is off now, perhaps the Northerners will not need to take advantage of Mr. Dunn's helpful suggestion.

Looking Backward.

Carlton Vidette: The fragile quality of New Year's resolutions is not an argument against their manufacture, but gives reason for caution against rough handling.

Many are called but few are garnered.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Reform might do better if it didn't wear such queer clothes.

A good man seems to know it harder than anybody else.

A girl knows better than to let a man kiss, her, and that's why she lets him.

A woman always remembers how foolish she was when she was young; a man never.

Affection that you can't win with a ton of reason you can buy with a lump of sugar.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Most of the things we want we can do without.

The methods of some high financiers are pretty low.

And some people speak as they think, only more frequently.

Some of the men who were born great soon get bravely over it.

The average man tries to get experience in small lots at wholesale rates.

When two people quarrel one is always in the wrong—and often both are.

It is better to be called down by your friends than shown up by your enemies.

About the only time some people will listen to advice is when they are giving it.

The average woman doesn't believe half a man says—unless he is a beauty doctor.

A fussy old bachelor says the tongue of a woman is a dagger, and she never lets it grow rusty.

When a woman has an unattractive figure other women are willing to admit that it is natural.

Occasionally we meet a young man who is willing to go through anything for a girl he loves—including her fortune.

The Night Message.

Brooklyn Times: Without wishing in any way to give free advertising to the Telegraphic Octopus, it is but common fairness to say that no greater benefit has been conferred upon the public than this recent enterprise of the night message, which is in fact a night letter, transmitted by telegraph instead of post. Fifty words if sent at night for the price of a ten-word dispatch if sent by day.

In these tabloid days when short stories and long friendships are in vogue, and twenty-minute sermons are about the extent of Christian tolerance, a person who cannot relieve his mind in fifty words is an anomaly. It is a great saving of ink, an economy of patience, a saving of time.

But a message swiftly sent is a delusion if it is slowly delivered, and a message received at 7 and sent out at 11 makes the mailbag at 2 cents a better friend than the telegraph at 40.

If the operator in the receiving office would send out his message before he reads his paper, fixes his fires, cleans up his desk and swaps the gossip of the morning, it would add to the gaiety of nations. Of course it is too much to expect of the messenger boys that they will risk heart disease by over haste, but the little magnates of the receiving station might, with profit to the enterprise, get busy and get busy early.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

GROWS FACETIOUS ON THE JAIL QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Don't you think the grand jury had a warm spot in its heart for the guests at the St. Louis county hotel? If they are so crowded there, why not send some of them to other hotels? Those guests of the county are getting fat; it is such an improvement over their usual stopping place that they don't care to make a change. In the good old summer time they are content with putting up under the Lake avenue viaduct, where all kinds of sanitary conditions prevail. Don't make the sheriff move. Why not furnish the rest of the county officers with living apartments? The taxpayers will stand for it all right. That would be treating them all alike, except as to salaries.

A. M. NOBEGGAR.

Duluth, Jan. 13.

SAND MIGHT SAVE SOME DAMAGE SUITS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

What is the matter with the city this winter? I haven't noticed that they have been busy with the sand wagon in any part of town. The hills are steep and slippery and a great many of us are taking falls regularly as we start down the hill in the morning, get going and trust to a friendly lamp post or mail box to stop our mad rush. There is more snow this year than any winter that I can remember, and I would suggest that a little sand sprinkled on the steep avenues would not cost the city nearly so much as a few damage suits might.

ONE SLIDER.

Duluth, Jan. 14.

A SENEGAMBIAN IN THE BRUSH PILE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Take it from me, there's a hen on. Concerning public docks, Mayor Cullum is distinctly on the square, but there are wires being pulled and pawns being moved that it behooves old Daniel Greysolon Duluth to notice for a minute, and then some.

Take it from me, Duluth won't have a public dock of any kind—and it ought to be full of them—until something happens to certain innocent bystanders. They are in the city's way and in their own way, but they don't know they're in their own way. They do know they're in the city's way. That's their way. And it's a bad way.

Take it from me, Greysolon, you can get public docks when these fellows get wise to the benefits they will secure if they release their bulldog bite, and not before.

I. M. WISE.

Duluth, Jan. 13.

ANOTHER PLEADS FOR SAND ON SIDEWALKS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Possibly it will be considered none of my business, as I am a traveling man who comes to Duluth but once a week, but it seems to me I have a right to holler anyway. I'm talking about icy sidewalks, may it be understood. In its proper place ice is one of the most delectable things there is in the world, but on the sidewalk—well, please ash it.

How would you like to slip, reach out for the thick parts of the circumambient and miss 'em, and then land on the sidewalk right on the nape of your neck? If you don't think you'd enjoy that, then ash your sidewalk, or show your grit and sand it.

It's all well enough to sit in the window during a rainstorm and get some training as to the proper appreciation of ankles, but in the winter time when sidewalks get icy—don't you think it would be a humanitarian thing to ash your sidewalk?

Seriously and as a matter of fact, Duluthians are mighty good about putting their sidewalks in walkable condition, but some of 'em don't. Wherefore this preachment.

Duluth, Jan. 13.

Wool and Hot Air.

Springfield Republican: An excellent example of what is currently known as "hot air" may be found in a letter read at the recent national convention of wool growers held at Portland, Or. This letter stated that "if adequate protection for wool could be positively assured for the next ten years there would be an enormous increase in the growing of sheep for wool and mutton, and the millions of acres of abandoned farms in the Eastern states would come into profitable use once more, this time as grazing lands for millions of sheep." In the first place no such assurance as is described is within the range of possibility. In the second place, high protection on wool has existed for forty-three years with a brief interval of free wool, and in spite of the continued great growth of the country there are few more sheep than there were twenty-five years ago and fewer than there were seven years ago, during which later period up to within a year or two the high protection tariff on wool was under no threat of abolition or reduction. Compared to area, the United States under high wool protection does not begin to have as many sheep as the free wool countries of England and Germany.

So Mad She Forgot Her Change.

Indianapolis News: The stamp vending machines installed in many stores and shops about the city are not favored by a woman who hurried into a drug store in Massachusetts avenue several days ago, where there is a branch postoffice.

"How do you sell your 2-cent stamps?" she inquired indignantly.

"Two cents apiece," replied Bassett.

"Well, that's all right," she replied, while she fished in her purse for a coin. "This is the fifth place I have visited after stamps. At all the other places they had those slot machines where you have to spend a nickel for two 2-cent stamps. I made up my mind not to be held up if I had to walk all over the city. Give me two stamps."

The woman laid down a dime and hurried out with two 2-cent stamps, leaving 6 cents in change lying on the show case. She did not return.

Uncle Joshua's Age.

Scraps: As every Southerner knows, elderly colored people rarely know how old they are, and almost invariably assume an age much greater than belongs to them. In an Atlanta family there is employed an old chap named Joshua Bolton, who has been with that family and the previous generation for more years than they can remember. In view, therefore, of his advanced age, it was with surprise that his employer received one day an application for a few days off in order that the old fellow might, as he put it, "go up to de old state of Virginny" to see his aunt.

"Your aunt must be pretty old," was the employer's comment.

"Yassir," said Joshua, "she's pretty ole now. I reckon she's 'bout a hundred and ten years ole."

"One hundred and ten! But what on earth is she doing up in Virginia?"

"I don't jest know," explained Joshua, "but I understand she's up dere living wif her grandmother."

In Illinois?

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The Official Investigator—No, there's no doubt about it. The honorable gentleman is entirely innocent of this nefarious bribery charge.

The Bystander—But there are nine persons who swear they were paid to vote for him.

"Infamous traitors!"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Goals and Paths.

Goals are excellent things, particularly at the year's beginning, but paths are important, too. There is the high mountain. What a lovely view from the summit! My willing soul would soar thither, but I am encumbered with hands, feet and body and my spirit must drag them along while I stay in this mortal tenement of clay. So it becomes me to use my common sense and find a path, which, perhaps, others have trodden before me, and which even if it be steep and circuitous, affords a far better chance to scale the height than any heroic but foolish attempt to break through the wilderness alone would furnish.

Tolstoi saw the goal, but he was not an adept in path making or path finding. His one passion was to cut loose from all the trammels of civilization and go where he could, by himself, live the simple, and what was to him, the only rational life. But other men with equally high ideals have felt compelled to adjust themselves more or less to the existing order, and they have gone forward somewhat cautiously along paths that revealed themselves as they went, only in part. Sufficient was it for them to see the track ahead for a single day's march. So these two types of men—called the idealist and the opportunist—appear in all periods of history, and we need both—men like Francis of Assisi and Tolstoi on the one hand, and men like Booker T. Washington on the other hand. If we can have but one type we could more easily dispense with the former, for goals are the essential things, and it is better to have a goal without any apparent path to it, than to have a path leading nowhere. It is forever true that man lives not by bread alone, but by his visions and ideals, his hopes and strivings for the ideal.

But why be limited to one or the other exclusively? Have your goals, keep them in view always, but be willing to take the time necessary in which to find a path. You want the friendship of some person. Perhaps you as a young man had conceived a fondness for a young woman—a perfectly legitimate and honorable passion, but one that in all probability cannot find satisfaction unless you to some extent, fulfill the requirements of one who ought to be reasonably exacting. So begin with the effort to tone up your own life, perhaps to be more careful about personal appearance, maybe to fight the bad habit that is growing on you, to quiet down if you are overboisterous, or brace up if you are sluggish and indolent. Only that kind of a fellow ought to attain the felicity arising from the bestowal of a true girl's love.

So, too, in our life in the family, the community, the church, we need definite objectives far enough before us and high enough up to spur us on. But we need also the power to take one step at a time, to make a path if none already exists, or to improve and widen the path if one is in sight. Those who go about big tasks like the real improvement of a city, either in its artistic, its commercial or its moral side, will succeed in proportion as they are willing to take time enough, and be satisfied with a little progress from day to day, and month to month. This all means willingness and capacity to grapple with an infinite number of small details, but thoroughness and patience at this point will bring the far away goal a little nearer.

You want to be a better man. Who does not, here at the year's beginning? And though you have resolved, and resolved and failed and failed again you are not quite willing to give up the fight. Clarify then your vision of the man you may be, but spend some time also in thinking about ways and means. Are you willing to walk in the paths which others have taken toward the winning heights? That ascending path in most cases leads through the daily use of the Bible, and of that mighty force known as prayer. Consider these well worn but never outworn ways of growth. So as you go on in the path prescribed you will be a year hence closer to the goal of pure and high character.

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY

By SAVOYARD.

We read in the Acts of the Apostles how Saul of Tarsus was suddenly converted to the Christian religion, and we have a strange political conversion of the G. O. P. to the sound policy of trade reciprocity with the Dominion of Canada. It recalls a passage from Shakespeare:

"Who seeks and will not take when once 'tis offer'd Shall never find it more."

Nor will the United States ever receive from Canada the liberal trade convention she besought us to accept more than forty years ago.

In the good old free trade times of Democracy about the middle of the nineteenth century, or earlier, perhaps, we had a trade agreement with Canada that was of great benefit to both countries, though of slightly more advantage to us than to them. Both were greatly pleased with it, and there is not the slightest doubt in the world that there would now be absolute free trade between Canada and the United States if there had been no war between the states.

When the war was concluded, the G. O. P. set about its great stunt of making treason odious. The "truly loil" looked on Canada as a "copperhead" during the war, though she had sent thousands to swell the ranks of the Northern armies, and probably not a corporal's guard to the South. But Canada did what every Anglo-Saxon people has done for centuries—she gave asylum to Confederate fugitives who reached her shores and treated them with hospitality and thus she became a Copperhead and the Republican leaders refused to even consider reciprocity, a flat case of cutting off the nose to spite the face.

It was not because of the tariff, for at that time the Republican party was yet somewhat sane on that question. John Sherman was a low-tariff man on everything but wool. He had just delivered that speech in which he denounced those manufacturers who profited by protection as "robber barons" like those of the Rhine in mediaeval times. Three Republicans out of four will tell you that Henry Watterson invented that simile, some say it came from Frank Hurd, but it came from John Sherman, and the speech is in the old Congressional Globe, for I have there read it. Allison of Iowa was bitterly opposed to protection of all sorts, and David A. Wells, the ablest man of the lot, was an out and outer against protection.

So it was on the question of loyalty that the Republicans rejected Canadian reciprocity then, but after awhile the G. O. P. became insane on the tariff question, owing, possibly, to the "fat" that was fried out of the "robber barons" with which to buy elections. Look at Adams county, Ohio. It is just as bad in rural New York. If Teddy had got the campaign fund he expected to get by his indorsement of the famous Payne-Aldrich bill he would have carried New York last November.

For years and years Canadian reciprocity slept. Canadian laborers—that Pig Iron Kelly called "paupers"—came here by thi tens of thousands and either took the jobs of American laborers or reduced their wages. You see there is absolute free trade in labor, that the tariff barons buy, but there is protection on the product of labor, that the tariff barons sell. Thus they catch the coon "a-comin' an' a-gwine." No wonder New England and Pennsylvania are full of millionaires. The rest of the country has been taxed for them for years and years.

But Canada is now strong and rich and absolutely independent as to the reciprocity treaty with the United States, and it is become manifest that if the thing is consummated, Canada will write a great deal of it herself, at least half and probably more. Indeed, Canada is coy and the United States eager. One thing is certain, we can make no such good trade as we could have made forty years ago.

If the treaty is ratified, we may depend that woods, lumber, and wood pulp will be on the free list. So will wheat and barley. So will fresh fish and cured fish. So will coal. For these our manufactured products will go into Canada free, or many of them.

I expect to see the most strenuous opposition to Canadian reciprocity come from the Democratic cotton South. There are some raw materials down there, and, unmindful of the old Democratic argument that the ultimate consumer pays the tax, our friends there insist that the manufacturer pays it. It is true that the manufacturer pays the duty on lumber, but the man who hitches a mule to the plow, the beam and handles of which are fashioned from that lumber, will repay that manufacturer all he is out because of the duty on lumber. The same is true of wool, of lead, of zinc, of iron ore, of coal, of everything. We Democrats have been doing some tall lying for fifty years and upwards if the consumer does not pay the tax.

The Republican party is in the precise situation in 1910 that the Democratic party was in in 1894. I was talking with a leading Republican statesman the other day, a national figure, whose name I withhold for obvious reasons, and he said that daily he conferred with men of both factions of his party, and that the chasm is constantly widening and the bitterness daily increasing. He crossed this way: "It looks like your party is coming to its senses at last, and if you have the sagacity to nominate Harmon, he will sweep the country cleaner than Grover Cleveland did in 1892."

For years we heard a deal about the reorganization of the Democratic party. Now it is the G. O. P. that they are talking about reorganizing; but how are you going to yoke Bristow, the trust-buster, with Root, the trust-builder? How can you herd Aldrich and Cummins, Dalzell and Murdock, Lodge and La Follette, Cannon and Poindexter, Hale and Clapp?

The insurgents are Democrats without knowing it. True, they talk about moderate protection, but soon they will be bravely over that. Dolliver's last speech was the best campaign document the Democrats distributed last fall, and contributed immensely to the glorious victory of Nov. 8.

There is much talk about the wonderful recuperative powers of the Republican party, but it was never before divided on a matter of principle, and that the vital idea of taxation. There can be no recuperation of the G. O. P. unless one faction surrenders, and neither faction is, or will be, in humor for that.

How can the Democrats lose?

DRAMATIZING SCHOOL INSTRUCTION

Motion Pictures Making Us Nation of Theater-Goers—Teaching Geography and History By Moving Pictures—New Aids for the Teacher.

By JOHN COLLIER,
Educational Secretary, National Board of Censorship of Moving Pictures.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

Motion pictures have made us a nation of theater goers. They carry the beauties of the stage into millions of lives hitherto untouched by dramatic art. They have such a vast repertory that they appeal to practically all social classes and to old and young alike. There are about 10,000 motion picture shows in the United States, with a daily attendance of not less than 4,000,000, of whom probably 400,000 are school children. The estimated audience at all American theaters, other than moving picture houses, is 750,000 a day, and the proportion of children is small.

Motion pictures will be used for many purposes in the schools. From the beginning, educational films have been displayed in the commercial theaters. The National Board of Censorship, in twelve months, inspected 3,000 reels (a reel provides a fifteen-minute show). Of these 400 were catalogued as "Educational." There exists a great range of geographical, industrial and historical reels, already available. The anti-tuberculosis crusade, the pure milk and anti-typhoid campaigns, and similar public reforms, have been dramatized in the motion pictures. These have been exhibited in the regular picture theaters of the conutry and 10,000,000 people have seen them.

The school will use the motion picture because it is graphic and dramatic. The textbook illustration and the stereopticon now provide a graphic element in the curriculum, but the moving picture improves on the stereopticon in every way, even in artistic color effects. The growth of a plant from seed to harvest is shown in a ten-minute space on the screen, not with gaps and halts, but in a continuous process amazing to behold. The almost infinitely swift motion of an insect's wing has been dissected by pictures taken at the rate of 2,000 a second. These can be thrown on the screen at any desired speed. Actual color photography is now a commercial reality in motion pictures.

But motion pictures are not only graphic, they are dramatic. Too much passive instruction weakens the will of a child. The motion picture, when it presents a dramatic theme, impels the child away from a merely receptive attitude and into an active mood. Of course, the school must provide an outlet for the active state awakened. Otherwise the excitement might merely result in nervousness and mischief making. "Education through doing the thing, not merely studying about it," is a watchword of pedagogical reform, and the school which believes this will find a great use for motion pictures. Eye-strain from the flicker and calcium glare can be overcome by any skillful operator and by a careful selection of the pictures displayed.

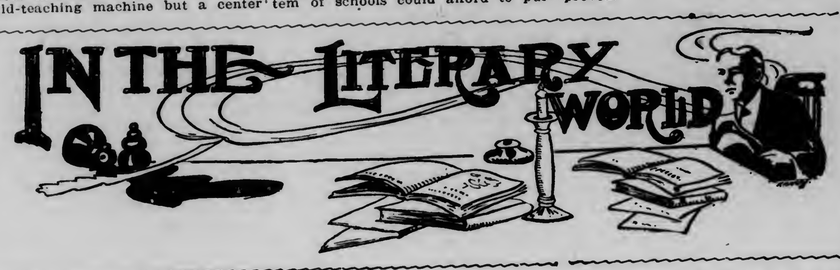

Motion pictures can help to make the school useful to the family of the child and to the community. The school must no longer be a mere child-teaching machine but a center for the family and the community. Motion pictures appeal to the whole family, and combine amusement with education.

They attract people who do not go to the evening lecture centers, the church, or the social settlement. These people pay for admission; they come habitually, and they live intensely and far more broadly during the motion picture hour than during any other part of their day.

Commerce has gotten the better of philanthropy and of municipal goodwill in helping the wage-earning millions to use their leisure constructively and pleasureably. Has not the time come when the school, endowed with a conscious public ideal, should be expected to equip itself with that powerful magnet, the motion picture, which has given to the commercial showhouse its great advantage?

As yet, in America, neither the demand nor the supply for educational motion pictures has been effectively organized. One of two measures are necessary, before motion pictures can be widely used in the schools. A film exchange might be established, dealing exclusively with educational institutions and fitting itself to meet their peculiar needs. Such a circulating library of educational films would be a success on purely business lines. Also a sufficiently large system of schools could afford to purchase its films outright and to use them in rotation, thus gradually building up a permanent library.

The likelihood that all well equipped schools will soon use motion pictures does not threaten the life of the commercial theater. The great public patronizes drama for enjoyment rather than instruction. The school will always be limited in the purely amusing element it can provide, and here the theater will retain its place. The school center which will combine motion pictures with other attractions such as the dance, the gymnasium, the amateur theatrical, will menace the prosperity of the commercial house, just as it will menace the prosperity of the questionable dance hall or pool room. The development of the school on such lines as these will force all places of commercial amusement to improve enormously or to go out of business. The extensive use of motion pictures by the school will elevate the character of films shown in the theaters. If the school meets the responsibility here described, the places of cheap entertainment will all be vastly different, morally and artistically, ten years from now. It is by constructive competition, much more than by restrictive legal measures, that the amusements of the people are going to be improved.

FROM FREEDOM TO DESPOTISM. By Charles M. Hollingsworth. Washington: Charles M. Hollingsworth. $1.50.

Mr. Hollingsworth sees "the finish" of the United States as a republic. He carefully explains that by the term "despotism" he means merely an "accepted and necessary absolutism or autocracy," and does not use the term in any opprobrious sense. He agrees with the late Prof. William Graham Sumner of Yale university in setting the time for this great change as early as the year 1950, but sees in the abandonment of the present form of government and the adoption of the other only a development that is necessary in view of the natural laws that govern national development.

He bases his prediction on the theories that: First, active economic development is a necessary basis for the establishment and maintenance of free government; second, that free institutions inevitably decline as national economic development is completed. He holds that the restraining powers necessary to curb inroads upon freedom by corporations and labor organizations can be exercised only by absolute or autocratic government, and that the people as a whole, coming to see that such is the case, will voluntarily relinquish their representation in the affairs of state and national government, as exercised by congress and the state legislatures, and will put the much needed power in the hands of men in whom they have confidence. There may be violence before the new power is established, he thinks, but such demonstrations will be shortlived, and the result will be "a modernized Caeserism."

The author seeks to cheer his readers by explaining that he is not attempting either to sound an alarm or propound a shock. The latter he holds to be impossible with the American people. As to sounding an alarm in order to prevent the consummation of what he predicts, he says that its prevention is impossible, that the new era is riding this way on one of nature's laws, and cannot be stopped. He sees his mission as one of enlightenment and prophecy rather than of calling to arms. His book is interesting, but beyond that it is dolefully pessimistic, intensely philosophical or deliciously absurd, according to the way you want to look at it. Maybe somebody will agree with him.

BI-LITERAL CYPHER OF FRANCIS BACON—THE LOST MANUSCRIPTS—PROS AND CONS OF THE CONTROVERSY. A Statement of the Studies of Mrs. Elizabeth Wells Gallup. Detroit, Mich.; Howard Publishing company.

Even the most hardened despiser of the whole Shakespeare-Bacon controversy must find his attention arrested by the claims of Mrs. Gallup as to what she has found by her research among the works of Francis Bacon. She goes far beyond the mere literary controversy, and proclaims that by her solution of the bi-literal cypher she has read in the famous jurist's works that he was the son of Queen Elizabeth, the "virgin queen;" that his mother and the Earl of Leicester were married twice, the second marriage following fears of illegality in the first; that he had a brother, the Earl of Essex, afterward executed for plotting against his "mother's" throne; and other matters intimately touching on the reign of the "good Queen Bess." Mrs. Gallup further makes Bacon tell of his own hopes that he might succeed to the English throne, and of his disappointment at the queen's firm refusal to recognize him publicly as her son.

There is much of interest in the description given of the working out of the bi-literal cypher, how it is used as well as what seems to be revealed by it in Bacon's writings. And, of course, there is interest in the account of the lost manuscripts, for the cypher, according to the decipherer, tells where they were hidden.

Regarding the plays themselves there is much said in the Baconian works, it would seem, including the plain declaration that Bacon, or "Prince Francis" as these claims would make him, had assumed Shakespeare's name deliberately, and proposed soon to issue a complete edition of the plays which had been given to the world under the Stratfordian's name.

Probably this edition of Mrs. Gallup's work will revive the old controversy in some circles. In others that part of her report that deals with the authorship of the plays will be passed over completely in the interest that will be found in her biography of Bacon as derived by the study of the cypher. It is sure to prove of the greatest interest to those who care to follow the directions she found to be the key to the study of Bacon's writings and of the plays themselves with a view to digging out the hidden meanings.

Of Books and Writers.

D. Appleton & Co. will publish on Jan. 20 Sir Gaston Maspero's new book, "Egypt: Ancient Sites and Modern Scenes." This new book deals with the aspect of Egypt as it has presented itself to the author on his yearly voyages up and down the Nile to inspect the monuments in his official capacity as director of the Service des Antiquites. M. Maspero is one of the foremost living Egyptologists, and is widely known as the author of "New Light on Ancient Egypt," to which the present book forms a companion volume, and also of "The Passing of the Empires" and "Life in Ancient Egypt and Assyria."

Do earthworms eat meat? How many parents know? Yet this is only one of many such facts which every boy or girl who has read "Earth and Sky Every Child Should now," written by Julia E. Rogers and published by Doubleday, Page & Co., can tell you. In order to prevent being "stumped" by your children's questions along this line you should read this valuable little book yourself some evening before putting it in their hands. There are many pictures to help out this mine of interesting information which every well informed person, young or old, ought to know.

A book to be published by the Macmillan company, early in January is "Neighbors Unknown," by Charles G. D. Roberts, the author of "Kings in Exile," and other well-known tales of the forest and stream and their creatures. The title of this new book is a peculiarly appropriate one. The animals about whom Mr. Roberts has written—the bear, caribou, heron, flying squirrel, panther, lynx, loon and others—are not only unknown to the majority of the readers in the sense that they have seldom watched them from day to day in their native haunts, noting their habits, observing their tricks, watching their struggles for existence, but they are, in this same sense, unknown to many of the authors who venture to write of them. Mr. Roberts, however, knows whereof he speaks. And that is the reason that his stories ring true, that in them one feels the very strength and breath of the wild places.

Woodrow Wilson, inaugurated governor of New Jersey, has added a third sphere to his active life, occupied formerly with educational administration and authorship. From the latter, in fact, the other two may owe much of their success. "A History of the American People," which Woodrow Wilson completed only a few years ago, is such a work as to suggest in its author a president of Princeton university, or a governor. His history, by its intimate style, has probably done as much for Dr. Wilson's fame as any one thing.

George Gibb's new novel will be published by the Appletons on Jan. 20. The title of the book, "The Bolted Door," symbolizes the marital relations between two young people. They have been forced into a marriage against their will by an eccentric millionaire related to them both, who leaves his money to them only on the condition that they will marry. The bolted door is the barrier between their adjoining apartments in the great country house in which they live.

Frank E. Wallis, whose book on architecture and building, "How to Know Architecture," was published last fall, returned from abroad this week. He spent much of his time in Venice. By chance one day he mentioned to his gondolier that the palace around which they were going was erected in 1279. The gondolier was so amazed that any one should know how old buildings were that he told his fellows of Mr. Wallis's mystic powers, which resulted in fee-less gondola rides for the author. Much along this line is one innovation in "How to Know Architecture." The illustrations showing different types and schools of architecture represent buildings in America with which readers of the book are familiar.

A notable contribution to the biographical literature of this country, is found in the "prison diary" of Alexander H. Stephens, brought out recently by Doubleday, Page & Co., of Garden City, L. I. The editor, Myrta L. Avary, in bringing to light and placing in readable literary form this account of the incidents and reflections of the Confederate vice president when he was confined in Fort Warren, Boston Harbor, has performed a valuable service. To the autobiographical material, she has added a sketch of his life. Mr. Stephens' views of the public men and events of his times, illumined throughout by a simplicity and quiet pathos that reveals the kind and wholly charming personality of the man, makes "The Recollections of Alexander H. Stephens" both an important historical work and something of more than ordinary interest to the general reader.

Among the Magazines.

The Keramic Studio for January has for its colored study an orange tree fruit plate, conventional, in gold, by Mabel C. Dibble. The design is most attractive and dainty and is suited for service or fruit plates. The effect on white table linen would be charming. There are other designs in black and white, such as chocolate set, salt dips, daisy borders and a variety of studies to suit all tastes, with descriptive articles treating on same. Quite a lengthy article with full description and directions for raised paste in decorations and for modeling in different forms are contained in this number.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for January 7 is largely devoted to the automobile. Among articles dealing with this subject are: "The Motor in the New Year;" "First Aid to Broken Cars;" "The Well-kept Car 'At Home';" "Motoring on European Highways;" "The Automobile and the Railroad;" "Automobile Horns." In "Joy Riding of the Real Kind" Harold Whiting Slauson contributes a humorous feature to this number. John Kendrick Bangs resumes his amusing "Table d'Hote Talks." George Jean Nathan writes upon "Romances of the Recruiting Offices," and Herman Scheffauer contributes a thrilling story entitled "Laocoon." This issue contains William Winter's review of dramatic conditions in New York and the usual editorial and humor features.

The Newark factory tragedy and the report of the United States immigration commission are the two events which make timely the discussion in this number of the Survey Magazine of our enormous loss from fires and the problems presented by our new racial stocks. The findings of the immigration commission constitute a tale of adventure, a narrative of exploration on the part of tens of thousands of "undistinguished Americans" into the fastnesses of a new world. The results of the work are summarized by W. Jett Lauck, Alexander J. Cance, E. A. Goldenweiser and H. Parker Willis, experts in the employ of the commission and by Joseph Lee, Grace Abbott and Paul U. Kellogg. The commission is in favor of restriction for it finds that the immigrants who come for economic reasons purely are an economic menace and prevent any permanent raising of our own standard.

The fire peril is discussed as a disease to which buildings are subject and which must be fought by preventive measures just as a campaign against tuberculosis is necessary. The three articles on the subject are by Peter Joseph McKeon, H. E. J. Porter, both of whom are fire experts, and Mary Brown Sumner. Other features are "Forest Hills Gardens," by Grosvenor Atterbury, "The Cost of the Cranberry Sauce," Owen R. Lovejoy, "Social Principles of the New State Constitutions," A. J. McKelway, and "Industrial Survey of the Month," Graham Taylor.

Cyrus Townsend Brady contributes the complete novel to the Smart Set for February. In this story, "As the Sparks Fly Upward," this well known author treats of a situation that is unusual but which has engrossed the minds of men ever since civilization forged the shackles of convention around matrimony—the attitude toward each other of a man and a woman marooned and alone on a desolate island. It is a tale of a modern Adam and Eve in a South Pacific paradise. Dr. Brady treats the subject with great delicacy and charm, and has written an absorbing story full of both tender sentiment and stirring action.

Jules Eckert Goodman contributes a story of Paris artist life, "A Lady of the Harem;" G. Vere Tyler, in "As It Was in the Beginning," paints a vivid picture of a wife who drifts into the Bohemia of New York city—and, just escapes; Adele Luehrmann, in a clever sketch, "Disciples of Art," satirizes the American "personally conducted" tourist's attitude toward European art galleries; Louise E. Eberle tells in "The Woman Who Wasn't" of a wierd happening that bore all the characteristics of a supernatural influence; "The Greater Motive," by Viola Burhans, is an unusual story of a prize fight; "Who Pays?" by T. D. Pendleton; "A Red Rose," by Mr. and Mrs. William Chester Esterbrook; and "Mrs. Mallory" by Mrs. James Carstairs, Jr., are unusual stories. Other features are by William J. Lampton, Paul Reese, Florence M. King, Irene Elliott Benson, Harold Susman, Helen Woljeska and others. Charles Hanson Towne tells of "Society—Inside and Out," and E. Phillips Oppenheim's great novel "Havoc" is continued.

GRAND OLD MEN OF THE FOREIGN MISSION FIELD

attacked by a leopard while making a horseback tour of the interior missions and has returned to this country for rest and treatment.

Dr. Joseph Crane Hartzell, Methodist missionary bishop in Africa, has made seven journeys through the Dark Continent and has established outposts in many localities unknown to modern civilization. Bishop Samuel D. Ferguson, himself a colored man, has been in active service in the Cape Palmas district of Liberia for twenty-five years. Bishop Hartzell and his brother prelate met recently at Monrovia and the former waxed enthusiastic over the size of his diocese.

"Why," he declared, "my diocese comprises all the mountains, rivers, deserts, lakes, veldts and forests between the Cape and Cairo in one direction and Sierra Leone and Delagoa bay in the other. Stanley's pygmies are my parishioners and so are the khalifa's waning hosts. I expect it will take me several hundred years to make the acquaintance of my people."

"If you expect to retain your good health and optimism for that length of time I should advise you to see very little of Liberia," said his Episcopalian brother, dryly. "I have been here only twenty-six years, and you see what the climate and other things have done for me."

James H. Ballagh, missionary of the Reformed Church in America, has been in continuous service in Japan since 1861. This church has recently lost its most famous missionary, Rev. Dr. Jared Scudder, who at the time of his death, Oct. 17, 1910, had completed fifty-five years of work in the East Indian field, the longest service ever rendered by an individual missionary in the history of the Reformed Church's board of missions. There have been Scudders in India since the work of evangelization began in that land and there are Scudders remaining to carry on the work. Dr. John Scudder was one of the founders of medical missionary work in Asia, and his seven sons—now all passed to their reward—were missionaries. Up to date, the united Scudder family has contributed about a thousand years in the aggregate to the uplifting of India.

Recently the Chinese government conferred the order of the Double Dragon on the Rev. Frederick Brown, a Methodist missionary in the Middle Kingdom since 1882. This is an honor seldom offered to a foreigner and was due to Mr. Brown's valuable service at the time of the Boxer outbreak in guiding some of the relieving troops to Pekin. For many years Mr. Brown has been a leader among the reform element in Northern China in the effort to abolish foot binding and opium smoking.

Herriman C. Harris, Methodist bishop of Korea, was among the earliest missionaries of that denomination in Japan, going there in 1878. Three years ago he was elected bishop of Korea and a native Japanese bishop took his place at Yedo. And by no means least among the grand old men of the foreign missions is Dr. Henry W. Boone, son of the famous Bishop Boone, who has been a medical missionary in China for more than thirty years and is now in charge of St. Luke's hospital at Shanghai. Dr. Boone has become thoroughly domesticated in China, having married the daughter of a native clergyman.

SOCIETY

The musical side has been the strong feature of Duluth social activities during the past week. The St. Paul Symphony orchestra concerts on Monday and Tuesday are the main social events of next week and Miss Miller's concert last Tuesday evening attracted more interest than any event this week. Miss Miller and her accompanist, Carl Bernthaler presented a delightfully artistic program which charmed all who heard it.

Bishop Morrison's lecture before the members of the Twentieth Century club was also of intense interest and his second one which is to be given Tuesday, Jan. 24 is eagerly anticipated.

The Young Women's Christian association will commence a membership contest next Wednesday, working in two teams with a banquet in view for the members of the winning side. The banquet will be given on Feb. 17.

The club women are interested in the question of the Denegre bill which is now before the legislature to repeal the law requiring the signature of the wife in the transfer of property and the matter will be discussed at all their meetings. This subject was brought up at a meeting held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Burris by the presidents of all the clubs and definite action was deferred until more information on the subject could be obtained.

Weddings

At a simple wedding service Wednesday morning at the Sacred Heart cathedral, Miss Florence Meining, daughter of Mrs. L. C. Meining, became the bride of Albert R. Sheff of Superior.

She was daintily gowned in white messaline and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Ora Cyr, the maid of honor, wore tan messaline.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Richard Sheff, as best man. John R. Meining gave the bride away.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, 922½ West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheff have left for a short trip and will be at home after Feb. 1, at 1104 Baxter avenue, Superior, Wis.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white net and point lace over white silk and carried roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hattie Duff, her sister, as maid of honor wore a gown of pink silk and carried pink roses. George Petersol was best man. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Cordelia De La Vey and Miss May Bailey sang.

WEST END NEWS

NOT A "POOR DISTRICT"

Claimed That 75 Per Cent of Garfield Avenue Residents Own Homes.

Only Two Families From That District Under County's Care.

THE CHARITY WORKERS LOOK AT IT THIS WAY.

"Fifty or sixty families on the avenue are really in need."—Rev. J. A. Roberts of the Garfield Avenue Mission.

"Its certainly a poor district, all one has to do is to look at it to find that out."—Courtnay Dun- widdie, secretary of the Associ- ated Charities.

"I would say that there are about thirty-five or forty poor families on Garfield avenue."— Capt. Fred Krause of the Salva- tion Army.

"The people are mostly for- eigners and work for $1.50 and $2 a day and have large fam- ilies."—Rev. J. A. Roberts.

"Garfield avenue might be com- pared to the tenement districts of the larger cities." — Capt. Fred Krause.

"Economy is often mistaken for real poverty among certain class- es."—Capt. Fred Krause.

OTHERS VIEW IT FROM ANOTHER STANDPOINT.

"There is no more poverty to be found on Garfield avenue than any other section of the city."— Annie McDougall, a property owner.

"Garfield avenue is not a poor district and I believe that 75 per cent of the people living here own their own homes."—Thomas Jensen, grocer.

"The foreigners living on the avenue are of an industrious and economical sort and send money back to the old country." — Miss McDougall.

"Garfield avenue people pay their bills the same as any one else and they are not 'dead beats'" Jensen, the grocer.

"There are only two cases handled, at the present time, on Garfield avenue, from this office." —Charles Shogran, clerk of the county board of poor commission- ers.

Garfield avenue rentals are lower than in any other section of the city.

Is the poverty of Garfield avenue real or imagined?

Charity workers, the city over, say that it is real and that it is a "poor district," and it was pointed out by Mrs. Crane when she visited Duluth, as one of the districts presenting a hous- ing problem. But Miss Anna McDou- gall, living at 18 East Tenth street and for several years a property-owner on the avenue, takes issue with them, mildly asserting that Garfield avenue people are not poor.

Miss McDougall is not unsupported in statements. The Garfield avenue grocery man or meat dealer will cor- roborate her statements. Some cases of drunkenness from there have come to the attention of the police, she ad- mits, but as far as real poverty is concerned, there is no more than to be found in many other sections of the city, she asserts

Thomas Jensen, grocer for several years at 604 Garfield avenue and who depends almost entirely on Garfield avenue people for his patronage, says that Garfield avenue is not a "poor dis- trict." "Seventy-five per cent of the people on the thoroughfare own their own homes" he declared.

"There is little if any property for sale on Garfield avenue," said Miss Mc- Dougall "and a majority of the people there own their own homes. A few rent and they have the advantage in their favor as rentals are very low."

For $9 a month, a four-room house with most of the modern conveniences, such as water, gas, etc., a big front yard fenced in, and good accommoda- tions in the rear for wood, may be rented. A rental of $10 is about as high as is paid on the avenue, except in instances where tenants have leased a brick flat, as modern as any up- town, for $21 a month.

"If there is real poverty on Garfield avenue, why is it that you cannot hire a man to do a few odd jobs for less than 50 cents an hour?" some one asks.

Miss McDougall even goes a little further and says that a number of the supposedly poor people on the avenue have real bank accounts. There are many foreigners of an industrious and economical type who live on the ave- nue. Many of them save their earn- ings to send back to the old country.

One Case in Point.

An amusing story is told of how a "squatter," a woman, who had a little shanty on a local coal company's prop- erty, near the head of Garfield avenue, was put off the grounds to make way for improvements.

It is related that she pathetically told the company officials of her pov- erty-stricken plight appealing to their charitable instincts to such an extent that they moved her shanty for her to another spot and gave her $50.

A week or so later, it is said that the poor old lady visited a bank down town, withdrew $1,000 and purchased a lot down the avenue a short way Since that time, she has constructed a substantial dwelling house and gossip says that she has $1,300 loaned out.

Mr. Jensen the grocer states that his Garfield avenue patrons are not "dead beats." They pay their bills like the people of any other district of the city.

Property owners on the thorough- fare are laboring under unusual dif- ficulties at the present time and yet the people who own their homes seem to be up through it and pay their grocery bills and meet other obliga- tions. Street assessments are high on account of the new paving which will amount to $65 per 25-foot lot on the avenue this year. There are also as- sessments for new sidewalks. Insur- ance rates are very high on Garfield avenue, the average rate being $4.35 per $100 per year.

Mission Worker's Views.

Prominent among the charity work- ers interested in the Garfield avenue district is Rev. J. A. Roberts of the Garfield avenue mission. He says that Garfield avenue is a poor district and that there are at least fifty or sixty families on the avenue that are in need. "It is true that most of the men are employed," says Rev. Mr. Roberts, "but they mostly work for $1.50 and $2 a day and have large families to support." Rev. Mr. Roberts is look- ing after the Garfield avenue work for the Associated Charities.

Courtenay Dunwiddie, secretary of the Associated Charities, when asked in regard to the situation, stated that he had left Garfield avenue affairs to Rev. Mr. Roberts and that he was not in as good a position to be quoted as Rev. Mr. Roberts. Asked as to whether he considered Garfield avenue a poor district he stated: "It certainly is a poor district, all one has to do is to go down and look at it to find that out."

The Salvation army distributed be- tween ten and fifteen Christmas din- ners to the poor on Garfield avenue in addition to those distributed by the charity workers in the churches of the West end.

Capt. Fred Krause, who is in charge of the Salvation Army industrial and relief store at 1606 West Superior street, near the head of Garfield ave- nue, says that he has many calls for clothing, furniture and other neces- sities from Garfield avenue people.

Capt. Krause does not think that the poverty on Garfield is feigned in many instances. "Economy leading almost to privation, is often mistaken for real poverty among certain classes," he said.

"As a rule," continued Capt. Krause, "the people who come into our store from Garfield avenue do not beg, for if they did investigation would gen- erally show that they were not of a deserving sort. Poverty-stricken peo- ple, generally don't ask outsiders for help."

"Garfield avenue," says Capt. Krause, "might be compared in a way to the tenement districts or slums of the larger cities. I say slums, not because of vice, but on account of the poverty which I really believe exists on the avenue. Garfield avenue people have the advantage of fresh air, perhaps too much in the coldest weather, and the homes are not crowded such as in a tenement district. Roughly estimat- ing, I would say that there are between thirty-five and forty really poor fam- ilies on Garfield avenue."

Strange as it may seem, there are only two county poor commissioner cases on Garfield avenue at this time, according to Charles Shogran, clerk of the board of poor commissioners at the courthouse. He stated that the cases only required the expenditure of a few dollars a month for groceries and fuel.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS PAGE

TALE OF A STUFFED CAT.

I'M just a small toy cat made of black woolen cloth and stuffed with cotton. That is, I suppose I'm stuffed with cotton. I've never seen inside, of course, and only have my suspicions regarding the substance which fills my woolen hide.

Well, you may think, my children, that it is great fun being a toy cat, but I assure you it is not so. My days are spent in the nursery, where naughty, noisy children play with me in a pully-wooly fashion. And my nights—oh, my nights that should be spent in back yards and on fences—are passed in the same dull nursery, where I take cat-naps during the darkness. And I should much prefer catching mice, or yawling out on a back fence, I can tell you.

Well, one day I really thought there was to be some excitement in my life. Jack Plyers, the Czar of the nursery, came bouncing in—yes, bouncing's the word that describes his movements, for he never just walks—and tore open a wrapped box which he carried. And while he was doing this, in a rough, noisy way, in comes his sister, a tiny maiden given to eating candy and crying if a person looked cross-eyed at her. Well, in she comes, and asks the Czar what he has in the bundle.

"One of your legs is too short."

"I've got a new animal for my menagerie," says the Czar. "Say, stand back, Sis. Don't come too close for I have a bulldog in here that might bite you."

Well, it was a sight to make even a toy cat smile the way that little girl, whose name is Baby, ran and began to cry. "Oh, mamma, Jack's brought home a bulldog to bite me." And away she went down a few of the stairs, yelling louder than a sure-enough cat can yawl when having a fight. As I said, she ran down a few of the steps, then she tumbled the rest of the way to the hall-floor below. I could hear her mother saying: "Ah, why will big bruver frighten you with those toy animals! Mamma'll have to chastise him if he does so any more." Then the little girl went off somewhere, for I heard nothing more of her. Now, if that had been the Czar of the nursery going down the stairs he never would have hit a single step. He goes down on the banister like a cat goes up a tree, as fast as a bird flies. Yes, I guess a bit faster.

Well, to return to my story. Jack, the Czar of the nursery, tore open the box and set down on the floor the wickedest-looking bulldog one ever saw in Toyland. His eyes gleamed fiercely, his tail stuck straight out, what there was of it. Had it been longer it would have stuck out straighter, I guess, and been more dangerous. And one of his ears stood up while the other bent forward, as if listening to catch the sound of a cat's paw. I stood very still for quite a while wondering what would happen. There, close to the bulldog, stood a very wild tiger. I never had liked the tiger, seeing that it belonged to my species and was much larger, fiercer and stronger than I. So I had always let that kinsman of mine alone. Also, I had never cultivated the acquaintance of the giraffe, for I feared that he might take me into his mouth and lift me to the top of the nursery and then let me drop, go splash on the floor. As for the toy mouse, I had ignored the thing entirely, for it was not quick or even wild.

Well, I wondered what that bulldog would do when he caught the eye of the tiger full upon him. I expected to see some excitement then, sure. But to my disgust, he didn't even bark. He looked directly into the tiger's face. Then he tumbled over and all four feet stuck stiffly into the air. Well, if I am only a stuffed cat, covered with black woolen cloth, I laughed till my whiskers shook as though a wind were blowing against them. But the Czar of the nursery didn't even smile. He stooped down and picked up the bulldog, saying: "One of your legs is too short—or two crooked. I'll have to fix it." Then he set to work pulling and straightening one of the dog's hind legs. This gave me some consolation. I knew that that bulldog could never be a great fighter if one of his legs was out of whack. If any difference of opinion came between him and me, I would know on which side to attack him. I'd rush at him on the long-legged side and push him over.

Well, the Czar tried the bulldog again; set him down very carefully on the floor, right in front of me. And the horrid creature glared right into my eyes and I am sure he snarled. I fuzzed my tail and said "Spat, spat!" right at him. But he never budged an inch. There he stood, wobbling a bit on that uncertain leg. The tiger again cast one of his wild eyes on him and over again went that bulldog. It was plain that he would never be able to stand on his own legs, so Jack, the Czar, grabbed him up, chucked him into the box, went down the banister with the box under his arm and called out to his mother below stairs: "Mamma, I bought a toy dog today from Toney Pike's shop, and he won't stand up. I'm going to take him back and get my money refunded. I'd rather have some marbles than the dog, anyway."

And since then no dog has ever entered the nursery. And I find life rather dull here, especially of nights, when, true to my cat nature, I should be out in the cold world yawling on a back fence or sitting in a dark cellar at a mouse hole, watching for game. Ah, the life of a stuffed, woolen-cloth covered toy cat has nothing to commend it I can tell you children.

A LONG STORY.

"Can your dachshund stand on his hind legs?"

"Yes; but I never let him—he's too apt to hurt himself."

"Hurt himself? How?"

"By bumping his head against the ceiling."

JAKEY AND THE FAIRIES.

JAKEY had been to town, having carried a large basket of freshly-popped popcorn to market. His good mother had prepared the popcorn in sweetened balls, and knew just how to make it crisp and toothsome, for she had a little son of her own who loved the dainty, and it had been through her having fixed the popcorn-balls for him that she had conceived the idea of preparing it for other children.

One shopkeeper in the town always bought Jakey's supply of popcorn and gave the little chap a very good price for it. In this way Jakey and his mother were enabled to earn a few extra coins each week, helping out the family storehouse of provisions, for the family was very poor. Jakey's father being a small farmer with a stingy piece of land from which he could scarcely get a living. And on this evening of which I write, Jakey was homeward bound, a smile on his face and a glad sensation warming his heart. He had an extra sum of money in his pocket that evening, for a very wealthy lady had seen him passing her house with his basket piled with popcorn-balls, and had called out to him to come to her. Jakey stopped at her door and she bargained for the basket of popcorn at once. She was giving a party that night for her little daughter, and wanted the corn dainties for the little guests. But after receiving twice the sum for the corn that the shopkeeper would have given him, Jakey felt that he must go on into town and explain to his regular patron that he had sold the basket of popcorn to the wealthy lady, and that he would come on the following day with another basketful for him.

The old shopkeeper (whose shop held everything from a darning-needle to a bass drum—candy, confections of every kind, toys included) told Jakey that he had done the right thing. "Always strike a good bargain, my lad, whenever you can," he said. "But you must remember your old friends at the same time. Eh?"

"Yes, sir," said Jakey. "I wouldn't think of failing you. Daddy Grime." (Everybody called the old shopkeeper "Daddy Grime.") "I shall fetch a larger supply of corn to you tomorrow, sir."

And so it was that Jakey was happy as he went homeward that winter evening, trudging through the snow. And as he hurried along the sky suddenly became overcast with clouds and snow began falling rapidly. Jakey quickened his footsteps, for it was late—the evening having already settled down, and the storm would increase with nightfall. It always took a day for Jakey to make the journey to town, for he was obliged to go afoot, and his basket was big and heavy, very heavy going, but lighter on returning.

It still wanted three miles to Jakey's home when the darkness filled the mountain valley through which lay his path. And as the road was often steep and irregular, deep crevices lying along the base of the mountain on either side of it, Jakey became uncertain of his footing and picked his way carefully. Just at a turn in the road his foot slipped in the snow and he went down a deep embankment. Over and over he and his basket rolled, reaching the bottom of the gully without other injury than fright to Jakey and a broken handle to the basket. Jakey picked himself up and stood clinging to an ice-covered tree trunk which was conveniently near. He tried looking upward, but the snow and sleet filled his eyes and blinded him. So he bent his head, wondering what to do.

Then Jakey tried climbing the steep bank, but his feet would slip backwards at every attempt. Repeatedly did he grasp the body of the tree and pull himself upwards just to slip backwards again. At last, fatigued and chilled to the marrow, he dropped on the ground in despair. "Oh, what shall I do?" he cried in very woe. "I shall freeze here—If I don't find some sort of shelter. And my dear father and mother will be so anxious and worried, too, when I do not reach home at the regular hour. Oh, what ill luck has attended me!"

Jakey took up his basket and turned it over his head and shoulders. It helped to protect him from the fast-falling snow. There he stood, clinging to the tree trunk, the basket sheltering him but poorly, and the storm increasing with the darkness. He never was in such a dilemma before, and being only a boy of 12 years of age, he could be excused if tears came into his eyes and a lump in his throat.

"Oh, what is to become of me?" he wailed. "And how poor papa and mamma will grieve when they find my frozen body! And dear old Daddy Grime—he'll think me untrustworthy when tomorrow comes, and I fail to carry to him the basket of popcorn. Now that this misfortune has befallen me. I am sorry that I did not take the popcorn to him today instead of selling it to the rich lady."

"Ah! It will do admirably."

Just then something soft touched his arm, and Jakey looked from under the basket. It was not the falling snow. Neither was it the wind. It was a small creature muffled in fur to his neck. "Ah, ha, my lad, you are in trouble." So spoke the little fellow who had laid a gloved hand on Jakey's shoulder.

"Yes, my good stranger," replied Jakey, feeling glad of someone's company, even though that one be a most undersized and strange-looking person. "Yes, I have slipped from the road above us to this spot and vainly have I tried to get out of it."

"Ah, ha," said the stranger. "I see you are in quite a pickle. Well, well, well, let's see what's to be done. How far do you live from here, lad?"

"Three miles," replied Jakey. "And my parents are looking for me at this very minute—or very soon, at any rate, if not at this very minute."

"Well, well, well, the good folk must not be kept in suspense," said the small fellow. "We'll have to take you home in a jiffy—or in a sleigh, which would perhaps suit you better. Eh?" And the fellow roared with laughter, the music of it ringing out above the storm. "We'll try a couple of these tree branches for horses," he said, breaking off two small limbs from the tree to which Jakey had been clinging. "And how about your basket for a sleigh?" he asked, taking it from Jakey's head. "Ah, it will do admirably."

Then as he set to work, tying the branches to the basket by means of strips of bark peeled from the frozen tree trunk, Jakey looked on in deepest wonder. Was the little fellow mad? Was he escaped from a place where only lunatics were kept? Only an insane person or a fool would play at tree branches being horses and a basket a sleigh. And the fellow was not a fool.

But while Jakey was thinking thus the branches began to tremble and to rise from the ground. Then right before Jakey's eyes they took the shape and size of small horses, and began stamping the ground and biting the bits in their mouths, for the bark thongs had become harness. Then the most peculiar thing happened. Jakey's popcorn basket became a fine sleigh, filled with fur robes. Into this sleigh the little man bade Jakey to step, he following. When both were seated the little stranger clucked to the spirited horses and away they flew over the valley that lay between the two mountains. As they rode along Jakey's companion became confidential. "I'm a riddle to you, Lad, eh?" he asked.

"Yes, you are. But I thank you from my heart for the great service you are doing me."

"Well, I am the snow fairy," said the little fellow. "You see, on very bad nights the weaker fairies remain inside their warm, snug houses in the clouds, and only the strong ones—like myself—go forth to succor those in need of assistance. After leaving you I shall hurry to your neighbor's farm, for he has a fine cow that will freeze unless I fix her stable. The wind has blown the roof off and the farmer doesn't know it.

Before Jakey could make a word of reply, the sleigh had dashed up in front of his own home, the bells ringing merrily. And out sprang Jakey, rushing to his own cottage door to call to his parents to come and offer thanks of gratitude to the fairy who had befriended him—who had surely saved his life. But while tapping at the door, he looked round to see if the fairy was still in the sleigh. Ah, not even the sleigh was there! Fairy, horses, sleigh had disappeared. And on the ground where they had been lay his basket, one handle broken off.

When Jakey's father and mother hastened to open the door they cried out in greeting: "Oh, son, how happy we are that you have arrived safely home. We had become a bit uneasy, for the storm is so violent, and the darkness heavy. But did you have a lift on the way? We heard sleighbells just now, and hoped that some good doctor coming from the town to see a country patient had given you a ride in his sleigh."

Jakey got his basket from the snow and went into the house. "I have a strange story, papa and mamma," he said. "But first, let's have supper. Then while mamma is fixing another basket of popcorn I'll relate the strange thing that happened to me tonight. But—I am glad we all believe in fairies. Otherwise I'd have frozen in the gully tonight."

A RIDDLE.

A JET black crow sat on a fence
Beside a snow white dove.
Their shadows lay beneath them
For the sun was strong above.

THE dove said: "It's quite natural
Your shadow's black as ink;
But mine's the same, you will observe,
Why is that do you think?"

LITTLE COUSIN MATINA.

NOW, Annette, I know you will be happy when I tell you that your little cousin Matina is coming to spend the remainder of the winter at our house. You have always wished for a sister or a brother, and in a way, your wish is coming true. Matina will be just like a little sister to you."

Annette was dressing for school when her mother gave her this bit of information. Mrs. Sparks had just received a letter from her sister, Mrs. Grey, saying that she was sending her little girl, Mattie (they always called Matina Mattie for short) to spend a couple of months with her. "The little dear looks pale, and I think the fresh air of a country town will do her a world of good. I want her to run and romp out of doors with Annette, and get strong and rosy. In the city she is housed up too much. So I am giving her to you, sister dear, to keep for me till the spring comes."

So had Mrs. Grey written to Mrs. Sparks, and Mrs. Sparks was breaking the good news to Annette as the latter was preparing for school.

But, to Mrs. Sparks' surprise, Annette did not evince any great joy over the news of her little cousin's coming. Later she said: "I hope, mamma, that Matina won't take all my friends away from me. You know, a city girl is so beautiful and so smart that all the girls like them awfully. And Katherine Grant just loves to have a city chum. You know she got acquainted last summer with Rachel Mannering, and to this day she is talking about Rachel. She hardly came to see me while the Manneringe were here. I do hope cousin Matina won't steal away my friends."

"Why, my dear child," said Mrs. Sparks in an aggrieved tone. "I never could have believed that that horrid, green-eyed monster could find lodgment in my little Annette's heart for a single moment. You should be most happy to have all your friends love Matina, your dear little cousin. And I thought you would jump up and down with joy over Matina's coming. It's been three years since you last saw her. How she must have grown. She's just six months younger than you."

Annette looked a bit ashamed at what she had said, and after kissing her mother good-by, she ran to school. All the way there she kept saying to herself: "Even if the girls do prefer Matina to me, I shall be glad. She is my dear little cousin, and I must love her like a sister. But—I do hope I shan't look ugly or be stupid beside her. She has lived in a city all her life, and I in a country town."

The following week Matina arrived. Mrs. Sparks and Annette went to the railroad station to meet her. As the distance from the city to the town covered only one day's journey, Matina made the trip alone, her mother having intrusted her to the conductor's care.

When Matina stepped upon the platform Annette's heart gave a throb of pity. If there had been the shadow of jealousy lurking there it disappeared as soon as her eyes fell on the face of her city cousin. Matina was a most delicate little maid, her face wan and cheerless. Her mother had had good reason for sending her to a country town, for she was a frail blossom that would wither and die in the hot-house city.

After Mrs. Sparks and Annette had kissed the little visitor, and the three were seated in the town bus, going towards the Sparks' home, Matina looked with admiring eyes on Annette. "Oh, how big and tall you are, Cousin Annette," she cried. "And your cheeks are ever so red—as red as the beautiful actresses' cheeks. Only yours are natural and look so, while the actresses paint their faces and they look painted. I hope my cheeks will get like yours, cousin Annette."

"Oh, they will, dear," said Mrs. Sparks. "When you return to your daddy and mommy in the spring they'll hardly know their little girl. Instead of a dear little lily they'll have a pretty pink rose."

Matina's pale face flushed with the pleasure that her good aunt's promise gave her. And Annette was pleased, too, for she wished from the bottom of her heart that Matina might become strong and rosy-cheeked like herself.

Annette took Matina to school the following day, but to her surprise her little cousin did not become a great favorite with the girls. In the first place, Matina made no pretense toward "style." She was plain as a tiny Quakeress. Her face was serious, and she paid close attention to her lessons and would not whisper when teacher's back was turned, as many of the girls did.

At recess, the weather being cold, Matina knew she must not remain out in the snow many minutes together, and kept running away from the game of snowball to warm her hands and feet over the register in the schoolhouse hall.

And so the week went by, Matina making friends, but not very enthusiastic ones. She was too quiet and serious to please many of the high-spirited, fun-loving children of her age. But with every day Annette's love for her city cousin grew and deepened. Not only did she love her, but her warmest sympathies were aroused. She resented her best friends' indifference toward Matina. She had come to look upon dear little Matina as a sister, not as a mere cousin. And she wanted more than anything that the girls of her class should "make a fuss," so to speak, over Matina. She wanted them to put Matina first and herself last when choosing partners for games.

One day at school Catherine Grant, the oldest and tallest girl of Annette's set, called Annette aside and whispered: "Say, Nettie, I'm going to have a little bob-sled party tomorrow evening after supper and I want you to come. Papa and mamma are going to get the big bob-sled from Mr. Tyler's stable and take me and my invited friends. We'll be out for two hours—from 6 till 8. Can you come?"

For a moment great joy of anticipation surged through Annette. She dearly loved big bob-sled parties. Nothing else was quite such fun. But suddenly a thought came to her. Catherine had not mentioned Matina. She would not go if her little cousin were not included in the party.

"Am I to fetch Matina?" she asked of Catherine.

Catherine looked a bit confused. "Oh, you see, Nettie, the sled holds only 10 besides papa and mamma, so I have to leave out lots of my friends. No, I can't invite Matina. Besides, Nettie, you'll own up that Matina is awfully dull."

Annette's eyes flashed fire. "Matina is the brightest girl I know," she retorted with spirit. "She reads books and books, and she's seen things—hundreds of them—that we country girls know nothing about. She isn't dull, but she's very delicate. And she's growing stronger here in the country. Why, yesterday her cheeks were pink when we came in from play. And mamma noticed it, too. And she's gained three pounds since coming here. I couldn't think of going without her, Catherine."

Catherine looked uncertain. "I'll see if I can tuck her in somehow," she said. "Maybe some of the girls I have invited can't go. In that case I'll have Matina go."

"Thank you ever so much for the invitation," said Annette. "But I don't want to spoil any of your plans. So, if you don't mind, I'll not go. You may ask someone in my place, Catherine. I'd not feel like taking Matina—after what you just said."

And so the matter was closed so far as Annette was concerned. But the evening of Catherine's bob-sled party a lively time was had in the Sparks' home. Mr. and Mrs. Sparks and Matina and Annette had a little party to themselves. They played Blind Man's Buff for half an hour, Matina enjoying the game hugely. Then followed candy-making for another half hour. Then Mr. Sparks read a funny short story to them, after which good-nights were said and all were off to bed. And as Mrs. Sparks and Annette went up the stairs, following Mr. Sparks and Matina, Annette whispered to her mother:

"Mamma, somehow, I don't miss my old friends so much when Mattie is with us. She takes the place of outsiders. I love her very dearly and shall stick up for her in everything."

"No more of the old green-eyed monster in my little girlie's heart, over her city cousin," smiled Mrs. Sparks.

"No, indeed, mamma. And when a girl intentionally slights Mattie I fly into quite a temper, for I want everyone to love Mattie. She's such a darling sister."

Little White Lamb

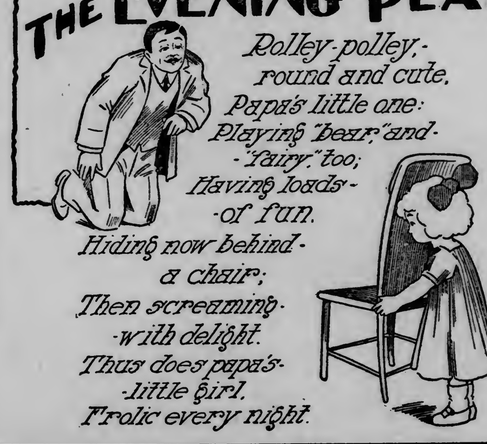

LITTLE White Lamb,
In clover so deep;
Little White Lamb
Lying snugly asleep.
Angels are hovering
O'er Little Lamb White,
Watching him tenderly
All through the night.
And when the warm sun
Comes rosy and red
Little White Lamb
Will leap from his bed.

"They played blind man's buff."

THE EVENING PLAY

HERDS OF REINDEER.

FEW people in this country are aware that just across the line from Alaska, at the edge of the Rocky Mountains in the British possessions, there are vast herds of wild reindeer. There is a reason for this situation, however, which makes it pretty clear. For the past two years these reindeer have been imported from Siberia. This is also the reason why the reindeer are getting so scarce in Siberia. The Indians in the Far North eat the reindeer meat, which is one of their main articles of food.

The oldest organ in use is located on the Island of Gothland, in the Baltic Sea. It dates back a thousand years.

NURSE TELLS OF CURES BY CUTICURA

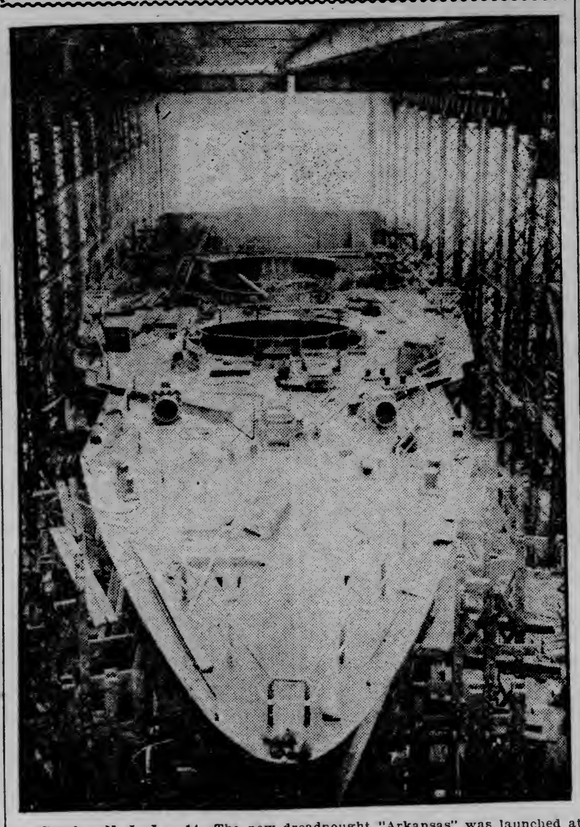

Soap and Ointment in Past 20 Years. Always Recommends Them.

"I have seen the Cuticura Remedies used with best results during the past twenty years. In my work as a nurse, many skin disease cases came under my observation, and in every instance, I always recommended the Cuticura Remedies as they always gave entire satisfaction. One case in particular was that of a lady friend of mine who, when a child, was afflicted with eczema which covered her face and hands entirely, breaking out at intervals with severer torture. She could not go to school as the disfigurement looked terrible. I told her to get at once a set of the Cuticura Remedies. After the use of only one set she was perfectly well. A grown lady friend was afflicted with salt rheum in one of her thumbs, and she was cured by the Cuticura Remedies. Still another lady had dry salt rheum in both palms of her hands every fall of the year. They used to be so painful she could scarcely wet her hands until she began to use the Cuticura Remedies which cured her. I have also seen them cure children of ringworm. The children's faces would be all circles and rings around the cheeks, and the neck, and after treatment with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, they were completely cured. My husband had rheumatism on his arm and I used the Cuticura Ointment. It made his arm as limber and nice, whereas it was quite stiff before I began to apply the Ointment.

"Last May I had an ingrowing toe-nail which was very painful, as the side of the nail was edging right down in the side of my toe. I cut the nail out of the cavity it made, and of course applied the Cuticura Ointment to the part affected. It soothed it and in less than ten nights it was all healed through constant use of the Ointment. Ten days ago, I had my left hand and wrist burned with boiling lard, and Cuticura Ointment has completely cured them. I have just recommended the Cuticura Remedies to another friend, and she is pleased with the results and is recovering nicely. I will gladly furnish the names of the people referred to above if anybody doubts what I say." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Hederson, 77 Highland Ave., Malden, Mass., Oct. 1, 1910.

Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass., for free Cuticura booklet on the treatment of skin and scalp troubles.

NEW DREADNOUGHT OF THE NAVY LAUNCHED

Camden, N. J., Jan. 14—The new dreadnought "Arkansas" was launched at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding company today. Secretary Meyer of the navy department was present and the vessel was named by Miss Mary L. Macon, daughter of Representative Macon of Arkansas. President Taft had intended to attend, but was unable to do so. The "Arkansas" will be one of the greatest ships in the navy. Her displacement is 26,000 tons and her horse power 28,000. She is expected to make twenty knots an hour.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

As is the custom after the Christmas holidays, the members of the senior class are requested to select topics upon which to write their senior essays. Last Wednesday Mr. Sprague had the seniors bring their selections to him for he wishes to look them over and reject those which he thinks are not suitable.

The senior class held its meeting Wednesday. The main purpose of the meeting was to instruct the seniors to have their class pictures taken as soon as possible. The pictures will be made at Dworshak's studio this year and it is the object of the class to have them finished in six weeks' time.

The Zenith board met Monday and decided to offer the following prizes: For the best story, $5.00; frontispiece, $4.00; poem, $3.00, and finished collection of drawings, $2.00. Any high school student may try for any of these prizes, the only restriction being that the work must be in before March 1. The Zenith board has commenced work in earnest and the different committees are working hard with the hopes of making their publication of the Zenith the best ever.

Plans for the senior class play are already under way. A comedy dealing with school life but based upon the plot of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," has been selected. Mr. Custance will again take charge of the work of selecting the cast and drilling the members in their parts. The cast has not yet been selected, but Mr. Custance is already at work and expects to announce it within a short time.

A street scene and a chorus of boys and girls will be introduced in the play, and according to Mr. Custance, will make a hit with the high school students.

The musical society met Tuesday. Miss Frances Woodbridge sang the "Hero Song," from "The Chocolate Soldier." The members of the society are working hard on the mid-year concert, which will be given in a short time.

The junior class held a special meeting Friday. Ward Brown was elected captain of the hockey team. In a short speech, he urged all the junior boys to come out for the team. The date of the junior mid-year party was set for Feb. 10. The class decided to invite the other classes to attend their party which will be given at the high school. The class decided not to have a banquet for the reason that there are not suitable arrangements in the school building to prepare one.

The Forum met Friday and one of the members suggested that they give a sleighride. Another member made known the fact that the Anonia members were considering the same question, whereupon a third member suggested, that since the Forum would have to invite girls to their sleighride and since the girls of the Anonia could not possibly get along without boys at their party, that the two clubs come to an agreement and hold their sleighrides at the same time and place, with the understanding that the girls furnish the lunch and the boys attend to any other difficulties that might arise. The girls have not been heard from upon this question, so it is not definitely known whether or not the sleighride will take place.

The Anonia met last Monday and decided to give a play. Next Monday an important meeting will be held, at which the try-outs for the different parts of the play will take place. All candidates are requested to hand their names to Violet Flaaten before Monday.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS ARE UNCHANGED

New York, Jan. 14.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Business conditions remain substantially unchanged. From different leading cities come reports which indicate a diversity of conditions with, on the whole, a fair degree of activity. While at most centers the lull usual after the holidays is still in evidence to some extent, it is no more pronounced than in previous years and at many points there are signs of reviving activity. In some lines the receipt of a satisfactory volume of spring orders is already reported.

Interest in iron and steel centers largely on developments in the export trade. Recent reports from abroad include an important contract for tin plate, while a substantial tonnage of structural material has been sold in Canada for bridge building purposes. The difficulty regarding specifications on the Pennsylvania railroad order for 150,000 tons of rails has been adjusted and the outlook in this division is considered brighter, as several new inquiries are pending. Further purchases of 220 locomotives are reported, and it is believed that considerable business has been held up in finished lines owing to uncertainty regarding prices. In pig iron, cast iron pipe interests are reported to have been active buyers of late and it is understood that contracts for an additional substantial tonnage will be placed if satisfactory terms can be arranged.

More buyers are in the dry goods markets attending the openings of cotton blankets, men's wear and other lines, the operations having been more satisfactory. There has been considerable activity in bleached cottons, and advances were made of one-quarter of a cent a yard on Lonsdales and half a cent on fruit of the loom. Export trade is steady but light. The difficulties attending the securing of prices commensurate with the costs of production have forced meetings of manufacturers in cotton centers for the purpose of restricting the output and preventing accumulations from high cost cotton.

The somewhat firmer tendency of the hide market last week has not been continued and at present the situation is decidedly weak.

OREGON AND UTAH.

Census Bureau Issues Figures for the Thirteenth Census.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Oregon's cities having a population in excess of 5,000 contributed 55.2 per cent of that state's total increase of 2...229 during the last decade. Portland's increase was 81.5 per cent of the total increase of these cities and 36 per cent of the state's total.

Statistics of the Oregon cities of over 5,000 issued yesterday show seven, an increase of four since 1900. Most of them showed large percentages of increase. Medford heads the list with an increase of 393.5 per cent. The other large increases were Salem, with 231 per cent and Eugene with 178.8 per cent; Portland with 129.2 per cent and Ashland with 90.5 per cent. None of the cities showed a loss.

In Utah there are only four cities having a population in excess of 5,000 according to statistics issued today. They contributed 55.1 per cent of the state's total increase of 96,602 during the past ten years. Their increase was 65.4 per cent over the population in 1900. Their percentage of increase was: Salt Lake City, 73.3; Ogden, 56.8; Provo, 44.3 and Logan 38.2.

TO MINE NEAR HINCKLEY.

Big Eddy Mining Company to Prospect for Copper.

Hinckley, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Big Eddy Mining company has been organized to operate in this section, with these officers: A. D. Wilson, president; D. J. Wilson, vice president, and E. A. Phinney, secretary treasurer.

This company is the result of a long investigation of the copper prospects on the land on which the company expect to mine. Mr. Wilson has owned part of the land for a long time. Several years ago he began a careful exploration of it and one winter had a crew of men sink a shaft. What he learned then caused him to put on a drill the next winter with which to more fully explore below the surface and several holes were drilled.

The core from these drill holes was carefully saved and assays made from it at different depths. The result of the assays convinced the owners, who had used their own money in doing the prospecting, that there was paying ore in sufficient quantity to make it worth mining.

Mr. Wilson was here this week and says that active work will begin almost immediately. He expects the machinery to be here and at the mine some time in February.

Whiskey for Colds

Fine Formula for Old Time Remedy Cured Thousands Here Last Winter.

The increased use of whiskey for colds is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. Mix as follows: "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Put these into half a pint of good whiskey. Shake well and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. This treatment often knocks the worst cough or cold in a day. But be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If the druggist does not have it in stock he will quickly get it. Don't experiment with cheap uncertain mixtures. It is very risky.

DULUTH REAL ESTATE MEN SEE ACTIVE YEAR AHEAD

Period of Unusual Quietness Expected to Be Followed By Activity.

Inquiry From Eastern Capitalists and Other Outside Interests.

The real estate market just now is interested almost solely in prospects. Closed deals are few and far between, for this is one of the periods of the year when the office expenses of the real estate man are paid from the commissions of other months. The real estate selling forces are not idle, however, for many deals are in the air and attempts are being made to bring them to earth.

With snow on the ground and the temperature below zero most of the time, few real estate men expect to do much business. It is not a time when people want to be troubled with any interests except those of their particular business. Few are interested in real estate they can't look at, and many others, interested in deals pending, do not get around to close them.

A note of optimism is sounded by real estate men, however. They see the biggest, best, busiest year in the history of Duluth in the current year, and they are preparing for it. Everything is favorable for a boom—not a senseless, hysterical boom, but a sane, business activity, based on actual facts and conditions. A booming city means a booming real estate market, and those who were disappointed in the developments of last year may have the edge removed from their disappointment during the year now opening.

Inquiry is still increasing in volume and most of it is coming from Eastern capitalists. Duluth people who have traveled in the East since the $10,000,000 steel plant permit was issued and since the census figures were made public, say that Duluth enters frequently into the conversation of big business men with money to invest in good property in growing cities. Although the growth of 48.1 per cent during the past ten years was great, greater things are predicted for the next ten years and capitalists regard Duluth as one of the coming cities of the decade.

It will be two years or so before the steel plant will operate, but during that time there will be great activity in preparation for the increase in business and the influx of population which will come at that time. Other industries will come in and other business enterprises will be launched. Railroad, dock and mill workers will come from other districts to make their homes here and assist in the building up of Greater Duluth.

All those things are seen more clearly by people outside of the city than by people living here. Much of the profit made in land deals in Duluth during the past five years went to outside interests because they had the foresight to see what the effect of developments would be upon Duluth property values. Before Duluth people had awakened, Eastern dealers had come into the market and had made some of the most profitable speculative and investment ventures and home people saw the profits go outside of the city.

'Twas ever thus. The people outside see the opportunities before those on the ground. It will not be so in the future, however. The Duluth dealers have been drilling into people the information that opportunities are here and unless the home people take advantage of them, outside capitalists will do so. There isn't a question but that these opportunities will be snapped up by somebody and the people here on the ground should be first to get in on them.

The sales of residence lots on easy terms are already on, not only in Duluth, but in outside cities, principally near Duluth. In the range towns, a great number of dealers are selling Duluth building lots on easy terms and are meeting with success. Range people are anxious to become interested in Duluth property and when the opportunity is offered them on such easy terms as they are able to obtain, they are not slow in taking advantage of it.

Steps will be taken early in the spring to hurry the building of new roads and the extension of electric railways on the hill above the city. People interested in land in that district are anxious to put it on the market in small tracts on easy terms, not only for the profits that will accrue to them, but for the building up of a prosperous market garden district, which will be a benefit to the entire city. Market garden tracts in that district sold readily last year and with the proposed new roads and street railway extensions much more ready sale for them will be obtained.

This week was the quietest in a long while in the office of the register of deeds. Very few warranty deeds covering city property were filed and they were nearly all for low-priced residence lots.

ATTRACTIVE BRICK HOUSE WHICH WOULD COST $7,500 TO BUILD HERE

Again our design is for an inexpensive brick house, and we cannot better use this space than in describing some of the possibilities of good bricks and mortar. Americans are outgrowing the desire for and delight in shingles, and siding and probably few would select these materials if allowed, an unhampered choice. These conditions in the building world bring the use of more permanent materials, and as the transition from perishable materials to permanent materials will have to be but little marked, the use of bricks and mortar seems to be the solution. Brickwork has been used from time immemorial, and man has found no substitute for it.

Project bricks at the cornices of a building and the result ofttimes adds much dignity and force to the composition. Several bricks may be acceded or propected boldly or even so little, and a panel effect is obtained.

A zig-zag series of projecting and sunken bricks may bring forth a dentil or modillion course. By different colored headers, vertical or horozontal or diagonal, can be achieved in walls. Effects of light and shade upon the wall through the careful study of these values, can be increased or diminished, according to his will. Spots, masses and lines of shadow can be accomplished with little effort.

The plans show a very convenient little house of six rooms. The entrance through a vestibule gives direct access to the basement stairs and the kitchen, and by ascending three steps to the large living room, which room, with the dining room and sun room are admirably set out. The second floor plan consists of three nicely arranged bedrooms with ample closet space and a large bathroom. The attic could be finished with two large bedrooms and a bathroom, and a large storeroom.

The finish would be stained oak in living, dining and sun room, birch in kitchen and enamelled pine on second and attic floors, with maple floors throughout.

The cost of the house in Duluth or vicinity complete with heating and plumbing would be about $7,500.

BUILDING IS CHECKED BY THE INTENSE COLD

Little Outside Work Possible During the Past Two Weeks.

Architects and Builders Are Optimistic for Coming Year.

With the mercury far below the zero mark, builders are able to do little outside work and no progress is being made on buildings which are not enclosed. Much work was planned for this winter and a large part of it had progressed no farther than the foundation when the prolonged cold snap set in. Superstructure work was stopped almost entirely and building has been given a severe setback.

Last winter was one of the best for building Duluth has ever had and it was expetced last fall that this winter would equal it. Many people who had planned buildings decided to delay the work, however, and it is just as well, perhaps, for contractors would not have been able to make the progress contemplated.

The volume of work is great, however, especially in residence building, and if the cold snap lets up now and is not followed by another as severe, good progress will be possible.

The optimism which was noticeable last week among the architects has increased in intensity and those mirrors of building prospects are shining brightly. They look forward to one of the best years Duluth has had for a long time. Drafting forces are busy on sketches or plans and the next month should bring out some announcements of plans which will bear out the optimism now being shown.

The fall was very quiet and December was exceptionally so. Architects must have work in their hands for some time before they will announce it and few announcements are being made now in consequence. A number of architects say they have important work on hand, however, and the nature of it will come out within the next few weeks.

The announcement of total building throughout the country for the year just closed is somewhat disappointing, for there was a falling off of about 7 per cent in the totals for the large cities of the country. A number of the growing cities made great gains, notably Little Rock, Atlanta, Columbus and Portland, but other cities, including New York, Salt Lake City, Tacoma and Scranton showed a falling off.

F. L. Young & Co. are making plans for a frame residence for W. D. Weeks at Spooner, Minn. Plans are also being prepared for the First State bank at Spooner. It will be a modern brick building.

P. M. Olsen is taking bids on the frame residence to be built for R. D. Haig, Jr., and C. S. Haig on East Fourth street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues east. The contracts will be let next week. The building will cost about $4,000.

Bids will be opened and the contracts let next week for the theater at Hancock, Mich., for which Mr. Olsen prepared plans.

Mr. Olsen is also preparing plans for a frame residence to be built by the Alliance Real Estate corporation on East Fourth street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues east. Three residences will be built by the company there during the summer.

The permits issued by Building Inspector S. M. Kielley during the past week follow:

To Quayle & Larson, installation of gasoline tank, West Michigan street, between Lake and First avenues	125

GETTING PLANS FOR BATHHOUSE

Duluth Will Have One of Most Modern Establishments of Kind.

Samuel Kassmir, who has for many years conducted a bath establishment in Duluth, located in the McKay hotel building, plans to give this city the very best Turkish bathhouse that any city in the West boasts of, and to that end he is going to make a trip that will include several states of the Union for the purpose of learning what has been achieved in his line in all the cities he visits.

Mr. Kassmir leaves tonight for Milwaukee, where he will inspect St. Joseph's sanitarium. Then he will go to Chicago, Pittsburg, Philadelphia and Cincinnati, inspecting sanitariums in each of these cities.

He will be gone from the city three or four weeks and will, when he returns, make use of the ideas he has been able to find and make the Kassmir bathrooms the very acme of perfection. Mr. Kassmir is well known in this city and adjacent territory as a professional masseur, who has relieved the rheumatic ailments of scores of St. Louis county men and of visitors to the city without number.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Prof. Gray Talks on Need of More Practical Courses.

Dr. John H. Gray, professor of economics at the University of Minnesota, delivered the first of the season's lectures on agricultural subjects at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. He spoke of industrial education with special reference to agriculture and held the interest of his audience closely.

Dr. Gray speaks as one with authority and when he pointed out defects in present day educational methods, there was behind his remarks a knowledge of conditions and methods that gave an exceptionally convincing force to his remarks. He advocated the teaching of courses in the schools that will be more practical in their results than are those now taught. Manual training, domestic science and agricultural teaching were his chief topics.

When the speaker warmed up to his subject he was one of the most intensely interesting talkers ever heard here. He discussed the growth of educational forces in a broad way and said that the birth of universities in the Mississippi valley was the birth of democracy in education, quoting from James Bryce. He said that the structure of American educational work is upside down, that the reformation of that condition is being made from the top rather than from the bottom, as it could be more reasonably done, but that it is being worked out.

The next of the agricultural series will be a dual number, C. E. Rose and Arthur Crassweller being the speakers. That will be Jan. 27, at the Y. M. C. A.

COMMISSION FORM IS ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

Lakeside Club Hears Discussion of New Plan of Government.

Two Aldermen Uphold Present System—S. T. Harrison for Change.

The commission form of government was discussed from every angle by speakers in the town hall at Lakeside last night. S. T. Harrison advocated the commission form and John A. Keyes, Alderman Joseph Shartel, Alderman W. B. Getchell and H. C. Fulton spoke against it. Mr. Keyes discussed the proposition from the viewpoint of a Socialist while Mr. Getchell, Mr. Fulton and Mr. Shartel thought it a poor substitute for the present form of municipal government.

The town hall was packed and there were several degrees of enthusiasm uncorked. A majority of the audience was evidently in favor of a commission form of government but sentiment was sufficently divided so that the encomiums showered on the orators were scattered about and nobody got a lion's share. The debate reminded one of the old fashioned discussions of public questions that are coming back into style again. It was a warm meeting from start to finish, the men most concerned wading into the situation with vigor.

President Alexandr G. McKnight of the Lakeside club dispensed with preliminaries and promptly at 8 o'clock he tapped the gong for the first round. Attorney S. T. Harrison jumped into the ring and began to put in some effective licks for municipal government by a commission. He reviewed the plans of Galveston, Des Moines, Houston and a few other towns with the commission form of government. The cities have been greatly benefitted, he said, although some adopted the plan when they were suffering from calamities resulting from the vagaries of climatic conditions. Galveston, for instance, was recovering from the flood when it changed its government.

Mr. Harrison detailed the workings of the commission form of government and disposed of a frequent charge against it, by saying that while corrupt men might be elected under a commission form of government yet the people held the wires and could oust them, while under the present method of municipal government somebody else held the wires when corrupt men were placed in office.

Alderman W. B. Getchell said a commission of five men would not be representative. He said the charter of Duluth is satisfactory and that most people know nothing about it anyway and do not know if they want to change it. The people have the initiative and referendum on franchises to public service corporations. He said the commission form of government would be expensive because of the high salaried commissioners and their high salaried experts.

Socialist Viewpoint.

John A. Keyes told the crowd a few things that most of them didn't know when he discussed the commission form of government from the viewpoint of a Socialist. He said a Socialist could not accept a substitute for a truly democratic government although modern Socialists are willing to help along the evolution of government, society and economic conditions in order that the ultimate form of government may embody Socialistic ideas. A commission form of government, said Mr. Keyes, would delay the arrival of Socialism as the dominant factor in municipal government. Mr. Harrison pointed out that this statement of Mr. Keyes was in favor of the commission form of government, because Socialism feeds upon the discontent of the people with the present political, social and economic conditions.

Mr. Keyes said the means of production and distribution should be owned by the people and that 50,000,000 Socialists in the world, representing the world's greatest single political movement, think the same, so that he is not alone in his beliefs. He told how Socialists have captured control of several German cities and have given them the best government in their history and how all political leaders concede that so far as they have gone the Socialists have given Milwaukee the best government in its history. These administrations do not represent ultimate Socialism, said Mr. Keyes, but they are milestones in the way of progress.

Mr. Keyes declared that the organization of mankind must be founded upon a scientific basis and that the structure must be reared upward. He said the masses must be educated and that their thought and their efforts must be so girded that the change in political government, in social conditions and in economic environment will be evolutionary. He said the change will be in the nature of a slow, bloodless revolution rather than in a reformation.

Alderman Shartel Opposed.

Alderman Shartel said the commission form of government is exorbitantly expensive. He displayed some figures which, he said, showed that the city of Des Moines had an area of several square miles less than Duluth, a population of 10,000 more but a per capita cost of maintenance of $1 more than the per capita cost of running the city of Duluth.

"When I was in favor of the commission form of government," said the alderman, "folk said I was after a job as commissioner. When I had investigated the commission form of government I became unfavorable to it and when I said I didn't like it some people said I was afraid I might lose my job."

Mr. Shartel said the aldermanic body has stood between the people and the railways in granting franchises and that it was due to the efforts of the aldermen that the Wisconsin Central franchise was the most favorable this town had granted. Somebody in the audience wanted to know if C. S. Wilson, then city attorney, didn't have something to say about the Wisconsin Central franchise, but Mr. Shartel did not hear the remark.

H. C. Fulton said government by commission is like a hobble skirt. He said it would be a serious mistake to throw away the charter which Duluth had been a long time in formulating. He said the situation reminded him of the inscription on a Connecticut gravestone, "I was well; I wanted to be better; I took medicine, and here I am." Mr. Fulton declared the present form of municipal government is satisfactory and that political opposition as manifested in the present system of party government is a success.

Mr. Fulton said cities are better governed than railroads which, he declared, have not changed their system of administration in ten years. This remark caused some amusement in the corner of the room where the railroad men were carrying on a discussion over an article in this week's Saturday Evening Post, which declares that because the methods of railroading have been so revolutionized in the last ten years that on decreasing revenues per ton mile the net profits have almost tripled. Mr. Fulton's discourse was founded on "Let well enough alone."

Mayor Cullum made a short speech on municipal docks, saying that with Chicago about to spend $10,000,000 for these improvements it is time for Duluth to get into the game and acquire a few.

SEEKS IDEAS IN DULUTH

New Mayor of Fort William, Ont., Studies Conditions Here.

Visits Industrial Plants and Talks With Officials and Business Men.

Capt. C. S. Young, mayor of Fort William, Ont., is in the city with several other officials of that city, for the purpose of garnering ideas that can be adapted to the needs of Fort William.

This morning, accompanied by Chairman W. H. Hamilton of the Fort William board of public works, Chairman W. A. Dowler of the park commission, and W. J. Ross, a member of the joint railways board, Mayor Young visited a number of Duluth industrial plants and surveyed the city generally. Later he was at the Commercial club and got acquainted with many local business men and many local civic conditions, through them.

Mayor Young succeeds L. L. Peltier as chief magistrate of the Canadian city. He took office Jan. 10. According to the Times-Journal of the city he rules, the new mayor has some positive ideas relative to administering municipal affairs. That paper says:

"Results, not intention, is what the new administration will take into consideration when judging the heads of departments, and other city officials whose appointments are within the jurisdiction of the city council.

"Mayor Young has announced that his office hour will be between 11 a. m. and 12 o'clock noon daily, except Sundays and holidays. It is understood that appointments with him shall be made by the city clerk and he is not to be bothered with details which the officials are paid to handle.

"It is understood that he is going to place himself in a position which will enable him to know whether or not public business is being attended to by the officials paid to attend to it and that as long as the work is done there will be no interference but incompetency will be rewarded with a polite but speedy dismissal.

"Department heads and officials generally expressed themselves as pleased with the reputed policy of the mayor. They say they are willing to accept responsibility if given authority and they are willing to be judged by the results attained."

While in the city the Fort William delegation is investigating all questions here that will tend to enlighten them as to how to meet similar problems in their home town. In their travels about the city today they were accompanied by a number of Duluth business men.

Mayor Young and his party are guests at the Spalding. They leave for Fort William tonight.

ICE HARBOR IN OHIO RIVER.

Popular Mechanics: In connection with the million dollar dam that has been constructed in the Ohio river twelve miles below Cincinnati the Unied Saates government has built an ice harbor in which the river craft may take refuge in the winter and early spring from the masses of floating ice that has caused millions of dollars worth of damage in past years.

The harbor is solid concrete, re-enforced with steel, and is the first to be built in the Ohio. It is large enough to afford ample protection against ice runs to all the craft in its vicinity.

DULUTH REAL ESTATE MEN SEE ACTIVE YEAR AHEAD

PROFITS IN WHEAT

Longs Sell in the Face of a Holiday---Market Closes Lower.

Scattered Precipitation in the Southwest Is Expected to Prove Beneficial.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 14.—The wheat market eased off today and values closed weak. Trading was dull and there was very little significance to the day's developments in the news world. After working diligently for a week the bulls took a slice off of the profit account and watched values decline to the same levels that prevailed at the beginning of the week.

The weather in the Southwest will be milder and the snow line has been pushed further into the winter wheat states. The precipitation in the winter wheat states in the last few days has been scattered, but reports indicate that in some regions the new fall of snow probably will prove beneficial. While a firm foundation has been laid for a winter wheat scare there was selling today by people who have been banking on the condition of the winter wheat crop to put up values. The crop scare cannot be said to have started. It is rather early to spring a healthy scare. Even in the Patten year when prices of wheat advanced from January to July the bulls did not strain themselves so early in killing the winter wheat crop.

Foreign developments were inconsequential. Some improvement was reported in Southern Russia, where the weather was said to be milder. A wire from Winnipeg said the Northwestern Grain Dealers' association estimated 12,000,000 bu of wheat in farmers' hands, 10,000,000 bu in country elevators, and 6,000,000 bu at the Canadian Head of the Lakes. Big mills will use 10,000,000 bu leaving 18,000,000 bu for export.

May wheat lost ½c and July declined ½c. Cash was 1c under May, oats lost ⅜c, rye was unchanged, durum lost ⅛c and barley was unchanged. May flax advanced 2c. Crushers bought a little stuff. May closed at $2.61. Winnipeg closed at $2.45 bid. The market is tight with indications of an advance. Cash was 3c under May.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Slow Cash Demand and Cheaper Foreign Offers Weakens Price.

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Bigger and cheaper Australian and Argentine offers at Liverpool weakened wheat here today. The easy tone and free realizing at the English market were sufficiently depressing in themselves but the bearish effect was added to by the fact that the domestic cash demand was slow, and the flour trade even more so. Although on the other hand there was moisture Southwest as predicted, the amount proved meager, and temperatures were lower with a cold wave working south. The opening was ⅛@¼c under last night. May started at $1.01½ to $1.01⅝@1.01¾c, a loss of ⅛@¼c to ⅜c and declined to $1.01¼.

Purchases by a leading long led to a temporary rally. The close, however, was easy with May at $1.01¼, a net loss of ⅜c.

Generally seasonable weather and expected large receipts rendered corn somewhat heavy. May opened ⅛@¼c down at 49⅞@50c and sank to 49⅝c.

Support from commission houses failed to hold prices. The close though was steady with May at 49¾, a net loss of ⅜c.

Huge sales by a leading elevator concern made the props in the oats pit a little unsteady. May started unchanged to ⅛c off at 34⅜@34⅝c and fell to 34⅜c.

Provisions dragged because of lack of demand. First sales were the same as last night to 5c lower, with May options at $19.10 for pork, $10.10 for lard and $10.07½ to $10.10 for ribs.

AS TO PRAISING MEN.

New York Sun: "I used to think," said a man now older than he was, "that no man ought ever to be praised, that it was up to every man to do his duty and to work to the best of his ability without praise or coddling, but I think a little differently about that now. I think now occasionally when a man has done a good thing it does no harm to pat him on the back a little.

"You have to use discrimination about this, I will admit. There are men who, if you praise them, get a swelled head, throw out their chests and think they are the whole works and straightway begin to deteriorate or to require praise all the time, but there's an astonishing number of men of quite another sort.

"I know lots of men who work not only faithfully, but well, men devoted to duty who take pride in what they do whatever it may be and who think of that only, never looking for praise; but, like the rest of us, they are still human. And now suppose some day such a man pulls off a job that is really a little better than his daily good work?

"Why, what I feel like doing and what I do now is to say to him, 'Billy, it was a good thing,' and I find it does no harm, but on the contrary I used to think that it was up to a man to do his duty and that if he didn't he was a poor sort, and as far as that's concerned, I think that way now, but now I think a little praise now and then does no harm, and it may be for the man that gets it a source of very great comfort and pleasure."

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Market Strong at Opening But Reacts and Sells Downward.

Weak Spots Develop and the Close Is Heavy and Lower.

New York, Jan. 14.—The feature of the opening of the stock market today was extensive trading in United States Steel and Reading. Steel opened with a block of 9,000 shares at 76¾ to 76⅞, against 76¼, yesterday's closing. A block of 8,000 Reading changed hands at 156¾ to 156½, an advance of ½ point. Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred advanced a point and there were half point gains in Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific and Great Northern preferred. The tone of the market was strong.

Stocks were supplied freely on the advance and the market reacted slightly and became dull. New York Central was weak on rumors that a large bond issue would soon be made. Some weak spots cropped out in the inactive section, American Beet Sugar losing 1¼ and St. Louis Southwestern preferred and Western Maryland preferred 1¼. Northern Pacific made the best showing of the leading stocks, rising a point to 118¾. Long Island, Rock Island preferred 2½, Railway Steel Spring 1½ and American Hide & Leather preferred 1¼. At 11 o'clock Lehigh Valley was bid up rapidly to 173¾, a gain of over a point, and the rest of the list immediately picked up in sympathy.

The close was heavy. The market failed to hold its slight improvement on the bulge in Lehigh valley to 170, Louisville & Nashville to 149, accounts forcing Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Southern Pacific and Canadian Pacific slightly below yesterday's closing and New York Central over a point. Liquidation in some of the industrials helped along the setback, American Beet Sugar losing 2 and Westinghouse Electric first preferred 7 points. The Rock Island stocks and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred advanced briskly in spite of the general weakness.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case, Alworth building.
